PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

1ST SESSION OF THE 1ST PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Monday, 5th April, 1937.

The Assembly met at the Council Chamber, at 11 A.M., of the clock.

APPOINTMENT OF TEMPORARY SPEAKER.

The Secretary read the following order of His Excellency the Governor:

"In exercise of the powers conferred upon me by sub-section (3) of section 65 of the Government of India Act, 1935, I, Herbert William Emerson, Governor of the Punjab, hereby appoint Dewan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath, M.L.A., to perform the duties of the office of Speaker of the Punjab Legislative Assembly until such time as the Speaker shall have been duly chosen and taken upon himself the discharge of his duties."

Dewan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath, then took the chair, having already taken his oath before His Excellency the Governor.

STANDING OF MEMBERS WHEN GOVERNOR'S ORDERS ARE READ.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam (Rawalpindi Division Towns, Muhammadan, Urban): I rise to a point of order. May I know if the Secretary had any authority, and if so, whose authority, to write to the members of this House that they should stand while the Governor's message is read in this Hall?

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): It is an ordinary official courtesy that every member is bound to show. I do not think in making this request the Secretary has gone out of his province. I noticed with regret that some of the members did not stand in their seats. If the members are going to take the oath of allegiance to the King, where is this justification for their not showing respect to the representative of the King when his message is announced?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: My question to the Chair was, on whose authority this instruction was issued to the members and not whether we should stand or not. I shall be much obliged if the Chair will give me a ruling on the point on whose authority it was written by the Secretary.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): I presume he simply followed the ordinary practice. I cannot find out any order and I cannot give any authority; I think he just followed the ordinary practice. Whenever a message of the Governor is read out, the members are expected to stand.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: Thank you very much. No authority.

OATH OF OFFICE.

STANDING OF MEMBERS WHEN GOVERNOR'S ORDERS ARE READ.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): A note has been handed over to me by a Member to say that he wishes to make a statement as to why some of the members did not stand in their seats when the message of His Excellency the Governor was being announced. I understand the Parliamentary practice to be that no member is allowed to make a statement unless there is a motion before the House and that an exception is made only in the case of an official member who too can be allowed to make a statement only with the permission of the Speaker. I myself was a victim to this ruling some years ago (laughter) and I am unable to change that ruling.

Malik Barkat Ali (Eastern Towns, Muhammadan, Urban): I bow to your ruling. But what I wanted to submit was that the announcement of an order of His Excellency the Governor does not amount to a message within the meaning of that expression as used in the Government of India Act. There is no obligation on any member to stand when receiving that announcement. But as you have been pleased to express your regret at the fact that a certain section of the House did not stand, I wanted to clear the position.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): I do not think that that is a point of order. The honourable member is certainly perfectly at liberty to make a statement in the press.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: Certainly the expression of regret made by you was in your personal capacity and not on behalf of the whole Assembly. You will make it very clear.

Malik Barkat Ali: In this connection, if I may be permitted to add, if you will please consider the sections of the Government of India Act you will come to the conclusion that this announcement of an order passed by His Excellency the Governor is not a message, merely because the Secretary has called it a message and it cannot be—

Secretary: I did not describe it as a message; I called it an order.

Malik Barkat Ali: You have called it a message in your letter to the members.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): As to the other point, I think I was giving expression to the feelings of the majority of members of this House (Government benches cheers) and it was certainly my personal feeling too.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : May I know if the Chair has got the authority to pronounce regret on behalf of the majority of this House without first taking the sense of the House? Even if you take the sense of the House now it will not be a correct procedure because the regret was expressed before the sense of the House was taken. With due regards to the Chair, I think that the Chair had no right to express regret on behalf of the Assembly.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): As I have explained, I was expressing the feelings of the majority and I find that I have been confirmed in that view. But if the honourable member wishes to take it as my personal opinion, he may do so. (Opposition cheers.)

The Assembly then adjourned till 11 A.M., on Tuesday, 6th April, 1937.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

1ST SESSION OF THE 1ST PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Tuesday, 6th April, 1937.

The Assembly met at the Council Chamber at 11 A.M. of the clock. Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (Temporary Speaker) in the chair.

VALIDITY OF THE RULES AND STANDING ORDERS.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam (Rawalpindi Division, Towns, Muhammadan, Urban): Before we proceed to the business of the day I should like to raise a point of order. On account of a very serious defect in the rules under which we are conducting our business, I consider that the proceedings of yesterday are null and void. You will observe from the notification No. 1079-P.G.-37, dated 1st April, 1937, published in the Punjab Government Gazette that it reads as follows :—

“In exercise of the powers conferred by sub-section (3) of section 84 of the Government of India Act, 1935, the Governor of the Punjab is pleased to make the following Rules and Standing Orders for the conduct of the business of the Punjab Legislative Assembly.”

But under section 84 (3) of the Government of India Act the Governor has got no power to make rules and standing orders. It is only this Assembly that can make rules and until such rules are framed the rules of procedure and standing orders in force immediately before the commencement of Part III of the Act with respect to the Legislative Council of the Province shall have effect in relation to the Legislature of the Province subject to such modifications and adaptations as may be made therein by the Governor acting in his discretion.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): I think the point of order can be raised after administering oath to the members who have not already been sworn in.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: My point is that even the administering of the oath is invalid under these rules and standing orders; but I have no objection to obeying the chair.

OATH OF OFFICE.

The following members were then sworn in :—

- ✓ Sardar Sampuran Singh (Lyallpur West, Sikh, Rural).
- ✓ Sardar Baldev Singh (Ambala North, Sikh, Rural).
- ✓ Sardar Kartar Singh (Lyallpur East, Sikh, Rural).
- ✓ Lala Deshbandhu Gupta (South Eastern Towns, General, Urban).
- ✓ Syed Nawazish Ali Shah (Jhang East, Muhammadan, Rural).

VALIDITY OF THE RULES AND STANDING ORDERS.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I was drawing your attention to the Government of India Act. According to sub-section (3) of section 84, the rules which should apply are the rules of procedure in force immediately before the commencement of Part III of the Act, with such modifications and adaptations as may be made therein by the Governor. Thus the Governor can only make modifications and adaptations in the rules, but he cannot himself make the rules and standing orders. The language of the notification is that he makes the rules and standing orders which he has no power to do. My submission, therefore, is that these rules are ultra vires altogether.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair) : These rules and standing orders are the rules of procedure and standing orders in force prior to the constitution of this Assembly with such modifications and adaptations as the Governor has made therein. They are in order and must be followed.

The following nominations have been received in favour of Dr. Saif-ud-Din Kitchlew :—

Proposed by—

Malik Barkat Ali.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava.

Seconded by—

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam.

Pandit Bhagat Ram Sharma.

As more than one member has been nominated the Assembly shall now proceed to elect a Speaker by ballot.

Ballot papers with the names of candidates nominated printed on them will be distributed to members. Their attention is invited to the brief instructions regarding marking which appear on the ballot papers.

If a member spoils a ballot paper by any mark which will reveal his identity he can return it to the Secretary and get another instead to record his vote.

After recording the vote, members should fold the ballot paper and deposit the same in the box on the table of the House.

Malik Barkat Ali (Eastern Towns, Muhammadan, Urban): You must have been pleased to read rule 5 of the Legislative Assembly Rules. Clause 4 of that rule, provides :

“—If more than one member has been so nominated the Assembly shall proceed to elect a Speaker by ballot.”

The word “ballot,” is nowhere defined in the Legislative Assembly Rules. But there can be no room for doubt that the word “ballot” necessarily implies secret voting. The Ballot Act which is the authority on the subject lays down the essential requisites of vote by ballot. I draw your attention to section 2 of the Ballot Act, 35 and 36 Vict., Chapter 33. The section provides—

“In the case of a poll at an election the votes shall be given by ballot. The ballot of each voter shall consist of a paper (in this Act called a ballot paper) showing the names and description of the candidates. Each ballot paper shall have a number printed on the back, and shall have attached a counterfoil with the same number printed on the face. At the time of voting, the ballot paper shall be marked on both sides with an official mark and delivered to the voter within the polling station, and the number of such voter on the register of voters shall be marked on the counterfoil,”

“and the voter having secretly marked his vote on the paper, and folded it up so as to conceal his vote ”

These are very important words :

“shall place it in a closed box in the presence of the officer presiding at the polling station after having shown to him the official mark at the back.”

This provision in the Act has been supplemented by the rules contained in Schedule I to the Ballot Act, these rules having the same force as the Sections of the Act. Section 28 of the Ballot Act provides :—

“The schedules to this Act and the notes thereto, and directions therein, shall be construed and have effect as part of this Act.”

Now, Sir, I draw your attention to Rule 16. Rule 16 in Schedule I to the Ballot Act says :—

“ Each polling station shall be furnished with such number of compartments, in which the voters can mark their votes screened from observation, as the returning officer thinks necessary—”

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : May I ask if the honourable member is referring to general elections ?

Malik Barkat Ali : No, I am referring to voting by ballot. I am explaining what ballot voting means, whether for the purpose of general election or for the purpose of election of the Speaker.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the chair) : The honourable member is referring to the spirit underlying election by ballot.

Malik Barkat Ali : Yes, Sir.

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : May I ask if this Act is in force in this province or in India at all ?

Malik Barkat Ali : Rule 25 says—

“The elector, on receiving the ballot paper, shall forthwith proceed into one of the compartments in the polling station, and there mark his paper, and fold it up so as to conceal his vote, and shall then put his ballot paper, so folded up into the ballot box; he shall vote without undue delay, and shall quit the polling station as soon as he has put his ballot paper into the ballot box.”

Now, the Ballot Act does not apply to India (Hear, hear, from the Treasury Benches), but the principle of secrecy necessarily implied in and underlying ballot voting does apply to India, and has been crystallised in the shape of an enactment. If the honourable members on the other side of the House will kindly have the patience to hear me, they will have ample time to cheer themselves later if they find it necessary. I was submitting that the spirit of the Ballot Act has been introduced in India and I will draw presently your attention to the Act and directions in India which lay down (1) that ballot necessarily implies secrecy, and (2) that although the right to vote is a privilege, it being open to everybody to vote or not to vote, no member being compellable to cast his vote but once he exercises his privilege, he shall exercise it rigorously in accordance with the spirit of ballot. It is not open to any member in this Chamber to disclose his ballot vote to anybody. It is not open to any member to go to another member and ask him to display the ballot paper to him. (Interruption.) I shall be presently quoting these rules. Before I come to India, I want to draw your attention to rule 4.

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani : Is the honourable member making a speech ?

Malik Barkat Ali : I have the permission of the Chair to draw his attention to this important aspect of secret voting.

Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri : Why do you assume that there will not be secrecy in voting ?

Malik Barkat Ali : I draw your attention to rule 4, because this provision of the rule has been crystallised in an Indian enactment.

Rule 4 says—

“Every Officer, clerk, and agent in attendance at a polling station shall maintain, and aid in maintaining the secrecy of the voting in such station.”

Further on it says—

“and no person, whosoever, shall interfere with or attempt to interfere with a voter when marking his vote, or otherwise attempt to obtain in the polling station information as to the candidate for whom any voter in such station is about to vote or has voted.”

[Malik Barkat Ali.]

Further on—

“Every person who acts in contravention of the provisions of this section shall be liable, on summary conviction before two justices of the peace, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour. (Laughter).

I shall now draw your attention to the provisions of Indian law on the matter.

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani : I rise to a point of order.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair) : I do not allow the honourable member to raise a point of order when another member is raising a point of order.

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani : Rule 21 lays down that any member may at any time raise a point of order. I wanted to point out to you that this lengthy speech is not admissible.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair) : Let the honourable member finish his speech and then I will give a ruling. (Laughter.)

Malik Barkat Ali : I draw your attention to Act XXXIX of 1920, The Indian Election Offences and Inquiries Act. Section 14 of the Act says—

“Every Officer, clerk, agent or other person who performs any duties in connection with the recording or counting of votes of an election shall maintain and aid in maintaining”....

These are the very words of the Ballot Act—

“The secrecy of the voting and shall not (except for some purpose authorised by or under any law) communicate to any person any information calculated to violate such secrecy.

“(2) Any person who wilfully acts in contravention of the provisions of this section shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term not exceeding three months or with fine or with both.”

In this connection I may draw your attention to a ruling reported in the Punjab Landholders case in Hammond's Election Petitions at page 218 where objection was taken that because the expression ballot has nowhere been defined in any Act of the Indian legislature therefore it is not necessary that voting should be secret.

“It was finally urged that the electoral rules simply say that the voting shall be by ballot and do not specifically lay down that the voting shall be secret. But the system of voting by ballot in itself implies secrecy. A reference to regulations 12, 15, 16 and 17 will leave no doubt that secrecy is intended to be as essential in India as in England.”

And there are reported cases where persons managed to be present in the compartment provided for the voter to mark his ballot paper and objection was taken on the ground that the secrecy of the ballot had not been maintained and the objection was upheld. I draw your attention to one of these authorities where it was laid down that the presiding officer certainly violated the law in allowing other persons to be present in the room where the elector was to mark his ballot paper. In this connection I draw your attention to the case reported at page 248 of Election Petitions (Hammond's), Volume I—

“Deben Babu has admitted that the marking of the ballot paper was done in such a way that it could be seen by other people if they wanted to see....”

Further it says—

“These two men were neither candidates nor clerks nor agents appointed in writing by either the petitioner or the respondent.”

Now voting for the election of the Speaker has to be by ballot and it necessarily implies secret voting. My respectful submission, therefore, is that you may provide a secret compartment for this purpose if it is possible, and I respectfully submit that it is possible. There is another room adjoining, where members of the House may go and record their ballot paper. The ballot paper may be delivered to the members at the table of the Secretary in front of you and if you find that no room is available at the present moment, my submission is that the ballot box may be placed in front or behind the throne and after the ballot paper has been obtained by the member the member may proceed to the place where the ballot box is and secretly mark the paper and put it in the ballot box. It may be said, and it will be said perhaps, that the right of voting is a privilege given to members and it is open to every member to forego and forswear this privilege (“hear, hear” by the Leader of the House). I am thankful to the Leader of the House for the support that he gives to this submission of mine. It has been held that the right to vote is a privilege and it is open to a member to vote or not to vote but beyond that the privilege shall not go. If he chooses to vote then the vote must be kept secret.

An honourable member : It is the will of the member to keep it secret or not.

Malik Barkat Ali : I will quote an authority on the point. (Laughter.) This very question arose and this very contention was raised in the Punjab Landholders' case (Volume II of Reports of the Indian Election Petitions, 1925, page 214). I will read out to you the words of that judgment—

“It was argued that the above interpretation would mean great hardship and that in the case of university elections the practice is to open envelopes which are not accompanied by covering letters. As regards the former, this is not the only case where non-compliance with regulations results in a heavy penalty. What may appear to be comparatively trifling errors, would make a vote invalid under regulation 37. The right of voting is a privilege—as distinguished from a duty—and when a statute lays down regulations and formalities for the exercise of a privilege, a rigorous observance of the same is taken to be intended by the Legislature and is considered essential.”

Therefore, my respectful submission is that the right of voting being a privilege simply means that it is open to a member to vote or not to vote, and that he cannot be compelled to exercise the right of vote. But once he chooses the right of vote, he cannot say that he will vote by displaying his ballot paper to the whole House. He must exercise that privilege strictly in accordance with the spirit of ballot voting. My submission, therefore, is that if it is contended by any member of the House that it is open to a member of the House, who chooses to exercise this privilege, to show his ballot paper, I would submit that it cannot be done. I beg to point out that the Ballot Act says that the display of the ballot paper cannot be made by a member in any form whatsoever. (Interruption.) I request you to see that the ballot papers are distributed singly to the members as each comes to the table of the Secretary and after he has obtained the ballot paper to see that he proceeds to another place where he should mark it secretly

[Malik Barkat Ali.]

I submit that this procedure is observed in the central legislature. I do not know what is the custom of this House. If the custom of this House has been that the papers are distributed at the seats of members I take objection to that practice. That practice cannot be allowed to continue. It has no sanction and it is calculated to violate the secrecy of ballot. We have been told that on every table which is occupied by four or five members, there are members of the Unionist Party who will see how the voting has been recorded. Then, possibly the Leader of the House has laid it down in his party meeting—

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): The honourable member cannot refer to any matter of which he has no definite knowledge and which is based on rumours.

Malik Barkat Ali: I would welcome any statement as to procedure laid down by the Leader of the House.

Diwan Chaman Lall: I, as one of the many ignorant people in this House, enquire from you the procedure that you intend to adopt in regard to the voting. We have been told that there is going to be a certain kind of procedure adopted which may violate the secrecy of the ballot. Many members of this House and I would like to know what instructions have been issued by you or by the office in regard to the ballot voting that is going to take place.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): This has been the method for ballot for some time past. I hope the House will be kind enough to listen to me on the subject and discuss the whole question with me afterwards. I have taken the precaution of recording the orders that I will give. I will read out that order, but I may have to amplify it by certain remarks.

Diwan Chaman Lall: On a point of order. Before you give your ruling as to the method to be adopted for the purpose of recording these ballot votes, may I request you to hear other members of this House who are equally interested in giving their opinion before you come to a final decision on a point of order raised by my learned friend.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): I do not think that it is necessary. I think the honourable member who has just finished his speech, Malik Barkat Ali, has exhaustively dealt with the subject and I do not think any addition to it is necessary.

Diwan Chaman Lall: May I make a further request. It is within the right of every member of this legislature to offer his opinion regarding a very important point of order raised by a member of this House and the question is not whether it has been exhaustively dealt with or not but whether you are robbing other members of their right to express their opinion.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: On a point of order. You say you have discussed the question with certain members. Did you discuss it with the honourable member who raised this point?

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): Yes. In regard to the present elections I have followed the procedure which had been adopted for the election of the President and Deputy President of the Punjab Legislative Council before the present reforms. In fact there was an instruction describing the method of holding ballot for the election of the Deputy President of the Council according to which blank cards were distributed to members and members wrote the name of the candidate for whom they voted. In order to ensure the secrecy of the vote at the elections on this occasion I have, however, directed the Secretary to print the names of the candidates on the ballot papers so that no voter can be identified from the hand writing on the voting paper. Again, a member recording his vote is not required to mark the ballot papers from his seat in the presence of other members but is free to come to the table of the Assembly and mark the paper there in such a way that no other member may be able to see for whom the vote is being given. Honourable members will realise that for the purpose of ballot necessary facilities could only be afforded to the voters to record their votes in secrecy but members who choose, for instance, to disclose the name of the candidate for whom they vote or who desire to record their vote in the presence of others regardless of the facilities offered for secret voting cannot be restrained in their freedom of action. In the circumstances I hold that the procedure I have adopted in the conduct of the election is not open to objection and I rule the point that has been raised as out of order. Every house is at liberty to adopt its own procedure and I cannot compel every member to come to the table of the House and record his vote here. Supposing a man refuses to record his vote in that manner, I cannot compel him to come. I give him the option to record his vote where he is sitting or come to the table of the House and record his vote here. There is no necessity of prescribing any particular method of secrecy being observed. My honourable friend has a privilege but if a member does not want to utilise that privilege, I cannot compel him to do so.

Dr. Sheikh Muhammad Alam: Mr. Speaker, you have been pleased to remark yourself that you are prepared to amplify this order by certain remarks. Do we understand that this is your final order and that you are not prepared to listen to any irregularities?

Diwan Chaman Lall : Under Standing Order 28, may I ask for an explanation? A point of order was raised by my learned friend here this morning. How does it happen that that point of order has been referred to by you in a written statement which was printed probably last night?

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): This point of order has been engaging my attention for several days past, because some of my honourable friends on this side (pointing to the benches on his left) had given me previous notice of this point of order. The ballot papers will now be distributed.

(When the votes were being counted by Secretary.)

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Sir, when the ballot was about to proceed an honourable member raised a point of order in regard to secrecy of voting. Now we find that on the ballot paper which has been supplied to us the number of our seat is written and not only that, but in some cases the number of the seat is written even on the envelope in which the ballot paper is closed and handed over to us. Therefore, I beg to submit that we on this side of the House feel that the secrecy has not been kept and therefore we have decided not to take part to-day in the further proceedings of the House and we walk out of the Chamber accordingly.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (from the Chair): The result of the voting is as follows:—

| | | |
|--------------------------------|----|--------|
| For Chaudhri Sir Shahab-ud-Din | .. | .. 118 |
| For Dr. Saif-ud-Din Kitchlew | .. | .. 52 |

I declare Chaudhri Sir Shahab-ud-Din duly elected. I now request Chaudhri Sir Shahab-ud-Din to take his seat as Speaker. I must now vacate the Chair. But before I do so, I shall deal with two points. Firstly, certain notices of motions for adjournment have been received. One was received yesterday and two have been received to-day. I think I have been appointed simply to conduct the election of the Speaker. It is the duty of the permanent Speaker to deal with these notices of motions for adjournment.

Secondly, I notice with regret that some of our friends have walked out. They think that no secrecy has been kept with regard to the ballot, as the number given on voting papers accidentally coincided with the number of seats, therefore it was open to anybody to see the voting paper and find out who voted which way. Well, the origin of these numbers is this. They simply represent serial numbers of voting papers which is unavoidable. They might have coincided with the number of seats in certain cases. In order to observe secrecy I propose that voting papers shall be kept in an envelope and sealed by me. (Cheers from the Treasury Benches.) The secrecy being secured, I hope my friends will abandon their suspicions and will walk in.

(The Honourable Chaudhri Sir Shahab-ud-Din then occupied the Chair.)

✓ Mr. Speaker (The Honourable Chaudhri Sir Shahab-ud-Din): Before occupying this exalted Chair, I deem it my duty to acknowledge most thankfully the great honour the House has been pleased to confer upon me by electing me its Speaker. For about 8 months I had to serve the province as a Minister. In that capacity I was a party man, but I need hardly add that so long as I shall have the honour of serving as Speaker, I shall not be a party man or have anything to do with party politics. (Hear, hear.) I shall do my best to discharge the onerous duties of the Speaker's office as an independent and impartial judge. I need hardly add that as occupant of this throne I shall be "the mouth" of the whole House, that is to say, not only of those who have voted for me but also of those who have opposed my election and have walked out of the House. I shall always endeavour to do justice not only between member and member but also between party and party when party questions are waged on the floor of the House. Assuring you once more of my humble and devoted service I occupy the Chair of the great honour to which you have been pleased to elevate me. (Loud cheers.)

✓ The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan (Chief Minister): Sir, it is my privilege to congratulate you once again on your being elected to the exalted position of the Speaker of this new Assembly. This is the fourth time that you have been elected by this House to that exalted Chair. I believe I am voicing the feelings of all of us when I say that we should not only congratulate you but also congratulate ourselves for securing the services of such an eminent Speaker whose vast experience and knowledge of Parliamentary practice would be a valuable asset to the House and of immense help and use during the deliberations of this new Assembly.

You have yourself made it clear that from to-day you will become a non-party man. May I remind you that, even before you were nominated, I gave you an assurance that as soon as you were elected to the Chair again, I would be the first to relieve you of your allegiance and commitments to the party. I am glad to repeat that assurance to the House. I am confident that in your hands the dignity, privileges and prestige of this House and its members will be safe and will be scrupulously and jealously safeguarded.

I deeply regret that my honourable friends of the opposition are not here to join us in offering their felicitations to you. I much regret that they should have walked out on a pretext which appears to us on these benches and will perhaps also to those who will read these proceedings in cold print to-morrow to be somewhat flimsy. It is significant that they staged the walk out after they had marked and deposited their voting papers in the ballot box. The Chairman, who conducted the proceedings to-day has made it quite clear that it was a mere accident that in some cases the numbers of the ballot papers and of the seats coincided, and he has further assured the House that with a view to secure perfect secrecy he will seal the ballot papers with his own seal and deposit them with the Secretary of the Assembly. That has been done. I hope that when your assurance and message reaches my honourable colleagues of the opposition, they will come back and occupy their seats.

On behalf of the House it is my privilege, as the Leader of the House, to assure you of our loyalty and support. You may rest assured that you will always receive our unstinted and whole-hearted support in upholding the prestige and dignity of this House in keeping with the past traditions of the Punjab Legislature and the added importance of this august assembly under the new constitution. It will equally be our duty and privilege to jealously uphold and safeguard the dignity of the Chair. Sir, I congratulate you once more.

ELECTION OF DEPUTY SPEAKER.

Mr. Speaker : I have received the following note from the honourable Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar :—

“In view of what has already happened about the method of voting or secrecy of ballot and withdrawal of a section of the House I withdraw from the contest of Deputy Speakership.”

If the honourable member wishes to withdraw his candidature unconditionally he is welcome to do so.

Mian Abdul Haya (Minister for Education) : Sir, I find in the rules that there is no provision for withdrawal. If there is no provision for withdrawal, in view of what has happened this morning, I would request you not to allow the withdrawal but carry on the election.

Mr. Speaker : I am inclined to take a different view. Strictly speaking every nomination paper, proposing and seconding a member for election as Speaker or Deputy Speaker, is a motion made with the consent of the member nominated for election. Therefore, it is open to the candidate to withdraw his consent before election and thus go out of the contest with the leave of the House. May I know if the honourable member is prepared to withdraw his candidature unconditionally, that is to say, without assigning any reason ?

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Yes, Sir.

Mr. Speaker : Is it your pleasure that he may withdraw his candidature.

(Voices : Yes, yes.)

Mr. Speaker : Sardar Dasaundha Singh, being now the only candidate for Deputy Speakership, he is declared duly elected. (Cheers.)

Sardar Dasaundha Singh (Deputy Speaker) : Mr. Speaker, with your permission I beg to say a few words. I thank the members most heartily for the honour done to me. I am new to this office and not having the advantage of experience that you, Mr. Speaker, have, it may be that at times I may have to crave for the indulgence of the House for my shortcomings, but I assure the House that I shall always try to be absolutely just and fair in the discharge of my duties whenever the discharge of the onerous duties falls upon me. I again thank the House for the kindness done to me. (Cheers.)

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat Khan (Chief Minister) : May I, Sir, congratulate our colleague, Sardar Dasaundha Singh, on his being elected unanimously and without opposition as the Deputy Speaker of this House. I am certain that he will fill that distinguished office creditably and successfully.

Mr. Speaker : To-morrow the members of the Assembly will attend to hear the address of His Excellency the Governor. They are expected to be in their seats at 10-55 A. M. His Excellency will address the House at 11 A. M. Day-after-to-morrow the Assembly shall meet at 11 A. M.

The Assembly then adjourned till 11 a. m. on Thursday, 8th April, 1937.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Wednesday, 7th April, 1937.

His Excellency the Governor arrived in procession with the officers of the Assembly and his personal staff at 11 A.M., and took his seat on the throne.

His Excellency then addressed the Assembly as follows :—

Mr. Speaker and members of the Punjab Legislative Assembly :—

My first words are of congratulation to all members of the Punjab Legislative Assembly. Congratulation, because each member is the chosen representative of a large number of voters who, reposing their confidence in him, look to him to promote the interests of the people. Congratulation, because, whether he is a supporter of the Government or is in opposition or is independent, he has the opportunity of taking an increasing interest in the affairs of the province and of influencing its progress. Congratulation, because he succeeds to the traditions of parliamentary practice which the Punjab Legislative Council established. I particularly congratulate the lady members of this body and the representatives of those classes that have previously been without adequate representation. I am confident that they will faithfully serve the interests they represent. The processes ancillary to the creation of this Assembly have been many. They have involved a large increase in the Legislature itself, a wide extension of the franchise, the careful delimitation of constituencies and, on the executive side, electoral arrangements on a scale never previously attempted. We should remember with gratitude the work of all those, extending in some cases over many years, who have contributed to the final result, and we should have a special word of thanks for those responsible for the carrying out of the elections in the Punjab. (Cheers.) The work was well done and, although it took away many officers of Government from their normal work for some days, the dislocation of business was less serious than was anticipated. I am very pleased that there has been an almost complete absence of complaints against the servants of Government for using improper influence, and I believe, that in this respect the instructions of Government were faithfully observed. There was no disorder. This is the more gratifying because contests in many constituencies were keen and partisan feelings sometimes ran high. While there is naturally much ignorance among the electorate and a long time may elapse before that body as a whole fully appreciates the responsibility and implications of the vote, there is no doubt that the village, as never before, has been brought into intimate touch with political life, that with the broadening of the franchise new forces have come into play, and that governments, will not only be responsible in the constitutional sense, but will have to interpret constitutional theory in terms of practical programmes.

I congratulate you, Sir, on your election to the honourable and responsible office of speaker. (Applause.) Your task will be the more onerous because you have high traditions to maintain, and because there are many members who are new to parliamentary procedure and conduct. But you will be assisted in it by a natural instinct among the people of this country, almost unsuspected before the Reforms of 1921, in favour of parliamentary forms, and also I hope by universal acceptance of the principle that the honour of the House is the honour of each member of it, and that the jealous preservation of its rights, privileges and traditions is the duty not of any one party but of all. (Cheers.) Your own intimate knowledge of Parliamentary precedent and practice and your long experience as President of Punjab Legislative Council are guarantees that you will maintain the dignity and the honour of the Assembly. (Applause.)

It would be contrary to the theory and fatal to the practice of democratic government if the members of a popular Assembly were all of one mind. Among men who are honestly concerned with the well-being of the people, there must be differences of opinion regarding methods and programmes. A live opposition ensures that the proposals put forward by the government of the day are brought under the searchlight of criticism, that every point of view is represented, and that proposals opposed to the public interest are not allowed to proceed without challenge. We wish to see this House become a forum of criticism and a focus of outside opinion. It has been said of the British constitutions that the function of the opposition is almost as important as that of the Government, and if there were no opposition, there would be no democracy. (Hear, hear.) It is not without significance that in England the opposition is known as His Majesty's opposition. Irresponsibility is thus tempered by the knowledge that under a system of party government what is one day the opposition may at some future time be called upon to provide the ministry. A healthy opposition is not therefore merely destructive in its attitude. In the course of debate, hard blows will be given and taken on the floor of the House, but let them be given and taken in the spirit of fair play on both sides. (Hear, hear.) Let there be continued the sound practice that political differences should not be allowed to impair social and friendly relations between men holding contrary views. (Cheers.) For myself, it has been my custom in the past to make it convenient to see any member of the Legislature who may wish to see me, and I propose to continue that practice in the future.

The change from the old to the new constitution is so great that it will take some time before the implications are fully realized. It may help towards the understanding of some of them if we regard the smooth working of the constitution as dependent on the twin principles of confidence and responsibility. Each member owes his seat to the confidence of his electorate. The stability of the Ministry depends on the confidence of the Legislature. So long as it has that confidence, it is entitled within constitutional limits, to the confidence and support of the Governor, and let me make it clear beyond all doubt whatever that my Ministers will receive my confidence and support in the fullest measure possible. (Hear, hear.) Similarly, the Governor under the constitution is entitled to their confidence, and I am certain that I shall receive the confidence of my Ministers. If we all fix our eyes on the way in which the thread of confidence runs through the warp of the constitution, we shall none of us go far wrong in interpreting it in practice.

The second principle is that of responsibility—the responsibility of each member to his electorate, the responsibility of the Council of Ministers to the Legislature and, within the Council, the responsibility of each Minister to all ; their grave responsibility on the executive side in a country where it has been said that nowhere in the world is there such frequent need for courage and prompt action, and that nowhere is the penalty for hesitation and weakness greater ; the responsibilities of the Governor imposed upon him by Act of Parliament and by the Instrument of Instructions given by His Majesty the King-Emperor, responsibilities, of which he cannot divest himself. Finally, there is inherent in the constitution the principle of the continuous growth of responsibility. A Governor consistent with his own responsibilities must act on the advice of his Ministers, and far from assuming to himself responsibilities, which are not his, or exercising those which are imposed on him without the most cogent reasons, it is the instruction of His Majesty the King that the Governor shall be studious so to exercise his powers as not to enable his Ministers to rely upon his personal responsibilities to relieve them of responsibilities which are properly their own. It will be the primary duty of the Governor to foster and develop the responsibility of his Ministers. It is this duty which I shall consistently strive to perform, and in the performance of which I shall act in harmony with the intention of my Ministers who are resolutely determined to shoulder their burdens. None can give indefinite guarantees for the future. At some time or other, circumstances may arise which may compel the Governor to assume responsibilities which the Government of the day are unwilling or unable to bear, or which may require the Governor to give to particular interests or classes the protection to which they are entitled under the law and which is denied to them. But I do know this, that during the short time that is left to me, it will be my constant endeavour and that of my Ministers to prevent such circumstances arising. (Cheers.) For the rest, my support and such knowledge and experience of administrative matters that I possess will be entirely at the service of my Ministers, who will have my confidence and whose confidence I shall enjoy. I feel that we are all bound together in a common task, that the good name of the province and of each and all of us is at stake, and that any departure from the goal on which we are set will be a reflection on all of us. Feeling as I do, you may be certain that within human limits I shall do all that is possible to assist my Ministers in the spirit of sympathy, co-operation and understanding. (Hear, hear.) A year hence when the time comes for me to lay down my office, there is nothing which will give me greater pleasure or in which I shall take greater pride than to know that the Punjab has progressed safely and well along the first stage of the road of responsible government and is firmly set towards its ultimate goal. I am sure that this pleasure will not be denied to me.

The Legislature has been summoned to enable my Ministers to place before it certain business which it is desirable should be transacted at the beginning of the constitution. The House will be asked to consider and to pass three Bills, the first, to fix the pay of Ministers ; the second, to fix the pay of the Speaker and Deputy Speaker, and the third to remove the disqualification in respect of certain offices which under section 69 of the Government of India Act would otherwise operate against future candidates for election to this House and, so far as present members are concerned, would prevent the grant by the House of any remuneration to Parliamentary Secretaries when appointed. I would ask the Assembly to give their careful consideration to these measures. The House will also be asked to elect members to serve on the Committee of Public Accounts. I may also remind the House that under sub-section 3 of section 84 of the Government of India Act the rules at present governing its procedure are those that were in force for the Punjab Legislative Council with such modifications and adaptations as I have found it necessary to make. This is a temporary expedient intended to bridge the period until the Assembly has made its own rules of procedure. To this end you will be asked to choose a committee which will draft rules for submission to, and for the consideration of, the House, in a subsequent session. A committee will also be appointed to consider under section 72 of the Government of India Act the allowances to be granted to members of the Legislative Assembly. My Ministers have already made known their intention of taking up without delay two matters of great importance to the people. The first is the question of unemployment. The second relates to an examination of financial resources so as to devise means by which relief may be given to the poorer classes, and, at the same time, the beneficent activities of Government may be extended and intensified for the benefit of the province. My Ministers propose to set up committees for these purposes, and it is my profound wish that their deliberations may be fruitful of early results. It is my present intention to summon a session of the Assembly at Simla, about the third week of June next, when my Ministers will be in a position to submit their financial proposals for the year. In the meantime, under the temporary powers conferred on me I shall authorise the expenditure necessary to carry on the administration, but in doing so I shall, in agreement, with my Ministers, avoid the authorization of such expenditure as can properly be postponed for submission to the Legislature.

The present session is necessarily concerned with business of an urgent or of a formal character. Nonetheless, it completes the transition from the old to the new constitution. We in this province believe that the constitution can and will be successfully worked. But let us all remember that the ultimate test of success is the happiness of the people (applause), and that we shall merit praise or censure as we achieve or fail in this purpose. In my Instrument of Instructions I am enjoined to do all that in me lies to maintain standards of good administration; to promote all measures making for the moral, social and economic welfare or tending to fit all classes of the population to take their due share in the public life and government of the province, and to secure among all classes and creeds co-operation, goodwill and mutual respect for religious beliefs and sentiments. These are the fundamental principles of good government and worthy of universal acceptance. I and my Ministers will spare no effort to give practical effect to them. I would ask that, irrespective of party, you should also keep these essential aims steadfastly in view, so that under Providence we may bring to the people of the Punjab, whom it is our duty and our privilege to serve, unity, prosperity and contentment. (Loud applause.)

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY

1ST SESSION OF THE 1ST PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Thursday, 3th April 1937.

The Assembly met at the Council Chamber at 11 A.M. of the clock. Mr. Speaker in the chair.

OATH OF OFFICE.

Nawab Sir Malik Muhammad Hayat Khan Noon (Punjab Landholders) was sworn in.

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT RE FIRING AT PANIPAT.

Malik Barkat Ali (Eastern Towns, Muhamadan, Urban): I ask for leave to make a motion for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the utterly unwarranted and actually murderous action of the police in opening fire on the 27th March, 1937, at about 7-30 A. M. without any kind of previous warning and without authority of any magistrate on unarmed and peaceful Muslims of Panipat resulting in the death of seven persons and in serious injuries to at least 50.

(At this stage Mr. Speaker stood up, but the honourable member kept standing).

Mr. Speaker : When the Speaker rises all members standing are expected to resume their seats.

Notices of adjournment motions have been given by several honourable members to discuss a number of matters of urgent public importance. One of these notices was given by the Honourable Malik Barkat Ali, one by Khawaja Ghulam Samad, one by Khawaja Ghulam Husain and one by Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar. All these four motions or notices relate to one and the same subject, that is to say, discussion on the recent firing at Panipat. These notices were given, no doubt, on different dates, but all of them relate to the same subject though they are differently drafted. Therefore, I propose to treat these four motions as one for the purposes of their being allowed or disallowed by the House. I received notice of another adjournment motion from Lala Duni Chand of Ambala with regard to the alleged misconduct or atrocity of a sub-inspector of police. Besides, there is another motion, notice of which I received this morning. It relates to some recent happenings at Kot Bhai Than Singh in the Attock district.

Thus, strictly speaking, I have got three independent motions, but according to Rule 18 (i) only one motion can be made at the same sitting of the House. Therefore, under Standing Order 23 I propose to read to the Assembly only Malik Barkat Ali's motion.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan Chief Minister : Before you call upon the honourable mover of this motion I should like, with your permission, to make a very brief statement which I hope might make it unnecessary for the honourable movers to move the motions which they have tabled. My view is that although we know that there is considerable feeling both inside this House and outside over the unfortunate incident which recently happened at Panipat, I think it would be premature to discuss it at the present juncture because instead of helping the Government or the people concerned it might impose a serious handicap upon us and prejudice the enquiry which is now being held.

As you are aware, the root cause of the trouble in Panipat, whatever the immediate cause may have been, is communal bitterness born of long standing differences, which every one of us will agree is unfortunate, and all of us, I have not the slightest doubt, wish to eradicate at the earliest possible opportunity. I submit that if we discuss this motion in the House to-day we might further exacerbate these feelings (hear, hear) which would not be conducive to the growth of goodwill and amity which we are anxious to bring about in this province. Besides, as I have already stated, it might hamper Government in taking requisite action against those who as a result of the enquiry might be found guilty of dereliction of duty or delinquency. I, therefore, appeal to the honourable members who have tabled these motions not to press these motions. Government has so far seen only the press reports and certain necessarily incomplete reports of officials who proceeded to Panipat immediately after the trouble. My honourable friend, Khwaja Ghulam Samad, who represents that constituency, with his usual public spirited activity, went there soon after the firing and, I understand, studied things at first hand and made certain enquiries at Panipat. He has communicated to me what he learnt there. I am not at liberty to disclose the result of his enquiries because there again I would be anticipating the report of the official enquiry which has not yet been completed. Several sensational statements have appeared in the press about this unfortunate incident, but at best we can, at the moment, treat them as no more than mere allegations until they are corroborated or contradicted by the impartial enquiry now proceeding at Panipat.

Let me briefly relate to the House in chronological order the action so far taken by Government in regard to this unfortunate affair. You will remember that it was on the 27th March that this unfortunate incident took place. The firing took place between 7 A. M. and 9 A. M. The Commissioner of Ambala division on learning of this incident immediately conveyed the news to the Chief Secretary on the telephone. The time of his message was 11-30 A. M. He informed the Chief Secretary that the police had to open fire at Panipat but he could not say what the number of casualties was. The Commissioner and the Deputy Inspector-General proceeded at once to Panipat and arrived there at 3 P. M. At 6 P. M. the same day a telegram was received from the Commissioner reporting 7 dead, 4 seriously injured and between 10 and 20 less serious injuries as a result of the firing. At 9 P. M. the Commissioner again got in touch with the Chief Secretary on the phone and asked for two doctors and for a strong independent magistrate to hold an enquiry into the affair. He reported that casualties from firing were 7 killed : he had not fully ascertained the number of wounded because all of them had not been brought to hospital or even to the private houses where some of the wounded were subsequently lodged. The Inspector-General, Civil Hospitals, was directed at once to send two good doctors to Panipat and Mr. Askwith, the Home Secretary, was at the same time instructed to proceed at once to Panipat to hold an enquiry into the events leading up to, attendant upon and following after the firing by the police. I hope I have made it clear that we took prompt action and gave comprehensive instructions to Mr. Askwith with regard to the scope of his enquiry, which will not be confined to the actual firing but will also include a survey of the events leading up to and following the firing. Therefore, when this enquiry is completed we should be in a position to have all available information and facts with regard to the firing, as also the omissions and commissions of the various officials and the resulting reactions and events after the firing.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : May I ask if the local officers who ordered this firing are still stationed there or have been transferred from there ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I will come to that point. To enable him to make this enquiry and to facilitate that enquiry we invested Mr. Askwith with the powers of magistrate, first class, straightaway. Mr. Askwith left at 5 A. M. on the morning of the 28th and arrived at Panipat at noon that day. After studying the situation at Panipat Mr. Askwith asked for assistance of two magistrates for holding an inquest and for other purposes. He was informed that there was no objection to formal inquest proceedings being conducted by other magistrates in order to enable him to proceed with the general inquiry himself without delay, but Government gave explicit instructions that evidence should be recorded before him and not before anybody else, that is to say, that the actual inquiry with regard to the firing was to be made by him and not by any other magistrate.

On the 29th of March we issued a communiqué which the honourable members must have seen in the press and this is the gist of the communiqué—up to the evening of the 28th, 17 persons had been admitted into hospital of whom 2 only were suffering from gunshot wounds. On the 31st March a further communiqué was issued stating that 22 persons suffering from gunshot wounds had by then been treated at the hospital and 35 suffering from other injuries. Of the 75 policemen, 25 had received bruises or cuts, presumably from stones or brickbats. The Punjab Government have received no subsequent report about additional casualties but it is quite possible that quite a number of persons suffering either from gunshot wounds or from other injuries never went to hospital for treatment, but it is hardly likely that any case of serious injury would not have been reported.

Mr. Askwith's inquiry is still continuing and my information is that he will be able to complete his inquiry within the next two or three days. It is quite possible that he may return on the 11th or 12th morning. If the House is in session then it may be possible for me to make a more comprehensive statement at that time, but in case the report is not ready in time or if we have not had time to examine it properly before the House adjourns, I should like, with your permission to inform the House that I would be glad to take the Leader of the Opposition into my confidence and the mover of the adjournment motion also if he so desires. I shall be delighted to inform them of the gist of the inquiry and take them into my confidence (hear, hear). I shall also, if needs be, issue in due course another statement for the information of the public and I can assure you that if after examination of the report Government comes to the conclusion that any of the officials have trespassed beyond their legitimate duties or have been guilty of any delinquency or dereliction of duty, we will not hesitate to take such disciplinary action as may be necessary. But, as I submitted at the beginning, it would be unfair, unjust and inequitable to prejudge the case. I would once more appeal to the House that in view of the present unfortunate communal tension in the province it would not be fair either to the province or to this House or even to those who may have suffered from this unfortunate incident to start a debate which might further aggravate communal tension and bitterness. If, as a result of the inquiry we come to the conclusion that it would help in removing the root cause of the trouble, which of course is the objective of all of us, I would ask not only those honourable members who sit on my side of the House but also the public spirited gentlemen opposite to lend their support, in every possible way and, if necessary, I would request the Leader of the Opposition to accompany me to Panipat and help me in eradicating the real cause of the trouble. If we can secure a lasting understanding between the communities we would have achieved a great deal. It would be a real gain to the province and every one concerned. With these words I appeal to the honourable members who have given notice of this adjournment motion, not to precipitate matters or anticipate the result of the enquiry by pressing it.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : The Honourable Leader of the House has not given me the information which I asked. I wanted to know whether in the interest of proper conduct of the inquiry, the Government is prepared to remove the officials from there who had ordered the firing and who actually did fire.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : We are not aware yet who ordered the firing.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : A magistrate must have ordered.

Malik Barkat Ali : I am aware that there was no magistrate there.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : My honourable friend's information is in conflict with that of the other honourable members. That further illustrates my point that it would be premature and unwise to discuss the matter at this moment. As for the officers who are found guilty of high handedness, you may be sure that Government will not hesitate to take due action against them, which may be even more drastic than suggested by my honourable friend opposite.

Malik Barkat Ali : If it is the wish of the Honourable Leader of the House that the discussion of the motion of adjournment should not take place today but should take place a day or two later when he is in a better position to speak, I shall not object. But I am not prepared to accept the

Secondly, the official benches may be justified in saying that the official agency will conduct an impartial and unbiassed inquiry. But there is the popular point of view, that unless with the inquiry are associated persons who represent the popular point of view, it would be open to anybody to say that an inquiry conducted by officials without the association of the representatives of the public is not an impartial and unbiassed inquiry. Therefore, if I can have an undertaking from the Honourable Leader of the House that this motion will be discussed to-morrow or on the 10th or on a day when this House is sitting, I will not object, but if the position is that we are to disperse and the House is to adjourn and the motion is not to be discussed, then I regret my inability to accept that situation. In the absence of any guarantees and any satisfactory answer that this motion will be discussed, I cannot accept the situation.

I fully appreciate the point of view of the Leader that communal feelings should not be accentuated. I fully reciprocate his feelings in this respect, but I can assure him that my motion is by no manner a communal one as I only seek to discuss the action of the police in firing. I have not introduced any communal question and I hope none of the speakers on this motion will introduce any communal considerations. If the passive resisters were Hindus and the processionists were Muslims, passing over their bodies, I would condemn the action of the processionists, and if the police without any provocation had opened fire on the Hindu passive resisters, I would condemn their act just as I condemn the act of the present police firing on the Muslim passive resisters. My submission is that it is not a communal motion. It is true that there was communal bitterness at Panipat but we know very well that communal bitterness can be manipulated.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is discussing the motion for adjournment which is not yet before the House.

Malik Barkat Ali : My simple answer is that if I can have the guarantee that this motion will be discussed while this House is sitting, then I will not object.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I have already informed the House that it is not possible for me to give any definite undertaking. My present information is that Mr. Askwith will probably be back in another two or three days, very likely on the 11th. It is not within my power to keep this House in session. If the House is in session when we receive the report and have had time to examine it, then, as I have already stated, I will give every possible facility to the honourable member to discuss the matter as I would then be in a position to give the House the true facts relating to the incident. I think that that should be a sufficient assurance. I have also promised that if it is considered necessary we will issue a further press communiqué for the information of the public. I trust that this will satisfy the honourable member.

With regard to the suggestion that Government should arrange for an enquiry through an impartial agency, we have already acted on it. If by an impartial agency my honourable friend means non-official agency, then, I confess that in the present state of communal relations it is impossible to constitute a committee of the kind suggested by him which would command confidence of all parties concerned. We must admit to our sorrow—and I would say, our shame also—that a committee consisting of Muslims or Hindus alone will not be acceptable to one or the other community. If we select non-officials of both the communities, then there is, unfortunately in the prevailing atmosphere, every likelihood of two separate reports being written. It would merely result in accentuating differences if each party pulls a different way. It was due to this difficulty that Government had to depute a senior European officer, an officer who has twenty-three years' experience and is now the Home Secretary to conduct the enquiry heedless of the inconvenience to Government and dislocation of work on account of his absence. We despatched him within twelve hours of the report of this incident. I am assured that my honourable friend Mr. Ghulam Samad and the other gentlemen who have been to Panipat are thoroughly satisfied with the manner in which the enquiry is being conducted. There would have been some justification for demanding a non-official enquiry if there was dissatisfaction with the method or doubt about the impartiality of the enquiring officer.

Malik Barkat Ali : I have no objection to the motion being taken up, if not to-day or to-morrow, the day after that, if that will satisfy the Leader of the House. But so far as the motion itself is concerned, I am not prepared to withdraw it.

Lala Duni Chand : I should very much like to suggest that in view of the two statements that have been made by the Honourable Leader of the House, this motion should not be pressed (Hear, hear). It is my desire that a peaceful atmosphere should prevail in Panipat and at the same time the people who are to blame for this tragedy should be adequately punished.

Khwaja Ghulam Samad : As one who has tabled a motion on this subject, in view of the assurance given by the Leader of the House I do not consider it necessary to press my motion. I would, however, make one request to him and that is that the officers who are considered to be responsible for this affair should be removed from that place so that they may not be in a position to influence the enquiry.

Dr. Saif-ud-Din Kitchlew : As the Honourable Leader of the House has assured us that the enquiry is being conducted by a senior officer, I think we may await the result of that enquiry. I am not, therefore, anxious that the motion should be discussed to-day. But I must have the privilege of putting the motion again if I am not satisfied with the result of the enquiry.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : I do not press my motion.

Mr. Speaker : Does the honourable member for the Eastern Townships, Muhammadan, Urban (Malik Barkat Ali) wish that the sense of the House may be taken whether he has its leave to move his adjournment motion?

Malik Barkat Ali : Yes, Sir, I do.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member has given notice of his intention to ask for leave to move a motion for adjournment of the business of the

I also wish to add that I must have the privilege of putting the motion again if I am not satisfied with the result of the enquiry.”

Malik Barkat Ali : Yes, Sir, I do.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member has given notice of his intention to ask for leave to move a motion for adjournment of the business of the House for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the utterly unwarranted and actually murderous action of the police in opening fire on the 27th March, 1937, at about 7-30 A.M., without any kind of previous warning and without authority of any magistrate on unarmed and peaceful Muslims of Panipat resulting in the death of seven persons and in serious injuries to at least 50.

Does any member object to the leave being granted ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I object.

Mr. Speaker : Those who are in favour of the leave being given will please rise in their places.

Only one member rose and so the leave was not granted.

POINT OF ORDER re ADJOURNMENT MOTION TO DISCUSS COMPOSITION OF THE PUBLIC SERVICES COMMISSION.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam (Rawalpindi Division Towns, Muhammadans, Urban) : On a point of order. I gave notice of an adjournment motion to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the composition of the Public Services Commission and I have received to-day a letter from you referring me to Rule 18 of the Rules and Standing Order 23 and saying that His Excellency the Governor in his discretion has not allowed the adjournment motion. As I read Rule 18 (vi), it only says :

Where the motion deals with a matter on which a resolution could be moved only with the consent of the Governor in his discretion, the motion shall not be allowed except with such consent.

Then proviso to Standing Order No. 23 reads :

Provided that if the matter proposed to be discussed cannot be discussed without the consent of the Governor in his discretion such consent shall be obtained before the leave of the Assembly is asked for.

My submission is that these provisions only apply where the consent of the Governor is necessary and essential. But while under sections 264 and 265 of the Government of India Act His Excellency the Governor is given the power and discretion to appoint a public service commission, there is no power preventing the members of the House from criticising the personnel or the composition of the commission. Therefore, my submission is that my adjournment motion was in order and no consent of His Excellency the Governor was required for that adjournment motion to be moved.

Mr. Speaker : May I invite the attention of the honourable member to Rule 34 (3) ?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : My submission was whether it was a correct procedure to have my motion sent to His Excellency the Governor.

Mr. Speaker : Perhaps it was not ; but will the honourable member please point out the rule under which this could not be done ?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : My submission is that unless there is a rule under which the Speaker is to send a resolution to His Excellency the Governor, ordinarily a resolution or a motion for adjournment should not be sent to him.

Diwan Chaman Lall (East Punjab Non-Union Labour): The point raised by my learned friend, Dr. Alam, is of very great importance because for the first time under the new constitution, it has been sought to limit the powers of this Assembly by a fiat issued by the Governor. The adjournment motion, notice of which has been given by Dr. Alam, has been disallowed by His Excellency the Governor according, it is said, to the rules. I submit there is no such rule which empowers His Excellency the Governor to disallow a motion which is outside the ambit of the authority given to him under the provisions of the Government of India Act. The action that the Governor can take is only within the ambit of that Statute; outside that you are the custodian of the rights and privileges of the members of this Assembly. One of the main provisions governing the rights of the members of this Assembly relates to their authority and privilege and right to move motions or resolutions regarding matters upon which they are fully empowered to do so. The motion for adjournment does not seek to question the authority of the Governor to appoint a public service commission. Had the adjournment motion been one questioning the legality of the Governor's action appointing the public service commission, the Governor would have been perfectly within his right in exercising according to the Statute his authority not to allow the motion. He may not have been within his rights from the moral point of view not to allow such a motion but he would have been within his rights to disallow that motion. But what is it that Dr. Alam's motion seeks to present before the members of this Assembly? He is seeking to question the character of the public service commission, the personnel of the commission. That I submit we are perfectly within our rights in questioning in this House and there is no rule that I know of, no rule that has to be followed in the rules that are before me, neither Rule 18 nor Standing Order 23, nor is there anything in the Government of India Act which prevents us from doing this and if there is anything in the rules which is inconsistent with the provisions of the Government of India Act that must be considered by you to be ultra vires. The Government of India Act provides in section 264 that—

“There shall be a Public Service Commission for the Federation and a Public Service Commission for each province.”

It says that—

“Two or more provinces may agree that—

- (a) there shall be one Public Service Commission for that group of provinces; or
 - (b) that the Public Service Commission for one of the provinces shall serve the needs of all the provinces, and any such agreement may contain such incidental and consequential provisions as may appear necessary or desirable for giving effect to the purposes of the agreement and shall, in the case of an agreement that there shall be one Commission for a group of provinces, specify by what Governor or Governors the functions which are under this part of the Act to be discharged by the Governor of a Province are to be discharged.
- (3) The Public Service Commission for the Federation, if requested to do so by the Governor of a Province may, with the approval of the Governor-General, agree to serve all or any of the needs of the province.
- (4) References in this Act to the Federal Public Service Commission or a Provincial Public Service Commission shall, unless the context otherwise requires, be construed as references to the Commission serving the needs of the Federation or, as the case may be, the province as respects the particular matter in question.”

POINT OF ORDER ~~72~~ ADJOURNMENT MOTION TO DISCUSS THE COMPOSITION ~~88~~
OF THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION.

Section 265 (2) of the Government of India Act provides that in the case of the Federal Commission, the Governor-General in his discretion—
(Premier: Hear, hear). My learned friend says "Hear, hear." So do I. Section 265 is explicit on the point that he shall appoint the members in his discretion. Where does the Statute say that the character of the personnel cannot be questioned? We are not questioning the appointment of the personnel. We are questioning the character of the personnel. If the Leader of the House can point out any section of the Government of India Act according to which we are not within our rights in questioning the character of the personnel, I should be inclined to add my "Hear, hear" to his approbation. (Hear, hear).

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan: May I draw your attention to Rule 34 (3) which says—

"The Governor acting in his discretion may at any time before the resolution is moved, inform the Speaker that he disallows any resolution or any part of a resolution on the ground that it relates to or affects the discharge of any of the functions of the Governor—"

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: Do I understand that you have allowed the speech?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan: I am reading Rule 34 (3) of the Punjab Legislative Assembly Rules.

".....in so far as he is by or under the Act, required to act, in his discretion or exercise his individual judgment, and if he does so, the resolution or part of the resolution shall not be placed on the list of business or, if it has been placed on the list of business, it shall not be moved."

I hope that will make the position quite clear to the honourable member.

Malik Barkat Ali: Will you allow any discussion on the point of order that has been raised?

Mr. Speaker: No further discussion please. The motion, as drafted by Dr. Muhammad Alam, is 'I give notice to make a motion for adjournment of the business of the Assembly for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the "composition" of the joint Punjab and North-West Frontier Province Public Service Commission.' It is clear that the motion related to the "composition", and not to the "character" of the Commission, and that the Governor could disallow it under Rule 34 (3).

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: Just for the purpose of amplification of your ruling. Do I understand now that your ruling means—

Mr. Speaker: My ruling means what it means. It is not parliamentary on the part of the honourable member to explain the ruling of the Chair.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: I am not giving any explanation.

Mr. Speaker: The honourable member should resume his seat when I am standing. I have given my ruling, and I disallow any further discussion. Therefore, the matter ends.

Malik Barkat Ali: I rise to a point of order—the point of order being that the rule that you have been pleased to refer to, is ultra vires.

Mr. Speaker : It may be that the whole of the Government of India Act is ultra vires and the honourable member may question the validity or legality of the whole Act, but here I have to interpret the rules as they stand.

Malik Barkat Ali : It is not my point that the Government of India Act is ultra vires. I rely on the Government of India Act for the contention that I propose to submit to you in the shape of a point of order.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : Are we to understand —

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member may understand as he likes. I have given my ruling.

Malik Barkat Ali : As the custodian of the privileges and the rights of this House, would you not like to look at the section of the Act which specifies matters, the discussion of which can be prohibited by the Governor? With regard to other matters not specified no discussion can be prohibited by the Governor. With your permission, I would refer you to section 84(d) and section 86 of the Government of India Act which specify the matter in regard to which discussion can be prohibited by the Governor in his discretion. This is a matter which does not fall within those categories.

Mr. Speaker : The point raised by the honourable member to-day was raised on the 6th instant and decided by the Speaker who occupied the Chair on that date. I do not think it is desirable or proper to raise it again to-day.

According to Parliamentary practice of which some members may not be aware, it is the custom for members to give the Speaker private notice of questions on important points of order so that he may have time to consider them. (See the Pageant of Parliament by Michael MacDonagh Volume I, page 131). The point of order raised by Dr. Muhammad Alam, that the Governor could not disallow his motion for adjournment, is an important one and though my ruling is probably correct yet, I intend to further consider the matter and communicate my final opinion to the House at an early date.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : The order from the Speaker was given to me when I came to the Assembly just a few minutes before and notwithstanding the fact that I had knowledge of Parliamentary practice I could not inform you of this important point of order before the Assembly could meet. I am thankful to you for saying that the decision you have given is not final and now I again communicate it to you.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member will please discuss the matter with me in my room.

INSTRUCTIONS BY THE SPEAKER.

Mr. Speaker : I have to inform the honourable members that some rules and standing orders of the Assembly provide for the issue of instructions by the Speaker. Pending further examination, I have instructed that the instructions in force during the time of the Punjab Legislative Council shall remain in force with a few verbal modifications and adaptations. Copies of these instructions will be made available as soon as possible.

THE PUNJAB MINISTERS' SALARIES BILL.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan (Chief Minister) : Sir, I introduce the Punjab Ministers' Salaries Bill. I also move—

That the Punjab Ministers' Salaries Bill be taken into consideration at once.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam (Rawalpindi Division Towns, Muhammadan, Urban) : I rise to move—

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member's motion is not quite in order. It is—

“ That the consideration of the Bill be postponed till the presentation of Annual Budget and in the meantime the Bill be circulated for eliciting public opinion by the 31st May, 1937 ”

If the words ‘ the consideration of the Bill be postponed till the presentation of Annual Budget and in the meantime, ’ are omitted it will be in order.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I accept that suggestion and move my amendment as follows :—

That the Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting public opinion thereon by the 31st May, 1937.

In moving this amendment I cannot hide that I have in mind twofold objects. One is that by the time the opinion is taken the Government benches may be in a position to prepare their budget and also we should know really where we stand. Because unless the budget comes before us we cannot know what will be our future income and we cannot adjust our expenditure according to that income. Really what the Treasury benches should have done in my opinion is that they should have first told us what is their income, that is, the income of the province. You should tell us what you are going to take from the province before we say what we are prepared to give you. That is exactly what they say, you should cut the coat according to the cloth. But here the Cabinet is demanding, “ cloth or no cloth give us the coat. We demand this from you and you must give us something. You have no concern with other things.” Certainly this is not fair in my opinion to the members of this Assembly. Nor is it fair to the members of the Treasury benches themselves. I appeal to them to keep up their own popularity in the province and in this House also as they claim to have a stable and solid majority and they might not get nervous over it. Before the budget comes in, before other salary Acts are put in, before it is known what is going to be the income of the province, for them to come forward and say ‘ give us this much, ’ is not fair. It is not only a question of budget. They are here first as members and then as Ministers and they should have been more anxious to protect the rights of the members than so to say be open to the charge of greediness in trying to protect their own salary and their own emoluments. Section 72 of the Government of India Act says:—

“ Members of Provincial Legislative Assemblies and Legislative Councils shall be entitled to receive such salaries and allowances as may from time to time be determined by Act of the Provincial Legislature.”

Now as representing the majority party and therefore representing the majority members of this House, I consider it their paramount duty first to come forward with a legislative enactment for the salaries and allowances of the members of this House. Before they think of anybody else they come and ask us 'give us money, we want the money. Whatever happens to you, whatever is to be the future income of the province, we do not care for that. Whatever is going to be the expenditure of this province, we have got no concern with that. The only thing we are concerned with is our own salary. Give us money from whatever source in your possession or outside your possession.' This is what they say. I say the budget ought to have been before us. The salaries of the members and the allowances of members belonging to the so-called Unionist party which in my humble opinion contains neither unionists nor the constituted party but contains disunionist individuals as was clearly shown by their own acts—we all know, certainly there was a ruling from the chair and we have to obey it—but the incident of ballot which took place day before yesterday is before us. The point was whether members were free to show their ballot papers or not. We all know that they were shown. As a matter of fact something like that happened. There was more or less a sentinel on every bench to watch the action of the members.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : Mr. Speaker, is the honourable member in order in referring to an incident which happened day before yesterday and to reflect on the decision of the House.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : There was no reflection.

Mr. Speaker : Not only should there be no reflection but no reference, if possible, should be made to proceedings of the House in the present session.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Whether that reference constitutes a reflection or not no reference should be made to the previous proceedings; is that so?

Mr. Speaker : Yes.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I bow to your ruling. Anyhow what is being done now? Are you afraid of your members that they will leave you and later on they might oppose the Salaries Bill? Trust your members. They are honourable members of this House and you have got to do so many things with your hands. The announcement of the personnel of the Parliamentary Secretariat is yet to be made and there are various other things to be done. We must deal with the salary bill carefully. I would ask the Treasury benches not to be in a hurry over that. Do not be hasty over that. Your own members may leave you and the members of the Opposition side might prove to be more generous than yourself, (Hear, hear from the Treasury Benches) provided that something good is done for them, provided that some interest is taken in the poverty-stricken people. Put before them the budget of the province and let them know what is going to be the income of the province. Then certainly we will give you perhaps more than you want or more than it is desirable. We are generous. Do not look at this with the point of view that we are going to give you nothing here. Why then are you following this procedure about the Salaries Act? It does not reflect on the solidarity and majority of the party of which the Government is now composed. My submission is to circulate the Bill for eliciting public opinion thereon by the 31st May, 1937, and in the meantime, of course, to give the Government time to prepare the budget also. Now the eliciting of public opinion is also important, taking into consideration the prevailing atmosphere in the country. If my honourable friends are prepared to believe me, I will say that the circulation of the Bill will be more in their interest than in my interest. If they want a full, stable and solid Government here, they have to be popular and if they have to be popular they should not be greedy, and even if they are greedy they should not be over greedy, if they have to be over greedy they should not be hasty, and if they have to be hasty they should not be over hasty. Therefore, take into consideration the atmosphere that is prevailing in the country to-day. The prevailing feeling in other provinces where the majority of members are Congress people, who are devoting themselves to the service of the Congress and of the country, is that they want to fix the pay of ministers at the rate of Rs. 500 per mensem.

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : Is the honourable member discussing the merits of the motion before the House? It is a dilatory motion and he must confine himself to that.

Mr. Speaker : The motion before the House is that the Bill be circulated for eliciting public opinion thereon and when that motion is under discussion, the principle of the Bill and its general provisions may be discussed, but the details of the Bill cannot be discussed further than is necessary to explain its principle.

Dr. Sheikh Muharamad Alam : I am bringing to your notice that when I say that the Bill should be circulated for eliciting public opinion thereon, I am within my right to submit that public opinion is necessary to be elicited on it and that is what I am saying that in my opinion and according to my estimation public opinion has to be elicited for such and such reasons or such and such facts. Therefore, I am enumerating the reasons why it is necessary to have public opinion on this Bill, and in support of them that I cite the case of the Congress ministers who want to fix their pay at Rs. 500, while the pay now demanded by the ministers in this Bill is certainly most exorbitant. There is no doubt about that that for the sake of service or for the love of power there are people who would be really prepared to accept this work—capable men—I am not going to make any comparison—but there are members even in this House who will, for the love of power or for the sake of service to the country, will accept these jobs at a much lower pay. So far as the love of power is concerned, we can get instances of honorary magistrates who are working whole day long and will be prepared even to pay something from their own pockets when you give them these jobs. They work for the country there is no doubt. There are men who can go to jails, who can go to gallows for their service to the country. They should come forward and be prepared to serve their own country. That is really what I was saying for the benefit of the other side. They may or may not take my suggestion or may not listen to me at all. They may not understand at all what is to their good, just as a poet has said—

یا رب وہ کہ سمجھو ہیں نہ سمجھیں گے مہرے ہاتھ
 سے اور دل اراکے مہرے سے سمجھو زمان اور

[Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam.]

I submit that instead of getting the couplet by heart, if the honourable members would act up to it, it would be more advantageous to them, to the country and to the House also. Just compare what you are demanding here, with what is going on in other provinces, even where the Congress ministry is not formed and interim ministries are being formed. There the income, population and areas are much larger than those of this province. Take for instance, the example of Bombay. There the annual budget shows an income of over 14 crores, the population is over 23 crores, and there the ministers' salary is fixed at Rs. 2,500 a month and we have read in the press, that Mr. Jamnadas Mehta has promised to give the whole of his salary over to charities. There are certain Honourable Ministers in this House who can perhaps afford to give away their amount of salary as charity to somebody, but no one has come forward with that promise so far. Are they not rich enough? Where lies the justification for their fixing such a high salary at the present moment? There should be no emoluments for the occupants of those benches, but the attraction should be the service of the country. I have given you the instance of Bombay. Now, in Bengal we have only over 13 crores as income and there 4 ministers are getting Rs. 2,000 each and 6 are getting Rs. 2,500 each. In the United Provinces the population is 15 crores and the salary of the ministers is Rs. 2,500 each per month. In Madras the income is over 18 crores and in the Punjab, where we have got an income, according to the last budget, a little over 10 crores, there you demand Rs. 39,000 for a Minister and Rs. 48,000 for the Chief Minister. We also know and we have read in one of the announcements made by the Leader of the House, as Chief Minister, that the Government are going to lighten the burden on the peasantry and that they are going to tackle the question of unemployment. If they have to lighten the burden of the peasantry and they have to tackle the question of unemployment also, certainly then the income of the Punjab is going to be reduced, unless they consider that income is expenditure and expenditure is income. And when the income is going to be reduced, how are we going to afford to give such high salaries to the ministers on the other side. Take the instance of other countries, if you please. We know in Japan, where the average daily income per head is six times more than in India, there the Premier is getting Rs. 1,250 per month and even the greatest Fascist in this world, I mean Mussolini, is getting 10 thousand liras a month, which comes to £195 or Rs. 2,198 per month.

An Honourable Member : Is Mussolini the greatest Fascist?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Certainly, he is. Our leader may in time become a greater Mussolini and a greater Fascist, but we are not prepared to-day to accept that position. And if he is raised to that power and becomes a greater Mussolini, even then he would be entitled, in the case of the Punjab to a much lower salary, because here the average income daily per head is Re. 0-1-9. In Italy it is about 15 or 16 times more. We cannot afford to pay such salaries to these ministers. As I was referring to the announcement of the learned Chief Minister, we can provide here more capable members with better qualifications as compared with the members selected by him as ministers and on much lower salaries. One of the qualifications of the ministers, as mentioned in one of the announcements was that the gentleman looked very well after his own or his father's estate and was of young age also. Certainly I can provide him with men who are better able to look after their estates and who are also young and who can accept lower salaries, perhaps one-fourth less. It is not a case where we need go out for an advertisement in the press, when thousands and thousands would come on much lower pay. Some capable members are on those benches to-day and some have gone out of the Government benches. They can very well accept that job. By comparison they are better and not worse than those who are demanding such heavy salaries.

Then again after all what is the criterion, and if there is any academic qualification for ministers, this House could have provided even Matriculates. (Laughter.)

Mr. Speaker : May I ask the honourable member for the information of the House, which principle of the Bill he is now discussing ?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I am discussing this principle of the Bill that the public should be consulted as to how much should be the salaries of these ministers in the present case. I am discussing the facts which form the reasons or the chain of reasons for the circulation of the Bill for eliciting public opinion thereon.

Mr. Speaker : I may read out to the honourable member and the whole House the rule on the point. It reads :

"The principles of the Bill and its general provisions may be discussed, but the details of the Bill must not be discussed further than is necessary to explain its principle."

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I am much obliged to the Chair particularly for the language in which he has conveyed his ruling. But so far as this Bill is concerned, the only principle is the amount of pay of the ministers and it can be said that there is no other principle underlying this Bill. As a matter of fact I may point out that except this demand of a very heavy amount there is no other principle in the Bill and that is the only principle which should go for circulation to elicit public opinion thereon. Certainly in obedience to what you have said, I will not go into too minute and minor details of the Bill, otherwise there are various other things that could be said on the principle of this Bill. My submission is that in these circumstances this House has been kept ignorant of the whole affair, kept ignorant of what is going to come, kept in utter darkness as regards our future income, kept in darkness again as to what is the detail of that programme which sounded so high and which was announced by the Honourable Leader of the House to lighten the burden of the peasantry and to tackle the problem of unemployment. Certainly the start itself is a wrong one and if this is how the burden of the peasantry is to be lightened, then we can certainly increase the amount of salaries demanded by the ministers. For these reasons my submission is, let us have a little more light, let us have a little more of public opinion on the question, let us know a little more of details of the way in which the Government of this province is to be run, for then we shall be better able to say whether we can give you what you demand, or whether we cannot give you what you demand, and we can say, "No, we cannot give what you demand" or we can say, that "We can be generous to you and give you more than what you demand." Let them in the meantime trust our generosity and trust the loyalty of those members whom they are to-day keeping in their grip and let the Bill be circulated to elicit public opinion thereon.

Mr. Speaker : Motion moved—

That the Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting public opinion thereon by the 31st May, 1937.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood (Amritsar, Muhammadan, Rural): It is with much reluctance that I rise to oppose the motion which has just been made by my honourable friend the mover of this amendment. He has in his speech displayed oratory and expansion of lungs which I could well have copied had I not been a patient of asthma. (Honourable members : Sorry for you) (Another honourable member : You should not do that). But I feel that so far as the tone and the healthy standard of debate is concerned the honourable members on both sides of the House should, and I hope, would do well not to attempt imitation of the hollow play to galleries of the honourable member who has just sat down. It is our duty by a frank and constructive expression of our views to make a healthy contribution to the discussions in this House (hear, hear). My honourable friend also made some uncalled for references to the alleged disunity of the Unionist Party. I can afford to treat his references to my party with indifference and leave recent votings on the floor of this House to speak for the solidarity of my party. I will leave this portion of his speech with the remark that we on this side wish his friends and his party success in their endeavours to maintain unity in their ranks so that united the Opposition and we may offer our best for the service of the province. (Hear, hear.) Coming to the amendment before the House, my honourable friend has suggested that the Bill be circulated for eliciting public opinion. What would be the effect of that? In one word it means that the power which the Government of India Act gives to this legislature to fix the salary of the ministers, may not be exercised by the House and that we should rely on the salaries of ministers fixed by His Excellency the Governor under the special powers vested in him. This is a preposterous suggestion coming from the Congress benches. We on this side of the House would like to take a leaf out of the political bible of the party of my honourable friend opposite and say that as far as possible we mean to exercise the powers given in the Act to the people's representatives. We shall not abdicate nor leave this important matter to be fixed by the special powers of the Governor. (Hear, hear.) One pertinent argument raised by the honourable mover of the amendment was that if you fix the salaries to-day and find to-morrow when the budget is framed that you have a deficit, you will not be able to reduce the ministers' salaries. My answer is simple and I submit that the Honourable Ministers who have had the courage and patriotism to fix their salaries at less than 88 per cent. of those of their predecessors may be trusted if the budget—God forbid—should suggest the necessity of retrenchment to offer as they did in the past a large cut in their own salaries than they would impose on others. (Hear, hear.) The question of fixation of salaries is always a difficult one. No special magic attaches to any particular figure. The question must be faced in the light of the main principle involved which was ably enunciated by a responsible Congress leader in a discussion of the Legislative Assembly at Delhi when the question of the President's salary was discussed. The principle involved is this that we should fix the salaries on a basis which may not limit the free choice of the House in the selection of ministers. If you reduce the salary to a figure of Rs. 500 or so per mensem on which either moneyed or capitalist persons only can serve or only such people who live a very low standard of living you would unjustifiably hamper the choice of the electorate through this House. That would be undemocratic. Next my honourable friend, the mover of the amendment, suggested that the Bill should be circulated for public opinion. I submit that we sitting in this House are the public opinion of the constituencies which we have the honour to represent. We owe responsibility not only to our constituencies but also to the province and as such we may be trusted to exercise our vote in this House with the fullest deliberation and after due consideration of the pros and cons involved. We will not shirk the responsibility which the Act and our constituencies have placed on our shoulders. There is one other point which I wish to submit at this stage. My honourable friend the mover in the course of his speech made some ungraceful references to certain individuals on the Treasury benches. I will not allow myself to go down to that level of debate. I will content myself with the remark that the principle of democracy provides that the highest qualifications for ministry is the following one commands and which the party in majority claims.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Salaries ought to be in accordance with the intelligence.

Mir Magbool Mahmood : Yes, intelligence in selecting the right party and in having and retaining the confidence of the Leader and the House. The salaries that we have fixed are such as may not restrict our choice in the selection of our minister.

The various specific figures of salaries proposed in the Bill or as amendments would be discussed on merits. The question before the House at this stage is whether we shall accept the salaries allowed by His Excellency the Governor and deny to ourselves the exercise of the powers vested in us under the Act or we should adopt such figures as the Assembly may pass—they may be the figures provided in the Bill or they may be the figures which may be passed as a result of the discussion on the amendments of this House. I do not wish at this stage to go into further details. I wish only to appeal to the honourable members on both sides of the House that we should discuss matters in this House in the spirit of being the first national government and the first national opposition. With these words I beg to oppose the motion.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava (Lahore City, General, Urban) : Before I make any observations on the amendment I would like you, and through you the House to excuse me if I speak in a broken language because English is not my mother tongue and yet I am forced to speak in that foreign language because the law does not help those who know English but not enough to express their views in an august House like this. I had no intention to speak on this amendment when I came to this House, but the points which have been raised and the reply which has been given to the amendment force me to stand up and make a few observations in favour of the amendment. It has been argued that when we are discussing this Bill for the purpose of fixing the salaries of the ministers, we are really exercising the right which is given to the people or their representatives in this House and we are really doing away with the power of the Governor. The Governor was pleased on the 1st of April to fix certain salaries for the ministers. The ministerial party relied on the argument that they brought forward this Act to show that they were to exercise the right which has been conferred on this House by the British Parliament. Could not I say relying on the same argument that the Leader of the House should have put the budget before the House immediately? When the elections were over, and it is long since they were over, the majority party knew that they were about to come into power and run the Government of this province. Therefore, they must have prepared their budget. It was in the fitness of things that the budget should have been discussed in this session of the House rather than that it should have been postponed till June or July. But I do not think that the argument that we are exercising our right holds good in this case. It is said that we represent our constituencies in this House and therefore it is not at all necessary to find out the public opinion on this important matter. My submission is that the Government of India Act was before us long ago. We knew that we had a right to fix the salaries of the ministers and we had certain other rights too. We are not concerned with those other rights — we are concerned with the rights of fixing salaries of the ministers only at this stage. But does it mean that we should not consult our constituencies for whatever we do in this House? I think we shall not be true representatives of our people if we do not take the people into our confidence especially with regard to expenses, because it is expenditure which affects the people and nothing else. Therefore, I beg to submit that if not in all matters at least in this matter — the matter of expenditure — we should consult our constituencies and the people at large. I no doubt admit that so far as the individual opinion or the opinion of those who belong to the Congress, is concerned, they have already formed their opinion, but we cannot say what the opinion of their constituencies is. In the Congress we have decided that no officer of the Government shall draw more than Rs. 500 a month in any case. Therefore, the limit for us is fixed, but it is our duty to consult our voters and even those who are not our voters, we have to consult the people at large because it is out of the taxes of various sorts levied upon all people that we are going to pay these allowances and salaries to the ministers. Then, it was argued that those who form the majority, have got the right to form a ministry and, therefore, those who are the leaders of that majority are entitled to hold the offices and run this system of Government in this province. I admit that is the law, but whether the law holds good or not in other provinces I do not know. In six provinces out of eleven in this country this practice has not been observed. The minorities have been called upon to form interim ministries. May I ask whether that law holds good there also or the law does not hold good in six provinces out of eleven?

Mr. Speaker : May I request the honourable member to confine his speech to the amendment now before the House?

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : The reply given against the mover of the amendment was that the majorities formed the ministries and, therefore, they were entitled to draw as much pay as they liked. I would read out a portion of the statement made by the Leader of the House on the day he assumed charge of his office. It was—“However, with courage and determination to move forward, the Cabinet has made up its mind to appoint two committees, one to advise and report on the best means of coping with the problem of unemployment and other to suggest practicable devices of effecting economy and retrenchment as well as to explore fresh sources of revenue without affecting the poorer classes, with a view to enabling the new Government to enter upon a programme of providing a suitable relief to the peasantry and intensifying the nation building activities.

The Leader of the House promised through this statement that he was going to appoint a committee to find out fresh sources of revenue as well as methods of retrenchment in the expenses. When we are waiting for the appointment of that committee and are anxiously waiting for the methods of retrenchment as well as for fresh sources of revenue, what do we find? We find that the first Bill which is brought forward before us is a Bill inflicting very heavy expenses. I would say that it will be in the fitness of things if we wait till that committee is appointed and it puts some suggestions before us.

✓ The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan (Chief Minister) : I have not very much to say on the motion before the House because my honourable friend who preceded me has replied to almost all the points raised by the honourable mover of the amendment. I should, however, like with your permission to make a few observations with regard to one or two points raised by the honourable mover and the honourable Leader of the Opposition. The honourable mover asked, why was it that the Government wanted to bring this legislation before the House in a hurry at the very first session? As my honourable friend, Mir Maqbool Mahmood, pointed out it is because we do not want to depend upon the stipend fixed by the Governor. We wish to abide by the wishes of the House and accept its verdict in this matter. It is for this reason that we have taken the first possible opportunity of introducing this measure with a view to obtain the views and verdict of the House on the question of our salaries. If you decide to reduce our salaries to Rs. 500 we would bow to your decision and will gladly accept it. I am surprised that instead of congratulating the Government for taking the first opportunity to seek the verdict of this representative and popular Assembly, on whose suffrage we depend for continuing in office, my honourable friend, the mover of the amendment, has for some obscure reason thought it fit to criticise us. We could have, if we desired, continued to draw the salaries fixed by His Excellency the Governor, but it would have been unfair to us and to the House to do so. I need not dilate on this point any further. ✓

With regard to this motion for circulation, the honourable mover had said “why should the Government or the supporters of the Government object to this matter being referred to the people or their constituents?” Well, we are here as representatives of the people. We have been returned by them. And in matters of policy and in other important matters no doubt we will from time to time consult them and keep in touch with our constituents, but that does not mean that every item or matter brought before this House should be referred to them and action deferred—may be for months at times. If that is his idea of carrying on the business of the House then, I must say that it will be impracticable to do any work in this House. This is only a small item, an item of a few thousands of rupees. We will have to sanction in the budget items involving lakhs and even crores of rupees. Does the honourable member mean that when each item is put to the House, we should cry halt and refer it to our constituents? These were briefly the arguments advanced by the honourable mover of this amendment. He of course is an adept at hurling cheap jibes, and he has as usual tried to ridicule the Unionists and the government party. I am now accustomed to the sort of cheap jibes, which the honourable mover has thought fit to indulge in not only from him but also from a certain section of the press in this province. We have been hearing for months now of the disintegration of the Unionists and the ministers' party. But it is no more than a question of wish being father to the thought. They are welcome to console themselves with such thoughts. They have been crying themselves hoarse by repeating that the Unionist party is going to be scattered, that the Unionist party is divided. Let me tell them that they are living in a fool's paradise. The Unionist party is gaining strength from day to day and is solid as a rock (hear, hear). The honourable mover may rest assured that his cheap jibes and the criticism of the cheap press is not likely to affect in the slightest the solidarity and cohesion of the party.

The honourable mover referred to the scales fixed in other provinces. He knows as well as I do what the position is in those provinces. There are only two or three other provinces, where they have got a stable majority government. One of them is Bengal and there, the honourable member conveniently forgot to mention, they have created no less than 33 appointments:—11 Ministers, 11 Secretaries, and 11 Under-Secretaries and who knows that there may be further additions by the time the Salaries Bill comes before the House. He should have totalled the amount of the salaries which they propose to pay to the ministers and secretaries. But he has carefully avoided mentioning this fact, since in the aggregate the total bill for salaries in Bengal is much heavier than ours. I do not wish to speak on the merits of the motion. As I have already stated we will abide by the decision of the House and accept whatever amount is fixed by this House (Voices from the Opposition benches: The Leader of the House should give freedom of vote to the Unionist party). If the honourable member knows anything about democratic government he should know that there is no such thing as freedom of vote in matters of policy. These are threshed out beforehand in the party meetings.

The honourable mover said that he was all for securing efficient people for this important work. How are we going to secure them if we do not fix their salaries at a reasonable figure? If the honourable mover had been a businessman—but he is an experienced lawyer—he would have known that it pays not only in the long run but always to have efficient men to look after a concern.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Did the Honourable member set any criterion?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I am going to deal with that point. I am one of those poor people who do not possess any degree: the only degree which I have received is an honorary degree conferred by the university of my own province (hear, hear). It cannot of course be compared with a degree which is obtained by paying fees. But I value more than anything else the confidence which I enjoy of my countrymen. (Hear, hear) (Voices from the Opposition benches: But you have been the Governor of the province.) Yes, I was Governor of the province and I, even then, had the privilege of enjoying the confidence of my countrymen both Hindus and Muslims, and others. (Hear, hear).

He also made an undignified and wholly unjustified personal attack on one of my colleagues on the score that his only qualification was his aptitude and skill in managing the estate of his father well. Is it a crime or disqualification to be able to manage an estate efficiently?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Was it undignified language?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Well, Sir, it is for you and the House to judge. In any case my honourable friend would have been well advised to keep in view, when he was making unprovoked attacks, the well-known adage that 'those who live in glass houses should not throw bricks at others'. His argument was to the effect that since he was managing a vast estate, one of the biggest in the province, he was not qualified to be a Minister. I fail to see any sense or reason in that argument. If he can manage his estate well, he should be able to manage a public concern also equally well.

There is one point to which I should like to refer before I sit down. He mentioned that we on this side should keep in view one objective and one objective alone, namely service of the country; there I entirely agree with him. I can assure him that we are here not for the sake of power. It is not the lust of power which has brought us here, nor is it greed for money which has actuated us to take office, we have taken office for the sake of service to our countrymen and our province and it is the spirit of service which has knit us on these benches together. You may be sure that this spirit of service will continue to actuate us in the work which we have before us so long as we remain in this House.

During the course of discussion of the question of salary informally with my party one of my friends humorously remarked that if we called for tenders instead of paying a salary we might get offers of premiums from candidates who would be willing to accept the office for the sake of—

Malik Barkat Ali : What bearing has it on the motion before the House?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I am trying to meet one of the arguments put forward by the honourable mover of the motion.

Malik Barkat Ali : The fact that it is an answer to an irrelevant remark does not make the answer relevant.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : As I was saying it is not the lust for power or money which has brought us together here, but the urge to do service to the province. If we do not do our duty by our province, by our constituencies—and we have got to go back to them—we will be judged accordingly ; and it is their verdict which matters. We are not like those persons who when they go to their constituents say one thing and after they are returned say something quite different. There is not a single individual among our party who is not true to his creed or who could change colour like some political chameleons who are green one day and turn red the next. We adhere to the promises and we stand by the undertakings which we gave to our constituents. We do not belong to the category of those political turn-coats who go to a constituency and seek their suffrage on a particular ticket and as soon as they are elected seek admission to a party whose creed may be diametrically opposed to their former professions. But, I will say no more about it.

Sardar Sampuran Singh (Lyallpur West, Sikh, Rural) : We have heard some very able speeches this morning and the last one laid great stress upon the fact that the present Government were doing their duty and making great sacrifices for the benefit of the province and the country. I am afraid these remarks would have had some meaning and weight if the motion before the House were not about the salaries of the ministers who have been so eloquent on these points. It has been said that this item is very small. It is this mentality of Government which I want to attack. They think that this item is very small. They should know that there should be some proportion between the salaries and the income of those who govern and the salaries or income of those whom they have to govern. If they think that Rs. 4,000 or Rs. 5,000 or Rs. 3,000 is a very small item, I am afraid they are ignorant or unaware of the condition of the poverty-stricken population of this province. I want them to be conscious of that, before they say that Rs. 3,000 or Rs. 4,000 is a small item in the coming budget of this province. Moreover, it is not only that which I object to. The real thing is this that to-day, by passing or by rejecting this Bill we are really laying the foundation of the coming budget. If you deal liberally with the ministers there is no doubt that you cannot behave differently with the other services in the province or other items in the coming budget. You have to continue as you begin. Therefore, this is not a small item, but it is a question of the whole budget which is to come before this House in a few months' time. You have to consider the budget and spend your money and utilize your resources according as you start to-day. Therefore, I would submit before Government that it is not only a question that this sum is small or that item is big, so far as the coming budget is concerned, it is laying the foundation of that budget and we must be extremely careful as to what we do to-day. (A voice : Forty per cent. reduction.) Yes, 40 per cent. reduction, but my learned friends forget that this sacrifice which they are making is not for the benefit of the province but with a view to keep the cohesion and adhesion of the members of their party. I think the Leader of the House pointed out that in Bengal there are 33 persons who sit on the ministerial benches and that is why they have kept their pay so low. If little changes take place in his ranks, perhaps he will have to bring in not only 33 but 40 or 50 men on the ministerial benches. By reducing their pay they are not reducing the expenses of the province but they are distributing the loot—that word I am just withholding—I may say the privileges or benefits amongst their supporters, who otherwise would have separated from them; consequently they are not making any saving by reducing their pay so far as the budget of the province is concerned.

There is only one more point which I want to make before I sit down and that is this that this House is not yet fully aware of the conditions of the province and its finances. So it is only meet for the Government not to take the people while they are asleep. The figures on which they have to base their views on the subject are not yet before them. The budget is still in the making and so many changes have taken place in the province during the process of settlement in several districts, and I think it is not only proper but wise for us to cut our coat according to the cloth we have. Therefore, it is absolutely necessary that this House should not be taken unawares and forced to pass a measure until the facts and figures of the budget are before us.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I move—

That the question be now put.

I P.M.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That the question be now put.

The motion was carried.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Will you allow me the right of reply ?

Mr. Speaker : As the motion of the honourable member is only an amendment to a substantive motion, he has no right of reply. The question is—

That the Punjab Ministers' Salaries Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon by the 31st May, 1937.

The motion was lost.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That the Punjab Ministers' Salaries Bill be taken into consideration at once.

The motion was carried.

The Assembly then adjourned for one hour.

The Assembly re-assembled at 2 P. M. of the clock. Mr. Speaker in the chair.

LANGUAGE OF THE ASSEMBLY.

Lala Duni Chand (Ambala and Simla, General, Rural) : Before we proceed to the business, I should like to raise a very important question in connection with the language of our debates. Section 85 of the Government of India Act lays down that all members who know English must speak in English and exemption is made only in the case of members who are unacquainted or not sufficiently acquainted with English. But there is a large number of honourable members in this House who either do not know English or who are not sufficiently acquainted with the English language. It is the right of every such member to understand and intelligently follow the debates. I submit, therefore, that a ruling may be given by you to the effect that every speech in English should be rendered into vernacular as soon as it is delivered so that every honourable member may intelligently follow the proceedings of the House.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan (Leader of the House): I think the point raised by the honourable member is quite reasonable. Every member of this House has got a right to know what other speakers are saying. Unfortunately, as already pointed out, the wording of the Act as it stands is such that it is not permissible for those honourable members who know English to speak in any other language. There is a proposal to approach the Parliament through the Government of India with a view to get the Act amended, but it will take time and I am afraid there is nothing we can do now to get over this difficulty. In the meanwhile it would be convenient if some such device as suggested by the honourable member could be adopted. But here again, I am afraid it would not be possible to make any arrangement for the present session, because we would require fluent and efficient interpreters and they are not at the present moment available. We might try, if you agree, Mr. Speaker, to do something in time for the budget session.

Lala Duni Chand : I should like to make one suggestion. Honourable members should be given option to speak either in English or in any vernacular.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I shall be only too glad if what the honourable member suggests can be achieved without amending the Act. But that is not possible as it will be contrary to the provision in the Act.

Lala Duni Chand : I submit that section 85 of the Act should be read together with the interpretation to be put upon the inherent right of every member to follow what other honourable members have got to say. If you take these two things together, then you will concede that every member, whether he knows English or not, has got a right to speak in the vernacular.

Lala Shiv Dyal : Till we get the services of an interpreter I would suggest that every member who speaks in English should be given the right to translate the same into a vernacular in order that he may make himself understood by all the members of the House.

Malik Barkat Ali : Section 85 of the Government of India Act is clear. Only those members who are not acquainted or not sufficiently acquainted with the English language can speak in a vernacular of the province and not anybody else. There is therefore no option for a member who knows English to speak in any other language. Until the Act is amended there is no help for us, neither you, Mr. Speaker, can help us nor can we help ourselves.

Mr. Speaker : Section 85 is quite clear and unambiguous, that the language of the Assembly shall be English. Exception is made only in the case of members who are not acquainted at all or are not sufficiently acquainted with English. In connection with this provision the Governor has made the following rule :—

All proceedings of the Assembly shall be conducted in the English language, but any member who is unacquainted or is not sufficiently acquainted with the English language may address the Assembly in any recognised language of the province.

Explanation.—For purpose of this rule recognised language shall mean any one of the following languages, namely, Urdu and Punjabi.

Thus it is clear that so far as the right to speak goes, those who can speak English must speak in English and only those who cannot speak English or who are not sufficiently acquainted with English can speak in one of the aforesaid two vernaculars.

As to whether those who do not understand English at all have a right to get a speech, made in English, translated for them in a vernacular, I am afraid that if we have to get every English speech translated into Urdu, we shall not be able to finish our business even in twelve months.

Standing Order 33 lays down—

At the Speaker's discretion any speech may immediately after its delivery be translated in abstract from English into Urdu or vice versa by an official translator.

It is clear that the translation of speech is left entirely to the discretion of the Speaker. During the past 11 or 12 years, for which I have occupied this chair, only about half a dozen times I have felt it necessary to have a speech translated from English into Urdu. There is no provision for the translation of an English speech into Punjabi or vice versa. It is clear that right of making a speech is one thing and the right to have a speech translated is another thing. There is no provision, other than the standing order just read out by me, which relates to the translation of speeches. So I do not think that any honourable member can claim to have a speech made in English translated into Urdu as of right. It will not be necessary to have vernacular speeches translated into English, as the two English members of the House have been sufficiently long in this province and can understand the vernacular speeches well. It must be remembered that if those, who are acquainted with the English language, speak in Urdu or Panjabi to-day, it will be my sad duty not to allow them to speak in English to-morrow.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: What will be the criterion of sufficient English ?

Mr. Speaker : The question will be decided when it arises.

Lala Bhim Sen Sachar (Urdu) : If a member thinks he can express himself better in Urdu than in English—.....

Honourable Members : Please speak in English.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is a Barrister. He appears in the High Court. What language does he use there ?

Lala Bhagat Ram Choda (Urdu) : I would like to submit that a member who asks a question in Urdu, must be answered in Urdu, so that, he may have no difficulty in putting any supplementary question.

Mr. Speaker : This cannot be done under the law as it stands.

THE PUNJAB MINISTERS' SALARIES BILL.

Mr. Speaker : The Assembly will now take up the Bill clause by clause.

Clause 1.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That clause 1 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 2.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member Mir Maqbool Mahmood has given notice of two amendments. I cannot allow both amendments to be moved together. Let us first confine ourselves to line 2.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood (Amritsar, Muhammadan, Rural): I will first move:

That in clause 2, line 2, the word 'Premier' be substituted for the word 'Chief Minister.'

This amendment is not merely verbal. It has a constitutional significance. It is not uncustomary for the constitutional pandits inside and outside the Empire to draw a distinction between the constitutional status of the various governments by the nomenclature that is applied to the heads of the executive. In this connection a practice has been evolved even with relation to Indian States, wherein comparatively smaller states with a few exceptions are allowed the use of 'Chief Minister' for the head of the ministry, whereas the word 'Prime Minister' is reserved for the more important states. Similarly we find in Dr. Keith's "Responsible Government" on pages 238 and 242 that in practically all the provinces of Canada and in all the states of Australia the word 'Prime Minister' is reserved for the head of the ministry of the Federal Government, while the heads of the provincial or the state ministries are called premiers and not chief ministers. Those of us who are anxious that within our limitations and in spite of our limitations we should try to approximate the nomenclatures, the status, and the functions of our house to those of the provinces of the self-governing dominions are anxious that as far as possible our nomenclature on this point should also correspond with theirs. In this connection this Bill is perhaps the only statutory measure we will be called upon to undertake to express our opinion on the name we desire to give to the head of our ministry. It is for these reasons that I venture to suggest the amendment that stands in my name. It is a happy augury that I understand that all progressive parties in the province are agreed that so far as the head of the provincial Government is concerned, he should be styled the "premier" and the name 'prime minister' should be reserved for the head of the Federal Ministry. In moving this amendment I speak with confidence because I am sure that in the head of our present ministry we have a distinguished statesman and a great gentleman who may safely be entrusted to keep the best traditions, dignity and prestige of the premier of the first National Government of the Punjab. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Speaker : Clause under consideration, amendment moved :

That in clause 2, line 2, the word "Premier" be substituted for the word "Chief Minister."

Mr. K. L. Gauba (Inner Lahore, Muhammadan, Urban) : There is an amendment that stands in my name to the effect that in line 2 for the words 'Chief Minister' the words 'Prime Minister' be substituted. But in view of the amendment moved by my friend, Mr. Maqbool Mahmood, which practically covers the same ground as my amendment, I do not propose to move my amendment. It will be enough if I support the amendment moved by Mr. Maqbool Mahmood, particularly for the reason that this matter is not really a party question. To-day we may have Sir Sikander as Premier or Prime Minister; to-morrow we may have Dr. Gopi Chand or Dr. Alam as the Prime Minister. Therefore, this question is really not a party issue. We have in the dominions, and in the various parts of the dominions, the head of the Government described as the Premier or the Prime Minister. I do not see any reason why we should not adopt a similar nomenclature so far as the head of the Punjab Government is concerned—a nomenclature which has already been adopted in the case of bigger states, the term 'Chief Minister' being used so far I know for the head of the administration of the smaller states. Accordingly I entirely support the amendment moved and would appeal to all sections of the House to support it.

Sardar Lal Singh (Ludhiana Central, Sikh, Rural) : Although there is not very much to be said for the word 'Premier' or 'Prime Minister' to my mind it appears that it is merely grandiose. When we call him Premier it will be assumed that under this constitution our Premier will have the same powers, the same prestige in international world as other Premiers. But actually he will not have the same powers as the Premier of France for example. He will not have the same powers as the Premier of Great Britain. And yet it would be made to appear to the world outside that our constitution is on all fours with the constitution of other countries which I think is not true. Therefore, I submit that the expression in the Act 'Chief Minister' is very properly used.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt (North-Eastern Towns, General, Urban) : I feel tempted to give my whole-hearted support to the amendment moved by Mir Maqbool Mahmood on the assumption as has been suggested, that to-morrow our own Leader, Dr. Gopi Chand, may be the Chief Minister—not under the present circumstances of course, but in a freer atmosphere. I quite agree with the honourable member that the word 'Chief Minister' does not sound as much dignified from a constitutional point of view as the expression 'Prime Minister' or 'Premier' does. But I have objection to the use of the word 'Prime Minister' because that should be used for the federal or central legislature and the word 'Premier' should be used for the provincial minister. I had discussed this point with some members of the House during the interval and I found that some members felt that the word 'Chief Minister' was deliberately put in the Constitution by its framers. I feel it is not always right to think that there is nothing in nomenclature. "What is in a name, that which we call rose will smell as sweet if by any other name were it called" I believe is too sentimental. I feel that in constitution-making we have to use certain formal words which may appeal to the people. To-day if it is Sir Sikander, as the honourable member stated, to-morrow it might be another. Therefore, on these grounds I think we on this side should support the amendment and I believe it will be accepted without any objection.

Khawaja Ghulam Hussain (Multan Division Towns, Muhammadan, Urban): The word "Chief Minister" is so closely connected with the states that it savours that atmosphere. Therefore, I would support strongly that the word "Premier" should be used consistently with the dignity of the House.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That in clause 2, line 2, the word "Premier" be substituted for the word 'Chief Minister.'

The motion was carried.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : As my amendment is the same as is being moved by the honourable Leader of the Opposition, Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava, I would like to speak on that amendment instead of moving my own.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I have to make a request and that is this that as you will find there is no other amendment in line 2 and the amendments in lines 3 and 4 are to follow, I would request you to permit me to move both my amendments together.

Mr. Speaker : I am afraid they shall have to be moved separately.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava (Lahore City, General, Urban) : I beg to move—

That in clause 2, line 2, after the word "Premier" the words "and to each of the other Ministers" be added.

My object, as you realise, is this that I want that the Chief Minister and all the other Ministers get the same salary and that is why I want that the words "and to each of the other Ministers" be added to it, so that the clause may be intelligibly formed. I do not think I need say much for this addition because this addition does not matter much. What I have to say about the point that the Chief Minister and the other Ministers should get an equal salary, I will say when I am permitted by you to move my amendment in lines 3 and 4. With these words I commend my amendment to the House.

Mr. Speaker : Clause under consideration, amendment moved is—

That in clause 2, line 2, after the word "Premier" the words "and to each of the other Ministers" be added.

Mr. K. L. Gauba : May I ask, Mr. Speaker, what procedure you are adopting as regards other amendments? Will each amendment be discussed separately or will they be discussed together?

Mr. Speaker : All amendments relating to the salary of the Premier will be discussed together, but they will be put to the vote of the House separately, if necessary.

Mr. K. L. Gauba : I do not understand clearly. Is it your desire that these amendments should be formally moved or discussion will take place first and the amendments will be put to the House later.

Mr. Speaker : When one amendment, relating to the salary of the Premier is moved, all other amendments relating to the same salary shall be discussed. But they will not be moved before discussion.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood (Amritsar, Muhammadan, Rura): Mr. Speaker, it is my painful duty to oppose the amendment proposed by the honourable Leader of the Opposition. The object of the amendment proposed is that the salaries of the Ministers and the Premier should be the same. Now, with regard to that I am sure that so far as the Honourable Premier is concerned, he would welcome his other colleagues drawing the same salary as he may be allowed by the House. But so far as we on this side are concerned—and I hope I am speaking for the other Ministers also—we feel strongly that, apart from the very great sacrifice of our first Premier, the salary of the Premier should be higher than that of his colleagues. According to the practice of most democratic countries, some line of demarcation is kept between the salaries of the Premier and that of the other ministers. Moreover the duties of the Premier are more onerous and the official and non-official taxes on his salary are much more exacting than on his colleagues. As such we must oppose the motion that has been moved.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That in clause 2, line 2, after the word 'Premier' the words "and to each of the other Ministers" be added.

The motion was lost.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava (Lahore City, General, Urban): I beg to move—

That in clause 2, lines 3-4 for the words "forty-two thousand" the words "six thousand" be substituted.

It is both a painful and pleasant duty to move this amendment. It is painful because I have to move such an amendment, which would, if adopted by this House, affect the ideals and if I may say so, tax on those who want to make the best and the most out of this constitution, and out of this Government. We believe that you know that this new constitution is not acceptable to us. But there are some friends here who believe that though it is not an acceptable constitution, because they want Dominion Status for this country and this constitution does not give us Dominion Status or anything near it, still they want to work it out, and make the best of it, and they are going to make the best of it, it may be for the country or may be for themselves. (At this stage an honourable member crossed the floor of the House.)

Mr. Speaker : No honourable member should cross the line between the member who is speaking and the Chair.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I was saying, that those who want to make the best of the present constitution, do want to make the best of it and it is my painful duty to stand in their way and propose a cut in the salary which is very considerable. But it is not my painful duty because I feel that there is no justification for the Ministers drawing a higher salary than Rs. 500 per month under the conditions we live in. When it was announced that the elections would take place and that the new constitution would come into force on the 1st of April, 1937, several parties were organized in our province to run these elections and nominate their candidates. In this House I see there are members who belong to different parties, though, the Leader of the House informed us this morning that either there is a Congress Party or there may be other groups on the Government side, but there is one party called the Unionist Party. (Voices: No, no.) I speak subject to correction, but I feel that there are parties who have joined the Government benches though they have got their own programme of work. I have not been able to get the party programme of the Sikh National Party, but I have got with me, the programme of the Nationalist Progressive Party as well as that of the Unionist Party. If one were to study them, one would find that there are items in the programme where they say that they shall try to remove unemployment from the province and also help the poor, but what do we find, when the question of expenditure arises? We find that we are called upon to give our sanction to a salary of Rs. 42,000, Rs. 45,000 and Rs. 48,000 for the Chief Minister. I know that His Excellency the Governor announced that he would give Rs. 50,000 a year.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : No, no.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : That is what was published in the Press.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Exactly the same as in the Bill.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Well, if it is the same as it is in the Bill, I cannot congratulate the Chief Minister. I thought that the Leader of the House was making a sacrifice of Rs. 2,000 a year, but now I find that he is not making any sacrifice. He wants us to sanction the same pay as the Governor was pleased to fix. But, we feel that the income of this province is so poor that we cannot afford to pay such high salaries to Ministers. It is always said, and I know that it will be said now that if the Ministers do not draw a salary higher than other officers in the province, excepting the Governor, they would not be able to maintain their prestige. And I know that it will be said that it is not in the power of this Assembly, to make a cut in the salary of the heaven-born service or the Imperial Service people, and because we cannot cut their pay, therefore, the Ministers must draw pay more than those services are getting in order to keep up their dignity. But, we on this side believe that the prestige of a man does not lie in the pay or in the income he makes or he earns. The prestige of the man lies in the service or the love for the country. Again, I know comparisons are odious, but I can cite examples where people working honorarily or drawing only Rs. 75 or Rs. 50 a month, do, if not better, at least as good work as Ministers will be called upon to do and command prestige. Therefore, we believe that the prestige does not lie in the income, but in the spirit of service with which a man works for his country. Therefore, we believe, that our Ministers should set an example for other Indians who hold some posts in this province under the Government, other than Indian Civil Service or Members of the Imperial Services, and expect them also to come forward for a cut in their pay. The Government may come forward and say that our Ministers are drawing less pay and therefore the others should also draw less pay. If they want to serve the people, if they really feel that there is poverty in the province, it is their duty to make sacrifice. We should do away with this false notion of dignity. We must add to the dignity of labour. We should not prove that dignity lies in the money drawn as pay and not in work. In my opinion, we should prove that the man who works with his own hands, is as honourable and dignified as the man who draws Rs. 5,000, Rs. 4,000 or Rs. 3,000 a month.

It was said in the manifesto issued by the Chief Minister, on the 1st of April that he would try to remove unemployment as well as make retrenchment and find out fresh avenues of income. Unless he does this, unless he increases the income and decreases the expenditure, he shall have no money left to spend on any of the beneficent departments. We have come here to do something for our poor brethren. It is the poor people who have sent us. It is therefore our duty to see that no money is wasted and that most of this money is spent on departments which are called beneficent departments. I know that something must be spent on salaries, otherwise no work can be done. But if you spend the whole money or the greater part of the money you get in salaries nothing will be left with you to be spent on beneficent departments. What money are you going to spend to remove unemployment from this province? The question of unemployment is not the unemployment of those who have no work, but it is the question of unemployment of those who toil from morning till evening and from night till morning, I mean the poor peasant (Hear, hear). They are the poor people who need the greatest attention. They work for the whole of the day and in some cases the whole of the night. Unemployment in their case has become chronic and they cannot make both ends meet. When this is the condition of our peasantry in this province, how are you going to help them? How are you going to reduce the land revenue and water cesses which are very excessive? How are you going to relieve indebtedness in this province, unless you find money for it. You reduce your income by reducing the land revenue and water cesses or giving relief to the indebted, but how are you going to get the money to meet expenses? Either you must impose fresh taxation or you must reduce your expenditure. You are not prepared to reduce expenditure. If the Bill is passed as it is, it would be difficult for the Ministers to make any reduction in the salaries of higher officers in this province. It may be said that they will make a cut in the salaries of Government servants, but that axe will fall on the poor Government servants. How are you going to increase your income? It is said, by fresh taxation. But do you feel that our province is in a condition fit to bear more taxation? I believe that our country cannot bear any more taxation. We are already very heavily taxed. The only people who can be further taxed are the rich people ("hear, hear" from Government benches). The only people that can pay further taxes are rich people, they may be rich peasants, rich landlords or rich jagirdars or rich people living in towns. ("Hear, hear" from Government benches). You can tax them more. But I am afraid you will not be able to do this because the Ministers themselves want higher pay and when it becomes a question of vested interests, who shall tax the rich when they are themselves trying to become rich? ("Hear, hear" from Opposition benches). If you want to tax the rich people, you must yourselves remain poor and live like poor men. Then we have to see how the money which we pay to the ministers is going to be spent. I do not want to go into the details or into the private expenses of the ministers. I have no right to do that, but one thing I can say and that is this. If you want to remove unemployment from the province, you can only do so if you begin to use home-made products, things manufactured in your own province or your own country. But those who have been crying from house tops that they are contesting elections in order to help the poor, now ask for such high salaries. Do they realise that the money which we shall pay them shall be spent on either foreign articles or articles prepared or manufactured by the capitalists of this province or this country? Not a single pie which they will spend will go to the poor people of this province. They do not help us, they cannot help us if they live in the way they are living and in the way they patronise foreign or mill-made articles. I do not oppose the existence of mills, in fact I would like that more mills should come into existence but they should be nationalized and if the mills are nationalized, they would not be mills run by the capitalists, but by the Government and therefore by the people. They will be mills for the people run by the people. Therefore I beg to submit that all talks of helping the poor and removing unemployment are not justified by the actions of these people as is manifest from the Bill that has been put before us. It might be said that in order to secure efficiency we must pay our servants what they are worth. Well, if that is the point then I would say that the Ministers are not here to serve the people but to serve themselves and they get what they think is their worth. My submission is that it may be that they are worth much more than they want us to give them or it may be that they are worth much less than they require us to pay them, but again I would submit that we come here to serve the people. We do not come here to earn money. It is our duty to serve the people and it is in the spirit of service that we should assume these offices of ministers, and not in the hope of making money or getting reward for services which we render to the poor people of India ("hear, hear" from Opposition benches). Then let us compare our province with others. We read in the papers, I do not know how far it is correct, that the ministers in the United Provinces, the neighbouring province are going to draw only Rs. 2,500 per mensem and here in our province what is proposed is Rs. 3,000 per mensem.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Is there any Government in the United Provinces?

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I believe there is a Government in the United Provinces and I think the Leader of the House does believe that there is a Government in the United Provinces though I think there is no good Government either in the United Provinces or in any other part of the country. I shall be glad if the Leader of the House, the Honourable Premier of the province were to express his opinion and send it to the Government of India and the Parliament that there exists no Government in that province and in the provinces where the minorities have been called upon to form interim ministries.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I only wanted your opinion.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : My opinion is that we have been able to prove that this new constitution is a camouflage at least in the six provinces, but it does not mean that no Government exists there. I wish we had the power to say that no Government exists in any of the provinces in this country, but I cannot say so because our friends think that they have got something nearing Dominion Status and are keen to work it out. Time will show whether it is workable or not. I was submitting that in the United Provinces under a much richer province than the Punjab, ministers are going to draw salaries to the extent of only Rs. 2,500 a month. I say United Provinces is richer than the Punjab from the point of administration. The aggregate income of that province is much more than ours and I do not say richer as far as the people of the province go. The Governor of that province has said that they shall be paid only Rs. 2,500. Whether the Assembly of that province meets or not, or whether if it meets there will be any salary or not or what shall be the fate of the Ministers' Salary Bill, I do not know. It may be that no Ministers Salary Bill may come up. There may be no ministry on the very first day and a resolution may be moved expressing no confidence in the Ministry and the cabinet may be dissolved. But if a Salary Bill were to be passed in the neighbouring province, the United Provinces, I can assure the honourable members that the amount of salary sanctioned there will not be more than Rs. 500 a month.

Therefore, from the points of view of the condition of our peasantry, unemployment prevailing in the province, and the condition of the people living in towns and villages, I feel that we are not justified in giving the Ministers more than Rs. 500 a month. It might be said that it will not be enough for them because they have to entertain members of the Assembly, give them tea parties, they have to entertain His Excellency the Governor and they have to entertain other people. Well, we cannot afford to pay our ministers anything more than what I have proposed. It might be said that they will not be able to run the Government of this province because they will have no prestige. I have already submitted that the prestige lies in service and not in money. I do not think there is any man in this country or even in the whole world bigger than Mahatama Gandhi who lives only on 6 pies a day and does not draw a fat salary. (Loud applause.) He commands more prestige. He commands more respect even from the Imperialist British Government. If you look to the other people who would be running this system of Government, if they liked to, in other provinces, you cannot say that people there will not command that prestige and honour if they were to take the ministerships in provinces which are bigger than ours. If the members of the Congress party—the majority party—were to take up ministerships, they would be drawing Rs. 500 a month and no one can say that they will not be able to carry on the business in the same way as will be carried on in this province. I beg to submit, therefore, that we should look to the condition prevailing in the country and not think that because a certain party is in power, therefore they can afford to pass anything which they like because they have a majority behind them. We have to see to the interests of the province and not only to judge it from the party point of view. I do not move this amendment simply because I am in the opposition benches. It has been suggested that a time may come when I may be called upon to take charge of the minister-ship. I feel flattered by this statement, but I may assure you that I do not think I shall ever accept it because I know that my place is not here but elsewhere. I am a servant of the nation—of the poor—and as such I believe I have got no place to work as a Chief Minister, but supposing one day I were to get into my head to accept it and I had the majority behind me, I can assure you that I shall be more than satisfied with this small pay and I can assure you that I shall do my best to discharge my duties faithfully (Hear, hear). Therefore, from all points of view I believe that we have not got the right which has been given to us by our people, by electing us to this House, to give our assent to any salary higher than Rs. 500 a month. With these few words I beg to commend this amendment through you to the House. (Cheers).

Mr. Speaker : Clause under consideration, amendment moved is :

That in clause 2, lines 3-4, for the words "forty-two thousand" the words "six thousand" be substituted.

There are other amendments also which cover the same aspect of the question. I mean item No. 8 (i). Item No. 10 (i) also relates to the same subject but Malik Barkat Ali has made this mistake that instead of "lines 3-4" he has written "lines 2-3." Again, the same subject is covered by item No. 11 (i). Further on, the same subject is dealt with in item No. 13 (i). Item No. 14 also is to the same effect ; but Mr. K. L. Gauba also has written lines 2-3" instead of "lines 3-4." So, all these items will be discussed together and if necessary, put to the vote of the House separately.

Shaikh Faiz Muhammad (Dera Ghazi Khan Central, Muhammadan, Rural) : The question of fixing the salaries of the ministers is very important and I submit equally complicated and difficult to decide. The difficult and complicated nature of the question is amply demonstrated by the fact that even the Opposition is not in a position to take up determined and definite attitude in regard to it. If you will kindly look at the various amendments which have been tabled by the members of the Opposition, you will see that the salaries proposed vary from Rs. 500 a month to about Rs. 4,000 a month because my honourable friend, Mr. K. L. Gauba, has proposed a very decent salary for the Chief Minister. (Mr. K. L. Gauba : I have already pointed out that that was a mistake). In any case one thing remains that different salaries have been proposed by different members of the opposition. This indicates that the Opposition is not in a position to take a determined and definite attitude. If you will kindly follow the trend of various amendments that have been proposed, you will see that the spirit that is conspicuous in all these amendments is that they have not been made with a view to put forward constructive suggestions but they have been made with the avowed object of defeating the constitution. We, sitting on this side of the House cannot see eye to eye with the honourable members of the opposition in this respect. In order to arrive at a just decision on this important question, it is necessary that we should consider all the details of the matter.

It is necessary that we should dispassionately consider all the details of the matter and then decide it in a thoroughly businesslike way. We should not allow ourselves to be influenced by sentimental appeals or by specious arguments. Of course anything brought forward can be supported by all sorts of arguments but we should decide the question in a thoroughly businesslike manner. I agree with Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava that in determining the salary of the Ministers we should have every regard for the finances of the province and the salary fixed must correspond with the finances of the province. In other words the salary we fix should not be so high as to involve the province in any very heavy expenditure on that account alone or should not necessitate fresh taxation for that purpose. I entirely agree with him. Again, I hope my honourable friend will also agree with me that we should not fix the salary at so low a level as to make the whole thing look ridiculous and farcical. Under the Montague-Chelmsford reforms Ministers used to draw five thousand a month. Those honourable members who had the privilege of serving on those Councils will remember how desperately and tenaciously the then Ministers fought whenever the question of the revision of their salary came up for discussion. Now, in the Bill which has been placed before the House there is a cut in that salary, so far as the Chief Minister is concerned of one thousand a month and in the case of other Ministers of Rs. 1,700 a month. I think the Ministers should be praised for the sacrifice which they have voluntarily made. They are entitled to our appreciation in this respect.

Next, we have to see what should be the proper amount. I think we should be guided by certain principles and should not be carried away by appeals made from this point of view or that point of view. We should be guided by some principle. We should first of all take into consideration the work which the Ministers will be called upon to do; secondly, the responsibility which will devolve upon the shoulders of a Minister; and thirdly, we must take into consideration the position which a Minister as such will be expected to maintain. Now taking into consideration first the work, I submit that it is not necessary for me to impress on the House that the Ministers will be wholtime servants and will not be 6 hours' servants according to our conception. Ministers will work day and night. They will be completely weaned off from other business whatever it may be and however lucrative it may be. I submit it is wrong in principle to expect so much public service from anybody without properly paying him. We are not expected to treat Government in the same way as we treat a charitable institution like a 'gowshala.' If you expect so much work then properly pay them. I maintain that it is undemocratic to expect so much work from any one without properly paying him because it presupposes that cabinet appointments are meant to be filled only by men of means and leisure and such men are not always desirable for political leadership.

As regards the quality of work I may submit that the work will be very onerous and responsible. The Ministers will be made responsible for dealing with questions which concern not only individuals but communities and taking into consideration the state of affairs I think it is necessary that we should pay the Ministers sufficiently so that they may be able to carry on their work independently, honestly and diligently.

Further, I want to submit the last point for the consideration of the House, although that point would be contested by the opposition, and it is this, that we must take into consideration the position that a Minister of Government as such will be expected to maintain. Of course it is possible for a man to live on two rupees a month : it is possible for a man to live on five hundred a month and it is possible for a man to live on five thousand rupees a month. But we have to take into consideration the surroundings and for the circumstances in which the Minister will be expected to live. We have to take into consideration the fact that a Minister as such will be required to maintain his position and to maintain a certain standard of living because of the very nature of his position. We have to take into consideration the fact that a Minister of Government as such will be expected to incur certain expenditure, not particularly because he is fond of incurring that expenditure but because his position as Minister of Government requires that he should bear those expenses and this would be particularly the case so far as the Chief Minister is concerned, because he is leader of the party, he is leader of the House and as he will be holding the topmost position he will be expected to bear certain expenses not because he likes but because his position requires that he should do so. In determining the salary of Ministers we must take into consideration all these things instead of indulging in sentiments. Therefore taking into consideration all these things I think that the salary proposed by my honourable friend is very low and I oppose the amendment.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt (North-Eastern Towns, General, Urban) : With your permission I rise to support the amendment moved by the leader of the Congress Party. At the very outset, I would like to observe that the comparatively low figure mentioned in the amendment should not in any way be construed to reflect on the ability of the present ministry. In fact I may observe in passing that some of the Ministers are men of outstanding ability and wide administrative experience (hear, hear). When honourable members say 'hear, hear' they should not forget that the correct indicator to assess the worth of a Minister is not ability, but the sympathetic outlook with which he runs the chariot of the administration.

The motive to action on the part of the Ministers should be, as my Leader has pointed out, service and not emoluments. I therefore confess that I was disagreeably surprised to learn that our Council of Ministers have agreed to rate their salaries at such high figures as are mentioned in the Bill under discussion. I recall the statement made by the Secretary of the Unionist Party in the course of an article published in the hospitable columns of the Mall Road Oracle to the effect that the programme of the Unionist Party is the programme of the Socialist. If that is their programme, I would ask in all sincerity and with all the earnestness that I can command, whether any socialist in the world would be a party to such high salaries as are provided in the Bill under discussion. If it is a fact that there are socialists in the Unionist Party or if their programme is socialistic or has a socialistic tinge, then let those of the Unionist Party whose hearts are lacerated on account of the appalling economic condition of the masses of this province, give expression to their feelings by voting in favour of the amendment moved by the Congress Leader.

On the day the new regime was inaugurated, on April 1st—may be a Fool day, I do not care—the Honourable the Premier, in the course of an appeal to the Punjabis, observed that out of the new constitution we should draw as much as possible. Here is an opportunity for him to-day to give the lie to the impression which has been created in certain circles that he wants to draw as much as possible for himself and his friends and not for the hungry people of the province. What should be the criterion by which the salary of a Minister should be fixed? I know there are various schools of thought on the subject but I find, that they differ in details only. It is however, acknowledged on all hands that the salary of a Minister should bear some reasonable proportion to the per capita income and the taxable capacity of the people who have ultimately to bear the burden of the salary. I submit, for the consideration of the House, that the figure of salary provided in the Bill is out of all proportion to the per capita income in this province or in this country. If we make a comparative study of the salaries of the Ministers in all the countries of the world, then I have no hesitation in saying—and I say it without fear of contradiction—that we shall realise that no country in the world gives such fat salaries to their Ministers as we are being asked to give to ours.

Let us make comparative study. Let us take one or two instances. Let us first take the instance of England. In England the Ministers get £ 5,000 a year (An honourable member: £10,000). The figure that is being mentioned is only in the form of a Bill before the House of Commons. I do not care about the future, but the Minister there gets £ 5,000 although even if it is £ 10,000, my argument stands. And the per capita income in England, according to the British economists and also according to the Simon Commission Report, is about £95. The Honourable Leader has nodded dissent, but I am open to correction and I again say without fear of contradiction that the salary of a British Minister is £ 5,000 and according to the Simon Commission Report the per capita income in England is about £95. According to simple mathematical calculation this salary of the Minister is 53 times the per capita income in England. Let us compare this salary and the per capita income with the salary which is being asked from us in this Bill—we take the figure of Rs. 36,000 leaving aside the salary asked for the Chief Minister which is Rs. 42,000,—and the per capita income in our country. What is the per capita income in India? I do recognise that there is a difference of opinion on this subject. Some economists believe that it is £ 4 a year, others say it is £ 8, some believe it is Rs. 50, others believe it is Rs. 100. But taking even the most optimistic reports of Findlay Shirras or even according to the Simon Commission Report it comes to £8 which is about Rs. 106. The salary is Rs. 36,000 and per capita income Rs. 106 in India! It comes to this that the salary which we are being asked for is 343 times the per capita income in this country. The Unionist Party may have a comfortable majority, I do not care. I put these facts before them, so that they may realise the position. If they care for the other constitutions of the world, if they care to follow their principles, if they care to follow their policies they should also care to know what those countries are paying to their ministers.

Now let us take the instance of Canada also. In Canada the salary of a Federal Minister is 7,000 dollars and the per capita income is 579 dollars. If you calculate, the salary of a minister comes to only 12 times the per capita income in Canada. If such is the state of affairs in other countries, if in England and Canada the proportion of the salary to the per capita income is 58 times and 12 times respectively, why on earth, in all seriousness I ask, should it be 343 times the per capita income in this province? Is it because we are down-trodden? Is it because the masses of the people in this province and in this country are wallowing in the mire of poverty? Is it because we have not got the force to enforce the will of the people? I submit, that if the Honourable the Leader of the House is sincere in his statements and professions—and I have no reason to doubt his sincerity—I would call his attention to one statement which he made in his appeal to the Punjabis to which a reference has already been made by me. That was that the people should not forget that the votable charges in the new constitution are not many. If the votable charges are not many, if he has got no control over the Governor's salary, if he has got no control over the salaries of the High Court Judges, if he has got no control over the salaries of other public services, surely he has got a big say in the matter of his own salary and the salary of his colleagues. There is a very great opportunity before him to-day to effect economy in the administration. To-day he should take courage in both hands and set an example for the other servants of the State. If he really feels for the staggering poverty of the people, he should know that with such high salaries the new administration is going to be very costly, and it is likely that the new constitution may break on the rock of Finance if not on the rock of the Congress. In that case, he should realise that it is with his own hands that the new constitution is going to fall as under, is going to be shattered to pieces. So I appeal to the Chief Minister that he should not be intoxicated with power, he should not be intoxicated with the knowledge that he has got an over-whelming majority at his back and treat us with contempt and disrespect, but that he should take into account the mass opinion that is prevalent in the province and in the country. There are other arguments already put before the House by the Leader of my party and I do not consider it reasonable to repeat all those arguments. I will only appeal to the Chief Minister that when he goes home this evening he may give a little bit of thought to the idea which is contained in the expression 'tyranny of the majority.' We do feel that we are in a minority; we do feel that the other party has got an over-whelming majority. We also feel that if we had decided to contest all the seats in the province we might have been in the majority. (Hear, hear). But I may assure him—and Mir Maqbool Mahmood wanted the assurance—that we would treat that party with courtesy and gentlemanliness. I reciprocate the feeling on behalf of my party. We do not want to create any unpleasant scenes in this House, but we do want that the other party which is in a majority should take into serious consideration what we say in this House. It will probably be said that we appeal to sentiments and emotions, that we are not practical people but only idealists and visionaries. But I may tell the Chief Minister that we do really feel for the poverty of the people and we appeal to him to feel for the poverty of the people as much as we do. If he has got any feeling for their poverty, he should accept the amendment which has been moved by the Leader of my party, who has himself given up his lucrative practice of medicine in order to serve the cause of the poor. It is well known that the Congress party stands as much for the improvement of the rural areas and for the uplift of the rural population as the Unionist Party claims to do (An honourable member : Much more) if not much more. I do not want to make a statement that may be considered hyperbolic or exaggerating. I only talk facts. I have not tried to appeal to sentiments. There may be something in my tone which may give the impression that I am appealing to sentiments. But I may assure the House that I have given practical facts. Look at other countries like England and Canada. A salary of Rs. 500 per mensem proposed in this amendment is the nearest approach to the proportion which the salaries of Ministers in England and Canada bear to the per capita income of the people. The salary proposed in the amendment is 57 times the per capita income of the province whereas the salaries of ministers in England is 53 times the per capita income of that country'. (Cheers).

Mr. Speaker : I notice that almost all honourable members, who have spoken so far on the amendment under consideration, have not kept out of the discussion the salaries of ministers, which are dealt with separately in the Bill. The salary of the Chief Minister and the salaries of the other ministers have been discussed together. I, therefore, suggest that in order to save time and avoid repetition of arguments, the salaries of all ministers, including the Premier, may be discussed at this very stage. They will, of course, be moved and voted upon separately.

Dr. Saif-ud-Din Kitchlew : May I suggest that all the amendments be allowed to be moved in the first instance and the honourable members then allowed to speak on any one of the amendments or all of them together.

Mr. Speaker : That will not be regular, as more than one motion cannot be before the House at the same time.

Dr. Saif-ud-Din Kitchlew : Then, the course suggested by you will amount to raising a discussion in anticipation.

Mr. K. L. Gauba : May I point out, with due respect to you, Mr. Speaker, that the procedure adopted in the Central Legislature is that all the amendments are moved at the same time and then discussion takes place?

Mr. Speaker : I may just read from page 191 of Campions book

“ When the question is proposed on an amendment, the debate should, strictly, be relevant to that amendment and not refer to other amendments, but the Chairman sometimes for the convenience and with the assent of the committee, allows debate to range over several amendments, which raise different aspects of the question raised by the amendment actually under consideration on the understanding usually that when these latter amendments are called, they may be divided on if desired, but not discussed.”

Malik Barkat Ali : Will those who have tabled other amendments be allowed to speak on this amendment?

Mr. Speaker : Of course.

Mr. Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din (Sheikhupura, Muhammadan, Rural) Leaving aside the display of heat and passion now and then in the speeches of my honourable friends, I am grateful for the standard of debate they have maintained in their speeches, I mean the honourable Leader of the Opposition and the honourable member who spoke after him. I need not say that we value very much the assurance and the good wishes they have expressed for the province, as well as taking them in their own words for the Unionist Party. In fact, we welcome the enthusiasm from the opposition whenever it is on right lines as we believe in the words of an Urdu poet who has said—

فیضِ قیوب تھا کہ ملی و طرد کی عشق
 ہے جانِ زندگی ہے جو کدلی عدو نہ ہو

In fact, it is in the strength of the opposition that the strength of the Government lies. But I must say that this is not a matter to be taken in the light in which my honourable friends have taken. Let me take the matter in dispute in a businesslike manner and then look at the amendments. We find the amendments very amusing. The more we think over them, the more we come to the conclusion that the honourable members who have given notice of them, every time they gave thoughts over them have been rising towards higher salaries step by step, so much so, that I am sure if my honourable friend, Malik Barkat Ali, who has gone from Rs. 500 to Rs. 2,500, had a few moments' more leisure, would have come to the same conclusion at which the proposers of the Bill have arrived, I mean Rs. 3,000 per month for other Ministers and Rs. 42,000 per annum for the Chief Minister.

It has been suggested that we ought to think of economy. Certainly we ought to think of economy. But at the same time we ought to keep in mind, what is true economy and what is false economy. False economy may appear very good on the face of it but when you probe into it further you will find that it is more expensive in the long run, as the Punjabi proverb says so well :

Let us take this proposition as I said in a businesslike attitude and see for ourselves whom we are going to appoint, who is the Premier and what he was drawing before he came to the Punjab.

Lala Bhim Sen Sachar : On a point of order. We are not dealing with persons. This is not a cut to indicate a want of confidence in the person of the Prime Minister. This is a question of principle and therefore personalities should not be introduced.

M. Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din : I was only going to explain that in fixing the salary we should adopt true economy. I submit that to a premier who we know was drawing Rs. 5,500 with a free house in cities like Bombay and Calcutta, who would have by this time been drawing Rs. 7,500 and who would in the near future have been drawing something between Rs. 9,000 and 10,000 a month, what do we propose to such a man now? Rs. 42,000 a year. Is it not based on economy? Over and above that I submit. Let us see what sort of men we require for the posts of ministers. My honourable friends would agree with me that the men we require should be men of honesty, integrity, men who have made their mark in their previous careers, men in whom we can implicitly rely. Therefore, if we agree on that point, we should see in a businesslike way, how best to persuade such men to come to our service., how to ask them, and what would be the means, what would be the salary we offer them. It is said that they should come with an idea of service. Very noble of them, very good of them to say so. But what does history tell us? Do we not know that in France, the post of a councillor or the member of a judicial Parliament was supposed to be the highest post of honour and people refused to come there for a salary, so much so that those were bought at the highest price, with the result, that the fees began to be levied on judicial proceedings to be distributed amongst those councillors? Do we wish to see that in the Punjab too? I would submit, not, and my honourable friend will agree with me there. Therefore I would say that when you want such men you shall have to keep in mind the difficulties of the gentlemen whom you ask to come at the helm of the Punjab administration. Again you should not also forget the following facts. Firstly, your ministers have no pension. You want them to give the best of their life to your service and after that, you want to treat them as cast off horses. We have also to remember that there is no security. To-day one man may be a minister and to-morrow he may not be, still you want him to break off his previous career. If he is managing his estate or if he is shining in his profession, if he is doing very well in his business, you want him to break off from his career and come to your service. It should be therefore our duty to provide him with a decent salary, not exorbitant, because we do not want to burden our revenues more than we can possibly afford to do? Nor very low, because we want to attract the best men. We do not want to induce political adventurers to come at the helm. Again we have to keep in mind the penalties of greatness too. By greatness I do not mean possession of riches in plenty, but the position of a minister. There will be a demand on his purse in the form of donations to charitable institutions; donations to his party, and demands in many other ways, in the form of election expenses and so on. (Interruption) Sometimes leaders have to come in aeroplanes to safeguard their followers. Let us see what is being done in other countries. My honourable friend, Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt, asked us to look at other countries. Let us see what is being done in England. We cannot deny that patriotism runs high there. We cannot deny that service of the country is the very breath of their nostrils. We cannot deny that we have learnt the lessons of freedom and liberty from them. But are they reducing their salaries? No! In fact as my honourable friend has stated, they have brought in a Bill there for increasing the salary of the Premier from £5,000 to £ 10,000.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : That would be only 106 times the per capita income.

M. Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din : My learned friend was saying that they were not giving so much, and no country is giving as much as we want to give. I would say that in fact that country is thinking of providing even the Leader of the Opposition because they know that no man can live on sentiment alone. Are we exceeding the budget in proposing this salary? I say, no! We have increased the number of Ministers but we are still within the last budget. Instead of five Ministers we have six but instead of spending Rs. 25,000 on them we will be spending only between Rs. 19,000 and 20,000 a month. We have taken a leaf out of the suggestion of the opposition in 1927. I remember the debate on the Ministers' salary when it was very vigorously urged by the opposition that the salary of a Minister should be Rs. 3,000 a month. We have accepted that suggestion, and now it is contended; "No! it is not right." If that is to be the case, I have nothing to say but to remind you of that Frenchman who used to say that he never met anybody but himself who was always in the right.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar (North-Eastern Towns, Muhammadan, Urban):

(The honourable member began his speech in Urdu.)

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan: On a point of order. The honourable member is a graduate of the Government College and has been my class-fellow. He can speak English.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar: I have not followed the honourable member.

Mr. Speaker: Is the honourable member acquainted with English or not?

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar: I am acquainted.

Mr. Speaker: Then I cannot allow the honourable member to speak in Urdu.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar: I would submit at the very outset that some speakers on the Government side have referred to the fact that several amendments ranging from six thousand rupees per annum to thirty-thousand rupees per annum have been moved and that shows that there is no definiteness or clearness in the minds of the Opposition as to what they are about. I want to submit that two amendments stand in my name. In the first amendment it is substitution of Rs. 6,000 for Rs. 42,000. My other amendment goes up to the limit of Rs. 30,000. Now, it is not that I had no definite idea in my mind when I was proposing all these amendments. So far as my personal considered opinion is concerned I would say that in the interest of the country and in the interest of the poor people of this country I do consider that Rs. 500 per month is a good salary and it should be accepted. (Cheers from the Opposition benches.) If I propose Rs. 1,000 per month or Rs. 2,000 per month, I say, after placing my conviction before you, that Rs. 500 a month would be quite sufficient and that amount should be accepted and that if the party in power is not agreeable to that proposal then I place another proposal before them. Let it be Rs. 1,000. That is not my conviction. But in order to test what regard and love my honourable friends on the other side have for the welfare of the people of this country, I propose as a second alternative, even a higher sum of Rs. 2,500 a month. I bring it higher up but still lower than it was before. According to the last argument that was advanced by my honourable friend Mian Ghulam Moby-ud-Din that in 1927 we proposed Rs. 3,000 a month and it is the same amount that is proposed now, I want to tell him and his comrades through you "You are wiser after 10 years. I say you ought to have been wiser earlier. If you had been agreeable 10 years ago and if you had accepted Rs. 3,000 then the position may not have been as bad as it is to-day. You are not agreeable to

Rs. 500 now. But 10 or 20 years later you will be agreeable to five hundred rupees a month, but the people may not be agreeable even to that amount and propose Rs. 300 or even Rs. 200 a month."

I want to bring to the notice of the House the fact that all our troubles are due to the fact that we are in the grip of two different civilisations. We are governed from London on the standards of England and the people who pay for the Government are tillers of the soil of this country and the workers in this country. They have to pay to the Governors the contribution which is proposed from London. The poor masses of this country had to contribute and will have to contribute towards the fat salaries that were received by people earlier and salaries proposed even to-day. The honourable member who preceded me put forward the argument that in England also the salaries to a certain extent correspond with the salaries here. I would tell him that Britain is far richer than India and the people of that country can afford to pay higher salaries. Considering the comparative richness of England, we cannot compare Britain with India. We cannot compare poverty of India with the riches of Great Britain. If the salaries there are not comparatively as great as the salaries in this country, we have to consider what should be done in the interest of the people of this country.

We have got only this occasion and for a long time this occasion will not recur. It was said in this House that if the financial condition did not allow such salaries, later on the salaries would be reduced. I want to point out to this House that once the salaries have been fixed, so long as the present Ministry continues, the salaries under the Government of India Act, cannot be reduced. So long as the present Ministers continue in office, you cannot change their salaries. You will have to change the personnel before you can amend this Bill.

Another point has been made that the salary bill of the ministers is less than what it amounted to previously. But how many Under-Secretaries are going to be appointed and what will be their emoluments? This is not known as yet, and when at this stage we do not know the condition of the budget—neither the Government nor the opposition have the facts and figures before them—it cannot be said that even this amount can be at all justified. No doubt people may have had previously better standards of income before they came to occupy the Ministerial benches, but the question of questions is that when you are here considering what salaries ought to be given to the Premier or to the Ministers, you ought to bear in mind that there are people in this country who are really the pay-masters. It is those people who are tilling the soil and working in factories and at other places. It is the labourers and workers who have to pay the salaries of the Premier and the Ministers, and it is they who would pay for all other expenses that have to be incurred by the Government. When you consider the position of those people, about whose salaries we are discussing to-day, is it not our duty to consider that there are people, unemployed graduates, educated unemployed and uneducated unemployed in hundreds and thousands? They go about in the country from door to door and office to office but they are unable to get any employment. Now and then we hear of suicides, some one taking poison, some one going to place his head before a running train. Sometimes other methods are adopted. It is this unemployment in the country that is responsible in some cases for acts of terrorism that spring up every now and then. When we deal with this matter we have to deal with the poverty of the peasantry, we have to deal with unemployment, we have to deal with suicide and we have to deal with terrorism and also see that in future the condition of the province does not become worse. Therefore, we must see what is the proper amount that may be allotted to the Ministers who are to run the Government in this province.

I would submit, that in spite of all the efforts that we have made during the last 15 or 16 years, rural indebtedness has not been removed, much of it has not been touched. Conditions have not become better; sanitation has not been improved. We are not able as yet to teach our electors, those who vote for us, how to place a cross mark on the ballot paper. This is the position of our country and our electors, that those electors, who are responsible for sending us to this august Assembly and who are responsible for sending those members on the opposite benches who are forming the majority, and holding ministry, are unable to put a cross mark on the ballot papers. We have to do much in this country in order to make conditions more civilised and I would submit that with all that poverty in the country, with illiteracy and unemployment, it is not justifiable that the party in power should wish to have salaries which may be called fat salaries.

Another point that I would place before this House is that we have been complaining that the salaries of the Indian Civil Service and other Indian services are not in our hands, and that their salaries are being fixed from above. What argument are you going to give to those in higher quarters for reducing the salaries of these services unless your own leaders are prepared to accept smaller salaries. You cannot argue you cannot say that those people who are appointed from above should get lower salaries. When it is in our power to fix smaller salaries for the Ministers, if we fail to do so, how can we say with fairness to the Secretary of State for India, the Prime Minister of England, the Parliament of England, to reduce the salaries of those services?

I would submit, before I close, that in 1927 or earlier a reduction of salaries was proposed and the arguments that have been advanced to-day were advanced then. It was then also said that they have to maintain their status and dignity. It was said that they could not do without such a high salary. But to-day they themselves can reduce the salary to Rs. 3,000 or Rs. 4,000 without injuring the same status and the same dignity but when we propose a further reduction, they are not agreeable. Again, the same old arguments are advanced. In conclusion, I submit that the poverty of the peasantry and the present condition of the country require that the salary should not be more than Rs. 500 a month.

Sardar Sabib Sardar Ujjal Singh (Western Towns, Sikh, Urban): I agree with the Honourable the Leader of the Opposition and I think there can be no two opinions on this point that ours is a very poor country, and that the problem of unemployment stares us in the face and it has to be tackled. For this reason we can ill-afford to pay fat salaries varying from two to six thousand rupees per mensem. But I join issue with him when he says that poverty can be removed or unemployment problem can be solved if we were to pay our officials including the ministers, salaries not exceeding Rs. 500 per mensem. This question of unemployment is a question of worldwide importance. It prevails practically in every country of the world and at the same time many of us know that there have been huge deficits in many other countries amounting to millions of pounds, but no country has ever thought of solving the question of unemployment or of balancing the budget by reducing the salaries of officials to ridiculously low amounts. As a matter of fact I believe and I think rightly that if you reduce the salaries of officials, permanent officials and others to an absurd amount, you will lower the efficiency of your administration and on that account you will not be able to tackle the most important questions deserving consideration at the hands of Government. It is true that a man can live on six annas a day, but how many of us are living on six annas a day. There is one Mahatama Gandhi who is exhibiting that spirit of service who living on six pies a day is doing such tremendous work for the country. In human affairs money is a potent factor as a means to an end. Certainly one must do everything possible in the spirit of service and sacrifice, but every one has got to make both ends meet, and you cannot expect everybody to live on nothing. He must be paid as he has got to maintain a certain standard of living. In discussing the salary of the Ministers an analogy was drawn from England, that in England Ministers are paid five thousand pounds, that is 53 times per capita income, whereas in this province we are proposing to pay 360 times per capita income. This argument if carried to its logical conclusion is a very fallacious one. If it is proposed that we should pay according to per capita income to all our officers and labourers and the skilled workmen, you will find that our wage earners would not be able to earn more than one pie per day.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : They are doing it in England.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : This sort of argument cannot hold good. On the other hand it must be taken into consideration that in England there are 20 cabinet ministers and 23 others including under-secretaries drawing £2,500 to £10,000 per annum.

Lala Duni Chand : That is the big British Empire.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Most certainly. I do not deny that. Comparing the per capita income you must take into consideration the number of Ministers, etc.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : But you are out of touch with the people.

An Honourable Member : Do you know them ?

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Yes. I am working for them. I have made many sacrifices for them. What have you done for them ?

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : In determining the salaries of the Ministers the points to be taken into consideration are, that the salaries should be such as to attract able men to take up the burden of responsibility of the ministerial office. I know that in the profession of law and in the medical profession people are making much more than you are proposing, and even my honourable friend sitting opposite will bear me out that some managing directors of insurance companies are drawing more than what you are proposing for the Ministers (hear, hear). Another point that must be borne in mind is that what you are going to pay to the Ministers will be paid back by them to some extent in the way of taxes. A minister getting three thousand per mensem will have to pay about Rs. 700 per mensem towards income tax and the Chief Minister will have to pay near about one thousand rupees per mensem and that point has not been sufficiently borne in mind.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Let it then be income-tax free.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : If it is income-tax free, then let it be even Rs. 2,500 per mensem. I am game.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : The second point which I wish to place before this House is that the Ministers should be paid a sufficient amount to enable them to maintain a standard of living in keeping with the dignity of their office. If a man has no other means of income it is impossible for him to maintain any decent standard of living on Rs. 500 a month.

Lala Duni Chand : Question.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : My friend the labour leader representing the labour constituency who proposed a salary of Rs. 450, will bear me out that he himself will be paying towards his house rent and towards the expenses of his conveyance more than Rs. 450 per mensem. Is it possible for any man....

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : He is not aspiring for ministership.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : What I am pointing out is this, that it is impossible for any man to maintain a decent standard of living on this low salary of Rs. 500 per mensem, far less to maintain a living in keeping with the dignity of the ministerial office. The third point which I wish to place before this House is this. Other appointments carry with them some pension and the security of tenure is attached to them, but in the case of ministers there is no pension. With regard to security of tenure, it depends on the wish of this House. You might turn the ministers out to-morrow or a day after. There is absolutely no security of tenure, and yet some of you are trying to reduce the salary that is proposed in this Bill. Even the other day the Senate had the free choice of voting a salary for the Vice-Chancellor—a whole time paid officer and the Senate proposed a salary of Rs. 8,000 per mensem. If an educational institution can afford to pay Rs. 8,000 for a whole time officer, I am sure this House will not grudge a salary of Rs. 8,000 per mensem to the ministers who have got to work from morning till evening and particularly the Chief Minister on whom will fall the greatest burden of carrying on the administration. I have to point out with regret that one of the members said that the Chief Minister did not make any sacrifice. If any man has made a sacrifice in accepting this onerous office of Chief Minister, it was Sir Sikander Hyat Khan (Hear, hear). It is a matter of common knowledge that as Deputy Governor of the Reserve Bank he was drawing Rs. 5,500 per mensem and in the very near future he would have been drawing nearly Rs. 7,500 per mensem were he promoted to Governorship of the Bank and yet all of us know very well that he might have accepted the same salary as the other ministers, but his party and the ministers probably did not like him to accept as low a salary as Rs. 8,000. He has made a tremendous sacrifice which ought to be appreciated by the honourable members of this House. I need not dilate much on this question, except to point out that you cannot isolate the ministers from their permanent staff and the officials who have got to work under them. I admit that we are not in a position to reduce the salaries of those permanent members of the civil service. These permanent members of the civil service have got to work under the ministers and the salary of a person carries with it the status and the prestige that he might command. If you fix much lower salaries than the members of the permanent services who have got to work under a minister, you will certainly be lowering his position and his prestige in the eyes of the officials under him and the public outside. With these few remarks I would commend to the House to throw out the amendment and vote for the amount proposed in the Bill.

Malik Barkat Ali (Eastern Towns, Muhammadan, Urban): We all know that there are at the present moment eleven provinces in which autonomous ministers will be set up or are going to be set up under the new constitution. In six out of these eleven provinces the Congress party is in the majority and the leaders of that Congress party have declared in the clearest terms that they are prepared to accept Rs. 500 a month salary for the members of their ministries. May I ask the occupants of the Treasury benches in what respect they are better? Are they more able, are they more efficient? Is their standard of living much higher than the standard of living of some of those who in the spirit of sacrifice are going to accept the ministries in their respective provinces? It has been said that lawyers "make much better incomes," doctors and managers of insurance companies also make much better incomes, why should the ministers then take Rs. 500 when other people are earning higher wages? That consideration will be relevant if it were a question of finding employment for our Ministers. Our Ministers are not candidates for employment (Cheers). Our Ministers will be men who will, in view of their spirit of sacrifice, not be hankering after jobs carrying several thousands a month. I give instances of six provinces which are going to be served by men of the highest calibre that this country can ever produce. I do not cast any aspersions on the occupants of the Treasury benches. I want them to place before their eyes all these facts. I can name the men whom this country reveres, men of whom this country is proud and to whom can apply all these considerations that have been advanced on the other side, namely considerations of prestige, considerations of livelihood, considerations of standard of life and so on and so forth. This is not all. There are other provinces—five of them—which are going to work this constitution on very much the same lines on which the occupants of the Treasury benches opposite mean to work the constitution in this province. What are the salaries that they are going to draw? I had expected that the occupants of the Treasury benches would at least place before this House the various scales of salaries that had been adopted in those five provinces which are going to work the constitution and if those facts and figures had been placed before the House and if the occupants of the Treasury benches or those speaking in their support, giving us the rates of salaries of ministers in those provinces, had said that they would draw salaries less than those drawn by ministers in those provinces, I would certainly have congratulated them and would have appreciated the spirit of sacrifice behind the announcement. We find that in this province, which is comparatively a poor province, the proposal is that the Chief Minister, whoever he may be is going to have Rs. 42,000. I am not considering personalities nor am I referring to the personality of the present Chief Minister. I am speaking purely on principle when I am speaking on this amendment. As a matter of fact the present Chief Minister is in a position to accept nothing for this office in the spirit of sacrifice. (Hear, hear). He does not want Rs. 42,000. He has enough of money with him. I hope other members of the ministry have enough money too in their pockets so as not to care for salary. They would be setting up an example which posterity will remember, if they were to announce that whatever be the vote of this House—they would serve this province free. I leave this aspect of the matter aside. My point is that in five provinces as also in this province people are going to work this constitution on certain lines announced to the world. We know that recently the Premier of the United Provinces, the Nawab of Chhattari—a big man who does not care for money and who is in the same position as the Chief Minister of this province, is willing to accept Rs. 2,500 or Rs. 3,000, for himself and Rs. 2,500 for his colleagues of the ministry. We have offered a chance to our present ministers. We would in the first instance ask them to work at Rs. 500. If they are not prepared to work on Rs. 500, then I would take the proposal of a member of the opposition who suggested Rs. 1,000 a month.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : In Bihar and Orissa it is Rs. 1,000.

Malik Barkat Ali : While some members have suggested a salary of Rs. 500 and others have suggested Rs. 1,000, people like myself have gone higher with an offer of Rs. 2,500 for the Chief Minister and Rs. 2,000 for his colleagues. Do I understand that Rs. 2,000 a month, so far as the members of this Ministry are concerned, is too small—a sum for them to keep the prestige that they want to carry with them and to keep? Do I understand that Rs. 2,500 a month is too low an amount for this province to maintain the dignity of the Chief Minister? I submit, in this province, where autonomy is going to be tried with a great fanfare and with a great deal of praise and thankfulness to those who have inflicted this Government of India Act on this country, if the ministers are true to their professions and if they are anxious that they should serve this province in any spirit of sacrifice, I would then beg them not to fix a standard of salary which would be higher than the standard of salary adopted in those provinces which are going to work this constitution on very much the same lines as it will be worked in this province. I am fully conscious of the fact that in this House there is a very solid and very reliable majority (hear, hear), behind the proposals of the Ministry and if we are at the present moment making these speeches we know for certain that our speeches can not produce any effect to-day. It is really for the members of the Ministry to set an example and to accept a standard of salary which will certainly be reduced to their reputation and will not give the impression that in this poor province of the Punjab a standard of salary is being fixed by the treasury benches with the help of the majority behind them which is much higher than the standard of salary adopted in other provinces.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan (Pind Dadan Khan, Muhammadan, Rural) : Judging from the two speeches made on this Bill, one by my honourable friend, Maulvi Mazhar Ali, and the other by Malik Barkat Ali, it appears that to-day's debate is merely a test debate. Maulvi Mazhar Ali has said that he gave notice of certain amendments not with any genuine desire to move the amendments but merely to test as to what honourable members were going to do. Similarly my honourable friend Malik Barkat Ali said that the sending in of amendments fixing the Ministers' salary at two thousand was merely in the form of a test. Well, I was under the impression that responsible legislators when they send a motion before the House do it after a great deal of consideration and when they genuinely feel that the amendment ought to be made. Where democratic institutions have certain advantages they have got certain disadvantages too. I notice that the Opposition party, i.e., the Congress party find their hands absolutely tied. Neither Malik Barkat Ali nor Maulvi Mazhar Ali nor anybody else for the matter of that, could convince the party that the salary should be fixed at an amount not higher than Rs. 500. If the opposition were an autonomous body and if they were free men to listen to the arguments advanced in favour of the Bill and thus come to a reasonable decision, those who supported this Bill would have spoken with some encouragement, but their orders entirely come from the headquarters and they are merely to carry them out and that is why they say that the salary of a Minister should be fixed at Rs. 500, throughout India. (Honourable members: What is your figure?) My figure is what is contained in the Bill. I will presently prove that that is the only sensible figure.

It was a strange coincidence that while the Convention at Delhi were discussing the criterion of fixing the salary for Ministers, a Bill was before the House of Commons fixing the salary of Ministers there. If we are to brush aside all the sentimental arguments used in the course of the debate I think the real important point comes to what should be the criterion of fixing the salary of Ministers. Only one practical suggestion has been made by my honourable friend from the Congress party. I think he represents the Sialkot urban constituency. He said that per capita income should be the criterion for fixing the salary of Ministers and when somebody made a mention of the salary of Ministers in England he at once said there was such a difference between the per capita income in England and the per capita income here. But I would just invite his attention to an editorial note of the Hindustan Times dated the 27th March, 1937, the date when the Convention met at Delhi to discuss this point. The object of introducing the Bill to raise the salary of Ministers in England was not that their per capita income had increased but it was merely to remove certain serious disadvantages under which the Labour Government had been working. The low salaries of Ministers in England were due to old ideas when only wealthy people who had no concern whatever for salary, high or low they got, took up ministerships, but when the Labour party came into power they found that they were faced with factors which were a source of great inconvenience to them. It is an admitted fact that their Prime Minister had to accept the gift from a friend of a motor car to take him quickly to do his duty. In another case the offer of Colonial Governorship was refused by one of the most competent labour men because he honestly believed that he could not make both ends meet with the salary fixed for the job. Therefore, it is not the per capita income which is the criterion for fixing the salary of Ministers.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : We do not propose to give them Rs. 10, they cannot make both ends meet with Rs. 10. After all there must be some criterion.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : I would readily answer that point. What I was discussing was whether per capita income is the only standard for fixing the salary. This is the reason why they thought it necessary to bring forward a Bill to raise the salaries of Ministers in England. I would just quote a few lines from the Hindustan Times wherein it was stated :—

A sensitiveness to possible criticism of trying to benefit themselves at the cost of the tax-payer stood in the way of this necessary reform for long and Mr. Baldwin deserves to be congratulated on having the courage to bring it up.

It evidently shows that though it was considered necessary that the salaries of Ministers should be increased they were afraid of the press and the platform. It requires always courage to bring forward what one feels his duty to bring.

Coming back to the subject of what criterion should be taken for fixing the salary I would draw the attention of my honourable friends on the opposite benches to another editorial note published by the Tribune, dated the 24th March, 1937. As we are all aware, the Tribune is a nationalist-paper and the views of the Tribune except for occasional lapses, are always considered to be reasonable, moderate and sound. The Tribune naturally has not the courage entirely to disagree with the proposals adopted by the Congress of fixing the salary at Rs. 500. It says that this fixing of Rs. 500, as Minister's salary should be considered merely as a temporary thing; it is only one of the many other things by which the Congress is trying to make a demonstration. It is not a question of seriously laying down what should or should not be the salary of a Minister. The Tribune says that this should be considered merely as a passing phase: the real criterion of fixing the salary should be four according to the Tribune. It says—

The whole question will have to be gone into scientifically and the salaries of Ministers will have to be fixed with due regard (1) to their responsibilities, (2) to the salaries drawn by the members of the various services under their control, (3) to the average income of successful members of learned professions who are drawn from the same classes as they and have the same intellectual and moral calibre, and last but not least, (4) to the cost of the process of education, both academic and other, through which the Ministers have had to pass in order to equip themselves for the responsibilities of their office.

These are the criteria laid down by the Tribune. Now the question is whether it is only the Tribune which lays down these criteria and, whether these criteria are of a recent growth or whether they have the support of the Congress too. I will presently show that these criteria were fully endorsed at one time by the Congress itself. I cannot advance a more convincing argument than to quote the opinion of one whose sacrifices in the cause of the country, whose outstanding ability and whose towering personality have not been so far exceeded by any Indian in this country—I mean the late Pandit Moti Lal, Nehru. I just happened to come across the proceedings of the Legislative Assembly for 1925 when the Salary Bill fixing the salary of the first non-official President of the Assembly was brought forward. Pandit Moti Lal Nehru was the Leader of the Swaraj Party in the Assembly then. Naturally, as we find to-day, notice of about half a dozen amendments was given. One amendment tried to reduce the salary from Rs. 4,000 to Rs. 3,000, another intended to reduce it to Rs. 2,000 and so on. But no one suggested the Rs. 500 salary. (An honourable member: I may inform the honourable member that Rs. 500 was decided upon in Karachi in 1931). This would be a very convincing argument for those who are blind followers of the Congress. (An honourable member: Or of the Unionist Party). I am referring to the year 1925, when the President's Salary Bill was brought forward before the Assembly. Since that time the salary of the President has been fixed at Rs. 4,000, and in spite of the fact that the Congress in the Assembly at the present day are in great strength and the item regarding the salary of the President is a votable item they have never even moved a cut with regard to the President's salary. Karachi has passed, the Convention has passed, but the salary of the President (Rs. 4,000), is still there. I, personally think the Congress was perfectly justified in fixing the salary of the President at Rs. 4,000. In the Congress Convention not a word was uttered against the salary of the President. Why?

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava: I may inform the honourable members that at Karachi the maximum pay even for the Viceroy was fixed at not more than Rs. 500.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan: Was it given effect to?

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava: Let us have the power of voting his salary and we will do it.

Diwan Chaman Lall: Does the honourable member know that no resolution regarding the Governor-General's salary can be moved in the Assembly?

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan: I did not catch the honourable member.

Diwan Chaman Lall: My learned friend was asking whether any resolution had been passed or moved in the Assembly by the Congress regarding the salary paid to the Governor-General. I wanted to draw attention to the fact that no such resolution can be moved.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan: I was only talking about the Speaker's salary.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava: If he is referring to the salary of the President, I may point out that when the Congress did put a Congress President into the Assembly, the major portion of his salary was paid to Mahatama Gandhi.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan: I do hope that the Honourable Ministers here in the Punjab will also make very liberal contributions, not necessarily to Mahatama Gandhi but to some other mahatama (Ministerial cheers). I may assure my honourable friends on the opposite benches that I have no intention of merely debating a point that I am in the right. I would ask you to seriously and sincerely consider whether that opinion expressed by the late Pandit Moti Lal Nehru can be easily brushed aside. I would inform my friends Diwan Chaman Lall and Mr. Ahmad Bakhsh that the great leader of labour in India, Mr. Joshi also supported the salary bill and opposed the cuts which wanted to reduce the Speaker's salary from Rs. 4,000 to Rs. 3,000. (An honourable member: Mr. Joshi is a labour bourgeois.). The Congress says that we should fix the salaries at Rs. 500. The idea of fixing of Rs. 500 is just to create another political stunt in the country. I must pay the greatest compliments to the Congress brains. They have got some of the best brains in India in their ranks. They knew exactly what the Governors were going to do with regard to the matter of interference and they could see ahead and they knew it was all a farce. It was a device which was meant merely to bring the two schools of thought together, I mean the pro-acceptance school and the anti-acceptance school. They did not care in the least for the assurance. It was merely a political stunt and any decision taken in that spirit should not be taken as a serious decision, which should guide the honourable members in such an august House as this Legislature. I shall quote just four lines, with your permission, from the opinion of the late Pandit Moti Lal Nehru. He said: "I differ from the proposition that it should be a tempting salary." Here, Sir, I would whole-heartedly endorse the remarks made by the Honourable Leader of the House when he said that we are not here for getting high salaries, we are here to serve our people. Therefore, whatever salary may be passed by the House, the Ministers would readily accept and work on those salaries. Pandit Moti Lal Nehru said:—

The temptation for the President should lie in the service he is called upon to render and not in the salary which he is likely to get. But I recognise that the President, like all other human beings, has got to live. He has got to maintain a position; if you like to call it dignity you may.

Even if the Pandit had left these words there, the interpreters of the modern times would have interpreted them in the same light too, but he went further—

But I think that, if the salary is put at anything between Rs. 2,000 and Rs. 3,000, it ought to be quite enough for all the purposes which we have in contemplation.

(An honourable member: Are you prepared to accept Rs. 2,000)? No, I am not. (An honourable member: The honourable member is quoting past history. Much water has flown under the bridge since then). I would expect my honourable friends to have a little patience. The post of the President was only for the session. Out of session he could go to Bombay and he did use to go to Bombay. My honourable friend Diwan Chaman Lal cannot deny that. I will now face him with another debate which took place seven days later when the question was moved that the President should be debarred from taking part in any other business involving remuneration. It was the late Pandit Moti Lal Nehru who said that the President, though he may not preside over the joint stock companies should be allowed to preside over such institutions as banking committees when the Assembly was not in session and be allowed to draw remuneration for the same. The President had the double advantage of not being a whole-time Government servant and not being compelled to remain at Government headquarters when the Assembly was not in session. It was even in those circumstances that Pandit Moti Lal Nehru said that anything between Rs. 2,000 and Rs. 3,000 was good enough as a salary for the President of the Assembly. I would ask the honourable member from Sialkot to tell me honestly whether the per capita income of India has decreased since 1925. Those were the days when the provincial governments were demanding the remission of provincial contributions. (Interruption). It will give me great pleasure to reply to my honourable friend Diwan Chaman Lall, if I had time to do so.

Mr. Speaker : If an honourable member makes a statement which is considered to be incorrect by another honourable member, the latter may correct the former immediately.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : If my honourable friend wants to divert me into questions of finance and ratios, I must admit that I do not know much about them. I must, therefore, confine myself to the simple question which is now before the House. In order to satisfy Diwan Chaman Lall I should like to quote a few lines from a speech of Mr. Joshi, because I know that Mr. Joshi's opinion always carries weight with the labour representatives. (An honourable member : No, Sir). He says—

I differ from the proposition that it should be a tempting salary.

He further says—

I am the last person to say that while we are engaged on a public duty we should not make a sacrifice. But I hold that any sacrifice which a man may be called upon to make should be a perfectly voluntary sacrifice and not a compulsory sacrifice. If any President whom we may choose finds that the salary of Rs. 4,000 is too much for him, I shall give him a helping hand in reducing the burden of the salary.

I am sure my friends here in the Unionist Party will also be prepared to do the same. I would, therefore, appeal to the honourable members and particularly those who believe that this constitution should be worked for what it is worth. There is none of us who believes that this constitution gives us all that we wanted. There is none of us who believes that the financial condition of the masses is not such as to require remedies. There is none of us who believes that we should try our level best to reduce the burden of taxation particularly on the rural classes. We do believe that the salaries are very high. We want to reduce them. But that does not mean that the salaries of Ministers should be fixed at a figure which will not attract the best brains. You cannot always find people to fill the post of Ministers always endowed with a self-sacrificing spirit.

I am very grateful to honourable members for giving such a patient hearing to what I have said. I am sorry to note that the hands and feet of my honourable friends opposite are tied by the Congress mandate. Otherwise I am sure they would have supported our view. However, I would request them to take a more practical view of the whole question and support the Bill as it is.

Diwan Chaman Lall (East Punjab, Non-Union Labour) : My learned friend, Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan has done a great service to the opposition in raising matters which are of great moment. I think it is necessary for the opposition to give a considered reply to his very able speech. But, before I deal with my learned friend's speech, let me say this that in this debate it is absolutely essential that no personal factor should enter into any remarks that may be made by any member. (Hear, hear). Let me also say this that no matter who occupies the Treasury benches, each one of us on the Opposition benches is convinced that every member of the Treasury bench must be treated with the respect that he deserves, that respect with which the Treasury benches should treat the Opposition benches. Therefore, eliminating all personal factors, let us look at the main proposition. The Leader of the House stated, and it is a very important remark which must be emphasised, that as far as he was concerned he would leave it to the discretion and decision of the House whether the salary shall be fixed at Rs. 500 or more. I take it that that was the statement of the Leader of the House. My friend Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan twitted us by saying that we were not free to vote as we pleased. That statement of his needs a reply and that reply is this: Are the Leader of the House and my friend, Raja Ghazanfar Ali, prepared to leave this matter to the free vote of the House? (Hear, hear). It is no good saying 'yes' when a whip has been issued. When a question was put to Raja Ghazanfar Ali, bound by the mandate of the Unionist Party, as to what salary he would suggest, he said, 'my opinion is what is contained in the Bill.' He is not himself free to vote as he likes. He is bound by the mandate of the Unionist Party.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan: I hope my honourable friend will give me permission to point out one thing to him. There is a difference between the two parties. The Unionist Party has got power to convene a meeting in two minutes and revise its decision, whereas the honourable members of the Congress Party have to wire to Allahabad for revising its attitude.

Diwan Chaman Lall: The Unionist Party sprang up only yesterday and it is confined to this particular chamber. But the Congress is a nationwide party. It is not a party confined to this chamber only. (Cheers). My learned friend referred to the debates in the Legislative Assembly and to what Pandit Moti Lal Nehru said in fact in the year 1925. But what a great difference between 1925 and 1937! There is no similarity between these two situations. You might just as well have asked: What Pandit Moti Lal Nehru's opinions were in 1914. During this period many empires have fallen. During this period there have been two waves of civil disobedience in this country. The conditions have changed enormously. Further, it is true that the late Pandit Moti Lal Nehru stated that he was prepared to accept a salary between Rs. 2,000 and Rs. 3,000 which he considered to be adequate for the President of the Legislative Assembly. Yet, as I pointed out to my learned friend, the late Mr. V. J. Patel, when he became President of the Assembly took only Rs. 500 a month for his expenses and the rest of the salary was utilised for national purposes (Cheers). He put into actual practice what we want the Ministers to do by means of our amendment (Cheers). That is the reply to my learned friend, Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan.

There is one other little matter my learned friend raised a little while ago. That matter relates to the question, whether the per capita income of the people of India has actually decreased or increased.

It is very pertinent to raise the question of per capita income. I am indebted to my honourable friend Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt for having raised this matter. Why was it raised? Because the disparity between the poverty stricken people on the one side and those who are in the highest grade is greater in India than in any other country in the world.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan: Question. Between the poorest and the richest?

Diwan Chaman Lall : Let me give him a few facts. The disparity between the two in Denmark is 1—12 ; in Sweden 1—22 ; In Japan 1—22 ; in India 1—500.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : The honourable member has not understood me. I said the disparity between the richest and the poorest. You will not find many people in this country dying of cold or for want of shelter as in the streets of London or Paris.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I wish my honourable friend the Leader of the House had not made that remark. My honourable friend does not look at even newspapers which periodically report about people actually dying of starvation every day. He seems to be completely divorced from realities and the economic and financial situation of the country. I have shown the disparity between the salaries, the lower and the higher salaries. The reason why this amendment has been moved is in order to draw vividly the attention of the people of this province to the disparity of the salaries that exist between the highest and the lowest in this country. My honourable friend Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt referred to the question of per capita income. I am afraid that although there are many economists on the Treasury benches, and one a famous economist, nevertheless, the rank and file of the party opposite apparently are not aware of the actual situation as it prevails in the Punjab. There has been a decrease in the income of the people of this province. From the year 1928-29 to 1931-32 there has been a drop in the prices of the staple commodities of this province of 51 per cent. and the average peasant who lives upon the prices he can get of the staple commodities, therefore, has had a decrease in income by 51 per cent. Professor Brij Narain who is an acknowledged authority on these matters has stated publicly that a census taken of ten districts in the Punjab has shown that between those periods the average per capita income has gone down from Rs. 34, odd annas and odd pies to Rs. 7, odd annas and odd pies. Is that a fact worth considering or not ? Is it a fact on which my learned friend ought to place some reliance or not ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : That is merely an opinion. But there are facts in possession of Government and I believe the honourable member is right when he says that it has gone down by nearly 40 to 50 per cent.

Diwan Chaman Lall : If that is so, I take it that my honourable friend, the Leader of the House, entirely agrees with the contention of my friends. Let me give him the actual facts from Government sources. In 1918 taking the price of staple commodities to be 100, in 1928 it was 145 ; in 1933 it came down to 88. This is exactly a 51·2 per cent. drop in the price of staple commodities in the Punjab. If that is a fact and it is not challenged, it is accepted by the Leader of the House I take it, it is a matter which Treasury benches should regard with great care and due circumspection. I do think that the position being what it is the question should be viewed not from the narrow point of view of what is necessary for a particular member of the Treasury benches to uphold his dignity and prestige but it should be looked at with the picture of the poverty stricken masses of the Punjab on the one side and the amount that it is possible to give to the Ministers on the other. What is the position of the peasant ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Poverty stricken representative of Labour.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I started by saying that I would not refer to personalities. I am quite ready to retrofit. I intended to leave out all personalities. But if my honourable friend is anxious that I should take up personal matters—

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Not a personal matter.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Then I will ignore his interruption. I take it that the position is that in the Punjab to-day the great mass of the people are poverty stricken. I take it that these salaries which are going to be paid to the members of the Treasury benches are to be drawn mainly from the pockets of the poverty stricken peasantry of the Punjab (Hear, hear). Out of a budget of nearly 10 crores—my honourable friend will challenge me if I am wrong—nearly 9 crores come directly out of the pockets of the peasantry. If this is correct, then let us have a look at the condition of the peasantry out of whose pockets my learned friends over there wish to give themselves salaries at the rate of Rs. 42,000 and Rs. 36,000 a year. Is it true that the condition of the peasantry which is going to be the paymaster of my learned friends over there does not warrant that such high salaries should be paid to them? Does it warrant that a single pie should be drawn out of the poverty stricken peasantry of this province? There are two points, therefore, one in regard to the actual condition of the peasantry which I shall deal with in a minute and the other is this: it has been said by one of the speakers on the Government benches that there has been really an economy in regard to the Salary Bill that has been presented before this House; what was paid before is not paid now but something less is being paid now. There are two ways of looking at it. One is certainly that the honourable Leader of the House has undoubtedly done the right thing in drawing less than what he was drawing before. There is no doubt about that. It is a fact. But looking at the total bill, the amount to be paid by the peasantry to the Treasury benches, is that Bill less to-day or more than before the reforms were introduced?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Less.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Let us see. Before this there were 5 Ministers, members and Ministers, who were drawing Rs. 5,000, I take it, a month each. That is a sum of 3 lakhs a year. They had their secretaries whom I am leaving out of account for the moment. To-day the Ministers will be drawing at the rates which they are demanding under the Bill, a sum of Rs. 3,18,000. (Interruption). This includes the salaries of their secretaries that are going to be appointed which I take will be Rs. 1,000 a month. (Interruption). Let us not hide facts. If this is the amount they are going to draw it comes to more than 3 lakhs. Then we have got to consider not only whether there is individual economy but whether the actual total expenditure is not going to be more. If we add the salaries of the Secretaries it will increase by a sum of Rs. 72,000 and the total will come to about Rs. 3,18,000. This is the actual reduction!

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : How?

Diwan Chaman Lall : I will work out the figure for my learned friend. If it is his wish that I should give it in black and white I shall do so. Rupees 42,000 is one figure. Add to it Rs. 36,000 multiplied by 5 that is, Rs. 1,80,000. The total comes to Rs. 2,22,000. Add Rs. 24,000 for rentals. Add Rs. 72,000 for their Secretaries. (An honourable member : How do you assume that ?) We assume that. We will be presented with another Bill.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : The Secretaries were there before.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Those Secretaries still remain there in the Secretariat. Some of the members are still in the Secretariat drawing those enormous salaries. I am not reckoning them at all. The total Bill comes, with the allowances which the honourable members opposite are demanding, to Rs. 2,46,000 including the rentals that they are demanding in lieu of furnished houses, plus Rs. 72,000 for their Secretaries.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : If the honourable member is assuming the salaries of the Secretaries he may also assume that we have also to pay to the honourable members who come here and, therefore, the Bill will go up much higher.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Members are not going to be paid more than what they were paid before.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Their number has increased.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Certainly. You claim that it was economy to bring in salaries of this nature and I am proving that far from there resulting an economy, Rs. 2,46,000 is what the Ministers will get and Rs. 72,000 is what their Secretaries will get. Where is the economy ? Either I am a very poor mathematician or my learned friends have forgotten their arithmetic. This enormous sum is going out of the pockets of the peasantry of this province. One member was saying, we have produced an economy budget. He must have strange notions of what economy means.

I do submit, Sir, that these facts and figures go to prove only one thing, that is, as far as the people of this province are concerned, they are not, in this matter, the real arbiters of what is going to happen. Well, your proposition was never put before the electorate. You never told the electorate that those were the high salaries that you are going to demand. As a matter of fact, the only party which put this matter before the electorate was the Congress Party. What Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava desired and wanted was this. Although his own party has put this matter before the electorate, the other party also should have gone to the electorate and placed the matter before it. (Cheers.)

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : Do I understand that the Congress Party put this matter before the electorates before their elections ? Did they decide that they were going to accept offices before their elections ? (Honourable members : Yes, yes.)

Diwan Chaman Lall : My learned friend must realise that I have not opened a school to teach him politics. But he should be aware of the fact that long ago the Congress passed a resolution that offices will be held by Congress nominees on a salary of not more than five hundred rupees a month and specifically placed this matter before the electorate.

[Diwan Chaman Lall.]

Now the second item upon which the gaze of the members should be fixed is the actual position of the peasantry, and this is a very serious matter. It is now granted that every burden is going to fall on the backs of the peasantry. Let us see whether the peasantry is in a position to pay these salaries or not. The budget shows that nine out of ten crores directly come out of the pocket of the peasantry. I believe Sir John Maynard was once a very important official of the Government and, I believe, of this House. (An honourable member : He was the Finance Member.) Yes, he was the Finance Member. Well, in his place we have got an elected member as the Finance Member. Let us see what he has to say about the condition of the peasantry. Sir John Maynard said that 60 per cent. of the population of the Punjab is suffering from malnutrition and another 30 per cent. from actual poverty, which means starvation. This is the opinion of no less an authority with an extensive experience as a civilian than Sir John Maynard, meaning that 90 per cent. of the population of this province is living upon the starvation line. Sir Thomas Holderness said that 5 acres of good irrigated land will keep a family just out of starvation. I do not know that my honourable friends opposite know this but they will become aware of it in a few days, when they look into their files—I do not know whether they are aware yet—that practically 72 per cent. of the population of this province comes within that category. That means that even according to British authorities—unimpeachable authorities—the condition of the peasantry is almost beyond redemption. But my learned friends over there want to put an extra burden upon the breaking backs of the poor of this province. Does my learned friend opposite know that apart from this fact that 72 per cent. of the holdings of this province are uneconomic and, therefore, unable to provide sufficiently for the people of this province from whom this taxation, this money is to be levied? Is he aware that whereas Europe, for the sake of feeding the population, over and above the acreage for food, imports large quantities of food and yet the average acreage for food purposes per head is $2\frac{1}{2}$ acres in Europe and that in this great agricultural province of the Punjab with marvellous irrigation works, the total acreage per head is $\frac{2}{3}$ th of an acre for food purposes? The result, as a great economist has said, is malnutrition in every village in the Punjab. My honourable friend who has just sat down mentioned the fact that there has been an increase in the income of the peasantry. Far from there being an increase in the income of the peasantry, as my learned friend Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan suggested—

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : I never suggested that there has been an increase in the income of the peasantry. What I probably said was that there has been no particular change in per capita income during the last 5 years.

Diwan Chaman Lall : You say no change. Well, there has been a terrible change for the worse. Take the question of indebtedness. My friend has got eminent authorities here in the Punjab—Government servants—who can go into this matter and publish their report. It will show that the indebtedness of the peasantry of the Punjab has increased. Between 1921 and 1930, that is 9 years it increased from 90 crores to 140 crores.

Does that show that there has been an increase in the income of the population of the province? It shows a gradual emasculation of this element in the nationhood of India, namely, the Punjab peasantry.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : The honourable member would, I think, make it clear in terms of production.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Whether it is in terms of production or cash, the position has deteriorated.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Certainly, remedy it.

Diwan Chaman Lall : That is just what I am driving at. The deterioration of the peasant has been of a most desperate nature and, therefore, requires desperate remedies. You want to place burdens, which are extraordinary burdens, upon the breaking backs of the peasantry. Let us look at it from another point of view. I have not the slightest doubt in my mind that the Punjab to-day is being governed by about a hundred families, some of which are represented on the Treasury benches with the assistance of half a dozen banks. They are wanting to draw high salaries. Do they know what it represents? The total amount of their salaries is equal to the earnings of 50 thousand peasants. Do they know that 50 thousand peasant families will have to starve on account of these high salaries?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Question.

Diwan Chaman Lall : My friend opposite says 'question.' But what do the facts prove?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Expenditure per capita according to the figures of my honourable friend opposite would come to one-seventh of a pie per head.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I know all about per capita incomes and expenditure. There was the original estimate of Lord Curzon about our per capita income which my learned friend over there ought to know about. William Digby estimated the income per capita at one anna a day. There was an estimate by Findlay Shirras regarding the per capita income.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I was not talking of per capita income at all but of expenditure per capita.

Diwan Chaman Lall : When the per capita income is one anna I would like to know what the expenditure would be?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : It is more.

Diwan Chaman Lall : It is more. I can say it is certainly more than one anna. The progressive indebtedness of the peasantry of the Punjab proves that it is so. I was looking at the expenditure when I was referring to the gradual increase of indebtedness from 90 crores to 140 crores. Now I state that my learned friends over there will be guilty of starving 50 thousand peasant families in the Punjab by drawing the salaries they intend to draw.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Question.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I will prove that fact because the honourable the Leader of the House questions it. Everything he says must certainly, in my opinion, be regarded with due respect and care, but that does not mean that he is correct. In 10 districts of the Punjab recently the net income fell from, from 1928-29-31, Rs. 32-8-3 to Rs. 7-13-4, that being the net income. If we divide the figures that I have given, of the total salary and allowances to be drawn by the Treasury benches among 50 thousand individuals it will represent Rs. 7 per head net income. Fifty thousand families will starve to pay these salaries.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : What a fallacious argument.

Diwan Chaman Lall : It is not a fallacy for the poor peasant to be robbed of his food. It is a stark naked reality.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : If he was paying Rs. 5, he will pay Rs. 4-8-0 or Rs. 4-12-0.

Diwan Chaman Lall : True. You are distributing it over the whole and entire population. I was attempting to show you in a picturesque manner what the result of your action is going to be in order to soften your hardened hearts, in order to pierce your hearts. Fifty thousand human beings will starve as a result of this very Bill. My honourable friend over there says that they will consider this matter with care. There is one honourable member on those Benches, who has announced, as I understand from the papers, but I do not know how far it is true, that he will not touch this salary. Amongst the gentlemen who desire to draw that salary, there is certainly one on those benches, who does not need this salary. I take it that other members will fall in with the view that we have expressed and work in the service of Punjab nation and work for not more than Rs. 500 a month, which we are offering them. If they intend to serve, let them serve without looking to the job, but rather to the service of the country. I want by this amendment to change the mentality of the Treasury benches. I want to ask them to accept this salary, not looking at it as a job, but in service of the country; and not for payment as is known in commercial circles, but because you are called upon to serve the people and the province to the best of your ability without looking towards the commercial gain. There is no other principle and the question, therefore, becomes one of two aspects. The idea to serve for the sake of service and the idea to acquire a position—no matter what happens—and of finding a job. It is not going to be an easy job. It is going to be a very arduous job. Let us look at it from another point of view. Any honest member of the opposition who takes his duty seriously, an equally arduous duty, will be engaged in the business of law making day after day in this Chamber in the same manner as the honourable members opposite. With an experience of 8 years in the Central Legislature, my honourable friend Raja Ghazanfar Ali will bear me out, we took our duty seriously in the service of our motherland. Inside the Chamber we devoted our time to work and devoted our full time—16 hours a day sometimes—in the service of our motherland, and if we, on this side of the House are entitled to Rs. 15 as maximum daily allowance, on what other grounds are the honourable members opposite demanding anything more? Why should they demand anything more? (Cheers.) Now, they are at present demanding extras as monthly rental to the maximum extent of Rs. 500 per mensem.

(Laughter.) This is not a laughing matter. This is a serious matter, a very serious matter. It is contended that on the opposite benches there are professional men, men who have other jobs to do, but who are quite willing to give up their jobs for the service of their motherland. They can be content with a maximum allowance of Rs. 15. Why should not the honourable members opposite be content with a similar allowance. I cannot see where the argument for keeping up their prestige and dignity comes in. The Honourable premier of this province is going to be paid Rs. 42,000 a year, and I believe he is going to be paid another Rs. 6,000 a year for rent. That is what the Bill provides. And I take it that the majority party of this House will accept it. I may tell him that I believe, the President of the greatest democratic country in the world and the richest democratic country in the world, I mean the United States of America used to receive Rs. 45,000 per annum as his allowance.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Are you quite sure? He lives in White House. He is provided free service, free conveyance and many other amenities and facilities. This should not be left out.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : The White House is a small house; smaller than the house in which you are living. I have seen that myself and I have seen yours also.

Diwan Chaman Lall : After this very interesting dialogue between the Leader of the House and my learned friend, I may be permitted to continue my argument. It is perfectly true, he is given a free house known as the White House, but in reckoning the sum of Rs. 48,000 I am also reckoning rupees six thousand to be paid in lieu of a free furnished house, and as far as my knowledge goes there is not a single house in Lahore worth that much.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Or in Simla?

Diwan Chaman Lall : I include a free furnished house. But look at the other side of the picture.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Not including.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Perfectly so. No cooks, no khansama, no bearer (laughter). But look to the colossal difference. A population of 23 million people, poverty stricken, producing the corn which they cannot themselves eat, producing cloth which they are not allowed to wear, building magnificent buildings but themselves living in mud-huts, twenty-three million people in the Punjab, on the other side is the richest and the greatest democracy of 130 million people, the financial centre of the world today (London used to be). One cent drop in the price of wheat in New York affects the peasantry here. So powerful is that democracy financially that one little drop in the futures of cotton in New York affects the life of every peasant in the Punjab. So powerful is their commercial and financial system, so great are these people economically and financially! and my learned friend wishes to compare himself with President Roosevelt (laughter), compare his own position with the position of the leader of the greatest democracy in the world and he wishes to compare the position of the poverty stricken people of the Punjab with the American nation resilient now after all their troubles of a few years ago! But why go so far away as to consider the position of President Roosevelt? What is the salary of the Prime Minister of Japan? It comes to Rs. 7,488 per annum. My learned friend here has helped me in working out figures from yen to rupees. Does my learned friend wish to compare his own position with that of Prime Minister of Japan?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : No. (Laughter.)

Diwan Chaman Lall : I wish he did. If he did compare his position with the Prime Minister of Japan what would be the result? The result would be that he would accept Rs. 7,488, as the salary instead of what he demands. Let me go round the question once more. Let me look at another country. My learned friend will admit there is one great advantage that we have in the present Premier that he is always upto date, that he always reads up to date literature particularly economic literature. Therefore I draw his attention to what is happening in other countries. Take Russia. Stalin, the leader of the Russian nation, the virtual dictator of Russia with a population of over 160 million people. What is the salary that Stalin is drawing? Only about five hundred rupees a month (Cheers). That is the salary that Stalin and other Russian Ministers are drawing today.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : But the honourable member must remember that in Russia every poor labourer and everybody like the honourable member himself go and take a coupon for getting their food supply.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I am very sorry that I was premature in the compliment that I paid to my learned friend the Leader of the House (Cheers). It appears that he has lost the habit of keeping in touch with international affairs, because if he had not lost that habit, he would know that the position of the Russian nation is today that of the second greatest industrial nation in the world, America being the first. And he must know how this happened. How has Russia from being an illiterate nation, a fifth rate nation, we are probably the ninth rate nation, become one of the greatest nations of the world today? It is only because of the sacrifices of its leaders (Cheers). They refused to continue the traditions of the Czars and take salaries paid to the Ministers under the Czars. This is exactly what I am advising my learned friends on the Treasury benches to do, to be humble. They must not get swollen-headed or puffed up with the pride with the idea that they have a majority of 118 at their back. They must consider that there is a watching electorate outside ("hear, hear" from Opposition benches) and that electorate is going to judge them not by what they say but by what they do. What they are doing today is not in the interests of the electorate. They must consider that the time for reckoning is bound to come and they will know that it will come in more ways than my learned friends are aware of and they must provide for that and in every act of theirs and particularly this act of theirs they must not forget that naked starving figure of the Punjab peasant (Loud cheers).

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani (Muzaffargarh North, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): We had been feeling that the Punjab was suffering from serious ailments and that we should try and secure the aid of efficient and expert doctors to cure our patient.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: On a point of order. May I know if the honourable member who is speaking over there has no knowledge of English or whether the rule applies only to those who sit on these benches and not to those sitting on other benches?

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani: No one knows better than myself as to whether I am sufficiently acquainted with the English language or not. My honourable friend would have been justified in raising this objection if he had had in his possession any degree or diploma of my English examination, or had been my examiner in any examination. I do not know the English language sufficiently to express my views in that language.

Mr. Speaker: May I know if the honourable member has passed no examination?

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani (Urdu): No University examination, Sir.

Mr. Speaker: Not even the middle school examination?

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani (Urdu): I have been a member of the Punjab Legislative Council for the past six years and you may remember I have always been speaking in Urdu. The picture which has been painted by my honourable friends of the opposition reveals that our patient is suffering from complicated and acute diseases and is almost incurable. The result of their diagnosis is most alarming. Now the question is whether we should secure efficient medical aid by spending a reasonable amount of money in order to get the best treatment for our patient or content ourselves by sending our patient to a charity hospital or leaving him in the hands of quacks and amateurs, in order to save money. My own view is that the life of our patient is too precious to be played with and that we should not grudge a reasonable amount of expense for securing expert advice and efficient treatment.

Let me point out at the very outset that democratic government is not the cheapest form of Government and if we are keen to have a system of responsible democratic government we should be prepared to pay the legitimate expenses which it entails. If the object of my friends is to have the cheapest form of government alone they should better revive the obsolete form of administration which used to exist in the province in pre-reforms days when a Lieutenant-Governor, with the aid of Chief Secretary, a "Mir Munshi" and one Financial Commissioner used to administer the whole province. Under a democratic system of government there is bound to be a certain amount of duplication of work and hence an increase in the cost of administration. My friends cannot have their bread buttered on both sides. They cannot have the cheapest form of administration and responsible democratic government at the same time. The opposition has proposed a salary of Rs. 500 per month for a Minister. In support of this view they have suggested that the income per capita should form the basis for fixing the salaries of Ministers. I am afraid, I do not agree with this fallacious view. If this theory is accepted no worker would get a living wage and the wages calculated on this basis will be ridiculous and impracticable. It was suggested by one of the honourable members that the dignity and the status of a person does not depend on the amount of salary he gets. He suggested that Mahatma Gandhi, who enjoys the greatest respect from amongst Indians, lives only on six pice a day. I have great respect and admiration for that great national leader, but let me point out with due deference that Mahatama Gandhi's 6 pice seem to be equivalent to £6 in value. He may be spending only 6 pice on himself from his own pockets, but the nation pays heavily for his fasts and sicknesses. Whenever he is ill he is provided with the best available medical advice and free treatment. I remember his convalescence stay at Poona cost his hostess several thousand rupees. His fruit diet alone, I am sure, far exceeds the limit of 6 pice a day. Mahatmaji's six pice a day do not, I am sure, cover his travelling expenses and other necessities of life. It is therefore clear that his expenses are several times over the income per capita in India but also his own earnings per day. Six pice a day cannot buy even the quantity of fruit, pure honey and goat milk, which is consumed by the great leader, not to say of other necessities of life for himself and his family, but if it does, I think, his holy coins must be valued at their weight in gold. Do my friends of the Congress Party expect our Ministers to be treated by the people as Mahatmaji is treated? I am sure, our Ministers would welcome a pocket money of Rs. 500 a month supplemented with all the requirements for themselves and their families, but I am afraid this arrangement will be far more expensive than the pay that has been suggested in the Bill under consideration. If we keep the salaries of Ministers low, the choice of Ministers will be restricted either to the capitalists and rich members of the aristocracy who enter politics merely as a hobby, or people of inferior intellect and capacity and political adventurers. In my humble opinion this would be an unwise policy. If we wish to secure the services of efficient, able and honest persons who enjoy the confidence of the people and possess administrative experience, capacity, courage and independence, we shall have to pay them a salary which may be commensurate with the requirements of their every day life, having regard to their environments and the standard of living which they will be expected to maintain. It would not be correct to engage a low paid engineer in a factory, because the labourers in the factory get low wages. It would be more profitable to have an expert engineer to run the factory efficiently and thus increase the profits and save the machinery from break down. If the profits are increased, the labourers will get better wages and the share-holders will get a better return on their investments. It would be false economy to engage a low paid engineer who may not have the capacity to manage or control the factory.

We and the Congress have different ways of doing things. The Congress and we both claim to work for the uplift of the masses and the rural population. The remedy which the Congress has suggested for ameliorating the peasants from their sufferings is by seizing their lands and relieving them from this source of trouble and worry. It reminds me of an anecdote. Once a person who was suffering from headache for a long time went to a quack and asked for a remedy for his unbearable malady. The physician suggested chopping off his head in order to remove the root cause of the pain saying "there would be no pain, when there is no head." (laughter).

Our Congress friends seem to follow this method, but we on the other hand wish to relieve the peasants of their trouble, without depriving them of their lands and possessions. We do not propose to run the administrative machinery of the province on a charitable basis. We wish to run the administration in a businesslike manner. Our object is to ensure full value to the share-holders of this great business concern on their investments and to secure for the taxpayer increased facilities and amenities of life. It has been truly remarked that the poor cultivator contributes to the extent of nine-tenths of the total revenue of the province, while he does not get even a one-tenth share of the beneficent activities of the Government. All the big colleges, hospitals, good roads and other amenities of life are centered in towns for the benefit of people who contribute not even one-tenth of the taxes. The Unionist Party have been trying in the past to get an equitable distribution of these facilities in the rural areas and it is our declared policy that we shall strive to remove this anomaly. We wish to distribute the profits equitably to each of the share-holders in this business concern, according to the value of his share and we shall endeavour to declare increased dividend on their investments. We do not wish to hoodwink the people by playing on their sentiments and showing them that we have reduced a few thousand rupees a month from the salary bills of our Ministers. I am sure they would not be satisfied by this kind of false economy. What they expect us to do is to equalize the burden of taxation, give them better and increased facilities for education, public health and medical relief, better roads and better amenities of life. We are determined to raise their standard of living by increasing their income. We propose to develop cottage industries, provide better facilities for marketing, improve our agriculture, introduce crop planning on scientific basis, check wastage in Government Departments and enforce rigid economy in the cost of administration as far as it is consistent with efficiency. For a task of such gigantic nature we naturally require the services of efficient and honest people. We do not grudge spending a reasonable amount of money for securing their services. It would be false economy to curtail this expenditure at the cost of efficiency. We should not forget another important point which is of great significance. The Congress has declared that by entering the legislature they propose to wreck the new constitution, while the Unionist Party's policy is out to work the new constitution in spite of its limitation, to the best advantage of the country and the people. So it is clear that the work of the Congress is of a destructive nature and that of the Unionist Party is of a constructive nature. The Congress has proposed a salary of Rs. 500 for their Ministers to pull down the structure of reforms, while we are engaging our Ministers to build the edifice on the foundations of the Reforms Act. There is bound to be a difference in the wages of a labourer who is engaged in pulling down a building and a mason who is engaged in construction. The electorate in the Punjab has given a verdict in favour of the Unionist's point of view and it should be our duty to respect that verdict and let the Unionist Party proceed with its constructive programme. The Congress and the Unionist Parties have of course the same object in view, though the methods for achieving it are different. The Congress leaders think that we can achieve our object by wrecking the present constitution, while we believe that we can attain our purpose by constructive work and constitutional progress. The former method is risky and uncertain, while the latter course is steady and sure. In six provinces of India the Congress is enforcing its own plan. It is only fair that in the Punjab they should let us have our own way. The experience will show which is the better and more successful method and then either we in the Punjab will follow their line of action or they may adopt our course. It has been pointed out by one honourable member from the opposition that our income has received a serious set back since 1925 on account of the fall in the prices of agricultural produce. The Unionist Party has not lost sight of this fact in determining the scale of salaries for our Ministers. We have proportionately reduced their salaries from the level of 1925 and after paying a higher rate of income tax and surcharge, they will get half the amount as salary as compared with that which their predecessors used to get in 1925. If we are able to secure a comparative decrease in the scale of salaries of other services, it would not be a mean achievement for our party. We do not think, we can go any further under the existing circumstances, but a time might come when we may succeed in further reducing the cost of administration. We should face the realities as they are like practical men, and should not take an idealistic view of things. I would appeal to the House to co-operate with us and give us an opportunity to work our programme and achieve the best results from the new constitution. We would welcome constructive criticism, but criticism of destructive and misleading nature, will neither help us nor our opponents.

(At this stage there was a demand for closure of debate.)

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : As the principle involved in the amendment is of vital importance not only to this House but to a large number of people in the province, I would request you not to close the discussion on the subject but to accord opportunities to some other members on this side who want to speak.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : There is another argument for continuing the debate. The debate on the salary of Ministers will cover also the debate on the Speaker's and Deputy Speaker's Salary Bill. We shall practically be repeating the same arguments. No member out of the groups other than the Congress on this side have expressed their views, therefore I would request you to allow us to place the case more fully and thoroughly before the House.

Mr. Speaker : The Standing Order on the point is :

" At any time after a motion has been made any member may move that the question be now put and unless it appears to the Speaker that the motion is an abuse of the rules or these standing orders, or an infringement of the right of reasonable debate, the Speaker shall then put the motion that the question be now put."

I do not know the exact number of members who have spoken up till now ; but almost all arguments have been exhausted, nay, arguments have been repeated by certain speakers. If I am assured, however, that the proposed motion is intended to infringe the right of reasonable debate, I will not allow it. But the subject has been discussed in extenso and there is hardly any argument left which can be advanced against the motion and has not been advanced. So, under these circumstances, I wish to be satisfied if the motion is really intended to infringe the right of reasonable debate.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : I beg to bring this point to your notice that there are groups here on the Opposition benches out of whom not a single member has so far spoken. Therefore I would request you to give chance at least to one member from each group to speak.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : May I draw your attention to the fact that when the last speaker stood up there was nobody else to speak in this House.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Mr. Speaker, if it is your intention to finish the discussion this evening, then I would request you to get the speech of Diwan Chaman Lall translated because it is an important speech. This matter is left to your discretion. You just now stated that all the arguments have been exhausted, probably you were referring to the speech of Diwan Chaman Lall. Therefore I would request you to get that speech translated for the benefit of those who are not conversant with the English language.

Mr. Speaker : I am afraid that cannot be done.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : In that case would it be possible for you to let some other member speak in the vernacular ?

Mr. Speaker : I shall give Sardar Sohan Singh Josh an opportunity to speak.

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh (Amritsar North, Sikh, Rural) (Punjabi) : The House has listened to the speeches made by the Nawabs and Khan Bahadurs and must have appreciated the point of view of the aristocracy of the province. Now please listen to the doleful tale of the poor peasantry of the Punjab. I am one of them. Unlike other honourable members who had to spend thousands of rupees to achieve success in the elections, I was elected by my voters of their own accord and free will in as much as they did not only record their votes in my favour but also offered some money as a token of their confidence in me. (Hear, hear.) Thus I claim to be a real representative of the poor peasants. By way of comparison, I would cite the case of three other honourable members who fought the election campaign from the same district.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is requested to speak to the motion.

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh : I was about to say that when the election was going on, we held out a pledge to the electorate that we would not allow a Minister's salary to exceed Rs. 500 a month in any case. Now the salary of a Minister is being fixed at Rs. 3,000 a month and we are in duty-bound to oppose such a proposal because it violates our pledge.

It has been said by some honourable members of the Unionist Party, that they are out to protect the agricultural lands and improve the miserable lot of the peasants. This is a strange method of protecting their interests and a queer way of rural " uplift ". On the other hand, it will most surely deprive the peasants of whatever small or large tracts of land which they already possess. Is it not a fact that the high salaries of the Ministers will be paid out of the pockets of the poverty-stricken peasants of the province? In this way, the Government is going to squeeze out the last drop of blood from the body of the zamindars. Far from protecting the agricultural interests, the policy on which the Unionist Party has just embarked, will compel the zamindars to dispose of their lands in order to pay the heavy taxes imposed on them. My honourable friends, Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava and Diwan Chaman Lall have already advanced the main arguments against this Bill and I would have liked to dilate upon them but I do not wish to be guilty of repetition. I would like to invite the attention of the House to the salaries drawn by ministers in other countries of the world, and compare them with the per capita income in those countries. But, as relevant facts and figures have already been given by honourable members of my party in this respect, I do not propose to repeat them. I am at a loss to understand how these fat salaries can be granted without adversely affecting the poor peasants, who are already groaning under the heavy taxes, and any fresh tax would prove the last straw that breaks the camel's back. By the present attitude of the party in power, it appears that they have not come forward to serve the country but to make money out of it.

Shrimati Raghbir Kaur (Amritsar, Sikh Women) (Punjabi): This land of five rivers is inhabited by poor people who have been reduced to such abject poverty that, far from being able to get warm clothes to protect themselves against the biting cold of the winter season, they cannot even afford to buy ' khadar ' to cover their naked bodies. Even a cursory glance at these miserable people will reveal the dreadful fact that in winter, their innocent children are exposed to the tortures of the biting cold against which they keep crying helplessly. Do you know who pays these fat salaries to the Ministers? England will not finance this budget and the Britishers will not contribute a single pie towards this item. The hard fact is that the poverty-stricken peasants will be made to pay these large sums out of their pockets. During the course of the recent elections, we had to move from village to village and thus we came face to face with the pitiable condition of the poor peasants. We saw with our own eyes how they live in dilapidated houses of mud and straw. We saw them clothed in rags, nay, the fact is, that their own skin serves the purpose of clothes. The children of these helpless people die slowly of hunger and want. It is not an uncommon occurrence that young men are driven by unemployment and pangs of hunger to throw themselves in front of moving railway trains so that this cruel form of suicide should put an end to their miserable existence, the burden of which they can carry no longer. The news of such tragedies should set the Honourable Ministers atinking. They should try to discover the real causes of such unfortunate incidents. During the course of the elections, we gave a pledge to the peasants that their burden of land revenue would be lightened. But the Ministers are demanding high salaries instead. After all how will the funds be raised? The poor peasants can ill-afford to pay fat salaries of Rs. 5,000 a month to the Ministers. An honourable member from the Treasury benches said that the Ministers will not be able to make both ends meet within the meagre pay of Rs. 500 per mensem. I would like to point out to him that he should take an opportunity of seeing for himself how the poor peasants are eking out a miserable existence. How on earth, I ask, will they be able to pay such high salaries? Just pause for a while and consider how they toil from morning till evening and what a miserable life they are leading. These poor people will never be able to finance this costly machinery while they themselves are in the grips of starvation. In view of this I would urge that the salary of a minister should not exceed Rs. 500 even by a single pie.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That in lines 3-4 for the words 'forty-two thousand' the words 'six thousand' be substituted.

Lala Bhagat Ram Choda : Sir, I beg to move—

That in clause 2, lines 3-4 for the words "forty-two thousand" the words "fifteen thousand" be substituted.

The motion was put and lost.

Malik Barkat Ali : I beg formally to move—

That in clause 2, lines 2-3, for the words "forty-two thousand" the words "thirty thousand" be substituted.

The motion was put and lost.

Khawaja Ghulam Hussain : Sir, I formally move—

That in clause 2, line 6, for the words "thirty-six thousand" the words "six thousand" be substituted.

The motion was put and lost.

Lala Bhagat Ram Choda : I beg to move—

That in clause 2, line 6 for the words "thirty-six thousand" the words "twelve thousand" be substituted.

The motion was put and lost.

Malik Barkat Ali : I beg formally to move—

That in clause 2, line 6, for the words "thirty-six thousand" the words "twenty four thousand" be substituted.

The motion was put and lost.

Mr. Speaker : Now we come to Item No. 6 (iii) by Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava. I think if this amendment¹ is carried it will make the clause meaningless. Therefore it is out of order.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : In view of what has been decided by the Chair I do not wish to move my amendment.

Mr. K. L. Gauba : Sir, I beg to move—

That in clause 2, lines 7-14, the words "and there shall be further provided..... or each of the other Ministers" be omitted.

The motion was put and lost.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I beg to move—

That in clause 2, line 11, the word "Premier" be substituted for the word "Chief Minister".

The motion was put and carried.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That clause 2 as amended stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Mr. Speaker : The question is :

That this be the Preamble of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I beg to move—

That the Punjab Ministers' Salary Bill be passed.

The motion was put and carried.

¹That in lines 4 to 14 after the words "forty-two thousand rupees a year" be omitted.

PANEL OF CHAIRMEN.

Mr. Speaker : I have to announce that under Rule 3 (1) I have nominated the following four honourable members as members of the Panel of Chairmen :—

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath,

Nawab Shah Nawaz Khan of Mamdot,

Professor W. Roberts, and Sardar Sampuran Singh.

Mr. Speaker : It has been brought to my notice that certain notices were placed this morning on the tables of the members without permission or knowledge of the Secretary of the Assembly. I wish to request the honourable members of the House, as well as outsiders that in future private advertisements or notices of any kind should not be brought in the House and placed on the tables of the honourable members.

After making these announcements I have to congratulate the honourable members of this House for the exceptionally high tone of debate on an exceptionally controversial subject. I wish and hope that they will continue that high tone and will not permit it to be lowered (Hear, hear).

The Assembly then adjourned till 10-30 A. M. on Friday, 9th April, 1987

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

1st SESSION OF THE 1st PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Friday, 9th April, 1937.

The Assembly met at the Council Chamber at 10-30 A.M. of the clock. Mr. Speaker in the chair.

MOTIONS FOR ADJOURNMENT.

RE CONSTITUTION OF PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION.

Diwan Chaman Lall (East Punjab, Non-Union Labour): You were pleased to announce yesterday that you would consider the matter of the adjournment motion moved by my honourable friend Dr. Muhammad Alam. I do not know if you are going to give your decision to-day or to-morrow regarding the admissibility of that motion.

Mr. Speaker: The honourable member might remember that I desired Dr. Alam and Malik Barkat Ali to discuss the matter with me personally in my room and promised that after giving my further consideration I will give my final decision; but neither of them has seen me.

Diwan Chaman Lall: The honourable member authorised me to see you this morning, but unfortunately time was very short and there was no possibility of discussing it in your room, but I shall convey your message.

Mr. Speaker: Thanks.

Diwan Chaman Lall: Unfortunately, I was to see you this morning, but you were not in your room this morning.

Mr. Speaker: I came at 10-15.

RE ALLEGED MISCONDUCT OF A POLICE OFFICER OF AMBALA.

Lala Duni Chand (Ambala and Simla, General, Rural): I beg leave to move the adjournment motion standing in my name.

Mr. Speaker: Is the honourable member aware that the aggrieved party has lodged a complaint in a court of law?

Lala Duni Chand: I know this much that a complaint had been filed and that the Magistrate had issued no processes to the accused.

Mr. Speaker: Is not the matter sub-judice?

Lala Duni Chand: I submit that the matter cannot be considered to be sub-judice.

Mr. Speaker: Does not a matter become sub-judice as soon as a complaint is lodged before a Magistrate, whether any process is issued or not?

Lala Duni Chand: So far as I have been able to consult the rules and standing orders there is no bar to the motion being put forward even if the matter is sub-judice.

Mr. Speaker : Will you please point out the rule and standing order on which you rely ?

Lala Duni Chand : I have not been able to find any rule or standing order prohibiting the putting forward of a motion if the case is sub-judice. With regard to questions and resolutions there is a provision but so far as motions of adjournments are concerned, there is no such rule or standing order.

Mr. Speaker : An adjournment motion must not deal with a matter on which a resolution cannot be moved. Therefore, if a resolution cannot be moved, a motion for adjournment also cannot be moved.

Lala Duni Chand : There is no specific provision regarding the adjournment motion. This is what I am submitting.

Mr. Speaker : Will the honourable member please read Rules 18 (v) and 34 (2) ?

Lala Duni Chand : I submit to your ruling but you will kindly hear me with regard to another point, namely that a case in which a process has not been issued and the accused has not appeared the case cannot be said to be sub-judice.

Mr. Speaker : Can the honourable member say that up to this moment no process has been issued ?

Lala Duni Chand : I am not aware of this at the moment.

Mr. Speaker : Whether a process has or has not been issued, is not the matter pending before a court of law ?

Lala Duni Chand : A matter is sub-judice only if an accused has been called to the court.

Mr. Speaker : But I hold that as soon as a complaint is filed in a court of law the subject matter of the complaint comes under adjudication whether any process is issued or not by the court.

RE. INCIDENT AT KOT BHAI THAN SINGH.

Sardar Uttam Singh Dugal (North-West Punjab, Sikh, Rural) : I beg leave to move the motion for adjournment that stands in my name.

Mr. Speaker : S. Uttam Singh has given notice of a motion for the adjournment of the House for the purpose of discussing a matter of urgent public importance, namely, the recent regrettable and unfortunate incident at Kot Bhai Than Singh which resulted in the death of one and serious injury to a number of persons (Sewadars) and to request Government to explore ways and means to bring about an amicable and lasting solution of the matters connected with that sacred Gurdwara.

Is there any objection to leave being granted ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I cannot but repeat my request that I made yesterday in respect of the motion on Panipat firing. The honourable member who has given notice of this adjournment motion would be well advised not to press it for the simple reason that the firing which took place during that regrettable incident or riot, if I may describe it by that word, fortunately did not result in any loss of life. Our information hitherto is that there was no loss of life on account of firing by the Police. The incident, as the honourable member has himself pointed out, is regrettable and I am sure every honourable member of this House will join with me in expressing his regret over this unfortunate incident. But enquiries are proceeding and investigation is going on and I feel that any premature statement or expression of opinion at this moment might seriously hamper the ends of justice. So far as our information goes, there was only one death in the hospital and the other injured persons are making satisfactory progress. Injuries were caused on both sides and the House is, I believe, aware that the situation there has been giving cause for anxiety for some considerable time now. If as a result of the enquiry we come to the conclusion that firing was unjustified, we will take due action. Meanwhile the two factions that fought, are not unnaturally, putting forward their versions of the fight and until we know the result of the enquiry—very likely the case will go to court—it would be unfair to prejudice the issue. I would, therefore, request the mover not to press his motion but allow the enquiry to take its normal course. At the same time let me assure the House that nothing will please me and the Government more than that we could bring about amicable and lasting settlement between the parties so that this trouble should end once for all. I am sure everyone of us would be prepared to help in this. So far as the Government is concerned, if any such proposal is put before us, we would be only too glad to help in bringing about a permanent and lasting understanding.

Sardar Uttam Singh Dugal : In view of the assurance of the Leader of the House, I beg to withdraw my motion.

Sardar Lal Singh : I would like to say something in reply.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member has no right of reply.

Sardar Lal Singh : I want to elicit further information from the Leader of the House on this very question. The Leader of the House has said that no loss of life was caused as a result of firing by the Police. That is not the question. The question is that there was loss of life by the delinquency of the Police.

Mr. Speaker : May I know what the honourable member is driving at ?

Sardar Lal Singh : My object is to ask the Leader of the House whether the Police took any action previous to the incident to prevent loss of life. The Leader of the House has said—

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member will please not make a speech. Is the Honourable Leader of the House in a position to supply the required information ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : If I was in a position to give that information, I would not have asked my honourable friend the mover to withdraw his adjournment motion. The investigation is going on. If we are satisfied as a result of the enquiry that disciplinary action should be taken we would not hesitate to take it. But it is premature to suggest action at this stage and it would be unfair to prejudice the case.

(Sardar Sampuran Singh rose to speak).

Mr. Speaker : The motion of Sardar Sampuran Singh is identical with that of Sardar Uttam Singh. So, he may like to withdraw it.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : I do not wish to withdraw the motion.

Mr. Speaker : Sardar Sampuran Singh has given notice of his intention to ask for leave to make a motion for adjournment of the business of the House for the purpose of discussing a matter of urgent public importance, namely, "Government have shown their incapacity in protecting the life of the Sikhs of Kot Bhai Than Singh and to show that their lives in that part of the country are in great danger unless Government give up their policy of vacillation and weakness."

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I beg to submit that this motion is out of order because it proposes to censure the Government. As a matter of fact it amounts more or less to a vote of no-confidence against Government for which special procedure is provided for in the rules. You will notice that the honourable member has specifically mentioned that the Government has shown its incapacity for not protecting the life of Sikhs. May I ask the honourable member whether he is referring to the present Government or the past Government? If he is referring to the past Government, I do not think it is fair to make this motion because that Government is no longer in existence. If he wishes to censure the present Government, may I point out to him that this riot took place on the evening of the 1st of April, 1987, the very day this Government took office and, therefore, his criticism of the present Government would be wholly unjustified.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : That is a matter to be raised in the course of discussion on the motion.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : My point is that the motion is not in order.

Mr. Speaker : Why?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Because it is a censure motion against Government.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : May I draw your attention to the fact that we have not been supplied with the copies of the adjournment motions while we expect that whenever an adjournment motion is moved copies should invariably be supplied to the honourable members of this House.

Mr. Speaker : Is not the motion intended to criticise the administrative responsibility of Government?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Which Government, Sir?

Mr. Speaker : The Government to which the present Government has succeeded.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Then I think it is unfair on the part of the honourable member to move a motion knowing full well that that Government is no longer in power.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : On the 1st April this Government was in power, so the criticism would be against the present Government.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I have pointed out already that the riot took place on the evening of the 1st of April. How could the honourable member expect us to forestall a riot that took place on the 1st of April.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : That is a question which has to be discussed at the proper time, i.e., how far you are liable and how far you are not.

Mr. Speaker : The motion does not appear to be out of order.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Very well, but I object to the motion all the same.

Mr. Speaker : Its object may be to criticise the Government.

An adjournment motion, even if carried, cannot necessarily be taken as a censure upon Government (Hear, hear). There is a separate rule for a censure motion against Government. Under Rule 19 leave to move a censure motion is given if at least 50 members rise in support of it, and the motion can be discussed within 10 days: while under Standing Order 23, leave to move an adjournment motion is given if not less than 30 members rise in support of it. Besides, the latter motion has to be discussed the same day or on the next day on which the Assembly meets.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I bow to your ruling.

Mr. Speaker : Has the honourable member the leave of the House to move the motion?

(34 members stood up.)

Mr. Speaker : As more than 30 members have risen, the honourable member has the leave of the House to move the motion.

Mian Muhammad Iftikhar-ud-Din : We are sorry we misunderstood you. We thought you were taking the sense of the House with regard to another motion. Will you please again take the sense of the House on the present motion?

Mr. Speaker : Was there really a misunderstanding?

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I thought that the adjournment motion under consideration was the one of which notice has been given by Chaudhri Kartar Singh.

Mr. Speaker : It was Sardar Sampuran Singh's motion.

Now the honourable members understand that the motion in support of which I requested them to rise was that of Sardar Sampuran Singh about Kot Bhai Than Singh affair. Those who are in favour of leave being given to the honourable member may rise in their places.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : When once a decision has been given, will it be correct to take votes again?

Mr. Speaker : I think a mistake can be corrected. Those who are in favour of the leave being given, may rise in their places.

(Eleven members stood up.)

Mr. Speaker : As the number of members who have risen is only 11, the honourable member has not the leave of the House to move his motion. (Cheers).

RE POSITION OF AGRICULTURISTS DUE TO HAILSTORMS.

Mr. Speaker : The next is Chaudhri Kartar Singh's motion for adjournment 'that the business of the Assembly be adjourned for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the position of the agriculturists of the province as a result of the recent disastrous hailstorm'.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : There is a short notice question on that subject which the Honourable Revenue Minister agreed to answer, and perhaps it might help the mover of the adjournment motion if the reply to that question is read in the form of a statement before the motion is put to the House.

The Honourable Sardar Sir Sunder Singh Majithia : May I make my statement?

Chaudhri Kartar Singh raised a point of order in Urdu.

Mr. Speaker : According to section 85 of the Government of India Act all proceedings of the Assembly shall be in English. The only exception made is that members who are not acquainted or are not sufficiently acquainted with the English language may speak in one of the languages of the province. The section clearly means that those, who can speak in English, whether others can understand them or not, must speak in English; they cannot speak in Urdu or Punjabi. As regards the request made yesterday that I may have a speech translated into Urdu, to accede to such a request would mean that instead of making an English-knowing member speak in English, I will be allowing him to make two speeches: one in English by himself and the other in Urdu through a translator. In my opinion the section, as worded, not only debar members, who can speak in English, from speaking in Urdu; but also prohibits the translation of their speeches, made in English, into vernacular. Therefore, the honourable members, who can speak in English, must speak in that language and not in Urdu, either personally or through translators, whether other members of the House understand them or not. Such members as do not know English at all or do not know it sufficiently can speak in vernacular; but they have no right to claim that they should be spoken to in vernacular.

Lala Duni Chand : The statement by the Government member is to be made in English but we find that the motion has been made by a member who does not know English. Does it not become your duty to see that what is stated by the Government is translated?

Mr. Speaker : If the honourable member and others who are of his opinion will carefully read the section and interpret it judicially, they will agree that it is not within my competence to have two speeches made, viz., one in English by a member and the other in Urdu by a translator. The language of the Assembly must be English. Therefore, I cannot allow speeches to be translated into vernacular.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I bow to your ruling, Sir. It is an absolutely correct ruling. But here a different proposition is put and you may consider it in that light. A statement is going to be made from the other side on behalf of the Government and if I understood the Leader of the House correctly the object of this statement is to reply to a short notice question. After knowing the statement the honourable mover of the adjournment motion may feel disposed to withdraw that adjournment motion. Therefore, Sir, this is a special proposition. Two courses would be open to us ; either the meaning of the statement may be conveyed to the honourable mover of the adjournment motion so that he may be in a position to know whether it will be fair to withdraw his motion or not, or, if that is not done, then the statement may not be allowed to be made before leave for the motion is granted.

Mr. Speaker : I may once more state that in the face of section 85 I am unable to follow the honourable member's suggestion. Even during the time of the old Council, notices of some questions were given in Urdu, but they were answered in English.

(At this stage Dr. Mohammad Alam stood up to speak.)

I am unable to allow the honourable member to speak again and again.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : On a point of order. I was not making a speech.

Lala Bhim Sen Sachar : The statement might be read in English and conform with the rules, but as the honourable member does not understand English and as the statement—

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member may help him quietly if he feels so advised.

Lala Bhim Sen Sachar : It may be for the benefit of other honourable members.

Mr. Speaker : That cannot be done. If the honourable member has something fresh to say he is welcome.

Lala Bhim Sen Sachar : I feel encouraged to submit my point of view before the House by reason of the assurance given by you that any omission can be rectified. May I be permitted to draw your attention to Standing Order 89, clause IV. You have discretion to say that certain speeches shall be translated into Urdu for the benefit of the House. May I request you on behalf of the House that you may be pleased to exercise your discretion in all such cases when an important statement has been made and you feel that the time of the House will be saved and some gentlemen may be enlightened. Taking into consideration the entire circumstances of the case it is just a request to you to exercise your discretion so as to enable things to be done as well as they can be.

Mr. Speaker : That was my opinion till yesterday. On further consideration I have come to the conclusion that that part of the Standing Order, upon which the honourable member relies, is ultra vires, as it is clearly opposed to the provisions of section 85 of the Government of India

[Mr. Speaker.]

Act; and it will not be denied that all rules and standing orders, which are opposed to or inconsistent with the Government of India Act are ultra vires.

To-day's discussion has made it clear that section 85 of the Government of India Act requires to be amended at the earliest possible opportunity. It not only deprives members, who do not know English, of understanding the speeches made by members in English; but also makes it practically impossible for the Speakers of Assemblies and Presidents of Councils to discharge their functions effectively. For example, if a member, who does not know English, violates any of the limitations on debate, imposed by Standing Order No. 29, or persists in irrelevance or repetition, in violation of Rule 22, and the Speaker or the President wishes to check such irregularities, he must speak in English, but the member concerned, who ex hypothesi is ignorant of English, will not understand him and, therefore, might go on speaking irrelevant or repeating arguments. The Speaker or President cannot have his orders or remarks translated into Urdu for the guidance of such vernacular knowing member, as, if he did so, he himself will be violating the express provisions of the section. Prima facie there is no reason why for the facility of members, who do not know English, the speeches made in English should not be translated into vernacular; but this will be against the express provisions of section 85.

I may mention en passant that while the legalisation of translation from English into vernacular shall be of immense help to the vernacular knowing members, it shall considerably prolong the duration of sittings of Assemblies and Councils — an aspect which deserves very careful consideration.

I hope the Honourable Leader of the House will take early steps to invite the attention of authorities to the pros and cons of the problem which deserves an early solution.

The Honourable Sardar Sir Sunder Singh Majithia : Before I make the statement, I would like to say just this much, that I requested my friend Chaudhri Kartar Singh yesterday to come and see me in my room. He met me outside in the garden but did not come to my room. I shall be delighted to meet him and talk over matters with him in my room if he comes to me after I have made the statement.

Statement.

The Government heard with very great concern and regret the sad incident that has happened and the calamity that has fallen on a great part of the province by the hailstorm during the last few days of March 1937. The Government were concerned with the state of affairs which this calamity has brought about in the country and they at once took action in the matter. The first thing that His Excellency the Governor did was to provide a sum of Rs. 1,00,000 from the Famine Relief Fund for the relief of the people who had suffered from this calamity.

Immediately after the hailstorm swept over the province generally on 22nd March 1937 and did considerable damage in the Multan division in particular, the local authorities—Revenue and Irrigation—of that division and also of the other divisions took up the question of determining the extent of the damage done with a view to afford relief to the area damaged.

An Honourable Member : Can the honourable member read his statement ?

Mr. Speaker : Yes, a statement can be read but not a speech.

The Honourable Sardar Sir Sunder Singh Majithia :
2. The Commissioner, Multan division, reports that all the Deputy Commissioners were very prompt in personally inspecting the damaged area and that the Irrigation Branch was also co-operating. The Commissioner immediately issued instructions to the Deputy Commissioners concerned to—

- (a) make arrangements for lifting, without delay, of crops which had been so damaged as not to be worth harvesting for grain but could be used as fodder,
- (b) suspend the active collection of revenue at their discretion in villages which had lost the whole crop.

3. Complete information about the damage done is not yet available. However the following information has so far been received by the Irrigation Branch :—

I. Northern Administration.

(1) Lower Chenab Canal East Circle.—Probable damage is estimated at 13,500 acres ; principal area damaged lies along the Bhalah Branch distributary of the Burala Branch. Some damage has also been reported near Kamalia. The area damaged has been completely inspected and a report is expected shortly. Complete remission in abiana may amount to about Rs. 50,000. Figures for the remission of land revenue are not yet available.

(2) Lower Chenab Canal Western Circle.—No damage has been reported from this area so far.

(3) Lower Bari Doab Canal.—(a) Khanewal division.—Extensive damage has been reported and special arrangements for inspection and for the diversion of special staff for this purpose have already been made. The final report is expected shortly.

(b) Montgomery division.—Here the damage is less than in Khanewal division, but nevertheless considerable. It is anticipated that remission may range between Rs. 3 and 4 lakhs in abiana for the whole circle.

According to the rough estimate made by the Deputy Commissioner, Montgomery, the total damaged area amounts to 80,000 acres as detailed below :—

|------------------------|----|----|--------|
| Balloki division .. | .. | .. | 95,000 |
| Montgomery division .. | .. | .. | 15,000 |
| Khanewal division .. | .. | .. | 80,000 |

[Hon. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia.]

His rough estimate on account of the remission of land revenue and malikana amounts to Rs. 2½ lakhs. Government have already allowed full water supply from the 6th April 1937 onwards until September, 20-25, 1937.

II. Southern Administration.

Hailstorms in Baghwanpura near Kasur have already been reported. Superintending Engineer, Upper Bari Doab Canal, has been telegraphically instructed to carry out immediate steps where necessary and submit a report.

Western Jumna Canal.—A little damage is reported from this canal.

III.—Western Administration.

Damage has also been reported from the Mailsi Canals as also from Multan and Muzaffargarh inundation canals. Detailed reports have been asked for by wire and instructions issued to ensure that the machinery for the kharaba inspection is put into action promptly and effectively.

Information regarding the kharaba to be allowed in the Multan and Muzaffargarh inundation canals is being collected by the local revenue officers. Their report is expected shortly. Telegraphic instructions have also been issued to all the Superintending Engineers of the Punjab Canals that wherever hailstorm has caused damage they should see that the affected area is inspected by the Canal Officers and the machinery for the kharaba inspection works promptly and efficiently.

4. Now I turn to the action taken by the Revenue Department—

(1) Rs. 1 lakh have been placed at the disposal of the Commissioner, Multan division, from the Provincial Famine Relief Fund for distribution of relief at his discretion in the afflicted areas of his division.

(2) Proposals to allow special kharaba remission on fodder and mixed crops which are not governed by the ordinary kharaba rules issued under the Northern India Canal and Drainage Act are also under consideration.

(3) Deputy Commissioners of the afflicted areas in the Multan division have been asked by the Commissioners to examine the question of taccavi and to frame their demands accordingly.

(4) The question of provision and distribution of seed has not been lost sight of by the local officers.

Government will sympathetically consider all these proposals when received.

Instructions have also been given to the Deputy Commissioners through Commissioners of divisions in the Punjab to impress on the local officers concerned that they should lose no time in investigating the damaged areas, if any, in their charge, so that they may be able to inspect the damage done while it is fresh and indisputable. To save time copy of the instruction has been sent direct to the Deputy Commissioners. I myself hope to visit some of the affected areas as soon as my duties at headquarters permit. His Excellency who was deeply touched by this extraordinary calamity was pleased to convey his message of sympathy to the people through the Commissioner of Multan division and the present

Premier who was then the Revenue Member also associated himself with His Excellency in conveying that message of sympathy. It was transmitted by the Commissioner to the Deputy Commissioner who gave wide publicity to the same. These facts, I am sure, will satisfy the House and will undoubtedly lead to the conclusion that Government through the officers of the Irrigation and Revenue Departments is fully alive to the situation and has done and is doing all that is possible. Further reports are anxiously awaited which the House should rest assured will receive immediate and sympathetic attention of Government. (cheers).

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : I sympathise with the tone of the Honourable Minister, but as I have not been able to follow him, I regret I cannot withdraw my adjournment motion.

Mr. Speaker : Those who are in favour of leave being granted may please rise in their places.

More than thirty members rose in their seats and accordingly leave to move the motion was given. After consulting the convenience of the House, Mr. Speaker fixed 2-30 P. M. for the discussion of the motion.

SPEAKER'S AND DEPUTY SPEAKERS'S SALARIES BILL.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I beg to introduce the Punjab Legislative Assembly Speaker's and Deputy Speaker's Salaries Bill.

I move :

That the Punjab Legislative Assembly Speaker's and Deputy Speaker's Salaries Bill be taken into consideration at once.

The motion was put and carried.

Mr. Speaker : The Assembly will now proceed to consider the Bill clause by clause.

Clause 1.

Mr. Speaker : Question is that clause 1 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 2.

Mr. Speaker : All amendments to clause 2 may be discussed together, but, if necessary, they will be moved and put to vote separately.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt (North-Eastern Towns, General, Urban) : Sir, I beg to move—

That in Clause 2, lines 4-5, for the words "thirty-six thousand" the words "six thousand" be substituted.

In moving this amendment I would like to make a few general observations, because the principle involved in this amendment is the same as that involved in the amendment which this side of the House moved yesterday, although it does not mean thereby that the principle involved in this amendment is not of any importance. I would submit for the consideration of this House that the principle involved in this amendment is of urgent and extreme importance to the suffering people of the province who have ultimately to bear the burden of the salary. And what is the principle which is involved in the amendment? That principle is the principle of salary reform which, I very much regret to say, has not received proper consideration and attention at the hands of our new administrators. My honourable friend, Diwan Chaman Lall, and myself gave full expression to our susceptibilities on the subject, although ultimately that expression of feeling fell flat on the honourable members on the other side of the House. I have no mind to repeat the arguments which we advanced yesterday, but I would like to draw the attention of the House and particularly the other side of the House to the fact that the most important argument which I adduced yesterday in this House was not replied to in any cogent manner by any honourable member on the other side of the House. I do not want to waste your time by expatiating on that argument. I would simply mention that argument once again and that was the fixing of the salary of public servants in some reasonable proportion to the per capita income which obtains in a particular country and that argument I repeat to-day although I have no mind to expatiate upon it. I do not want to develop it or dwell upon it, but I would again draw attention of the House to the fact that that argument was not replied to by the other side of the House. The only gentlemen who made a reference to it was Raja Ghazanfar Ali who said that in England the salary of the ministers was being attempted to be increased. I submit, Sir, for his consideration and for the consideration of his colleagues that even if the British Parliament enacts that the salary of British ministers be ten thousand pounds, it means that instead of 53 it would be 106 times the per capita income of England. But as we proved here yesterday, the salary which we are paying and which we are being asked to vote for the Speaker or for other public servants at the rate of Rs. 86,000 a year comes to 343 times the per capita income in our country and even that was only according to the optimistic reports of the average income in India which are given by Findlay Shirras and the Simon Commission Report, although I do not accept that. Later on my honourable friend Diwan Chaman Lall according to the figures quoted by him calculated that it was not 343 times, but it was 500 times the per capita income of our country. I was saying that the question of salary reform in our province was of particular importance. I submit that various factors have combined to make this question so much important as we find it to-day. The most important factor is the financial situation in which our province finds itself to-day. I think the provincial rural debt in the Punjab is 200 crores. Roughly speaking round about that. Just imagine, Sir, 200 crores. I would presently show that it has risen from a small figure. The preceding Government has been trying to throw dust in the eyes of the people by balancing the budget on the paper. Our outgoing Governments asserted that although the two budgets preceding the last one were deficit budgets, the deficit was only a nominal one and when the Neimyer Committee accepted these declarations of the Punjab Government at their face value and reported that no subvention be given to the Punjab by the central or the Federal Government, the Punjab Government lodged a protest against it. On the one hand they declared that the budget was not a deficit budget, and on the other when it came to the question of the Neimyer award, these people raised a hue and cry that injustice was done to the Punjab. But who is responsible for that injustice? Surely the Punjab Government themselves. They bamboozled the people into the belief that this province was not a deficit province. Had they not created that impression the Neimyer Report would have been a different one. I was mentioning the question of provincial debt. I would submit for the consideration of the House that in 1926 the Provincial debt stood at 99 crores, in 1929 it was 135 crores and to-day, as I have already mentioned, it is 200 crores. With an ever increasing provincial debt and with no financial succour from the Central Government, and with such high salaries, how will the present Government be able to balance its budget? I want to know from the Honourable the Leader of the House, how is he going to balance the budget under these conditions, how on earth is he going to alleviate distress, disease and destitution which are staring the people in their face? I know that they do not care for our arguments. This was proved yesterday. They have got a comfortable majority here, but I would again remind them of the fact that when they went to the electorate they urged, the Unionist Party urged, that they were the party of the poor, the friend of the indigent and the helper of the needy, but they say one thing to their electors and when they come here before this House they say another thing. I am reminded of an Urdu couplet:

رند کے رند رہے ہاتھ سے جنت نہ گئی

We were given to understand that with the advent of the new regime, with the inauguration of the new constitution, there would be a new heaven on this earth, but we find that we are going to meet the same heavy expenses as we used to do before. Where is the difference between the old and the new administration, where is the difference between the old and the new regime when we are going to vote for the same amount of salaries and the consequential deficit budgets, as we used to do before this administration, came into being. I think this is abundant proof of the fact that the white bureaucracy in India is being replaced by a brown bureaucracy.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan: There is the difference of two thousand rupees.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: I would submit for their consideration that metaphorically speaking we are going to be murdered and butchered at the hands of our own people, our own brethren. The poor peasants now feel that they are going to be killed, they are going to be squeezed and perhaps swindled by their own kith and kin. We could cut down the salary of the Europeans only if our brethren had also agreed to accept lower salaries. But when they are themselves taking high salaries, with what face can we say that we shall cut down the salaries of the Europeans. I have not much complaint against the Europeans now. It is against my own brethren and my own blood that I complain. I am reminded again of a Persian couplet:

من از بیگانگان هرگز نہ نالم کہ با من هرچه کرد آن آشنا کرد

[Ch. Krishna Gopal Dutt.]

For the benefit of those honourable members of the House who do not know Persian I would translate it by quoting another couplet in Urdu :

دل کے پہپہولے چل آئے سینے کے داغ سے
اس مہر کو آگ لگ گئی مہر کے چاغ سے

I do not want to waste the time of the House by repeating arguments and I have also to realise that there are a quite a number of other honourable friends who are expected to speak on this amendment. But I would like to mention one thing before concluding my speech. Before I entered this House, before I was a member of this House formally that is to say before I took the oath of allegiance, I had an open mind so far as the views of the Unionist Party were concerned. I would draw your attention to the statement that I issued to the Press on the day the new Ministry was announced. I said I would judge this Ministry not by any prejudice or preconceived notions but by their actions. And now, Sir, I am in a position to say from what I saw yesterday that the Unionist Party has gone back on its pledges. My honourable friend, Chaudhri Chhotu Ram, nods his head. If he is the author of certain articles which are being written on behalf of his Party in the columns of the Civil and Military Gazette, I would draw his attention to the fact that many noble principles, many idealistic views, had been put before the voters on behalf of his Party, which to-day he finds it difficult to give effect to. Take the question of these salaries. I feel that those on the other side of the House are sucking the blood of the poor people of this province. The per capita income is so small that the poor people cannot afford to pay that much. They know that the public rural debt is at a high figure and that, Sir, I submit, in spite of the exports of large quantities of distress gold which the poor people have to part with in order to pay the salaries of these public servants who are fiddling while the Province is burning. According to a statement issued by the Secretary of Unionist Party, we are told that their caravan will march on. Yes, their caravan will march on, but to what place? I warn them that their caravan will march on towards economic disaster, towards financial crisis. They are heading towards virtual bankruptcy.

One thing more. Please do not teach the people that they should have no faith left in constitutional methods. By their present methods the Government members, knowingly or unknowingly, are sowing the seeds of revolution, the character of which I shudder to imagine. With these words, Sir, I move my amendment for the consideration of the House.

Mr. Speaker : Clause under consideration, amendment moved is—

That in clause 2, lines 4-5, for the words "thirty-six thousand" the words "six thousand" be substituted.

Professor W. Roberts (European) : I rise to oppose the amendment that has been moved by the honourable member Mr. Dutt. I feel, Sir, that this debate is being carried on in an atmosphere of unreality. In the first place my Congress friends are pledged to defeat not only this Government but all Governments and to prevent provinces being governed. They may come with proper conviction that their duty is to do that but they cannot expect us, on this side of the House, to take them seriously so long as they aim at destroying all Governments.

I am going to charge the Opposition with participating in increasing the expenditure. The daily allowance alone of the Assembly Members costs the province about 2 thousand rupees a day. I maintain that the eloquence of my honourable friends opposite is partly responsible for increasing the number of days we will have to sit and for increasing the work of our worthy Speaker. To meet that extra expenditure, at any rate, you are responsible for robbing the poor cultivator and the poor people of this province.

Then, Sir, the oldest Parliament in the world, that is, the Parliament of Great Britain, have fixed the salary of the Speaker at 6 thousand pounds a year, with a pension of 4 thousand pounds. In addition to his salary he gets a free house and other allowances. He is free from all rates and taxes and generally he gets peerage at the end of his term of office. You may think these provisions wise or unwise. At any rate they have fixed them after a long experience. It must be realised that first of all we must get a man of mature age to guide the functions and deliberations of the Assembly. It is the best way of wasting money to have an inefficient and inexperienced man in the chair. If you are trying to cut down the salary of the Speaker, it means that you will get an inefficient Speaker and that will be waste of the money of this province, not only of the salary of the Speaker but a hundred times more than the salary of the Speaker. If we get an inefficient Speaker in this House the Government of the country would suffer. The main work of the Ministers after all, is to carry on the administration. I admit that deliberations and criticisms of the House are extremely important. I do not deny it for a moment. So far as the bulk of the work of the Ministers is concerned, it is outside this House and the more time they have to spend here the less time they have for ordinary work. By wasting the time of the House and preventing them from doing their duty, you are increasing the expenditure of administration of the province and you are increasing inefficiency as well.

Take again, the proposal of my friends to fix the salary of the Speaker at five hundred rupees per month. Is the Honourable Speaker supposed to walk to the Assembly chamber and to live in a house costing about Rs. 20 a month? If your honourable Leader of the Congress Party Mr. Gandhi or Pandit Jawahar Lal Nehru were to come to Lahore, I will be willing, and honoured if I can, to lend them a car, to put them in the very best house I can afford and see that they would be able to spend their time in Lahore with dignity, which, I consider, is due to them. But that cannot be done on five hundred rupees a month.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Demolish all those big houses. We are prepared to live in huts.

Professor W. Roberts : I do not think that many honourable members on that side are willing to do so. As I said before, this debate is being carried on in an atmosphere of unreality. I submit that the salary proposed for the Speaker is reasonable. I may also point out that as compared with the previous Assembly we have nearly three times the number of members. Besides that, now the responsibility for carrying on the Government rests on the elected members. For that reason there is far more work and far more responsibility attached to the office of the Speaker. I hope very much that you will take a reasonable view of the matter and give up this amendment.

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma (Southern Towns, General, urban) (Urdu) : Fortunately my knowledge of English is so limited that I cannot adequately express myself in it. I will, therefore, speak in Urdu so that I may easily be understood by all honourable members.

Chaudhri Tikka Ram : On a point of order. My honourable friend is an undergraduate of the Delhi University. He has read up to the B.A. standard and knows English very well.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Undergraduates on this side do not know sufficient English, but the matriculates on those benches know sufficient English.

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : I would like to say that although I joined a college, I left it under the behest of Mahatma Gandhi. Afterwards I started living in the company of zamindars, with the result that I have forgotten whatever little English I had learnt.

Mr. Speaker : According to his own admission the honourable member has read up to B.A.

Chaudhri Tikka Ram : Sir, he left the college when he was about to appear in the B. A. examination.

Mr. Speaker : I hope the honourable members will realize my difficulty in deciding whether a certain honourable member is well qualified in and well equipped with English and can speak in that language. No academic qualifications are laid down. Some intermediate pass persons can speak English more fluently and correctly than many graduates. If an honourable member states that he cannot make a speech in English, how can I say that he can ?

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : If I remember aright, yesterday you remarked that matriculation will be the standard.

Mr. Speaker : I did not.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : You were pleased to ask Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani, whether he has passed the matriculation examination or even the middle examination, and we understood that matriculation was the standard.

Mr. Speaker : Sorry, I was misunderstood. I did not say that the matriculation examination was sufficient. If any honourable member can prove that the honourable Mr. Shri Ram Sharma had made speeches in English outside this House, I will certainly ask him to speak here also in English.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I accept the honourable member's words.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : The Leader of the House is more reasonable than the other members.

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma (Urdu) : After all I have been granted permission to speak in Urdu. The Government members object to Urdu speeches because they wish that one-third or one-fourth of the honourable members who do not know English very well may not understand them and that the members of their party should always say ditto to the honourable Ministers without any demur.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I think the honourable member is very uncharitable in his attack. He is not justified in saying so. I shall be only too glad if any honourable member is allowed to speak in Urdu. Unfortunately the Act does not give the Speaker powers in this matter. We will be only too glad if an honourable member addresses the House in Urdu.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : But he does not understand you, because he does not know sufficient English.

Mrs. Rashida Latif (Urdu) : You know that in this House all the honourable members can speak in Urdu because our mother tongue is Hindustani. In this new Assembly there are some lady members and I would like to point out that they refuse to be reduced to the position of mere statues. There should be a law permitting us to deliver speeches in Urdu. If we do not understand the speeches of the honourable members, how shall we be able to give a reply to them? In the course of yesterday's proceedings of the House I found that I could very well give an answer to the arguments advanced by certain honourable members but I was afraid that I might not have understood the meaning of speeches delivered by English speaking members and so I kept quiet.

I think that most probably all the honourable members of this House keenly desire, and in fact all of us should endeavour, to frame rules permitting the use of Hindustani in the course of our speeches. We have come to the Assembly to make new rules and we are not bound by old ones.

You know that in this country there is a large number of young men who possess B.A. and M.A. degrees of western universities, but their hearts do not throb with sympathy for their motherland. Out of four elected lady members three cannot understand English very well. One of our sisters possesses command over the English language. She took part in the deliberations of the Round Table Conference. Apart from Muslim ladies there are Hindu ladies who possess higher western educational qualifications. But it is not essential that only highly qualified ladies should be sent as representatives in the Assembly. The representatives of the masses should have intense love for their community and country. Their hearts should be full of patriotism and devotion to their motherland. I am also one of them. I have been given an opportunity to represent the people because I love my country intensely and I want to serve it to the best of my ability. I, therefore, request that whosoever in this House wishes to speak in Urdu should be permitted to do so.

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma (Urdu) : I was submitting that at present the motion before the House is that the Speaker should receive a salary of Rs. 3,000 per mensem but my honourable friend Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt has tabled an amendment by which he wishes to limit the salary at Rs. 500 a month. I wholeheartedly support the amendment. In my opinion the question of honour and prestige is not involved in the proposal put forward by Government. The honour and prestige of office, we believe, depends upon service and selfless devotion to duty. At present Mahatma Gandhi, the greatest national leader of India, is living with the utmost frugality and still his honour and prestige remain intact. By bringing forward this amendment the Congress Party do not mean that they have no regard or respect for the Speaker. The fact is that the Congress has all along been demanding that the fixing of fat salaries should be commensurate with the financial position of the public at large and the poverty of the country. It is an admitted fact that India is the poorest country on the face of the earth, where the daily income of a person is six or seven pice. In view of this the proposal of paying a salary of Rs. 100 per diem to the Speaker is simply intolerable. Before I was elected to the Assembly, I used to hear about the Unionist Party in this House. I wondered as to what was the nature of this union or unity. On arriving here I learnt that this union or unity existed amongst a set of moneyed people, rich landlords, persons drawing fat salaries and vested interests, who during their election campaigns professed to have every sympathy with the poor zamindars but the very first thing they accomplished in the Assembly was to fix salaries at Rs. 100 or Rs. 125 per day for some of their proteges.

Recently the crops of the poor zamindars have been totally destroyed owing to hailstorms, but these people who consider themselves the custodians of the rights of zamindars, have not the courage to take up this question in hand. The Congress Party, therefore, is forced to regard this union as not in the interest of the poor. You will be surprised to hear that certain members of the Unionist Party personally told me that their heart was with the Congress but for some reasons they were compelled to side with their party. Now the Unionist Party is at liberty to pass measures by sheer force of numbers. But will time indicate that this union cannot last for any length of time.

My second submission is, we have often been told by government members that we should take the maximum advantage out of the new constitution. Our view point is that nothing good can accrue from it. But the maximum benefit has appeared in the form of granting the maximum amount of salaries to Ministers and the Speaker. From this point of view the Unionist Party has really been a great success.

The Unionist Party has been proclaiming in no uncertain terms that peasants and petty proprietors stand to gain by the inauguration of the new constitution. But I can say without any fear of contradiction that as compared with them, we the congressmen have done more useful work in rural areas. We are fully conversant with the difficulties of the zamindars. We can be of greater use to the zamindars than the Unionist Party. I can say on the strength of my personal experience that in spite of my being an urban representative I served the rural areas of Rohtak in the capacity of a Congress volunteer. I have witnessed how the zamindar earns his livelihood with the sweat of his brow. But the pity of it is, the sum of nine crores of rupees which comes out of his pocket, is squandered in paying fat salaries to highly placed government officers. In this way the big zamindars only stand to gain while the peasants and small proprietors are losers all along the line. Before this we used to complain about the fat salaries paid to Englishmen. But now when the new constitution has been inaugurated we are face to face with the same difficulty. The only difference is that a brown bureaucracy has stepped into the shoes of the white bureaucracy.

The first item in the programme of the Unionist Party is to lighten the burden of the zamindars, to save the property of the poor and to extend as far as possible a helping hand to those who are in need of it but it is a pity that the members of the Unionist Party have mistaken their calling. They seem to be under the impression that it is high time for them to make a parade of their powers and show to the world that they are all powerful Ministers. The Unionist Party might well be likened to those able-bodied beggars generally to be found on railway stations and in railway carriages with small wooden boxes in their hand asking the travelling public to contribute something towards the maintenance of Gau Shala. Just as these Gau Shala walas go about saying "Dan do, Gau Mata ko dan do," the Unionist Party claims to champion the cause of the zamindars. Probably you are aware of the fact that these people who go about asking for "dan" enter into an agreement with the managers of the Gau Shalas that whatever they realize in the form of "dan" will be distributed in the ratio of $\frac{1}{3}$ for themselves, $\frac{1}{3}$ for the managers and $\frac{1}{3}$ for the Gau shalas. Do the Unionist Party propose to act like these Gau shala wallas by fixing fat salaries for their proteges? It is a thousand pities that nobody on the opposite benches cares anything for the poverty-stricken, downtrodden, wretched zamindars. These people have taken no steps for ameliorating the condition of the poor. The position of those officials who say "we are serving the country" is just like that of the big bellied people who are working in the Gau shalas.

Woe betide the zamindars whom nobody even cares to listen, whereas these people say, where should we get money from to purchase our motor cars? I would certainly have supported this Bill if its object had been to maintain the dignity of the Chair. : but this question is not concerned with his personality. It is a question which is directly connected with the inadequate income and heavy expenditure of the province. These officials, however, are slaves of prestige and money, want a motor and house allowance. I would earnestly request the Honourable Speaker to preside over this House by accepting the minimum amount of salary because from our, that is, the Congress point of view in it lies the greatest dignity and the greatest splendour.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Chaudhri Fazal Ali (Gujrat East, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): It is a matter of gratification that some voices have risen also from the opposite benches in favour of the zamindars and we are glad to hear them. May these demonstrations of sympathy be true and if the members sitting on the opposite benches remain constant in showing their sympathy in this way, the zamindars would gain a lot and we would be much obliged. Several measures for the betterment of zamindars have from time to time been placed before the House, but none from those benches has ever shown a genuine sympathy for them. Perhaps it is not forgotten that when the Relief of Indebtedness Bill was before the Council, our brethren on the opposite benches opposed it tooth and nail. (Mr. Krishna Gopal Dutt: Who opposed it?) I am not referring to anybody.

Mr. Speaker: When an honourable member wishes to ask a question, he should do so through the Chair.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: The honourable member is referring to certain statements which have never been made in the speech of the honourable member who has just preceded him.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan: The honourable member should give an opportunity to members on this side of the House also to speak.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: I may point out to the honourable Leader of the House that when the honourable member is making references he may point out to the members on his own side who are opposing the amendment.

Mr. Speaker: It is not a point of order. It is a speech.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan: May I request the honourable member through you, Sir, that he should show some courtesy by allowing a member on this side of the House also to speak? Such interruptions are not likely to improve the tone of the House.

Mr. Speaker: The honourable member will proceed with his speech. I shall see that other members do not interfere.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: Again on a point of order, Sir. I want to speak in vernacular so that the other members may understand what I am saying. I would like you to correct the anomaly in the rules. I want to draw the attention of the honourable member to a fact but he does not understand the English language.

Mr. Speaker: I am entirely at one with the honourable member. I have already remarked that so far as our province is concerned, section 85 of the Government of India Act requires to be amended immediately, and hope that the Leader of the House, as already requested, will do his best to have the needful done as early as possible.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Chaudhri Fazal Ali (Urdu): I have neither referred to any honourable member in particular nor am I casting a reflection upon any particular member. It is bad manners to interrupt me again and again. I was saying that the proper time for showing sympathy for the zamindars was when resolutions for lightening the burden of zamindars were being moved in the House and occasions like that would rise again. (Pandit Shri Ram Sharma: The honourable member is irrelevant).

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: I would again like to draw your attention to the fact that the honourable member on the other side of the House is giving expression to certain ideas which are altogether irrelevant to the amendment before the House.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Chaudhri Fazal Ali (Urdu) : The salaries of the Honourable Ministers have been fixed but the question of Speaker's salary still remains undecided. When so much has been done and only a little is left, I feel that it is tantamount to swallowing a camel and straining at a gnat. I do not think it is necessary to stress this point. Nothing good will be achieved by it. If the difficulties of zamindars can be solved by reducing the salary of the Honourable Speaker, we would request him to perform his duties in an honorary capacity and similarly we can request the Honourable Ministers to follow suit and to accept lower salaries or work in an honorary capacity. By the grace of God they are all well off and we hope they would agree to this proposal. The question is, whether our difficulties would be solved in this way and whether it is likely to redound to our benefit? In my opinion the condition of the zamindars is best described in the following couplet :—

انگر کفچے کنی ہر عامیان بخش رسد مر ہو کدوائے را ہوا ہے

In the first instance you must reduce the salaries of all Government servants in the province and then reduce the salaries of the Speaker and the Ministers in the same proportion.

An honourable member has just said that the total amount of the revenue of the province is nine crores and the total debt of the zamindars one hundred and forty crores. When this is the condition of our province, I am afraid, any reduction in the salaries of the Speaker and the Ministers would not be beneficial for the zamindars unless some other measures for ameliorating their condition are taken in hand. I have already said that the Opposition made no end of trouble in this House when a proposal for reducing the rate of interest came under discussion. (An honourable member : The honourable member is irrelevant.) I am quite relevant. What I mean to say is that we should agree to the principle of damdapat, i.e., the principal plus interest should not exceed double the amount lent. I make this suggestion to the opposite benches in all seriousness inasmuch as this proposal would prove a great boon for the zamindars. I have never indulged in Hindu-Muslim disputes and shall never do so in future. This request is addressed to those Muslims also who have just begun charging interest on loans. I know that the Congress party is inclined to show its sympathy towards the zamindars but this is a mere pretence. There is a well known maxim by an eminent Englishman that our tongue is not meant to express our thoughts but to conceal them and similar is the case here.

Lala Bhim Sen Sachar : Is not the honourable member making reflections on this honourable House.

Honourable the Premier : The honourable member did not refer to any honourable member particularly.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : By saying tongue (language) was he referring to the language of anybody outside?

Mr. Speaker : Will the honourable member please repeat what he said?

Khan Bahadur Nawab Chaudhri Fazal Ali : It is an English quotation which means that our tongue is not meant to express our thoughts but its function is to conceal them.

Mr. Speaker : That is not a reflection on anybody. It is a general remark.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Chaudhri Fazal Ali : I have made a general remark that is applicable to everybody, applicable to us also. I did not mean to reflect on anybody particularly but if the cap fits anybody he is welcome to don it.

At the time of fixing somebody's salary it is necessary to see whether it would suffice to meet his needs and if not, the person concerned will not be inclined to work for a mere pittance and if he does so it will not be for long. We should not let our Speaker and Ministers go abegging from door to door to make both ends meet. Our Ministers and our Speaker should be sufficiently well off so as to perform their duties efficiently.

خداوند، کتب بحق مشغول پروا کندہ روزی پروا کندہ دل

These officers can work satisfactorily only if they have no monetary worries. The Congress has decided that the salary of every office-holder should not in any case exceed Rs. 500 per mensem, i.e., the Speaker should not get more than Rs. 500, the Deputy Speaker's salary should not exceed Rs. 500 and similarly the Ministers and the Governor should not be paid more than Rs. 500 a month.

It is an apt illustration of the well-known maxim :—

تکے سہو بھاجی تکے - پیر کھاجا اندھیر نگری بیدان راجا

The Congress decision is highly undesirable. A person who deserves Rs. 400 must be given Rs. 400, a person deserving Rs. 500 must be given Rs. 500, and a person deserving Rs. 600 must be given Rs. 600 and so on. When fixing salaries due regard must be paid to the position, ability and nature of the work to be performed by the incumbent of the post. The man who fixes salaries should see to it whether the employee can conveniently live on the salary granted to him. The saying پروا کندہ روزی پروا کندہ دل should not apply to any holder of office. A man cannot work satisfactorily unless he is free from all monetary worries. If a labourer who deserves 4 annas per diem as his daily wages is paid only two annas he will not be able to work for long. His wages would hardly suffice him to keep body and soul together and the poor fellow will not be able to carry on for long. In order to benefit the zamindars, we should bring about relief of indebtedness which is pressing so heavily upon them. It is common knowledge that the masses, especially the zamindars, are constantly involved in petty quarrels and that litigation is ruining them. So the proper way in which the lawyers can give a practical demonstration of their solicitude for the zamindars is to reduce their fees and if the doctors too were to charge less for medical attendance, the peasantry will soon be better off. Further relief can be secured if the Directors of various companies are prepared to accept lower salaries.

It is then and then only that any reduction in the salaries of the Ministers and the Speakers can be accounted as a real saving which will benefit the masses.

You cannot bring about an economic regeneration of the province by whittling down the Speaker's salary alone. He is, by the grace of God, a man of substance and can rely upon his personal resources: but I want to submit, Sir, that it is a fallacy to suggest that this sum of Rs. 3,000 would suffice to solve the difficulties of the zamindars. Their lot can be improved only by lightening the burden of nine crores of rupees which they have to pay.

Let us enhance the public revenues to ten crores as required and devote some of it to develop roads in the rural areas so as to counterbalance, howsoever partially, the advantages which the urban people derive from motor cars, aeroplanes and the mall roads. The zamindars should be called upon to pay one half of this sum, i.e., five crores, and thus enjoy a concession of four crores. The remaining five crores should be charged to the non-agricultural classes. If the capitalistic businessmen are willing to share this burden equally, it will undoubtedly bring prosperity to the zamindar. It is not fair, Sir, that he should starve, while others are leading a life of luxury and ease. The attitude of the Opposition towards the poverty and destitution of the zamindars may be described in the words of the poet:—

— باد ہوا میں ہمہ آوردہ توست

You must not forget that these Councils are the result of the services rendered by the zamindars during the Great War. Those who are indulging in tall talk now, were then sitting tight in their homes, while the zamindars were laying down their lives in the open battelfield, and their sons and brothers were cheerfully receiving bullets in their chests. These Councils, I repeat, are the reward of those sacrifices.

In future too, if need be, the zamindars would not fail to risk their lives in the defence of their country. The reins of the Government are now in our own hands. Let us, therefore, do something practical to cure our troubles. You are anxious for the welfare of the masses. Are you then prepared to share one-half of the zamindar's burden? Pay five out of the ten crores and we are ready to pay the rest.

Those who wish to wreck the Government, are out to mislead the people by their fiery speeches. It has been said that the policy of the Unionists would benefit only the big zamindars. But I submit Sir, that the interests of all land-holders, big and small, are identical. If the land-revenue is reduced by two annas per bigha, a small land-holder owning say ten bighas would save Rs. 1-4-0, and a landlord with 2,000 bighas, would save Rs. 250. My point is that we are all in the same boat and as the poet has said:—

اگر نای تو بیکی سے

By way of cheap propaganda you are at liberty to say anything you like. But the zamindar's prosperity is not dependent upon this sum of Rs. 3,000. Some honourable member from the Opposition has said:—

من از بیگانگان هرگز فنامم که با من هر چه کرد آن آشنا کرد

[K. B. Nawab Ch. Fazal Ali.]

Just think over it and see whether it applies to us or to you. Your professions of sympathy with the zamindars will be given a fair trial when practical legislation for their welfare is undertaken. You are aware, Sir, that communal riots are occurring everywhere. The good of the zamindars and the country lies in our trying to eradicate this curse of communalism. Additional police would then become superfluous and a lot of money can be saved by reducing the police force.

I appeal to the Opposition benches that they should learn to do some practical good to the country and the masses. Let them come forward and join hands with me. I am willing to accompany them if they are ready to go about the country-side with a view to ameliorate the condition of the peasantry, and, if necessary, I will even renounce my present occupations. Let us start this campaign as soon as the present session ends.

It is undoubtedly true that the zamindar's lot is deplorable, but it is wrong to suggest that whatever is being done in the Assembly is done for the benefit of the big zamindars and that the interests of the peasant proprietors are being altogether ignored. The big zamindars are related to small ones by ties of blood. They are uncles, cousins, brothers or brothers-in-law of the small-holders. So nobody can claim to be a greater well-wisher of the peasantry than ourselves. All your clamour of sympathy for the zamindar resolves to the simple truth contained in the Punjabi saying:—

مان نالوں ہجلی پھایر کئی

We can understand their needs better than yourself. Yours is sheer propaganda, but I am sure it would not affect the Unionist Party in the least. The more you criticise us and bring allegations against us, the greater will be our cohesion and strength. If we relax in our activities the rebukes of our brethren outside will lash us into active solicitude again.

In view of the arduous nature of the Speaker's work, Rs. 3,000 is not at all an excessive remuneration. My submission is that to pay fantastically low salaries is an unsound policy.

For some time past I have been connected with a Central Co-operative Bank. Some of my friends and myself worked there, one by one, in an honorary capacity. I always tried to pay the staff as meagrely as possible, and for a number of years, our capital did not exceed two lakhs. A friend told me that so long as the office staff was poorly paid, the bank would not flourish. According to his advice I employed efficient men at Rs. 100 and even Rs. 150 per mensem. The result was that the Bank made an amazing progress. Its capital has now reached 22 lakhs and we have been able to dispense with Government aid. How true is the Persian maxim:—

Adequate remuneration is indispensable. A country that does not make reasonable provision for the maintenance of its workers, can make no advancement. It is a wrong policy to keep the workers in want of the barest necessities of life. Will this Assembly never be dissolved? Will it not comprise different men at different times? If today Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan and other dignitaries constitute the Ministry, tomorrow some poor persons will step into their shoes. It is true that the members of the present Cabinet can live upon their private fortunes, but their poor successors will have no such resources. So it will be necessary to pay them adequate salaries, otherwise they will not be able to discharge their duties efficiently, do you want to deprive the talented poor of their due remuneration, so that they should not even think of forming Ministries. The following verse properly applies to this view of yours:—

چو نرہیے گاند آتش بجام کردند

We have in mind not only Sir Sikander and other eminent men, but their poor successors as well.

Only just now the Congress members were insisting upon their right to speak in Urdu. I too agree with this demand. But the Speaker cannot help it. The Act says that those who know English must speak in English. What we should try to do is to get the law on the subject altered.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is the honourable member in order in addressing the members direct and not the Chair?

Khan Bahadur Nawab Chaudhri Fazal Ali : I am about to finish. I had no intention of attacking anybody. I wanted only to lay simple facts before the House, so that my party is not taken in by what the Opposition has been saying.

1 P. M.

The House then adjourned for lunch.

The Assembly re-assembled at 2-30 p.m., of the clock. Mr. Speaker in the Chair.

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT.

POSITION OF AGRICULTURISTS DUE TO HAILSTORMS.

Chaudhri Kartar Singh (Hoshiarpur West, General, Rural), (Urdu) : I beg to move—

That the Assembly do now adjourn.

During the last two months different districts of the Punjab have experienced heavy rainfall and hailstorms, in particular, the villages in the Multan division have been hard hit. The kisans of Cheechawatni have nothing left to live upon, and Janglis of the ilaqa spent three days and three nights without any food; and to add to their misery the money lenders of that area taking refuge behind the Relief of Indebtedness Act refused to lend the sufferers ready money for buying flour and other necessities of life. (shame, shame): I have no sympathy with those money lenders but I am constrained to say that the rich zamindars of that ilaqa, who draw huge pensions from the Government Treasury, also failed to come to their aid. Then again an area 150 by 7 miles in the Montgomery district experienced the worst of hailstorms and heavy rainfall has seriously damaged the crops. If the Honourable Member for Revenue takes the trouble of visiting that area he will be convinced of the truth of the statement that areas, where hailstorm has played havoc with the wheat crop, look as if no wheat has been sown there. The kisans of this part of the country have been completely ruined and in some districts land revenue and water rates have not been paid up for the last two years.

Mr. Speaker : The general condition of kisans is not under consideration.

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : I am sorry I do not understand you.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dut : The honourable member is bringing home to the members of this House the appalling condition of the peasants which has been aggravated by this act of nature. I think the honourable member is quite in order. What he is saying has a great bearing on the subject under discussion.

Mr. Speaker : It is clear from the wording of the motion that the matter under discussion is the position of the agriculturists of the province as a result of the recent hailstorms. That, therefore, is the only issue before the House.

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : Now I would like to state a few facts about the extensive damage done by the hailstorms in different districts of the Punjab. In the Ferozepore ilaqa about 2,000 acres have been seriously damaged. About 300 villages have been destroyed in Tahsil Okara. I have heard that the Commissioner of the Multan Division has sanctioned rupees one lakh for the relief of the hail stricken areas. This report has been corroborated by today's papers as well. At this time of financial stringency, when the result of the poor peasants' hard labour for six months has been reduced to nothing by the unkind hand of nature, the sum of rupees one lakh is much too small as compared with their distress caused by this visitation from the heavens. At the most each one of them will not receive more than Rs. 10. In view of such widespread and appalling distress this sum is quite inadequate and insufficient for relief disbursements. In addition to this it is also worthy of note that at such a time of misery and distress the Government has decided to realise the revenue rates for the fodder crop. I have been told by my friends that the Government is bent upon realising its dues. When the kisans have failed to pay up the land revenue and water rates for the last two years how would they be able to meet this demand of the Government, and at a time when they have been deprived of the barest necessities of life? I have drawn the attention of the honourable members to this bolt from the blue which has taken the people unawares and I hope that all of us who claim to represent the electorate are in duty bound to help them in their dire necessity. I appeal to the Treasury Benches to visit the scene of calamity themselves and to give a substantial part of their salaries towards the relief of the sufferers. (An honourable member : Let us raise a subscription.) I would also request the honourable members to visit these areas and see for themselves the real state of affairs. What the Government does in such cases is that a Tahsildar is sent to such places, who makes a report after he has toured the countryside. Then that report is published in some of the papers. This is merely an official inquiry but it is productive of nothing tangible. (An honourable member : I have also visited that area.) I too have visited these areas and in Khanewal I discovered that the people were dying of hunger. Till now neither the Deputy Commissioner nor any other Government officer has made any inquiry.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Which villages in the Montgomery district has the honourable member visited ?

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : I visited two places at Khanewal, the first being Cheechawatni and the second an area of two miles round about the station of Khanewal. Moreover I myself live at Okara and I can assure you that serious damage has been done to the villages lying near about it, and I have seen poor villagers actually crying. Further Khanewal itself has twice been visited by this hailstorm havoc.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I have learnt that 200 villages have been completely destroyed.

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : In Amritsar district in addition to the wheat crop serious damage has been done to mangoe groves. In view of these circumstances when serious damage to crops has been caused in different districts of the Punjab and especially in the Multan division it is not difficult to imagine the plight of the poor kisans. Will you be content with expressing mere lip sympathy or will you do something substantial for ameliorating the condition of these poor people ? The situation warrants the distribution of at least rupees 50 lakhs as taccavi loans without interest. I think the sum of one lakh is quite inadequate for purposes of relief and it would be spent in Khanewal Tahsil alone where the distress has been especially severe. I appeal to the first zamindara Government, which claims to champion the cause of the poor peasants, to consider the case of these poor people sympathetically, to regard their woes as their own and to take pity on them. Before I finish my speech I once again appeal to the Treasury benches to give a substantial part of their salaries towards the relief of the sufferers.

Mr. Speaker : The motion is—

That the Assembly do now adjourn.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan (Premier): I do not want to take part in the debate as such because my honourable colleague on my left will reply on behalf of the Government. I merely wish to point out some mis-statements and fallacies in the arguments advanced by my honourable friend opposite who has brought this motion. He has mentioned that the Commissioner of Multan had sanctioned one lakh of rupees for the whole of that ilaqa. The honourable member is probably not aware that that one lakh of rupees was sanctioned out of the famine relief fund to be distributed among the sufferers who have no food, and for providing fodder to their cattle. It was not a loan. Nothing of the sort. It is intended to be free gift to the people in the area which has been devastated by this unfortunate calamity. If more money is needed for relief you may rest assured that Government will not be found wanting in providing more funds for the purpose, apart from the remissions and other concessions to which they are entitled. I want to make that point clear. Again my honourable friend said that he has visited two villages. The report which I have received mentions more than 300 villages, that have been affected.

[Hon. Sir Sikandar Hayat-Khan.]

and some of them have been seriously affected both in Montgomery and in Multan districts. I am afraid that in at least 100 villages there has been complete devastation and the standing crops have been totally destroyed. You may rest assured that these villages will not only get necessary relief but they will also get remission full and complete remission in all cases where crops have been totally destroyed. Similarly in some parts of the Multan district and Muzaffargarh and Dera Ghazi Khan districts there has been considerable damage. There has been some damage in Lyallpur, Lahore and Jhang districts also and their case will receive similar sympathetic consideration from the Government. As soon as the reports of the calamity were received the Commissioner sent out detailed instructions for appraising the damage at once, and asked the local officers to treat with greatest sympathy the people who had suffered and to afford every possible relief to them. Government also conveyed through the Commissioner to the people in the affected areas their fullest and deep sympathy and an assurance that they may expect every possible help from Government within its resources. (Applause.)

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia (Ludhiana and Ferozepore, General, Rural) : The assurance given by the Honourable Premier on the other side that the Government will take the matter into consideration and as far as possible remissions will be given with regard to revenue in those districts should be welcomed. I may inform the House that I have also received a letter from some of the villages in the Ferozepore district, and about 14 villages in another Thana have also suffered from the recent attack. On Saturday night when I was at Ludhiana I also witnessed a mild attack in different areas of my district. Later on I have been receiving reports from other villages that the hailstorm has done havoc there. I have to submit that in such cases when the crops were just ripe for the harvest the hailstorm was most untimely and there was already dearth of fodder and other things. Therefore, it is all the more important that honourable members on the other side should take into consideration the points that are involved. It is not a matter on which party questions should come up as they come up in other matters. It is a matter that concerns the agriculturists, the poor peasant of the province. In my own area unfortunately the peasants have very small holdings. An area of more than 80,000 bighas has suffered and I may also mention for the information of the Honourable Premier that the villages such as Budni Kalan, Budni Ranka, Rania, Khote and several other villages have suffered. A question will be asked again by the Honourable Premier whether I have visited those villages. I have submitted in the beginning that I have in my possession a letter from the people of those areas. I believe that that letter has not been written to me for the purpose of my making a speech on the floor of this House. As a matter of fact the condition is unfortunate there and I may also say that they cannot meet the revenue demands if the Government does not favourably consider their case. I, therefore, submit that in this case the Unionist benches should take this matter into their careful consideration so that the peasantry will not suffer simply because their case is being now advocated from the Congress benches. I represent the rural population of those two districts and therefore as representing the rural population I can claim that some remission should be made in spite of the fact that unfortunately from their view point and fortunately from my own view point I have the privilege to sit on the benches, the chief aim of which is to help the peasantry of the province and to see that their grievances are remedied at an early date and at all cost, even though those who advocate their cause in this House have to suffer for the service of those whom they represent.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan began speaking in Urdu.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is the honourable member not in a position to make a speech in English ?

Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I thought the criterion fixed on the other side was that Matrics could perhaps speak in Urdu and I am a poor Matric only.

Mr. Speaker : An Examination is not a criterion in every case.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Mr. Speaker, there is a Persian couplet :—

ہو بلائے نر آسمان آید گرچہ بود یگوان قضا باشد
 ہو زمین نا رسید، مے ہر سد خانہ زمیندار کجا باشد

(Interruption.) I have purposely used the word 'zamindar' because every calamity that comes from heaven falls on the head of poor zamindars. (An honourable member : Big salaries too.) The zamindar has been very hard hit by the recent hailstorm. I am a tenant-at-will in the vicinity of the area which is affected, having a small holding in the Okara tahsil. I quite agree with my honourable friend opposite that the condition of some of the villages is really terrible. I think this year has not been very auspicious not only for the poor zamindars but also for some of the old Ministers. For example, people like myself had to go out of office and have also suffered terribly on account of hailstorm. Sir Jogendra Singh has suffered heavy loss and he has my entire sympathy. All of his area is gone. But I am glad to find that everything possible is being done by Government. I happened to go to Multan recently and see the Commissioner. I think the House will be very pleased to know that we have got a very sympathetic officer in Mr. Garbett who is now in charge of the Multan Division. He was thoroughly in touch with the whole situation and has already taken the necessary steps. My honourable friend was talking of relief of one lakh. That was only temporary relief for those people who suffered. But that is not the extent of the remission. A rough estimate of the remission that was given to me by Mr. Garbett in the matter of land revenue alone comes out about 6 lakhs. He has sent orders to Deputy Commissioners to go out at once and report the extent of the damage. Not only that ; he also asked the officials of the Agricultural Department to go to the spot. The officials have been alive to the calamity and danger that has occurred and any zamindar from that area will bear me out. Whatever possible is being done. The condition of the crop generally throughout the province was most satisfactory. But suddenly this calamity has come in. The Leader of the House has stated that every possible step has been taken for relief and remission.

[K. B. Nawab Muzaffar Khan.]

I further understand that besides one lakh of rupees the Financial Commissioner, Revenue, has asked for further sum of 80 thousand rupees. I hope the Government will sanction the extra sum.

I would further appeal to the members opposite to give practical proof of their sympathy by subscribing for the relief of the poor.

Khawaja Ghulam Hussain (Multan Division Towns, Muhammadan, Urban): In view of the attitude taken by the Treasury benches and the assurance given by the Honourable Leader of the House, it is absolutely useless, in my humble opinion, to go on with this question. I hope Government will take sympathetic attitude towards the matter.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan (Jullundur North, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): I am very glad to note that our Government too have expressed their sympathy with the motion under consideration and that they too are at one with us in so far as the grant of compensation to zamindars is concerned and that they are conscious of the losses the zamindars have suffered through the recent hailstorms. But mere lip-sympathy will not do, as the repetition of the word "sugar" can never sweeten the mouth. In order to give a practical shape to this expression of sympathy, it is necessary to appoint an inquiry committee which should thoroughly examine the position and suggest ways and means for ameliorating the condition of the poor zamindars. I am obliged to make this suggestion because ordinarily Government officials are accustomed to take action on paper only without doing anything practically. Consequently it will be essential to make special arrangements for this purpose. I am afraid, the Government will do nothing beyond compiling a report after the routine procedure is carried out. My first and foremost proposal in this behalf is, that the Honourable Revenue Minister and the Premier should immediately proceed to the scene of disaster after the Assembly session is over. My second proposal is that a committee consisting of some of the most competent and independent members of the Assembly should be appointed to inquire into the matter and submit a detailed report. This committee should be called upon to examine the steps which the local officers have taken for redressing the grievances of the zamindars. There is yet another point which I wish to stress and it is this, that on occasions like this there is the danger of corruption taking place among the petty revenue officers. The persons offering some gratification to the patwaris will receive all possible concessions and remissions but the man who would rely on the sense of justice and sympathy of the government, will have to go without any such concessions. I am not talking of things which exist only in my mind and imagination. I have made this statement on the strength of my personal experience. Such things do happen very frequently.

Moreover, when we consider that the zamindars cannot make both ends meet even when their harvests are good, how will they fare after their crops have altogether been destroyed by the hailstorms? It is, therefore, essential that steps should be taken for doing the fullest justice to the claims of the zamindars. A committee consisting of suitable persons may be appointed thoroughly to examine the case and to suggest ways and means for redressing the grievances of the poor peasants. We should also guard against the appointment of pro-government members who in order to please their masters would be inclined to sacrifice the interests of the agriculturists.

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Fazal Din (Ajnala, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): I am glad to be able to welcome the proposal put forward by my honourable friend Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan but it will be quite in the fitness of things to say that it is not fair to mistrust Government officials on such occasions, because the rules regarding the grant of remissions necessitated by natural calamities are too clear to admit of any doubt. I have served in the Revenue and Canal Departments for about 30 years and I have also worked as a Deputy Collector for some time. Consequently, on the strength of my personal experience, I can say without any fear of contradiction that in the Canal Department, at least, efforts are made to do full justice to the legitimate grievances of the zamindars. The matter is not left to the patwaris alone. In the case of a natural calamity like hail-storm, responsible officers visit the scene of disaster and generally the whole affected area is checked by these officers themselves. Remission is granted afterwards. But this is not considered sufficient to meet the situation. Something else is also done in this connection and it is this. In order that the work of agriculture should go on smoothly, taccavi is granted to the zamindars and they are enabled to buy seed. Similarly the zamindars who have lost their bullocks are granted taccavi to buy the bullocks they need. In short all possible facilities are provided for the agriculturists in distress. In cases of canal irrigated areas where the loss amounts to three-fourths of the whole crop, full remission is granted, and in the barani area too, investigation is made to ascertain the amount to be remitted. In view of all this, I am obliged to say that if we ourselves undertake the duty of inspection and investigation, I am afraid, laymen as we are, we will fail to form a correct estimate of the actual losses and the amount of remissions to be granted to the zamindars. We had better, therefore, leave this complicated work to expert officers of the Canal and Revenue Departments who are fully qualified to do full justice to the case.

Master Kabul Singh (Jullundur East, Sikh, Rural) (Punjabi): The views expressed by the honourable member who has just sat down, have my full sympathy. But the real point, as put by the ex-Minister for Education, Sir Firoz Khan Noon, is that in view of the miserable plight of the poor peasant of the country, it is very difficult to say whether he should continue the profession of agriculture or he should take to beggary instead. The Government benches have held out various pledges to help the poor peasants, but I am obliged to ask whether the poor peasants, whom the lack of food has compelled to fast, are observing these fasts under some religious commandments or is it in obedience to some ordinances issued by the Government? I do not wish to go into the details of the case. The truth is that the big landlords are out to exploit the smaller landholders. The Government is only an assumed garb to conceal this act of exploitation. I remember how His Excellency the Viceroy once happened to fix his tour in the Jullundur district and was pleased to halt at Phillaur for some time. Wide publicity was given to the view that the present Viceroy was a staunch supporter of the zamindars and that he was the veritable king of the peasants. Elaborate arrangements were made to welcome His Excellency but what happened? Let the doleful tale of the poor peasants be untold. They own nothing which they can dispose of in order to pay off the heavy Government dues. Things have come to such a pass that the poor peasants cannot even make both ends meet. Many a time the newspapers have voiced this grievance of the agriculturists but to no purpose. The Government has taken no steps to provide even a crust of bread to those peasants whose crops have altogether been destroyed by the recent hailstorms.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan: The Government had taken the necessary steps long before you became conscious of the damage done by the hailstorms, and food was promptly provided to those who were in need of it.

Master Kabul Singh: I want to say, with all the emphasis at my command, that the condition of the peasants is generally very bad, and the mere act of providing food to the residents of hailstorms-stricken area, can hardly suffice to better the lot of the poor peasants. It is high time that steps should be taken generally to ameliorate the condition of the agriculturists. (An honourable member: Irrelevant). If a discussion of the general condition of the peasants is not allowed, I have to say no more about the recent hailstorms. I, therefore, resume my seat.

Sardar Rur Singh (Ferozepore East, Sikh, Rural) (Urdu): I have no desire to waste the time of the House. I will state my object briefly. There is a thana Nihal Singh in the ilaqa, the poor zamindars of which have sent me here as their representative. The crops of fourteen villages under the jurisdiction of that thana have been totally destroyed. As it is my duty that I should place their difficulties before you, I request the House to ask the Government to take immediate steps to remove the hardships of the poor zamindars and rid them of the consequences following the calamity. With these words I resume my seat.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood (Amritsar, Muhammadan, Rural): I rise to oppose the motion for adjournment of the House. I wish to state, at the very outset, that we on this side of the House are second to none in practical and active sympathy for our brethren, the poor peasants of the Punjab, who are suffering to-day under the infliction. More than that by our constructive service to the peasantry of the Punjab, we wish to be judged by God and men, and if we fail to give active help and sympathy to the afflicted peasantry at this juncture, we will not be worthy of our seats on the Treasury benches. In the same spirit I will appeal to my learned friends of the Opposition that they should appreciate that we have now got a fully non-official House. As such, they should, in accordance with the conventions of a responsible Opposition, maintain in their attack the outlook of an alternative Government. They should avoid the temptation of an empty play to the gallery. We have to tackle a difficult question, involving misery to many due to an act of nature beyond our control. The attitude of my honourable friends of the Opposition in such matters should be, I submit, to offer suggestions, practical and constructive, and if they find that the Treasury benches are not sympathetic then only they would be justified to bring such motions.

Speaking not only for myself, but also for others on these benches, I wish to declare—in all sincerity—that we have felt this misfortune of hailstorm as a personal shock. Moreover, we cannot and shall not be content with mere lip loyalty or lip sympathy. The infliction is an economic problem and it cannot be solved by verbal jugglery. We mean to do everything possible to alleviate the suffering of our brethren in distress. We have already started actively. The Honourable the Revenue Minister in his preliminary remarks gave some indication. He said that immediately after the hailstorm fell, the Commissioners concerned not only issued instructions, but went to the spot personally. The Commissioner of Multan particularly, who is entitled to the appreciation of the whole House, issued immediate instructions for relief work and forthwith proposed suspension of all land revenue collections in the affected area. The deputy commissioners also went to the spot. One lakh out of the famine fund has already been allotted—not as a loan but as a free gift. A statement has been issued by the Honourable the Revenue Minister showing the figures received up to date. The figure of 6 to 7 lakhs for remission and assistance in various forms has been estimated so far for the relief of the areas concerned. This is not all. Further statistics are being collected, and I am sure, I am speaking with the full concurrence of the members of this side of the House that they will help in the fullest possible manner those who suffered from this infliction. I was particularly happy to listen to the statement of the Honourable the Minister when he said that in certain cases, where the existing Kharaba rules do not permit of help being given, he was revising those rules so that full assistance may be given to zamindars. Instructions have been issued to all the deputy commissioners that they should have the fullest possible statistics collected, of all persons entitled to relief, under their personal supervision. Taccavi, liberal remission of revenue, distribution of seed and all possible help is contemplated forthwith. It is already being given. We are mainly the first Zamindara Government of the Province. The woes of the zamindars are our woes. Their joys are our joys and we wish them to know and feel as such. We on this side of the House are determined that so far as the economic improvement of this province is concerned, and so far as the betterment of agricultural conditions of this province are concerned, and so far as the tackling of the unemployment problem is concerned, we will be second to none in our efforts to achieve constructive results. We are pledged to it. We shall not fail.

One word more and I have done. It is most unfortunate that in the very beginning of its constructive programme the Government of the province stands face to face with a serious public affliction. Our duty is to give to the Government our fullest support and sympathy and not to unjustifiably embarrass it. If the Opposition has any constructive suggestions let them offer those and they may be sure of a most sympathetic consideration. I would, therefore, appeal that in the circumstances explained by the Honourable Leader of the House, the motion of adjournment should not be pressed.

Diwan Chaman Lall (East Punjab Non-Union Labour): I think the matter need not have brought forth the sort of pyrotechnics and fireworks as was done by the last speaker. It is not necessary to make party capital out of the woes and miseries of a large number of peasantry in this province. But, I do not intend to make a speech. I want merely to ask the Leader of the House whether he is prepared to state in the House that wherever the damage has been done to the province as a result of the hailstorm he would order that no land revenue is to be collected and further that he will do everything in his power to offer pecuniary or other assistance to the peasantry of the affected areas.

The Honourable Sardar Sir Sundar Singh Majithia (Revenue Minister): We have already issued instructions that wherever damage has been done full relief ought to be given.

Sardar Sampuran Singh: Does it mean full remission of revenue?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan: It means that where the crops have been totally destroyed, full remission, and where they have been affected partially, proportionate relief.

Diwan Chaman Lal: May I draw the attention of the Leader of the House to the second portion of my request? It is a simple one and I do not think he will have any difficulty in acceding to the request and that is in relation to the relief to be offered to the peasant in the affected areas. Will the Leader of the House see to it that everything is done to give relief, pecuniary or otherwise? If that is done I have not the slightest doubt we will be prepared to agree to the withdrawal of this motion.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan: I can assure the honourable member opposite that the machinery was set in motion at once when we got information to assess without delay the damage done by the hailstorm and he may be sure that in urgent cases relief has already reached the people. (Applause).

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

SPEAKER'S AND DEPUTY SPEAKER'S SALARIES BILL.

Mr. Speaker: The Assembly will now resume discussion on the Punjab Legislative Assembly Speaker's and Deputy Speaker's Salaries Bill.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan: I want to know whether after an adjournment motion had been taken up and discussed we can resume the normal business of the day.

Mr. Speaker: Is there anything against it? Our practice has been that after a motion for adjournment of the House has been carried, we have continued the business of the day. But to-day's case is distinguishable inasmuch as the adjournment motion has been withdrawn. Therefore we are at liberty to proceed.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan (Jullundur North, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): This is a new Council under the new reforms and before I begin my speech I would like to give you an instance of a quarrel that arose between a blind man and a one-eyed man. The blind man being clever began to beat the one-eyed man who was comparatively weak. The latter cried out "Give me a few more blows for the eyesight of my closed eye is restored." The blind man was much surprised and asked the one-eyed man to beat him more severely so that his eye-sight may also be restored. Thereupon the one-eyed man beat the blind man to his heart's content. Our case is similar to that of the blind man. We have been severely beaten and yet our eyes have not been opened. We thought that these new reforms would do away with all our difficulties, but we are much surprised to see new difficulties cropping up and barring our way to progress. We have been speaking in Urdu for many years past in this Chamber, but now we are prohibited from doing so. I am sorry to find that uncalled for attacks have been made on certain esteemable personalities in this Assembly. We want to go by hard facts and wish to reduce the salaries of the Ministers and the Speaker. The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan is a man of great ability. He has sacrificed seven thousand rupees a month and has accepted a post carrying only Rs. four thousands. If Mr. Abdul Haye had continued his practice he would be earning something like ten to fifteen thousand rupees a month. Chaudhri Chhotu Ram is a man of substance and I need hardly say anything about him. What I mean to say is that we should not question their bonâ fides. We have to see whether our pockets can bear the burden of such fat salaries, whether the zamindar who will have to shoulder this burden can afford to bear the strain.

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie : Is the honourable member speaking to the motion ?

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : All creatures have individual instincts of their own. For example, some animals are by their nature fit to watch at night and if they are given a heavy meal they would be sleeping all the night. In my opinion these salaries should be reduced lest these gentlemen should neglect their duties and have an easy time of it.

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie : I am afraid the member is irrelevant again.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is not speaking to the motion.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : The second reason why we are inclined to reduce their salaries is this: If these salaries are not reduced we shall have to request the European officers to reduce theirs and they would say "Who are you to ask us when your own brethren are getting fat salaries themselves."

In our country the income per head is not the same as it is in Europe. The income per head in our country is 6 piece a day. A labourer in our country does not get enough to keep body and soul together nor has he got sufficient clothing to hide his nakedness. It is very bad indeed to waste this money which the labourer has earned by the sweat of his brow. When there has been no increase in the provincial revenues, and no reduction has been made in the taxes, how can you expect the poor zamindar to shoulder this heavy burden of fat salaries.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is repeating the arguments advanced by other speakers.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : If the average income of a labourer comes to Rs. 2 per day, we would not at all hesitate to give rupees ten thousand a month to the Ministers and the Speaker. Under the existing circumstances and keeping in view the facts I have mentioned I would request that the salaries of our Ministers and Speaker should be reduced.

Have you ever thought of that orderly of yours, who remains at attention all the day long? Have you ever cared to know how these poor people manage to keep body and soul together?

One man gets thousands of rupees whereas the other gets sixteen annas only. Can the latter not live in a bungalow, can he not sit in a motor car? If you can increase our income up to Rs. 50 per diem, we are ready to accede to your demands.

I am obliged to say that the Ministers have unnecessarily increased their wants, they have become much too fashionable. They go to clubs and the honourable members know what these clubs are. I think, you are fully aware of the evils of these clubs. If you do not curb your desires, your desires will get the better of you. If you do not exercise control over yourself you will fall a victim to your desires and passions.

I would request the Ministers to reduce their wants, for instance do not go to pictures, do not use scents, etc. My friend Nawab Sahib attacked these benches when speaking about the rate of interest. I would like to tell him that the money grubbers are sitting near him. We are afraid that when these money grubbers and these highly paid officers join hands we are done for.

All the reformers and philanthropists that came to this world were able to reform others because they first reformed themselves. The Prophet of Islam, we are told, led a life of extreme poverty. If our leaders are genuine reformers, they should first undertake self-improvement. They are not satisfied with Rs. 500, whereas we are prepared to accept even Rs. 250. A great deal has been said about the zamindar. He is indeed destitute and famished. Those who get Rs. 5,000 will not be able to swallow a morsel of the food that he has to eat. Things are produced by him, while those who possess money consume them outright. Milk is his property but the butter must go to the rich. Justice demands that he who produces wealth by the sweat of his brow should be allowed to own it as well, and he should distribute it as he pleases. The situation in our country is rather comic, in so far as our public servants are better off than their masters. The poor zamindar has nothing beyond dry bread and a loin-cloth, while the salaried administrators enjoy teas, drinks, cinemas and motor-cars. In view of the deplorable condition of the peasantry, I urge that salaries should be considerably reduced. Rs. 500 is quite a reasonable remuneration. Have it and leave us alone.

Mr. Speaker : With the exception of perhaps some very able speakers every one has been repeating arguments already given by others. Therefore, I am inclined to accept the closure motion unless the honourable members wish to enlighten us and say things which are quite new.

Lala Duni Chand (Ambala and Simla General, Rural) : I have observed in the course of the last two or three days that no sound or logical arguments and no facts and figures and no references to other countries and provinces appeal to the members of the Government benches. Therefore I am not going that way and I am going to adopt a different line of argument.

Yesterday it was claimed by the Honourable the Leader of the House that he is there in order to serve the country. I concede that to him. In return I request him and the honourable members of the Government benches to concede one thing to us. We of the Congress party are here with the deepest and the most cherished convictions as to the requirements of the country. We believe that the programme that the Congress has put forward before the country is the only programme that can bring about the salvation of this country. I beg to submit that this programme has not been placed before the country by small and humble men like myself. It has been placed before the country by the most eminent men that you can find in this country. I would like to give the honourable members some idea regarding the proposals and as to how they are initiated by the Congress.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Is that relevant to the motion before the House ?

Lala Duni Chand : I was going to place for the consideration of the House a proposition after the consideration of which I hope the honourable members of the Government benches would agree to the reduction of the salary. I was submitting before this honourable House that the most eminent men, not only eminent but also men who were making as much income as Rs. 50,000 a month, as members of the Working Committee laid down that the maximum salary payable to any Government member—

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie : Which salary is the honourable member referring to ?

Lala Duni Chand : I am talking about the salary of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker. I was going to submit that this figure of 500 upon which we have been laying stress has been fixed by the best of brains available in this country and therefore you should not ridicule and I have seen the spirit of ridicule exhibited by the members of the Government benches, saying "look here, these fellows are making impractical suggestions." An honourable member said that these people are living in the realm of unreality. I am inclined to disabuse these gentlemen of that wrong idea. The figure, I say, is fixed after fullest consideration. I may ask honourable members on the Government benches whether they are going to give due consideration to this fact.

The second argument and quite a new argument that I am going to submit before this House is this that you must accept that the leadership of the Congress all over India has been accepted and the programme that the Congress has prepared for the country has also been accepted. It is a mere matter of accident that the members of the Unionist Party have got a majority in the Punjab, but it is not the majority in the Punjab alone that you have to take into consideration, it is the majority in the entire country that we have to take into consideration, I therefore submit that from this point of view the learned members of the Government benches must accept that it is the leadership of the Congress that holds the ground to-day in India and it is not the leadership of the Unionist Party.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : In other words the tyranny of the majority.

Lala Duni Chand : Take it any way you like. Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt and Diwan Chaman Lall made the ablest speeches in connection with the amendments. They moved the amendments but they could not move your hearts, they could not move you. I, therefore, submit that whenever any suggestion is made from this side of the House or any amendment is put forward on behalf of this side then you should take into consideration the position of the Congress as a whole in India and not only in the Punjab. That is the most important point that I want to impress upon your attention. If you want to carry out everything by sheer force of numbers, I know there are numbers on your side. But the question is whether it is the proper thing for you not to listen to any of the amendments that have been put forward by this side of the House.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : That is exactly the position of the Congress to-day.

Lala Duni Chand : I know you are entrenched behind impregnable fortress of numbers. (An honourable member : Please address the chair). In this House I wish you not to deceive yourselves.

Mr. Speaker : May I request the honourable member not to address any one personally.

Lala Duni Chand : I beg to submit that the Unionist Party members should not deceive themselves by the fact that to-day they have got a large number of followers on their side. If they want to keep this majority intact, they can do so only if they listen to what we say from time to time. If you insist upon your own way of doing things, I am sure your majority will not last long. You claim that you are the best friends of the masses. We also claim that we are their best friends. There is that issue, that is the issue of issues between you and ourselves.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is again using the word 'you.'

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : May I remind him that that issue was decided at the elections. There were several straight fights.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : It is a most irrelevant question.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : The speech is very irrelevant.

Lala Duni Chand : What the masses want is a new order of things. If you are going in your old ways, as it appears you are going, you will not be able to render any service to the masses or make any impression upon them. If the Honourable Ministers had agreed to the reduction.....

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is irrelevant. Just now the House is discussing the salary of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker. There is no other item before the House.

Lala Duni Chand : I am placing certain considerations before this House.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is entitled to speak only to the motion before the House.

Lala Duni Chand : What I was going to submit was that if you cannot listen to one kind of argument, you can listen to another kind of argument. I am putting forward quite a different kind of argument.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is welcome to do so, but his arguments must relate to the salaries of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker.

Lala Duni Chand : The reasons that I have given and the reasons that I am about to give should be enough for the other side to agree to the reduction of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker's salary. The general position of the country that I am trying to place before this House is an argument in favour of the reduction of the salaries of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker.

Mr. Speaker : That argument has been advanced by many previous speakers.

Lala Duni Chand : I was submitting that these are general principles and general considerations which you will be pleased to take into consideration.

The last point that I was putting forward was that the masses must be made to believe and they must be convinced that a new order of things has come. Up to this time I have not seen any indication of any intention to bring about any change in the old order of things. I beg you to consider this argument of mine. In every action that you take you should not be prompted by the old policies or by the old considerations. You should take into consideration the expectations of the masses, namely that you should make them believe that there is a new paradise that you want to bring about.

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali (Hafizabad, Muhammadan, Rural) : We were promised that we would be given new arguments so far as the discussion on this motion was concerned. (A voice : I hope we will have them now). But I am as much disappointed as I am disappointed on the introduction of the subject itself. Sir, we are not concerned with the Congress programme here. The question is what should be the pay of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker. The arguments might have been new, but they were irrelevant in my opinion. I should assure the Opposition, through you, Sir, that ours is the programme which is nearest to the programme of the Congress.

Lala Duni Chand : It is a part of the programme of the Congress that the Speaker should get Rs. 500.

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : I myself should not take up the time of the Assembly in going over the details of the programme of our party. Suffice it to say that we are pledged to work the constitution while our friends there are pledged to wreck it. We are pledged to put our shoulder to the wheel while they are putting a cog on the wheel of the constitution. We are poles asunder and miles apart.

I listened with more than ordinary interest to the debate in this House to-day. It seems that the object underlying is a genuine desire for retrenchment and economy. So far as that is concerned we go a step further than the gentlemen over there. I admit that taking into consideration the financial position of our province we should cut our coat according to our cloth. I may assure them that I myself have felt a keen desire for it and I have always longed for it. I have always striven for it, but unfortunately like themselves my cry in those days was a cry in the wilderness. My music failed to create that harmony which might have attracted the ears of my listeners. I would advise them as I advised myself that they should be believers in Urfi who says—

نوارا تلخ تو ميون چو ذوق نغمه کم يابی

حدی را تیز تو میخوان چو محمل را کوان بیفی

But there is one point which should not be ignored. In our zeal for economy we should not lose sight of the sense of proportion and propriety. To imagine a Speaker with a salary of Rs. 500 a month is simply ridiculous. There is a wrong impression in the minds of certain honourable members that pay does not decide the status of a person. The impression in the minds of the outside public is that a person who draws higher salary is surely greater in status than a person who draws a lower salary. Taking this fact into consideration I must say that the salary proposed in the amendment is totally inadequate.

Again, it has been said that it is the public spirit, a desire to serve the country, which should attract people to these offices. I grant that. But there too there is the question of degree. We have to take into consideration the standard of living, the various attacks on the purse of our Assembly officers and so on. If we do consider these factors we cannot but come to the conclusion that the pay suggested is quite inadequate. Take the case of people who are managing insurance companies. Take the case of Pandit Santanam himself who is drawing Rs. 3,000 a month. He is a Congressman. Take the case of Lala Sham Lal who was engaged in a big political case. He was given Rs. 120 as retainer in addition to other fees.

Lala Duni Chand : May I correct one mis-statement of the honourable member? Lala Sham Lal was getting only Rs. 60 a day and that too only for the working days and not Rs. 120 as mentioned by the honourable member.

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : That does not make much difference for my purpose. I should like to refer to a speech of Sir Stanley Jackson, late Governor of Bengal. He said—I am not quoting him exactly, for want of time—he said that we must take into consideration the services rendered by our political leaders. He referred to the services of Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Ramsay Macdonald. If these gentlemen had devoted their time to other professions which they devoted for the service of the country, they would have earned thousand times more than they actually got for their services to the country. The reward for these people is the work that they do and not pay they receive.

It was pointed out that in different provinces there were different scales of pay which were far less than those prevailing in our province. My answer to that is that conditions vary from country to country, from province to province, from district to district, from tahsil to tahsil and even from village to village. Look at the programme of work under provincial autonomy in the various provinces. We are fortunate here in having a Government with an overwhelming majority. But in other provinces you see the constitution being wrecked. So, taking into consideration the various itmes of expenditure and the various attacks on his purse, I submit that not a penny less than Rs. 36,000 per annum will be adequate for the Speaker.

Some speakers have referred to the cases of those who are serving in the Assembly. May I ask them one question? Is it fair that the axe of retrenchment should fall only on the shoulders of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker when you cannot touch the pay of the imperial officers, when you cannot touch the pay of district and sessions judges, commissioners and financial commissioners? Where is the reason for reducing this pay? After all what is the proportion of this amount to the total budget of the province which goes up to 11 crores of rupees? It is absolutely insignificant. The scales of pay have only recently been revised so far as the Provincial Civil Service is concerned and there does not seem to be any prospect of their pay being reduced in the near future. Why then should the Speaker alone be singled out for this attack?

Reference was made to other provinces. I shall take the case of the central legislature. There the Congress members are in a majority. Why then have they not arranged to have their travelling and daily allowances reduced? So far as the travelling allowances of the members of the Council of State is concerned, not a pie has been reduced and no attempt has been made even by way of a cut motion to get the scales reduced.

Next, it was contended that the figure provided in the Bill was being thrust on the House by an accidental majority. I submit that a majority of 135 as against a minority of 85 members, who are committed to a definite programme cannot by any twist of language be said to be an accidental majority. Coming again to the question of comparison with other provinces, I must submit that the conditions differ in various provinces. We know that in Madras even the Judges of the High Court go to courts with dhoti on and walk barefooted to the thrones of their office. But here the conditions differ. Here our cost of living is higher. In addition to our ordinary cost of living we have to make so many contributions for various public activities. Entertaining our guests is a normal feature of our province. None of us can deny that we can afford to refuse hospitality to our guests. Even the peasants in the countryside, however poor they are, whatever starvation they undergo, must receive the guests and show them hospitality.

Now, Sir, another aspect of the question is that we should not allow that a person who is sitting on the throne before us should get a lower salary than a section 30 Magistrate or an Extra Assistant Commissioner. We must do justice between man and man and must make some difference between the man who is sitting on our throne and others. His dignity and honour must be kept up and we must make allowance for him by which he can adequately and fairly make both ends meet. With these words I oppose the amendment.

4 P. M.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : I want to put a question to the Honourable Leader of the House and that is whether he has taken into consideration the salary of the Deputy President of the Central Legislative Assembly in proposing the salary of the Deputy Speaker here? If so, will he please enlighten the House what has led him to raise the salary of the Deputy Speaker from Rs. 3,000 to Rs. 6,000—(An honourable member : From 5,000)—even then. Does he believe that the work of the Deputy Speaker in this House will be more onerous than the work of the Deputy President of the Legislative Assembly at the centre?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I will answer that question and satisfy the honourable member. The Deputy President of this House hitherto had no work at all to do because under the previous rules he could only officiate for the President in the House during the President's absence. He could not transact any other work or business. That had to be done by the President himself. But under the new constitution the Deputy Speaker will be in a position to do a portion of the work of the Speaker if it is delegated to him; and since the size of this House has considerably increased, the actual work connected with questions and resolutions will also increase proportionately and the Speaker may find it necessary to delegate some of his functions and powers to the Deputy Speaker. Therefore the Deputy Speaker will be required to stay at Lahore for a longer period than hitherto. In view of that consideration, and in consultation with several members of this House I came to the conclusion that it would be only fair to slightly increase the salary of the Deputy Speaker and make it more commensurate with the extra responsibilities and duties which he may have to perform under the new constitution. That is the reason why it has been raised from Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 6,000 per annum.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : My point was this. The salary the Deputy Speaker of the Assembly at the centre is getting is Rs. 3,000.

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia : The salary of the Speaker in Bengal fixed by Gazette Extraordinary is Rs. 2,000 and that of the Deputy Speaker Rs. 200 per month.

Lala Duni Chand : Will the Deputy Speaker be a whole time officer or will he be allowed to engage himself in any other occupation?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : It largely depends on the Honourable Speaker. If he gives much work to the Deputy Speaker it may not be possible for the latter to do any other work.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : We know that the Honourable Speaker is a very capable man. Not only can he do his work but he is capable of doing more. Was he consulted whether he requires any assistance?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I did not, because I could not anticipate the choice of the House regarding its Speaker. But I thought that it would be necessary for him to get some assistance from his deputy to cope with the volume of work under the new dispensation.

Chaudhri Ali Akbar (Gurdaspur East, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu) : I have listened to the speeches on both sides. The question before the House is that of salaries of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker, but the Congress has started its own propaganda. I ask them whether in rural areas they act upon what they profess. It is a well-known saying—

ہاتھی کے دانت کھانے کے اور دکھانے کے اور

We admit that the condition of zamindars is hopelessly bad. Yesterday a member remarked that zamindars are on the verge of starvation. It is quite true. We know the drawbacks of the old administration. We are also aware of the fact that unemployment is growing very acute. The new constitution has been inaugurated solely with a view to bringing about reforms, social, economic, etc., but the Congressites do not let us understand matters in their true perspective and place obstacles in our way.

A zamindar possesses eight acres of land. After tilling it and paying off all the dues connected therewith, he finds that hardly an anna or two is left with him. When the crop is ready, the sahuکار reaches the spot with his ledger under his armpit and carries away the whole of it by loading it on the donkeys. When his wife enquires from the zamindar as to where the grain went, he replies that the Sahukars took it away. The wife tells him that she was contemplating the marriage of her son but he expresses his helplessness. The result is that the grief-stricken wife does not cook the meals, with the result that neither he nor the children take a morsel of food and go to bed with empty stomachs.

The real fact is that the Congress does not allow us to do anything. We the zamindars have to spend a lot of money on the education of our children and what is worse, they are unable to enter Government service on the completion of their studies. What I mean to say is that the most pressing need of the hour is that we should set right the machinery of Government, but the Congress raises a hue and cry at an inopportune moment and proves a stumbling block in the way of bettering the condition of the poor. I request them that they should kindly place no impediments in our way. They should let us live and allow us to effect improvements in the lot of the teeming millions of our population.

If you are able to save one or two thousand rupees out of the salary of the Deputy Speaker, the whole of this money would be appropriated by others, perhaps you do not know that we are surrounded on all sides by vampires, ready to swallow us at any time. It is very regrettable to confer wide powers on people who cannot carry on even a trifling task. We gave our words to the electorate that we will help the poor. If the fat salaries of the Indian Civil Service are reduced, we would be able to save thousands of rupees. It has been said from the Congress benches that these reforms are mere toys which have been given us to play with. In 1920 also, a similar toy was given us and at that time too the same criticism was made against the reforms. As far as the new constitution is concerned it is a lifeless entity or toy and it is for us to put life into it and we should perform the operation in such a way as to make the present constitution quite different from the one preceding it.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: I wonder if you think whether the speech which is being delivered by the honourable member is relevant?

Mr. Speaker : May I request the honourable member to speak to the motion ?

Lala Duni Chand : Is the speech merely intended to amuse the House ?

Chaudhri Ali Akbar (Urdu) : Let me first finish my answer to an honourable member who has just said that zamindars should be saved from the high-handedness of the money-lenders but my contention is that the members opposite have taken the sahkars under their wing. I know of a village containing about 200 houses with which these sahkars have played havoc. The inhabitants of the village are now dying of starvation. The fact is that the proposed reduction of five or six thousand rupees would not be of any help to the people at large.

In my opinion these persons who are to make the constitution run smoothly and are, after all, to hold the reins of the Government, should be given salaries in accordance with their wishes.

Khawaja Ghulam Hussain (Multan Division Towns, Muhammadan, Urban) : The subject of the Bills has been so exhaustively dealt with and so thoroughly discussed that there is hardly any scope left for giving new arguments. I must frankly admit that I cannot disclose any fresh stock of arguments to this honourable House. I rise to offer my justification for tabling these amendments. The impression appears to have gone out that the members on this side have tabled amendments to this Bill with a view to produce some spectacular effect or to win approbation or gratitude of some party or some members. Nothing can be far from truth. I may also point out that there is not the slightest intention to convey any discredit or any disrespect to the gentleman whose salary is in question. We greatly esteem our honourable Speaker and other members on the Treasury benches. In moving these amendments, the object is to bring into prominence the extreme poverty of the masses in general and of the peasantry in particular. It is admitted, by the honourable Leader of the House as well as by the Treasury benches that the plight of the zamindar is miserable. It is equally certain that they are committed to a programme of affording relief to the agriculturists of this province and augmenting the nation-building activities and expanding all those resources that are conducive to the betterment of the conditions of zamindars. I may point out that, whether we may be on this side of the House or that side of the House, we are supposed to deal with all questions in an intelligent and reasonable manner, holding any views whatever. It is conceded by the honourable members of the Unionist Party that the conditions prevalent in the province are such that they must find out fresh avenues, they must explore fresh sources of income in order to meet the expenditure that is bound to be incurred as a result of the present Assembly. (An honourable member : For the purposes of expansion and development.) Certainly, for the purposes of expansion. Now, I wish to point out that the very idea of exploration of fresh avenues is abhorrent to the masses. I do not know whether, with all their claims for affording relief to the peasantry, the members of the Unionist Party feel the subject lightly or not, but I expect that they will honour the pledges, which the Honourable Leader of the House and other members of the Unionist Party have given to the public as well as to the electorates whom they represent in this House. I hope that these pledges will be honoured. That, as a matter of fact, is the object with which we have tabled these amendments. It is claimed by the members of the Unionist Party that they are here to afford practical help and assistance to the zamindars and that they would not be worthy of their seats if they do not keep in view that object of theirs. I may submit, Sir, that our sole object and only justification for tabling these amendments is to bring into view this object. We know that they are in a majority and that they can throw away these amendments. But our object is that they should always remember that peasants and poor people of this province stand in need of help. Our suggestions in this respect are not at all intended to annoy them or to convey any disrespect to any of the gentlemen whose salaries are in question.

Honourable members : The question may now be put.

Mr. Speaker : As the last speaker has expressly stated that no fresh arguments can be given against the motion and as he has further admitted frankly that these amendments have been proposed simply to invite the attention of the party in majority to help the poor, I think the time has come when I should allow the closure motion. The question is—

That the question be now put.

The motion was carried.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That in clause 2, lines 4-5, for the words "thirty-six thousand" the words "six thousand" be substituted.

The motion was lost.

Lala Bhagat Ram Choda (Jullundur, General, Rural) : I beg to move—

That in clause 2, lines 4-5, for the words "thirty-six thousand" the words "nine thousand" be substituted.

The motion was put and lost.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That clause 2 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 8.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt (North-Eastern Towns, General, Urban) : I beg to move—

That in clause 3, lines 4-5, for the words "six thousand" the words "one thousand and two hundred" be substituted.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That in clause 3, lines 4-5, for the words "six thousand" the words "one thousand and two hundred" be substituted.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That clause 3 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

New Clause.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan (Premier) : In moving my amendment I might for the information of the House point out that I am moving this amendment with the consent of His Excellency the Governor. I move that the following clause be added to the Bill :

“The expenditure on the salaries of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker shall be expenditure charged on the revenues of the Punjab.”

Mr. Speaker : The new clause proposed to be moved is :

“That the expenditure on the salaries of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker shall be expenditure charged on the revenues of the Punjab.”

Diwan Chaman Lall (East Punjab, Non-Union Labour) : May I ask whether the amendment in its present form is in order? The amendment has been sent in ‘by a Member of the Government.’ If it had been sent in the name of any particular Member of the Government he would have moved it. It is an anonymous amendment and cannot be moved by any member of this House. I request you to give your ruling on the question whether an anonymous amendment of this nature is or is not a valid amendment.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : You know as well as I do that it is the practice in the mother of Parliaments that a motion is put in the name of a Member of Government and not any particular name.

Mr. Speaker : This has been the practice of this House for the last 16 years.

Diwan Chaman Lall : The amendment, if moved by the Leader of the House, will not be a valid amendment for which a notice is required

Mr. Speaker : He is a Member of Government; and the motion stands in the name of a Member of Government. Therefore, he can move it.

Diwan Chaman Lall : The question is whether an anonymous amendment is or is not valid?

Mr. Speaker : I have told the honourable members of the House that that has been the practice of this House.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : If you have already given your ruling that it is quite in order I would not say anything on the subject. I only want to ask you whether an amendment can be sent to the office by one of the members of the Opposition without mentioning his name but only in the name of a member of the Opposition? We should like to know what procedure is to be followed in future.

Mr. Speaker : The same as we have been following in the past.

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia (Ludhiana and Ferozapore, General, Rural) : I have to intimate to the Speaker that the amendment is not in order because the Bill as moved by the Honourable the Premier only deals with the salaries of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker; and you, Mr. Speaker, with your long experience as eminent lawyer and author of the Indian Cases, must have noticed that every Act is uniform in its provisions. In this Act we are only to deal in the preamble with regard to the pay of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker. It is not a part of the Bill and with no amount of reasoning can it be a part of the Bill as to from what source the pay of the occupants of the offices should be drawn. Nor can it be said in the Act itself whether it will be treated as a charge on the revenue or whether it will be votable. This is not the stage at which I want to enter into a discussion with regard to the result of the transposition of this item from here under the different heading under the provisions of section 78 (3), clause (g) of the Government of India Act, 1935. But at this stage I only want to submit that it does not fit in : it is clearly a misfit. For example, in this case, after reading the Bill as it stands, there is the preamble : then there is short title ' This Act may be called the Punjab Legislative Assembly Speaker's and Deputy Speaker's Salaries Act, 1937.' Then there is clause 2 about the salary of the Speaker. Then comes clause 3 with regard to the salary of the Deputy Speaker. There is no other provision and the Act automatically terminates. Therefore any addition made to the Bill at this stage will be against the provisions of Standing Order No. 34, sub-clause 1, and with your permission I will read out that Standing Order for the information of the members of the Government benches on the other side. It says ' An amendment must be relevant to, and within the scope of, the motion to which it is proposed.' I think, it is under this sub-clause that the present amendment can be moved : the rest of sub-clauses do not in any way deal with the amendment which is under discussion ; and this amendment apparently is not one which is at all relevant to or within the scope of the motion which is at present before the House, because it only deals with the way in which this will be treated with regard to the revenue to which it should be charged. I am not very much concerned whether my point of order is declared in order or is ruled out. It is my humble suggestion that by simply incorporating this amendment in this way the learned Leader of the House on the other side and probably other members on the Treasury benches have tried to see that no discussion takes place later with regard to it. I do not want to enter into a discussion but at the same time it is an amendment which deprives this House of the right which it possesses and which was so zealously guarded only yesterday by the Treasury benches on the other side. They did not like that powers which could be used by the members of this House should for a moment remain in possession of His Excellency the Governor. If that was their sincere move and for that reason they were in a hurry to move the Bill for the salary of the Ministers I think that in this case they should not at all be careless about the rights of the members of this House. Therefore my submission is that the amendment should not be allowed in this form. It does not matter if this amendment is brought in a separate form by a separate Bill and with the recommendation of the Governor. It also does not matter whether, when it is brought in the form of a separate Bill, the House will be at liberty at the time when the budget comes into discussion to move a cut of Re. 1 or so in the pay of the Speaker or to move a motion of confidence in the Speaker. My submission is that the present amendment is not in conformity with the Bill under consideration. It is also against any precedent and therefore this House under the new order of things, as it is claimed, will not commit that legal mistake and constitutional mistake—a mistake for which the Treasury benches will later on in any case be responsible.

5 P. M.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan (Premier) : I must confess that I have not been able to follow my learned friend who has just spoken. I am a layman and it is possible that I may not have correctly understood the implications of his subtle and learned legal arguments. (A voice : The Advocate-General is by your side.) I think I will be able to satisfy him and the House that what we are doing is perfectly in order, but before I come to that point I might for the information of the honourable member opposite point out that the expression "with the consent of the Governor" which I used is a mere convention and is in vogue in the British Parliament also. All that it means is that no money Bill or measure which has financial implications can be introduced except by or with the consent of His Majesty's Government. I would draw your attention to section 78 (3) (g) of the Government of India Act. It says :

(3) The following expenditure shall be expenditure charged on the revenues of each Province—and (g) any other expenditure declared by this Act or any Act of the Provincial Legislature to be so charged.

It is in accordance and in consonance with that sub-section of the Act that I have moved my amendment.

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia : This is a point which I have already submitted. I have also submitted that this could be brought with the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor under section 78 (3) (g). That is not my contention. I may not have been able to explain my point either to the House or to the learned Leader of the House. My submission is that this amendment as it is proposed in the Bill providing the salary of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker in this case is not in uniformity with the provisions and the contents of the preamble of the Bill. It should be in the form of a separate Bill, but not in the Bill providing the salary of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker by adding a clause in that Bill.

Khawaja Ghulam Hussain : The point raised is absurdly simple and the reply of the Honourable Premier is not to the point. The point which has been raised on this side is that it is perfectly legitimate for the Honourable Leader of the House to move by means of a separate Bill that the salary of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker shall be a charge on the revenues of the province. It is true, we concede it. The Bill which has been moved with regard to the salary is a Bill to provide for the salary of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker of the Legislative Assembly of the Punjab. The scope of the Bill is to provide for the salary and not to provide for the sources of the salaries. We concede that under the Government of India Act referred to by the Honourable Premier it is open to him to bring in a new measure to provide for the source of the salary of the Speaker but within the scope of this measure, it is submitted, it is not legitimate to bring in this amendment.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Mr. Speaker, the point raised by my friend on my left simplifies the issue. I think the Leader of the House did not understand the point raised by Pandit Muni Lal Kalia. The point is this. Standing Order 34 (1) which relates to amendments reads : "An amendment must be relevant to, and within the scope of, the motion to which it is proposed." The point is that we are adding and altering the character of the source from which the money is to be authorised for the payment of the salary of the Speaker and therefore it cannot be considered to be within the scope of the Bill. It is not only that it cannot be considered within the scope of the Bill, it is clearly outside the scope. It is a financial resolution which affects the revenues of the province. Certainly as far as the payment goes the character and the source from which payments are to be made are different. In the case of Ministers section 78 of the Government of India Act has provided that their salaries shall be a charge upon the revenues of the province but not so in the case of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker. If they now want to alter the character of the revenues drawn from these sources, they must come forward with a substantive motion to the effect that so far as the salaries of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker are concerned they are to be henceforth a charge upon the revenues of the province. The Parliamentary procedure on this point is very clear. Whenever there is an amendment of this nature which goes beyond the scope of the Bill and the title, then it is considered by the Speaker not to be relevant. You will find on page 898 of May's Parliamentary Practice that the original procedure in the House of Commons used to be that this sort of amendment could not be moved but later on action was taken and a Standing Order was provided. Curiously enough the Standing Order is the same as the Standing Order of the Punjab—Standing Order 34. Amendments can be moved provided you change the title of the Bill itself, but not unless you do that.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : What would you like to add to the title ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : When I sit on the Treasury benches, I shall be able to tell you (laughter). Two or three very relevant examples of this are given in the Appendix to May's Parliamentary Practice on page 902. For instance, in 1911, as certain honourable members opposite will recall as they happened to be on the spot as I was, a Parliamentary Act was considered according to which certain members in the House of Lords were sought to be added in order to defeat a particular government. Then an amendment seeking to alter the constitution was considered out of order as the amendment seemed to change the constitution of the House and as such was beyond the scope of the Bill itself.

What clearer example can my honourable friend over there have of the inadvisability of bringing in an amendment of this nature which is clearly outside the scope of the measure which is now before the House ? I cannot understand why it should be difficult for the Leader of the House to bring in another measure to give effect to this amendment. Why should he be in such a hurry to alter the character of the revenues by having this amendment made in the Bill ? If he brings in another measure to give effect to this amendment that will be considered by the House on its merits. This question, I submit, raises a vital and important constitutional issue by attempting to convert what is a votable expenditure into a non-votable expenditure.

Again this amendment seeks to alter the character of the Bill. We, the representatives of the people, are thereby robbed of the right of voting down the salary of the Speaker merely because my friend wishes to move this amendment in this particular way. I think it would be a straightforward and honest course if he brings in another measure to give effect to his amendment. The Treasury benches have no right to alter the character of the revenues of the province which are divided into voted and non-voted, by thrusting an amendment of this nature on the floor of the House.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan (Premier): After hearing the learned discourse of the honourable member representing non-Union Labour (Diwan Chaman Lall) it seems to me that the gist of his speech is that we should take two bites of a cherry instead of one. If any honourable member wishes to discuss the merits of the amendment he is at liberty to do it now. There is no bar. I do not then see why the honourable members opposite want us to bring forward a separate measure. The honourable members suggested that we wanted to alter the source by proposing to charge it to revenue. We are doing nothing of the kind. The expenditure will be met from the revenues of the province in any case. The honourable member was perfectly right when he said that the main object of this amendment is to make the salary of the Speaker a non-voted item instead of a voted item. We have specifically brought in this amendment so that the Speaker may be immune from worry and anxiety over the question of his salary and be in a position to maintain his impartiality and independence. The House cannot touch the salary of the Ministers; the only way in which a Minister can be attacked is by a motion of want of confidence. Why should not the same privilege be extended to the Speaker also? This will enable him to keep above all party considerations. Therefore if the honourable members want to discuss the merits of this amendment they are welcome to do so, but I do not see any purpose in wasting the time of the House by bringing in another measure merely to achieve the object which can be secured equally by this amendment. As I have said it would merely mean making two bites of a cherry.

Diwan Chaman Lall: But the amendment is out of order as it goes beyond the scope of the Bill.

Mr. Speaker: I think we will be well-advised if we adjourn now.

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia: Yes, that will give us also an opportunity to examine the point more fully and come prepared with our arguments.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan: Before you adjourn the House I should like to bring to your notice an item of news which appears in the Editorial columns of one of the newspapers in Lahore. As you are aware, there is a section of our press which habitually indulges in great deal of deliberate exaggeration and misstatement of facts. There should be a limit to such exaggeration and misstatements. I have on several occasions appealed to my friends of the Press that they should not deliberately publish baseless information when it can be easily verified. In this case I am bringing to your notice news published in the Editorial columns and the lapse cannot be excused on the ground that it was carelessness or mistake of a reporter or correspondent. It is significant that this editorial comment was published this morning after the Ministers' Salaries Bill had been passed by this House yesterday. This is the news purveyed to unsuspecting Punjabis. (An honourable member: What is the name of the paper.) It is Rozana Milap, Lahore, dated 10th April, 1937. This is what it says about the salaries—

پنجاب میں چھ وزیر ہیں۔ وزیر آرم کو تو با چھ ہزار روپیہ ماہوار اور دو سو روپے
وزرا کو تقریباً چار ہزار روپیہ ماہوار تنخواہ ملے گی۔ اسمبلی کے صدر صاحب کو
بھی تقریباً چار ہزار روپے ماہوار ملے گی۔ سیکریٹریوں کو ہزار روپیہ ماہوار ملے گا۔
انڈر سیکریٹریوں کو پانچ سو روپے ماہوار اور اسمبلی کے نائب صدر کو بھی
پانچ سو روپے ماہوار یعنی کہ وزارت کے کل محکمہ پر ہر سال چار لاکھ
اکھتر ہزار روپیہ خرچ آئیگا۔

This is the news published in the editorial column of this paper after the Ministers' Salaries Bill was passed by the House. The editor of the paper could very easily have verified his statement by referring to the Assembly office or to the headquarters of any one of the Parliamentary parties. I would once again appeal to the Press to be more considerate and careful in such matters and avoid publishing canards with a view to mislead the public.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I do not see why any such speech as has just now been made should have been made in reference to a matter which is not before the Assembly ; nor is it ordained by any rules or standing orders that I know of that the Leader of the House should get up and make a statement about a particular organ which is not before us. I do submit that the statement made by him should have been made in the course of a public statement and not on the floor of this House.

Mr. Speaker : If any newspaper reports the proceedings of this House so incorrectly as the Daily Milap has done, I think it is the duty of the Leader of the House to bring the matter to the notice of the Assembly (Cheers), so that disciplinary action may be taken against the offending newspaper, if necessary. I do not propose to take any action on this occasion, but, hope that the editors of all newspapers will kindly realise their responsibility in reporting the proceedings of this House.

The Assembly then adjourned till 11 A. M. on Monday, 12th April, 1937.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

1ST SESSION OF THE 1ST PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Monday, 12th April 1937.

The Assembly met at the Council Chamber at 11 A.M. of the clock. Mr. Speaker in the chair.

MOTIONS FOR ADJOURNMENT.

RE. BEHAVIOUR OF CERTAIN OFFICERS OF PHILLAUR.

Master Kabul Singh (Jullundur East, Sikh, Rural) (Punjabi): I had given notice of my intention to ask for leave to make a motion for adjournment of the business of the House for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the recent and continued high-handedness and inhuman behaviour of the present Tahsildar and the Sub-Inspector Police of Phillaur, district Jullundur, towards the inhabitants of that area. But I do not wish to move this motion as the Premier has very kindly assured me that he will take necessary steps to redress the grievances of the public in this behalf. In view of the assurance given by the Premier I do not propose to ask for leave to move my adjournment motion.

RE. POLICE SEARCHES OF THE OFFICE OF SHROMANI GURDWARA PARBANDHAK COMMITTEE, ETC.

Mr. Speaker: Sardar Kartar Singh has given notice of his intention to ask for leave to move a motion for adjournment of the business of the House for the purpose of discussing a matter of urgent public importance, namely the series of indiscriminate searches, causing great harassment, made by the police, of the office of the Shromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee, Amritsar, thus interfering with and causing a stoppage of statutory duties and of Sarb Hind Sikh Mission of Amritsar and of the Akali Patrika Press, Lahore, as well as of the houses of certain prominent Sikh Leaders.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan: The matter is sub-judice because these searches were made in pursuance of the order of the court to which a complaint was made. Therefore I submit that this adjournment motion is not in order. The case has started with a complaint in a law court.

Sardar Kartar Singh (Urdu): The searches were made by the police. I presume that a court of law has no business to order searches being made.

Mr. Speaker: A court can hold or order an enquiry and in doing so it acts judicially.

Lala Duni Chand: He means investigation.

Mr. Speaker: Investigations are made by police; while enquiries are held by courts. The motion is, therefore, out of order.

RE. STATEMENT BY THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA.

Mr. K. L. Gauba (Inner Lahore, Muhammadan, Urban): I ask for leave to move—

That the business of this Assembly be adjourned for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the recent statement of the Secretary of State for India (Lord Zetland) and the grave implications thereof on the Provincial Autonomy and responsible Government purported to have been established under the Government of India Act, 1935.

Mr. Speaker: Mr. K. L. Gauba has given notice of his intention to move—

That the business of this Assembly be adjourned for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the recent statement of the Secretary of State for India (Lord Zetland) and the grave implications thereof on the Provincial Autonomy and responsible Government purported to have been established under the Government of India Act, 1935.

The Advocate-General (Diwan Ram Lal): On a point of order. I object to the motion on behalf of the Government. Standing Order No. 57 proviso (c) says "It shall not relate to any matter which is not primarily the concern of the provincial Government." My submission is that this motion does not primarily concern the provincial Government. As to what had been stated in the speech of Lord Zetland, whatever repercussion that speech might have on the provincial Government, it is certainly not in the province of this provincial Government to deal with at this stage. At any rate it may concern other provinces but it certainly does not concern this province.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: Mr. Speaker, I beg to suggest that proviso (c) of Standing Order 57 which the Honourable Advocate-General has drawn your attention to does not apply to the adjournment motion moved by the honourable Mr. K. L. Gauba, because the question on which Lord Zetland has given expression to his feelings relates to provincial subject and not to a federal or central subject. For instance, if this matter is proposed to be discussed in the Central Assembly to-day, the Speaker there might say that since this is a question of provincial interest, it could not be discussed in the central legislature. And here we are told that this question cannot be discussed because it is not a provincial matter. I beg to submit that the question is one mainly of provincial interest and that you would see your way to allow a discussion on this subject which is of vital importance not only to this province but to the entire country.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan (Premier): I wish to point out that the honourable member opposite has apparently not understood the significance of the words used in Standing Order 57 (c). It says that the motion shall not relate to any matter which is not primarily the concern of the provincial Government. The words used are "concern of the provincial Government" and not "concerned with". So far as the Punjab is concerned, I submit that the statement of Lord Zetland is not primarily the concern of the provincial Government.

Mr. K. L. Gauba: The statement made by the Honourable the Premier that this is not the concern of the provincial Government is surprising. The statement of Lord Zetland relates exclusively to provincial autonomy as established or purported to have been established under the Government of India Act, and I think the Government, as well as the Opposition, are very much concerned in the interpretation of provincial autonomy as explained by Lord Zetland. The statement that he has made practically washes out provincial autonomy as adumbrated by the Government of India Act and the Instrument of Instructions. The passage I would particularly refer to in Lord Zetland's speech is this. Referring to the temporary ministries that have been formed in other parts of the country, Lord Zetland said : "The Act contained the mandatory requirement that 'there shall be a Council of Ministers to aid and advise the Governor in the exercise of his functions,' that made Ministers an indispensable part of the machinery for carrying on provincial Governments under Part III of the Act, and it was further provided that the functions of the Governor respecting the choosing of Ministers should be exercised by him in his discretion." This interpretation is important not only for the other provinces. It is almost equally important so far as this province is concerned. What is the natural implication of this ? It means that the Governor, if he does not like the ministry, if he does not like the majority party in power, can dismiss it. Whether that party is Congress or Unionist Party, he can dismiss it, and he can form a ministry entirely of his own choice, irrespective of the majority. This interpretation of the Government of India Act, primarily and entirely, concerns every provincial government. If this matter is not 'primarily the concern' of the provincial Government, I do not see what other matter can be !

Mr. Speaker : So far as I am concerned, I need only invite the attention of the honourable members to Standing Order 23 : "If the Speaker is of opinion that the matter proposed to be discussed is in order, he shall read the statement to the Assembly and ask whether the member has the leave of the Assembly to move the adjournment. If objection is taken the Speaker shall request those members who are in favour of leave being granted to rise in their places." Prima facie I considered the motion to be in order and, therefore, read it to the House ; and as it is objected to, I request members, who are in favour of leave being granted, to rise in their places (After counting the number of members who rose in their places). As more than 30 members are in favour of leave being granted, leave to move the motion is granted, and the motion will be taken up after the day's business is finished.

RE. COMPOSITION OF PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION—RULING OF MR. SPEAKER ON THE ADJOURNMENT MOTION.

Mr. Speaker : Before the business of the day commences, I would like to give my ruling on the point of order raised by Dr. Muhammad Alam about his adjournment motion, which was disallowed by His Excellency the Governor. The House might remember that I asked the honourable Doctor to discuss his point personally with me and promised to give my final ruling after carefully going through the Rules and Standing Orders in force. After discussing at length with the learned Doctor the question of the disallowance of his motion, regarding the composition of the Public Service Commission appointed by the Governor in his discretion, under section 265 of the Government of India Act, I have come to the conclusion that the ruling I gave offhand on the 8th instant was correct and that His Excellency was fully competent under rules 20 and 34 (3) of the Punjab Legislative Assembly Rules to disallow, as he did, the honourable member's motion.

SHORT NOTICE QUESTION AND ANSWER.

The Honourable Sardar Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : My honourable friend, Lala Deshbandhu Gupta, has given notice of a short notice question and I am prepared to answer that question now if the Chair permits me to do so.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I point out that it is not in order to answer questions after motions for adjournment have been moved ?

Mr. Speaker : I agree ; but would like, as a special case, to consult the House. If the House has no objection to the question being put and answered, in view of its importance, I will have no objection.

(As the sense of the House was that the question should be put the question was put by Lala Duni Chand on behalf of Lala Deshbandhu Gupta who was then absent.)

FORFEITURE OF JAGIR OF S. SARDUL SINGH CAVEESHAR.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable the Revenue Minister please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the jagir belonging to the family of Sardar Sardul Singh, Caveeshar, a Congress leader of the province, has been forfeited ;
- (b) the reasons which led to the taking of such drastic action on the part of the Government ;
- (c) whether this confiscation has got anything to do with the political activities of Sardar Sardul Singh Caveeshar ;
- (d) if so, the particular activities of the gentleman concerned which led the Government to take the aforesaid action ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) The muafi amounting to Rs. 76 per annum in the name of Sardar Sardul Singh Caveeshar was resumed by order of the Governor in Council with effect from rabi, 1931.

(b) Breach of the terms of the grant.

(c) and (d) Sardar Sardul Singh Caveeshar was sentenced to six months rigorous imprisonment and a fine of five hundred rupees, and in consequence thereof the muafi was resumed in terms of the original grant.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Will the Honourable Revenue Minister please state if it is not a fact that Sardar Sardul Singh Caveeshar was indulging in these activities even before ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : Yes, he was indulging in such activities even before this action was taken against him.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : What particular reason has led to this action on the part of Government ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : His conviction in a court of law.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Is it not a fact that he was convicted as long ago as 10 or 15 years ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : His previous conviction was of the nature of simple imprisonment while the sentence on which action has to be taken in terms of the grant was one of rigorous imprisonment.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I ask whether it is a fact that during the pendency of the old regime no action was taken against Sardar Sardul Singh Caveeshar and that this is the first fruit of the new regime in the Punjab ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : No, it is not a fact.

Lala Duni Chand : May I ask when the action was taken against him ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : The matter had been proceeding for some years but the final orders were passed only a few months ago.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Do the new Government take the fullest responsibility for this action ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I ask whether the new regime is likely to reverse the orders passed ?

The Hon'ble Sardar Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : I want notice of that question.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Does the Honourable Minister know that the Bombay Government has issued a statement that they will release all political prisoners ?

Mr. Speaker : The question is disallowed.

SPEAKER'S AND DEPUTY SPEAKER'S SALARIES BILL.

Mr. Speaker : I have to give my ruling on the validity of the objection raised against the moving of the new clause, proposed to be moved by the Honourable Leader of the House.

After giving a careful consideration to the contentions raised and arguments advanced by the honourable Pandit Muni Lal Kalia, the honourable Khawaja Ghulam Hussain and the honourable Diwan Chaman Lall against the moving of the new clause I hold—

- (i) that the clause is not irrelevant to the Bill under consideration ;
- (ii) that the clause does not go beyond the scope of the Bill, inasmuch as the object of the Bill, in the words of its long title, is " to provide for the salaries of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker—";

[Mr. Speaker.]

- (iii) that the phrase "to provide for" the salaries means not only the fixing of the amounts of those salaries, but also the specifying of the source, fund, or revenue from which they are to be paid or to which they are to be charged ;
- (iv) That if the above interpretation be assumed for the sake of argument to be incorrect, it will be open to the House, if the proposed new clause is passed, to amend the title of the Bill, which is yet to be considered, so that it may cover the clause.
- (2) In support of my ruling I quote the following passages from standard works on Parliamentary Practice :—
- (a) "To explain the principles that govern the proposal of the instructions to committees of the whole house, it must be borne in mind that, under the Parliamentary usage in force in former times, an amendment might be wholly irrelevant to the motion or bill to which it was proposed (see page 285), and that consequently clauses might be added to a bill during its progress through the house relating to any matters however various and unconnected, whether with one another or with the bill as originally drawn. A reaction from such laxity of procedure led to the establishment of rules and practice which imposed on the House of Commons an inconvenient rigidity in dealing with a Bill. No amendment could be moved which was not strictly within the scope of the prefatory paragraph, known as the title, which is prefixed to every Bill and describes its object and scope. To obviate the difficulty thus created, the house, in 1854, by standing order No. 34, gave a general instruction to all committees of the whole house to which Bills were committed, which empowered them to make such amendments therein as they should think fit, provided that the amendments were relevant to the subject matter of the Bill ; and, if such amendments were not within the title of the Bill, the title was to be amended and reported specially to the house. This general and standing instruction to committees on Bills meets all ordinary occasions. Amendments to Bills may, however, be offered which might be beyond the scope of the amendments contemplated by standing order No. 34, and which, without a special instruction from the house, could not be considered by the committee." (May—page 398).
- (b) "when the amendments proposed to the Bill have been disposed of, the title of the Bill is amended, if necessary." (May—page 418).
- (c) "amendments may be offered to the title on the third stage of a Bill" (May—page 422-423).
- (d) "It shall be an instruction to all committees of the whole House to which Bills may be committed, that they have power to make such amendments therein as they shall think fit, provided they be relevant to the subject matter of the Bill ; but that if any such amendments shall not be within the title of the Bill, they do amend the title accordingly, and do report the same specially to the House (S. O. 34—of the House of Commons—May, page 388).

- (e) "In 1854 the House of Commons opened the door of a committee to amendments 'relevant to the subject matter of a Bill' though beyond its title, provided the committee proceeded to extend the title so as to cover them." (Campion—page 185).

(8) According to section 82 (2) of the Government of India Act, on the recommendation of the Governor, not only can a Bill be introduced but also an amendment can be moved to make provision "for declaring any expenditure to be expenditure to be charged on the revenue of the province." The contention, therefore, that such a declaration can be made only by a separate Bill and not merely by a new clause is clearly untenable.

The new clause proposed to be moved is—

4. The expenditure on the salaries of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker shall be expenditure charged on the revenues of the Punjab.

I have put the motion; the question is whether the Honourable the Leader of the House has the leave of the House to move it.

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia : In view of the learned ruling, touching on almost all the points, given by you, I have to point out to you another irrelevancy that makes this amendment out of order and in support of that I will refer you to Halsbury's Laws of England.

Honourable the Premier : May I with your permission interrupt for a moment?

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia : This is an amendment dealing with revenues the burden of which is on the people. It can never be moved in the House of Commons by way of an amendment even by a Government member.

Mr. Speaker : We are governed by the Government of India Act. We cannot go beyond it. If the honourable member has got a copy of the Act, he may read Section 82 (1) (c) which runs as follows :—

"A Bill or amendment making provision for declaring any expenditure to be expenditure charged on the revenues of the Province, or for increasing the amount of any such expenditure, shall not be introduced or moved except on the recommendation of the Governor _____"

Governor's recommendation is received. The above provision expressly lays down that not only a Bill but also an amendment to a Bill can be moved with the recommendation of the Governor.

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia : I am feeling myself in a difficulty with regard to the section which you have read. It deals with the 'recommendation' and I understand that under the Rules the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor is only read in a form of message and so far as I understand no message to that effect has been read in this House.

Mr. Speaker: Did not the Honourable Leader of the House, before asking for leave to move the new clause, state that the clause had been recommended by His Excellency the Governor?

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia : The message is to be delivered to the House.

Mr. Speaker : For the last 17 years the practice of the House has been that before any matter, requiring the Governor's recommendation, has been moved, the Leader of the House has communicated the Governor's recommendation to the House ; and I see no reason to depart from that practice.

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia : I will concede that point. The point of order is still there.

Mr. Speaker : What is the point of order ?

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia : It is that no amendment should be submitted to the consideration of the House which should lay a charge of any kind on the people.

Mr. Speaker : I have already given my ruling on that point.

Honourable the Premier : If the honourable member had allowed me to speak when I got up he would have saved himself much trouble. May I, Sir, through you draw the attention of the House to another very useful parliamentary convention namely that when the Leader of the House rises to speak, his fellow members, as a matter of courtesy, give way. May I suggest that we should adhere to this very healthy convention. It often saves a great deal of unnecessary labour and energy and time of the House.

As I pointed out the other day, when we announce that a particular item is being brought before the House on the recommendation of the Governor we are merely following another Parliamentary convention. Governor in this particular section means the Government. What it boils down to is this that no money Bill can be introduced in the House without the consent of the Government. That is the convention which is followed in the British Parliament and which we propose to follow here. That point need not be stressed further. What I wish to put to the House is that if it is willing to initiate another healthy convention, it would not, in that case, be necessary for me to press my amendment. If the House is prepared to accept the convention that a motion to reduce or alter the salary of the Speaker will not be made at the supply stage, I will on my part give an undertaking not to press this motion. If the House at any time considers it necessary to alter the salary of the Speaker or the Deputy Speaker it should be done by means of a Bill. I hope my honourable friends on the Opposition benches will accept my suggestion and co-operate with us in setting up yet another healthy convention. You are aware, Sir, that the whole structure of British constitution is built on conventions and usage which are even more sacrosanct than written law. I suggest that we should also start by establishing useful and healthy conventions and rely more on usage and conventions than on indulging in futile hair splitting over interpretations of law. The convention which I now ask the house to accept is this that no motion for reduction of the salary of the Speaker or the Deputy Speaker will be made at the supply stage or otherwise except by means of an Act of this Legislature. The members will be at liberty to bring forward a Bill if on grounds of economy or for some other similar reason they consider it desirable to propose a change in the salary of the Speaker or the Deputy Speaker.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I welcome the statement made by the Leader of the House dealing with the creation of a convention of the House to settle this matter. I think it is a very healthy and an excellent sign that we are about to launch upon a series of conventions which will obviate all legal difficulty that might arise from legislation, leaving out all bitterness behind which would arise if the matter goes to the vote. I am certain that the members on the Opposition benches would rather accept this convention as the beginning of a series of healthy and excellent conventions and would not press the matter to vote. The Opposition is in agreement with the opinion of my learned friend, the Leader of the House, who wants this particular amendment on the understanding that so far as the Speaker's or Deputy Speaker's salaries are concerned, they can be reduced not on the supply day, but only by bringing in a specific Bill (hear, hear).

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava: I also believe that it shall be dignified for the House to give this assurance that if they have lost all confidence in the Speaker, they shall show their feeling not by a cut motion, but by a special resolution, and if they wanted to cut down the pay of the Speaker, then they shall bring in a Bill like the one fixing the salary.

Though we arrive at a convention by settlement, if at any time the House feels or the Treasury benches feel that the convention is not kept up they shall be free and have the right, as they have got the right under the Act, to move a special Act to make the salary non-votable.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : In view of the very gratifying response to my suggestion that we should set up a healthy convention it is not necessary for me to press my motion. I congratulate the House on its laudable decision. I am advised that in any case it would not be permissible to alter the salary of the Speaker except by means of a Bill, but, now that the House has agreed to set up a convention of its own, I see no reason not to follow that convention in preference to the other course. (Hear, hear). I accordingly beg leave to withdraw the amendment.

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

~~Order 1~~

Preamble.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That this be the Preamble of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I move—

That the Punjab Legislative Assembly Speaker's and Deputy Speaker's Salaries Bill be passed.

The motion was put and carried.

THE PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY (REMOVAL OF DIS-QUALIFICATIONS) BILL.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I beg to introduce the Punjab Legislative Assembly (Removal of Disqualifications) Bill. I move—

That the Punjab Legislative Assembly (Removal of Disqualifications) Bill be taken into consideration at once.

Mr. Speaker : The motion is—

That the Punjab Legislative Assembly (Removal of Disqualifications) Bill be taken into consideration at once.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar (North-Eastern Towns, Muhammadan, Urban) : I beg to move—

That the Bill be circulated for eliciting opinion thereon.

In moving this motion, I wish to place before this House the fact that in this Bill they are dealing with two questions and I do not think that it is proper that both of them should be dealt with in one Bill. One is the question of the Parliamentary Secretaries, and the other relating to the exemption of lambardars, inamdars, sufedposhes, zaildars and others. The questions are quite different and are concerned with the administrative machinery at different stages. So far as the Parliamentary Secretaries are concerned they are to be chosen from among the members of this House and will draw certain emoluments. But so far as the question of lambardars, zaildars and others is concerned, they were given permission to contest the last general elections; they contested the general elections and have been returned to this House. Now the question as to what will happen at the next general elections if we do not pass this legislation exempting the lambardars and others from the disqualification is a matter which does not deserve any immediate consideration. We can wait and see how the working of the present House goes on and our experience in this House may enlighten us at a later stage to decide whether these officials are to be allowed to contest elections in future or not.

So far as the Parliamentary Secretaries are concerned, this Bill does not indicate what duties are to be delegated to them and what work they are going to do and what emoluments are proposed for them. Perhaps as yet the Ministry has not been able to consider the budget in detail and has not been able to formulate its proposals. Whatever the position might be for the present at least we do not know as to what is being proposed except that Parliamentary Secretaries are to be created if and when it is thought necessary.

I would submit that at this stage we have not got any definite information about one matter and we are so ignorant about the other. Therefore, it is not advisable that this Bill should be proceeded with at once. The opinion of the country in respect of sub-clause (2) of clause 2 is necessary to be taken at this stage. Even as regards the Parliamentary Secretaries so far there is nothing before this House or before the country to decide upon, and I would submit that in course of time, say a month or two hence, when we meet again we would be in a better position to know in respect of the Parliamentary Secretaries, and the Ministry would be in a better position to say as to what the proposals are and at that stage it would be proper for this House to give a decision on this Bill. I would request the Honourable Leader of the House to split this Bill into two, because one matter is quite different from the other and in voting on one matter it is not necessary that the voting on the other matter should be on the same lines. The two parts, viz., the one relating to Parliamentary Secretaries and the other relating to the other officers are quite distinct and separate and they deserve separate consideration and therefore when we deal with both of them it becomes sometimes impossible to have a line of division or demarcation, and it will be easier if this Bill is split into two Bills and both of them are circulated for opinion. So far as the Parliamentary Secretaries are concerned if the Ministry think that they must have the Secretaries, then they must first apportion to them their duties. We must know beforehand what their proposals are about those duties and what emoluments they propose to give them, so that we may be in a position to judge better. At this stage, however, we do not know anything at all and the whole question deserves to be postponed for a little while longer. We can decide the question of zaildars and others after six months or a year or two because at this stage it is not very urgent that we should proceed with it and decide at once. In the circumstances I would propose that this Bill be circulated for eliciting public opinion thereon.

Mr. Speaker : Strictly speaking the honourable member's amending motion is out of order, inasmuch as he has not specified in it the date by which he expects opinions to come. But I allow him to specify the date now.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : I would fix the date 15th of June as the date by which public opinion should come in.

Mr. Speaker : Motion moved—

That the Punjab Legislative Assembly (Removal of Disqualifications) Bill be circulated for eliciting opinion thereon by the 15th of June 1937.

Chaudhri Muhammad Hassan (Ludhiana, Muhammadan, Rural); I would like to make a few observations in support of the amendment proposed by my learned friend Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar. I submit that we should not be in a hurry to introduce this Bill and pass it in the Legislative Assembly. It is necessary to ascertain the views of people in our constituencies, our voters, the public who come in close contact with the zaildars, sufedposhes, lambardars and inamadars, and who alone are in a position to say whether these officials dominate the will of the voters or whether they allow free voting at the time of elections. It is clear from the provisions of section 69 of the Government of India Act that Parliament has given power to the Provincial Legislature and it is necessary in the interest of the public to give the discretion to those for whom we are going to work this new constitution and I suppose Government benches will support this contention of mine that it is absolutely essential in their interest and in the interest of the promises they have made to the voters and the public that they are going to work this constitution. Is it proper in the circumstances to allow these sufedposhes, zaildars and lambardars to be eligible to stand as candidates for this legislature?

One thing more. My learned friend Khan Bahadur Nawab Fazal Ali said on another occasion that emoluments are the necessary factor which determines whether a person is a Government officer or whether his position is such that he can influence the voters or whether he can dissuade the voters from the exercise of their vote.

Mr. Speaker : What is the honourable member speaking to ?

Chaudhri Muhammad Hassan : I am referring to the discussion that was held during the course of debate on the Speaker's salary.

Mr. Speaker : But I have informed the honourable members of the House that as a rule no reference should be made to the proceedings of the current session.

Chaudhri Muhammad Hassan : I am referring to the argument that he advanced, and not to the proceedings that took place in this House a few days ago. I am simply referring to his argument. I was submitting that these zaildars, lambardars, inamdars and sufedposhes are certainly, as we have experienced during the elections, in a position to influence the free exercise of vote and it is essential, therefore, that we should ascertain the opinion of those who are in close contact with these men as to whether they are of the opinion that this disqualification should be removed or that they should suffer under the disabilities imposed by the Government of India.

I hear from the Leader of the House that we have got one gentleman on our side who has not succumbed to that official influence. I suppose in due course when the time comes the Leader of the House will find that the reasons why he has not succumbed to that influence will be explained by him at the proper time.

So far as the other people are concerned, for example, the sub-registrars, everybody will agree with me at least on this side of the House that they are in a position to influence all those who appear before them at the time when they get deeds registered and they are considered to be Government servants of some position. Therefore the amendment of my learned friend that this Bill should be circulated for eliciting public opinion on this point is very reasonable. The House should consider this point dispassionately. I appeal to the Government benches that they should give full support to the amendment proposed by Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar.

12 noon.

“ A person shall be disqualified for being chosen as and for being a member of a Provincial Legislative Assembly if he holds any office of profit under the Crown in India, other than an office declared by Act of the Provincial Legislature not to disqualify its holder”.

The question before us is whether these lambardars, inamdars, sufedposhes, etc., should be brought under the category of persons who should be exempted from the disqualification for becoming members of this legislature and whether they are officers of Government or not. They receive emoluments from the Government for their services and it is really doubtful whether they should be given the exemption proposed in this measure. Therefore, it is necessary, as has been said by my honourable friend that his issue should go to the public for their opinion.

There is one other point. If we adopt the suggestion contained in this measure in respect of the lambardars, etc., we shall be only legalising what has hitherto been illegal. In the recent elections to this legislature they were disqualified to stand for election and this measure proposes to remove that disqualification. It is therefore only reasonable that we should ascertain what the public view in the matter is. I would therefore support the motion for the circulation of the Bill for eliciting public opinion.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan (Premier) : I have listened with interest to the speeches made from the other side of the House, but I am afraid there seems to be some confusion of thought regarding the object of the measure. My honourable friends opposite were at pains to stress the point that these persons were not officers of the Crown and therefore it was not necessary to specifically include them in the category of those who are to be exempted from the operation of the disqualifying sections of the Act. I submit that there is some doubt as to the meaning of the expression used in section 69 of the Government of India Act. The Act does not speak of officers of the Crown but speaks of persons holding any office of profit under the Crown. That is why we consider it necessary to include them in the category of persons who should be exempted and place the matter beyond doubt once for all.

As regards the merits of the issue, there will be an opportunity to speak later when amendments to the various clauses are moved. But I should like to make one general observation here, if I may, and that is, that the work of these inamdars, lambardars, zaildars, etc., if the present holders are removed, will have to be done by someone else. It is not the name that matters; it is the duties and functions of these dignitaries which should be kept in view. Call the holders of these offices by any name you like, honorary zaildars and honorary lambardars and so on. If we employ whole-time officers in their place, we will have to pay adequately for their services, and let me warn you that the total bill will add up to several lakhs of rupees. It would be a great pity if we do not appreciate the services of these public-spirited persons, who at great deal of personal sacrifice—sacrifice of time, energy and money—devote themselves to the service of the province and its people. Panchotra, as you are aware, is only a commission on the amount of revenue realised. If we remove the lambardars, and employ some other agency we will have to pay for it and it will be very expensive. Some criticism has been made regarding the method of appointment of these honorary officers, but that is not an issue relevant to the question before the House. Now, if we do not specifically exempt these people from the disqualifications contemplated in the Act we will be depriving a very deserving class of citizens of their right to stand for election to this Assembly. I do not wish to say any more at this stage except to emphasise that it would be unfair and unjust to treat the zaildars and lambardars differently. They have equal right with us and the honourable members opposite to enjoy the right of citizenship which we all so cherish.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Why are you in a hurry to get this measure passed now? Why should you not wait a little longer?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Because we have got to appoint Parliamentary Secretaries. If we do not pass this Bill now we cannot appoint Parliamentary Secretaries. If we split up the categories of persons we wish to exempt and introduce a separate Bill later in respect of lambardars and zaildars it would merely result in wasting the time of this House and involve unnecessary expenditure which we must try to avoid.

Sardar Partab Singh (Amritsar South, Sikh, Rural) : I wish to bring to the notice of the House what a great handicap this removal of disqualification will create. The public has recently seen how the zaildars, lambardars, etc., conducted themselves in the recent elections.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : The honourable member is repeating the arguments already advanced.

Sardar Partab Singh : I am not repeating any argument. In the present constitution there is no provision for referendum. I submit therefore that this Bill should be postponed as the people have had a real taste of these zaildars and lambardars.

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia (Ludhiana and Ferozepore, General, Rural) : It is evident from the Government of India Act that the intention of the framers of the Act was that public opinion should be taken before making a change in the constitution as contemplated in the present Bill. The Government of India Act has been the result of elaborate labours of legal luminaries whose experience extends over several years. Good many public opinions were invited and evidence recorded. As a result of those deliberations section 69 was enacted to indicate that Parliament did not at all like to have the responsibility on its shoulders on a matter which the public opinion regarded as a very vital matter and over which there was so much agitation, namely that people holding office of profit should not at all be allowed to take part in the election. I submit, that this inclusion of the clause in section 69 of the Government of India Act is based on the public opinion that was gathered by the Simon Commission and gathered in the three Round Table Conferences and the Joint Select Committees. Later on in view of the opposition that might have been made in certain quarters or some sort of dissent that might have been expressed by some of the knights and khan bahadurs and rai bahadurs and sardar bahadurs, that a new section of somewhat contradictory nature was added to the Government of India Act in the form of section 307. In the section it was only provided that for the life of the first legislature an office of profit for the purposes of the first election of persons who serve as members of the Federal Legislature and Provincial Legislatures shall not disqualify them. It said that no person shall be subject to any disqualification by reason only of the fact that he holds an office carrying some sort of remuneration ("Hear hear" by the Leader of the House.) My submission is and the "hear hear" from the Premier only adds to my arguments, that the provisions of section 307 were only entered because of the majority of the opinion in the provinces in India and outside being against such a thing and therefore it was only added here in order to find out what the legislatures of the country want. Now the labours so far done by the Parliamentary Commissions and by eminent lawyers here are going to be nullified and washed away by this single stroke of the pen from the Treasury benches. It is for the other side, it is for the collective responsibility of the Ministers under whose signatures the cabinet's programme was issued recently on the first day of the inauguration of these Reforms in which cabinet itself admits the limited and restricted scope of the Act, to show how they are justified to bring in this measure further to limit the scope of the Act. The words of the manifesto of the cabinet are—

“ We admit that the machinery which we have been called upon to work is delicate and complex, but we do not see the wisdom of condemning it without a fair trial.”

And this is the fair trial which we have had during the first week of the cabinet's working. Again, it goes on to say—

“ It would be neither fair to the province nor to our constituents to resort to such tactics.”

May I ask the Leader of the House and the honourable members on the other side whether they have at all taken the trouble to sound public opinion on this matter of so great importance. I am not prepared at this stage to go, and I should not go, into the merits and demerits of the question, but I would say one thing that the House is now enacting a certain provision which was embodied in the Government of India Act after consultation for many years and the House has made a very reasonable demand that the province should also be taken into consideration and taken into confidence so that instances might come to their notice which might show the havoc, the injustice that has been done by these so-called public servants and the persons who are named in the Schedule and who are sought to be made eligible for the membership of this House. In the interests of justice, in the interests of the cabinet's programme that has been issued, the people of the province should be taken into confidence. They admit that there are so many restrictions and that there are so many limitations. There is no reason why we should add to those limitations. By bringing this measure into consideration, are we not bringing all the seats under the influence of tahsildars and naib-tahsildars? Is it not then a matter of primary concern? It is an important matter on which public opinion should be sounded before we commit ourselves to any step for which we may have to repent later.

Mr. K. L. [Gauga (Inner Lahore, Muhammadan, Urban): I submit that there are really two motions before the House. One is a motion for circulation, and the other is a motion for reference to a select committee. The motion for circulation fixes the 15th of June as the date for the eliciting of public opinion; the motion for reference to a select committee fixes day after tomorrow as the date. So far as the urgency of the measure is concerned, though I am not personally acquainted with the procedure adopted in this House, I am aware that in the Legislative Assembly the usual procedure is that when a member of the Government introduces a Bill, he explains the reason why that Bill is brought forward, why it is necessary and why it is required to be passed in that particular session and what are the reasons why it need not be circulated or referred to select committee. In the case of this Bill, I regret that, so far, no statement has been made by the Government benches as to the urgency of this measure. It might be said, and it might have been legitimately said, so far as the two previous Bills, namely the Salary Bills of the Ministers and of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker, were concerned, that the Bills were urgent and necessary and should be passed in this session. What are the arguments, what are the reasons why this Bill is necessary to be passed to-day? The usual convention in such matters is this. Where the rights and privileges of members are concerned, such matters are not merely questions for the Government in power, but matters of concern for every member of the House irrespective of party interests. Therefore on a Bill of this kind, which really affects the members of the House generally, I should have thought that a convention might have been set up, that the Government would have called the leaders of the Opposition into conference to discuss this matter. I know, the Opposition is not in numbers comparable to the party opposite, but there have been occasions in the House of Commons when the Opposition has been very small, but on matters where the rights and privileges of members were concerned, where questions of membership have arisen, the Head of the government has invariably acted in concert with the Leader of the Opposition and the leaders of the minority parties. Now on a question of Parliamentary Secretaryship also the removal of disqualification, is not really a matter for the Unionist Party solely to legislate; it is an important matter so far as the constitution of the legislature is concerned. This matter, I submit, ought to have been discussed by the Government and the leaders of the Opposition. Now, I do not know what the urgency of the matter is. After all what delay can there be between to-day and tomorrow? After all this is a small Bill. It can be discussed tomorrow. Tomorrow is a holiday, there would be absolutely no objection in meeting and discussing this Bill. There might be something, some arguments that might well be advanced, which may appeal to the Leader of the House or other members of the Government and they may be pleased to accept them. They can still proceed with the Bill, if they do not accept them. It might be said that this is a way of getting rid of the Bill during the present session, because there is a standing order which says that a select committee report might be laid before the House at least seven days before the report is taken into consideration, but there is also the provision that you, Mr. Speaker, might in your discretion reduce that time. I do not think that if Government takes us into confidence over this Bill we will insist on the seven days rule. Thus there would be no difficulty with regard to the operation of the rules. The matter could be discussed as early as possible, as soon as the report of the select committee is available to members. I submit that this Bill is really more important, really much more fundamental, than really appears to the eye.

On the question of Parliamentary Secretaryship, I think on principle there is no objection to the proposal. But here too the urgency of the Bill, or either the absence of the urgency of the Bill is indicated in the Bill itself. The Bill says: "Provided he holds any of the following offices, namely, the office of Parliamentary Secretary, if and when it is created." I have never seen the words "if and when created," in any Bill before, but they do exist in this Bill. This certainly shows that there is no urgency with regard to these posts, namely the secretaryship. These might be created in this session, or the next or even after a dozen sessions! Therefore, I submit that so far as Parliamentary Secretaryships are concerned, no urgency has been made out.

Now as regards the second part of the Bill, namely, the removal of disqualifications of certain officials who get remuneration from the Crown, what is the urgency as regards them? The members of this House have been elected and I hope this House will continue for the full five years of its life and there is no likelihood at present of a general election in the Punjab for the next five years. Where is the urgency then of this clause? Therefore, I submit that considering every aspect of the Bill, there is no reason why the select committee motion, at any rate, cannot be accepted, even if the Government does not accept the motion for circulation.

On principle—I submit briefly, I will not take much of your time and the time of the House—this Bill is an important Bill. We are endeavouring to follow the British constitution as far as possible. Under the British constitution Parliamentary Secretaries obviously sit in the House, but those who procure any remuneration of any kind from the Crown, except certain specified offices, are not permitted to be members of the House of Commons. I submit that this is a very salutary principle. The principle underlying this is that a man cannot serve two masters, the Crown as well as the public. There may be occasions when there is a conflict of duty. Really we should look into all these matters and the schedule so as to be able to see how this matter can be settled amicably, so far as the wishes of the Unionist Party are concerned, and so far as the principles deducible from the British practice are concerned. At this stage, I do not wish to say any more, except that I appeal to the Government that they will for once accept the suggestions of the Opposition. After all a select committee will meet and report in a day or two. There is no reason why Government should not take the Opposition into confidence and have a select committee.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood (Amritsar, Muhammadan, Rural): It seems to me that there has been some misunderstanding with regard to the principle underlying and the purposes of the Bill under discussion. I wish, at the very outset to assure the House that we on this side of the House are as keen as our friends opposite to see that the privileges and rights of membership of this House and the elections therefor are kept scrupulously clean. Simultaneously, it is the duty of all responsible members of the House to see that in the heat of the moment we may not unjustifiably restrict the choice of the electorate in the selection of representatives to this House. The Bill in question as far as the principle goes, seeks to reconcile those two points of view. One of the honourable members of the Opposition asked, why is this hurry to rush through the motion in this session? The answer is simple. We know even to-day a bye-election is being gazetted, and by the time that the House meets again in June, there might be other bye-elections. As such it is desirable that before these bye-elections are held, we should see that the electorate is not restricted in its choice of the members by whom it wishes to be represented (hear, hear). It has been said by no less an authority than Mill that the purpose of franchise is not with a view to govern but to decide by whom the voters wish to be governed. By the Bill under discussion we are allowing our electorate the free right of saying by whom they shall be governed.

[Mir Maqbool Mahmood.]

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : By Iambardars.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Yes, if they so like. Coming next to the details of the schedule. I am sure this is a matter on which opinions can and may in all fairness differ. I would go so far as to say that even the constitution makers all over the world have not held the same opinion with regard to the question of disqualifications for membership. A study of Removal of Disqualification Acts which have been resorted to under the various constitutions within and outside the Empire, would show that the disqualifications are not exactly the same. In fact we find that some of the latest constitution makers have gone so far as to provide that if a public servant enjoys the confidence of the people and is elected, facilities should be given to him to serve the people in the legislature such as giving him leave and allowances.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : What country ?

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Under the constitution of Czechoslovakia drawn up by that most distinguished statesman of the modern world, I mean President Masaryk. It is also provided under the constitution of Servia.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : I thought you were referring to the Empire.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I wish the honourable member were to give me his ears as much as he is giving me his eyes. Coming back to the question of the removal of disqualifications, it is recognized that people in other countries also have found different solutions of this question. It is for us now, sitting here in this House as tribune of the people of the Punjab, to decide, having due regard to the circumstances of the province, as to what line of action we should adopt.

With regard to the proposal made by my honourable friend, Mr. Gauba, that the matter be referred to the select committee, I have only one remark to make. Reference to the select committee implies acceptance of the principle of the Bill and I assume that in making his motion, he accepts the principle of the Bill. As such I ask, is the Bill so complicated, are the amendments so important or numerous that we should be forced to forego the privilege of enjoying Baisakhi at our homes and sit here vetting the few simple amendments which can be settled forthwith ?

Now, with regard to the merits of the Bill, I have only one statement to make. The honourable member in charge of the Bill appears, in laying down certain items in the schedule, to have followed one main principle. It is this, that wherever non-officials are loyally discharging such functions of the public servants which do not give them any undue power of influencing the opinions of the electorate, they should be encouraged and made available to the electorate to be elected, should the voters so desire. In this connection I may mention, that I had tabled an amendment for exempting the Members of the Debt Conciliation Boards also, but in view of certain fundamental objections pointed out by the Honourable Leader of the House himself, I have decided not to move that amendment. This would show that we are not unmindful of our duties. There is one other point which I wish to submit. It is with regard to the serious and wholesale condemnation in the House, by almost all speakers from the Opposition, of the lambardars and zaildars as a class. I do not deny that lambardars, zaildars and inamdars have got some black sheep in them as have all others; but let us not forget that the zaildars, lambardars and inamdars include some of the best and the most public spirited of Panjabis whose names are respected in the countryside. The Bill does not seek to make every lambardar and zaildar in the province, good, bad or indifferent, an ex-officio member of this House. It only enjoins that a lambardar or zaildar or inamdar, who as a true representative of the village community of the Punjab properly serves the people and the people want him to represent them in this House, should be allowed to do so. This is the straightforward principle on which the Bill is based.

Another objection was raised that since the Act makes it impossible for such men to stand for the Assembly at the subsequent elections we should not take the reactionary step of undoing that. With regard to this point I would invite the attention of my honourable friend opposite to the relevant discussions in the Round Table Conference on this matter. He will find that the provisions of sections 69 and 307 were in the nature of a compromise which provided that in the first elections such persons should be left free to stand and thereafter it should be left to the individual conditions of each province, to the legislatures concerned, to decide whether these disqualifications are to be removed or not. I must say that this House is the best index of the public opinion in the province. We find that the House includes many lambardars on both sides of the House, including some in the front benches of the Opposition also. If some lambardars in this House can serve the public freely even on the Opposition benches there is no reason why others should in future be deprived of the opportunity of serving their province to the best of their ability on this or that side of the House.

There was one remark made by my honourable friend Mr. K. L. Gauba which, with due deference to him, I wish to challenge on the floor of the House. He said that these men, the lambardars and the zaildars, if elected, would be serving two different masters—the people and the Government. I submit that the days of such arguments are gone. The Government of the province is now the government of the majority of representatives chosen by the people. The people themselves are the masters, and these men are not serving two different masters, they are serving the organised constituted representatives of the people and therefore the people themselves. There is no more clash of two masters. Our Government in the Punjab is the Government of the people for the people constituted with the suffrage, of the people. My honourable friends of the Opposition can, when the merits and demerits of individual offices in the schedule are taken up, express their views freely and frankly ; but at this stage when we are concerned only with the principle of the Bill, I hope they will lend their support to the objects of the Bill, which are clearly stated in the statement of objects and reasons.

Sardar Sampuran Singh (Lyallpur West, Sikh, Rural) : The Government of India Act lays down that persons who hold an office of profit under the Crown in India will not be eligible to be elected for the Provincial Assemblies. But it is provided that in case Provincial Assemblies and Legislatures desire, they can allow such persons to become members and make exceptions to the general rule. This is a very healthy principle that the people who are getting any remuneration in whatever form from the Government should not be allowed to come to the Legislatures because they would be acting under their influence and consequently the Government which might go under the name of democracy will not, strictly speaking, be democratic at all. I think that is the main principle on which we base the opposition to the measures which have been proposed in this House this morning. A government which is not based on public opinion is bad in certain respects but a government which is democratic in name and not democratic in fact can be extremely harmful and dangerous to the public welfare. It is to avoid this position that we oppose this measure which is supposed to be so healthy by the Government. The principle before us this morning is whether the people, who hold such positions as lambardars, inamdars, zaildars and sub-registrars and people of that ilk, will be exercising their votes in this House independently or whether they would be exercising those votes under the influence of the Government, which may be in power at that particular time.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : What about the lambardars sitting on the opposite benches ?

Sardar Sampuran Singh : There are always exceptions to the general rule. Some people are strong enough to stand that, they are worthy people and such are the people who are sitting on these benches. But it is doubtful that all the lambardars, zaildars and inamdars are free from official influence. That is purely a question of evidence. I would not say more but I would certainly ask the members sitting on the Government benches to tell from their own experience and knowledge, as most of them come from the country side, whether the lambardars, zaildars and such other people are under the official influence or not. If they can honestly believe and vouchsafe that they are not under the influence of the Government officials, then there may be some sense in the provision which they have put before the House this morning ; otherwise I would say, if my evidence is of any value and I live in a village and I deal every day with hundreds of zamindars, lambardars and zaildars, that there are very few exceptions amongst lambardars and zaildars who are free from the official influence and men who are under their influence will not make good members of a democratic government which we are supposed to have begun from 1st April 1937.

So far no excuse has been put forward by the Government as to why there should have been so much hurry in passing this measure. We know that whatever lambardars and zaildars were to be elected have already been elected and no new legislation can oust them or bring more lambardars, etc., in this House for the coming five years. So this is a measure which, we consider on this side of the House, cuts into the very root of the democratic government which we are supposed to start. I think we should postpone this measure till we understand the position better, as no harm is going to take place in the coming five years. With these few remarks I support the amendment before the House.

M. Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din (Sheikhupura, Muhammadan, Rural) : We have been pleased to note that this House has zaildars and lambardars on these benches as also on the benches opposite. From the time when I had the honour of sitting at the feet of the Congressmen and had the pleasure to study the Congress literature, I have always been told that a village in India is a complete self-governing unit and that democracy in an Indian village existed from the very early times. The lambardar in a village has always been very aptly described as the mukhia, i.e., the spokesman of the village. The word mukhia denotes that he is the person who is the natural leader of that village. I can very well understand the anxiety of my honourable friends on that side of the House when they see a larger number of zaildars and lambardars on this side of the House. But the reason is not far to seek. The reason if probed is obvious on the face of it. The zamindar of the Punjab is alive enough to his own interests. He is an intelligent being. In times of distress and calamities we know who came to his help, who proved a friend in need and so a friend indeed. Who was it who came to his actual help when the remission of the revenue to the amount of six crores of rupees was granted to him? Who came to his help when the zamindar was groaning under the burden of indebtedness?

Mr. Speaker : Is the honourable member speaking to the motion?

M. Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din : I am submitting that the lambardar or zaildar, when he is elected, is elected by the free will of the electorate because they know that the party whom he is going to join is a party which has always helped them. They know that the person they are going to put forward as a candidate is their true representative. I can very well understand that it is possible for more than one person to have honest opinion as to one matter and the opinion may be equally sincere, but I would ask my honourable friends on the other side of the House to tell me whether it would be in the interest of the province to destroy your opponents this way instead of making your electorate wiser. If my honourable friends on the other side of the House believe in the power of their electorate as they say they do in six out of the eleven provinces, they need not be afraid. We know that there are going to be bye-elections. We must presume that we have more than fifty election petitions at this time.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : They will all be rejected.

M. Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din : You are never sure. But if there is going to be any bye-election, my honourable friends do not mean to say that an honest man—a deserving person—who wants to do service to the country should be disqualified simply because he is a lambardar. If a zaildar can be good enough to be a secretary of the group on this side of the House and surely he is capable enough to be so, why should we not look to other zaildars and lambardars also who may prove as capable as some of our friends here. I would, therefore, oppose the amendment.

Malik Barkat Ali (Eastern Towns, Muhammadan, Urban): I had little thought that the first autonomous administration of this province would take upon itself the responsibility of introducing a measure which is calculated to seriously impair the independence of this House and inflict a deadly blow on its liberties. My honourable friends who are occupying the Treasury benches cannot be unaware of the fact—and three of them are lawyers—I believe lawyers who have been dealing with these lambardari, zaidari and inamkhari cases both on the original as well as on the appellate side,—my friends cannot be unaware of the fact that these village officials are under the complete control of the deputy commissioner of the district. (Hear, hear). If a vacancy amongst their ranks occurs, the application is made to the deputy commissioner, who refers it to the revenue assistant on the revenue side. The revenue assistant refers it to the tahsildar who in turn refers it to the naib-tahsildar. On the police side, the opinion of the superintendent of police is obtained, which opinion is based on the report submitted by the inspector which report again is based on the report of the sub-inspector. So you will be pleased to see that these village officials have to run a whole gamut of officials from the sub-inspector and the naib-tahsildar upwards to the deputy commissioner. It is the deputy commissioner with whom the final word rests. The powers of the deputy commissioner in making appointments of these officials are so great that even on appeal the appellate court says that appeals in lambardari and zaidari cases should not be encouraged; that the orders of the deputy commissioner should in all cases be upheld, that the choice is normally his and that superior officers should not interfere unless those orders are flagrantly perverse or as Mr. Latifi has now explained unless the deputy commissioners are seriously in error. Such being the position of these village officials vis-a-vis the deputy commissioner of the district, I ask the Honourable the Leader of the House if it is fair to this House and if it is at all compatible with its liberty and independence that there should be introduced into this House persons who are merely the creations of the deputy commissioners—persons who can be nothing better than the voices of their masters who bring them into being. I am conscious of the fact that there are in this House a number of zaildars, lambardars and inamdars (honourable members: Both sides) yes, there are such persons on both sides of the House—all honour to the gentlemen on my side of the House. I was submitting that I am conscious of the fact that there are in this House persons belonging to the category of these village officials, but why is that? This is so, because Parliament, purely as a temporary measure for the first elections made them eligible. But as my learned friend pointed out, you will be pleased to see that as a permanent measure, Parliament has enacted section 69. All honour and credit to Parliament for enacting in section 69 that a person shall be disqualified if he holds an office of profit under the Crown. That is the general rule which Parliament has laid down : this is the very rule which the House of Commons enacted when the Parliament and the Commons after the Revolution of 1688 obtained the beginnings of responsible government. Before that the Parliament did not possess responsibility ; it had full legislative authority, but was not responsible in the sense in which the word " responsible " is understood to-day. It was after 1688 that the House of Commons became responsible. What did the House of Commons do ? The House of Commons said that any person holding any office of profit under the Crown shall not be entitled to sit in the House of Commons. After having enacted this most general formula—a formula which ruled out any person holding any office of profit under the Crown from becoming a member of Parliament—the Parliament later on relaxed the rigidity of this rule, solely for the sake of enabling Ministers to accept their appointments ; and even in their case how did Parliament proceed ? Parliament said, Ministers no doubt hold offices of profit under the Crown, but responsible government and Cabinet Government would be impossible if that rule were kept in force. Parliament therefore relaxed it and made an exception in the case of Ministers only, but, Parliament added a condition that the Ministers shall seek re-election in order that the constituency may have an opportunity of demonstrating its confidence in the person who was going to accept an office of the Crown and become a Minister.

Mr. Speaker : Is that practice still in force ?

Malik Barkat Ali : It was till 1926. I want to place before the House that from 1707 to 1926 in Great Britain Ministers of the Crown were required on their appointment as Ministers to seek re-election.

Mr. Speaker : Not now.

Malik Barkat Ali : We are not even a shadow of the Parliament of 1688 or 1707. From 1707 to 1926 for about two hundred years in that great democracy, which has taught lessons in democracy to the whole world, they refused to believe that Ministers would be able to remain free from the influence of the Crown ; and although their democracy was planted much more firmly yet they made a change in the rule and required Ministers on appointment to seek re-election. We have to see what is the position in this province. In England the King dare not say ' no ' to his Ministers ; the King has no special or reserve powers beyond the reach or control of the Ministers ; the King is a constitutional monarch in every sense. He must act on the advice of his Ministers and if he finds that he cannot act on the advice of his Ministers he must either dissolve the House or dismiss his Ministers and call for another Ministry. That is not the position here. It took England two hundred years to do that ; we are only at the beginning of responsible government in this province and in this country and there is greater need here and Parliament would have been well-advised when giving this constitution to this country to enact that Ministers shall have to seek re-election at the hands of their constituents. My learned friends would have realised their position if they had to go to their constituents to ask for their mandate and their confidence. I was submitting Parliament to-day has given us the very same rule which it adopted in the year 1707; only it made an exception in the case of Ministers under the present Government of India Act. Section 307 has been referred to by my learned friend Mir Maqbool Mahmood, and he has interpreted it as a kind of compromise. Well, I have read the report of the Parliamentary Committee myself and I do not agree with my learned friend that section 307 was really enacted as a sort of compromise. In that section it is laid down: 'for the purposes of the first election'—and here the question of urgency will arise—'of persons to serve as members of the Federal Legislature and of Provincial Legislature, no person shall be subject to any disqualifications by reason only of the fact that he holds—

[Malik Barkat Ali]

(a) an office of profit as a non-official member of the Executive Council of the Governor-General or a Governor, or as a Minister in a Province;

(b) an office which is not a whole-time office remunerated either by salary or by fees.'

You will be pleased to see that Parliament did depart from the general rule which it laid down in section 69 that in the case of a person who is a holder of an office which is not a whole-time office remunerated either by salary or by fees, he is made eligible for the first election and not for election to the first Legislative Assembly. They could have done so if the matter had been urgent.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : On a point of personal explanation. What I said was that the proviso of section 69 read with section 307 offered a working compromise. It was that for the purposes of the first election any person who is not a whole-time officer remunerated either by salary or by fees may contest elections and thereafter if the legislature of the province concerned want this exception to continue it is open to them to do so under section 69.

Malik Barkat Ali : I was coming to the point which my learned friend has referred to. It might be said that section 69, while enacting that the holder of an office of profit was ineligible, has given power to the provincial legislature of exempting from this disqualification certain offices declared by Act of the provincial legislature. My respectful submission is that when Parliament gave this power to this House of exempting the holders of certain offices from this disqualification, Parliament was contemplating such offices as were political in their nature, such as Parliamentary Secretaries or Under-Secretaries. My learned friend has provided in this Bill under discussion that Parliamentary Secretaries will be exempted from the disqualification of section 69. But my submission is that Parliament never intended to give this House the power of exempting from the general disqualification offices such as those of zaildars, lambardars, inamdars, etc., I have already made it clear that the zaildars, lambardars and inamdars are really the creatures of the deputy commissioners. I put it to the conscience of the Leader of the House if his constitutional sense would not be shocked if he or anybody on his side of the House were to propose that deputy commissioners, commissioners and financial commissioners be exempted from the disqualifications enacted in section 69. If his constitutional sense would be shocked I can see no reason why his conscience should not be shocked when it is sought to exempt from those disqualifications the creatures of the deputy commissioners, of commissioners and of the financial commissioners. If my learned friend thinks that there is no question of shock to anybody's constitutional sense by exempting the deputy commissioners, the commissioners and the financial commissioners, then I say, proceed and introduce them to this House. We can deal with the deputy commissioners and commissioners and financial commissioners face to face when they come to this House but it is rather unusual and difficult to deal with their creatures. Then there is another aspect; lambar-dars, zaidars and inamdars would have to obtain permission from their deputy commissioners, to be able to attend this House. Would you at all tolerate this position as being compatible with the dignity of this House and with the independence of this House, that members of this House should have to seek the permission of an outside official agency, I mean the deputy commissioners, in order that they may be able to attend the meetings of this House? The matter does not stop here. I was referring to the history of the Mother of Parliaments in England which proceeded step by step to completely exclude the influence of the Crown. It excluded the influence of the Crown by shutting out all officials under the influence of the Crown except the holders of ministerial offices. Therefore my respectful submission to this House through you is this, that it would be laying the axe at the root of the liberties of this House to make lambar-dars and zaidars and inamdars and sub-registrars eligible for membership of this House. It is true that my learned friend the Leader of the House with the majority behind him, the majority that exists to-day, may be able to carry the day, but let him realise the implications of the proposal that he is making. He calls his administration an autonomous administration and he would have this House filled up with these officials. I hope that the Bill will sufficiently shock public opinion outside the House and the country will find sufficient enthusiasm aroused to ensure that these zaidars and others under the influence of the Crown are not returned. But this is neither here nor there. We shall meet that situation when it arises. But we are clear that a measure of this kind is not worthy of this House. Let my friend also realise this position. He certainly has been placed in a position of great trust. Let him remember that there is that thing which is called magnanimity in politics, and it has been said that magnanimity in politics is always the truest and the best wisdom. Great offices and little minds go ill together. Elevate your mind to the greatness of the trust to which you have been called and see that this position in which you are is utilised to serve the people and to enhance the dignity and the liberties of this House.

Before I close, I should like to place before the House another instance of the House of Commons. In the House of Commons, under the Common Law, sheriffs were ineligible to sit or serve as members of the House. Later the rule was relaxed a little and sheriffs were allowed to represent counties of which they were not sheriffs. In 1789 or somewhere about that time the Crown nominated a member of the House of Commons as sheriff. Up rose the House of Commons and passed a resolution to the effect that such a nomination of a member of the House by the Crown as sheriff was a breach of the privileges of the House. I expect the Leader of the House to circularise to deputy commissioners.....

[Malik Barkat Ali]

Mr. Speaker : May I request the honourable member to speak to the motion?

Malik Barkat Ali : There is no urgency in the matter. Under section 307, Parliament only exempted these gentlemen from the first election to the Legislative Assembly. That first election being over, the exception has come to an end. I have so far been dealing with village officials. My remarks apply mutatis mutandis to the sub-registrars. These are certainly not appointed in the first instance by the deputy commissioners. But the recommendation emanates from them and it is a Member of the Ministry who deals with the recommendation and appoints the sub-registrars. These gentlemen will thus be under the influence of the Ministry; in fact, one can describe them as really the nominees of the Ministry.

The question is thus very important and there is no urgency about it. Let my friends wait and see the reaction and repercussion which their Bill will produce on the public outside. The result of circulating the Bill and eliciting opinion thereon will be better for them and for this House.

I P. M.

The Assembly then adjourned for lunch.

The Assembly reassembled at 2 P.M., of the clock. Mr. Speaker in the Chair.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan (Pind Dadan Khan, Muhammadan, Rural): I had no intention of taking part in this morning's debate, but certain remarks made by my honourable friend Malik Barkat Ali have made me say a few words regarding the position of lambardars and zaildars. To my mind the object of widening the franchise and giving greater representation to non-official members was that the discretion of voters should be made much wider than hitherto. But I regret to say that the intention of my honourable friends over there seems to be to curtail that right. If I were to give them the total number of lambardars, zaildars and inamdars in the province I am sure it would go to thousands. Would it be fair to deprive the voters of this province of the right of electing any of these thousands of lambardars and zaildars if they feel that it is these men in whom they have confidence to represent their case in this House? If you look at the history of the appointment of these lambardars, you will observe that the post of lambardar is hereditary. At the commencement of British rule when the officers went to the villages they asked the people as to who was the person in a particular village whose family commanded the respect and confidence of the villagers and on finding the most honest and suitable and most popular man in the village they appointed him the lambardar. Up till now the post of lambardar is considered hereditary and the lambardar is looked upon as the natural leader of the village. As for the post of the zaildar, as the Honourable Leader of the House pointed out that the compensation which the Government pay to a zaildar for performing his numerous duties is very small. I think on an average a zaildar gets about one hundred rupees a year for performing public duties. I regret I have not before me the list containing the duties of a zaildar but I can assure the House that the chief duty of the zaildar is to represent before the officers the genuine grievances and troubles of the people living in a zail. That being so, would it be fair to deprive men of the right of seeking election to the legislature while he is popular and commands the respect of the people? Similarly the inamposh gets about Rs. 50 Rs. 80, or even Rs. 20 a year for helping the administration. There is not a single department of the Government whose officers go to a village and do not seek and get the aid of the zaildar or the lambardar in the discharge of their duties. Is this the reward that this first autonomous legislature is going to give this band of workers in the villages who do such enormous work for such a paltry consideration? I personally look upon this Bill from an entirely different point of view. As the House is already aware, the election system in this country is comparatively of recent growth. The rules and regulations are extremely complicated so much so that an ordinary citizen who wants to file a nomination paper has to seek the assistance of a lawyer. Again, at the time of the scrutiny of the nomination papers also he has to seek the aid of that lawyer. The rules, as they exist at present, to my mind are extremely ambiguous. The words used in the Act are "if he holds any office of profit under the Crown he will not be eligible to stand for election". I would ask my honourable friend Malik Barkat Ali, who I regret to see is not at present in his seat, to tell me honestly how many conflicting judgments have been given from time to time by the election commissioners and by the High Courts with regard to the definition of 'public servant.' It will now be still more worse when the words used are 'holds any office of profit under the Crown.' As was remarked by my honourable friend Maulvi Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din, there are fifty election petitions already pending. I can quite realise that some able lawyers who are particularly experts on election matters will be deprived of the opportunity of appearing before the courts and debating the point whether a zaildar or inamposh or a lambardar falls under the definition of a person holding an office of profit under the Crown or not. The Government by bringing forward this Bill and getting it passed will be giving a very clear guidance to the people and will be saving them unnecessary litigation. I personally think that it should be entirely left to the choice of the voters themselves as to whom they would like to send to the legislature, particularly when voting is to be by ballot and the ballot is to be kept secret, I do not see how official influence can be exercised as far as elections are concerned. It is quite possible that some of my honourable friends here may be finding fault with the system of elections in this province, but that is an entirely different issue and I probably will be the first to agree that the Government should device some better means of holding elections than the present. I strongly object to the presence of agents along with the polling officers. I should like to entrust the polling officers to mark the ballot paper on behalf of an illiterate voter. But these are points which we can discuss on some other occasion. Supposing a zaildar is sitting with the presiding officer as he did in the recent elections as an agent to a particular candidate, the passing of this Act will not deprive the voter of his free exercise of his right. 1 therefore, beg to submit that if the idea expressed by Malik Barkat Ali is to be taken seriously it would mean that we should not allow zaildars, lambardars and inamdars either to stand as candidates or to work as agents for candidates. I think a large number of members who are present in this House who stood against zaildars in their election have defeated those zaildars and there are quite a number of members in this House who obtained votes from rural constituencies irrespective of the fact whether the zaildars were supporting them or were opposing them. The zaildar certainly does not command so much influence in his constituency that the voters will vote for him simply out of fear for him or because he wields some undue influence. In these circumstances I request the House not to use their power to the disadvantage of a particular class of citizens in this country. It will be debarring a very large number of people who have got influence in the villages, who belong to old ancient families who command a good deal of respect and who do a good deal of social service and help the administration, if we reject this Bill which is intended to give them what is their due right.

Sardar Lal Singh (Ludhiana Central, Sikh, Rural): It is my unpleasant duty sitting on the Opposition benches to make some adverse remarks on the amendment under consideration. I happen to be a lambardar myself and after giving great consideration to this question I am of opinion that if this Bill is dropped a large number of zaildars, lambardars, etc., will be disqualified. There is one pertinent question which I would like to ask the supporters of this amendment to reply. (Hear, hear). Now if this Bill is dropped the lambardars will be disqualified. It has been said by the supporters of this amendment that these lambardars, zaildars, etc. wield a great influence, a pernicious influence, on the voters. Now supposing these lambardars and zaildars are disqualified, what will prevent the remaining lambardars not to exercise that pernicious influence on the remaining voters? Because there will be lambardars still and they will still be under the thumb of the deputy commissioner and they will still continue to put their weight on the side on which they are asked to do. So this is not the remedy. The remedy as suggested by the learned Premier is that the appointments of these zaildars and lambardars should be put off the venue of the officials. There should be some healthy amendment sought as to how these lambardars should be appointed so that they can be elected from amongst the villagers. Then again, for example, I came into the Assembly on the independent ticket and being a lambardar I still sit amongst the Opposition. I sometimes vote with the Opposition and my independence has not been influenced simply because I have been a lambardar (hear, hear, from Government benches) although I have never worked as a lambardar (hear, hear, from the Opposition benches). There is another very important question. While there is one lambardar or one zaildar there are half a dozen candidates for the lambardarship or zaildarship and as is well known they wield a certain amount of influence. So there will be this anomaly that whereas these lambardars who after a good deal of work for the public will be ousted, these candidates will still be there and sitting in the Assembly. Then there would be another question. On a par with this question is the question of military pensioners. We all know the mentality of these gentlemen who have been fighting the wards of the country. We know that these men are going to sit in this Assembly and yet we know that they are in many cases still under the thumb of the officials as these lambardars and zaildars are. I submit therefore, that before this Assembly gives a decision on this point they should thoroughly go into the question. The remedy is not in dropping this Bill but as I have suggested, the appointments of these lambardars and zaildars should be made subject to the will of the people amongst whom they live.

Khwaja Ghulam Husain (Multan Division Towns, Muhammadan, Urban): I shall confine my remarks only to the public spirited gentlemen mentioned in the schedule, that is the selfless workers who are called zaildars and lambardars and inamdars. We are told by the Honourable Leader of the House and all the honourable members of the Treasury benches that this measure for which the support of this honourable House is being sought is a very harmless and innocent type of legislation which is intended only to remove certain statutory disqualifications attached to a particular class. It is maintained that under sections 307 and 69 (a) of the Government of India Act the disqualification which attaches to lambardars and inamdars should be removed. At the same time we are told that we are living under a regime of full provincial autonomy and that it is a Government of the people, by the people, for the people. May I respectfully submit that the village which is supposed to be the political unit of the body politic called the State does not know anything of autonomy? Provincial autonomy, I mean the autonomy which has been granted in the provincial sphere—whether sufficient or insufficient is a separate question—cannot be of any use until and unless there is a measure of that autonomy in the villages, and I may submit respectfully that the village hopelessly lacks in that commodity. Our lambardars and zaildars who are supposed to be the representatives of the villages are hopelessly irreconcilable to that spirit of democracy which is so essential in a state of this kind. The rules which govern the appointment of these so called mukhias and zaildars, namely, that services by the candidate and his family to the State must be essential before any appointment can be made to these posts shows the conception of the State these zaildars and lambardars have in their minds. Their State is the petty officials, the police station within the jurisdiction of which their village lies, the petty revenue officials including the patwaris and the kanungos and other officials, petty officials of course with whom they have to deal. And their conception of services to the State consists in giving evidence in cases in which people with progressive ideas are involved, or spying on the activities of the people who have got the good of the nation at heart or the idea which is in the forefront of these zaildars and candidates for such posts is that service of the officials is the most sacred duty which they have to perform. I may point out that these gentlemen are subordinate to the police and they go any length to earn chits and certificates from these officials. I have myself seen these candidates preserving with very punctilious care invitation cards issued at the time of the garden parties to outgoing deputy commissioners in which these gentlemen figure as hosts. I have also seen letters preserved by these gentlemen, letters from Private Secretary to His Excellency the Governor declining to grant an interview (laughter).

[Khwaja Ghulam Hussain.]

All these documents are preserved with a view to use them to get into the vacant posts which may be available in the future. I can also give my vivid recollections of a zaidari case in which the candidates vied with each other in recounting their services to the administration and these services consisted in giving evidence in Congress cases or in Akali cases or in cases of this type and the man who came last of all rose up to point out that he had the most superior claims because he was prepared to give evidence at the bidding of the police in each and every case. That was the qualification which he possessed. As a matter of fact we are not opposed to the coming of these gentlemen, the zaidars, lambardars, and inamkhars, into this Assembly, but let them come in as respectable citizens. They should not be permitted to come in when they are in the hands of the police in this manner. If the Honourable Leader of the House agrees later on, at some subsequent time, to make rules that these posts should be filled on an elective basis, then it will be the time for the Honourable Leader of the House, to move that such a legislation should be taken into consideration. It has been pointed by the honourable member and the Treasury benches that the posts of lambardars are hereditary and that at the time of selection, it was inquired into as to who was the most popular man and the most public spirited man in the village and selection was made from among them. I may point out for the information of the honourable and learned member that under the Land Revenue Act of 1871 election was the rule for filling up vacancies in these posts. Lambardars and zaidars were elected to these posts, but under the rules framed under the Land Revenue Act of 1887 this salutary principle was abrogated and in its place it was provided under rule 17, if I am not mistaken, that election shall not be resorted to as an aid to the appointment made to these posts. Then with regard to the duties of zaidars and lambardars it has been pointed out that their duty is to assist all officials who visit the village. Further on it has been pointed out that these people assist the police and the revenue officials, particularly in the collection of land revenue. I may point out that under the present rules of appointment and dismissal of these men, their appointment and dismissal depends entirely on the vagaries of the police and the unrelenting manner in which the police and other officials exercise their influence on these officials is most objectionable. It may be safely submitted without any fear of contradiction that so long as these rules are in force, we cannot expect any independence of character or independence of judgment from these gentlemen. (An honourable member : Wrong, absolutely wrong). I shall be only glad if that is so, but I submit that it is not so, and I can very easily point out instance after instance in which it has been definitely established that under the present regime they are influenced. I have already submitted that on a matter of principle I am not opposed to these gentlemen coming in as members of legislature. My only submission is that as at present circumstanced they should not be permitted. Let their posts be filled on a basis of election and then it will be quite proper for the honourable members of the Treasury benches to move this sort of legislation.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan (Premier) : I do not wish to take much time of the House and will confine my speech to briefly answer the points made by the honourable member who has immediately preceded me. He said that he had no objection to the lambardars and zaildars as such being returned to the Assembly but that he took exception to the method of their appointment which he considered to be against the interests of the public. That I believe was his point. He also tried to labour the point that these people were under the influence of the police and other officials. Well, if that is the spirit in which he wishes to judge these public spirited servants of the people he might as well have stigmatised the whole province. The lambardars and zaildars number about one hundred thousand throughout the province. They are after all our own kith and kin; and it is unfair, unjust and an insult to the province to make a sweeping generalisation like the one the honourable member has made. To assert that all the lambardars and zaildars are dishonest and lack independence of thought and self-respect is a travesty of truth. We have several honourable gentlemen in this House and outside who belong to the category of lambardars and zaildars and I see at least two honourable members on the opposite benches who are themselves lambardars. Can the honourable member honestly question their honesty or independence of view and thought? It was, I submit, most unfair—to put it mildly—on the part of my honourable friend to make such a sweeping statement which is wholly unjust and untenable.

One main consideration which the House should keep in view is that their verdict on this question will indicate whether they are prepared to endorse the verdict of the electorates outside who have returned a large number of lambardars and zaildars to this Assembly.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Not on this issue.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Yes, on this issue. A large number of rural voters have reposed confidence in them. It is for you to consider, for this House to consider, whether we are entitled to, whether we would be justified in over-ruling the verdict of our constituents. If we do so, it can be predicted with almost complete certainty that when we go back to our electorates we will get a very unpleasant reception.

As I pointed out earlier, there is some doubt whether these offices really constitute an office of profit under the Crown. It is to remove all doubt and ambiguity in the matter that we have included them in the schedule. The position at present is that there is a consensus of opinion in support of the view that these offices do not constitute an office of profit under the Crown. But it would be as well to make the position clear and place the matter beyond dispute or doubt. As one honourable member put it, it would facilitate adjudication of an objection if the question was raised in an election petition. My lawyer friends in this House should, therefore, welcome this proposal.

It was suggested by my honourable friend, Malik Barkat Ali, who is unfortunately not present in the House at the moment, that in England—in the Mother of Parliaments—they had overcome similar difficulties by conventions, which in some cases date back to over two hundred years. As a matter of fact they had to enact more or less similar legislation in England also. It has been amended from time to time to conform with the requirements of the House. My honourable friends who have been following constitutional development in that country will remember that there was an occasion, not very many years ago, when a particular Under Secretary could not sit in the House because it was not possible to exceed the number fixed by the House. It was necessary in consequence to pass a special enactment to enable that Under Secretary to sit in the House. He had to remain out until the amending Bill had been passed.

There is one other point which the same honourable member tried to emphasise and to which I must refer. He said that the position of the Crown in England was different from the position of the Crown here. Perfectly true; but he has himself admitted that this ideal was achieved as a result of continued and sustained efforts spread over several centuries and by conventions gradually built up by successive Parliaments ranging over a period of hundreds of years. Every one of us here would no doubt like to attain the same position. But Rome was not built in a day. What England has succeeded in achieving in the course of several centuries, we cannot be expected to secure in a day. We secured the first instalment of constitutional reforms only 17 years ago, and this is the second instalment. We admit that it has its short-comings. But in spite of its defects we on this side are pledged to make the best use of it in the interests of our country and our province. Let me assure the House of one thing and that is that if we on the Treasury benches find that the Crown, as represented by the Governor in this province, at any time interferes in a way, which, in our opinion is likely to be detrimental to the interests of our province and the people, we will not hesitate to change places with our friends of the Opposition. (Cheers).

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Have you got the assurance from the Governor?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I do not want any assurances. We are sure of ourselves. (Cheers).

You will have also noticed that in the schedule we have not included any office which would be analogous to the office of a sheriff. We have not included executive officers of the municipalities or similar officers in the same category as lambarbars and zaildars because under the existing constitution they are not barred from seeking election, if they are allowed to do so by their employers. We want the verdict of this House on the issue whether it is prepared to continue the privileges which these persons at present enjoy, and to which they are rightly entitled, or to curtail them in spite of the clear mandate of the electorate to the contrary.

Honourable Members : The Question may now be put.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That the question be now put.

The motion was carried.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That the Punjab Legislative Assembly (Removal of Disqualifications) Bill be circulated for eliciting public opinion thereon by the 15th June 1937.

The motion was lost.

Mr. K. L. Gauba : I formally move—

That the Punjab Legislative Assembly (Removal of Disqualifications) Bill be referred to a select committee consisting of 13 members with instruction to report thereon by the 14th April, 1937; and that five shall be the quorum of the committee.

The motion was put and lost.

Mr. Speaker : The question is —

That the Punjab Legislative Assembly (Removal of Disqualifications) Bill be taken into consideration at once.

The motion was carried.

Clause 1.

Mr. Speaker : Now the Assembly will proceed to discuss the Bill clause by clause. The question is—

That the clause 1 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 2.

Lala Duni Chand : I rise to move amendment No. 4* that stands in my name.

Mr. Speaker : Amendments Nos. (i) and (ii) of item 4 require that the words "any of" in line 6 of clause 2 be omitted and for the word "offices" the word "office" be substituted, but that the word "namely" be retained as it is. I do not see any force in these amendments. I am inclined to consider them as trivial. They do not make any special improvement in the language or the sense of the clause.

Lala Duni Chand : My submission is that the idea underlying this amendment No. 4 is that the mover of this amendment has no objection to the disqualification being removed with regard to the Parliamentary Secretary or Parliamentary Private Secretary.

Mr. Speaker : Items (i) and (ii) of amendment No. 4 do not improve the language. The honourable member is probably proposing these two amendments on the assumption that his last amendment will be carried. But, if these amendments are carried, at this stage, I am afraid the House will find itself in a difficulty. That is to say, if these verbal amendments are carried and the substantial amendment proposing omission of sub-clause (2) is not carried, what shall be the result?

Lala Duni Chand : I fully appreciate what has fallen from your lips. The object of amendments No. 4, 12 and 15 is that the disqualification regarding the sub-registrar, lambardar, inamdar, sutedposh or zaildar be not removed. So far as the Parliamentary Secretary and the Parliamentary Private Secretary are concerned, the mover of these amendments has no objection to the removal of their disqualification, but he has objection with regard to the removal of disqualification of the sub-registrar, lambardar, etc., etc.

* That in clause 2, line 6—

(i) the words "any of" be omitted.

(ii) for the word "offices" the word "office" be substituted;

(iii) in line 8, the figure "(i)" be omitted;

(iv) sub-clause (2) be omitted.

Mr. Speaker : That difficulty can be easily met with. The honourable member might move his amendment to clause 2. If that amendment is carried, some consequential amendments shall have to be made and the word "offices" shall have to be deleted and the words "similar offices" retained. I am unable, therefore, to allow his amendment.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : I beg to move—

That in clause 2 the words "any of the following offices, namely" be omitted.

Mr. Speaker : As this amendment is identical with the one which Lala Duni Chand was going to move, I cannot allow it. So, item No. 2 will be taken up now.

(Mir Maqbool Mahmood rose to move amendment No. 2.)

Mr. Speaker : May I suggest that the honourable member may not move his amendment as it stands? He wishes to move that in clause 2 the following be substituted for sub-clause (i) :—

"the office of Parliamentary Secretary, or of Parliamentary Private Secretary, if and when created ;"

My suggestion is that instead of one amendment he may move the following two amendments :—

- (i) "That in clause 2 sub-clause (i) after the words "Parliamentary Secretary", the words "or of Parliamentary Private Secretary" be inserted"; and
- (ii) That the words "it is" be omitted.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I am grateful for your guidance in the matter of splitting of the amendment and I shall move it accordingly. My first amendment would be—

That in clause 2, sub-clause (i) after the words "Parliamentary Secretary", the words "or of Parliamentary Private Secretary", be inserted.

My amendment needs no elaborate speech in support of it. It is based on Parliamentary convention. In the House of Commons there are Parliamentary Under Secretaries and there are Parliamentary Private Secretaries who assist the ministers in the discharge of their functions in the various spheres of their duties. With these words, I beg to move the amendment standing in my name.

The motion was put and carried.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I beg to move—

"That in line 2 of sub-clause (i) of clause 2 the last two words 'it is' be omitted."

The amendment is consequential.

The motion was put and carried.

Mr. Speaker : Now Mr. Gauba's amendment No. 3 will be taken up.

Mr. K. L. Gauba : This is merely a drafting amendment.

Mr. Speaker : Then there are practically three amendments i.e., Lala Duni Chand's Amendment, sub-item (iv) of item 4, that, sub-clause (2) be omitted ; and Nos. 6, 7 and 8 by Mr. K. L. Gauba, Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt and Diwan Chaman Lall, that clause 2 (2) be deleted and there is No. 5 by Diwan Chaman Lall asking for the substitution of the words :—

"Any other offices proposed by resolution of the Punjab Legislative Assembly but not otherwise consistently with the provisions of section 69 of the Government of India Act, 1935"

Mr. K. L. Gauba : I move—

“ That clause 2 (2) be deleted”.

The motion was put and lost.

Mr. Speaker : All amendments to clause 2 being disposed of, I will now put to the House clause 2 as amended. The question is—

That clause 2 as amended stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 3.

Mr. Speaker : The only amendment to this clause is that Clause 3 be omitted, but it is not an amendment.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Before Clause 3 is put to the House, I beg to raise a point of order. Section 69 (i) (a) enjoins that offices declared by an Act of the provincial legislature not to disqualify their holders shall be exempt. The provincial legislature is authorised by Parliament to exempt from disqualification certain offices by an Act of the provincial legislature. The point of order is whether a provincial legislature can suggest the less restricted method of a resolution instead of an Act provided by the Statute for making future additions to the Schedule of exempted offices.

Mr. Speaker : Persons can be exempted by delegating to the Assembly authority to make rules.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : My point is that in future additions could be made by the provincial legislature by an amending Act and not merely by a resolution. By resolution, it seems to me, the schedule cannot be amended in view of the language of Section 69 of the Act.

Advocate-General (Diwan Ram Lal) : Section 69 runs as follows :—

(1) A person shall be disqualified for being chosen as, and for being, a member of a Provincial Legislative Assembly or Legislative Council—

(a) if he holds any office of profit under the Crown in India, other than an office declared by Act of the Provincial Legislature not to disqualify its holder.

What is meant by the words “ declared by Act ”? The declaration in the present Bill is that certain offices are placed in the schedule, namely, Parliamentary Secretaries if and when appointed, inamdars, lambardars, zaidars, etc., and the Act now would proceed to declare those offices to be the offices the holders of which would not be disqualified.

It is stated in clause 3 that afterwards the Assembly might pass a resolution and by that resolution add to the schedule and this is what is sought to be done. This seems to me to go beyond the language of Section 69 wherein it is said ‘ declare by Act of the Provincial Legislature ’. An Act connotes publication and all the procedure and not merely a resolution of the House.

Mr. Speaker : Is clause 3 ultra vires ?

Advocate-General : Yes, I think so.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I do not propose to move that clause.

Mr. Speaker : It is already in the Bill ; it cannot be withdrawn. It can be negatived.

The question is—

That clause 3 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was lost.

Schedule.

Mr. Speaker : The next item is the Schedule.

The Honourable the Premier : Sir, I move—

That the following be added to the Schedule :—

"3. Officer in the Army in India Reserve of Officers or Officer, non-commissioned Officer, or other member of the Indian Territorial Force."

I need not dilate on the necessity of incorporating this amendment because this House is aware that in the Territorial Force, the volunteers when they join for training for a few weeks every year, are paid a small remuneration to cover their out of pocket expenses. With a view to avoid any doubt that remuneration which they receive will not bring them within the purview of section 69 (1) of the Government of India Act, it is advisable to pass this amendment.

The motion was put and carried.

Captain Dina Nath (Kangra South, General, Rural) : I beg to move—

That the following be added to the Schedule :—
"Members of the Auxiliary Force in India."

There are two forces in India ; one is the Territorial Force and the other is the Auxiliary Force in India. These two Forces are non-regular and the amendment with respect to the Territorial Force has been accepted. I do not see any reason why in the case of the Auxiliary Force in India the amendment should not be accepted. It will be a very great hardship if in the case of the Auxiliary Force this amendment is not going to be accepted. The difference between the Auxiliary Force in India and the Territorial Force is this, that the Indian Territorial Force is meant for the second line of the Indian Troops and the Auxiliary Force is the second line of British Troops. The service conditions as well as the emoluments are the same and for this reason when we have accepted one amendment in the case of the Territorial Force, I do not see any reason why we should not accept it in the case of the Auxiliary Force.

3 P.M.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That the following be added to the Schedule :—
"Members of the Auxiliary Force in India".

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That the Schedule as amended be the schedule of the Bill.

Lala Duni Chand : I beg to know whether it would be open to us to oppose the insertion of the schedule into the Act at this stage.

Mr. Speaker : I have put to the House that the Schedule as amended be the Schedule to the Bill. Now the honourable member asks whether the question can be opposed. My answer is in the affirmative; but I may add that if the Schedule is rejected all clauses of the Bill that have been passed shall become meaningless and ineffective, nay, the Bill shall be entirely destroyed.

Diwan Chaman Lall : What I want is light to be thrown on the procedure. Would the Opposition or a member of this House be in order in making final remarks on the third reading of the Bill?

Mr. Speaker : Every motion that is moved before the House can be discussed and criticised and every honourable member of the House is entitled to speak on it.

The question is—

That the Schedule as amended be the Schedule of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Preamble.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I move that—

In line 5 of the preamble for the word "appearing" the word "mentioned" be substituted.

I am advised that this would be a more appropriate expression to use.

The motion was put and carried.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That the preamble as amended be the preamble of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I move—

That the Punjab Legislative Assembly (Removal of Disqualifications) Bill as amended be passed.

Mr. Speaker : Motion moved—

That the Punjab Legislative Assembly (Removal of Disqualifications) Bill as amended be passed.

Lala Duni Chand (Ambala and Simla, General, Rural) : As some of the important amendments have been ruled out, and I concede rightly, the only thing that is open to us now is to oppose the final passing of the Bill. At the very outset I beg to invite the attention of the honourable members of this House particularly the honourable members on the Government benches to the wording of section 69. The plain wording of that section leaves no doubt whatsoever that all those persons who hold any office of profit under the Crown are ineligible to seek election to the legislatures. Whatever difference of opinion there might be with regard to the interpretation to be put on section 307, there should be no difference of opinion with regard to the plain meaning of section 69. It was pointed out by the learned Leader of the House that we have introduced the Bill simply in order to remove certain ambiguities. I strongly differ from him and on this point I beg the Honourable Advocate General to say whether he agrees with this interpretation of section 69 (1). That being the clear matter, the House should not be under the impression that it is only the ambiguity of section 69 that is going to be cleared up.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I never said that it was the ambiguity of that section which we wanted to remove.

Lala Duni Chand : I submit that as section 69 stands the zaildars, lambardars, sub-registrars and all these people are disqualified for the simple reason that they are holders of offices of profit under the Crown. As to that there can be no doubt. The most important question that deserves the consideration of this honourable House is whether these persons are the proper persons to be elected to the Assembly. I submit that there must have been two considerations in the minds of the framers of section 69 and one of these considerations must have been the fact that all these persons who hold office of profit under the Crown are in most cases necessarily a part of the administration and many of them are directly subordinate to the Government and the authorities. The principle is whether these people who are supposed to criticise and criticise sometimes boldly and mercilessly the administration of this province or the doings of certain authorities should be allowed to seek election to the Assembly so long as they retain these offices. This is one principle that was in the mind of the framers of section 69. The other principle that must have been in their minds is that their duties as holders of office of profit will conflict with their duties as members of this honourable House. These are the two principles and the two considerations that must have been in the mind of the framers of section 69. The question is whether in view of these considerations apart from anything else, the House should decide whether these classes of persons should be eligible for election to the Assembly. I will just come to this point; but before I do so, I want to make a statement that the object of section 69 was not to remove the disqualification of a large number of persons or a large class of people. To my mind it appears that the object was to make exception in the case of persons who should come into the House as experts and whose coming was desirable from that point of view. It was never intended that all these large number of persons, sub-registrars and others should be exempted. I submit that it was never intended by this section that the disqualification of these persons should be removed. I laid down two considerations for the consideration of the House. I invite the attention of the members of the Government benches to the provisions of the Indian Registration Act with regard to the position and the status of sub-registrars and I also invite their attention to certain provisions of the Land Revenue Act. I would not like to repeat all these sections, but I may point out that so far as sub-registrars are concerned, their position is that their appointment rests with the Local Government or in case the Government delegate its powers, to the Inspector-General, it rests with the Inspector-General. They are to be paid either a fixed salary or in the form of fees or partly in one form and partly in the other. They are to be given establishment and they have also powers to record statements and are liable to be dismissed by the Inspector-General of Registration. Under section 84 sub-registrars are also public servants. I particularly invite the attention of the honourable members on Government benches to the fact that it has been declared by the Registration Act itself that sub-registrars are public servants. They have also been given powers to record statements and start prosecutions, in short, I may submit that they have all the paraphernalia of a regular court about them. It will be very difficult to draw any distinction between sub-registrars or the holders of any other kind of office. I submit that so far as sub-registrars are concerned, for all practical purposes they stand on the same footing as other Government servants. Now I come to the Land Revenue Act. Section 28 of the Land Revenue Act empowers the financial commissioners to make rules with regard to emoluments, punishment, appointment and dismissal, etc., of lambardars and zaildars. These rules have been made under section

28 and under these rules power has been given to the Collector to punish, suspend or dismiss a lambardar or any of these officers. It is in the power of the Collector to appoint them, to allow certain allowances or percentages of panchotra. Their duties have also been prescribed under these rules and they are really too many. They are required to help the administration and the authorities, they are to help the police and the revenue officers and every other department in any manner that may be. I need not enumerate all these things, as I do not want to take unduly long time. This really is the exact position. With regard to these lambardars and zaildars I may say that the honourable members on the Government benches will take into consideration what they are required to do from day to day and from week to week. They are required to attend to all kinds of officers, police officers, officers of the Public Works Department and all officers visiting his ilaqa. In this connection I may invite the attention of the Government benches to the fact that they are supposed to keep a sort of register which is generally called Emal Nama or the book of their deeds. In this register these lambardars and zaildars every day try to get all sorts of certificates not only from high officers but also from the sub-inspectors of police, from naib-tahsildars and others and whenever any question of their appointment comes they use that book as the most important piece of evidence in their favour and their opponents sometimes use them against them. That is the real position of these rural officers. In every possible way they depend upon the favours of the officers whom they are supposed to serve. It is not possible for these people to go against them in any way. Then as regards their duties, apart from the fact whether they are good people or bad people, very often their duties as holders of office necessarily will come into conflict with their duties as honourable members of this House. They are supposed to take part in the investigation of any criminal case. They are supposed to help in the collection of land revenue and they are supposed to do so many things. If, therefore, they want to discharge their duties of lambardari or zaidari faithfully and honestly, it will not be possible for them to discharge their duties as honourable members of this House which I think will be sitting hereafter for very long periods. Apart from anything else this is the most important point to be taken into consideration, that the two kinds of duties will always conflict with each other. The question then is whether in view of these two considerations that I have placed before the House these people can be declared as proper and fit to be members of this House. I submit that it is not easy for anybody, even the Leader of the House or the Ministers to say that this would be a very desirable thing. Apart from these considerations I further submit that we should consider whether these gentlemen are otherwise desirable persons to become members of this House. I do not make any indictment against them as a class. I have been of opinion and I am of that opinion now that in all ranks of Government service from the lowest to the highest, there are good, honest and efficient men. The question that I wish to place before this House is whether the sub-registrars, lambardars, etc., as a class are desirable persons to be members of this House. I submit that if there are any people as a class who are not desirable persons to be members of this House, it is this class of sub-registrars and rural officers. I beg the House to consider that if there is a lambardar who has to look up to the deputy commissioner or revenue assistant, tahsildar or a naib-tahsildar, or superintendent of police or a deputy superintendent of police or a sub-inspector of police and all sorts of people, how is it possible for him to discharge his duties honourably or honestly while in this House? It is a matter which is so obvious. Anybody who differs in a matter like this is offending against commonsense. It is a matter of commonsense. As regards the doings of these persons from the Government point of view, they may have been doing very good work, of course, they have that consolation that they can get this kind of certificate from the Government, but the country is in many ways suffering at the hands of these people. I ask with regard to sub-registrars, whether it is not the complaint of the Honourable Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram that these sub-registrars many times have cheated the poor zamindars who appear before them. Will it not be his complaint that very often documents are registered without the executants knowing anything about them? Will he not be prepared to admit that these sub-registrars are a very unsatisfactory lot? If these gentlemen are permitted to be elected as members of this House, what will he think? Take the case of lambardars and zaildars and sudedposhes. Some of them may be good men and I have no dispute about them, but as a class they are the most undesirable persons.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Are they more undesirable than lawyers?

Lala Duni Chand : The honourable member is himself a lawyer of eminence and if he wants to pass this verdict about himself he is welcome to do so, but I am not prepared to say that the legal profession as a whole consists of undesirable people. There are sitting very eminent lawyers on the Government benches, and if he is really going to express an opinion of that character I am sure he will be taken to task by some of his own colleagues.

I was talking about the complaint of the people with regard to investigation of offences by the police. Is it not a fact that these lambardars, zaildars and inamdars are a reserve force for the police? When the police are unable to get witnesses in any case these are at the disposal of the police. When the police want support in those cases they are readily available to the police. This is a fact that, I think, nobody can deny. It has been held in some rulings of the High Court that these lambardars are reserve witnesses—stock witnesses. These phrases are often used in High Court that these lambardars are stock witnesses. I remember one honourable judge of the High Court saying that the lambardars are uncles of the police. It is not possible for any of the honourable members to contradict me with regard to the statement of facts that I am making. I am sure, if any honourable member cares to contradict me on this point, he will find himself gravely in error. There can be no doubt that there are other instances also of such doings of lambardars. I do know if the Honourable Chaudhri Chhotu Ram probably thinks that they are men who constitute his back-bone. He will probably think that these people have been really in command of regiments that he had got on his side. I am submitting that there are two kinds of members in this House. There are some honourable members who have been elected to this House as a result of the kindness or efforts of these rural officers. There are other honourable members who have been victims of their doings. I submit, I can say with absolute confidence and certainty, that so far as the Ambala division is concerned, there was no free voting in most of the constituencies. (An honourable member: Wrong). I know hundreds of zaildars who have not been allowing free voting. I have no hesitation in submitting before this House that the lambardars, zaildars, inamdars, etc., have resorted to all sorts of high handedness and intimidation. No one can deny these facts. I say that that has been the worst defect of the old regime that has gone. I wish that the present regime may not suffer. May I tell the honourable members what the defect is? The predecessors of this Government never admitted that the Sun is on or it is day. It has been the practice of the predecessors of this Government that they denied all sorts of things with regard to their administrative officers, howsoever glaring the truth might be. I do pray the honourable members of this new regime not to pursue that policy. I have been seeing things with my own eyes. Things have been done and the authorities have been in the know of those horrible things. Whenever any occasion comes before them, they say 'all this is wrong and false.' I say this is the malady from which the present regime should not suffer. Let us see whether all these people are desirable from that point of view. I submit that they did all these things in connection with recent elections. The question is whether the honour, dignity and position of the House will be enhanced by having an army of lambardars, zaildars and inamdars. One of the honourable members said that a good many lambardars are already members of this House. Probably he would like that all those people who are not lambardars should cease to be qualified to be the members of this House. Then there are certain gentlemen who say that the only persons, who can be proper members of this House to carry on the Government, are only the lambardars and zaildars. I submit that if this class of people are allowed to come to this House, a very serious situation will be created in the country. What will be that situation? Now they are keeping a petty position as lambardars and zaildars and if further distinction is added to them they will go back to their constituencies and rob people more and more. We know there is hardly any lambardar to be found in the whole length and breadth of the country who does not take bribe. (An honourable member: Question).

I have already made exceptions that among the constables, lambardars and among all other ranks there are men who are honest and efficient. (Interruption). I am not making the allegation that everyone is addicted to these vices. What I am submitting is that generally speaking as a class they rob people, they terrorise them and they oppress them. I know it for a fact and you cannot deny that. I have been in the closest touch with a large number of these people all my life. I know how they act and how many complaints the people have got against them. There is no use of denying the truth that is as clear as daylight. I have submitted all these things before this honourable House and I honestly believe that these are not the proper persons to become members of this House.

There is only one more observation that I want to make and then I have finished. The observation referred to by me is that for the last 15 or 20 years there has been a section of people that has been engaged in the struggle to make this country worth living. They may be misguided people. They may be differing from you, but they have been guided by one motive, namely that this country should be made worth living. There is another class of people and that is represented in this House by the members of the Unionist Party. They have been engaged, I should not say in the struggle, they have been engaged in the pastime or in the game of strengthening and consolidating all those reactionary, communal, sub-communal, selfish and unpatriotic forces in the country.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : More than yourself ?

Lala Duni Chand : You are strengthening the hold of the foreign domination of this country. I am one of those people who want the foreign domination to go to-morrow.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : We want it to go to-day.

Lala Duni Chand : The introduction of this Bill is nothing but a process in the direction of further augmenting these forces that I have mentioned. It is an attempt on the part of the honourable members of the Unionist Party not to relax in any way the foreign domination, but to make its hold firmer and firmer on this country. This is the general point of view which I request the honourable members of the Unionist Party to take into consideration. Are they in any way relaxing the foreign domination or are they really going to increase our troubles ? This is the last observation that I wanted to make. I say that all that we are here for and all that we can do is to raise a cry, to raise a protest and to raise a voice of indignation. Though the House may be crowded I feel in spite of the House being crowded that ours is a cry in the wilderness. I appeal to them not to treat the important matters in that way. I leave it of course to their sense of responsibility. So far as we are concerned we are here only to voice the views of the people and there is no power on earth that can prevent us from doing our duty in that way. (Cheers).

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali (Hafizabad, Muhammadan, Rural) : Sir, I have been at a loss to understand why the lambardars, zaildars, honorary and departmental sub-registrars, etc., have been made a target of such an unfair and unjust criticism on the floor of this House. So far as the section under reference is concerned, it is more a question of interpretation than anything else. Section 69, I do not want to repeat its language, is to the effect that anybody possessing an office of profit under the Crown shall be debarred from being elected a member and after having been elected to continue as such. A very limited and unfair interpretation has been put on the words 'holding any office of profit under the Crown.' There is section 307 of the Government of India Act which has thrown further light on the subject. Part (b) of this section makes it clear and gives a hint that it was never meant to hold these offices as offices of profit in the sense as the Opposition has interpreted. Each one of these is a part time office the remuneration in which case is given more by fees than by fixed salaries. The Land Revenue Act itself by its rules fixes a certain percentage of the fees leviable under the Land Revenue Act which is allowed to be reserved or taken up as pay by lambardars, sufedposhes or zaildars. So, I cannot understand with what stretch of imagination these offices are being held like the offices of extra assistant commissioners, deputy commissioners, engineers and other Government officials. It was in the strict sense meant to keep out the latter and not the persons who, strictly speaking, are not officers holding offices of profit under the Crown.

It has been argued on the other side that very great influence has been used and is daily being used by these persons and simply on the score that they have some influence in some circles, they should be ruled out. I cannot understand this logic. Everybody in this world has a certain sort of influence in his limited or unlimited sphere. The headmasters are not debarred from being members, the lawyers are not debarred from being members and in the same sense executive officers though they certainly have influence. The argument, that anybody who has got influence should be debarred on that score alone, does not hold water at all. Moreover, as has been observed by my friend on the right, Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan, it will be unfair on our part to rule out certain people from entering this honourable House on the mere score that they have certain influence in certain ^{villages} ~~ilagas~~. We have no right to criticise or limit the sacred right of vote which the people have got under the new constitution. As a matter of fact they are the most responsible persons; they are the persons who are looked upon as leaders in all countryside. Punjab is a country of villages and we will be upsetting the whole machinery of our country and constitution if we hold now in this House that those persons who have got any influence in the villages and who are in reality the real leaders of the people should be turned out of this Assembly for the simple reason that they happen to hold certain offices, as has been said by the other side, under the Crown. Look at the mentality of the ordinary villager in the villages. For all his various activities he looks upon the lambardar, ~~zaidar and sutedposh~~ as the only man who can represent his interest before every officer or before Government or anywhere else. Therefore on the mere ground of influence these people should not be ruled out as unqualified to be members of this Assembly. Reference has been made by my honourable friend, Lala Duni Chand, to the rule under the Land Revenue Act and also other rules which are framed by the Financial Commissioner for appointment, suspension and removal of lambardars. I do not want to go into the details of these rules but I shall show in a few sentences that the very fact that there are these rules will show you what sort of people these lambardars are and that the people who are appointed to hold this office are quite honourable and honest. My lawyer friends must remember that the appointment of zaidars is made under the revenue rule 5 (1) and one of the important considerations for the appointment is, to what extent the zaidars represents the majority of people living in that ilaga. He must be free from indebtedness, must be a person of good character, must have family and personal services and must hold sufficient property within that ilaga to qualify himself to be appointed. He has to fulfil so many qualifications in order to get that office. Are these people not honest and honourable and are they not worthy to be members of the provincial legislature? Then there is another thing. So far as the rules for suspension and removal are concerned, if any lambardar, zaidar or sutedposh is imprisoned for one year for any offence he is removed there and then. What does it mean? It is only people with good character who can carry on these offices. If these zaildars, lambardars and sutedposhes cease to hold any property in the ilaga they are easily removed. Again, they are men of means and solvent people and are not so many riffraffs going about that they should not be allowed to come to this House. There is another provision that if they have insufficient property and there is no sufficient security for the land revenue for which they are responsible, on that score they can be removed. Now, all these things I have enumerated show that these persons are the most desirable persons, and the very conditions of their appointment, suspension and removal are a sufficient guarantee that they are the most honest set of people to represent the cause of rural masses in this honourable chamber.

I would quote instances to prove my contention. I will refer to my friend sitting on my right, Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan. He is a lambardar himself. You have been watching his political career. Was he ever afraid of anybody? He was the most independent and constitutional member we have ever had among the zamindars (hear, hear) in the Central Legislature. I may give another instance, that of Mr. Iftakhar-ud-Din who is not present here now—I may be pardoned if I refer to him. He himself is the secretary of your (Congress) party and he himself is a Congress leader. He is a zaildar as well as a lambardar of more than 10 or 15 villages. Other instances are of Sardar Sampuran Singh and Sardar Lal Singh who have participated in this debate to-day. Can anybody say that they are not honest so far as the discharge of duty as a member in this House is concerned? Instances can be multiplied but I do not want to take up the time of the House by multiplying these instances. I think they are sufficient to prove what I have been trying to prove on the floor of the House, that lambardars and zaildars are independent and not puppets in the hands of the Government officials. You remember the well-known word 'Patel' used in the Bombay Presidency. What are patels? They are lambardars and these people have been carrying on the movement of the Congress more actively than anybody else. We have known of these people carrying on the civil disobedience campaign launched by Mahatma Gandhi. Are these people to be condemned on the only score that they happen to be lambardars? It remains to be seen if my friends on the Opposition, when they come to hold the government of the country, would chuck off the lambardars and zaildars merely because they do not want their help in this House. I doubt it. I think the mere fact that they happen to be lambardars is not sufficient to disqualify those people to be members of this honourable House.

Reference has been made on the floor of the House as to the ideal which should be reached. We had a reference to the House of Commons and so on. My honourable friend, the Premier, has already spoken on the subject and I would only say this much that we should have them before us as our ideal, but Rome was not built in a day. We should wait and see till we achieve the status of that honourable House. I remember a couplet—

روز هائی باید کہ تا یک پیوہ دانہ ز آب و گل
شاهدے را حاکم آورد یا شہیدے را کفن
-الہائے باید کہ تا یک سنگ اصلی ز آفتاب
لعل خورد در بدخشان تا عقیق اندر یمن

It is not easy for us to achieve all these ideals in one minute, in one hour or in one year. Let us carry on our work and see how far we can reach that ideal which we have before us.

Another thing which was referred to by my honourable friend over there was that these people were not a worthy lot. I ask do you prefer king-makers or kings themselves? What is the good of having people as members of this House who are merely puppets in the hands of others (?) I think it is better to have the wire-pullers themselves. By wire-pullers I do not mean deputy commissioners and commissioners. By wire-pullers I mean lambardars and zaildars who can make others members and not the deputy commissioners and commissioners. I do not think that the deputy commissioners and commissioners are supposed to be so dishonest as to be interfering with the discretionary right of voting by A, B, or C. They know their responsibilities.

Lala Duni Chand referred to certain trend of rulings given in the High Court against these lambardars.

Lala Duni Chand : I never said that there is a trend of such rulings. What I said was that these lambardars and zaildars have been described in certain rulings as stock or reserve witnesses and uncles of the police.

K. S. Chaudhri Riasat Ali : I correct the word trend on account of the statement made by my honourable friend. In reply to that I need only say that there are rulings more recent than those quoted by the honourable member himself in which it has been held that the evidence of witnesses who are honourable otherwise should not be rejected on the score that they happen to be lambardars or zaildars. They are to a certain extent part and parcel of the machinery of the Government. If A or B happens to be a witness of certain occurrence where is the objection to his appearing as a witness to that event? I at least, for one, do not see any objection to taking part in an investigation. The only reason for that is that they happen to live in that vicinity. Being influential men they happen to be acquainted with the facts of the case and that alone is the reason why these people go and take part in the investigation. Even if any of the members sitting opposite happen to visit a village and do not know anybody, the only question he will ask will be where is the lambardar so that he may be able to give him hospitality and also give him shelter as suggested by the Honourable Leader of the House. These are the people who have been so much serviceable to you and to the State and they are the people who cannot be dispensed with easily. You should not have so much hatred for these poor people.

I think I have spoken sufficiently on the subject. With these few words I resume my seat.

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh (Amritsar North, Sikh, Rural) (Punjabi) : I rise to oppose the Bill. I would not have objected to the introduction of this Bill, had it been brought forward after an Act for the appointment of lambardars, inamdars, zaildars, safedgoshes, etc., by election had been passed.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is repeating the argument advanced by another honourable member. One of the gentlemen said that if lambardars were to be appointed by election then there would be no objection to the Bill.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Yes, but there are some honourable members here who do not understand what is said in English. To them this remark will not amount to a repetition.

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh (Punjabi) : It is my firm belief that these people, i.e., zaildars, lambardars, etc., indulged in corruption during the last election campaign. It is an irony of fate that on the one hand we pass a measure called the Prevention of Corrupt Practices Act, while on the other we safely violate its provisions. During the election campaign the above-mentioned persons were strictly prohibited under the provisions of this Act to accept any gratification in the form of drinks or money or to intimidate the voters. But in spite of all this these persons have been actively infringing the provisions of this Act. Obviously this state of affairs is undesirable.

Under the new constitution only 13 per cent. of our population is entitled to vote while 87 per cent. do not possess this right, and the pity of it is that for ten years this question of suffrage will remain a closed chapter. Now, it appears to me that the Unionist Party has an ulterior motive in rushing this Bill through. The party wants to strengthen the position of its allies. Recently in the United Provinces during general elections an Agricultural Party came into existence professing the same ideals as the Unionist Party here, but that party could not withstand the whirlwind campaign of the Congress. It was utterly routed at the polls. During the next general election in the Punjab, the Unionist Party is sure to meet the same fate. The Unionist Party is trying to consolidate its position by passing this Bill, but I may warn them that the masses are now politically conscious and understand their tactics very well. I am sure disillusionment will come to the Unionist Party in the next general election.

The Leader of the House has just remarked that some one will have to do the work of the zaildars, lambardars, etc. I admit it. But my submission is that if these gentlemen had not been the nominees of the Government and were elected by the people to their present offices, we would have no objection to their disqualifications being removed for election to the Assembly and would have given our whole-hearted support to the Bill before the House. I have already submitted that at present the party in power, i.e., the Unionist Party, which mostly consists of zaildars, lambardars, etc., is an ally of British Imperialism. Its constant endeavour is to deprive the masses of their rights. I may tell you that when the people of Russia were not granted the right to form a government of the people, by the people and for the people, they brought about a revolution, with the result that they wrested those rights from the imperialists. At the time of voting in elections these zaildars, lambardars, etc., place obstacles in the way of the people. That time is not far off when these gentlemen will cease doing so. In my opinion we will be playing a hoax on the poor and ignorant electorate by passing this Bill.

Mian Muhammad Iftikhar-ud-Din (Kasur, Muhammadan, Rural) : It is very unfortunate that my silence has to be broken in this House for the first time on a matter which concerns me personally also. I have patiently heard the remarks of the members of the Unionist Party this morning on the question of my own lambardari and zaidari. From my experience during the last five years, ever since I have taken up my lambardari and zaidari, I can say that it is absolutely impossible for a politically conscious and conscientious citizen of this country to be a lambardar or a zaidar and yet remain true to himself. (An honourable member : I hope you have resigned by this time.) I would request the honourable members sitting on the opposite side to listen to me to the end before making any remarks. It has been stated by the Honourable the Leader of the House that the administrative machinery requires that we should at present adhere to the system that prevails in this land. The argument that he has put forward in support of that statement is that the expenses of administration will increase the moment we abolish these lambardars and in their place put some other fully paid and full-time servants of the Crown. Now I must confess I cannot understand how the expenses of the administration will increase if, say, 175 lambardars out of so many thousands in this province were to resign their lambardari in order to take seats in this House. What I mean to say is that at the present moment we do not want that any of the members of this legislature should be lambardars or zaidars. It would be different when, as Mr. Sohan Singh Josh has suggested, later on it is decided to appoint these officials by election. Any way by not removing the disqualification attached to the lambardars and zaidars in the matter of election to this legislature the cost of administration will not increase in any way. It has been said by some members on the other side that by excluding the lambardars and zaidars from this House we shall be limiting the sphere of representation. I think that is absolutely incorrect. If their statement is to be accepted, then what about the thousands of Government servants some of whom may be very advanced politically and may command a great deal of popularity in their districts and who, if they were allowed to do so, could get themselves elected to this legislature? Yet, they have been denied the right of representing any constituency in this House. Similarly the lambardars should, as Government servants which they actually are, consider themselves as a part of that army of officials who owing to their circumstances and owing to the conditions prevailing are not able to get themselves elected to this House. Therefore to argue that this disqualification of the zaidars or lambardars limits or encroaches upon the right of the people to send their representatives to this House is absolutely incorrect.

Again the problem involved here is far more important and wider than the mere question of lambardars or zaidars aspiring to represent their constituencies in this House. The question involved is as to whether the landed aristocracy is to rule us or whether the masses also are going to have a voice in the administration of the affairs of this province. That is what it amounts to. Members opposite have contended that the lambardars belong to old families who hold property and have rendered services in the past to Government. An honourable member opposite further contended that the lambardars, although hereditary, are the real leaders of the peasantry. I would ask the members opposite, "do they honestly believe that a person holding a hereditary office must for that reason necessarily be a leader also? It cannot be accepted as true that a post which is held on hereditary basis makes a person who inherits it a true leader the moment the previous holder dies. We have been trying to prove that this post, owing to various reasons entails with it a great power. That being so, I ask, can a person who holds such a post which carries with it some influence, which is hereditary and which is confined to the propertied classes, really represents the views and aspirations of the masses? Under the present circumstances lambardars sent to this House must necessarily be people who represent and support the interests of the landed aristocracy.

Members on the other side have said that in one day we cannot achieve everything. That is an old argument of Indian bureaucrats whose interest has been to support and maintain the Imperial Government. They usually argue that in England power was transferred to the masses gradually, if it has been at all transferred. They argue that first the king held all power in his own hands, then it passed on to the church and then it was transferred to the landed aristocracy and thereafter to the industrial aristocracy and then to the commercial aristocracy and so on. Similarly they argue that we should also try to transfer power that is given to us, however little that may be, to the masses in successive stages. I submit that analogy does not hold good. The position in England was that the English masses fought with their own countrymen in order to get rights for themselves. Here the situation is entirely different. As far as the freedom of this land is concerned, as I have already said, no conscientious Indian, no Indian who has got a heart within, can desire even in his dreams that we should be ruled as we have been hitherto and that we should be a subject nation and feel that we are unfit to rule ourselves at present and that because of our own backwardness a foreign nation should go on exploiting us.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is not speaking to the motion.

Mian Muhammad Iftikhar-ud-Din : What I want to submit is that one cannot hold a different opinion on this matter from the one that the interest of the landed aristocracy coincides with that of British Imperialism in the matter of keeping the present conditions intact in India. The moment the control is shifted from the landed aristocracy to the masses, the foreign domination will not last five minutes in this country. It is realising these facts that, as already pointed out, I have had to say something about this matter which concerns me and which in the ordinary course of affairs I would have tried to convey to the public in a less picturesque and less demonstrative manner. It has been said that I myself am a lambardar and a zaildar and in spite of that I happen to profess views opposed to those of the Government and occupy a seat on the Opposition benches. And on that ground it has been asked whether it is not possible for all the lambardars in this province to do the same. In reply to that I may tell you from my personal experience that I have found it well-nigh impossible in the past to be conscientious and yet properly to carry on the functions of a zaildar or a lambardar. These officers have to help the Government to carry on the administration, to help the police to carry on their unfair and oppressive measures against the people. (Opposition cheers). These functions I have found to be absolutely incompatible with the views that I have held. I confess that during the five years not once but several times have I found myself placed in an awkward position, not merely awkward but even humiliating. I, for one, feel that from the standpoint of my party and on account of the aim that we have in view, namely, to achieve the freedom of this country, in order to liberate the masses from the miseries under which they are labouring, it is impossible for me to remain under the existing circumstances a lambardar which I happen to be of several places and a zaildar and I take this opportunity to announce that I shall take the earliest steps to resign. (Cheers).

As I have said, it is a question not merely of lambardars or zaildars but it is a question as to whether we are going to be ruled by the landed aristocracy which works hand in hand with the British Imperialism and which wants to prolong the subjugation and slavery of this country. I know it is disappointing. But I have known it from my experience and under the circumstances I have found it impossible to work in these posts conscientiously. (Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan: You will not find it so under the present Government). I am not sure of that. The time is yet to come. We have already seen in the last few days the attitude of the present Government towards the welfare of the masses and of their own country. When so many millions in this country and so many outside India have declared themselves to be opposed to this slave constitution and when one after another we have been receiving blows not only from the Secretary of State sitting far away but from the Governor sitting in authority over us, what have they done? Within four or five days of inauguration of the new constitution, the Unionist Party—(An honourable member: What has that got to do with the motion under discussion?) I am meeting the points raised on the other side.

Mr. Speaker: Is it necessary to answer an irrelevant argument?

Mian Muhammad Iftikhar-ud-Din: Very well, I shall drop that point. As I have said it is not a question of lambardarship which, owing to the good wishes and owing to the kindness of members sitting on these benches, one may be allowed to retain for one or five or even twenty years. That is not the point. It is a question of principle. This province should not be allowed by any means to be ruled by landed aristocracy whose interests coincide with those of the British Government and for this reason I think that anybody who is a lambardar or zaildar cannot be true to his country or true to the public under the present circumstances. I repeat that I myself realise that in this my first utterance in the House I have had to talk about a personal matter and to make a gesture which on account of its demonstrative manner to my mind may wrongly make an impression on score of cheapness, so to speak, but all the same in order to vindicate the position of my party it is necessary that I should declare it here and now. (Applause).

Dr. Saif-ud-Din Kitchlew (Amritsar city, Muhammadan, Urban): May I crave the indulgence of this House to permit me just to take a few minutes of the most valuable time of the honourable members. Before I come to the subject matter of this debate I should like to be permitted to make a few remarks in regard to myself. I am feeling here, let me frankly confess before the honourable members of this House, I am feeling that I have not yet caught the proper atmosphere of this august assembly. May be the acoustics of this hall do not agree with my power of hearing or may be there is something in the atmosphere of this big assembly which has not yet appealed to my mind. Hitherto I have kept quiet in the House, and I assure honourable members that I would have done so till such time as I would have felt from within that I should get up and speak. But what have we just seen in this House? The step taken by my honourable friend who has just sat down, the great sacrifice that he has made in this House before the honourable members—will you permit me to say something on that? An old family, good old family, ancestral interests, great position, great loyal family of this province, the only individual solitary male member who has the rights to inherit the property—I ask the honourable members of this House to take into consideration the fact of his age and experience and education and the temptation that can be offered to youth—such a man has come forward in a bold honest straightforward manner and has declared that his conscience does not allow that he should be a lambardar or a zaidar and at the same time be a member of this great Assembly. (Applause). The question which is before the House, the Bill which has been so eloquently introduced by my honourable friend, the Leader of the House, on the side opposite, is not simply an ordinary Bill the terms of which can easily be ignored.

If this Bill is passed, to my mind, and I may be wrong, this province will suffer a good deal in the eyes of the public generally in India. I have been listening with patience to the speeches that have been made by my friends on the other side of the House. I have tried my best as a common soldier in the service of motherland to try and appreciate and understand the view points expressed by my friends on the other side, but I must confess that I have failed to appreciate their view point. (An honourable member: Tragic.) To my mind there has been in this hall a struggle between two ideals and two view points. One is that we who have been slaves for a long number of years are now in a position to come forward at every opportunity that is offered to us to speak to the world that we refuse to be slaves any more in our own land. (Hear, hear.) If that is the attitude which my honourable friends, the members of the Congress Party have taken up here in this hall, if that is what I understand rightly and correctly to be the attitude of the Congress people outside this hall, I am at one with those gentlemen. I am trying to meet the arguments advanced by the other side of the House. The legal aspect of the question has been thoroughly thrashed out on the floor of this House. Instances have also been given and I am not going to waste your time or the time of this House, but I want to place one point of view before my friends on the other side. I would appeal to every honourable member opposite to realize, to see round and see for himself as to what is happening in the country. May I beg of you to exercise a little vision, to exercise a little imagination and see a little ahead of the times. This constitution of which we are part and parcel made recently by the British Government has in six out of the eleven provinces in the country been declared to be rotten to the core and an unacceptable thing which should be thrown into the waste paper basket, a thing which is not worth the paper on which it is written. This province, I understand, is the only province that has been claimed by the forces of reactionary Government, the bureaucracy, to be the ideal province before their eyes.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Hear, hear. It is an ideal province.

Dr. Saif-ud-Din Kitchlew : The bureaucratic friends of ours say that the Punjabis have plenty of commonsense. (Laughter). May I remind you and through you the whole House that in the year 1919 and before that, a very strong man of the bureaucracy, the strongest that has been claimed by bureaucracy in this province, used to be proud and used to boast that his province—he was then the Governor or perhaps the Lieutenant Governor—was safe for bureaucracy and possessed plenty of commonsense and carried a wise head over broad shoulders. He felt very sure of his position because he had the mighty forces behind him, the army, the police and the magistracy, the lambardars and zaildars working in villages and upholding the dignity of the Government and the prestige of the Government. But whoever thought that in this province all of a sudden a wave would come calling upon the people to sacrifice everything for the country and that the people of this province would come forward like one man in the field and upset the calculations of that strong man. (Hear, hear). I know some of my friends will bear me out, I had the proud privilege of being with them as a royal guest in one of the chief palaces of His Majesty the King right on the other side of the town, I mean the Central Jail. I see one of my friends over there sitting right behind the Treasury benches. Once in his life he was roused and for the sake of liberty and freedom of his country he went to the jail. There are so many others of course and I need not mention their names. I can see them before me. I can see them on this side and in the centre also. Every one of them tried to do his best for the country and went to jail in the year 1919. I will not detain you for a very long time now because I am placing a special point of view before my friends of the Unionist Party. All these calculations were upset. This is what I was telling my honourable friends of this House. I know how the movement was started. I knew the great founder of the Unionist Party. He was the President of the Congress Committee in this province. (An honourable member : We are proud of him.) He presided over a meeting in Lahore. Young people, men and women were assembled in the big hall here in Lahore where my late lamented friend the founder of the Unionist Party presided. He moved a resolution which was very tamely worded reminding the people of their difficulties regarding the Rowlett legislation. The anger in those days was so great and the younger generation was so much against it that instead of the resolution of my friend, the late Sir Fazl-i-Husain, the resolution that I moved was passed. I will not say that the honourable members opposite have not any patriotism. I think that every Indian has got the sense of patriotism. I do not believe for a single moment that my friends opposite do not want to see their country free. I feel that they do want it ; but the difference lies in the method of work and in the angle of vision. Therefore I appeal to the other party to have that vision and that imagination. Let their imagination be broad enough. Do not depend on the present mind of the masses. That will change.

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie : Is it not time that we should come to relevancy ?

Mr. Speaker : An able lawyer can make every irrelevant thing relevant, but I request Dr. Kitchlew not to wander away from the motion before the House.

Dr. Saif-ud-Din Kitchlew : I would be the last person to wander away from the exact position at this late hour — the fag-end of the day. I have, at the very outset, told you that I am not going to repeat the arguments that have been advanced by various honourable members opposite and even on this side of the House. I may only put before you and before the House one consideration. I want you all not to pass this Bill into an Act, and, therefore, for that reason I am placing these facts for your consideration. See what is happening in this province, see what is happening in other provinces of the country. If I can read the signs, if I can read the thoughts that are actuating the masses all over the country right up to Ceylon, if I understand the pulse of the nation, I tell you that before six months are over, I think this constitution as a whole will be drowned into the Ravi over here (cheers), or the Government will come down on its knees and the Secretary of State, Lord Zetland, will invite the Congress people, the national forces of the country, to take charge of the affairs of this country. I shall, therefore, request you to consider this apart from other considerations. Lambardars may be very good people, zaildars may be very good people, some of them may be very good people, but they are part and parcel of the machinery which holds the sway to-day in this province and which we are out to destroy, if we can. I would like honourable members of this House to forgive me, for this is my first speech. I have got all the hesitation. I am speaking with a certain amount of diffidence, but I assure honourable members that I would be the last person to indulge in personal attacks of any kind whatsoever. I would be the last person to attack other honourable members who happen to be lambardars and who form the majority party here. I shall leave them as exceptions. I shall beg of them, those who sit opposite and also beg of the whole House, to consider that a lambardar or a zaildar is after all an executive officer working for profit. It may be said that our Anglo-Indian friends or the members of the English bureaucracy are not here in this hall, that we Indians are now at least governing to a certain extent the destinies of this province. It may be true. But if you go on passing Bills of the kind that is before the House, it will not be a change for the better, it will be a change for the worse. After all it is a change in colour and not in reality. Instead of white bureaucracy we have brown bureaucracy now running the show in this province. I request the honourable members to think seriously and not allow people to say that here the Unionist Party holds a majority, commands a majority, but the Unionist Party betrays the cause of the Punjab.

At this stage some members moved closure of the debate.

Mr. Speaker : The question is —

“That the question be now put.”

The motion was carried.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That the Punjab Legislative Assembly (Removal of Disqualifications) Bill be passed.

The motion was carried.

DAMAGE BY HAILSTORM AND RELIEF TO SUFFERERS.

STATEMENT BY REVENUE MINISTER.

The Honourable Sardar Sir Sundar Singh Majithia (Revenue

5 P.M.

Minister): In the statement¹ made by me before the House on the 9th instant, I informed the House that complete information about the damage done by the hailstorm which swept over the province on the 22nd March, 1937 was not available and that further reports were anxiously awaited. I will now lay before the House the information available regarding the extent of the storm and the measure of relief already taken.

The storm started in Dera Ghazi Khan. It affected 18 villages in Dera Ghazi Khan district, 47 in Muzaffargarh, about 348 in Multan, about 820 in Montgomery and 68 in Lyallpur districts.

The area affected is under different land revenue systems and irrigated by different methods. In Dera Ghazi Khan, Muzaffargarh and a portion of Multan some of the villages are on inundation canals with a fluctuating land revenue system. In the neighbourhood of Multan some of the villages are irrigated partly by inundation canals and partly by wells on which there is a fixed assessment. From this area, with a belt of about six miles in width, the storm passed to the tail of the Lower Bari Doab Canal and thence up to a point at about R. D. 15,00,000 of the Gugera Branch of the Balloki Division where the hail terminated.

The storm exhibited throughout its course the unusual feature of travelling as it were in waves. This was as marked as its beginning in Muzaffargarh where one village was completely destroyed, while the next, though on the exact path of the storm, escaped, as it was in Lyallpur.

Action taken by officers.

The actual hailstorm lasted for about ten minutes during the evening of the 22nd March, and was followed by high wind and heavy rain. There was a less extended but also severe storm on April 3rd. The hail stones varied from about the size of the glass stopper ball in a soda water bottle to that of a small hen's egg. At one spot in the Multan district a flock of fifty sheep was collected. Each one was killed and in only two was breath remaining by the time that human aid could reach them, and they had to be destroyed.

The first action taken by officers was to report that there had been storm—this was done on the evening of the 22nd, and then proceed to ascertain the extent of the damage. Touring commenced on the 28rd, and the figures I have already given are the latest available. In some districts, e.g., Lyallpur, the Revenue Assistant and the Deputy Collector toured together. In Montgomery and in Multan, where the area to be inspected was some five times greater than in Lyallpur, inspecting officers had to work singly and the staff in each district has been strengthened. The Commissioner, superintending engineers, deputy commissioners and executive engineers have all been constantly touring and supervising, and I myself am about to visit the area. Final figures have not yet been collected, and it is not possible to give more than a general estimate of the total remissions. Ten lakhs of remissions, however, are already in sight. The Punjab Government has decided to accept a definite principle in dealing with all these particular cases. That principle will apply to all areas whether they are in a permanent or fluctuating canal system and whether the assessment is fluctuating or fixed. The principle which the Government has decided to observe as a special case in regard to the present calamity, is that if the money crop, e.g. wheat, barley, gram, etc., has been totally destroyed, then there will be a total remission, not only of the abiana and land revenue on that crop but also on the fodder crops, whether mixed or single, and whether grazed prior to the storm or not.

[The Hon. Sardar Sir Sundar Singh Majithia.]

Where the standing crop does not justify full remission and the crop is more than four annas and less than eight annas, then half will be remitted, and where this remission is given to the money crop, an identically proportionate remission will be given to the fodder crop whether it has been grazed or not.

The cost of the total remissions, in so far as it has already been ascertained on the Lower Bari Doab Canal, for land revenue and abiana will be about ten lakhs. The figures for the area outside the irrigation boundary have yet to be ascertained.

Relief.

The first task of the local officers was to put heart into the dismayed zemindars. Messages of sympathy and a promise of practical assistance were immediately despatched by His Excellency the Governor and by the Premier and these were given the widest possible publicity in each district. In pursuance of these assurances and in anticipation of budget provision, the Commissioner authorised deputy commissioners to make advances for taccavi for seed for kharif crops where required. A sum of one lakh from the Famine Relief Fund was placed at the disposal of the Commissioner to be distributed by way of gift. In addition, for the Multan district, Rs. 2,000 were given by the Punjab Red Cross Society, and Rs. 5,000 have been voted by the Multan District Board. It is understood that monetary relief is also being voted by the Muzaffargarh District Board. Out of the one lakh placed at the disposal of the Commissioner, Rs. 20,000 were immediately distributed to the district officers, Rs. 5,000 each to Multan, Montgomery and Lyallpur and Rs. 5,000 shared between Dera Ghazi Khan and Muzaffargarh. This distribution was to meet immediate distress. On the 14th instant a conference of deputy commissioners concerned is to take place under the presidency of the Commissioner, and the distribution and method of expenditure of the balance of the grant-in-aid will then be decided: and if found necessary, proposals for further relief will be formulated. I need not assure the House they will be most sympathetically considered.

The advice of the Agricultural Department has been taken and according to the local need and capacity zemindars have been encouraged to sow immediately whatever crop may give them the quickest return, cheena, rawan, jawar, makai, to enable them to carry on over the difficult period till the ordinary kharif harvest will come in. The Irrigation Department have promised to run the Lower Bari Doab Canal at full supply, at any rate, till about the third week of September, and on inundation canals, any additional water that will be available will be given first to these areas.

If honourable members of the House are interested in seeing the course of the storm, I have with me the detailed report of the Superintending Engineer, Lower Chenab East Circle. It contains a map illustrating the course of the storm in the Lyallpur district and I will be glad to make it available for their inspection. A similar but more general map of the whole Lower Bari Doab Canal system is also available.

Reports from other parts of the province which have suffered from this calamity have not yet reached Government and when those are received, those will also be sympathetically considered and relief where necessary will be afforded on the principle announced above.

Before I take my seat, I think I will be failing in my duty, if I do not convey the congratulations and thanks of Government to the Commissioner, Multan Division and to both the Revenue and Irrigation Officers and their staff for the excellent work they have done and the promptitude and expedition displayed by them in inspecting and assessing the damage. I am sure the House will also join with me in offering this well deserved congratulations and thanks to the officers and staff above mentioned.

Sardar Lal Singh : I find no reference to the districts of Ludhiana and Ferozepore in the Honourable Minister's statement.

Mr. Speaker : No remarks or discussion will be allowed on the statement made by the Honourable Minister of Revenue.

The Honourable Sardar Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : May I ask my friend to have a statement sent to me which will be looked into.

COMMITTEE TO FRAME RULES AND STANDING ORDERS.

Mr. Speaker : Under Section 84 of the Government of India Act, 1935, the Assembly has to make rules for regulating, subject to the provisions of this Act, its procedure and the conduct of its business. So, with the approval of the House I propose to appoint a small Committee, representing all parties, for drafting and submitting Rules and Standing Orders for consideration at the next session of the Assembly. I propose the following names :—

Mian Abdul Aziz,
Mir Maqbool Mahmood,
Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali,
Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan,
Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri,
Lala Duni Chand,
Diwan Chaman Lall, and Sardar Smapuran Singh.

[Mr. Speaker.]

The following four are ex-officio members :—

Speaker,

Deputy Speaker,

Advocate-General, and

Secretary of the Assembly (Sardar Bahadur Sardar Abnasha Singh).

Sardar Bahadur Sardar Abnasha Singh will act as Secretary of the Committee. I think I have the approval of the honourable members. The business of the Committee will be to draft rules and place them before this House for consideration and approval.

COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER SALARIES AND ALLOWANCES OF MEMBERS.

Mr. Speaker : Section 72 of the Government of India Act lays down that members of the Provincial Legislative Assemblies and Legislative Councils shall be entitled to receive such salaries and allowances as may from time to time be determined by Act of the Provincial Legislature.

So, with a view to have these salaries and allowances determined, I propose to appoint a small committee of the following members who will go into the matter and place their considered proposals before the Government Member concerned, who will draft a Bill for the consideration of the Assembly :—

Nawab Fazal Ali.

Rai Bahadur Basakha Singh.

Pir Akbar Ali.

Chaudhri Abdul Bab.

Chaudhri Suraj Mal.

Lala Sita Ram.

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie.

Mr. C. Rai.

Sardar Narotam Singh.

Khwaja Ghulam Hussain.

Honourable Mr. Manohar Lal (as Chairman).

Secretary of the Legislative Assembly will be the Secretary of the Committee as well. I presume I have honourable members' approval. (Voices : Yes).

ELECTIONS TO THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE AND THE BOARD OF INDUSTRIES.

Mr. Speaker : Now, I have to read to you the procedure for the elections of the Public Accounts Committee and the Board of Industries.

Honourable members will have noted that the election to the Public Accounts Committee will be held first and then to the Board of Industries.

Both the elections will be according to the principle of proportional representation. Ballot papers containing the names of candidates and instructions regarding the marking of preferences will be distributed in the Chamber at the seats of members. Any honourable member may mark the paper if he so wishes, at the Secretary's table. As soon as the preferences have been marked, the ballot paper should be folded and deposited into the box kept for the purpose on the table of the House. After the ballot papers have been so deposited in respect of the first election, the box containing the papers will be removed and another one for the purpose of the next election will be placed on the table of the House.

The result will be notified to the honourable members as soon as they are ready.

(Then voting took place.)

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT.

RE STATEMENT BY SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA.

Mr. Speaker : The Assembly shall now proceed to discuss the adjournment motion moved by Mr. Gauba.

Mr. K. L. Gauba (Inner Lahore, Muhammadan, Urban) : Mr. Speaker, I move—

That the Assembly do now adjourn.

I do not belong to the Congress Party, nor, do I entirely agree with the circumstances in which the Congress Party did not accept office in the six provinces of the eleven in which they have a majority. Therefore, my motion should not be considered as a motion moved by or on behalf of the Congress Party. But Lord Zetland's statement goes beyond the controversy between the Government and the Congress. There are certain aspects of his statement that are important,—as I have said this morning,—not only so far as the controversy between the Government and the Congress is concerned, but also so far as every provincial government is concerned. His Excellency the Governor said, and very rightly said, the other day that the Opposition is as much a part of the constitution as the Government of the day. Therefore all sections of this House are interested in the interpretation of provincial autonomy as adumbrated by Lord Zetland in the House of Lords. It was said many times over by the Congress and others in this country that the new constitution was 'humbug' and 'a farce.' There were others who differed largely or slightly with that view point but I do not think anything has been more responsible to confirm the view that the constitution is a farce than the recent statement of Lord Zetland (hear, hear).

The assurance that Mahatma Gandhi wanted from the Governors was very aptly expressed by Mr. Rajagopalachariar in his statement at the time of the crisis. Now, this is what was required and this is what has led up to the crisis. Mr. Rajagopalachariar said—

"I explained that I and my cabinet should be given the fullest freedom of action inside the scope of the provincial autonomy said to be given under the Government of India Act, and that while we remained in office and undertook the responsibility of government of the province, His Excellency should assure us that he will not use his special powers of interference or set aside the advice of his ministers".

Mr. Speaker : No speech shall exceed 15 minutes in duration.

Mr. K. L. Gauba : As I was indicating, the assurance that was asked for was an assurance that so long as the Cabinet or the Government were within the limits of the constitution, the Governor would not interfere with the exercise of provincial autonomy, as the cabinet might work it out. The circumstances, which led up to Congress eventually refusing office are fully known to us. The question arises whether the interpretation put by Lord Zetland, so far as the appointment of temporary ministries are concerned is correct. That is really the vital point that we have to consider to-day, namely the power of the Governor under the constitution to appoint ministry if he finds that the ministry party or parties are not prepared to carry on. In any province it might happen that the Governor and his Ministers come into a conflict. If Lord Zetland's interpretation is correct that under the Government of India Act a Ministry is mandatory and a Council of Ministers 'shall be appointed' in every circumstances irrespective of whether his Council of Ministers commands the confidence of the Legislature or not, it opens up a vast field for interference by the Governor and a complete break down of the constitution within the provinces. Now, it might happen at any time that the Cabinet may say they are not prepared to carry on under certain circumstances. Sections 93 and 94 of the Government of India Act, I believe, provide for a break down of the constitution but the Act does not make any provision for interim ministries as they have been set up in other parts of the country. The Ministry, must under the Government of India Act, as well as under the Instrument of Instructions, be appointed from the party in power or the combination of those parties which command the majority of the members of the legislature.

I will not detain the house very much longer. I feel the matter is important from constitutional point of view. The other day a statement was made by His Excellency the Governor here, a statement which I think, in a speech otherwise admirable, must be viewed with a certain amount of apprehension. His Excellency the Governor stated that the present system of Government is the first step towards responsible government. We were always under the impression that the first step was taken towards responsible government by the Act of 1919, and if this Act, and if this new reformed constitution, is also the first step then it means that there is merely a substitution and not a real change from one form of Government to another.

In conclusion, I would like to have an assurance from the Leader of the House and the head of the Government that he and the Cabinet intend to make provincial autonomy a reality. I hope that no Government in this province will merely hold office for the sake of office. I hope that if at any time the legitimate rights and activities of the Cabinet under the constitution are interfered with unnecessarily, the Ministry will have the courage to resign. On behalf of the Opposition, I assure the Leader of the House that so far as we on this side of the House are concerned, we will lend Government every support to make provincial autonomy a reality. (Hear, hear). I feel that in this matter all sections of the House would be agreed that the interpretation put by Lord Zetland upon provincial autonomy and the powers of Governors to appoint dummy ministries was entirely fallacious and might well lead to the belief that His Majesty's Government have not taken long to cir-convenient the spirit and the implications of the Government of India Act of 1935.

Mr. Speaker : The motion is—
That the Assembly do now adjourn.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood (Amritsar, Muhammadan, Rural): Mr. Speaker, the honourable mover of the adjournment motion deserves to be congratulated for the tone of his speech. The question before us has a constitutional aspect and a political aspect. So far as the political aspect is concerned, I am sure, that both sides of the House—at any rate the patriotic elements of both sides of the House,—will have only one opinion on this question, and it is that it is the right of the majority party to be invited to form the Government. It is not only, Sir, the right but, if I may say so with due deference, it is ordinarily the duty of the majority party to take over the function of the government to redeem its pledges to the electorate. If the majority party fails to form the Ministry, the question becomes a constitutional issue on which I am not going to express any party or final opinion to-day. Competent constitutional authorities have given different interpretations of the legal intricacies involved. We find that no less a constitutional and patriotic luminary than that of the Right Honourable Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru has expressed himself in most unmistakable terms—and here again in view of other weighty opinions to the contrary all of us are not quite definite as to which of these opinions is correct—but Sir Tej has definitely stated and his opinion is entitled to respect that within the terms of the Act no other course was constitutionally open to the Governors than that adopted by them. On that technical aspect of the question I am not going to express any definite opinion at this stage.

The point which we wish to declare is that so far as most of these safeguards are concerned, many of us on this side of the House, like most patriotic Punjabees and Indians, would like them to be obliterated out of the constitution altogether. We are anxious that through exercise of their responsibility by the Ministers in a manner which may make the use of these special responsibilities unnecessary and through evolving suitable conventions on the floor of this House, the Governor may become as responsible here as in the dominions, and these special powers may yet be absolutely forgotten. But, on this point there is no difference, the issue with which we of the Punjab Assembly to-day are concerned is clear and it is this. Has anything happened in the Punjab with regard to constitutional exercise of the powers of the Governor in the formation of the Ministry or is there anything in the statement of the Right Honourable the Secretary of State affecting this province whereat we can cavil? I submit, Sir, and I am sure that responsible members on both sides of the House will be agreed, despite whatever opinion they may hold on the merits or demerits of the Ministry in the province, that the constitution has been fully respected by the Governor in appointing the Ministry on the advice of the Leader of the House who has the largest following in this House. That being the position, so far as we are concerned, there seems nothing in the Secretary of State's latest utterance which has any immediate repercussion, constitutional or otherwise, for us in the Punjab directly. But as Indians we cannot be indifferent to the unfortunate atmosphere in the country and hope and pray that some constructive solution may soon be found out of the present impasse.

[Mir Maqbool Mahmood.]

There is one aspect of the question, which, however, we cannot let go by default. I mean the question of interference by the Governor in the constitutional activities of the Ministry. Whether the Governors can or cannot legally give the assurances sought of them, our attitude is clear. It was enunciated by the Honourable the Premier in his statement to the Times of India's constitutional supplement. He stated in unmistakable terms, and I feel sure that in that view he carries with him the full support of this side of the House, that if without demonstrable necessity any special powers of the Governor are utilised to curtail the will of the majority and the programme of effective reform in the province drawn up by the Ministry, the Unionist Party and their other colleagues may be expected, and may be trusted, to do courageously their duty to the province and to their own electorates. (Hear, hear). As such I hope that we will establish a tradition on the floor of this House that, when questions affecting provincial autonomy come up, we all stand together. We may have difference of policy with regard to the programmes to be followed, but where the constitutional progress, rights and dignity of the country and the House are concerned, let us show that there are no two opinions in the House.

The adjournment motion before the House raises, as I said, the constitutional issue and the political issue. With regard to the constitutional issue, since opinions of many constitutional lawyers of great eminence and of great patriotism differ as to what is the correct position and as the matter is not of immediate direct importance to the Punjab, I propose leaving that aspect of the question out of the present discussion. With regard to the political issue, I hope we shall all join in evolving a convention in this House, so that if on an issue of constitutional importance to the country, the majority party should take a stand, the minority party may not embarrass its position by accepting a less patriotic position.

One word more and I have done. It has been said that adjournment motions from the Opposition ordinarily amount to a vote of censure on the Treasury benches. I hope that the honourable mover of the adjournment motion will make it clear that his intention in bringing this motion is merely to discuss a matter of political importance to the country and that in the light of the statement made by me he does not mean his motion to be taken as a vote of censure on the Treasury benches.

Mr. Speaker : I may state for the information of the honourable members that the object of an adjournment motion is not always censure. Sometimes its object is simply to place some grievances of the public before the Government, or to obtain fuller information on certain points; or to suggest improvement in the administration of Government.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava (Lahore City, General, Urban) : Before I proceed to make any observations on the subject under discussion, I cannot but express that I feel the pinch of the law, which requires me to speak in English, the most to-day because the language being foreign I have not got words, I have not got knowledge of the language, to express my sentiments on this question.

I think it shall not be advisable to relate the story how this Act was passed and how the Congress fought for the freedom of the country and how to satisfy the country the Act of 1935 was passed. I would only say in passing that it was in 1931 that Mahatma Gandhi went as a sole representative of the country to put the demands of the country before the Round Table Conference and he said there that what the country wanted was complete independence which meant that it would lie with the Indians to sever their connection with the British Empire if they thought it was in the interest of the country. If they thought otherwise, they would keep their connection with England and thus with the British Parliament on terms of equality but not as slaves. In reply to that demand we got the Act of 1935. But the Congress thought that the country would not be satisfied with the Act because it gave us no rights. It was the opinion of many that instead of going a bit forward, so far as the rights were concerned, there were some rights which were taken away by the Government of India Act, 1935. The Congress, therefore, decided to run the elections, to go to the people and explain to them what the Act meant, to explain to the masses the rights they had got and thus take their opinion because their vote meant the vote of the masses of the country whether they were in favour of this constitution or against it. In six provinces out of eleven, that is to say in a majority of the provinces, it has been proved that Indians are not satisfied with this Act and they do not want to run it but they want to wreck this constitution. But just to give a chance, as advised by Mahatma Gandhi, the Congress decided even in those provinces to accept the ministry and try to run the Government and carry out the programme of reform in this country as far as they could within the constitution. If the Congress were to proceed with their programme or try to make any reforms, if the assurance was not given by the Governors in those provinces that they would not interfere with the advice of the Ministers, within the constitution, there was a chance of deadlock the very day they took the reins of Government in their hands and formed the ministry. Therefore, with due respect, the leaders of the majority parties approached the Governors of those respective provinces and asked them to give that assurance so that they may be able to carry out the programme of reform as far as they could within the constitution which in other words meant that they were prepared to run this constitution and try to improve the conditions in this country as far as they could within the constitution. But that assurance was not given. Lord Zetland has said in his statement in the House of Lords that the Governors got that right through the Act and without an Act of Parliament or without the wish of the Parliament the Governors could not abrogate that power of special rights. Mahatma Gandhi has given a reply to Lord Zetland's statement and he says that when he was in England on the occasion of the Round Table Conference, Lord Zetland and Sir Samuel Hoare, who was then the Secretary of State for India, told him that what they were going to give to this country was real provincial autonomy and not provincial autonomy in words only. Before that, I may remind you, on the occasion of Gandhi-Irwin Pact, Lord Irwin, as the representative of the King Emperor, told Mahatma Gandhi that if there were any safeguards provided in the Act, they would be used in the interest of this country and not in the interest of England. What do we now find? Lord Zetland says that the Governors cannot give that assurance. After all what was it? The Governors were not asked to give up their rights? They were only asked not to interfere with the constitutional activities of the Ministers or with the advice given by the Ministers in carrying out their programme within the constitution. After the majority parties in those provinces had decided not to accept the ministries, the question of the acceptance of ministries by the minority parties arose and interim ministries were formed. It is said that Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru had said that in his opinion the Governors could not give that assurance and the interim ministries are probably in order, but I may remind you what Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru has said concerning Lord Zetland's statement. Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru had suggested that there should be a constitutional conference to discuss this deadlock and effort should be made to find a way out. But what do we find? Instead of calling a constitutional conference, Lord Zetland says that if Mahatma Gandhi wants to remove any misunderstanding and see the Viceroy, he is at liberty to do so but if he wants to discuss the advisability of the Governors giving that assurance or refusing it, then he need not do so because the Governors were at liberty to give that assurance if they liked and not if they did not like and, therefore, the matter did not rest with the Viceroy. So Lord Zetland has now, by his fresh statement, according to Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru as well as certain newspapers, closed the doors of finding a solution out of the deadlock. A paper like The Statesman, which cannot be called a Congress paper, says,

We are bound to admit that if matters are left where Lord Zetland left them on Thursday the Congress will have the best of the argument. If the Act is really such that there is the slightest difficulty in the Governors telling Congress leaders that there is nothing to prevent their going ahead with the programme outlined in the election manifesto then we have to admit that we, too, have been mistaken about the Act. We, too, would recognize that it should soon be replaced by another. We have recommended the Act to diehards in Britain on the one hand and the Congress opposition on the other because we have believed that it confers on Indians real power to carry through long overdue reforms.

It is a long statement and I do not want to waste your time, but what I wanted to draw your attention to was that even the Statesman thinks that under the conditions which have been created by Lord Zetland's statement, this new Constitution is not workable and it should go. Instead of pacifying the feelings of Indians, instead of pacifying the feelings of the poor masses of the country, instead of permitting the majority parties in the six provinces out of eleven to carry on their programme of reform, what do we find? Lord Zetland says, 'no, we cannot permit you to carry on any negotiations to end the deadlock: this Government must carry on for six months more at least.' I understand there is a section in the Act which enables the minority ministries, without the sanction of the Assembly, to carry on for two years instead of six months. No wonder then if we find in a few months time Parliament would pass that the present Government may go on for two years and not six months. Therefore, Sir, my submission is that Lord Zetland has acted in the most bureaucratic way and in a way which is detrimental to the interests of this country. As usual he says like a bureaucrat 'either you work as slaves or you walk out.'

It might be asked, how does this question concern our province? I may submit that this statement is not only a statement denying the rights conferred on us under the new Act but it is a precursor of the repression which shall be coming. In yesterday's papers we read that the provincial governments have been asked to re-organise their police departments so that they may be in readiness to suppress the movement for freedom and when there is mass action in the country to liberate the country from slavery. Our provincial government has also been probably asked to re-organise their police force (shame, shame). And if there is any mass action in the adjoining provinces there will be mass action in this province too. Therefore I think that this statement affects our province as well. To-day I know it is not the Congress which is in the majority in this province. Even the leader of that party which is in majority stated to-day that if the Governor were to interfere in their constitutional rights the majority party in this province would resign, and Lord Zetland's statement smells of this that there was going to be interference by the Governors even in our constitutional rights, because the Governors in other provinces have not given that assurance. Therefore, Sir, it affects our province as vitally as it does any other province.

As regards the question whether the minority can form the ministry, I am not a lawyer and therefore I cannot express any opinion on it. I can only express an opinion from the political point of view, and I want to express on the floor of the House, with your permission, that Lord Zetland's statement has given a setback to the reforms, if any, which we were given under the new constitution, and it is in the fitness of things if all the parties in the country and in all the provinces combine together and express their resentment at such a statement.

Chaudhri Tikka Ram (Rohtak North, General, Rural): Sir, I just want to say a word or two in the first instance about the threat of mass action and consequent repression that will follow, which was given expression to by the Leader of the Opposition. I could not follow his reasoning when he made that statement that in the Punjab too mass action would follow. Here in this province as we all know the constitutional procedure has been followed to the very last letter. It is the Leader of the House who commands a stable majority today. He was invited by His Excellency the Governor to form his Cabinet and he did so, and the constitution is working well in this province. I fail to understand what will be the motive of the Opposition to start mass agitation here in this province. Of course as a matter of sympathy and in order to show that we are at one with the other provinces the Leader of the Opposition and the Congress organisation may just start agitation but I do not think circumstances here in the Punjab could ever warrant the inauguration of any such agitation. My friend on the Opposition just in the very beginning of his speech made certain remarks about complete independence that was the goal of the Congress policy in India. I as a humble follower of the Unionist party do not claim that we here believe in any such theory as complete independence. I do not think if we believe in the dominion status under the Statute of Westminster. There is not very great difference between the two positions. But barring that aspect of the question here we are only concerned with the provincial autonomy as it has been introduced in this province. My learned friend on the Opposition went on to say that he believes that this constitution is unacceptable to the country. I quite agree that it is not a perfect constitution.

[Chaudhri Tikka Ram.]

It has shortcomings and it has defects and realizing those shortcomings and those defects, we of the Unionist party have made it a point to give the constitution a trial, and it is only in that spirit that we have been co-operating with the Government. The provincial autonomy so far as this province is concerned is the right thing. It is not a sham thing. The Governor has been quite punctilious in observing to the very letter in this province. His Excellency the Governor the other day in his address remarked that there are three things which are to be prominently kept before our eyes according to this constitution. In the first instance we are the representatives of a very big electorate. We have been chosen by about twenty-three lakhs of people so far as rural area is concerned and 3,50,000 voters so far as urban area is concerned. We are the representatives here of a very big electorate, and in that capacity this constitution marks a great advance on the previous one. In the second instance taking India as a whole 35 million voters have voted under the constitution and that is a very big electorate as compared with the electorate which we had in the past. My submission is that provincial autonomy so far as this province is concerned will be a very great success. If the Congress party in the six provinces, where they are in the majority, had thought to give it a trial they could have succeeded as well. I am not going into the legal or constitutional aspect of the question. I am at one with the Leader of the Opposition as well as other members of this House that this constitution certainly requires a great deal of improvement and all that, but the members know that what we are concerned with here in the Punjab is that this constitution will prove a fairly good success if it is given a trial and nothing will please this side of the House more than that. I therefore strongly deprecate the fact of mass action and a big agitation which my learned friend the Leader of Opposition wants to launch in this part of the country. The conditions here in this province do not justify it and I humbly submit to him that he should not launch any such agitation as it would not be in the best interests of this province. We can express our grievances by constitutional means—this adjournment motion is one of those constitutional means—and similar other ways, by holding meetings, by passing resolutions, etc. The conditions in the province hardly justify any talk or any step which the Congress party wants to take and I for one strongly differ from the Leader of the Opposition on this point.

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma (Southern Towns, General, Urban) (Urdu): The adjournment motion before the House indicates that the recent statement made by Lord Zetland in the House of Lords has attracted a good deal of attention and has created an unrest in the public mind.

You are fully aware of the circumstances that were prevailing in the country before the Reforms of 1919 and afterwards as well. Now, effect is being given to the constitution introduced by the Reforms of 1937. I would say that under the new Reforms nothing has been given to India and that the Congress is inclined to consider these Reforms as mere toys that are given us to play with. The Secretary of State for India in his statement has dashed every hope of ours to the ground if there was any. The Government and its well-wishers are inclined to think that the Reforms introduced by the Government of India Act of 1935 confer upon the Indians responsible Government. I should like to tell you the meaning of the words "responsible Government." It means that the representatives of the masses should be given the power to administer their country according to their lights. We have to thank Lord Lothian for enfranchising a large number of people in this country. The total number of voters in the country is about 3 crores and 75 lakhs and this honourable House should know the fact that only three crores went to the polling booths out of which two crores voted for the Congress. It is said that the Punjab has no connection with the six provinces in which the Congress is in a majority. I make bold to say that this view is incorrect. If there is some thing which is likely to prove harmful to the interests of the country at large, the Punjab cannot be considered to be immune from it. It is said that the Punjab is the Ulster of India but is it essential that on every occasion and in every matter the Punjab should go on preferring slavery to independence or that we should go on giving proofs of our slave mentality. The Congress has obtained a majority of seats in six out of the eleven provinces of India and these provinces are entitled to set up ministries according to their own wishes. The Governors of these provinces summoned the Congress leaders to form ministries but the leaders told them that they did not like to participate in this puppet show and that they considered the present constitution as a huge joke perpetrated on the people of India. If the Governors can interfere with every item of their programme there would be an end to all democratic government.

It is a very complicated problem and some of the keenest lawyers in the country are busy examining its implications and trying to find a solution for the impasse. Professor Keith has also said that the Governor could give the Congress the required assurance. This view is supported by two ex-advocates-general including Bhula Bhai Desai of Bombay, the Rt. Honourable Mr. Srinivasa Sastri and many other notable lawyers throughout the length and breadth of the country.

The British Government was in reality seeking an excuse to make its position safe by avoiding the Congress party. It is our duty to show at every step that this new constitution is a farce and that we are not satisfied with these new Reforms. I remember that when I was a student there used to be a mock parliament in our college. When the ministry failed, the Principal of our college asked me to run the government and after I had taken over charge of my duties I began to interfere in the administrative matters of the college. Since I have been a rebel all my life I began my work in accordance with my own wishes. The Principal of our college sent for me and asked "What are you doing? This arrangement was only for your training. You should not forget the fact that you have no business to interfere in administrative matters". The words of my Principal are still ringing in my ears and I am constrained to remark that the Reforms of 1935 are as much of a mockery as the mock parliament which we enjoyed in our college life. When the leaders of majority parties in the six provinces mentioned above asked the Governors to give an assurance that they would not interfere with them so long as they acted within the constitution, the Governors refused to comply with their requests.

[Pandit Shri Ram Sharma.]

Afterwards when this subject was discussed at length in journals, both here and in England, Lord Zetland made a statement to the effect that the Governors were debarred by the Act from giving such an assurance.

The honourable representatives of the Unionist Party might be labouring under the misapprehension that since they are in a majority in this province they have no cause to worry about what is happening in other provinces, but I would like to tell them that what is happening in Bombay or Madras today might well happen here to morrow.

The question ought not to be shelved by saying that because the crisis has arisen in the South or in the East or the West, therefore we in the North have got nothing to do with it. The policy of the British is the same everywhere. The situation is indeed very critical and I feel that we should unanimously express our resentment against the statement made by the Secretary of State for India. This statement makes it quite clear that we have been given no autonomous powers. Obviously the position of the Government benches too is very precarious, and they cannot be blind to the real state of affairs. They should realize how recklessly our rights and powers are being trampled upon, and the time may come when a 'dummy' Ministry is set up in the Punjab as well, against the wishes of the majority. Hence the Government benches should also associate themselves with this protest.

It has been said from the other side of the House that it is futile to talk of mass action here. But we want to raise the alarm from this Chamber. If the Secretary of State goes on disregarding, in this way, all constitutional practices, we too would be compelled to resort to direct action, in order to protect our national and human rights. These Reforms do not provide any scope for doing any good to the people.

The Secretary of State wants us to feel that we are abject slaves and the British would rule over us as they please. Mahatma Gandhi is right in saying that Lord Zetland by setting aside all parliamentary and legal conventions, has said in unmistakable terms: "The sword is in our hands and you have but to obey." But we wish to make it quite clear that so long as we have a living throbbing heart overflowing with patriotism, no statement from any lord can prevent us from telling the truth.

Mrs. J. A. Shah Nawaz (Outer Lahore, Muhammadan women, Urban) : I happened to be in Delhi on the evening when the All-India Congress Committee was discussing the question relating to the acceptance of office. That very evening I went to see one of the foremost leaders of the Congress party and while talking to him I said that the time had come when our leaders should carefully think over the question of entering the constitutional sphere. I told him that one of the foremost Irish leaders said to me in 1935 that Indian friends should learn a lesson from the mistake of the Irish people. As long as they did not enter the constitutional sphere they could not get as much as they wanted, but as soon as they tried to work the constitution they managed to get everything. I appealed to this Congress leader to persuade the Congress party to decide in favour of entering the constitutional sphere and to try and get a resolution to that effect passed by the Congress. My heart filled with happiness when he took a paper out of his pocket and handed it to me saying, 'Here is a copy of the resolution of the All-India Congress Committee passed this very evening in favour of office acceptance.' I had not much time to go through that resolution very carefully as I had to leave Delhi that evening, but on a cursory view of it I found that the Congress had decided to accept office provided that Governors gave them the assurance that they would not exercise their reserve powers as long as the ministers acted within the Constitution. I felt very happy, thinking of all those brothers and sisters of mine who had made such tremendous sacrifices for the sake of their motherland. Believe me when I say that we on this side realize how much many of my honourable colleagues on the other side have suffered for the cause of the country. Also believe me when I say that we too on this side have high ideals like yourself and we also wish to serve our motherland sincerely and honestly. (Cheers). I said to myself then, 'Now there will be a happy and harmonious atmosphere all round and we shall see the best brains of our country working this new Constitution and this will give us a chance of showing to the world that when certain powers are placed in the hands of able men, it is not difficult for them to go a little further and get some more.' I was also delighted to see in the papers two or three days after this that almost all the foremost leaders of the Congress party had been called by the Governors of the six provinces in which the Congress party had been returned in a majority. I was looking forward eagerly to the pleasure of hearing that ministries had been formed of popular leaders in those provinces, but when I opened the papers two days later I felt very sorry to find that all my hopes had been dashed to pieces. No ministries could be formed of persons who commanded the majorities in the six provinces where Congress party had been returned in a majority. It was in the train while returning from Delhi that I went through the resolution of the All-India Congress Committee. I do not happen to be a lawyer, but even as a layman when I went through the resolution word for word, I said to myself, 'Supposing one of my cousins were to come to me and say "I am going to destroy that garden over there ; you have the power to stop it, but I am going to ask you to give me a previous assurance that you will not exercise that power." Under the circumstances, what would be my reply?' I felt depressed because I knew that probably the assurance would not be forthcoming. Anyway the majority party did not form ministries in those six provinces. The question was reviewed from the legal point of view, in the Press, some of the people even spoke about it on the platforms and it was discussed on the floor of the Central Legislative Assembly. After that came the statement of the Secretary of State informing us that no such assurance could be given within the framework of the constitution. As I said already, I am not a lawyer and so I am not going to take up the legal aspect of the question. At the same time I feel very strongly and I agree with all my brothers and sisters on the other side of the House that some solution out of this difficulty should have been found and even now it is not impossible to solve the problem. (Hear, hear). One of our greatest leaders and statesman Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru rightly said, 'Let us leave prejudice aside, because the issue is much too big, try to find a solution of this problem either through a constitutional conference or in some other way'. Something has got to be done and through you, Mr. Speaker, I would appeal to the Government to try to find some means of coming out of this impasse. Have they not managed to solve many difficult problems? Why should it be so very difficult for statesmen to find a solution to this problem? (Hear, hear).

I had the privilege of attending the Imperial Conference of 1930. I was then acting as my father's Honorary Private Secretary. I was present when the Statute of Westminster was being discussed. I shall never forget the day when it was decided that in future the definition of the phrase of the British Commonwealth of Nations would be a voluntary association of free and independent states. I was saying to myself then that what my country should work for after this was to try and get a full-fledged membership of the British Commonwealth of Nations. Then, in 1932 I had the honour of attending the League of Nations Assembly and I was present at a discussion where some European powers were trying to form a comity of nations. The Crown Prince of a certain country who was sitting next to me at one of the inner Parties said to me, 'You of the British Commonwealth have a most wonderful opportunity of showing what a comity of nations can be. If you who belong to different nations, castes and colours, could become independent in your own countries and at the same time could work together for safeguarding the interests of one another within the same Commonwealth, you would be placing a wonderful example of brotherhood of mankind before the world.' In the world of today when no nation can stand alone, for us to think of going out of this Commonwealth would be a folly. I believe, and believe very strongly that we should work for a full-fledged membership of the British Commonwealth of Nations. I feel that while we should try to attain the full status of a dominion we must remain within the Commonwealth because I believe that the future of India lies within it.

Now, Sir, through you I would like to appeal to all my honourable colleagues on the other side and to all the great Congress leaders. Believe me, the masses in your electorate, all the poor people are looking up to you. It is true that you are prepared to make great sacrifices for the cause of your country's freedom, within the framework of this Constitution, I am sure you can do a lot for the suffering masses.

One word more and I have finished. I would request my friends to come forward, enter the Cabinets and show to the critics of our country, to those people in England who doubt our ability, that we Indians have the ability and the capacity of working in every administrative sphere and that we deserve far more than has been given to us under the new Constitution. The day will not be far when all our aspirations and ideals will be realized if my colleagues decide to enter the constitutional sphere. I would say in conclusion :

میں نیک و بد حضور کو سمجھائی جا لے ہیں

(Applause).

Diwan Chaman Lal (East Punjab, Non-Union Labour) : I must with your permission congratulate Begum Shah Nawaz on the facility of her speech. It does not mean that I agree with what she said—far from it. But it was very happily worded and on behalf of the Opposition benches I extend [ou-congratulations to her. (Applause.) The Begum's speech did sound to me more like a leading article in the Civil and Military Gazette. (Laughter.) But that is neither here nor there. What, Sir, is the question which we are about to discuss or we have been discussing? The question is this; that under the Government of India Act certain reserve powers have been held in abeyance from the representatives of the people of this country and they have been vested in the Governor and a conflict has arisen whether, while the representatives of the people of this country are acting within the constitutional sphere, it is right for the Governor to exercise those reserve powers. That in a nut-shell is the position. Begum Shah Nawaz gave an example. She felt a little depressed at the thought that if a cousin of hers came along and wanted to destroy her beautiful garden and said, "Do not interfere", what would she have felt about it. But I would ask her to remember that the garden does not belong to anybody else but to the people of India, and they have a right to destroy it if they want to (Interruption.) Destroy it, I use the word deliberately, if they want to. My friends over there will remember what their friends in Great Britain did in the year 1914 when they were engaged in one of the most disastrous and tragic wars the world has ever seen. Did they not destroy the beautiful garden? But they had a right to do it and for the sake of their honour they destroyed it and for the sake of honour the people of India would be ready to destroy their garden. (Applause.)

Mrs. J. A. Shah Nawaz : One word of personal explanation. I did not mean any relation. I meant anybody who wanted to destroy the garden.

Diwan Chaman Lall : The sections of the Government of India Act, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54 and so on right through and the various other sections of that Act, deal with these reserve powers. This is the legal position. Now let us look at it from the point of view of Mahatma Gandhi and the Congress and the people of India. The legal position is there. Powers have been given to the Governor to interfere. He has every right to interfere according to the word and the law written down in the statute read with the Instrument of Instructions. But what we say is this. Though legally you have been given this authority, in actual practice we want you to create a convention of the type that my learned friend, the Leader of the House, created this morning, a convention that you will not utilise these reserve powers so long as the cabinets are working within the sphere of their constitutional activities. Lord Zetland said in the House of Lords: "It is utterly impossible, utterly impossible for any Governor to give an assurance of this kind." Lord Zetland said that Mahatma Gandhi perhaps had not read the Government of India Act or the Instrument of Instructions or the Report of the Joint Parliamentary Committee. May I be permitted in my very humble way to say that Lord Zetland has not read his own constitutional history,

Every power that the dominions possess, about which Begum Shah Nawaz spoke a little while ago, everything that they achieved or that they wanted to achieve politically, constitutionally and legally through the Statute of Westminster and the powers that the dominions today possess, are derived practically from the development of conventions over-riding the constitution. If my learned friend wants chapter and verse for this let me give him chapter and verse. They must have heard of Lord Durham's Report which stabilized the position in Canada. Lord Durham stated in that famous report of his exactly what we are saying today : "It is difficult to conceive what could have been the fate of a Government which imagined that in any colonial government a body invested with the name and character of representative assembly can be deprived of any of those powers which in the opinion of Englishmen are inherent in popular legislatures." He stated that step by step in Canada the financial powers which never were in the hands of the Assembly but were entirely in the control of the Governor, step by step these powers were taken away from the Governor and the conventions of the type that Mahatma wanted to be created in India, were created. But the fact is that Lord Zetland would have us believe otherwise. There was a famous case in New Zealand in 1893. The Governor General had the power to add more members to the Upper House whenever he chose to over-ride the wishes of the cabinet. The matter was referred to Lord Ripon when he sent out a despatch in which he warned the Governor General that where the popular Assembly, in spite of the fact that the Governor had the power under the Statute, decides otherwise the Governor could not over-ride that decision. This is exactly what Mahatma Gandhi is wanting to do in this country. There has been a great controversy and a large number of lawyers have raised the constitutional issue, but there is only one issue to be raised in regard to this matter and that is, has the British Government the desire, is the British Government prepared, to create a convention whereby, while the cabinet is acting within the constitutional sphere, the British Government as represented by the Governor of the Province, will not interfere in their activities (hear, hear). Take another instance. Under the constitutional practice today and under the legal theory today, the British Parliament can interfere in the Constitution of every dominion. They can make laws for the dominions, but today the British Parliament possessing so great a power would never be foolish enough to insist upon making a law for any British Dominion. The authority under the law is there, but convention prevents that legal authority being used. It was only in 1856 when the Colonial Laws Validity Act was passed that this very power was used by the British Parliament and never since has any British Parliament endeavoured to interfere with the legislative authority of the British Dominions (hear, hear). Let me for the moment leave these examples and say that the constitution develops by the creation of conventions and all that Mahatma Gandhi asks for is that conventions should be created. Let me, leaving these points, come to Lord Zetland's speech, the matter which is before us. What is it that Lord Zetland says ? He has charged, I am sorry to say, as I read that speech, Mahatma Gandhi with not having given the people of India a correct statement of facts. Now remember that Mahatma Gandhi said that it was his impression that he heard it and heard it with his own ears that Sir Samuel Hoare said that ordinarily the Governor would not utilize his powers. That is all that Mahatma Gandhi said. He never said that Sir Samuel Hoare has said to him or anybody else that the Governor would give an assurance to them in advance. If you read Mahatma Gandhi's statement you will not find that particular sentence in it and yet because Lord Zetland had no other reply, he distorts the contents of the statement made by Mahatma Gandhi. There is the authority which is vested in Governors should there be trouble in a particular province relating to a minority and Lord Zetland gives an example. Suppose a Hindu majority in a province says, we will reduce the number of Muslims school, what will happen then? No popular assembly would take an action of this kind and it is a deliberate statement made by Lord Zetland in order to create an unnecessary communal bitterness in this country. Why? Because they have nothing else to stand upon, nothing else on which they can base their arguments (hear, hear). On the other hand I can quote the example of the Frontier Province. Before the introduction of the new Reforms, when the province was run practically under the dictatorship of the British Governor, similar action was taken against the minority and the famous Hindi Circular was issued preventing education being imparted in Hindi to the children of the minority in these schools. What was the result when a pseudo-popular Government came into being? Immediately that particular circular was withdrawn. Lord Zetland's contention is that such an action might be taken in the case of a minority, but we have immediate proof of the fact that whenever a popular or semi-popular Government comes in, such action will never be taken by them. No popular Government can dare to take such action. Not only this but the position is perfectly obvious that there has been a great misunderstanding of the demand made by the Congress. What is the demand made by the Congress? It is that within the constitutional sphere of activities, the Governor shall not interfere with the ministers. The sphere of constitutional activities means also the powers that have been vested in the Governor. It means also the protection of minority interests, peace and good government, it means also the Instrument of Instructions, that is to say the entire responsibility of the Governor. As I read the statement made by Mahatma Gandhi I find that all powers vested in the Governor henceforth become the special responsibility of the cabinet and if the cabinet is acting within the sphere of constitutional activities, the Governor shall not interfere with them. Nowhere has Mahatma Gandhi said that once a cabinet goes outside these activities, the Governor shall not interfere. It means only this that while the cabinet is acting within the sphere of constitutional activities, the cabinet is assuming responsibilities that are sought to be reserved for the Governors. It is only then it means that there shall be no interference in the activities of the cabinet. This I think is the correct reading of the position in regard to the demand made by the Congress. Let me say one last word. A little while ago, the Honourable Leader of the House made a very important statement regarding the position that he would adopt, supposing there was interference on the part of the Governor. I want to remind this House that there has been interference in the ordinary activities of this House by the Governor of the Punjab, in a matter which came up here in connection with the adjournment motion which you were pleased to rule out. We have not been allowed to discuss even the question of the personnel of the Public Service Commission and yet we are told that "ordinarily" the Governor would not interfere in the constitutional activities of the cabinet. But I want to draw the attention of the House to a very important statement made by the Leader of the House. He stated

[Diwan Chaman Lall.]

"if the Governor interfered with our work in any way we will not hesitate to resign and ask the Opposition to come over to these benches". He also stated, "at any time that our work was impeded by the Governor we will in the interest of the province resign our office." I want with your permission to ask honourable members opposite to remember this statement and walk into the lobby and register their votes with us.

Diwan Ram Lal (Advocate-General): Mr. Speaker, my honourable friend Mir Maqbool Mahmood said that there were two aspects of the situation, there was the constitutional aspect and there was the political aspect, and he confined himself to the political aspect of the situation. Other speakers, who followed him, also largely confined themselves to the political aspect of the situation and parenthetically here and there made a number of passing references to the other aspect of the situation. The honourable gentleman, who has just spoken has touched upon the other aspect of the situation also, namely, the constitutional aspect. It is with reference to that alone that I rise to make some observations as to what the constitutional position is. The constitutional position admits of no doubt whatsoever, if it is understood in its proper sense. If you see anything through a distorted pair of glasses, you might achieve any kind of result. But if you view the constitutional position in its proper perspective, then I submit there can be no room for doubt and the matter can really be reduced to three axiomatic propositions which no lawyer will ever think of contesting. The first is that a demand which cannot be granted constitutionally is not a permissible demand and to grant that demand would in itself be constitutionally incorrect. What is the demand of the Congress? I have been waiting to hear what it is on the floor of this House. No speaker on the other side said in definite terms what it is. We are confined within the four corners of the Act and no statement has been forthcoming except the one in which the last speaker stated that it is open to the representatives of the people to come in a sufficiently large majority and destroy the Constitution. If this is the way in which the constitutional position is understood by the Opposition, then I submit that it has not been correctly appreciated. They are looking at the matter not in a correct manner but through a distorted pair of glasses. It is the function of all courts of law and of other people who work the constitution to see that the Act is preserved and anything beyond, which eats away that Act, is ultra vires. It is not a course which can be constitutionally permitted.

Now, if the demand about the Governors has been that they should do something which the Act says they cannot do, then I submit that the demand would in itself be a violation of the constitution. This is the manner in which they understand it. The demand of the Congress amounts to this that they want to call upon the Governors to do something which it is not open to them to do under the Constitution.

The second matter in this connection to which I might make reference is that it is again a constitutionally necessary element of the activity of the Government and Governors that the machinery should be kept working and anything that is intended to break that machinery is unconstitutional and illegal. What are they doing? They seek to destroy the constitution:

and break that machinery and this is in itself and unconstitutional and illegal activity. It is unconstitutional because it is illegal, it is illegal because it is inadmissible. What they desire is that the Governors should state beforehand that they will not do what they are required to do under the Act if and when a contingency arises, which contingency requires the Governors to act either within their discretion or in their individual judgment. In other words, they are postulating beforehand that when that contingency arises they would not take that course which would be necessary at that time, and that Governors should now beforehand agree to repeal those portions of the Government of India Act which deal with these matters.

It is, again, Sir, an axiomatic proposition that if a tribunal or for the matter of that an executive authority has been given power and has been given responsibility to exercise, then it is unconstitutional, and to the extent to which it is unconstitutional it is illegal, if they avoid that responsibility. If a Governor consented to do what the gentlemen on the other side wanted him to do, then he would be avoiding his responsibility under the Act and this would be illegal. In these circumstances my submission is that so far as the second aspect of the question is concerned, it is unconstitutional and illegal.

References have been made to the constitutions of other countries and particularly of England. Reference has also been made to the countries which have a got flexible constitution and which are not on the statute book. I submit that our constitution is embodied in the Government of India Act and what is permissible under that Act alone is legal and to go against that would be constitutionally illegal.

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a personal explanation Sir. My learned friend in his speech said that references have been made to other countries which have flexible constitutions. I submit that the constitutions of Australia and Canada were no more flexible than ours.

Malik Barkat Ali (Eastern Towns-Muhammadan Urban): Sir, I am personally one of those who would have very much wished that in the six provinces in which the Congress is in a majority, the leaders of the Congress had assumed the responsibility of Government. What did those leaders say? They simply wanted a gentlemanly understanding, a gentlemanly agreement from the head of the Government—the Governor—to the effect that so long as the ministry acted within the limits of the constitution, the Governor shall not interfere. If I understand the constitution aright, I think there was nothing wrong with this position of the Congress and it should have been open to any constitutional Governor to give an undertaking of that kind. What does Lord Zetland say? Lord Zetland tells us that it was an illegal act on the part of the Congress leaders in the six provinces to demand an undertaking of that kind and I am surprised to hear from the learned Advocate-General of this House today that it was also unconstitutional, as whatever is unconstitutional is necessarily illegal. It is perfectly wrong. Those who are acquainted with the English constitution, know fully well the distinction between the constitutionality and the legality of an act. An act may be legal and yet it may be unconstitutional. Under the theory of English constitution it is perfectly legal on the part of the King to veto a Bill that has been passed by the two Houses of Parliament. The act of the King would be perfectly legal. Supposing an English King did exercise his veto today, an act which no one has done since the reign of Queen Anne. The act of the King would be perfectly legal, but it would be a most unconstitutional act, leading perhaps to the greatest revolution in the history of England. If an attitude of that kind were adopted by an English King, he would be called upon, I am sure, by the popular opinion of the country, to abdicate. I take the position, therefore that the legality of an Act under the British constitution is absolutely distinct from its constitutionality. Therefore, when the leaders of the Congress said that 'they wanted the Governors not to interfere within the limits of the constitution' I emphasise these words,—the Congress made a demand which it was not possible for any constitutional Governor to refuse, but the fact is that our Governors under the theory of the Government of India Act are not constitutional Governors. Some of my friends opposite have got the impression that under the scheme of provincial autonomy the Governor perhaps occupies the position of a constitutional monarch but they are wrong. Governors are not constitutional monarchs, otherwise it would follow that they are bound to follow the advice of their ministers and if the ministry offers an advice which is not acceptable to the King, the King, within the limits of the constitution, can dismiss that ministry and he can either appeal to the electorate or summon to his council others who he thinks will be supported by the House, though the House may reject them at the very next meeting of the House, and such an act would be a perfectly constitutional act on the part of the King.

What is the present position? It is that the Congress leaders who had a majority in those six provinces, wanted a gentlemanly agreement from the heads of Government. The Governors refused to give any undertakings. What is the constitutional duty of the Governors after that? I submit that after the refusal the minority parties should not have been asked to form governments of those provinces. It was the duty of the Governors either to dissolve those Houses or to form ministries that would have commanded a stable following in the House and from the very necessities of the situation it was impossible for the minority administrations to form any stable ministries, since they had not any collective majority of the House behind them. My learned friends say what could the Governors do with a situation of that kind coming into existence and that there was no course open to them except to form ministries out of minorities. I respectfully submit that the Governors could not do that. The only thing that the Governor could do under the scheme of the Act was to issue a proclamation that they could not carry on the Government in accordance with the provisions of the Act. It is not constitutionally open to a Governor, it may be legally open to him, because legally he has the power to summon whomsoever he likes—but under the constitution, as it has been crystallised in the Instrument of Instructions to the Governor, it is constitutionally not open to a Governor to ask any leader of a minority party or parties to form the government; he is bound to call those persons to his council who can form a stable ministry.

Now, if those persons refuse to form the Government because the Governor says, "I cannot give you an undertaking not to interfere even if you act within constitutional limits, because under the scheme of the Act I am not a constitutional Governor, I am something over and above him; I am something of a despot, I am something of an autocrat; and if you want me to divest myself of the autocracy that has been lodged in me, I refuse to do so," I must say that the mistake is all on the side of the Governor. This is the position as it stands evolved today. No one can say that the Governor has adopted a constitutional position, though it may be a perfectly legal position. Therefore, my respectful submission is that in a situation of this kind we had a right to expect of Governors that they would clarify all complexities by an unequivocal declaration that they would not ordinarily interfere with the constitutional activities of congress Ministers in the provinces where they formed the Government. I myself would have welcomed a situation where Congress leaders would assume office without insisting on any stipulations. To my mind, they should have assumed the Government of the six provinces where they were in a majority and after having assumed the Government of those provinces, if ever the Governor went wrong and interfered with their constitutional activities, to have resigned. Possibly the Governor may have after their threat of resignation accepted their advice. But if the Governor refused, they could have resigned. Legally the Governor could then form a ministry and in England also ministries under such circumstances have been formed, but English constitutional writers have stated in the clearest terms that ministries formed in such circumstances were unconstitutional ministries, because those ministries were rejected at the very first meeting of the House. It should have occurred to the Governor, "if today I refuse to give this undertaking, what will be the consequences? I will certainly form a ministry out of the minority, but the moment the House meets, it will pass a vote of no-confidence and I must dismiss the ministry." This question is bound to arise before the Governors before long. Why not do that which is bound to come six months hence in the very beginning? The Governors can refuse to summon the newly formed assemblies for a period of six months, but they are bound to call them after the expiration of six months and the result would be that no body would form a ministry and the Governor can only issue a proclamation and take powers to himself. What does Lord Zetland say? His statement in the House of Lords consists of two parts. The first part of that statement is the one in which Lord Zetland says, "if you Indians think that we have granted you provincial autonomy with all its implications as constitutionally understood, you are wrong. No, we have given certain powers of an autocratic nature to our Governors and they shall exercise those powers." I think he has correctly analysed the elements of this constitution in that part of his statement. But there is the second portion of his statement which should certainly cause considerable concern to the benches on the other side. I shall read out to you that portion of his statement which to my mind constitutes a menace to the development of autonomy in the provinces. He has applauded the action of those gentlemen who, having betrayed their country, have agreed to form ministries at the dictation of the Governors. We want to prevent such a situation recurring. We do not want that it should be possible for any Governor to form puppet ministries in the legislature at his dictation. Instead of condemning that act and instead of saying that he does not want his Governors to do so, what does he say? It is reported—

“He could not refrain from giving expression to the appreciation which he felt sure must be felt in all quarters of the House of the public spirit —”.

Fancy the words ‘in all quarters of the House,’ I have no hesitation in saying that it is a great betrayal of the interests of this country to form ministries at the dictation of the Governors. He continued :—

“—in all quarters of the House of the public spirit which had been shown by members of these minority ministries in what might obviously be a difficult and distasteful task. They might well applaud not only their public spirit but their sense of the realities of the situation which they had displayed”.

The words which follow are very important : ‘He noticed suggestions to the effect that the appointment of such Ministries was unconstitutional’ Fancy the Secretary of State possessing full knowledge of the working of the British constitution stating on the floor of the House that this act of the Governors in asking the minorities—those who could not from the very nature of things—to form the Ministries, was constitutional. It takes my breath away. ‘He noticed suggestions to the effect that the appointment of such Ministries was unconstitutional. His Majesty’s Government were altogether unable to accept as valid any such suggestion. The Act says that the Governor shall form Ministries : the legal power to form Ministries certainly vests in the Governors, which means constitutional exercise of that legal powers.’

Further on, he says ‘It was true that the assumption underlying the Act’—he calls it an assumption; I call it a fundamental fact underlying the scheme of the Government of India Act—‘was that any Council of Ministers appointed should, if possible’—I lay emphasis on the word ‘possible’—‘be selected from persons who commanded a majority in the legislature.’ If you were pleased to follow the Instrument of Instructions which crystallises these constitutional conventions, you will be pleased to find that these words ‘if possible’ nowhere occur in the Instrument of Instructions. On the contrary the Instrument of Instructions says that he shall use his best endeavours. This very expression ‘use his best endeavours’ eliminates everything else : it is fundamental that through the exercise of his best endeavours he shall form stable Ministries. A Ministry from the nature of things cannot be stable which, on his own admission, cannot command the confidence of the House.

I, therefore, respectfully submit that this statement of the Secretary of State to the House of Lords whittles down the instructions in the Instrument of Instructions by saying that this injunction in the Instructions was not necessarily a hard and fast one. The wording was purposely chosen so as to make allowance for circumstances in which a rigid injunction might have been impossible to carry out. Hence the expression ‘use his best endeavours.’ ‘The King’s Government must be carried on.’ He says King’s Government must be carried on, and that if the majority party refuse to form Ministry the King’s Government must be carried on by the Governor on his own responsibility. It is deceiving the world to say that King’s Government can only be carried on by forming these mimic Ministries. It would have been much better if the Secretary of State from his responsible position had declared 'we never intended provincial autonomy: we intended provincial autonomy only in name subject to the dictation and complete control of the Governor. If the majority party refused to form Ministry we intended to set up mimic and puppet Ministries.'

I respectfully submit that this second portion of the statement of the Secretary of State is the most serious inroad and a violation of the most solemn promises made to India's representatives both at the Round Table Conferences and of the various statements made by responsible British statesmen in various capacities as Viceroy. I feel it is our duty to draw the attention of the Secretary of State to this alarming attitude which he has disclosed. I fully support the members of the House in expressing their surprise and resentment at this attitude. So far as the arguments of the Advocate General are concerned, I disagree with him. My learned friend has studied the legal position more as a lawyer.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member's time is up.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan (Premier Sir, we have heard a great deal of forensic eloquence and learned comments from both sides of the House on the legal aspect of the question. I am not a lawyer and, therefore, I do not propose to tread on the delicate ground which has been covered by my lawyer friends. In any case I do not think it is necessary for us in this House to touch on that aspect of the question when we are aware that leading constitutional lawyers in this country and in England have discussed it thread-bare without arriving at any definite, much less agreed, interpretation of the points at issue. But, whether we are lawyers or laymen, we should as practical men keep in view one or two important considerations in discussing the matter before the House. I am not concerned with Lord Zetland's speech because as I said earlier in the day it is not the concern of the provincial Government. In this province we are committed to work the constitution with a view to get the best out of it in the interest of the province and the people. That is my position and that is the position of my friends on this side of the House. We are pledged to work the constitution in spite of its limitations and in spite of its shortcomings, of which we, like everybody else in this country, are fully cognisant. Our position has been consistent throughout. We have on every possible occasion made our position clear. We are not satisfied with the constitution. Indeed it is laid down in the creed of the Unionist Party that the present constitution is not satisfactory; and we, like other patriotic Indians, feel strongly on this point. But, in spite of those limitations and in spite of its defects, we as a party decided long ago, when this Constitutional Act was finally passed by the Parliament, that we should, in the interest of our country and in the interest of the province, try to work it and get as much good out of it for the people of this province as it was capable of producing. If we fail to secure any benefit for the people out of it or find that it is unworkable for the purpose we have in view, then our position is quite clear. It would in that case be our duty to abandon it. But before I dilate on that aspect of the problem, let me refer to the speech which my honourable friend Diwan Chaman Lall made in the course of this debate. He referred to a statement made by our revered leader Mahatma Gandhi. Now if you will allow me I will repeat that quotation. This is how it runs—

“ If I heard Sir Samuel Hoare and other Ministers say in so many words that ordinarily Governors would not use their admittedly large powers of interference I claim that the Congress formula asked for nothing more.”

If that is the position and if the Congress is prepared to act up to Mahatma Gandhi's statement, then nothing is lost; and I am confident that the difficulty should be capable of solution on that basis. But the question is, does the Congress accept that interpretation? And if not, why not? There are many — although I am not one of those— in this country and elsewhere who thinks that the Congress formula and demand for an assurance was in the nature of a 'try on', to find out how far the Governors would be prepared to go. If the Congress were honest and if, as one of my honourable friends pointed out, Mahatma Gandhi's statement means what it means, then I submit that there is still an opportunity of composing the differences. If the Congress means to stand by Mahatamaji's statement and desires an assurance from the Governors in the terms of that statement only I venture to suggest—I trust it will not be considered presumptuous on my part to make that suggestion to the Congress—that they should make another attempt and make the position clear by frankly asking for an assurance on the lines of Mahatma Gandhi's statement. (Voices from the Opposition: It is clear.) It is not. If it were, the present impasse would not have arisen. The difficulty arose when they demanded unconditional abrogation of the special powers of the Governors in regard to their special responsibilities under the Act. (A voice from the Opposition: Discretionary powers.) Special powers relating to his special responsibilities. Now, those of us who have studied the Act know that there are three main matters in respect of which special powers have been vested in Governors. There are some other matters also but they are not of much consequence; they are petty as compared with the three major items, which really matter and which with your permission, I propose to enumerate. His main special responsibilities are, first, to ensure peace and tranquility of the province; second, to safeguard the legitimate interests of the services; and third, which to my mind is a very important and necessary responsibility, to safeguard the legitimate rights and interests of the minorities. These are the three main things in respect of which the Congress wanted the Governors to divest themselves of their special powers. It was open to the Congress and its spokesmen in the various provinces to go to the Governors and say: "You have got special powers under the Act but we assure you that so far as these matters are concerned we will so administer the province that it will not be necessary for you to exercise those powers; that, as Government, we will do our best to safeguard the legitimate interests of the services and their rights; and that we will see, as a good Government should see, that the peace and tranquility of the province remain undisturbed." If they had given this assurance, it is conceivable that the present impasse would have been avoided. Since the Congress failed to make even the gesture one cannot help suspecting sometimes that the demand made by the Congress leaders was nothing more than a mere try on, or perhaps a device to evade the consequences of their wild promises to the electors. (An honourable member: You are imputing motives to Mahatma Gandhi) I am not. I am at one with Mahatma Gandhi in this. Let me illustrate my point by quoting an extract from another statement of Mahatmaji published on the 11th April after Lord Lothian's statement. He said—

“Congress Ministries, if they ever come into existence, will dig their own graves, without the Governor's safeguards, the moment they trample upon the rights of the minorities or resort to injustice otherwise.”

Why could not the leaders of the Congress give an assurance to the Governors on the lines I have suggested?

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : How does the Honourable Leader know that they did not say that to the Governors?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hayat-Khan : There is no mention of it in the statements issued by the leaders of the Congress majorities in the six provinces. My honourable friend opposite is impetuous and impatient. He should show us the same courtesy which we extended to him and refrain from unnecessary interruptions. We did not interrupt the honourable members opposite when they were speaking.

Dr. Saif-ud-Din Kitchlew : Has the Leader of the House any authority to say that the gentleman who had interviews with the Governors did not say these things to the Governors?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I think that the question is redundant in view of what I have just said. All of us have been closely following the events in the press. We have read authoritative statements issued by the Governors and the leaders of the Congress parliamentary parties. They are more or less stereotyped on both sides. But the suggestion I have put forward is my own. I do not hold a brief for any one. I repeat my suggestion that if the proposition had been put in the form I have suggested it might have proved a solution of the difficulty with which the six provinces in the country are faced today.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is not that position inherent in the very phrase used by Mahatma Gandhi; “within the sphere of the constitutional limit”?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I am a layman and not a lawyer, so I do not propose to enter into a discussion on Constitutional Law, but I venture to point out to my honourable friend that the safeguards are an integral part of the constitution and are, therefore, “within the sphere of constitutional limit” and their abrogation would be in contravention of the constitution itself. Therefore, my contention, that if the Congress had put their demand in the form I have suggested it might have been possible for Governors to accept it, holds good. All these matters fall within the constitution, and the Governors could have in that case said, “Very well, so long as you yourself conscientiously and diligently discharge your duty in respect of these matters it would not be necessary for me to interfere.”

Diwan Chaman Lall : There is also the suspicion on the other side that when this point was actually put “within the sphere of the constitutional activities” the British Government did not want the Congress to take office. (Honourable members : No, no).

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : If I were in the position of the Congress in those provinces I would have accepted office and if later the Governor attempted to thwart the Government by interfering unreasonably in its legitimate and constitutional activities it should not have been difficult to force his hand by constitutional action, even to the extent of precipitating a constitutional crisis. It would have been perfectly legitimate and within the power of the Congress ministries to take constitutional action and achieve the same result without opening themselves to criticism. (An honourable member : That is a matter of opinion). But there is yet another difficulty inherent in the present Congress formula. Who is going to judge whether ministers were working within the constitution and in accordance with the spirit of the Act? (A voice : The public). How can they, when their representatives are shirking responsibility? I was pointing out that that difficulty seems to me to be insurmountable and will remain insurmountable so long as the Act remains as it is and the Congress adheres to its present destructive attitude. After all, there must be someone to judge whether the Government was acting within the constitution. The Congress cannot but concede that in the existing circumstances that discretion can only and must necessarily vest in the Crown through its representatives. My submission is that they should have accepted office and faced deadlocks. It is inconceivable that if they had vigilantly and scrupulously looked after the interests of the minorities and the services and had seen to it that the peace and tranquillity of the province was not disturbed, the Governors would have or could have used their special or emergent powers. The Congress would have been able to carry out at least a part of their programme and thus redeemed their pledges to their constituents. I submit that by taking up their present position—and I say so with due deference—the Congress has not played the game by the electorate.

Let me conclude by once again emphasizing my own position, the position of the majority party in the Punjab. As I said at the outset, we have undertaken to work the constitution, in spite of its limitations, with a view to wringing the last ounce of good from it in the interests of our province and our fellow citizens. In this province as you are aware His Excellency the Governor has acted in fullest accord with the letter and spirit of the Act. Had he acted otherwise, we, as the majority party, would not have hesitated to assert our rights within the constitution, to vindicate our position. (Hear, hear). Before I resume my seat, may I with your permission read an extract from the statement which I issued on behalf of the Cabinet on the day we assumed office. This is how the relevant portion of the statement reads—

“The Punjab Cabinet is under no delusion as to the nature and extent of the limitations and restrictions which the new Government of India Act imposes on autonomy even in the provincial sphere. Nevertheless, in pursuance of the clearly expressed wish of the electorate, it has undertaken the task of running the administration and securing the utmost good out of the new constitution. We admit that the machinery which we have been called upon to work is delicate and complex but we do not see the wisdom of condemning it without a fair trial. Nor do we believe in flinging in a spanner, deliberately, to clog or wreck it. It would neither be fair to the province nor to our constituents to resort to such tactics. At the same time, we wish to make it quite clear that we will not have the slightest hesitation in revising our attitude towards the new constitution if, in spite of our best efforts, it proves to be unworkable.”

That has been consistently our position and we are determined to adhere to that position. We will not court deadlocks, we will not deliberately create deadlocks, but if deadlocks are unavoidable, in spite of His Excellency the Governor's best efforts and in spite of the best efforts of my colleagues and myself, then we will not shirk deadlocks. (Cheers).

Mian Muhammad Iftikhar-ud-Din (Kasur, Mubammadan, Rural) : Now that many lawyers and political experts have placed before the House the legal and political aspects of the question, I should like to place before the House the point of view of the man in the street. The Honourable Leader of the House has referred to the constitutional position adopted by the Governors. What I want to submit is that the minorities for whose protection safeguards have been provided in the constitution do not want any interference on the part of the Governor in the constitutional working of the ministers. There is no question of the tyranny of majority in the provinces in which the Congress is in a majority in the legislatures at present at any rate. What is agitating the public at the moment is not the attitude taken up by the Governors in the matter of the assurance demanded by the Congress. The Governors could easily have taken over the administration of the province into their own hands and worked the constitution. We would not have objected to that. What we object to is this. They have transferred powers to salaried officials, whom they wrongly call ministers who have no right to hold any power at all. I do not think any lawyer or statesman can offer feasible arguments in support of the action of the Governors in this respect.

At this stage as the two hours within which the debate ought to have concluded had expired, the debate automatically terminated.

The Assembly then adjourned sine die.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

1ST SESSION OF THE 1ST PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Thursday, 17th June, 1937.

The Assembly met at the Assembly Chamber, Simla, at 11 A. M. of the clock. Mr. Speaker in the chair.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

SUPERSESSION OF MUNICIPAL COMMITTEES.

*1. Malik Barkat Ali: Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) the names of those municipal committees in the province which stand superseded at the present moment;
- (b) the dates on which the orders of supersession took effect in each case;
- (c) the length of time during which the Government intends to keep the supersession in force?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana: (a) and (b) The required information is laid on the table.

(c) The committees will be reconstituted as soon as the financial and other conditions of the towns and cities concerned show sufficient improvement to justify reconstitution.

Statement.

EXECUTIVE OFFICERS' ACT.

*2. Malik Barkat Ali: Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the Government is aware of the fact that the Executive Officers Act (II of 1931) and the interpretations placed on its sections and the various rules framed thereunder by the Ministry of Local Self-Government have caused grave dissatisfaction in the province and engendered a general belief that Executive Officers are not intended to be the servants of the local bodies concerned but their masters ;

[Malik Barkat Ali.]

- (b) whether it is intended to make any changes in the Executive Officers Act ; if so, when ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) The Government is aware that the Act when it was passed evoked criticism, but is not aware of any recent grave dissatisfaction over the interpretation of the provisions of the Act and the rules framed thereunder.

- (b) The matter is receiving the consideration of Government.

MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, LAHORE.

3. Malik Barkat Ali : Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the administration of municipal affairs at Lahore by the Administrator has occasioned great discontent amongst the rate-payers and citizens of Lahore ;
- (b) whether it is intended to end the supersession of the Municipal Committee of Lahore ; and if so, when ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) Some articles to this effect have no doubt appeared in the Press.

- (b) Yes. No date can be specified. The question is premature at present.

MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE OF HOSHIARPUR.

4. Malik Barkat Ali : Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) when the triennial election was held last time of the members of the Municipal Committee of Hoshiarpur ;
- (b) the reasons why no election has yet been held there of the members of the Municipal Committee, although more than four years have elapsed ;
- (c) the date on which the election overdue is going to take place ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) The result of the last general elections of the Municipal Committee, Hoshiarpur, was notified in August, 1933.

(b) Some time after the last general election proposals were made for reconstituting the municipal committee and increasing the number of members. For this purpose orders were given for the preparation of the electoral rolls in order to determine the distribution of seats among the communities. Owing to the keen competition between the communities great difficulty was experienced in preparing the rolls and the officers in charge of the work were unable to prepare accurate lists. The difficulties experienced were so great that it was finally decided not to change the constitution of the Committee. The work of preparing the rolls on the basis of the existing distribution of seats was then entrusted to the special electoral officer who in spite of considerable difficulty has prepared the rolls. The preparations for the election are now taking their normal course.

(c) The dates of the election programme will be announced by the Deputy Commissioner in due course.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Is it a fact that the electoral rolls prepared in the first instance showed the number of Muhammadan voters to be larger than the total male population of the town ?

Minister : I require notice of that question.

JUDICIAL AND EXECUTIVE FUNCTIONS.

5. Malik Barkat Ali : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) when the question of separation of judicial and executive functions was last dealt with by the Punjab Government ;
- (b) whether any Committee was appointed in connection with this matter ; and if so, when and what were its recommendations ;
- (c) what action, if any, was taken by the Punjab Government on the various recommendations of the Committee mentioned in part (b) above ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) In 1928 on a reference from the Government of India.

(b) Yes, a Committee was appointed in 1921 to work out a scheme for the separation of executive and judicial functions. The report of the Committee was laid on the table of the Punjab Legislative Council in August 1922,—vide pages 116—121 of Volume IV of the Council Debates, a copy of which is in the Assembly Library.

(c) The steps which were taken by Government as a result of the recommendations made by the Committee are as follows :—

- (i) The Punjab Civil Service (Judicial Branch) was completely separated from the Punjab Civil Service (Executive Branch) and is now separately recruited and trained.
- (ii) Magisterial powers were taken away from departmental officers as recommended by the Committee.
- (iii) Government increased the strength of the Punjab Civil Service with a view to secure the more rapid disposal of criminal work by magistrates.

DETENTION OF BRITISH INDIAN SUBJECTS IN KAPURTHALA STATE.

*6. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether he is aware that a number of British Indian subjects have been arrested and detained under investigation by Kapurthala State in connection with an alleged criminal dacoity for a period longer than the law would allow ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the Punjab Criminal Investigation Department is associated in investigation of the said case and an official of the said department is residing at Phagwara in Kapurthala State in that connection ;
- (c) whether he is aware that there is a strong impression in the public mind that the Punjab Criminal Investigation Department is using the said case as a subterfuge to investigate certain cases that took place in the British Punjab, by resorting to methods and means of investigation, within the boundaries of an Indian State, which would not be legally permissible in British India ;
- (d) if answer to parts (a) and (c) are in the affirmative, what steps the Punjab Government propose to take to safeguard the interests of British Indian subjects and to rectify the wrong already done with a view to allay uneasiness in the public mind ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) The reference is presumably to the Jagjitpur dacoity, a case of the Kapurthala State. In this case both Kapurthala and British subjects are under arrest in Kapurthala and are detained under State laws.

(b) Punjab Criminal Investigation Department officers have assisted in the investigation but they are not residing at Phagwara. This co-operation between State and Punjab Police officers is both necessary and desirable in all cases in which British Indian subjects are concerned ;

(c) Government is not aware that the general public is in the least disquieted by the participation of Punjab Criminal Investigation Department officers in this investigation which has led to the unravelling of other cases involving very serious crimes of violence committed in British India.

(d) The co-operation of officers of the Punjab Criminal Investigation Department in these investigations ensures that the interests of British Indian subjects are safeguarded.

PUNJAB UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS, READERS AND LECTURERS IN LAW.

*7. Chaudhri Muhammad Husain : Will the Honourable Minister of Education be pleased to lay on the table of the House a list containing the names of the Punjab University Professors, Readers and Lecturers in Law (including Political Science and Constitutional Law) separately, as on the 1st of April, 1937, specifying those working at the—

- (a) University Law College,
- (b) Hailey College for Commerce, and stating in the case of each, his community, whether he belongs to a notified agriculturist tribe and if so, the name of the tribe ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : A statement is laid on the table—

SUB-INSPECTOR OF POLICE, PHILLAUR.

*8. Master Kabul Singh : Will the Honourable Premier please state—

- (a) whether it has come to his notice that the Bar Association Phillaur, passed a resolution on 27th August, 1936, condemning the behaviour of the Sub-Inspector of Police, Phillaur, towards Sardar Ajit Singh, Pleader, Phillaur ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) above be in the affirmative, the action taken in the matter, if any ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I regret that the information is not available. It is being collected and will be supplied to the honourable member when it is received.

SEARCHES MADE BY POLICE OF THE OFFICES OF SHIROMANI AKALI DAL, ETC.

*9. Sardar Partab Singh : Will the Honourable Premier kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that searches of the offices of Shiromani Akali Dal, Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee, Sarb Hind Sikh Mission, Gurdwara Committee, Nankana Sahib, Bombay Branch of Sarab Hind Sikh Mission, Darbar Sahib Committee and Akali leaders were carried on simultaneously on a large scale on the petition of one Khazan Singh complaining that Gurdwara funds were used for election purposes ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that not a single piece of paper was removed from the houses of the Akali leaders ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that a number of papers were removed from various Committees' offices containing accounts of many previous months, although the complainant complained only about January and February accounts ;
- (d) whether anything incriminating has been found so far in papers mentioned in (a) above ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that the Inspector of Police in charge of the enquiry told Master Tara Singh that the papers and books in the custody of the police may not be looked into for another six months ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that the said enquiry Inspector demanded from Darbar Sahib Committee on the 26th March, 1937, accounts of Rs. 20,000 which were given in March by the said committee to the Sarab Hind Sikh Mission on 26th March, 1937 ;
- (g) the reasons why these accounts of March were demanded when the complaint did not cover the month of March ;
- (h) whether it is a fact that the police has taken possession of the account books, vouchers, balance sheets and audit reports of the Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee for years 1934, 1935 and 1936 ;

(i) whether it is a fact that the Inspector of Police has taken into custody the vouchers of Sarb Hind Sikh Mission of Khalsa College, Bombay, given to Darbar Sahib Committee ;

(j) whether the said enquiry will be limited to the complaint in hand in this case ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) No. In several of the house searches a number of documents were recovered relating to the investigation.

(c) Yes. In certain cases papers were found containing accounts relating to the financial year 1936-37 as well as to the months of January and February, 1937, and some of these were taken into custody.

(d) The case is still under inquiry, and it cannot yet be said whether the documents are incriminating or not.

(e) No. Master Tara Singh was informed that the documents seized could not be returned until they had been examined.

(f) On the 26th March the following documents were requisitioned by the police from the superintendent of the office of the local Gurdwara Committee—

(1) Authenticated copy of the Scheme of Management issued by the Judicial Committee on the 24th February, 1937.

(2) Vouchers received from the Sarb Hind Sikh Mission, Amritsar, and Bombay, up to date.

(3) Records showing the total sums of money so far paid to both these Missions by the local Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee, Amritsar.

(g) Because they were relevant to the investigation.

(h) No. The account books and vouchers for the financial year 1936-37 together with the audit report and balance sheet of the Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee for the year 1935-36 have been taken into possession.

(i) Yes.

(j) The scope of the investigation cannot be foretold until it has been completed.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I only want the Honourable Member to find out the number of times the searches were made and to place the information before the members.

Premier : Yes, if the honourable member would give me a formal notice.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Will the Honourable Member take this as the formal notice ?

Premier : No.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Why not ? Is it because the Honourable Member has not taken the trouble.... ?

Mr. Speaker : Order, order. According to our Business Rules the honourable member has to give notice of his question.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Mr. Speaker, may I ask your ruling on this point? When a question is tabled, is it not proper for the Honourable Member in charge to obtain all the relevant information regarding that question?

Premier : Not beyond the scope of the question.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is this question beyond the scope of the question?

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member's questions are inadmissible.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Will the Speaker be pleased to look...?

Mr. Speaker : I have ruled that the honourable member's question are out of order.

Diwan Chaman Lall : A question may be asked for the purpose of obtaining information on a matter of public concern within the special cognizance—

Mr. Speaker : Order, order. Under rule 14 a supplementary question can be asked only for the purpose of further elucidating any matter of fact regarding which an answer has been given. What facts in the Honourable Premier's answer require elucidation?

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I elucidate the point? The point is that an answer has been given regarding information required in connection with the searches that have taken place of certain offices. I want the facts relating to that particular matter, namely, the number of searches that have taken place.

Mr. Speaker : What facts have been stated in the Honourable Premier's reply of which the honourable member wants elucidation?

Diwan Chaman Lall : The facts stated are that searches have taken place, and the elucidation I want is as to the number of searches.

Premier : I submit that this question goes beyond the scope of the original question. The question asks whether searches were carried on simultaneously on a large scale on the petition of one Khazan Singh. My answer is 'yes.'

Diwan Chaman Lall : The question asks whether searches were carried on simultaneously on a large scale. I want to ascertain how many times the searches were carried on. The number of times is certainly covered by the expression 'large scale.'

Mr. Speaker : If the honourable member gives notice of his question, he will get an answer in due course.

Diwan Chaman Lall : That is a different matter. I should like to have your ruling as to whether the Honourable Premier should be prepared to take verbal notice of the question or not.

Mr. Speaker : A notice of a question has, under the Rules, to be given in writing to the Secretary of the Assembly and not verbally and direct to a Minister on the floor of the House. A verbal notice of a question given direct to a Minister or any one else, is not permissible under our Rules of Business.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I offer a word of personal explanation?

Mr. Speaker : No.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I raise a point of order? It has been the rule of this House and of all other similar Houses that when a supplementary question is put asking for information on the basis of the question of which notice has been given, that supplementary question is considered to be within the ambit of the original question and the Honourable Minister concerned takes notice of the question and gives the available information.

Mr. Speaker : I have given my ruling and I stick to it.

Sardar Partab Singh : Is the Honourable Minister aware that all letters and documents of the professor were taken away including the letter of recognition of the Khalsa College?

Premier : I am afraid I cannot detail all the documents. If he will give notice of the question I may be able to collect the information he wants.

Sardar Partab Singh : May I know whether the Government has made up its mind as to whether the prosecution should be launched at all?

Premier : It is not a prosecution by Government?

Sardar Partab Singh : Is it a fact that the Sub-Inspector, or whoever was in charge of the enquiry, has sent a report to the higher authorities of Government to know whether a case should be started?

Premier : I am afraid it is not in the public interest to answer this question.

DETENTION AND INTERNMENT OF PERSONS WITHOUT TRIAL.

*10. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Premier please state—

- (a) whether he is aware that Mr. Ihsan Elahi, Master Gajjan Singh and several other persons are detained without any trial in the Punjab jails or interned within specified areas;
- (b) the duration for which they have been detained or interned;
- (c) whether it is proposed to order their immediate release; if not, the reasons for further detention and internment of these persons;
- (d) whether the Punjab Government is contemplating the removal of ban upon Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan of North-West Frontier Province with regard to his entry in the Punjab?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) In some cases one year or less; in others until Government are satisfied that release will not be to the detriment of public order and safety.

(c) No, for reasons that are clear from (b).

(d) No.

Lala Duni Chand : Does the Honourable Premier know that Mr. Ihsan Elahi has been under detention without any trial for the last seven or eight years?

Premier : Yes. I have said so in part (a) of the answer.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I know whether an enquiry has taken place into the cases of these two gentlemen?

Premier : Not during the last two months. I cannot say whether an enquiry took place before.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I take it that the Honourable Premier does not know whether an enquiry took place before two months?

Premier : I took charge of this office just over two months ago.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I know whether the Honourable Premier^r intends instituting an enquiry into the cases of these two gentlemen?

Premier : I may for the information of the honourable member and of other honourable members say that the cases of all these people are examined periodically.

Lala Duni Chand : Is it true that Master Gajjan Singh was interned because he was about to take part in arranging a certain conference at Khanna?

Premier : No, he was interned because he was about to act in a way detrimental to public interest and safety.

Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Premier please give any facts from which the House can judge whether these people have been rightly interned?

Premier : I am afraid I cannot do so without proper notice.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Will the Honourable Premier please say what is the period fixed for enquiring into these cases?

Premier : In some cases examination is made every month.

Diwan Chaman Lall : By what method?

Premier : We get monthly reports of the activities of the various persons and also the conditions prevailing in the province. If Government is satisfied with respect to any particular internee that his release would not be contrary to the interests of public safety and tranquillity of the province the restrictions are relaxed or removed.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is the action purely executive or judicial?

Premier : It is purely executive action and not judicial.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Will the Honourable Premier consider the advisability of taking judicial action in this matter?

Mr. Speaker : Is that a request for action or a supplementary question to elucidate the facts stated in the answer?

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is the Honourable Premier prepared to take judicial action? Has he decided to take judicial action?

Premier : I have not decided to take judicial action.

Lala Duni Chand : If it is a fact that he is a man of essentially non-violent and peaceful nature, why is it that Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan has been banned entering into the province?

Premier : I do not consider it expedient to express an opinion on that point.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Will the Honourable Premier please say whether his entry into the Punjab has been banned because of the instructions of the Government of India or because of the instructions of the local Government ?

Premier : I cannot give a reply to that question off-hand, because the ban was placed long before I assumed office.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Does the Honourable Premier admit that it is a denial of elementary human right to ban Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan ?

Premier : No.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Has the Honourable Premier considered his case since he took up office ?

Premier : Yes.

Diwan Chaman Lall : What is the conclusion that the Honourable Premier has come to ?

Premier : I am not prepared to divulge my conclusions.

Diwan Chaman Lall : What does the Honourable Premier apprehend if Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan is allowed into the Punjab ?

Premier : It would be detrimental to public safety and tranquillity.

Diwan Chaman Lall : In what precise manner would it be detrimental to the Punjab ?

Premier : I am not prepared to enter into an argument.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Has the Honourable Premier decided to take a referendum of the people of the Punjab to find out whether his entry into the Punjab would be detrimental or not ?

Sardar Lal Singh : What are the facts on which it was considered that his entry would be a danger to the peace of the province ?

Premier : I have nothing to add to the reply which I gave to the honourable member representing the East Punjab, Labour constituency.

URMAR TANDA MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE AND ITS AFFAIRS.

*11. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works kindly state—

- (a) whether he is aware of the fact that the employees, sweepers in particular, of the Municipal Committee of Urmur Tanda, district Hoshiarpur, have not received their pay and wages for the last three months ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that this state of affairs was brought to the notice of the Deputy Commissioner, Hoshiarpur, by Mr. Baldev Mittar Bijli of Urmur Tanda at the time of the said officer's visit to Urmur Tanda about the middle of March ?

[S. Hari Singh.]

- (c) whether it is a fact that the Deputy Commissioner instructed the Municipal President to remedy the state of affairs and pay up the arrears of pay due to the poor employees ;
- (d) what action the Government propose to take further to set matters right ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) The salaries for January and February were paid in April, and the Deputy Commissioner writing on 6th May reported that only the salaries for March were then due.

(b) and (c) Yes.

(d) The Municipal Committee explained that it could not pay its staff for want of funds. To avoid such delays in future it has decided to reduce its expenditure and impose a 10 per cent. cut on the pay of its staff drawing more than Rs. 10 per mensem. The committee has been asked to arrange to pay its staff on the first working day of each month in future.

CLAIMS OF PERSONS WITH M. R. C. V. S. DEGREE TO BE RECRUITED FOR THE TEACHING STAFF OF THE PUNJAB VETERINARY COLLEGE.

12. Sardar Muhammad Hussain : Will the Honourable Minister of Development be pleased to state—

- (a) the total number of posts on the staff (excluding the clerical staff, of the Punjab Veterinary College and the number of such posts which are occupied by persons holding the M. R. C. V. S. degree ;
- (b) the number of persons holding the M. R. C. V. S. degree, who are registered as candidates for appointments in the Punjab Veterinary College and period for which they have been waiting for appointments ;
- (c) the number of posts on the College staff which are about to fall vacant in the near future ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that persons holding the M. R. C. V. S. degree are superior in qualification to persons trained locally ;
- (e) whether Government intend to pay due regard to the claims of persons with the M. R. C. V. S. qualification in future recruitments to the College staff ;

The Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram : (a) 20, including the Veterinary Investigation Officer who is paid out of the funds of the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research. Of these, five are officers holding the diploma of M. R. C. V. S.

- (b) No such register of candidates is maintained.
- (c) None.
- (d) Yes.

(e) Yes, with due regard to the recommendations of the Punjab and North-West Frontier Province Joint Public Service Commission and the rules governing recruitment to the Punjab Veterinary Services, Class I and Class II.

PRESS IN THE PUNJAB.

13. Malik Barkat Ali : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing :—

- (a) the newspapers, both vernacular and English including weeklies, which are printed and published within the province ;
- (b) the circulation enjoyed by each such newspaper as officially reported to Government ;
- (c) the names of those newspapers which are entered in the White List maintained by the Punjab Government ;
- (d) the names of those newspapers which are entered in the Black List, if any, maintained by the Punjab Government ; and
- (e) when the system of maintaining White and Black Lists of newspapers in the Punjab was first introduced in this province and whether these lists are being regularly maintained ever since ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) There are no less than 650 newspapers and periodicals printed and published in the Punjab, and the expense of setting out the information requested appears to be incommensurate with any value which can be extracted from the list.

(b) As in the past publishers have objected to Government publishing an estimate of their circulation, I do not propose to answer this part of the question.

(c) It is not in the public interest to give the information asked for.

(d) None.

(e) No Black List is at present maintained. The system was introduced in April, 1913, but was abolished in July, 1921. Since then a White List has been maintained.

Sardar Hari Singh : What is the criterion adopted in making entries in the White List and the Black List ?

Premier : There is no such thing as a Black List. I have already said that.

Sardar Lal Singh : In the White List ?

Premier : If the honourable member would wait, he will probably get the information in reply to another question.

Sardar Lal Singh : For exclusion from the White List ?

Premier : That information also will be available in that reply.

POLITICAL INTERNEES IN THE PUNJAB.

14. Malik Barkat Ali : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing :—

- (a) the political internees of the Punjab on 31st March, 1936, with their full names and descriptions ;
- (b) the Statute or Regulation under which they were interned ;
- (c) the length of time during which they have been in internment ;
- (d) the authority by whose order they were interned ;
- (e) which of the said political internees have been released since the 1st of April, 1937.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : If the honourable member will inform me what he means by " political internees ", I will endeavour to have the information collected.

Malik Barkat Ali : With reference to the answer given by the Honourable Premier, my simple submission is that the word " internee " sufficiently expresses itself, namely, all those persons whose liberties have been interfered with or who have been detained otherwise in due course of law.

Premier : Now that the honourable member has made his meaning clear and if he sends a proper notice in writing, I will try to collect for him the required information. He should make it clear whether he wants information with regard to the Criminal Law Amendment Act or other enactments also.

Malik Barkat Ali : Including the Criminal Law Amendment Act and other Acts.

 PIR KAKU SHAH'S CASE.

15. Malik Barkat Ali : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a deputation of Muslims under the leadership of Maulvi Sir Mohammad Yaqub waited on His Excellency the Governor of the Punjab in the summer of 1936 at Simla and pressed on him the necessity of filing an appeal against the judgment of Mr. Sale, Sessions Judge, acquitting the accused charged with the demolition and desecration of the tomb of Pir Kaku Shah ;
- (b) the reply given to the deputatio nists by His Excellency on behalf of Government ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes. The deputation was received by His Excellency the Governor in Council. The Honourable Member for Finance, Sir Donald Boyd, the Chief Secretary, Mr. Puckle, and the Legal Remembrancer, Mr. Anderson, were also present.

(b) The question of filing an appeal was discussed from all points of view. As no decision had been reached by Government either way, none was communicated to the deputation ; nor was any promise made that any appeal would be filed.

ANNUAL EXODUS TO THE HILLS.

*15. Malik Barkat Ali : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state whether he considered the question of the annual exodus of the Punjab Government to the hills before this year to Simla and whether he intends to discontinue this practice for the future at any rate ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Yes ; the Government did consider the question. It has two sides—

(1) Financial :

(2) Administrative.

2. The financial aspect was considered by the Retrenchment Committee in 1931. The cost of the annual move of the Punjab Government to Simla at that time was estimated at not less than Rs. 1,15,000 and not more than Rs. 1,25,000. The Committee recommended in favour of continuance of the move for the following reasons :—

“ Much more and much better sustained work of the kind which is done in the Secretariat can be done in the climate of Simla than in the climate of Lahore. If Government remained in plains, it would be necessary to give Secretariat staff casual leave for two periods of 10 days each. Leaving aside clerical establishment there are 47 officers who go to Simla. Allowing 8 days for the move up and down when the offices close, the grant of 20 days' casual leave to each of them will involve a loss of about 560 working days, which is equivalent to about two years' work of one Secretary to Government, or in terms of cash equivalent to Rs. 65 to 70 thousand. The Secretariat offices attached to the Council building are not adapted for hot weather use and it would be necessary to make extensive and very expensive alterations. There would be also certain charges, such as charges for electricity, to set against the saving by the abandonment of the move. We doubt in fact whether the abandonment of the move would result in any considerable saving and it would certainly be detrimental to work.”

These considerations still apply. The actual cost of the move is being examined and will be communicated to the Assembly later in the session in reply to another question, but in the meantime the conclusions of the Retrenchment Committee still hold the field.

3. On the Administrative side it must be remembered that Secretariat work, whether of officers or clerks, is done at very high pressure. A Secretary gets no leave ; there is not, for instance, a day in the year on which several of the Secretaries and Ministers are certain of having no files. Secretaries and clerks are working on all holidays including Sundays ; for the fact that it is a holiday is not accepted as an excuse for not dealing with a case marked “urgent.” If work at this pressure is to be done properly it must be done under the most favourable conditions possible. During the hot weather the Secretaries and clerks cannot keep up the pressure of work without serious detriment to the quality of work turned out and the whole administration of the province depends on the quality of work turned out by the Secretariats. If the move to Simla were abandoned a general fall in standard of work would almost inevitably follow.

4. Apart from the above considerations it may be added that—

(1) the capital cost of buildings in Simla owned by the Punjab Government and occupied either as offices or residences by migratory officers and their staff is over Rs. 23 lakhs, and if

[Premier.]

Government does not move up to Simla in the hot weather, there will be a sharp fall in the value of this property, probably amounting to something like 50 per cent., and a corresponding fall in rents ;

- (2) most of the property in Simla is owned by citizens of the Punjab who will lose heavily in the same way ; and
- (3) the Municipal Committee will also be put to similar loss, and trade and private business will also greatly suffer.

Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable Premier please state whether he received a request from the Leader of the Opposition to the effect that Simla exodus should be given up as far as the holding of the session was concerned ?

Premier : Yes ; we exchanged views about the matter.

Sardar Hari Singh : Was that request considered ?

Premier : It certainly was.

Sardar Hari Singh : On what ground was it rejected ?

Premier : We have not yet got a suitable building at Lahore. Next year it will not be necessary to hold a meeting in Simla.

Sardar Hari Singh : Was there any other ground for rejecting the request about the meeting of the Assembly ?

Premier : No.

Sardar Lal Singh : Is the Honourable Premier aware of the fact that many of the members here are faced with two alternatives, either to pay most exorbitant rents and live in Simla and attend the session or to absent themselves from the session ?

Premier : My own personal view and I believe the view of many of the members is that the daily allowance allowed to members is sufficient to cover that cost.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Will the Honourable Premier inform us whether the climate of Lahore and the climate of Allahabad and Lucknow is the same and whether the United Provinces Government has moved to the hills or not ?

Premier : I suggest the honourable member should consult meteorological reports.

Malik Barkat Ali : May I know whether according to the Honourable Premier the annual exodus of the Punjab Government will remain an eternal matter in view of the fact that the considerations on which his reply is based will continue to eternity ?

Premier : My own personal inclination is that I will be glad to leave Simla if somebody would be prepared to buy our property here. We can then go to some other suitable hill station which might be less expensive.

Malik Barkat Ali : As this cannot be, the exodus may be taken as a perennial feature of the Punjab Government ?

Premier : May have to be, for the present.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : Is the property for the Punjab Government or the Punjab Government for the property that they must come to occupy it.

Premier : They are inseparable.

Sardar Hari Singh : Who takes care of the property in the winter season ?

Premier : Chaukidars naturally.

PRESS IN THE PUNJAB.

17. Malik Barkat Ali : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing :—

- (a) the newspapers and presses in the Punjab whose publishers and keepers respectively were under security on the 31st of March, 1936 ;
- (b) the amount of security in each case ;
- (c) the newspapers whose publishers were called upon to furnish security since 1st April, 1937, and whether this security was furnished or not ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) and (b) A statement containing the required information is laid on the table.

(c) Since the 1st of April the local Government has demanded security from the publisher of one paper only, viz., the Shan-i-Haq, Gujranwala. Government has not yet heard whether this security has been deposited ; nor has Government information as to the newspapers from whose publishers local magistrates have demanded security.

A statement showing the names of newspapers and printing presses on security under the Indian Press (Emergency Powers) Act, XXIII of 1931, as it stood on 31st March, 1936.

ADDRESS BY DR. VISHWA NATH, PRESIDENT, SOCIAL SERVICE CONFERENCE.

*18. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Education kindly state—

(a) whether his attention has been drawn to an address by Dr. Vishwa Nath, President of Social Service Conference, which appeared in the Civil and Military Gazette of 25th April, 1937, and other newspapers and in which he stated that in the year 1935 nearly 14 million people attended Government hospitals and dispensaries in the Punjab ;

- (b) whether his attention has also been drawn to a statement made in the said address regarding the paucity of dispensaries in rural areas and the desirability of introducing the system of subsidized practice by qualified men in rural areas ; if so, whether the Government intends to increase the number of rural dispensaries and introduce the system of subsidized practice ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes. In 1925 with a view to attaining the ideal of providing one dispensary for the mean of 30,000 population and 100 square miles Government decided to open 875 rural dispensaries. Of these 360 dispensaries have already been opened ; the remaining 15 had to be suspended on account of paucity of funds.

The scheme of " subsidized dispensaries " is being tried in the Attock, Montgomery and Lyallpur districts, but the reports so far received are not encouraging. The scheme is still in the experimental stage and if it eventually proves successful it is intended to extend it to other districts.

Sardar Kapoor Singh : Have some rural dispensaries been closed ?

Minister : Yes, one was closed in your district.

Sardar Kapoor Singh : How many have been closed in the Ferozepore district ?

Minister : I cannot say off hand.

Sardar Kapoor Singh : How many rural dispensaries had been opened in the district of Ferozepore ?

Minister : I require notice of this question.

Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable Minister please state whether he has gone into the reasons for these dispensaries not being a success ?

Minister : Report has not yet been submitted to the Government. These dispensaries are still in an experimental stage.

Lala Duni Chand : Recently a conference was held for considering the question of medical relief in rural areas. Will the Honourable Minister please state what decisions have been arrived at ?

Minister : The suggestion before the conference was that the doctors in charge of these rural dispensaries be required to tour and go to the neighbouring villages and grant medical relief. As it involved financial considerations, the scheme has not been granted for the whole of the province, but as an experiment it is going to be tried in five districts.

Lala Duni Chand : How long will the scheme take to materialise ?

Minister : We hope to do something next year.

Sardar Kapoor Singh : Has the grant previously made for this purpose been reduced ?

Minister : The grant was reduced for some time, but it has again been reinstated.

Lala Duni Chand : Is the Honourable Minister prepared to accept the suggestion that medical practitioners should be granted subsidies and that this is the only way of really supplying medical aid to rural areas ?

Minister : That was accepted some time back and it is being experimented upon.

Sardar Kapoor Singh : Is the Government prepared to open the dispensaries which have been closed in some districts ?

Minister : We are looking into these cases.

Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister please give us an idea as to the private practitioners who have been granted subsidies ?

Minister : I am afraid I cannot give particulars now.

Sardar Kapoor Singh : Will the Honourable Minister please go into the question as to why in some districts there are as many as 17 dispensaries and in others there are only 5 ?

Minister : Government is looking into this question.

Lala Duni Chand : Is he aware that in certain cases there is no medical aid available within a radius of 20 miles ?

Minister : There are such places and we are doing all we can to give relief.

Lala Duni Chand : Is it true that thousands of people are dying on account of insufficient medical aid being available ?

Minister : I will not subscribe to this proposition.

Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister be pleased to state whether he subscribes to the proposition that people are suffering from many preventible diseases simply because there is no medical aid available to them ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : There are only 25 minutes more left for answering questions.

Lala Duni Chand : Do these preventible diseases lead to deaths also ? (Laughter).

Minister : Sometimes.

MATERNITY HOSPITAL, LAHORE.

19. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the object of starting the Maternity Hospital at Lahore was to give practical training to the Indian students in midwifery and if so, whether they are being given full facilities in this behalf ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that ordinarily Indian students are not allowed to handle or even to observe the midwifery cases of European and Anglo-Indian patients ;
- (c) the Government expenditure per patient as distributed over European and Anglo-Indian patients and Indian patients admitted into the Maternity Hospital at Lahore ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : (a) Yes. Full facilities are given to the Indian students as far as the present accommodation in the hospital permits.

(b) The distinction is between the private wards and the general wards. All patients in the general wards are required to submit themselves as cases for study by the medical students. Patients in the private wards are not required to do so, whether they are Europeans or Indians.

(c) The average expenditure per patient (including private patients) is Rs. 51·06 in the case of Europeans and Anglo-Indians and Rs. 63·76 in the case of Indians.

Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister be pleased to inquire from the President of the Medical College Union whether it is a fact that Indian students are not allowed those facilities that others are allowed ?

Minister : Information available to the Government shows that these facilities are allowed to them in General wards but not in Private wards.

Lala Duni Chand : What is the source of the information ?

Mr. Speaker : Order, order.

FAMILY WARD IN MAYO HOSPITAL, LAHORE.

20. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Education be pleased to state whether it is a fact that a substantial part of the fees charged from Family Ward patients in Mayo Hospital, Lahore, is paid to the doctors attending on them ; if so, why ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : Yes. In the terms of the conditions of their service Medical Officers are entitled to private practice which includes treatment of patients in the Family Wards of the Mayo Hospital, Lahore. The fees charged are in accordance with a fixed scale prescribed by Government.

BASHESHAR LALL HALWASIA CHARITABLE TRUST, BHIWANI.

*21. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state :—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the late Rai Bahadur Bissessur Lall Halwasia, a wealthy citizen of Bhiwani, created a charitable trust by his last will, dated 16th July, 1925 and left property worth above 70 lakhs of rupees for charitable purposes and laid down in the will that the major portion of the bequest was to be spent at Bhiwani, in Hissar District ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that complaints disclosing offences of criminal breach of trust and other serious offences were filed by Mr. K. A. Desai of Bhiwani against the trustees of the said charitable trust in the city police station, Bhiwani (case No. 58 of 1933), and consequently investigation of some of the offences committed in Calcutta were entrusted to the Calcutta Police Detective Department by the Punjab Police Criminal Investigation Department, and the Calcutta Police Detective Department arrested and challaned two of the trustees, Sri Kishen Beriwalla and Nand Kishore Bansal of Hissar ;
- (c) if answer to (b) above be in the affirmative, whether the final result of the cases, started by the Calcutta Police against the trustees has been communicated to the Punjab Criminal Investigation Department ;
- d) whether it is a fact that during the investigation by the Criminal Investigation Department, Punjab, Inspector Munshi Ram of the Punjab Criminal Investigation Department had clearly stated to the Assistant Inspector-General, Criminal Investigation Department, Punjab, in his report that some of the trustees could be successfully prosecuted in the Punjab and sought orders to arrest them ; if so, whether he will place on the table of the House the report of the investigating officer, Munshi Ram ;
- whether it is also a fact that in spite of this report of embezzlement and misappropriation of large sums of money, no arrests were made and the cases were filed as 'Untraced' ;
- (f) if the answer to (e) above be in the affirmative, the reasons for taking no action, and whether the Government intends to start a case now ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) It is a fact that Rai Bahadur Bissessur Lall left a will creating a charitable trust, the proceeds of which were to be spent for the benefit of the inhabitants of Bhiwani in the Hissar district. The amount of the trust money is not known.

(b) Yes.

(c) It is a fact that Inspector Munshi Ram was of opinion that criminal offences had occurred and asked for orders regarding action to be taken against the offenders.

(d) It is not in the public interest to lay this report on the table.

(e) and (f) In spite of the Inspector's report it was not considered that there was sufficient proof of embezzlement in the Punjab to justify proceeding with the case, and it was filed.

Lala Duni Chand : Is the report of an investigating officer a State document and therefore confidential? Why should it not be in the interests of public to disclose the report of an investigating officer?

Premier : It is not the practice of the House to lay on the table confidential reports submitted by officers in their official capacity.

Lala Duni Chand : Will he make it the practice in future?

Premier : No.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Is this the invariable practice that reports made by officials are never placed on the table of the House?

Premier : No.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : That is what the Premier's answer led us to suppose.

Premier : No. He was dealing with a specific case.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : But the answer was in general terms.

Premier : His question related to a specific case.

Lala Duni Chand : Was the report of Lala Munshi Ram referred to the legal advisers of the Government? If so, what was their opinion?

Premier : That there was not sufficient ground for starting criminal proceedings.

Lala Duni Chand : Who were the legal authorities consulted?

Premier : I am afraid I cannot give off-hand the names of legal authorities consulted but probably it must have been the law officers of the Crown.

TERMINAL TAX REVISED SCHEDULE.

22. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works be pleased to state :

(a) whether it is a fact that the terminal tax revised schedule was sanctioned by the Ambala Cantonment authorities in the beginning of 1934 and forwarded for approval to the Government, if so, whether it is also a fact that no action has since been taken in the matter of the approval of the schedule ;

(b) whether he is aware that this delay in approving the revised schedule and the fact that the old schedule is still in force have resulted in great injury to the taxpayers ;

(c) if the answers to (a) and (b) above be in the affirmative the reasons for this delay ;

(d) whether Government intends to approve the above-mentioned schedule ; if so, how long it will take to enforce it ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) A proposal for the revision of the Ambala Cantonment terminal tax schedule was received from the Cantonment Authority in May, 1934. The matter has since been the subject of correspondence between the provincial Government, the military authorities and the local civil officers. The chief reason for the delay lies in the fact that there is a joint system for the collection of terminal tax in the Cantonment and the Sadr Bazar Municipality ; it is consequently necessary for the schedules of the two bodies to be brought into consonance.

(b) Government have no reason to believe that any serious inconvenience has been caused to the public.

(c) This has been dealt with in the reply to part (a).

(d) Government has already accepted the principle that a revision of the schedule is required. It is not possible to mention a date by which the revision will be complete.

Lala Duni Chand : Why has it taken three years to decide an ordinary question like this ?

Minister : I have already explained. The matter has been with the Military authorities for consideration.

Lala Duni Chand : Can the Honourable Minister of Public Works give us any idea as to the period which further correspondence will take in the matter ?

Minister : The Government is trying to expedite the matter. No period can be specified.

SCARCITY OF WATER IN AMBALA CITY.

*23. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Education be pleased to state :—

- (a) whether it is a fact that Ambala City has been for a long time suffering from scarcity of water and that in spite of several proposals having been made during the last 30 years or so to remove scarcity of water, nothing appreciable has been done so far ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) above be in the affirmative, whether Government intends to take any steps to solve this problem ; if so, what and when ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that a tube well sunk by the Electricity Company and several other ordinary wells sunk by private persons have been successful ; if so, whether Government intend to order the sinking of a number of wells at Government cost for the use and benefit of the general public ;
- (d) whether it is also a fact that at a distance of four or five miles from Ambala City the tap water is supplied in the Cantonment area all the twenty-four hours while in the Municipal area it is supplied for only six hours a day, if so, how the problem of scarcity of water has been solved in the Cantonment ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : (a) Ambala City has been suffering from shortage of water for a long time. Government has from time to time spent a considerable amount of money in search of water for this town, by boring and also on augmentation of the well sources of supply.

(b) Yes. This matter is under consideration at present, and a scheme has recently been submitted by the Superintending Engineer, Public Health Circle.

(c) A tube well sunk by the Electric Supply Company is yielding a small supply of water and two other wells have been recently finished and under test or about to be tested. The question of putting down tube-wells or tapping other sources of supply is under consideration.

(d) At Ambala Cantonment considerable augmentation of the water-supply has occurred of recent years due to provision of a very deep bore-hole. At Ambala Sadr Bazar and Ambala City the water supply is scarce.

Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Education be pleased to give us an assurance that where his predecessors have failed, he will succeed and succeed very soon (Laughter).

Minister : I am hoping for the best and I gave the assurance to the honourable member when I visited Ambala last time.

Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Education kindly see that a required sum is set apart for this purpose ?

Minister : I have asked for a very complete scheme from the Superintending Engineer concerned. As soon as that scheme is in the hands of the Government, it will be able to supply funds, but I do not know whether they would be adequate. I expect that the citizens of Ambala will come forward and supplement the funds by raising public subscriptions. This was done in Ludhiana thirty years ago.

Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Education kindly take steps to induce the public of Ambala to subscribe towards the funds ? I had tried that but being an ordinary man, I could not succeed. (Laughter.)

Minister : I would appeal to the various bodies including the Congress.

MALBA.

*24. Lala Duni Chand : (i) Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue kindly state the legal authority under which malba is collected in villages and also the rules detailing the purposes for which the malba so collected should be used ;

(ii) If there be no such legal authority will he kindly state why and under what authority this practice is permitted in villages ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (i) and (ii) There is no statutory provision authorising the collection of malba by the village communities. For rules dealing with the malba fund the attention of the honourable member is invited to paragraph 93 of the Punjab Settlement

[Minister of Revenue.]

Manual, which also explains malba fund and the authority under which it is collected.

Sardar Partab Singh : Is the Honourable Minister of Revenue aware that the people of villages complained against the collection of malba ?

Minister : No complaints have been received so far.

Sardar Partab Singh : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue kindly state that in case sufficient number of representations are made, the practice of malba collection will be abolished.

Minister : It is natural that when complaints are made, the matter will be looked into.

Sardar Kapoor Singh : Will the Government see that if the zamindars refuse to pay the malba they are not molested by the tahsildars and other authorities ?

Minister : How does the question arise ?

Sardar Sampuran Singh : We want an assurance from the Government that if people exercise their right of non-payment of malba for the collection of which there is no legal authority, will they be protected from molestation by the Government ?

Minister : It all depends on what sort of right people exercise and what action is taken by them. The question is whether it is actionable by the Police or not.

Sardar Partab Singh : For what purpose is the malba collected ?

Sardar Kapoor Singh : For years together this malba has been collected and no accounts have been rendered at all.

Minister : I do not know.

Malik Barkat Ali : In view of the fact that there is no legal authority sanctioning the collection of malba, will the Honourable Minister of Revenue kindly take steps to prevent the collection of malba ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat Khan : May I make that point clear ? It is with the consent of the villagers themselves that the malba is imposed. During the settlement operations, amongst other things, the question of malba is considered in consultation with the villagers themselves and it is only after their consent has been obtained that malba is imposed. The fund is a common fund used for the common purpose of people themselves.

Malik Barkat Ali : It comes to this then that if people refuse to pay malba they cannot be molested.

Premier : It will be a breach of contract.

Malik Barkat Ali : The Government can go to Courts for the collection of malba on that basis.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : What is the consideration for that contract ?

Minister : The services in the village.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : What services ? Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue kindly state how the people of the villages do services when the malba fund is distributed amongst them ?

Minister : They spend it as they like.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : Is there not a general revolt amongst the villagers regarding the collection of this malba .

Minister : No.

Sardar Hari Singh : Have the Government received reports from the Criminal Investigation Department regarding the hundreds of meetings held in the villages demanding the remission of malba ?

Premier : I can give information on that point. I have received reports that certain honourable members of this House and certain other gentlemen outside this House have been going from village to village preaching to people that they should not pay malba. Beyond that we have received no representation or complaint from the villagers.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : Is it a fact that the Honourable Premier presided over meetings at which protests against the collection of malba were made ?

Premier : When and where ?

Sardar Sampuran Singh : At Lyallpur.

Sardar Partab Singh : Certain villagers refused to pay malba and proceedings are going against them in Courts.

Premier : They are wrong in refusing to pay malba.

Malik Barkat Ali : Will the Honourable Premier give assurance that the executive authority of Government will not be used against those people who refuse to pay malba ?

Premier : I am a lay-man and speak subject to correction, but I can say off-hand that malba is realizable as land revenue.

Malik Barkat Ali : We have a definite reply of the Honourable Minister of Revenue that there is no legal authority behind the collection of malba.

Minister : I said " statutory ".

Malik Barkat Ali : Is the Honourable Minister aware of any authority which is not based on statute ?

Minister : I referred to section 98 of the Punjab Settlement Manual.

Sardar Kapoor Singh : At the time of payment of revenue, if malba is not included along with the land revenue the whole revenue is declined, and it is not accepted by the authorities.

Diwan Chaman Lall : If there is no statutory authority for the collection of malba, why are the executive authorities helping in the collection thereof ?

Premier : I am afraid there seems to be some confusion on that point. It could not be collected as land revenue unless there was a statutory authority for it.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : I should like the Government to state whether the Government did not consider the question of remitting the malba in view of the financial stringency.

Premier : It will not be in the interest of the villagers to do so. It is a common fund and is meant for common purposes. You might take objection to the way in which it is operated but you cannot take objection to the fund itself which is in the interest of the villagers themselves.

Sardar Partab Singh : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue assure us that.....

Minister : I cannot give you any assurance on that subject.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue state for what purposes this malba is used in the villages ?

Mr. Speaker : This has been answered already. The next question—

BEGAR.

25. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state whether it is a fact that in spite of repeated orders of the Government begar or forced labour is still taken from the members of untouchable communities in many villages ; if so, what action is intended to be taken by the Government in the matter ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : The honourable member's attention is invited to the answer given to question No. 9.¹

Lala Duni Chand : I want a reply to my question. My question is a starred one and not unstarred.

Minister : The honourable member's attention is invited to the copy of orders which is laid on the table.

Lala Duni Chand : I want to have a reply to the specific question and I am entitled to that.

Mr. Speaker : If a question asked by one honourable member is answered, the other honourable members should not repeat the same question.

¹See pages 270-72 infra.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Do we take it, Sir, that by your ruling the rights and privileges of a member to put starred questions can be robbed by another member who puts in unstarred questions of the same nature ?

Mr. Speaker : After a question is asked and answered it should not be asked again in the same session, especially after the answer is printed in the proceedings of the House.

Diwan Chaman Lall : This particular answer, I take it, has not been circulated to the members and I am one of those who have not received the reply to this unstarred question ; nor does this question appear in the proceedings of the Assembly. Therefore, it cannot be held that its answer has already been given.

Mr. Speaker : In that case I request the Honourable Minister to answer the question.

Minister : My reply is the same as to the unstarred question No. 9¹ put in by Master Kabul Singh and that is —

(a) No. (b) Does not arise. (c)

(Voices : That is not the answer to starred question No. 25).

Mr. Speaker : Order, order. It appears that the unstarred question No. 9¹ though identical in substance with the starred question No. 25, is not identical in form and arrangement. Therefore I would request the Honourable Minister to answer question No. 25. If he is unable to do so now, he may do it later.

Minister : I will give its reply later.

OFFICIALS TRAVELLING IN LORRIES.

*26. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it has been brought to the notice of authorities that officials in general and those of the Police Force in particular travel in licensed lorries free of charge and that this practice offers inducements to the lorry drivers to carry more passengers than allowed by the license ;

(b) what steps the Government propose to take to put a stop to this practice ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : Government are aware of the need for measures to check malpractices of this kind. So far as the police are concerned, special orders were issued by the Inspector General some months ago and are rigorously enforced. Appropriate action is also taken when officials of other departments are detected travelling free in buses.

Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue take any steps to verify the statement made in this connection ; if so, what steps ?

Minister : It has already been done and steps are being taken.

Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister accept a statement from me that in every lorry—

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : He has himself said that he has accepted the statement and these instructions were in consequence of that.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : These instructions are mere instructions. We want some definite action taken.

Premier : I will give you one instance. A system is being tried as an experimental measure in one of the important districts. There no police man is allowed to travel in a public lorry or bus without a pass which is issued by the Superintendent of Police or other gazetted officers. The amount of fare is deducted from the pay of the constable and handed over to the lorry owner. (A voice: In what district?) In the district of Rawalpindi.

FORESTS IN AMBALA DISTRICT.

*27. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that certain forests in Ambala district, formerly in possession of zamindars, have been taken over by the Forest Department and as a result of this they have been deprived of valuable rights such as the right of grazing and the right of taking wood for agricultural and building purposes ;
- (b) whether Government is aware that among the zamindars of Ambala district affected by the said act of the Forest Department, there prevails a feeling of uneasiness ;
- (c) whether it is true that the inhabitants of villages living near forest areas are very often prosecuted at the instance of forest guards for the alleged breaches of forest law and rules, and are heavily fined ;
- (d) whether the Government is aware of the existence of a feeling of resentment against these prosecutions ;
- (e) what measure Government proposes to take to redress these grievances ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) No forests formerly in the possession of the zamindars have been taken over by the Forest Department and the proprietary rights of the villagers have not been affected in any way. No restrictions on grazing have been imposed, except with regard to the right of grazing sheep and goats for which full compensation has already been paid by the Government to the villagers. The villagers are allowed the use of wood for bona-fide agricultural and building purposes wherever available.

Note.—A draft notice has recently been submitted by the Deputy Commissioner, Ambala for consideration of Government, assuring the villagers that under no circumstances their proprietary rights will be affected in order to allay any existing suspicion on this score.

(b) On the contrary a considerable number of villages in Ambala Siwaliks have submitted voluntary applications for further restrictions under Section 5 of the Chos Act to facilitate re-establishment of forest growth being in no doubt as to the intention of the Government.

(c) The villagers are only prosecuted when they transgress the provisions of section 4 of Chos Act by grazing goats and sheep or for wanton destruction to common village property.

(d) The restrictions imposed are entirely for the benefit of the villagers and are meant to give indigenous vegetation a chance to recover. Public money (about Rs. 87,000) already paid in compensation would be wasted if no efforts were made to protect the village shamilat areas from sheep and goat grazing. The villagers are now gradually realising the benefits of these restrictions and are co-operating in ever increasing numbers.

(e) Does not arise.

COMMUNAL REPRESENTATION IN SERVICES.

28. Lala Duni Chand : (i) Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that most of the appointments in higher and lower grades of services, as a result of demand made on the ground of communal adjustment, have gone either to Jats or Rajputs in Ambala division and that other agricultural communities in that division such as Sainis, Malis, Gaur Brahmans, Ahirs, Gujars, Kanaitis, Kambos, etc., have got practically very little share of such appointments ;

(b) whether it is a fact that among all agricultural communities mentioned above suitable candidates for different services can be found ; if so, what action is proposed to be taken in the matter to satisfy these communities in future ?

(ii) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table of the House a statement showing representation of all the agricultural communities in Ambala division in different services ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (i) (a) and (b). It is the policy of Government to endeavour to prevent any one of the main communities from monopolizing an undue share of any branch of the public service and to ensure that the agricultural classes obtain a fair share. Government is not prepared to go further and attempt to secure the representation in the services of different sub-divisions of the main communities.

(ii) It is regretted that the information asked for is not readily available and the labour involved in its collection would hardly be commensurate with any public advantage to be gained.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGES ASAL, CHEEMA AND RATTOKI.

29. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that a punitive police post was quartered at villages Asal, Cheema and Rattoki, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, on the 1st of April, 1928 for a period of two years;

[Dr. Sant Ram Seth.]

- (b) the estimated annual costs as well as the actual costs in detail of the punitive police post for each year separately ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that one Dr. Dalip Singh and other residents of the aforesaid villages submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on the 18th April, 1937, claiming a refund of the amount in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post ; if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) The cost of the post for the first year, as originally worked out, was Rs. 11,984-5-0 ; for the second year Rs. 10,505-5-0. It is never possible to reckon the actual costs of a body of additional police with exactitude, as certain items in the bill (for example, charges for superintendence, the cost of the men's preliminary training, the cost of armament and interest charges during the period of recovery) cannot be precisely determined ; but figures relating to the pay of the men in this post and similar particulars were furnished in the reply given in October last to question *5884¹ in the old Council.

(c) No such application appears to have been received in the Secretariat, but as explained in October last, a sum of Rs. 3,740-6-0 has already been remitted.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE HANDO SAHARI, TAHSIL KASUR.

30. Dr. Sant Ram Seth: (i) Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a mounted punitive police post was quartered at village Hando Sahari, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore in 1921-22 for a period of three years ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the punitive police post mentioned in part (a) above continued to be located in the above village for a further period of one year,—vide Government Notification dated 20th January, 1925 ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that punitive police post was again quartered in the village mentioned in part (a) above,—vide Government notification dated 25th October 1928, for a period of one year ;

(ii) if the answers to (a), (b) and (c) in (i) be in the affirmative, whether he will lay on the table a statement showing details of the estimated as well as the actual costs of the punitive police post for each year, the sanctioned strength of the police force which was actually posted to the police post and the monthly average attendance of the head constables, constables, assistant sub-inspector of police and sub-inspector of police for each year ;

(iii) whether it is a fact that one Sardar Waryam Singh and other village residents of Hando Sahari, tahsil Kasur, submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on the 21st April, 1937, claiming a refund of the amount said to have been realized from them in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post located in their villages if so, with what result ?

¹Volume XXIX, pages 110-20.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (v) (d), (b) and (e). Yes.

(ii) The principal figures have been given in the reply to question No. 90 put by the honourable member for Lahore City (General Constituency). Government do not consider that they would be justified at this stage in attempting to collect the full details asked for in the question.

(iii) Yes. It has recently come to notice that a sum of Rs. 856-15-8 is still outstanding from the villagers, but it has been decided not to enforce recovery of this. Otherwise Government are not prepared after this lapse of time, to allow the matter to be re-opened or to make any kind of further inquiries.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

AUCTION OF "PRAN" AT VILLAGE BALLOHIWAL IN DISTRICT HOSHIARPUR.

1. Chaudhri Kartar Singh : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue please state—

(a) whether the district authorities have auctioned a piece of land called 'Pran' at village Ballohiwal in district Hoshiarpur.

(b) whether it is a fact that it was 'shamilat' land ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : Government has no information.

SECURITIES FROM NEWSPAPER PRINTERS AND PUBLISHERS.

2. Master Kabul Singh : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

(a) the names and the number of newspapers whose securities were confiscated during the year ending with 31st March 1937 ;

(b) whether it is a fact that from the printers and publishers of some newspapers, securities were demanded even before they were permitted to file their declarations ; if so, the number of such newspapers ;

(c) why such stringent measures were deemed necessary ;

(d) whether the Government intend changing their present policy ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Only one newspaper, namely, the Dukhi Kisan (Jullundur) ;

(b) Under the Indian Press (Emergency Powers) Act no security can be demanded from the printer of a newspaper. Initial securities under Section 7 (a) of the Act were demanded by the District Magistrates from 114 out of a total number of 516 prospective publishers of newspapers ;

(c) Action was taken by the District Magistrates after they were fully satisfied that the new ventures would be used for one or other of the purposes enumerated in Section 4 (1) of the aforesaid Act. Keeping in view the urgent necessity of maintaining communal harmony in the province, Government does not consider that the measures taken were stringent ;

[Premier.]

(d) In pursuance of its declared policy the Government is striving to eradicate communal bitterness and mistrust and will continue to take prompt and strict action against newspapers that embitter communal relations and excite communal passions.

KISAN AND OTHER WORKERS IN INTERNMENT.

3. Master Kabul Singh : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) the number and the names of Kisan and other workers in different districts who are interned in their own or some other villages ;
- (b) for how long they have been so interned ;
- (c) the offences for which they had been interned ;
- (d) for how long Government proposes to keep them so interned ;
- (e) whether there is any proposal before Government regarding the removal of their restrictions ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a), (b) and (d) Fourteen persons are restricted to their home villages. It is not in the public interest to give particulars.

(c) For having acted in a manner prejudicial to the public safety and peace, or in furtherance of a movement prejudicial to the public safety and peace.

(e) No, but each case is frequently reviewed.

LEADERS AND POLITICAL WORKERS WHO ARE NOT ALLOWED TO SPEAK IN PUBLIC MEETINGS.

4. Master Kabul Singh : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) the number and the names of political workers and other public leaders in different districts, who have been served with notices preventing them from speaking in public meetings ;
- (b) the reasons for which they were deprived of their liberty of speech ;
- (c) whether the Government proposes to remove such restrictions as are imposed upon them at present?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander-Hyat Khan : (a) Three persons were served with notices preventing them from speaking in public, and nineteen persons have been restricted in their movements and have been forbidden to participate in public meetings. It would not be in the public interest to divulge the names of these persons.

(b) For having acted in a manner prejudicial to the public safety and peace, or in furtherance of a movement prejudicial to the public safety and peace.

(c) No, but the cases of these persons are examined by Government periodically to consider the question of removal of restrictions.

RELEASE OF POLITICAL PRISONERS.

5. Master Kabul Singh : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) the names and the number of people convicted on account of political offences during the year ending with March 31st, 1937 ;
- (b) whether the Government intends to release such and other political prisoners ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : If the honourable member will inform me what he means by 'political offences' and 'political prisoners,' I will endeavour to have the information collected.

COMRADE GURMUKH SINGH.

6. Master Kabul Singh : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) why one Gurmukh Singh, a political prisoner, was sent to the Andamans summarily ;
- (b) why the Government while deporting him did not deem it fit to take into consideration his very bad state of health ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) This prisoner, who is serving a sentence of transportation for life, has twice escaped from custody. On the second occasion he succeeded in remaining at large for over thirteen years, and on his re-capture it was decided to remove him to the Cellular Jail at Port Blair.

(b) The prisoner was examined by a medical board, who found him fit for deportation to the Andamans.

POLITICAL WORKERS WHO ARE ACCOMPANIED OR SHADOWED BY POLICE.

7. Master Kabul Singh : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state the number of political workers whose movements are constantly watched by policemen ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Only those persons engaged in subversive activities are watched by the Police.

WATER LEVEL IN DOABA BIST, JULLUNDUR.

8. Master Kabul Singh : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the water level in the wells in Doaba Bist, Jullundur, is sinking and thereby causing shortage of water supply to the zamindars of the said doaba ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) above be in the affirmative, what steps Government proposes to take to remove the above-mentioned complaint ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : The attention of the honourable member is invited to the answer given to question No. *63¹ asked by Sardar Hari Singh during this session.

BEGAR FROM VILLAGERS.

9. Master Kabul Singh : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that village and other officials still continue with the practice of begar from Harijans and peasants ;
- (b) if so, what steps are being taken to prevent these officials from exacting forced labour from the villagers ;
- (c) whether they have passed any orders either to prohibit begar or to stipulate proper and adequate wages for work for which ordinarily begar is exacted ;
- (d) whether he will place those orders, if any, on the table of the House ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) As stated above no begar is taken but when coolies are required for work they are paid wages for which orders do exist.

(d) A copy of the orders is placed on the table.

PROCLAMATION.

To all Zamindars, Shop-keepers and Kamins in the villages of the Punjab.

Whereas a practice prevails by which servants of the Sarkar on tour sometimes get supplies gratis or employ people to cut wood or grass for them or carry in supplies for them without paying their wages : Be it known to you that His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor has absolutely forbidden this, and has directed that any servant of the Sarkar doing any such thing shall be severely dealt with. Whenever it is necessary to collect supplies for any Government servant going on tour the Tahsildar will advance money to some one who will pay cash to any person delivering the supplies to him at the moment of delivery, and will pay wages for any work done in cutting wood or grass or carrying in supplies to a camp directly such work is done. Payment will be made at the rates entered in a nirkhnama or table of rates with the seal of the tahsil affixed, which will be produced at the time of payment. If any one calls upon you to give supplies for a servant of the Sarkar without being at once paid for them or to work without wages in cutting wood or grass for such servant or bringing in supplies for him, you should refuse to comply with his request. You need not fear his anger. This proclamation will be as a sanad for you, and the Sarkar will protect you.

Further, no person can be compelled to lend his charpais or razais or other such things for the use of a Government servant on tour.

Press Communiqué.

It was announced in a Press Communiqué, dated the 13th August, 1920, that the question of improving arrangements for the supply of commodities to touring officers was receiving the attention of Government. It has now been decided to institute a system of salaried contractors with effect from the next financial year for the supply of all such requirements as flour, ghee, condiments, rice, dal, milk, eggs, fowls, fuel, grass and gharras.

The Deputy Commissioner will publish a list of the places in each tahsil at which arrangements for supplies through these contractors can be made. These will, as far as possible, be accessible places where bungalows exist or are contemplated or important villages which officers will commonly wish to inspect and where it is easy to make arrangements for supplies. Touring officers will ordinarily camp at these places, except when it is absolutely necessary in the interests of work to go elsewhere. Wherever a contractor is appointed he will make his own arrangements for the collection and transport of supplies and no assistance will be given him in this matter by the tahsil. Officers touring in a contractor's area will be expected to deal solely with that contractor. Where it is inevitable for an officer to spend the night at a place other than an approved centre, he will make his own arrangements with the contractor for supplies at an approved centre and arrange for the payment of the cost of transporting them to the place where he finds it necessary to stay. Reasonable notice will be given by touring officers to the Deputy Commissioner or direct to the contractor of their intended tours and of the approximate size of their camps. It is not intended to discourage the practice of touring, which has great advantages to the public, by providing a ready means of revealing their wants. At the same time officers will be required, consistent with the efficient discharge of their duties, to keep their camps as small as convenient. The contractors will provide supplies at the current market rates which are ascertainable through the tahsil, and it will be the duty of officers before leaving camp to see that their followers have paid in full for all supplies received. As regards conveyance there is not much difficulty in the western Punjab and in parts of the south-west where camels can be hired. But where camp luggage is carried in carts, the conveyance will be changed from stage to stage as at present. Rates of daily or monthly hire for different parts of the district will be fixed by the Deputy Commissioner annually in consultation with a small unofficial Advisory Committee and will be such as are readily accepted in the open market and are readily adjustable to changing conditions. These rates will be notified by the Deputy Commissioners to every Department concerned and also to all zaildars and to the headmen of villages concerned.

LARORE :

Dated 24th January, 1921. }

R. T. V. HOWE,

Junior Assistant Secretary to Government, Punjab.

Notice to Zaildars and Inamdars.

The Government has ordered that salaried contractors should be appointed to facilitate the supply of commodities to Government officers on tour and the Legislative Council has sanctioned a sum of money to meet the cost of appointing such contractors. The arrangements are as follows:—

- (1) The contractor will supply all such requirements as flour, ghee, condiments, rice, dal, milk, eggs, fowls, fuel, grass and gharas within such area as may be laid down by the Deputy Commissioner.
- (2) The Deputy Commissioner will publish a list of the places in each tahsil at which arrangements for supplies through these contractors can be made.
- (3) Contractors will make their own arrangements for the collection and transport of supplies and these will no longer be provided through the agency of the tahsil.
- (4) The above arrangements will not be obligatory in the case of camps of which the total number, including the transport men and private servants of the officer, do not exceed 16: but in the case of such camps also the existing orders regarding payment for all supplies from whomsoever obtained must be scrupulously observed.
- (5) It is also open to the Commissioner to sanction the exclusion from the above arrangements of any special areas where the arrangements cannot be suitably applied.

Copy of a letter No. 25226 (Rev.—Genl.), dated the 18th October, 1921, from D. J. Boyd, Esquire, I.C.S., Revenue Secretary to Government, Punjab, to (1) The Senior Secretary to the Financial Commissioners, Punjab; (2) The Secretary to Government, Punjab, Public Works Department, Irrigation Branch; (3) The Secretary to Government, Punjab, Public Works Department, Buildings and Roads Branch; (4) The Inspector-General of Police, Punjab; (5) The Director of Agriculture, Punjab; (6) The Director of Industries, Punjab; (7) All Commissioners of Divisions and Deputy Commissioners in the Punjab.

I am directed to forward a copy of a resolution of the Government of the United Provinces on the subject of the supplies, transport and labour required by touring officers as printed in The Pioneer of August 24, 1921.

2. The Punjab Government are disposed to think that the amount of touring at present prescribed by the rules applying to various departments might possibly be curtailed without any great loss of efficiency in order to save the villagers from the trouble and the expense incident to the tours of Government officials.

Accordingly I am to ask that you will kindly scrutinize the rules pertaining to your Department. It should be remembered that excessive touring involves an unnecessary expense to Government and the subjects should be considered from this point of view also.

3. With regard to the question of supplies, the Punjab Government have recently introduced a system of contractors, which will, it is hoped, be put into effective operation in the coming camping season. At the conclusion of this season a report will be called for from Commissioners with regard to the working of the system, and it will then be decided whether it should be continued, and if so, what improvements should be made. For the present the Punjab Government do not propose to issue any further instructions on the subject of supplies.

4. The Governor in Council is not disposed to adopt the solution of the labour problem which has commended itself to the committee appointed by the Government of the United Provinces, but he would impress upon all touring officers the necessity of seeing that labourers employed in pitching their tents, in guarding their camp, or on other duties connected with their tour, are adequately compensated, so that no reasonable ground of complaint may remain, and that willing service may be obtained.

5. The transport required for Civil Officers on tour cannot be legally impressed. The suggestion of the United Provinces committee that a roster of carts or camels should be kept is one that has long since been adopted in several districts of the Punjab. The Governor in Council would merely draw the attention of district officers to this suggestion and leave it to them to decide whether they should adopt it or not. Transport required for continuous touring should be engaged for a definite period and usually by the month. The practice which has sometimes existed of discharging transport before a halt of a few days and engaging fresh transport when a move is next made should be discontinued. In engaging transport an endeavour should be made to secure only such animals as are disengaged at the time and in no case should a carrier be compelled to discharge goods in courts of transit from one place to another in order to transport the baggage of a touring official.

As the rates of travelling allowance have recently been revised and substantially increased, the Punjab Government do not consider it necessary to abolish the distinction between transport required for official purposes and that required for the private needs of the officer and they would not alter the existing rules on the subject.

6. I am to ask that you will favour Government with a report as to the steps which can and should be taken to reduce unnecessary touring. Government will also consider any suggestions which you wish to make with regard to the supply of the labour required in connection with the camps of officers on tour or for removing the difficulties commonly experienced in securing voluntary transport.

STAGNANT WATER IN THE VICINITY OF VILLAGE BUNDALA AND SOME OTHER VILLAGES IN TAHSIL PHILLAUR.

10. Master Kabul Singh : Will the Honourable Minister of Education please state—

- (a) if it is a fact that the inhabitants of village Bundala in tahsil Phillaur as also a group of other villages in its neighbourhood acutely suffer from stagnant water;
- (b) whether the inhabitants of these villages have made representations to the Medical Officer of Health, the Deputy Commissioner and other local authorities urging upon them the necessity of removing the complaint mentioned in (a) above;
- (c) if the answer to (b) above be in the affirmative what steps have been taken in response to the representations mentioned in (b) above;
- (d) if the answer to (c) above be in the negative what steps Government propose to take in the matter?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haya : (a) There is a small lake (dhab) near village Bundala, which gets filled with water during rains and may then become a nuisance.

(b) and (c) Yes. The application of the villagers is under consideration with the District Board, Jullundur.

(d) Does not arise.

SARDAR DALIP SINGH, SARDAR HAZARA SINGH AND SANT THAKUR SINGH, CONVICTS OF THE BABAR AKALI CASES.

11. Master Kabul Singh : Will the Honourable Premier please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that among those who were convicted in the Babar Akali cases Sardar Dalip Singh suffers from acute tuberculosis and has been thrice X-rayed, Sardar Hazara Singh suffers from leprosy and Sant Thakur Singh has lost his eyesight.
- (b) if so, whether the Government is prepared to reconsider the question of releasing them ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) (i) Prisoner Dalip Singh.—There is no evidence of active tuberculosis. His weight on admission to jail was 113 lbs., on the 26th April, 1937, 114 lbs.

(ii) Prisoner Hazara Singh.—A copy of a letter by the Inspector-General of Prisons is laid in the table, containing a detailed report on the health of this prisoner.

(iii) Prisoner Sant Thakur Singh.—He is reported to be suffering from glaucomatous cataract of both eyes and is a patient in hospital.

(b) As regards Dalip Singh and Hazara Singh the answer is in the negative. The case of Sant Thakur Singh is at present under consideration in the ordinary course.

368-C.

Copy of a letter No. ———, dated Lahore, the 21st April, 1937, from the Inspector-General of Prisons, Punjab, to the Home Secretary to Government, Punjab.

SPECTOR-GENERAL OF PRISONS, PUNJAB, TO THE HOME SECRETARY TO GOVERNMENT, PUNJAB.

SUBJECT.—State of health of prisoner Hazara Singh, son of Inder Singh.

In returning herewith the enclosures to your endorsement No. 710-J.P. 37/14847, dated the 12th of April, 1937, I have the honour to inform you that the Superintendent, District Jail, Mianwali, reports as below regarding the health of prisoner No. 7249, Hazara Singh, son of Inder Singh :—

- (1) Thickening of skin on part of the left forehead.
- (2) Thinning of the eye-brow hair.
- (3) Partially anaesthetic areas on the face.
- (4) Thickening of the ulner nerves.
- (5) Tingling sensation in fingers complained of.
- (6) No wound on body.
- (7) Weight 122 lbs., Height 5'—6'.
- (8) General health—Good.

RAI BAHADUR BISSESSUR LALL CHARITABLE TRUST, BHIWANI.

12. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that one Rai Bahadur Bissessur Lall, a wealthy citizen of Bhiwani, created a charitable trust by his last will, dated 16th July, 1925, and left property worth about 70 lakhs of rupees for charitable purposes and laid down in the will that the major portion of the bequest be spent for the benefit of the inhabitants of Bhiwani, district Hissar, Punjab ;

[Pandit Shri Ram Sharma.]

- (b) whether it is a fact that complaints of offences of criminal breach of trust, etc., were filed by one Mr. K. A. Desai of Bhiwani against the trustees of the said charitable trust at the police station, Bhiwani city, case No. 58 of 1933 and as a result thereof two of the trustees, namely, Sri Kissen Beriwalla and Nand Kishore Bansal were arrested and challened by the Calcutta Police D. D.;
- (c) whether it is a fact that during the investigation of the alleged criminal offences (case No. 58 of 1933) by the Criminal Investigation Department, Punjab, Inspector Munshi Ram reported to the Assistant Inspector-General, Criminal Investigation Department, Punjab, in his report that there were proved cases of offences under sections 409 and 120-B, Indian Penal Code, and sought orders for the arrest of the trustees;
- (d) if the answer to (c) above be in the affirmative, whether he will place on the table the said report of Inspector Munshi Ram;
- (e) whether it is also a fact that in spite of there being such a report and sufficient proof of embezzlement of a public charitable trust money no arrests were made and the cases were filed as "untraced" by the Punjab Police;
- (f) if the answer to (c) above be in the affirmative, why on that report and the evidence in support of it the said cases were not proceeded with;
- (g) whether Government proposes to start the cases;
- (h) if not, reasons for the same?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikender Hyat-Khan : (a) to (h) The honourable member is invited to refer to the reply given to question No. *21¹ asked by Lala Duni Chand on the 17th June, 1937.

13. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue kindly state—

- (a) whether the Canal Department is selling its dak bungalows situated in various districts of the province;
- (b) whether the Canal Department intend to sell the dak bungalow situated on the left bank of the Lahore Canal near the Cantonment Bridge; if so, when;
- (c) the rent that the officers who occupy this bunaglow pay to the Department;
- (d) the estimated price of the land and the houses built in the compound of this bungalow and the percentage of the rent to the estimated price of the land and the building?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes. Certain rest houses which are no longer required by the Irrigation Branch and the Departments of Government or by District Boards are being sold.

(b) No.

(c) Officers on duty pay no rent.

Officers not on duty pay Re. 1 per head per day.

(d) The book value is—

WASTE LAND ON THE LEFT SIDE OF THE LAHORE CANAL NEAR LAHORE-MULTAN RAILWAY BRIDGE.

14. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue kindly state—

(a) if it is a fact that there lies in Lahore a large tract of waste land belonging to the Irrigation Department, on the left side of the canal, near the Lahore-Multan Railway bridge ;

(b) whether this land is of any use to the Department, and whether at one time there was a proposal to sell it by public auction ;

(c) if so, why it was not sold ;

(d) whether the Government intends to sell this waste land now ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes ; only about 8 acres.

(b) No ; not at present. Its sale has been considered from time to time.

(c) and (d) As prices in the vicinity are rising Government does not consider it is advantageous to sell it at present.

BRIDGE OVER THE LAHORE CANAL NEAR LAHORE-MULTAN RAILWAY BRIDGE.

15. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue kindly state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Irrigation Department tried to sell the land on the left side of the Lahore Canal near Lahore-Multan Railway bridge ;

[Pandit Shri Ram Sharma.]

- (b) whether a suggestion was made that it could fetch better price if a bridge was built over the canal to make it easily accessible ;
- (c) if so, the reasons for not carrying out that suggestion ;
- (d) the cost of such a bridge and the increase which will be effected in the price of this land by its construction ;
- (e) if the price of the bridge be prohibitive, the reasons for not throwing open the road along the left bank of the canal near this land to wheeled-traffic just as the right bank road is open to such a traffic ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) No.

(b) Yes.

(c) and (d) It is only a matter of opinion. No detailed estimate has been made out for such a bridge. Any increase in the value of the land is a matter of conjecture.

(e) It cannot be said whether the cost of the bridge is prohibitive or not, as no detailed estimate has been prepared. It is not proposed to throw Government land open to traffic as the provision of roads is the concern of the local Municipal Authority.

FORFEITURE OF PENSIONS, ETC.

16. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable the Premier please state—

- (a) the number of ex-soldiers, districtwise, whose pensions were forfeited in connexion with the Akali, Congress and allied movements ;
- (b) the total amount of pensions so forfeited per annum ;
- (c) the details of the property confiscated in connexion with the Congress, Akali and allied movements since 1914, in the form of a statement, showing owners, kind and amount of property, valuation and the cause of confiscation in each case ;
- (d) the total amount of fines realized by the Government from the Congress, Akali and allied convicts, and also the total of fines realized by way of punitive tax from villages where punitive police was posted for political reasons ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) and (b) Military pensions are primarily the concern of the Central Government and questions on this subject cannot be answered in the provincial legislature.

(c) and (d) The question is vaguely worded, the phrase " allied movements " being indefinite. Apart from this, it would not be possible for Government to collect information covering a period of more than twenty years without an expenditure of time and labour out of proportion to the result.

TAN-RIDES ALONG THE LAHORE CANAL.

17. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that some portions of the road along the left bank of the Upper Bari Doab Canal that passes through Lahore are reserved for horse-riding ;
- (b) the department which pays for maintaining these portions and the cost of its maintenance ;
- (c) if answers to (a) above be in the affirmative, since when these portions of the left bank road of the canal have been turned into tan-rides ;
- (d) whether any Indian public body demanded the turning of this public property into a preserve for horse-riders ;
- (e) whether the horse-riders pay anything for the use of the canal bank road ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes.

(b) The Public Works Department, Buildings and Roads Branch, up to April, 1937, and Irrigation Branch from April, 1927. The average annual cost of maintenance is Rs. 2,681.

(c) The tan-ride between Moghalpora and Jail Road crossing was put down in the year 1918 and from Jail Road to the Ferozepore Road crossing subsequently, exact date not being traceable.

(d) Not as far as Government is aware, but it may be stated that it is probable that more Indian than European riders use the ride.

(e) No.

ENCROACHMENTS ON VILLAGE PRIVATE ROADS.

18. Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Has the attention of the Honourable Minister of Revenue been invited to the fact that in spite of the amendment of rule 20 (vi) of the Land Revenue Act such hardship is now experienced by the rural public, because of encroachments on village roads; if so, what action is intended to be taken in the matter ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : No definite cases of hardship have been brought to notice and Government consider that no change is necessary in the existing rules which, if effectively used, are sufficient to deal with the problem.

SHAMILAT LANDS IN VILLAGES.

19. Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Has the attention of the Honourable Minister for Revenue been invited to the fact that much difficulty is experienced in villages, where shamilat lands are not available, for locating manure and filth pits, etc., outside the village abadi ; if so, what action is intended to be taken to remove this difficulty ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : The difficulty exists in many villages, particularly in places where pressure on the soil is great, but the provision of manure pits is a matter of internal arrangement for each village to undertake for itself and Government are rarely in a position to provide land for such purposes. One way of overcoming the difficulty is for villages to consolidate their holdings, because when this is done land can be reserved round the abadi for manure pits and other community purposes. Another way is for the village panchayat to lease land near the abadi for manure pits and to pay the rent out of the village common fund or by taking a share of the manure.

WADH-WATER AND ASSESSMENT OF ABIANA.

20. Mir Maqbool Mahmood : (a) Is the Honourable Minister of Revenue aware of the fact that much hardship is experienced by the rural population because of the vague and indefinite rules for assessing water-rates in the rural area where "wadh water" may have been used ;

(b) if so, whether he intends publishing detailed and clear instructions on the subject for the guidance of the officers as well as of the public ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) The answer is in the negative.

(b) Wadh wattar rates are levied nowhere except on the non-perennial channels of the Sutlej Valley Canals.

Rules governing such levy are given in Irrigation Branch notification No. 8283-Rev., dated the 19th February, 1932, laid on the table :—

The Irrigation Branch notification No. 0593-R.L., dated the 22nd August, 1929, is hereby cancelled.

A. MURPHY,

Secretary to Government, Punjab, Public Works Department, Irrigation Branch.

ROADS.

21. Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works be pleased to state—

- what conditions govern the grants to district boards for the reconditioning of roads ;
- what provision is made, or is intended to be made, for these grants ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) Government decides each case according to the merits of each case and the funds available.

(b) No grant was given for reconditioning of roads in 1936-37, but during 1937-38 about Rs. 3,00,000 have been granted from the Central Road Fund.

CONSTRUCTION OF A SWIMMING TAN : IN NAZUL LANDS.

22. Chaudhri Muhammad Hasan Khan : Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works be pleased to state—

- whether he is aware of a resolution recently passed by the Ludhiana District Board, approving of the construction of a swimming tank on the Rakh Nazul lands ;
- when and under what conditions the said Rakh Nazul lands were made over to the Ludhiana District Board ;
- whether it is a fact that the said swimming tank is to be named as Nanak Singh Swimming Tank ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) Yes. It is to be paid for out of the King George Memorial Fund.

- It is regretted that the required information is not available.
- No.

ZAMINDARS SETTLED DOWN ON THE BANK OF THE BEAS.

23. Mian Badar-Mohy-ud-Din Qadri : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the zamindars settled down on the bank of the river Beas in the Gurdaspur district are, on account of the annual floods, getting poorer and poorer every year ; if so, what action is proposed to be taken to ameliorate their condition ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : It is true that the villages on the bank of the river Beas in the Gurdaspur district suffer occasionally from flood, but it is not correct to describe these floods as annual, nor is any progressive deterioration in the condition of the villages as a whole taking place. They are in no worse condition than the villages on the banks of other rivers.

NEW APPOINTMENTS MADE AFTER 1ST APRIL, 1937.

24. Syed Amjad Ali Shah : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to lay on the table a list showing new appointments made in the Punjab since Government of India Act, 1935, has come into force ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat Khan : If the honourable member will kindly state whether he requires a list of new entrants to previously existing posts or a list of posts newly created, I will endeavour to procure the information he desires. In order to limit the scope of the enquiry, I suggest that he should exclude officiating appointments and appointments of inferior staff.

KACHA AND PACCA ROADS.

25. Syed Amjad Ali Shah : Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works please state whether there is a proposal to make pucca the Public Works Department kacha road leading from the other side of Harika Pattan to Kot Isa Khan of tahsil Zira ; if so, when ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : Such a proposal exists but it is unlikely that it will materialise in the near future.

MATTEWARA BEIT AND SHEHNA RURAL DISPENSARIES.

26. Chaudhri Muhammad Hasan Khan : Will the Honourable Minister of Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Ludhiana District Board has recently passed a resolution for closing the Mattewara Beit rural dispensary ;
- (b) the total number of patients who attended the Mattewara rural dispensary in the years 1935 and 1936 and also the total number of patients who attended the Shehna rural dispensary during the same period ;
- (c) the amount of annual expenditure separately that is incurred by the said board on each of the above-mentioned dispensaries ;

- (d) whether it is a fact that at the time when the resolution for closing the Mattewara dispensary was passed in the District Board meeting the circle member representing the constituency concerned was not present ;
- (e) the amount of expenditure incurred on the construction of a building for the Shehna rural dispensary ;
- (f) the number of visits the Chairman of the District Board paid to the Mattewara dispensary and also the number of visits by the Civil Surgeon and District Medical Officer of Health paid to the said dispensary ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : (a) Yes, the civil dispensary at Mattewara was closed with effect from the 1st April, 1937, as the people of the ilaqa had not fulfilled their promise of providing suitable buildings for the dispensary and quarters for the staff and the District Board, Ludhiana, had no funds to maintain it.

(f) No visit was paid by the Chairman, District Board, Ludhiana, to the dispensary in question during the year 1935 and 1936. The Civil Surgeon, Ludhiana, paid two visits in 1935 and one in 1936. The District Medical Officer of Health could not visit the dispensary as it was not a rural institution.

DAMAGE BY HAILSTORM.

27. Chaudhri Muhammad Hasan Khan : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that considerable area in the Ludhiana district has been affected by the recent hailstorm and at some places notably in ilaqa Bet crops have been completely damaged ;
- (b) the number and the names of the villages affected and visited by the Collector himself and the Commissioner immediately after the hailstorm to ascertain the amount of damage done by the hailstorm ;
- (c) whether Silver Jubilee funds have ever been utilized for affording relief to the people whose crops may have been completely damaged in the Ludhiana district ;
- (d) the names of the villages where reduction in the land revenue by the Collector has been recommended and also the names of the persons who have been recommended for being given immediate relief by way of reduction in land revenue ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Damage has been caused by hailstorm in 7 villages in the Bet ilaqa and 85 villages in the rest of the Ludhiana tahsil of the district. The crops of only one village Sasrali in the Bet ilaqa were completely destroyed.

(b) Out of the 42 villages affected the Collector visited 16 villages :—

Dehlon, Saya Khurd, Saya Kalan, Kaind, Bul, Shankar, Rangian, Raipur, Ghawaddi, Jarkhar, Khanpur, Khakhat, Pawa, Jogiana, Dhandhari Khurd and Dhandhari Kalan, and the Commissioner, Jullundur division, 13 villages :—

Kaind, Saya Khurd, Saya Kalan, Bul, Shankar, Ghawaddi, Jarkhar, Khanpur, Khakhat, Pawa, Jogiana, Dhandhari Khurd and Dhandhari Kalan.

(c) No.

(d) It is against constitutional practice to disclose recommendations of this kind made by a subordinate to a superior authority.

DISPENSARIES IN ILAQA BET.

28. Chaudhri Muhammad Hasan Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether he is aware that the general health of the residents of the Ludhiana district, Bet ilaqa, is poor and that facilities for medical treatment have not been sufficiently provided to them by the Government ;

(b) whether it is a fact that only a small number of dispensaries have been opened in the poor and backward ilaqa Bet in the Ludhiana district by the Government during the last ten years ;

(c) if so, what measures Government propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : (a) It is true that the Bet ilaqa is reported to be a malarial tract. The District Board is responsible for providing medical relief in rural areas.

(b) There are four dispensaries in the ilaqa.

(c) Attention of the District Board will be drawn to the needs of the Bet ilaqa in this matter.

ADDITIONAL POLICE IN CERTAIN VILLAGES IN AMRITSAR DISTRICT.

29. Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to lay on the table a statement :—

(a) showing the names of villages in the Amritsar district in which additional police force was quartered between the year 1919 and 1935 ;

- (b) the period for which the police force remained quartered at each of these villages ;
- (c) the date of its location in and withdrawal from each such village ;
- (d) the annual estimated costs of the force to be recovered from the inhabitants of each such village ;
- (e) the actual amount of costs recovered from the inhabitants of each such village ; and
- (f) the annual sanctioned strength of the police force for each of these additional police posts ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : A statement is appended.

ADDITIONAL POLICE IN LAHORE DISTRICT.

30. Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing —

- (a) the names of the villages in Lahore and Chunian tahsils, district Lahore, in which additional police force was quartered between the years 1916—1935 ;
- (b) the period for which this police force remained quartered in each of these villages ;
- (c) the date of its arrival in and withdrawal from each such village ;
- (d) the annual total estimated costs of each police post ;
- (e) the total actual amount recovered from the inhabitants of each such village every year ;
- (f) the annual sanctioned strength of the police force for each of the above-mentioned police posts ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : A statement is attached.

ADJOURNMENT MOTIONS.

PREMIER'S STATEMENT ON THE CONSTITUTIONAL POSITION.

Sardar Hari Singh (Kangra and Northern Hoshiarpur, Sikh, Rural) :
Sir, I beg—

That leave be granted to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the utterance of the Premier of the Punjab on the constitutional position in his reply to the address presented to him by the Khatri deputation on 18th May last at Simla.

Mr. Speaker : The motion is out of order, inasmuch as it does not satisfy, among others, the important condition of urgency.
12 NOON. Para 2 (b), p. 133 of Campion's book runs as follows :—

The matter upon which the motion for adjournment is based must require the immediate attention of the House and the Government, and not be postponable until an opportunity is provided by Supply, etc.

The subject matter of this motion can be discussed in the course of general discussion on the budget or when demands for grants are considered. Therefore, I do not consider it urgent.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Would you be prepared to hear an argument in regard to the admissibility of this particular motion, before you give your ruling ?

Mr. Speaker : I have already given my ruling. I will not hear any arguments. Hitherto I have been ruling out such motions without giving any reasons, but from to-day I am starting the practice that when I rule out a motion I should give reasons.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I draw your attention to the fact that although there is no law as you say, there is a definite convention, which is accepted in all legislatures, that when the Speaker wishes to give any reasons for ruling out a particular motion as out of order he should give an opportunity to those members who consider that the motion is in order to place their case, before a final decision is given in the matter.

Mr. Speaker : I also have done this occasionally but the quotation I have given from Campion's book is so clear that no further discussion is necessary.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I ask which rule you were referring to ? (Voices, order, order). I will not yield to the honourable members who cry 'Order, order'. I am asking on a point of information. Let the House know what rule of procedure you are following.

Mr. Speaker : I have quoted para 2 (b), page 133 of 'Campion's book.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I draw your attention to the fact that 'Campion' is not applicable to this House ? (Voices, order, order.)

Mr. Speaker : I have been always following the parliamentary practice when it is not inconsistent with our rules.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I, with your permission, draw your attention to definite rules regarding adjournment motions, which are before you ?

Mr. Speaker : According to these rules one of the requisite conditions is urgency. I have quoted Campion to show what urgency means.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Do we take it that your ruling is that it is not an urgent matter ?

Mr. Speaker : Yes.

Diwan Chaman Lall : On what grounds ?

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member may refer to the authority quoted by me.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I draw your attention to the fact that the question of urgency is a question of fact ; it is not a question of law. The question of urgency arises when a matter of public importance comes before the House.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : I would like a definite ruling from you as to whether, after the Chair has given a ruling in very definite words, it is open to any honourable member of the House to enter into arguments, to ask for an authority and to question it. If not, is the honourable member in order in asking these questions ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I refer to 'Campion' once more because this matter is of very great urgency and I want your consideration—(Interruptions).

Premier The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I hope it will save the time of the House if I am allowed to make a few observations with regard to this adjournment motion. If the Leader of the Opposition considers it necessary or desirable that the subject matter of this adjournment motion should be discussed (not as an adjournment motion) on the floor of the House, I will be glad to provide time for its discussion. I am not prepared to agree to a convention that I should give similar facility at the request of an individual member whether he may have a following or not. In regard to this particular motion which relates to my speech, I would certainly have extended that facility even to the honourable mover opposite, if his adjournment motion also had been temperately worded and couched in parliamentary language. Since it is not, I regret, I am not in a position to offer him the same facility. If the Leader of the Opposition wants time, I shall be glad to accommodate him and give time for discussion of the motion on a Government day.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : In view of the fact that the Honourable the Leader of the House has agreed to discuss this adjournment motion—

Premier : Not the adjournment motion but to discuss the subject matter of the adjournment motion. If the Honourable Leader of the Opposition wishes I am prepared to give time.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : There are other adjournment motions on the same subject, which are temperately worded.

Premier : The adjournment motion has been ruled out of order. Therefore, I suggest that if the Leader of the Opposition wants time I am prepared to provide it.

LATHI CHARGE ON KHALSA COLLEGE STUDENTS.

Mr. Speaker : The motions¹ that come next relate to lathi charge on Khalsa College students. They also are out of order for the same reason, that is, they can be discussed otherwise.

As to whether Diwan Chaman Lall's motion² can be moved or not, I have already given my ruling. But there is one thing to which I venture to invite the honourable members' attention. This Assembly being a responsible body, it is highly desirable that, consistently with its dignity, its honourable members should always use parliamentary language in their questions, motions and speeches. The language used by the honourable Diwan Chaman Lall, I think, is unparliamentary. Strictly speaking, it may not be exceptionable, but I think it is not the language which should have been used by the honourable member about the Premier of the Assembly. He could easily have couched his motion, as other gentlemen have done, for instance, Sardar Hari Singh, in a happy language. I hope he will bear my suggestion in mind and maintain the dignity of the House by raising the tone of his motions and speeches.

I take this opportunity to request the honourable members not to send their questions and resolutions to the Press before they are allowed or admitted by the Speaker. There is no rule or law which is against their doing so ; but let us start a wholesome convention of sending to the Press only such questions and resolutions as are passed by me. This is the practice of the mother of parliaments. Certain people simply for the sake of playing to the gallery frame defamatory motions or resolutions and questions and publish them in the Press, though they may be ultimately rejected by me. So I earnestly request and hope that the honourable members will very kindly follow my suggestion.

¹Sardar Kartar Singh : That leave be granted to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the conduct of the police in making a lathi charge on the peaceful students of the Khalsa College, Amritsar, and two honourable members of this House when they were peacefully taking their stand inside the College premises on 19th May, 1937.

Sardar Hari Singh : That leave be granted to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the alleged conduct of the police in lathi charging and maltreating a number of students of the Khalsa College, Amritsar, and certain prominent on-lookers on 19th May last in front of and outside the College gate and the circumstances preceding and following the alleged trouble.

Sardar Kartar Singh : That leave be granted to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the house to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the objectionable language used by the sub-inspector of police towards the students of the Khalsa College, Amritsar, and other members of the public followed by unprovoked lathi charge on the 19th May, 1937, at Amritsar.

Sardar Partab Singh : That leave be granted to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the unprovoked lathi charges on the members of the public as well as on the students of the Khalsa College, Amritsar, on the 19th May, 1937, by a sub-inspector of police in the presence of Superintendent of Police, Amritsar, but without his orders.

²Diwan Chaman Lall : That leave be granted to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the speech delivered by the Honourable the Premier on the 18th of May 1937, which the House considers to be an irresponsible, reactionary and anti-national utterance and which appears to have been inspired by zeal to please and placate British authorities, being calculated further to prevent the people of the Punjab from achieving full responsible Government in the province.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I thank you for the courtesy that you have extended to me in permitting me to make a personal explanation. Howsoever much I might differ from you, and I do differ from you strongly in the view that you hold in regard to the desirability or feasibility of my being able to improve the language of my motion, nevertheless your rulings are inexorable in this House and I and other members have to submit to those rulings, but I want to make my position perfectly clear.

I did not know that the Leader of the House and of the Unionist Party was so sensitive to remarks being made regarding a political speech of his and not regarding his person, considering that he went out of his way to attack the great Indian National Congress in that speech with reference to which this motion was given. If my honourable friend will read the motion carefully, he will find that there is not one single word or any personal aspersion against him but only regarding his political statements and contains the comments that the Opposition is prepared to make here and outside this House regarding those political sentiments.

May I also, Mr. Speaker, say that as far as I am aware there is no member of the Opposition who has been in touch with the Press or has given any statement to the Press regarding any motion to be moved in the House. Perhaps, Mr. Speaker, you will have to look nearer home with regard to the information being given to the Press and not to me or any member of the Opposition whence these statements have been sent to the Press. But that does not detract from the fact that I would be the last person to make any personal attack against the Honourable Premier or against any other member of the House, but I do reserve to myself the right to make as virulent an attack as I can against the political creed of the Honourable Premier.

Premier (The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan) : I am grateful to the honourable member opposite for the small mercy he has thought fit to show by saying that he did not mean to make a personal attack on me but that his motion was merely an attack on my political creed or my political views. It is not for me to express an opinion on the wording of the adjournment motion which is before you. If I took objection to the wording of the adjournment motion it was not because I was personally concerned but because I consider that it is the duty of everyone of us to jealously safeguard the dignity and privileges of the members of this House, whether he is the Premier or a member of the Opposition. It is on that account that I entered a protest, not as Leader of this House or as Premier of this province, but as an ordinary member of this House. If we import Billingsgate language and atmosphere into our work the dignity and prestige of this House must inevitably suffer, and that is the last thing we should allow to happen. I hope the Opposition will agree with me that we should raise the prestige and dignity of this House to a level even higher than that attained by the previous Council. This is a responsible Assembly and I have no doubt that the honourable members will show in this matter as also in other matters due sense of responsibility. I do not take exception to the motion of the honourable member, representing South Labour constituency on personal grounds; it is for the honour, dignity and prestige of this august House that I appeal to all sections of this House to support me in keeping the level of debate high, and continue the good work started in the previous session and I earnestly hope that I shall receive unstinted support from my honourable friend the Leader of the Opposition and other members of this House.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Mr. Speaker, the Leader of the House has made an offer to me that he would give us time out of the Government business time to discuss this matter if we would like to do so on the floor of this House. Whilst obeying the Chair I think I am right when I say that the Opposition is within its rights to have this question discussed, but as you have ruled it out of order I am not going to press this point. I might also say that I shall be second to none in upholding the dignity of this House which I have the honour to belong to, but as far as you permit me to speak I shall also be justified in placing my point of view as far as the rights of the members of this House are concerned. I feel that if an honourable member moves a resolution or gives notice of a resolution or a motion, adjournment or otherwise, which is undignified, you should always overrule it and we shall obey your ruling, and obey it without protest, in this House. On the one side you were pleased to remark that the words in which Diwan Chaman Lall's adjournment motion was couched were not dignified, on the other we have been charged with a motive, and that not a good motive, that we are here without any sense of responsibility. It was suggested that we give notice of motions only to play to the gallery. My submission is that we are here with a full sense of responsibility. We have promised something to our electorate and we have to justify the confidence which has been reposed in us by their electing us to this House. When we come to this House we do not come here to carry on propaganda outside. We come here to protect the rights of the citizens and to get for them what we can at the present moment from this House. Therefore, I do not want this matter to be discussed and I do not want any time to be allotted for the discussion of this matter as a matter of favour.

Premier : I just want to say one word with reference to the concluding sentence of the speech of the honourable Leader of the Opposition. He said that he did not want the allotment of time for the discussion of the matter as a matter of favour. I may inform him that it is a convention in the British Parliament that if the Leader of the Opposition evinces a desire to discuss a specific and important matter of public interest and asks for time the Leader of the House invariably tries to accommodate him. It was on that analogy that I suggested that if my honourable friend the Leader of the Opposition wished to discuss the matter I would be prepared to accommodate him by finding time for it on a Government day.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : If that is the convention and if I feel that I want time to discuss any question I shall certainly approach the Leader of the House.

Malik Barkat Ali : May I make one submission ? You have been pleased to tell us, very rightly of course, that questions and resolutions which have not been considered by the Speaker should not appear in the Press. I understand that that is the convention of this House. But in the case of questions and resolutions which are disallowed by you, may we take it that there would be no breach of any convention if the fact that a certain question or a certain resolution has been disallowed by the Speaker is made public as well as the grounds of the disallowance ? I should like to hav_e your ruling on that particular point for this reason that, if you are going to admit that members can certainly publish resolutions and questions which have been disallowed, then, with all deference, I would request you to consider whether it matters in the least if the matter appears in the Press to-day before disallowance or to-morrow after disallowance. We must be governed by conventions in this respect, and if there are parliamentary conventions we must follow them. I should, therefore, like to have your guidance in this respect.

Mr. Speaker : As to questions and resolutions allowed by the Speaker there can be no objection if any honourable member wishes to send them to the Press. But as to questions and resolutions disallowed by the Speaker, their sending to the Press would amount to a vote of censure against the Speaker which, if necessary, should be moved in the House and not in the Press. If any honourable member is dissatisfied with my decision about his question, resolution, etc., I shall be only too glad to discuss it with him. He may come to me and I shall try to satisfy him that my decision is in accordance with rules. On the other hand, if I am convinced that my decision is wrong, I shall be only too glad to correct myself. But to send the disallowed questions and resolutions to the Press would only convey one-sided or ex-parte version to the public and that will not be fair to me. I am your representative and servant. I do not claim to be infallible. So if I commit any error you should come to me in the first instance. That is the right procedure. I do not think any honourable member has ever come across any newspapers in which the Speaker of the House of Commons has been criticised for disallowing questions or motions.

Malik Barkat Ali : You have been pleased to say that the publication of disallowed questions and resolutions amounts to a censure on the judgment of the Speaker. I respectfully submit that that cannot be so. You will be pleased to realise that the members of this House have got their duty to their constituents and the constituents should know why a certain resolution or a certain question has been disallowed. If we go to the Press to explain to our constituents why a certain question or resolution in which they are interested has been disallowed, I do not see why it should be construed as an expression of censure on your judgment. On the other hand, if your judgment is correct the public will only appreciate it.

Mr. Speaker : I wish we had such a public.

Malik Barkat Ali : I am sorry that you should have such a poor opinion of our public. However, all I am interested in saying is this that the publication of your disallowance of any question or resolution cannot by any manner or means be treated as a censure. On the other hand, if we are not to be allowed to go to the Press with such questions and resolutions, then it will be most unfair to us, for, then we will not be able to justify our existence to our constituents. I should, however, like to know whether there is any authority or precedent for your ruling.

Mr. Speaker : I have made my request to the honourable members in the hope that they will comply with it.

Malik Barkat Ali : Then, it is not a ruling.

RELEASE OF SARDAR TEJA SINGH SWATANTAR.

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh (Amritsar North, Sikh, Rural) : I beg to move—

That leave be granted to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the failure of the Government to release Sardar Teja Singh Swatantar, a state prisoner, who has recently been elected to this Assembly, which constitutes an attack on the privileges of the members of this House and deprives a large number of voters of their right to be represented in the Assembly.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I rise to a point of order. Before proceeding further with this motion I beg to solicit your ruling on some specific questions arising out of this adjournment motion. My first submission is that the debate on this question should be confined only to the matter of privilege and should not go into the circumstances which occasioned the detention of the honourable member under discussion. My second point is that it has been held by the Privy Council that when a legislature is created by a statute its privileges are limited to the statute creating it or to Acts made thereunder. Section 71 of the Government of India Act is clear. I should, therefore, like the honourable mover of the motion to specify which particular privilege mentioned in section 71 of the Government of India Act or any flowing from Act embodying the privileges of this House has been violated. The third point I wish to submit is that even if the Parliamentary convention is invoked, it has been ruled that if under the ordinary process of law a member is detained even without regular trial, it does not involve any privilege of the House. My fourth point is that no question of privilege of the House can arise when the House has no power to punish a breach of the privilege.

Mr. Speaker : Do all these points arise out of the adjournment motion ?

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Yes, Sir.

Mr. Speaker : What are your points ? Let me take them down.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : My first point is whether the debate is to be limited to the question of privilege or to go beyond it.

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order. Before leave has been granted how is it possible to raise all these points ?

Mr. Speaker : If I disallow the motion then these points will not arise.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I am in order in inviting your ruling on specific points before leave is granted.

Mr. Speaker : What is the second point ?

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Whether the privileges of this House go beyond the relevant sections of the Government of India Act and any legislation made thereunder.

Mr. Speaker : I wish the honourable member had given me previous notice of his points of order.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I thought I had done so. But I may not have been very specific.

Mr. Speaker : Not before half past ten. The Parliamentary practice is that every member who has to raise an important point order gives timely notice to the Speaker, so that he may come prepared. What is the next point ?

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : If ordinary processes of law are followed in criminal administration, does it involve any privileges of the House ? The fourth point is whether there is any privilege when the House has no right to punish its breach.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Now that the honourable member has exhausted his four points, I wish to draw your attention to the fact that during the discussion of the previous motions you were pleased not even to allow any member to speak in justification of the motion and I do submit that this procedure is rather extraordinary and when the honourable members opposite wish to object to a particular motion then permission is given to them to lay their case before you. I submit that in consonance with your previous ruling, you should not take into account any of the points raised by the honourable member until you have given leave.

Mr. Speaker : Is the honourable member making an indirect attack on the Chair ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : I am only pointing out the procedure adopted. When I specifically raised this point and wanted permission to place my arguments regarding the adjournment motion before you, you were pleased to remark that you had already ruled out the motion.

Mr. Speaker : A point of order can be raised any time.

Diwan Chaman Lall : It is a question of justification for a particular motion and until you have given your ruling whether you allow it or not, these points do not arise.

Mr. Speaker : I am going to ascertain certain facts from the mover and after that I will give my ruling. When was Sardar Teja Singh detained or interned and under what law ?

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh : Eight months ago, under Regulation III of 1818. There is also another fact and that is that he was returned to this Assembly unopposed.

Mr. Speaker : The point is whether the honourable member's motion is in order.

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh : It is a definite matter of urgent and public importance.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I want to mention one fact. An honourable member of the Central Assembly wrote to the Government of India that the question of release of Sardar Teja Singh should be considered by them and the reply received was that this matter related to the provincial Government and not the Central Government.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I take it that there is no objection on the part of the honourable members opposite to the acceptance of this motion. I take it that the objections raised by my honourable friend opposite relate to the scope of the motion and not to its admissibility.

Mr. Speaker : For the present I am concerned only with its admissibility.

Diwan Chaman Lall : The points raised by my honourable friend opposite relate not to the actual facts of admissibility but to the scope.

Mr. Speaker : I am not dealing with those points. All I want to know is whether the motion is in order. It is expressly based upon members' privilege and the question is whether under the law or practice in force the members of this Assembly have got that privilege. If they have that privilege, I shall gladly allow the motion, otherwise I shall have to disallow it. But disallowance would not mean that if any member wishes to discuss the matter, he cannot discuss it otherwise, say in discussing the budget or by moving a resolution. Now the only point is whether the members of this House have got the privilege of being released from detention for attending the meeting of the Assembly. I require light on that point.

Sardar Hari Singh : I want to give you a piece of information. I speak subject to correction, but I think that when on the election of Mr. Sarat Chandar Bose he was not allowed to attend the session of the Central Assembly, a similar motion was moved and was allowed. If we are to follow this precedent in the Central Assembly, we should be allowed to move this motion.

Mr. Speaker : I shall be very glad to do so, if I am satisfied.

Lala Duni Chand : I understand it is a violation of the Government of India Act itself not to allow a member who has been elected to attend a meeting of the Legislative Assembly. This right has been conferred on every member of this House who has been elected.

Mr. Speaker : I am not aware of any such provision in the Government of India Act, and, therefore, cannot agree with the honourable member. Suppose on the date of his election to the Assembly, a person is in jail, undergoing a sentence of imprisonment under criminal law ; or suppose after the date of his election, but before the meeting of the Assembly, he is convicted and sent to jail for 6 months, shall he be entitled to claim the privilege of being released for attending the meetings of the Assembly ?

Lala Duni Chand : If he had been convicted under a criminal law, he cannot go out of the four walls of the jail. He is confined there under a certain law. But when a certain privilege is conferred upon a certain member and the executive Government stand in the way of that gentleman doing his duty, the question is whether it is not a violation of the Government of India Act.

Mr. Speaker : What section of the Government of India Act is the honourable member relying upon ?

Lala Duni Chand : There is a section in the Government of India Act which lays down that members can be elected from constituencies and when elected they have a right to attend the meeting of the Legislative Assembly. I refer to that provision in the Government of India Act.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I want to say a few words before you deliver your ruling.

Mr. Speaker : The members of the Parliament, when arrested under the orders of a civil court, have the privilege of being released for attending the Parliament, but they do not enjoy that privilege if they are convicted under the criminal law. In India we have a third class of prisoners, i.e., detainees. I mean, political prisoners or internees. This class of persons, I speak subject to correction, does not exist in England.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : This class does exist even in England, under the Protection of Ireland Act.

Mr. Speaker : I think a political prisoner is more a criminal than a civil prisoner, and, therefore, cannot claim the privilege of release even in England.

Premier : May I quote from the speech of the Honourable Law Member of the Government of India ? He says :—

“ If we turn even to the privileges of the Houses of Parliament, there is the older rule that in cases of detention either under process in connection with criminal law, or even in cases where a man has been detained without any trial but legally detained under some statute, there is no breach of privilege. I will remind this Honourable House that if they will turn to May, they will find there are four cases of members who had been detained under an Act called the Protection of Ireland Act. In 1920, an Irish M. P. Mr. Joseph Macricle was detained under that Statute, the language of section 14 (b) of which is—

‘ The Secretary of State may by order require such a person to be forthwith interned in such place as may be specified in the order.’ ”

Similarly in three other cases three other members of Parliament were detained without trial and it was not considered to be a breach of the privileges of the House.

Mr. Speaker : I think the case is perfectly clear.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I draw your attention to the fact, Mr. Speaker, that it is regrettable that the real emphasis of this adjournment motion has been shifted on to something that is not applicable in this case. The real emphasis has been shifted on to a question of privilege, but the real emphasis in my opinion and in the opinion of members of the Opposition lies not in the question of privilege, but in the fact that the executive Government has taken a certain action which has resulted in a particular member returned to this House being made unable to sit in this House. It is in order to express our resentment on the action taken by the executive Government in not releasing this particular individual arrested not under any ordinary process of law but by extraordinary processes of law.

Mr. Speaker : Is release claimed as a matter of mercy or as a matter of right ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : By this motion we intend to censure the Government for not taking the action which they should have taken. This is a question of public importance and is a matter of grave public importance and of recent and urgent nature. We could only raise this matter to-day because since the last Assembly met this gentleman has been elected to this House. We could not raise it at an earlier moment. Therefore it is a matter of recent and urgent importance. Whether it is a question of public importance or not is clear from the fact that a member of this House who should be sitting here, has been taken away and imprisoned without any ordinary trial. I am not bringing in any question of privileges. I want to contend the action of the Government in taking executive action and in not bringing this gentleman before the ordinary law courts, and thus taking their stand on the evidence they have against him, but spiriting him away under extraordinary laws. We would not have raised this matter before you but for the fact that this honourable member has been arrested and imprisoned without the ordinary process of law (interruption from Government benches). This motion is, therefore, a censure motion on the Government on an urgent matter of public importance and of great importance to the country. It is, therefore, not a question of mere privileges and it should not be narrowed down to the consideration of the privileges of this House.

[Diwan Chaman Lall.]

Mr. Speaker : Was that law made by this Government ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : Not by this Government. It is Regulation III of 1818. The question is not whether they can. We say that morally they are bound to release this gentleman. It is not a question of legality (Interruption).

Malik Barkat Ali : May I also draw your attention to the fact that a similar motion was moved in the Central Legislature regarding the internment of Mr. Sarat Chandra Bose. It was allowed to be moved.

Mr. Speaker : Has the honourable member himself read the proceedings of the case to which he has referred ?

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : The motion was—

The conduct of the Government in preventing Mr. Sarat Chandra Bose, an elected member of this Assembly, from attending to his duties as a member of this House and thereby seriously infringing the privileges of this House and depriving the constituency which elected him of its right to be represented in this House.

It was limited to the question of privilege. The motion was allowed (hear, hear), but similar motions have been disallowed in the higher forum of the House of Commons.

Malik Barkat Ali : Mr. Speaker, as you have been pleased to make it clear, the privileges of this House have been embodied in the statute and I personally feel that to say that the non-release of Sardar Teja Singh Swatantar is an attack on the privileges of the members of this House, is not correct, but my humble submission to you is, suppose a wrong reasoning is introduced in the motion of adjournment, that should not stand in the way of the motion being taken up. That would be a reason for the House to throw the motion out but that would be no reason for the House not granting leave or for you not to allow. My submission is that, as I understand and read this motion of adjournment, the essence of this motion is discussion of the fact that a gentleman who has been in jail has since been legally elected by a constituency and the mover's intention is to emphasise that fact on the Government with a view that the Government may consider the desirability—not the legality—and the propriety of allowing a member, who though in jail has been elected, to attend this session.

Mr. Speaker : Does the honourable member mean that every detenué, who may be elected to the Assembly, should be released ?

Malik Barkat Ali : My submission is that at present you are considering the question merely of disallowance. It is not a question of whether the motion should be accepted or not. I am only speaking on the question of allowance of the motion.

Premier : I think the debate should be confined to a discussion of the question whether it constitutes a breach of the privileges of this House.

Malik Barkat Ali : I have made my position clear that it is not a breach of the statutory privileges of this House and there are no other non-statutory privileges that we know of, that can be said to have been violated. The wrong reasoning in the motion does not matter, and without adapting that reasoning, therefore, I still request the Treasury benches to consider the propriety of this matter being discussed.

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia : A point of order was raised by the member on the other side.

Mr. Speaker : But it was no point of order.

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia : The question before the House is not with regard to the privileges of members now discussing the matters but with regard to the privilege of the member who is detained. That is the point. The portion that has been read by the honourable member on the other side clearly shows that in the Central Assembly the matter was allowed because it concerned the privilege of the member who was under detention and not the privilege of the member who was going to discuss. So, in this case also, it is a matter of great public importance because we have to discuss with regard to the ordinary privilege of the member who is under detention and the House is meeting for the first time after he has been elected. I submit that detention is altogether different from conviction and the question does not arise whether the House is privileged to discuss every case where a member is either imprisoned or is convicted. That is a different question. The question that a member of the House was convicted and imprisoned before the election took place or had been imprisoned many years before, does not deprive this House of the right of discussion. The question since when he was detained is not before the House. What we are concerned with is that his detention should not be continued under the present circumstances when he has been elected and also because detention is not a conviction. Therefore this is not a matter which has been decided either by the court or is a matter which debars us because it is sub-judice—so the House has got full liberty and section 71 of the Government of India Act does not deprive this House of the privilege to discuss the matter because it is of great urgency and has arisen at a time when this House was not in session. Therefore, my submission is that the discussion should be permitted because in this case there is no disability placed upon this House to proceed with the matter.

Premier : As regards urgency may I point out that this gentleman was in detention when the House met in April last. Therefore so far as the question of detention is concerned, if it has any urgency, it had urgency then, and the motion should have been moved in the previous session. I, therefore, submit that the only question to which this debate or motion can be confined is whether there has been a breach of privilege of this House or not. If the honourable members are prepared to confine the discussion to that point, I will have no objection.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Had he been elected at the time of last election ?

Premier : No.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : This question could be looked at from another point of view. The honourable member who has been elected was under detention, but the question is whether the Government is debarred from allowing him time to attend the session of the Assembly. If the Government has got that authority to allow a person to go out of detention and do certain business, certainly we are entitled to discuss whether certain action taken or refused to be taken was proper.

Mr. Speaker : An ordinary resolution can be moved that the man may be released.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : The question is—

Mr. Speaker : The point is whether the mover has the right to move an adjournment motion for the release of a political internee. If he is moving it on the ground of privilege, it is out of order. But if he is moving it on any other ground then he cannot move it as an adjournment motion.

Diwan Chaman Lall : There is a precedent. On the 22nd January 1935, a similar motion was moved in the Central Legislature and I would like to put before you the phraseology of that motion and would also like you to consider it. I will read it to you. You will find that almost the same phraseology is used—

1 P. M.

The conduct of the Government in preventing Mr. Sarat Chandra Bose, an elected member of this Assembly, from attending to his duties as a member of this House and thereby seriously infringing the privileges of this House and depriving the constituency which elected him of its right to be represented in this House.

The wording of the present motion is the failure of the Government to release Sardar Teja Singh Swatanter, a state prisoner, who has recently been elected to this Assembly. The Honourable President of the Central Assembly held that motion in order although Mr. Jinnah objected to it. He said that the motion should be confined to that one particular point, namely, the privileges of the honourable members to sit in the House and attend the meetings of the House, and the debate was confined to that particular point. You have got exactly a similar motion before you. Confine the debate to this particular point, namely, the refusal of the Government to allow this particular elected member to sit in this Assembly and do his duty. You are quite welcome to do so. It will serve the purpose of the Opposition.

Lala Duni Chand : Will you kindly hear the views of Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang ?

Mr. Speaker : The question is a question of privileges.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : Is the honourable member in order to recommend that the views of a particular member should be heard ? The ordinary procedure is that whenever a member wants to express his views he stands up in his seat.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I should like to say a few words, particularly when an appeal has been made to me by one of my colleagues I am prepared to admit frankly that the proposition should have been worded more carefully. As it is, it is open to an attack. But I do not think that either you or the Government should raise any technical objection to the wording of the proposition. As I pointed out to my friends here, the question is really not one of law or of any technicalities of the Government of India Act. The fact is that if there were no restraint on this gentleman, he would have been able to enjoy the privilege of being here. The question, therefore, is whether it was not proper or decorous on the part of the Government to remove that restraint in order to enable him to enjoy the privilege which the vote of the constituency gives him to represent them in this House.

Mr. Speaker : Not as a matter of right.

140 a.p./m

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Yes, not as a matter of right. I am quite prepared to endorse the view that it cannot be claimed that he has any legal right to be here. The question, therefore, is whether, apart from any legal technicalities, the members of this House have a right to discuss the policy of the Government in this respect in not allowing that particular member a temporary freedom to be here and represent his constituency. That is the real issue and I am really surprised that any technical objection should have been taken on the wording of this adjournment motion. We have a precedent before us which has been read out to you. The wording of the proposition, which was moved in the Central Legislature, was almost exactly the same as the wording of this proposition. Objection was raised against the wording of that proposition and the Law Member, as it was pointed out by the Leader of the House, rightly objected on the ground of privilege; but the fact is that the moving of the motion was allowed by the President of the Central Assembly. I would like you to consider, that it would be safer and more consistent with the extension of the privileges of the members of this House if your discretion is exercised in favour of allowing this motion. This is what I feel.

①

I should also say a word about the second proposition which you were pleased to put in your last utterance and that was that if this gentleman had no right to be here, then the proper course for the members of this House would be to move an ordinary resolution. I would quite agree with you if the circumstances were ordinary. But there is an element of importance and an element of urgency involved in this matter. This session has started and if this gentleman is not allowed the freedom of attending it, it means that people of a part of the Punjab will be deprived of their representation in this House during the whole term of this session. This is an important matter which you ought to take into consideration. This is not a matter which can be postponed to a future occasion when an ordinary resolution could be moved in this House, because if he is not allowed to attend this session, it means that certain section of the people, as I have said, would go without any representation. So, this particular member of this House might ordinarily be allowed to attend the session unless it can be pointed out that the man is such that to give him even temporary freedom would, in any way, jeopardise the peace of this province. That question would arise when you allow the motion to be moved and then it will be open to the Honourable Premier or any other member of the Government to point out that it would be highly dangerous to give even temporary freedom to

④ Premier : May I refer to the motion moved in the Central Legislative Assembly. The adjournment motion there was allowed on the specific understanding that the debate would be confined to the question of privilege of the House. I have already pointed out that if the honourable member is prepared to confine the debate to the question of privilege I will have no objection. But if he wishes to raise the question of release of the prisoner the it should be ruled out as it is not urgent and can be dealt with by moving an ordinary resolution. It is only if the question of a breach of privilege of the House is involved that this adjournment motion should be allowed to be moved.

~~Pandit Muni Lal Kalia :~~ May I know why the adjournment motion should be disallowed when there is a certain privilege with regard to the subject which is going to be discussed? That is one point. The second point is that the discussion on the motion has been directed into wrong channels by the Honourable Premier. It has been remarked that the question is with regard to the privilege of the members and not with regard to the privilege of this House. Courtesy is going to be shown to the honourable member who has the privilege to be released. He has got the privilege to be released because as an ordinary citizen it is his civic right to be released.

~~Mr. Speaker :~~ Why should a criminal prisoner be released?

⑤ ~~Pandit Muni Lal Kalia :~~ I submit that he is not a criminal prisoner. With due deference to your remarks, he is not a criminal prisoner. As a matter of fact he is a political prisoner and as a political prisoner his liberty has been restricted. The question before the House is that his liberty should not be restricted while he has been elected as a member of the provincial legislature and he has to represent thousands of voters.

Mr. Speaker : The question for decision is whether Sardar Teja Singh can or should be released by Government, because it is his privilege as a member of this House (Voices : No, no). May I take it, then, that the House agrees that his release cannot be claimed on the ground of privilege? (Voices : No, no). The question is, can it be claimed that Teja Singh should be released from detention on the ground that he has been elected a member of this Assembly? In other words, is it the privilege of every political prisoner, who may be elected a member of this House, that he may be released to attend the meetings of this Assembly?

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : No, that is not the point. The question is whether it is open to the members of this Assembly to say that Government should have acted in such and such a manner or should not have acted in a particular manner.

Mr. Speaker : Is it agreed that it cannot be claimed on his behalf as a matter of right or privilege that he may be released? Does the House agree? (Not a single no). That is settled. The next question is a simple one. In my opinion, the release of the detenué as a matter of mercy can be called upon only by a substantive motion, that is, a resolution; and not by an adjournment motion, especially when the administrative responsibility of the Government is not involved and there has not been any departure from the ordinary law.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Are you governed by precedent ?

Mr. Speaker : I am not going to follow the precedent. It will not be proper, I think, to give my reasons from the chair. If the honourable member insists to hear my reasons, he may see me outside the House.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I want your reasons here (Voices : Order, order.) You should give your reasons on the floor of the House. It is not a personal matter between you and me.

Mr. Speaker : I decline to give my reasons on the floor of the House, as it will be improper on my part to criticise the Central Assembly.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Sir, you said that you have started a new practice and that you would give reasons for disallowing a motion.

Mr. Speaker : That I have already done.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I do not request you to be kind enough. You have ruled this motion without assigning a single reason.

Mr. Speaker : I have given my reasons.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Which rule are you following in giving your ruling? Did you refer to any ruling? I think your rulings should be governed by rules of procedure. There are rules 17 and 18 and standing orders 21, 22, 23 and 24. In deciding the point you are giving no authority.

Mr. Speaker : I will read out to the honourable member the rules on which he is relying. (Premier : Why should you enter into arguments with the honourable member ?) Rule 17 says: "A motion for an adjournment of the business of the Assembly for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance may be made with the consent of the Speaker."

I will now read Standing Order 23 which says: "If the Speaker is of opinion that the matter proposed to be discussed is in order, he shall read the statement to the Assembly and ask " My consent was to be taken and as I considered the motion to be out of order, I withheld my consent.

Diwan Chaman Lall : It appears that you are very anxious to satisfy the House. Will you kindly state your reasons for not giving your consent?

Mr. Speaker : I have already said what I had to say. I strongly differ, and I know where I am.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Mr. Speaker, this is a very important matter which is going to affect the procedure of this House for five years and I do submit that you might adjourn discussion of this matter now. May I draw your attention to the fact that you have read the two rules—rule 17 and the Standing Order 23. I do submit that according to rule 18 which gives the restrictions on power to make motions for adjournment, your decision to give consent or withhold consent is confined to the restrictions laid down in rule 18 and cannot go beyond that.

Mr. Speaker : If the honourable member will refer to page 134 of Campion, he will find that even if the privilege of release exists, the motion cannot be moved as an adjournment motion. Page 134, paragraph 6 (b) reads : A privilege motion cannot be moved as an adjournment motion.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : May I know that if there is a matter to which Government is not bound by law to attend, no adjournment motion can be moved with respect to that matter? Supposing there is a flood to-morrow in Lahore. (A voice : Unless administrative responsibility by Government is involved no adjournment motion can be moved.)

MOTION FOR LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. Speaker : I have to read out to the Assembly the following application received from Lieutenant Sardar Naunihal Singh Mann, member of the Assembly, for permission to be absent from the Assembly. The application reads as follows :—

As I intend going out to England in May next for a period of about five months, I apply as required by Rule 24 (1) of the Punjab Legislative Assembly Rules, for permission of the Assembly to be absent from all meetings of the Assembly held during this period.

The application is dated the 21st April, 1937.

Under sub-rule (2) of Rule 24 of the Assembly Rules, the Speaker shall decide the manner in which the decision of the Assembly shall be taken on the application. For this purpose I propose to put the question "Is it the pleasure of the House that the permission be granted?" The decision will be taken by voices and announced; there will be no debate, no amendment and no division.

I shall accordingly put the question :

Is it the pleasure of the Assembly that the permission be granted?
(After ascertaining by voices.)

The permission is granted.

PRESENTATION OF THE BUDGET.

Finance Minister (The Honourable Mr. Manohar Lal) : To-day with the commencement of the present constitutional changes, inaugurating provincial autonomy, the temptation is great to make a rapid survey of our provincial finance in the past and to refer in particular to the financial aspects of the reforms introduced in 1921. But I must resist any such temptation. The broad features of the financial relations between the Central and Provincial Governments during the nineteenth century and the early part of the twentieth century are well-known. Under the Act of 1853, passed sixteen years before the annexation of the Punjab, financial powers were entirely concentrated in the hands of the Central authority, the provinces received fixed amounts for their expenditure and were subject to detailed control. Early in the seventies the system known as Financial Settlements was introduced, assigning certain sources to the provinces, but this system left the provinces in hopeless dependence upon the Central Government. Efforts were made in 1877 and 1882 to remove the more-serious outstanding defects of the system when some of the sources of revenue were allocated to the provinces exclusively, while income from certain other sources such as land revenue, irrigation, stamps, excise, registration and forests, was to be divided between the Centre and the Provinces. These settlements were liable to five-yearly revision and made fixed financial policy in the provinces impossible. It was, therefore, felt necessary early in the first decade of the twentieth century to give them a semi-permanent character, and later to convert them into permanent arrangements. However, throughout this period the financial control of the Central Government was strict, and gave rise to much controversy and even friction between the Central and the Provincial Governments. It was in these circumstances that the reforms of 1921 were introduced conferring for the first time a definite measure of financial freedom if not complete independence upon the provinces; division of administrative functions between the Centre and the Provinces was prescribed entailing separation of central and provincial finances. But the rigid separation of sources of revenue left the Central Government exposed to the inconvenient risk of deficits, and the provinces were called upon to make certain annual contributions on a rough basis of ability calculated on estimates of increased revenues. The system was open to obvious objections, and soon the very foundation on which it was based, viz., surpluses expected in provincial budgets, was found to be non-existent. The validity of the demand for the abolition of these contributions was soon admitted, and, after two steps in reduction, the system was completely abandoned in 1927-28.

2. In the Memorandum by Mr. Ram Chandra, Finance Secretary, on the Budget last year, a careful retrospect in broad outline of our financial position from 1921 is lucidly set forth. This relieves me from attempting any general review of our finances under the reforms. Many changes were inevitable from year to year as circumstances of revenue varied, due to nature's fitfulness in rain and flood and hailstorm, to the course of agricultural prices, and to the uncertainties of world economic factors. But the broad fact remains that under the charge of the reformed government, expenditure on what are known as the beneficent or nation-building departments rose steadily—in 1921-22 it stood at 170 lakhs, in 1936-37 the estimates were 290 lakhs.

3. It is on this inheritance of close attention to beneficent state activity that the present Government has entered. But I must not wander into past history. I must address myself to the accounts of three years according to time-honoured practice—the year 1935-36 for which the accounts have been closed, the year 1936-37 which has closed but for which only revised estimates are available, and the present year for which I will present the budget to-day.

1935-36.

4. As regards the year 1935-36, the honourable members may remember that the budget provided for a trifling surplus of Rs. 56,000, and at the time of the presentation of the budget last year, it was feared that even that small surplus would not be realised. Accounts for the year, however, show an actual deficit of a little over two lakhs. Apprehensions last year when revised figures were available that receipts would fall by about 15 lakhs below and expenditure rise by about 6½ lakhs above budget figures did not fortunately prove correct—the drop in income was actually less than one lakh and the increase in expenditure of no more than a lakh and three quarters. As compared with revised figures, the income under Net Land Revenue fell by 12½ lakhs, but under Irrigation (Gross amount) rose by about 27½ lakhs—showing a total revenue improvement of fifteen lakhs. Other departures from revised figures in both directions were of a minor character and tended to cancel each other. On the expenditure side, there was a fall of 9 lakhs under the heading Interest on debt on account of Irrigation Works for which Capital Accounts are kept and as against this there were minor increases, resulting in part from the restoration of the cut in salaries. It had been explained by Sir Donald Boyd that the real deficit for the year was not as great as it might at first sight appear because several adjustments had to be made on account of the transfer of funds from Revenue to Capital. But even then the position as then disclosed deserved careful examination. It is gratifying to note, therefore, that owing to essential care in budgetting and the more important circumstances set forth above, the year's working resulted in only a small deficit.

5. Coming to the year 1936-37, the year has already closed, but not so the accounts, and we have yet only the revised figures with us. I might, however, inform the Assembly that these revised figures disclose a much more accurate final picture of our revenue and expenditure for the year than was possible in the past. Figures have been revised on the basis of a longer part of the financial year than in previous years, as the budget is being presented in mid-June instead of at the end of February—three and a half months after the normal date. In the budget Revenue Receipts were estimated at Rs. 10,44,20,000 and Revenue expenditure Rs. 10,60,58,000 displaying a deficit of a little over Rs. 16 lakhs. The corresponding revised figures are Revenue Receipts Rs. 10,86,53,000 and Revenue Expenditure Rs. 10,63,66,000—yielding a surplus of about Rs. 23 lakhs—a total net improvement of Rs. 99½ lakhs over budget figures—improvement in Revenue Receipts of Rs. 42½ lakhs, only partially counterbalanced by an increase of a little over Rs. 3 lakhs in expenditure.

6. It will be noted that on the Receipts side the following are significant improvements :

| | Rs. |
|---|-------------|
| Land Revenue (gross) | 21½ lakhs. |
| Irrigation (Direct receipts) | 12½ lakhs. |
| Hydro-Electric Schemes | 5 lakhs. |
| Excise | 88,000 |
| | 39½ lakhs. |
| Improvement in Irrigation receipts due to fall in working expenses | 2·80 lakhs. |
| Total Rs. | 42½ lakhs. |

Other variations require no particular notice. On the expenditure side there is an increase of only Rs. 3,08,000—about 1 lakh on Civil Administration, about 3 lakhs on Interest on Hydro-Electric Works, about 5½ lakhs under Miscellaneous, these increases are in part counterbalanced by small savings under other heads. Honourable members must refer to the General Abstract and the Memorandum for greater detail. The estimate of revenue income in the budget was made with great care on a reference to figures during the immediately preceding years and in the case of irrigation to averages over a period of ten years with appropriate corrections. But the position in regard to both our principal sources of income improved in a remarkable manner with the happy result that I have indicated above.

7. In Land Revenue receipts the improvement of Rs. 21½ lakhs is due to—

- (i) increase in the area under cultivation in the two districts of Multan and Montgomery ;
- (ii) allotment of larger areas under temporary cultivation ; and
- (iii) larger recoveries out of suspended revenue.

During the year supplies in the canals also were good. These factors helped to increase the revenue even allowing for the effect of the introduction of the sliding scale of assessment in the Lyallpur District. Under Irrigation, estimating is always difficult. Factors that are not precisely definable have to be taken into consideration, forecasts have to be made so far ahead that seasonal conditions are not predictable with any certainty. In the year 1936-37 figures in the conservative budget estimate were affected mainly by larger development of irrigation in consequence of remodelling of channels and the Pir Mahal and Khikhi Extensions. The irrigated area on some of the principal canals was in excess of anticipations, supplies in inundation canals were plentiful, and there was also increased cultivation of crops paying higher rates. Also as I have said already the year was good so far as supplies in the canals are concerned.

8. The increase under Excise falls mainly under still-head duty on country spirit and permit fee on denatured spirits enforced from 1st April, 1936.

9. The increase under Hydro-Electric Schemes of Rs. 5 lakhs represents a welcome addition to the income of our leading business concern. It represents a satisfactory expansion in load, and is also the result in part of addition of three new local distribution systems. The scheme is far yet from paying for itself, because as against receipts it is necessary for this purpose to set down firstly 'working expenses' which amount to over 17 lakhs, and secondly interest amounting to Rs. 34½ lakhs, in 1937-38 fallen to the normal figure of 30½ lakhs, on the immense capital outlay. The day is not definitely in sight when owing to favourable expansion of business the scheme will pay for itself, but there has been a steady annual rise in receipts since 1933, the first year of revenue, and substantial demands for further loads are in view. Projects for the extension of electric lines into rural areas are being studied, and two major projects of considerable magnitude are under examination. The receipts already leave a substantial margin after paying for working expenses, and with expanding income there will be an increasing balance to meet interest charges. At present the net receipts are about Rs. 14 lakhs, and the dead weight of the interest charge is being increasingly lightened by about 2 lakhs a year.

As against these favourable factors income from stamps continues to decline—there is a further fall of Rs. 2 lakhs in the revised estimates.

10. I have referred to the surplus which the working of the year 1936-37 is likely to yield. It is proposed to devote about Rs. 15 lakhs out of this surplus towards reducing the Capital account of the Hydro-Electric Scheme, thereby relieving the scheme of the burden of interest charge of Rs. 75,000 per year.

11. During the period of construction interest charges on capital outlay on the Hydro-Electric Scheme should have been financed from revenue. For reasons which it is not necessary here to go into, this could not be done, and with the special sanction of the Secretary of State the interest was charged to capital. Up to the year 1929 this amounted to Rs. 14·82 lakhs charged to capital. Interest on this amount, i.e., Rs. 14·82 lakhs was naturally due and should have been paid out of revenue, but this was not done till attention was called to the necessity of doing so by the Auditor-General in the year 1936-37 and it is this interest, with the reduction made owing to fall in the rate of interest, that represents the difference between the budget estimate and the revised estimate. It will be observed, therefore, that while the revised estimate thus increased, this increase is purely technical and abnormal. It would not occur in any future year. Full account has been taken of it in the year 1936-37. In future, e.g., in the estimate for 1937-38 the normal figure of interest is given, and that normal figure would be subject to a decrease of Rs. 75,000.

12. The interest on Capital Outlay on Hydro-Electric Scheme for the budgeted figure of 1936-37 was Rs. 31·48 and for the revised estimate Rs. 34·49—an increase of 3·01. This difference, as a matter of fact, would have been much greater but for the fact that the adjustment has been made at a rate of interest which had fallen in the meantime.

13. It will be observed that this writing back of Rs. 15 lakhs to revenue means an adjustment of the nature of a book transaction. It does not affect our provincial balances, but affords, as said above, an important relief to the Hydro-Electric Schemes. There remains the balance of Rs. 8½ lakhs. This will naturally go to improve our general balance. The proper destination of a surplus such as this is never easy to determine, but the present Ministry entered upon office when the year had actually closed, and there would have been technical budgetary difficulties in employing it for any directly fruitful object. In any event, the use of the whole surplus in the manner indicated further strengthens our credit in the loan market, a most important matter at all times, and of particular value to us in the present circumstances. An Eastern proverb says: "A man without credit is like a bird without wings; if he soars he falls to the ground and dies." The State is not unlike an individual in this respect, and we propose, as I shall presently point out, to use our strong credit position as a force both to secure an annual saving, and 'to soar' by building up further sources of wealth.

14. And now the year for which the present budget is to be presented. At the outset, it is necessary to take note of two facts. Firstly the year is peculiar in this respect that it began without a budget in the strict sense of the term, and under paragraph 5 (1) of the Government of India (Commencement and Transitory Provisions) Order, 1936, His Excellency the Governor had to authorise expenditure which he deemed necessary to enable the business of the Provincial Government to be carried on for four months from the date of the commencement of Part III of the Act, that is from the 1st April to the 31st of July by which date a schedule of authorised expenditure will be authenticated in accordance with the provisions of Section 30 of the new Government of India Act.

15. The indirect effect of this inevitable transitory provision would anyhow be to some extent to fix the general pattern of the present budget, though it will be observed that strict limitations are placed on the powers of the Governor, and in this Province the power of authorisation has been exercised not for the maximum permissible period of six months, but for the shortest period necessary before this House could pass the Budget. Secondly further as the Budget in the main has anyhow to be ready well in time before its consideration is taken up in the Legislature, it follows that the present Ministry had almost entirely to work upon estimates which stood compiled before they assumed office. The present Ministry is thankful to its predecessors for the care which they displayed in preparing the Budget—Sir Donald Boyd carried on faithfully the fine traditions of sound finance in this Province built up by a notable succession of Finance Members. No higher praise is possible for a provincial Finance Member in India and I wish to offer my tribute of appreciation to this great English gentleman who guarded our finances for three years with jealous attention and remarkable success. We have now entered upon a fresh chapter in the custody of our finances, and I trust it may be given to succeeding ministries in autonomous Punjab steadfastly to bear in mind the high ideals of finance inherited from their distinguished predecessors, for, if we wish to achieve success in administration, if we wish to contribute to the happiness and welfare of our people, the way lies essentially through the pursuit of courageous but sound finance (hear, hear).

16. The estimates for 1937-38 are:—

| | Rs. |
|-----------------------------|--------------|
| Revenue Receipts | 10,90,39,000 |
| Revenue Expenditure | 10,88,67,000 |

providing for a small surplus of Rs. 1,72,000. This small surplus is liable to disappear because in the present estimates of expenditure no provision is made for the two Committees, one on "Resource and Retrenchment" and the other on "Unemployment" which the present Government announced on taking office that it was its intention to constitute. Nor was it possible in the estimates to make adequate provision for the salary and allowances of the Honourable Members of the Assembly as the report of the Committee appointed to determine these was made only a few days ago, and has not been yet considered by this House. There is a likelihood that some other items of expenditure directly connected with the introduction of the present reforms may be exceeded, while it is to be feared that the estimate of expenditure under Legislative Assembly suffers from being an under-estimate. These represent now definitely foreseeable matters which will affect the budgeted surplus and probably convert it into an actual deficit unless some items of income show unexpected yields in the upward direction. If such a deficit should appear, due, as I have said, to factors now forecastable, we need have no fear, particularly as this year's revenue has suffered so heavily because of unusual calamities in hailstorm, cyclone and untimely rains. The deficit would indicate no normal or permanent feature of our finances. And we may find some consolation in modern ideas of fiscal reform, gaining sway over the narrow precepts of former times. With the expanding scope of State activities unbalanced budgets are no longer regarded as objects of dread; some writers consider them as distinct marks of progressive finance for "outlay on education, health and agriculture undoubtedly creates gradually increased taxable capacity." Progress should not be sacrificed to false economy and Governments should cultivate the art of spending wisely.

17. The immediate effect of the terrible hailstorms which devastated crops in large parts of the Multan division, and of less severe calamities that visited other parts of the province, has been the reduction of our revenues by well over twenty lakhs; and the tale of these disasters can be read in increased expenditure on relief in various shapes. The very first act of the new Ministry, within less than an hour of their taking their oath of office, was to sanction a famine relief of one lakh, and they started on their duties with the problem of affording immediate and adequate relief to the affected areas. The House is well aware of the success of their endeavours in this regard; large remissions of land revenue and of water rate were announced on the most liberal scale, and grant of other relief made without delay. The largest measures of relief had to be given in the Multan division, but principles on which relief was to be given were carefully thought out and applied with equal liberality and promptitude everywhere. Thanks of the Government are due to officers everywhere who strained every nerve to study the nature and the extent of the disaster in the areas under their charge, and carried out the orders of the Government loyally and with the utmost expeditiousness. (Hear, hear). Now these measures necessitated a fresh examination of the proposals for new expenditure, and it was no pleasant task to reduce this expenditure by about 25 lakhs. My consolation is that though a large part of new expenditure is new only in a technical sense as it is continued from year to year and the field for curtailment is extremely limited, it was not found necessary in any measure to cut down expenditure on beneficent departments. (Hear, hear). Honourable Members will note with gratification that as compared with Revised Estimate for 1936-37, there is a substantial increase of about Rs. 20 lakhs under the provision for the various nation building activities. (Hear, hear).

18. On the expenditure side there is a fall in the interest on Capital outlay on Hydro-Electric Schemes, due in part to certain adjustments of a permanent character in the rate of interest and in part to the circumstance previously referred, of writing back of Rs. 15 lakhs to revenue under the schemes. Compared with the revised figures for 1936-37, there is now an increase of Rs. 25 lakhs in expenditure—the main factor in increase being Rs. 20 lakhs on various beneficent departments. This increase is spread over all the departments. In education, emphasis continues to be laid on girls' education, and the Department feels that early and effective steps will be taken to reduce wastage in the primary stage of education to which reference has been prominently made in the press recently. Rural dispensaries have had their maintenance grants improved. Provision for sanitary grants has been substantially increased, as against only half a lakh last year, five lakhs are being provided this year. There is an increase of over 5 lakhs under Agriculture, mainly under supply of good seed. It has not been possible to carry out the large programme of new expenditure on veterinary relief and cattle-breeding originally contemplated, but an addition of about Rs. 1½ lakhs has been made to allow opening of five more hospitals in rural areas, and the improvement of the Dajal breed of cattle in the Dera Ghazi Khan district. Provision is also made for additional grant-in-aid for the improvement of the Dhanni breed in the Rawalpindi district. In the recent Cattle Conference at Simla held under the aegis of the Government of India, it appeared that the Punjab holds a leading position in the attention paid to problems of cattle-breeding, fodder supply and general veterinary relief. (Cheers). This is most gratifying, for the economic prosperity of an agricultural country is so intimately and vitally bound up with the existence of an adequate supply of healthy live-stock. Government is determined to do all in its power to continue an energetic programme of cattle improvement. Other plans for effecting general betterment and uplift among our rural classes will be easily detected in the budget.

19. Reference must be made to an increase of Rs. 3,26,000 under Industries. Provision is made in the budget for an Industrial Exhibition which is being organized on a large scale, an expenditure of over a lakh of rupees on the development of handloom industry, and assistance under the Punjab State Aid to Industries Act.

20. Apart from this increase of Rs. 20 lakhs under Beneficent Departments, the other large increase, Rs. 9½ lakhs is under Civil Works. The circumstances of this increase have been set forth in elaborate detail in the Memoranda attached to the Budget. Rupees 4½ lakhs are accounted for by an increase in transfer from the Central Road Fund. A provision of Rs. 1½ lakhs has been made out of provincial revenues as a special non-recurring grant to district boards for road improvement, and a sum of 3 lakhs is to be given to the district boards out of the Central Road Fund for the same purpose.

21. There has been an increase in expenditure in General Administration under certain heads well-known to Honourable Members as they are directly connected with present reform—Provision for Assembly Secretaries (Rs. 50,000) Commissions for the trial of election petitions (Rs. 91,000) and the Public Services Commission (Rs. 1,35,400); there is also a substantial increase of Rs. 1½ lakhs, certain to be exceeded, under the heading Provincial

[Finance Minister.]

Legislative Assembly but the aggregate expenditure under Civil Administration represents an increase of only Rs. 64,000 above the revised figures. This is due to the fact that under Police there is a fall of about Rs. 3½ lakhs resulting mainly from a recovery of Rs. 4 lakhs from the Railway Board for the cost of Order Police. A reduction was anticipated in the strength of the additional police, but this could not be effected on account of unfortunate incidents at Panipat and Kot Fatch Khan. Nor has communal tension entirely disappeared, and there are signs of recrudescence of unlawful subversive activities in parts of the province. There is a small decrease also under Administration of Justice.

22. Direct Demands on the Revenue show an increase of Rs. 1,16,000 resulting almost entirely from an increase in expenditure under the head land revenue. A sum of Rupees one lakh has been provided for the encouragement of well-sinking in non-perennial areas of the Nili Bar Colony, where the system of Taccavi is unpopular and agricultural credit is at a low ebb. The scheme has been carefully thought out and is expected to result in great benefit to the cultivators, and it is proposed to try it as an experimental measure in the Colony chaks. The importance of encouraging well-sinking in these areas is obvious. The main features of the scheme now adopted are that Government will advance money within prescribed limits for the construction of wells and there will be no recovery of the principal so advanced; that the wells sunk with the help of Government advances will not be entitled to a protective lease and a fixed well-assessment will be imposed on wells so constructed equivalent to three per cent. of the amount advanced. It is hoped that the scheme will be welcomed in areas for whose benefit it is intended and that it will be possible to develop it.

Further increase under the head "land revenue" relates to resettlement operations in the Jhelum district. On the other hand, settlement operations in the Lyallpur district are closing down.

28. Famine Relief Fund.—The position of this Fund is no longer as under the old constitution when it was built up under the provisions of the Devolution Rules by a compulsory annual provision of Rs. 2 lakhs every year so long as the balance in the funds was less than 20 lakhs; the Fund was made up of unspent annual balances. This Fund stood at Rs. 20,39,000 on the eve of the present reforms. As the Devolution Rules no longer apply, Government was able to consider the appropriate size of the Fund for our particular requirements on a study of facts during a series of years in the past, and it was decided to constitute a new Fund of Rs. 10 lakhs. It was also considered expedient, in view of the exceptional circumstances of this year, to spend Rs. 1,80,000 out of the balance of the old fund, on immediate famine relief—so as to retain the new Fund intact at the figure of Rs. 10 lakhs. There still remained a balance of Rs. 8.59 lakhs out of the old fund. As this fund had been built up out of revenue, Government was advised to transfer it to revenue account. This would have unduly swelled our year's revenue figures because of this purely technical reason and would have reflected itself in an unreal surplus. The present Government was, therefore, in the happy position of being able to increase the previously made provision for rural sanitary schemes by one lakh, and to make a special grant of Rs. 1½ lakhs to District Boards for the improvement and development of roads. The balance of Rs. 5½ lakhs goes to the reduction of debt, and further strengthens the credit of the province.

REVENUE RECEIPTS.

24. The revenue receipts for 1937-38 represent only a small increase of about Rs. 4 lakhs on the revised estimate for 1936-37. The increase would have been substantially greater but for the big drop in the receipts from land revenues and irrigation—our two main sources of income—due to recent natural calamities, hailstorm and rain and wind, affecting large parts of the Multan Division and other big tracts in the province. Over revised figures these two sources of revenue represent a deterioration of Rs. 80 lakhs but are reduced by Rs. 10 lakhs because of fall in the working expenses under Irrigation. This has followed from a saving of about Rs. 6 lakhs as a result of an enquiry how expenditure on maintenance and repairs of Irrigation works could be reduced; the other four lakhs resulted from less expenditure under Extensions and Improvements. Among permanent features affecting our principal sources of revenue, account has to be taken of the effect of the application of the principle of sliding scale of assessment in the Lyallpur district and in the Rakh Branch Circle of the Sheikhpura district. This on the basis of current prices represents on a rough estimate a fall in income of Rs. 17 lakhs.

25. The receipts from Excise are stationary in spite of the fact that the Punjab Government have lost an assignment of about Rs. 7 lakhs which they used to receive from the Government of India on account of Excise and Punjab liquor consumed in the North-West Frontier and Delhi Provinces. The question of the financial loss caused to the Punjab under this arrangement is not finally settled and we still hope that the Central Government will ultimately decide to compensate the Punjab for this loss of revenue. In the meantime the reduction in revenue may be made good at least in part by doubling the duty on charas and by increasing the duty on spiced spirits with effect from the 1st of April, 1937.

26. There is an increase under Agriculture of Rs. 10 lakhs as compared with the accounts of 1935-36 and Rs. 5 lakhs as compared with the revised figures. This represents proceeds of the sale of seeds. There is a counter entry on the expenditure side for the purchase of seeds.

27. There is an increase under Hydro-Electric Schemes—representing a net improvement of Rs. 1,67,000 over revised figures. For decrease under Interest, attention is invited to the explanation in the Memorandum prepared by the Secretary, Finance Department.

REVISED SCALES OF PAY.

28. Honourable Members have no doubt seen references in the Press to the new and much reduced scales of pay for new entrants that have been recently introduced in our Provincial and Subordinate Services. It will be some time before their full effect will be realised, but the reductions are substantial, ranging from 18 per cent. to 33 per cent. This means substantial saving at an annually increasing rate, so essential in a province like ours with comparatively inelastic sources of revenue and a strong desire to press forward schemes of general betterment. But here the other reflection cannot be put away. Efficiency of administration cannot be sacrificed economy—and I have no doubt in my mind that to-day as we are starting on a changed Government we ought to do nothing to impair the efficiency, the strength and the integrity of our public services. (Hear, hear.) We must not weaken the necessary foundations of our newly created democratic institutions. The new scales of pay have been introduced after the most elaborate scrutiny so that the rival ideals of economy and efficiency are not in any fatal conflict.

[Finance Minister.]

THE HAVELI PROJECT.

29. References have been made during previous budgets to this Project. The project has now emerged as a finally sanctioned enterprise and this year the stage of actual "construction" is to be entered upon, and a provision has been made in the estimates for an expenditure under Capital head of Rs. 60 lakhs. It is proposed to push forward with work as rapidly as possible, and if progress is sufficiently favourable, a much larger pitch of expenditure may be reached. The total cost of the project is estimated at Rs. 536 lakhs and it is anticipated that construction will be completed in four years. The project is designed to provide perennial irrigation to a gross area of about 700,000 acres, and in addition non-perennial irrigation to about 860,000 acres. The completion of the project will take six years, but actual irrigation will almost certainly begin in four years. When completed, the project will add a fresh chapter to the brilliant record of irrigation engineering in the Province. It will provide permanent protection to large masses of the people of the Punjab against the inadequacy and uncertainties of rainfall; large areas in the district of Multan now dependent on inundation canals will be made secure, and portions of the districts of Muzaffargarh and Jhang which are now arid wastes will be converted into flourishing colonies. For them as with other canal colonies an era of undreamt of prosperity will be opened up—freshly settled areas, improved communications, rise of markets and towns will follow in quick succession. As an important and vital incident of this project some of the water of the Ravi which now feeds the Sidhnai Canal will become available for use elsewhere. Two-thirds of it will be taken into the Lower Bari Doab Canal at Balloki and passed across from Montgomery to the Pakpattan perennial Canal by means of a feeder channel. This will increase the intensity of irrigation and add to the prosperity of the Nili Bar. One-third of the Ravi water will be used to give a winter supply to the non-perennial Burala Branch Extension of the Lower Chenab Canal. It is this use of the Ravi water that has made the scheme as a whole a remunerative one and made it possible to supply water to the districts of Multan, Muzaffargarh and Jhang at lower rates than would otherwise have been possible. The project as a whole is estimated to yield 7·8 per cent. on the capital expenditure.

30. The Thal project is still at the stage of examination, with a view to see if it is likely to prove remunerative. Government is carrying this examination with the utmost of expeditiousness consistently with its magnitude and complicated character. When settled and executed it will bring the blessings of water to one of the most arid parts of the Punjab—the Mianwali and Muzaffargarh districts—and contribute its quota to the enrichment of provincial finances,

CAPITAL EXPENDITURE AND PUBLIC DEBT.

31. I have not referred to extraordinary receipts or Capital expenditure. Abundant information will be found on these heads in the Memoranda explanatory of the Budget. But it will be noted that apart from the old debt now consolidated which the province owes to the Government of India the public debt of the Punjab stands as follows :—

| | Rs. |
|---|-------------|
| 5½ per cent. Punjab Bonds, 1937 raised in 1925 .. | 84,37,800 |
| 4 per cent. Punjab Bonds, 1948 raised in 1933 .. | 3,22,31,600 |
| | <hr/> |
| Total | 4,06,69,400 |

and during the present year capital expenditure of Rs. 60 lakhs on the Haveli project is contemplated. It will be a question for the Government to consider how the strong credit position of the province may be utilised to effect a saving on the maturing 5½ per cent. Bonds, and also to secure the most favourable terms for obtaining finance in the loan market for the Haveli project. The year commences with an opening balance of Rs. 185 lakhs and would close with a balance of Rs. 1.16 lakhs—the decrease being in the main the result of the big expenditure for the Haveli project.

LOANS AND ADVANCES BY GOVERNMENT.

32. A larger provision under this head has been made this year than in 1935-36, or in 1936-37. A sum of more than Rs. 6 lakhs has been provided for advances to cultivators under the Agriculturist Loans Act in view of the disaster caused by hailstorm to the rabi crop. There is a provision of Rs. 2 lakhs under the Punjab State Aid to Industries Act as against 1 lakh in previous year. On the whole it is estimated that advances by way of loans will amount to Rs. 19 lakhs during the year, while the estimated recovery on account of past transactions is Rs. 16 lakhs.

33. An important feature of this year's finance is the effect of certain decisions regarding the consolidation of debt and the decentralization of balances consequent on Sir Otto Niemeyer's Indian Financial Enquiry. These are set forth in clear detail in the Memorandum of the Secretary, Finance Department. The result is that pre-reforms irrigation debt to the amount of Rs. 12 crores for which there was previously no provision for redemption will be redeemed in forty-five years and that the Punjab will gain to the extent of a little over two lakhs annually. Apart from this the Punjab was the only province which received no immediate assistance; in fact owing to the withdrawal of an assignment of Rs. 7 lakhs received hitherto on account of compensation for loss of excise duty on Punjab liquors consumed in Delhi and the N.-W. F. Province, the Province was actually called upon to help the Central Revenues to the extent of Rs. 5 lakhs. And we have to be content merely with the well meant reference in the famous telegram from the Secretary of State to the Government of India, dated the 20th May, 1936, wherein the Secretary of State says "I have no doubt that a province so well endowed with natural resources, and with so high a tradition of efficient administration as the Punjab, will in fact without assistance be much more favourably situated than many of the other provinces, even allowing for help which these latter will receive."

34. The decentralization of balances hitherto kept with the Government of India is a matter not only of administrative convenience, but a necessary mark of provincial autonomy within certain well-defined functions. The Memorandum of the Secretary, Finance Department, explains fully this as well as the position of the present public debt of the Punjab and borrowings in future.

35. Sir, Provincial finance in India is a humble and exiguous theme. Reforms have forced pointed attention to the rigidity of our revenues and the narrowness of our finances, for reforms mean increased expenditure, and our provinces have not even now the means of making proper or adequate provision for beneficent or nation-building activities. But as I reflect on the budget of this Province to be presented to-day, I cannot help remarking on the bold, generous and expeditious manner in which the Punjab Government has provided as perhaps never before in the history of this Province or any other province in India, the large sum of Rs. 25 lakhs for revenue remission and other relief to our agriculturists (hear, hear); at the same time propose to increase the grant on beneficent activities by 20 lakhs. I venture to think, Sir, that this House may well congratulate itself that this is so, and that the conservation of our finances in the past should make this possible. The present Government is also fortunate that the execution of a measure of such magnitude and importance as the Haveli project—meaning untold wealth to the people and large strength to the State's revenues—should be launched during a few months of their assumption of office. The House will note also that the present Ministry have entered upon their duties with a comprehensive scheme of revised rates of pay for new entrants to provincial and subordinate services from the highest range of office downwards. These should, as time passes, bring substantial relief to the provincial exchequer. But serious students of Indian economics have in recent years stressed with growing emphasis the excessive character of our land revenue burden, a main source of provincial income; while even with this burden, and without contemplating any relief in this regard, our provincial Finance Ministers in India, are in despair as to any fruitful schemes of enlarging their revenues. The resourcefulness of Government experts, as individuals and in committees, is exhausted in merely canvassing adjustments, hardly a single additional or further source of income is suggested, while provincial Governments naturally press for a larger share of what the Central Government absorbs, at present. The pessimistic tone of experts and the frantic advocacy of individual provincial claims is a saddening fact—for it is a rock on which the realities of reform may easily split. Here in this province, while resolved to continue to press on the Central Government how ungenerously and unfairly we have been treated under the financial arrangements consequent on reforms, Government has decided to appoint a Committee of eleven members—eight of whom will be members of this House, belonging to different parties and representing varying interests—all non-officials, and two distinguished Punjabee economists both non-officials, with the Finance Minister as Chairman, to investigate possibilities of further sources of revenue, and to examine where retrenchment can be effected without lowering standards of administration and deteriorating efficiency in the performance of essential services. It is hoped that the labours of this Committee, wholly unofficial in its composition, will prove fruitful—and it may be given to the present Government to plan relief where necessary and to initial comprehensive schemes for the betterment of the Province. Financial policy in the past has had necessarily to be conservative, for the need of caution in finance in a poor country is obvious—And the voice of economic science is not free yet from hesitancy, “difference of opinion still exists as to whether it is wise to aim primarily at retrenchment, or to undertake increased expenditure on directly and indirectly productive purposes,” though Sir William Layton said “there can be little doubt that, in conditions such as those which now obtain in India, it should be possible to stimulate production and to increase the welfare of the people by public expenditure designed to give greater economic security (by irrigation works, improved and more varied methods of cultivation, etc.), better physical well-being (sanitation, water supply, improved public health, etc.), and education. Indeed, taxation may be the only practicable means of creating a better and more secure livelihood.” But we definitely enter upon a new era to-day, when the Government and the people can no longer be viewed as in any sense occupying opposite camps. (Hear, hear). To-day the ministry approaches the question of finance under the directions of this Assembly to carry out the popular will. (Hear, hear). They have undoubtedly to work under limitations, no large or catastrophic changes can be effected rapidly without undue risk, for howsoever much it may be desirable to transform our world, the House would not wish us to act otherwise than as practical men in close touch with the hard facts of life. But the ministry’s main solicitude is to study and as far as possible to carry out the least wish of this popular Assembly; nor can they remain unaffected by progressive programmes and the rising tide of opinion in other parts of this great country. I am forcefully reminded of the dictum of my eminent teacher, Prof. Marshall, “the amount of constructive work which the modern State requires from Government is probably growing much faster than its power of getting through its work.” But in undertaking this task, one is sustained by the wise reflection, so long ago expressed by that great political philosopher, Montesquieu—“Taxes can be made heavier as the subject enjoys more liberty; as liberty diminishes, taxation must be reduced. In free States, heavy taxes are balanced by liberty, in despotic governments the lightness of taxes is the compensation for the loss of freedom. In a republic the citizen will pay more heavily because he believes that he is paying himself of his free will.” Wisdom in these matters is not easy to seek—‘le juste milieu’ is hard to define—But the virtue of the old Roman maxim is still unaffected—“Magnum vectigal est parsimonia” which means freely rendered “Economy supplies abundant revenue.” Sir, strict economy is to be the watchword in all our departments; we regard public money to be a trust to be administered with the utmost care, but we are fully determined within the funds this House allows us to build up the highest measure of beneficent service for the Province, for therein, we believe, lies not only the prosperity of the Province, but also the welfare and the happiness of its people.

36. Sir, before I resume my seat, I must perform one very necessary and pleasant duty—that is to express my appreciation of the responsible and heavy work zealously performed by the officers and the staff of the Finance Department. During the year the Department has fortunately suffered no change in Secretaryship and has enjoyed the uninterrupted and invaluable guidance of our experienced and very able Secretary, Mr. Ram Chandra. (Loud cheers). It is in no small measure due to his watchful care and unremitting labour that our financial position in the past year has maintained its strength. Personally I am grateful to him for the considerate manner in which he has inducted me into the intricate mysteries of finance and its many difficult rules. I have learnt with much concern that he is proceeding on leave before long. I only hope it may be possible for him to return to the department to guide its destinies further for at least some time.

Mr. Grindal, the veteran finance official of the Secretariat, has finally retired from service after a long meritorious record of work. His knowledge of financial rules and procedure was always of great value to the Department and it is a matter of gratification that Government has been able to re-engage him for a time to act as Secretary to the Committee on Resources and Retrenchment. I must refer by name to two others officers; Mr. Pearson's remarkably intimate knowledge of Public Works Finance continues to be of increasing value to the Department, and Lala Lal Chand, the Assistant Secretary, has done most useful work because of his unrivalled acquaintance with budgetary method and minutiae and his devoted loyalty to the Department.

I am anxious to express my gratitude to the several Superintendents and the office staff without whose active co-operation and willing discharge of duty, the work of the Department could not be performed with any success.

We have continued to receive throughout the year all possible valuable help from the Accountant-General. Mr. Jai Gopal Bhandari's keen interest in our financial rectitude and welfare has been of the utmost advantage to the Province, and I should like to take this opportunity of recording Government's gratitude to him.

Sir, I beg to present to the Assembly the budget for the year 1937-38. (Loud and prolonged cheers).

Hours of Sitting.

Mr. Speaker : May I ask the honourable members at what hour should we meet on the 21st ?

Premier : 11 o'clock. From 11 o'clock to 1 P.M. and from 2 to 4-30 P.M.

The Assembly then adjourned till 11 A.M., on Monday, 21st June, 1937.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

1ST SESSION OF THE 1ST PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Monday, 21st June 1937.

The Assembly met at the Assembly Chamber, Simla, at 11 a.m. of the clock. Mr. Speaker in the Chair.

RULING OF THE CHAIR.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Before you commence the proceedings of the day I have to make a special request to you. You were pleased to give some rulings on the 17th instant on certain adjournment motions. I consider that they require your reconsideration. Those rulings affect the rights and privileges of the opposition party in the matter of moving adjournment motions to a very great extent. I would, therefore, request that you be pleased to give some time to discuss the point with me.

Mr. Speaker : I shall be glad to discuss it with the honourable member.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE ORARA, TAHSIL KASUR.

*31. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a punitive police post was quartered at village Orara, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, in August, 1922, and that it remained posted there for a period of 4 years ;
- (b) the details of the estimated as well as actual costs of the punitive police post for each year during its stay in the village, the total amount recovered from the residents as costs for the aforesaid period, the sanctioned strength of the police force of this punitive police post for each year, and the actual force which remained quartered each year in this punitive police post ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that one S. Kishan Singh and other residents of village Orara, district Lahore, submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on the 29th April, 1937, claiming a refund of certain sum said to have been realized from them in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post ; if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) The main figures have been given in the reply to question 80¹, put by the honourable member for Lahore City (General Constituency). Recoveries on account of this post were completed more than seven years ago, and I regret that I cannot undertake to go into details at this stage.

(c) An application of the kind described was received at the beginning of May last. No action is contemplated, the matter being many years old.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE RAJOKI, TAHSIL KASUR, DISTRICT LAHORE.

32. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a punitive police post was located at village Rajoki, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, between 1924 and 1926 ;
- (b) the date of its arrival in the village, the date of its removal from the village, the detailed accounts of the estimated as well as the actual costs of the police post, the total amount realized from the village residents on account of the punitive police post tax, the name of the house-owner from whom the house for quartering the police force was hired, the monthly rent paid to the house-owner, the total rent paid to the aforesaid house-owner during the stay of the punitive police post in the village, the strength of the police force sanctioned by the Government to be posted there during the stay of the punitive police post and the strength of the police force which actually remained posted during the 1st, 2nd and 3rd quarter of the year ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that Bhai Bahal Singh, Jagat Singh and other residents of village Rajoki, tahsil Kasur, submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on the 8th April, 1937, claiming therein a refund of Rs. 4,368, said to have been realized in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post borne by the Government, if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) The principal figures have been given in the reply to question No. 30¹ put by the honourable member for Lahore City (General Constituency). Information is here asked for as to the "actual costs" of the additional police post. I should like to explain that it is never possible to state the "actual costs" of a force of additional police with exactitude, as some of the items which ought to be included (for example, charges due on account of superintendence, the cost of training the men employed, the armament charges of the force, and interest charges during the period of recovery) cannot be precisely reckoned. The name of the house-owner from whom accommodation was rented for the force is not on record. The rent paid was at the rate of Rs. 25 per mensem.

(c) Yes. No action is contemplated.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE GADDOKI IN TAHSIL KASUR.

33. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state whether it is a fact that one S. Chaman Singh, headman, and other residents of village Kot Luhi and village Gaddoki, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on the 23rd April, 1937, claiming therein a refund of Rs. 7,379-7-9, said to have been realized from them in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post located there between 1924 and 1927; if so, with what result?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Yes. Government are making certain inquiries regarding this matter, which was the subject of questions in the last autumn session of the old Council, but in view of the time that has elapsed it is unlikely in any event that a refund will be sanctioned.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE JAHMAN, DISTRICT LAHORE.

34. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that additional police post was quartered at village Jahman, district Lahore, in 1924 for a period of 3 years and also in 1930, which remained posted there for about 10 months;
- (b) the annual estimated as well as the actual costs of the police post for each year, the sanctioned strength of the police force for this punitive police post for each year, the strength of the police force which remained posted to the punitive police post during each quarter of the period of 3 years and 10 months mentioned above;
- (c) whether it is a fact that one B. Salig Ram and other residents of village Jahman submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on the 20th April, 1937, claiming therein a refund of Rs. 8,733-9-9, said to have been realized in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post; if so, with what result?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I regret that the answer to the question is not ready.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGES RAJOKI AND WAN, DISTRICT LAHORE.

35. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a punitive police post was located at villages Rajoki and Wan, police station Khakra, district Lahore, on the 1st April, 1928, for a period of two years;
- (b) the annual detailed accounts of estimated as well as the actual costs of the aforesaid punitive police post for the years 1928-29 and 1929-30, separately, the sanctioned strength of the police force for each year, and the strength of the police force posted to the punitive police post each year;
- (c) whether it is a fact that Boor Singh, Talok Singh and other residents of the aforesaid villages submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on the 8th April, 1937, which was received by his office on the 9th April, 1937, claiming therein the refund of a certain sum said to have been realized from them in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post located in their villages; if so, with what result?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) The honourable member is asked to see the reply given in the last autumn session of the old Council to question *6016¹, which contains much of the information for which he now asks. (The cost of the post for the second year was there given as Rs. 11,265-10-0. The correct figure is Rs. 10,997-2-0). As has been explained in the reply to question *32², it is never possible to state the "actual costs" of a body of additional police with exactitude. The sanctioned strength of this post was 1 sub-inspector, 4 head constables and 14 foot constables. Actually, as mentioned in the reply to the earlier question, the force was not kept up to full strength, and on this account Government are considering the advisability of reducing the demand, which has not yet been realized in full.

(c) Yes. As explained above, the case was already under consideration before the receipt of this petition.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE SAIDO AND OTHERS IN LAHORE DISTRICT.

36. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that punitive police post was quartered at villages Saido, Jaur Singhwala and Cheema, police station Patti, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, between 1921 and 1924;
- (b) the date on which the police post was located, the date on which it was withdrawn, the detailed annual estimated as well as the actual costs of the police force and the total amount realized from the village residents on account of the punitive police post tax;
- (c) whether it is a fact that one S. Suja Singh and other residents of the aforesaid villages submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on the 20th April, 1937, claiming therein a refund of certain sum said to have been realized from them in excess of the actual costs of the police post borne by the Government; if so, with what result?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes, for one year from the 20th February, 1923.

(b) The principal figures have been given in the reply to question No. 30³ put by the honourable member for Lahore City (General Constituency). As mentioned there, no figures are now available as to the actual outgoings.

(c) Yes. Considering that the petitioners themselves state that the realizations were completed in 1924, more than twelve years ago, Government are not prepared to re-open the matter or to make further inquiries.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE MATTA, TAHSIL KASUR, DISTRICT LAHORE.

37. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a punitive police post was quartered in village Matta, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, in February, 1926, which remained there for a period of 2 years and that Rs. 8,898-12-0 was recovered from the village residents on account of the punitive police post costs ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that Nizam Din and others of the said village submitted an application to the Honourable Premier which was received by his office on the 9th April, 1937, in which they claimed a refund of Rs. 24,361 realized from them in excess of the actual costs of the police force sent to their village ;
- (c) if the answer to (a) above be in the affirmative, whether he will lay on the table (i) their original application and a statement showing the strength of the police force sanctioned by the Government to be stationed in the punitive police post of the village mentioned above, for each year, (ii) the strength of the police force which was actually sent to this punitive police post and which remained stationed there for the prescribed period, (iii) the detailed original estimates of expenditure of stationing a punitive police post there and its actual cost ;
- (d) if the answer to (b) above be in affirmative, (i) whether any enquiry has been made by the Government, (ii) if so, the result thereof, (iii) and the decision, if any, arrived at by the Government in the matter ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes. The post was imposed for two years from the 15th February, 1926. The amount recovered was as stated.

(b) Yes. (The claim in the petition was for Rs. 2,476, not Rs. 24,361 as stated in the question).

(c) (i) A copy of the petition is laid on the table. The sanctioned strength of the post was one sub-inspector and six foot constables.

(ii) Information is not now available.

(iii) The calculated cost of the post was Rs. 4,540-2-0 for the first year and Rs. 4,298-10-0 for the second. As has been explained in replies to other questions, it is never possible to state the " actual cost " of a body of additional police with absolute precision. The essential figures have been given in the reply to question No. 90¹ put by the honourable member for Lahore City (General Constituency). As mentioned there, no figures are now available as to the actual outgoings.

[The Hon. Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan.]

(d) Recoveries on account of this post were completed in July 1929, nearly eight years ago, and Government are not prepared to re-open the matter at this stage or to institute any further inquiries.

Copy of petition from Nizam Din and others of village Matta, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, dated the 5th April, 1937.

We the undersigned village residents of Matta, district Lahore, beg to bring it to your notice that Additional Police Post was quartered in our village,—vide General Notification No. 1174, dated 3rd February, 1926, and No. 363, dated 7th February, 1927, and a sum of Rs. 8,838-12-0 was recovered from the village residents as costs of the aforesaid police post.

2. Now on enquiry we have come to know that the Government had wrongly realized from us the calculated costs though legally it should have realized the actual costs of the police force located in our Additional Police Post.

3. From the statement of expenditure of the police force attached herewith you will find that the actual costs do not exceed Rs. 6,452 while Rs. 8,838-12-0 had been realized from us. Hence we pray that enquiry be made in our case and Rs. 2,476 be refunded, as this sum had been illegally recovered from us.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE VALTOHA, TAHSIL KASUR, DISTRICT LAHORE.

*38. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether any punitive police post was quartered at village Valtoha, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, in October, 1925, which remained there for a period of 3 years ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, whether he will lay on the table a statement showing (i) the estimated as well as actual annual cost of the punitive police post for 3 years, (ii) the date of the punitive police posts arrival in the village, (iii) the date of its withdrawal, (iv) the name of the house-owner from whom the house was hired for the lodging of the police force, (v) the house-rent settled to be paid per month in the 1st, 2nd and 3rd year to the house-owner, (vi) the total rent paid to the house-owner annually during the stay of the punitive police post, (vii) the strength of the police force sanctioned by the Government to be sent to this police post, each year, (viii) the number of sub-inspectors of police, head constables and constables who actually remained on the service list of this police post in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th quarter of each year during the stay of the punitive police post ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that Babu Hans Raj and other residents of Valtoha, tahsil Kasur, submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on the 5th April, 1937, received by his office on the 9th April, 1937, in which they claimed a refund of Rs. 6,491-8-0 said to have been realized from them in excess of the actual cost of the punitive police force ;
- (d) if the answer to (c) be in the affirmative, whether he will lay on the table their original application and state (i) whether any enquiry has been made by the Government in this case, (ii)

if so, the result thereof, (iii) the decision, if any, arrived at by the Government regarding the refund of money claimed by the applicants, (iv) how far the statement of costs submitted by the aforesaid applicants has been found to be correct?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes. From the 1st November, 1925, to the 31st October, 1928.

(b) (i) The total cost was calculated at Rs. 14,386-8-0. A statement giving details is laid on the table. As has been explained in replies to other questions it is never possible to state the "actual cost" of a force of additional police with exactitude, and actually no details of the outgoings are now available.

(ii) 1st November, 1925.

(iii) 31st October, 1928.

(iv) Not on record.

(v) Rs. 13 per mensem.

(vi) Rs. 156 per annum.

(vii) 2 head constables and 10 foot constables.

(viii) Information not available at this stage.

(c) Yes.

(d) A copy of the petition is laid on the table. It has been ascertained on inquiry that recoveries on account of this post were completed as far back as July, 1932. Government are not prepared at this stage to re-open the matter.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Is there any time limit for the Government to pay back the money which they realize in excess?

Premier : The ordinary limit under the law I understand is three months.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Does this limit of three months apply to punitive taxes or other taxes also?

Premier : The ordinary limit under the law is three months.

Lala Duni Chand : Can the Honourable Premier quote the law or rule in the matter?

Premier : The honourable member is himself a lawyer and he should know.

Lala Duni Chand : I am of opinion that there is no such limitation.

Premier : I am not prepared to take that opinion as final.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : If the Honourable Premier is not prepared to accept that opinion as final, will he be prepared to quote the rule or law in the matter?

Premier : I am afraid I cannot give him the reference off-hand.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is it contained in the Limitation Act?

Premier : Yes.

An honourable member : What section ?

Premier : I have already said that I cannot give him the information off-hand.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : How, then, did you say that the limitation was three months ?

Premier : I made enquiries and was informed that limitation in these cases is three months.

Lala Duni Chand : May I point out to the Honourable Premier that there is no provision in the Limitation Act prescribing three months limitation for refunds ?

Premier : I am differently advised by my law officers and I prefer to accept their view and not of my honourable friend opposite.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I ask the Honourable Premier whether on moral grounds it is not justifiable for Government to refund the money ?

Premier : In cases where it was considered equitable to refund the amount, it had been refunded long before these questions were conceived.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Will the Honourable Premier cite the instances in which refunds have been made ?

Premier : I refuse to answer that question.

Lala Duni Chand : Is it true that in the case of private persons such a conduct will amount to misappropriation ?

Premier : No.

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order, Sir. May I draw your attention to the fact that the Honourable Premier stated that he refused to answer a question ? Is the Premier entitled under the rules to refuse to answer a question ? At the most he can only ask for notice.

Mr. Speaker : Yes, the Honourable Premier can refuse to answer a question if his answer would not be in the public interest.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Can the Honourable Premier simply refuse to answer a question or is he also bound to give his reasons for refusing to answer a question ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : Did the Honourable Premier refuse to answer the question in the present case on grounds of public interest ?

Premier : Yes.

Diwan Chaman Lall : What is the public interest involved ?

Premier : To avoid the waste of time of the House.

Copy of a letter, dated the 5th April, 1937, from Hans Raj and other residents of Valtoha, district Lahore, to the Chief Minister, Government Punjab, Lahore.

We the undersigned residents of village Valtoha, tahsil and district Lahore, beg to state as follows :—

- (1) That additional police post was quartered in our village for the period of 3 years,—vide Government notifications Nos. S-8265/124-4-A—25, dated 13th October, 1925, and 3587, dated 11th October, 1927, the cost of the aforesaid punitive police post amounting to Rs. 14,386-8-0 were imposed and recovered from us.
- (2) According to the provisions of section 15 (3), Act 5 of 1861 Government was entitled to the actual costs of the police force which practically remained located at our village during the stay of the punitive police post but instead of actual costs calculated costs had been realized from us.
- (3) From the statement regarding the actual expenses of the police force attached herewith you will find that Rs. 6,491-8-0 have been realized in excess. Hence we claim the refund of the same. We paid the amount demanded by the Government under the impression that the Government was collecting the due costs but later on we have come to know that the Government has assessed and recovered calculated and not the actual costs of the punitive police post.

Under these circumstances we would request you to make enquiries in our case and refund the amount realized in excess shown per statement attached herewith.

Statement showing the cost of the punitive police post at Valtoha village, district Lahore, according to the version of the village residents.

DISTRICT LAHORE.

*39. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a punitive police post was quartered in village Badrpur, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, in December, 1926, for a period of one year and Rs. 7,563-8-10 were realized from the village residents by the Government as cost of the punitive police post between 1926 and 1931;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the village residents submitted a petition to the Honourable Premier on the 2nd December, 1936, in which they claimed a refund of Rs. 2,280-8-0 said to have been realized from them in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post quartered in their village in 1926;
- (c) if the answer to (b) above be in affirmative, whether he will place on the table their original application, and state whether (i) any inquiry has been made by the Government and if so (ii) the result thereof, and (iii) the decision arrived at, if any, by the Government in this matter?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes. From the 8th December, 1936, to the 7th December, 1937. The amount realized was as stated.

(b) An undated petition claiming a refund was received in the Secretariat early in January.

(c) A copy of the petition is laid on the table. It has been ascertained that recoveries on account of this post were completed more than five years ago and Government are not prepared to make further inquiries at this stage.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : The Honourable Premier was pleased to say that in certain cases which were time barred no refund could be given. I should like to know what he proposes to do to guard the interests of the public that excess amounts are not realized so that they may not be taken as lapsed money.

Premier : Rules have been amended to avoid that contingency in the future.

Copy of a letter dated the 6th April, 1937, from Dr. Sant Ram Seth, M.L.A., Amritsar City, to the Honourable Chief Minister, Government Punjab, Lahore.

It has been brought to my notice that an additional police post was quartered in village Baddarpur, Police Station Lulliani, District Lahore, vide Government Notification No. 10706 dated 2nd December, 1926, and Rs. 7,563-8-10 were recovered from the village residents as the punitive police post tax.

On the 15th December, 1936, Sardar Taba Singh and other residents of the aforesaid village submitted an application to the Honourable Home Member, Punjab Government, in which they claimed the refund of Rs. 2,280-3-10. Their claim was based upon two points: (1) less police force was sent to their village than the sanctioned one by the Local Government; (2) full calculated costs and not the actual costs of the punitive police post were realized from them which were far in excess of the actual cost borne by the Government. I also herewith attach a statement showing the actual cost of the aforesaid police post according to the version of the village residents. In the charge sheet attached herewith reserve force expenses including its uniform allowance have been omitted as no reserve force was ever called in for the aid of this police post during its stay in the village.

Now the village residents complain that their grievances have not been attended to and no reply has been sent by the Government to the applicants though more than 4 months have passed.

May I request you to look into the matter and see that speedy enquiry is made in their case. I would also request you to communicate to me the result of your enquiry and the decision arrived at by the Government along with the detailed accounts of the actual costs borne by the Government for the said punitive police post.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE MAKHI KHURD AND MAKHI KALAN, TAHSIL KASUR, DISTRICT LAHORE.

40. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a punitive police post was quartered at village Makhi Khurd and Makhi Kalan, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore,—vide Government Notifications Nos. B.2750 dated 30th November, 1921, and 4092, dated 21st April, 1925, for a period of 4 years;
- (b) if the answer to (a) be in the affirmative whether he will lay on the table a statement showing (i) the details of the estimated as well as actual annual costs of the police force for each year, separately, (ii) the rate of pay which the sub-inspector of police, head constables and constables received per month during each year;
- (c) whether it is a fact that owing to the press agitation started by S. Sajjan Singh, one of the village residents, in 1925-26, arrears of the punitive police post tax were written off and some amount refunded to the village residents in 1926.
- (d) if the answer to (c) be in the affirmative (i) the amount written off, (ii) the amount sanctioned for refund and (iii) the amount actually refunded in cash;
- (e) whether it is a fact that S. Lachhman Singh and other village residents of the aforesaid village submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on the 20th April, 1937, received by his office on the 21st April, 1937, claiming a refund of Rs. 14,972-7-4 as amount realized in excess of the punitive police post actual costs;

- (f) if the answer to (e) be in the affirmative, whether he will lay on the table their original application and state, (i) whether any enquiry has been made by the Government regarding the refund claimed, and (ii) the decision, if any, arrived at by the Government about the claims for the refund?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes, from the 8th May, 1922, to the 7th May, 1926.

(b) (i) and (ii) The main figures have been given in the reply to question 80,¹ put by the honourable member for Lahore City (General Constituency). In this case the last recoveries were completed nearly eleven years ago. Government do not consider that they would be justified at this stage in attempting to collect the full details asked for in the question.

(c) A sum of Rs. 6,650-4-5, relating to initial charges and grain compensation allowances, was wrongly charged during the second and third year. This was subsequently adjusted. The attention of the honourable member is also invited to the reply given to question *6017,² put by Sardar Jawahar Singh Dhillon in the last autumn session of the old Council. As explained then, it was decided by Government to refund a small sum on account of the sale proceeds of the horses purchased for the post.

(d) (i) Rs. 5,243-5-7.

(ii) Rs. 1,406-14-10.

(iii) Rs. 1,406-14-10.

³(e) Yes.

(f) A copy of the application is laid on the table. In view of the length of time that has elapsed Government are not prepared to re-open the case or to make any further investigation.

Copy of a letter dated the 20th April, 1927, from Lachhman Singh and others, Makhi Khurd, to the Honourable Prime Minister, Government Punjab, Lahore.

We the undersigned residents of villages Makhi Khurd and Makhi Kalan, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, beg to state as follows :—

(1) A punitive police post was quartered in our villages,—vide Government notifications No. B, 2750 dated 30th November, 1921, and No. 4092/25-4—A.-21 dated 21st April, 1925, for the period of 4 years. Though announcement was made in the Government Gazette on the 30th November, 1921, but practically the mounted police force consisting of one sub-inspector, one senior 3rd grade head constable, one junior 3rd grade head constable and eight constables was sent to the village in May, 1922, and Rs. 12,393-5-7 were annually imposed upon the residents as the punitive police post tax out of Rs. 37,180-0-9 demand for the three years, Rs. 36,677-11-2 were recovered from the village residents by the end of December, 1925. (Rupees 502-5-7 being shown as arrears of the punitive police tax on the recovery file, vide Deputy Commissioner's order dated 19th January, 1926). For the first 3 years mounted police force remained in our police post but foot police force consisting of one sub-inspector police 2 head constables and 8 constables was sent to our police post which remained stationed for the period of one year.

(2) The total recovery of the punitive police post tax has been put down as Rs. 36,630-5-2 in the recovery file of the punitive police post which is wrong. Out of Rs. 37,180-0-9 demand for the 3 years Rs. 502-5-7 are shown as arrears, therefore the total recovery does not come to Rs. 36,630-5-2 but to Rs. 36,677-11-2.

(3) In June, 1925, Sardar Sajjan Singh one of the village residents and one of the undersigned made an enquiry about the recovery and the demands by the Government regarding ¹Page 283 ante.

²Vol. XXIX, pages 286-37.

[The Hon. Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan.]

the punitive police post costs and he came to the conclusion that the price of the horses were included in the recoveries of 2nd and 3rd year which was illegal and unjust as no horses were purchased during the period. He started agitation in the press as a result of which the Government ordered the refund of Rs. 7,152-10-0 as follows :—

- (a) Rupees 5,243-5-7 punitive police post tax for 4th year written.
 - (b) Rupees 502-5-7 arrears of 3rd year written.
 - (c) Rupees 1,406-14-10 refunded in cash to the residents.
- (4) Now we beg to claim Rs. 14,077-1-2 as refund on account of the tax realized in excess or in violation of section 15 (3) of Act V of 1861.
- (a) The mounted police force consisted of one sub-inspector of police, 2 head constables and 8 constables whose full description is given on page 7 remained in our police post during the period of 3 years.
 - (b) All the police employees of the mounted police force with the exception of Nur Mohammad, constable were sent home without any reward or pension after the withdrawal of the mounted police post. Nearly all of them were ex-military men and were drawing pensions from the Military Department, the charges made by the Government for pension of this police force were illegal, 10 out of 11 were not in the permanent service of the Government, therefore Government had not to pay any amount to them on or after their retirement from the services. According to the section 15 (3), Act V of 1861 Government can demand only the actual costs of the police force.
 - (c) Rupees 47 being the difference of actual recovery made from the residents and the recovery put down in the recovery file while totalling the calculated costs of the Government for 4 years and the amount realized within three years. Out of Rs. 37,180-0-9 demand for the 1st three years Rs. 502-5-7 were shown as arrears. The actual recovery being Rs. 36,677-11-2 and not Rs. 36,630-5-2.
 - (d) Rupees 360 charged on grain compensation from the village residents to which the Government was not entitled as the police force was never sent to the village before the 31st March, 1922, but it was sent to the police station Valtoha from where it used to pay occasional visits to the villages. No grain compensation was paid to any Government servant during the year 1922-23 and no compensation was paid to any of the police employees of this police post.
 - (e) According to the announcement made in the Government notification No.B.-2750, dated 30th November, 1921, the "specified area" for the location of the additional police post was the estates of village Makhi Khurd and Makhi Kalan and it was necessary that the police post during the year 1922-23. Police post should have been sent to the village and should not have been allowed to stay at Valtoha Police Station for the period of one year, i.e., from 8th May, 1922, to 7th May, 1923. During this period the police force sanctioned for our police post remained busy in controlling and patrolling the whole area under the jurisdiction of Valtoha Police Station. Then why should the village residents of Makhi Khurd and Makhi Kalan be called upon to bear the costs of this period ?
 - (f) The horses and other furniture were purchased at the costs of the villagers but they were taken to the police headquarters Lahore. After the withdrawal of the police post some of the horses were auctioned but the boxes and the other furniture such as charpies, chairs, were never put to auction and the Government took it into possession for further use without any title or right.
 - (g) The village residents were charged at the rate of 1/10th of the total pay of the police staff as the contingency expenses. It was too high a rate. The same rate could not be allowed in the 2nd, 3rd and the 4th year as no new furniture was purchased for the police force during these years.
 - (h) From 1st March, 1925, to 30th April, 1925, the whole of the police force with the exception of one head constable Sultan Khan remained absent from the police post and it remained engaged in searching some dacoits and other outlaws in Police Station Bhai Phero and Ganda Singh Wala. The costs of this period realized from the village residents should also be refunded.

(6) As laid down in section 15 (3), Act V of 1861, Government was entitled to the costs borne by her on account of the police force which actually remained present in the village police post during the period of 4 years, i.e., 8th May, 1922, to 7th May, 1926.

(7) We may also bring to your notice that Mr. Beli Ram, Sub-Inspector, Police, was dismissed in March, 1923, and in his place Chaudhary Sultan Khan, Head Constable, Police (Civil permanent) was put in charge of the punitive police post for the period of about one year. Similarly M. Mohammad Sharif, junior Head Constable, was dismissed from the police post in the 4th quarter of the year 1923 most probably in November, 1923, and his vacancy was never filled during the stay of the mounted police force in our police post. We wonder why we were asked to pay the same amount every year when the Government had to bear less costs of the police post. Had the district authorities been wise enough to ask for a report for the actual costs of the police post before issuing orders for recovery such a blunder would never have been committed. The amount already refunded is Rs. 7,152 which was recovered as the initial charges and the compensation charges for the period of 2 years, i.e., 1923-24 and 1924-25.

(8) Hence we would request you to make enquiry in our case and refund Rs. 14,972-9-4 as laid down on page 11 realized in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post or illegally for the same purposes.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGES CHEEMA AND DOBLI, POLICE STATION PATTI, DISTRICT LAHORE.

41. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether any punitive police post was quartered at villages Cheema and Dobli, police station Patti, district Lahore, in the year 1925, which remained there for 3 years ;
- (b) if the answer to question (a) be in the affirmative whether he will lay on the table a statement showing (i) the details of the calculated as well as (ii) the actual costs of this police post for each year ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that out of Rs. 17,998, total demand for 3 years, Rs. 388 were due from the village residents as arrears by the end of March, 1937 ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that S. Indar Singh and other village residents of the aforesaid village submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on the 21st April, 1937, in which they claimed a certain sum as refund said to have been realized from them in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post imposed upon them ;
- (e) if the answer to (d) be in the affirmative, whether he will lay on the table their original applications and state (i) the result of the enquiry, if made, and (ii) the decision, if any, arrived at by the Government regarding the refund claimed ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes, from the 1st June, 1925, to the 31st May, 1928.

[The Hon. Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan.]

(b) The principal figures have been given in the reply to question No. 30,¹ put by the honourable member for Lahore City (General Constituency). As has been explained in replies to other questions it is never possible to state the "actual costs" of a body of additional police with exactitude.

(c) The total demand for the three years was Rs. 17,323-12-9 and not Rs. 17,998 as stated in the question. Out of this, a sum of Rs. 388-14-5 is still recoverable. The question whether this outstanding balance should be remitted is already under the consideration of Government.

(d) Yes.

(e) A copy of the application is laid on the table. As already indicated, Government are considering the propriety of writing off the unrecovered amount. Otherwise they are not prepared to make any refund.

Copy of a letter, dated the 22nd April, 1937, from Indar Singh and others, village Cheema and Dohli, to the Honourable Prime Minister, Government Punjab, Lahore.

We the undersigned residents of village Cheema and Dohli, Police Station Patti, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, beg to state as follows :—

(1) That an additional police post was quartered at our villages in 1925 for the period of 3 years. The Government imposed upon us Rs. 17,998 as punitive police post tax, out of which Rs. 388-14-9 are still being shown as arrears.

(2) From the statement attached herewith you will find that there is great difference between the amount realized from the residents and amount actually spent by the Government. We think that the Government was wrong in realizing the calculated costs of the punitive police post. Legally it was entitled to the actual costs of the punitive police post, though some times the number of the police constables was reduced to 5 or 6 but we have allowed the maximum number that was ever found present in the punitive police post.

(3) We may bring it to your notice that the punitive police post was divided into two groups. One group consisting of one head constable and 4 constables used to stay at village Dohli where the house rent was Rs. 10 per mensem while the other group consisting of one sub-inspector, police, one head constable and 4 constables remained quartered at villages Cheema where the house rent was Rs. 10 per mensem also. For some months in the 1st year 5 constables remained with the Cheema group but their number was sometimes reduced to 5 or 6 in the 2nd and 3rd year. Hence we request you to make enquiry in the case and refund Rs. 298-12-6 realized in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post after deducting the present arrears .

At present our claim for refund consists of the following :—

| | Rs. | A. | P. |
|--|-------|----|----|
| 1. Difference between the recovery on the actual costs as given in the statements of costs | 2,881 | 12 | 6 |

NOTE 1.—The pay of the sub-inspector, police, head constable and constable has been calculated at the rate of Rs. 80, Rs. 30, and Rs. 17, respectively, per mensem per head.

NOTE 2.—More money has been allowed for the contingencies of year 1925-26 as furniture was purchased for the punitive police post in this year but no furniture was purchased during the years 1926-27 and 1927-28, therefore, less money allowed.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGES BHIKHIWIND, ETC., TAHSIL KASUR, DISTRICT LAHORE.

*42. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that punitive police post was quartered at villages Bhikhiwind, Bainska and Bler, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, in 1922, which remained there for 4 years ;

[Dr. Sant Ram Seth.]

- (b) if the answer to question (a) be in the affirmative, whether he will lay on the table a statement showing the details of (i) the estimated as well as (ii) the actual costs of the punitive police post for each year, (iii) the sanctioned strength of the punitive police post for each year and (iv) the actual average monthly attendance of the head constables and constables of the punitive police post for each year ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that Bhai Lal Singh, Achhar Singh, Baghel Singh and other residents of the aforesaid villages, submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on the 22nd April, 1937, in which they claimed the refund of a certain amount realized in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post ;
- (d) if the answer to (c) be in the affirmative whether he will (i) lay on the table their original application, and (ii) state whether any enquiry has been made by the Government in the matter, if so the result of the enquiry, and the decision, if any, arrived at by the Government regarding the refund claimed in the application ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes from the 9th May, 1922, to the 8th May, 1926.

(b) The principal figures have been given in the reply to question 301 put by the honourable member for Lahore City (General Constituency). In view of the time that has elapsed, Government do not think that they would be justified in attempting to collect the full details asked for in this question.

(c) Yes.

(d) A copy of the petition is laid on the table.

The recoveries in this case were not complete until comparatively recently, and Government are making certain further inquiries regarding it ; but I must make it clear that no sort of undertaking can be given at this stage that any refund will be sanctioned.

Copy of a letter dated the 22nd April, 1937, from Lall Singh and others, Lahore, to the Honourable Prime Minister, Government Punjab, Lahore.

We the undersigned residents of village Bhikhiwind, Bainska and Bler, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, beg to state as follows :—

(1) That a punitive police post was quartered in our villages in March 1922 which remained located for the period of 4 years. Rupees 28,584 were imposed upon the village residents as the costs of the aforesaid punitive police post. out of this tax due Rs. 28,504 have been recovered and Rs. 33-12-0 are being shown as arrears.

(2) During its stay in our villages the punitive police post made its headquarters at village Bler. We also bring it to your kind notice that in the year 1922-23, i.e., between March, 1922, and January, 1923, the punitive police post was shifted to Police Station Khalra, about 8 miles away from these villages where it remained located for 10 months.

According to the provisions of section 15, Act 5 of 1861, the Punjab Government had announced the location of the punitive police post in the 3 villages mentioned above and not at Khalra Station as laid down in the Government notification. The specified area as defined in section 15 (2) of the General Police Act was the aforesaid villages and not Police Station Khalra. The shifting of the punitive police post to the Khalra Police Station was illegal and the period for which the punitive police post remained there the inhabitants of these villages could not be called upon to bear the costs of the punitive police post for this period though they have been compelled to do so. Hence we can safely claim the refund of the tax realized from us for this period. No doubt the police force used to pay occasional visits to our villages but it also remained busy in patrolling the whole area under the jurisdiction of Khalra Police Station. No distinction being made between the various villages under Khalra Police Station the Government must bear the costs of this period.

(3) From the enquiry that we have been able to make we have come to the conclusion that the Government has realized more tax than the actual expenditure of the punitive police post. We wonder how the Government was justified in charging the same amount every year for the contingency expenses when it knew that no new furniture was purchased for the punitive police post during the 2nd, 3rd and 4th year of its stay in our villages. Even in the 1st year the charges for contingency at the rate of 1/10th of the salary of the police staff were too high.

(4) To the best of your recollection and knowledge the average number of constables in our punitive police post never exceeded 8. We think the Lahore District revenue authorities were greatly mistaken in demanding and recovering the calculated costs and not asking the police authorities to submit a report of the actual costs of the punitive police post for each year before issuing orders for the recovery of the punitive police post tax.

(5) From the statement of costs attached herewith you will find that Rs. 12,895-9-4 have been realized in excess which should be refunded to the village residents.

Another factor to be noted in this respect is that after the withdrawal of the punitive police post the charpais, boxes, and other furniture were taken to the Police Headquarters, Lahore, though they were the village residents property.

We also are entitled to its price.

(6) We should request you to make enquiry in our case and refund Rs. 12,895-9-4 due from the Government.

JATS AND OTHER CASTES OF VILLAGE FATEHGARH, DISTRICT FEROZEPURE, DECLARED CRIMINAL TRIBES.

43. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Jats, Gujjars and Sweepers of village Fatehgarh Sabral, district Ferozepore, were declared criminal tribes in 1923 and every adult male resident of this village belonging to any of these tribes was not allowed to leave his village boundary without permission;
- (b) whether it is a fact that since the declaration by the Government mentioned in question (a) all the adult male residents of the aforesaid tribes, are made to attend the criminal tribe settlement office at the village twice a day for roll-call;
- (c) if the answer to questions (a) and (b) be in the affirmative, whether he will lay on the table a statement showing (i) the names of all the adult males of the aforesaid tribes to whom the Government declaration applied, (ii) the offence which each of them committed prior to the declaration of the Government, (iii) the number of convictions of each of these persons prior to the aforesaid Government declaration and the nature of the offences committed, (iv) the periods during which each of them was required to attend the daily roll-call, (v) the date on which permits were granted to each of them by the District Magistrate, Ferozepore, to leave their village boundary, (vi) the number of convictions made against each of them from the date of the Government declaration of 1923, under the Criminal Tribes Act, up to the 15th March, 1937, and the nature of offences committed by each;

[Dr. Sant Ram Seth.]

- (d) whether it is a fact that the village residents of the aforesaid village submitted an application to the Honourable Premier on 12th March, 1937, requesting Government to reconsider their case individually on merits and free them from the application of the Criminal Tribes Act ;
- (e) if the answer to (d) be in the affirmative, whether he will lay on the table their original application and also state (i) whether any enquiry has been made by the Government in this matter, (ii) if so, the result of the enquiry, (iii) the decision arrived at by the Government about this application, if any ;
- (f) what was the area of land under cultivation in 1923 and what was the area under cultivation in 1936, and reasons for the difference, if any ;
- (g) whether it is a fact that military pensioners, headmen and other residents who had committed no offence and were never convicted by any criminal court were not exempted from the roll-call ;
- (h) if the answer to (g) be in the affirmative the number of such persons ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes.

(b) No. Altogether 150 persons have been registered up to date in pursuance of the Panjab Government notifications of 1923, but there are at present only 40 adults who are restricted under section 11 of the Criminal Tribes Act. Out of these 40, 28 reside in the village and attend the roll-call twice a day. The remaining 12 are :—

|--|---------|---|
| In Reformatory or Industrial Settlements | .. | 8 |
| Absconders from the Reformatory | | 3 |
| In Jail | | 1 |

(c) The preparation of a statement spread over so many years will take a long time and will, I think, not serve any very useful purpose. But I may inform the honourable member that cases are constantly being looked into with a view to removal of restrictions. It may further be explained that the District Magistrate, Ferozepore, does not grant leave to persons restricted in this village. This is done by the Department.

(d) Yes.

(e) (i) The application referred to in the question is probably in the knowledge of the honourable member, but all the same I am placing a copy of it in the table. As stated in reply to part (c) above the Deputy Commissioner for Criminal Tribes is constantly examining the cases of these villagers individually. In the circumstances Government do not propose to make any other kind of investigation.

(ii) and (iii) Do not arise.

| (f) Area under cultivation in 1923 | 576 acres. |
| Area under cultivation in 1936 | 1,043 acres. |

The increase is due to the reclamation of waste land, which has been brought under cultivation by the efforts of the Criminal Tribes Department.

(g) and (h) The total number of military pensioners registered at any time in pursuance of the notifications was two and of headmen two. Of the former one was exempted after less than two months; the other, who has been suspected in a number of criminal cases, is still restricted to the village. The two headmen were registered in December, 1923, and January, 1924, respectively. The first was exempted three months later, the second in 1928.

Copy of a letter dated the 12th March, 1937, from the residents of village Sabrai Fatehgarh, district Ferozepore, to the Honourable Home Member, Government Punjab, Lahore.

We, the undersigned residents of village Sabrai Fatehgarh, thana Makhu, district Ferozepore, beg to submit as follows:—

(1) In the year 1923 our village was declared as a crime settlement and since then we have been subject to hardships.

(2) For more than 11 years we were compelled to be present twice a day at the roll-call and none of the residents was allowed to leave the village premises without permission.

(3) During the last three years some of the residents have been granted permits under section 6, Act No. 6 of 1924, but still their liberty is at the mercy of the police and the other executive authorities. This long detention of ours has made our lives miserable and wretched. Our lives are more miserable than the animals even. In the present regime the birds have the liberty to fly from one place to another but we are deprived even of this privilege.

(4) Great injustice has been done to the residents in declaring the village as a whole to be a criminal settlement. From the statement attached herewith you will find that 75 per cent. of the residents are such who have never been convicted for theft and similar other offences. Some of the persons were under teens when the village was declared as a criminal settlement, but no sooner they reach the adult age they are treated as criminals and deprived of their liberty without any fault on their part. They are being punished for their innocence.

(5) By this time most of the alleged criminals have amended their ways and have commenced cultivation most rigorously and in great earnest.

(6) We pray that enquiry be made in each individual case and those of the residents who have never been guilty of any offence should be liberated from the clutches of Act 6 of 1924.

As all the residents (Jats) are owner of the land and live upon cultivation, so they could be treated as a criminal tribe; hence we request for the withdrawal of order passed by the Government under Act 6 of 1924.

COMMUNAL REPRESENTATION IN SERVICES OF THE RESIDENTS OF MONTGOMERY DISTRICT.

44. Mian Sultan Mahmud Hotiana: (i) Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

(a) how many residents of the Montgomery district hold gazetted provincial posts in the Executive and Judicial departments of the Government;

(b) what is the proportion that obtains as regards different communities in these departments, particularly of the Mussalmans of the Montgomery district;

(c) if the Muslim community in general and that of the Montgomery district in particular is not adequately represented, what the Government proposes to do in this connexion?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (i) (a) Four but a good many others possess property in Montgomery and will probably reside there after retirement. Virtually, therefore, Montgomery may be regarded as well represented in these two branches of the service.

(b) The honourable member is referred to the History of Services of Gazetted Officers and the consolidated statement showing the proportionate representation of the various communities serving in the different departments of Government, copies of which are available in the Assembly Library.

(ii) In accepting candidates for appointment to the Punjab Civil Service (Executive and Judicial Branches) Government takes the following factors into consideration :—

(a) their merits,

(b) the religion they profess,

(c) whether they are agriculturists or non-agriculturists.

They cannot undertake to consider any other factor.

Chaudhri Sahib Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Premier please state the number of Muslims belonging to the Ambala division and their proportion to the whole cadre ?

Premier : If the honourable member gives me notice of that question I shall endeavour to collect the information.

BENCHES OF HONORARY MAGISTRATES IN MONTGOMERY DISTRICT.

45. Mian Sultan Mahmud Hotiana : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Government contemplates constituting new benches of honorary magistrates in the Montgomery district ;

(b) if the answer to part (a) above is in the affirmative, whether the Government will consider the claims of the old established families of the district in their selection ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) No such proposal is under consideration at present.

(b) Does not arise.

LAND IN THE NILI BAR COLONY.

46. Mian Sultan Mahmud Hotiana : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue please state—

(a) how much land lies still undistributed in the Nili Bar colony ;

(b) whether the Government contemplates distributing such area in the near future ;

(c) whether at the time of allotment it is intended to compensate those zamindars whose lands have suffered through the action of the Sutlej ;

(d) whether Government is aware that there are old inhabitants of the districts of Multan and Montgomery, living on the banks of the Sutlej, who, though agriculturists, hold no land and live merely on the dairy products ;

(e) if the answer to question (c) is in the affirmative, whether the Government intends to consider their claim in the allotment of the land in the Nili Bar colony ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : It is regretted that the reply to the question is not yet ready.

NILI BAR BUFFALOES.

47. Mian Sultan Mahmud Hotiana : Will the Honourable Minister of Development be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Nili Bar buffaloes are the best breed in the Punjab, and, if so, what measures the Government has adopted to protect this breed from extinction ;

(b) if no such measures have been adopted so far whether the Government proposes to take steps in this direction now ?

The Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram : (a) The Nili Bar breed of buffaloes is one of the best breeds of buffaloes in the Punjab. But there are no valid grounds to suppose that the breed is threatened with extinction. Government have arranged for the conversion of the Bahadurnagar Grantee Cattle Farm in the Montgomery district into a buffalo-breeding farm, specially for the Nili and Ravi breeds of buffaloes.

(b) Does not arise.

RESIDENTS OF MONTGOMERY DISTRICT AND THEIR REPRESENTATION IN SERVICES.

48. Mian Sultan Mahmud Hotiana : (i) Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state how many residents of the Montgomery district hold gazetted posts in the Canal and Revenue Departments of the Government and what is the communal representation of those residents in those services ;

(ii) if the Muslim community of the Montgomery district is meagrely represented, what the Government proposes to do in this connection ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (i) The honourable member is referred to the History of Services of Gazetted Officers, a copy of which is available in the Assembly Library and to the consolidated statement showing the proportionate representation of the various communities serving in the different departments of the Punjab Government on the 1st January, 1937, copies of which were supplied to all honourable members.

(ii) In making appointments to services Government cannot undertake normally to take into consideration the district to which a candidate belongs.

POLITICAL AND TERRORIST PRISONERS IN THE PUNJAB JAILS.

49. Chaudhri Kartar Singh : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) the number of political prisoners in the Punjab jails and the dates of the expected release of each of them ;
- (b) a similar statement as in (a) above about the terrorist prisoners ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the terrorist prisoners are kept in cells at night and are not allowed to mix with other prisoners in the day time ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that many of the prisoners mentioned in (c) above have represented to the Government that their confinement in the jails, as conducted at present, amounts to solitary confinement, if so, whether the Government intends to remove this complaint of the prisoners ;
- (e) whether Government intends to release all the political and terrorist prisoners in the Punjab ;
- (f) the number of persons interned in the Punjab in their own villages and the offences for which they are so interned ;
- (g) whether Government intends to remove the restrictions imposed on persons mentioned in (f) above ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) The honourable member is asked to see the reply given to question 5.¹

(b) The number of prisoners classed as terrorists is 49. Many of these prisoners are undergoing life sentences and it is not possible to mention a date when they are likely to be released.

(c) Yes.

(d) No.

(e) Government have no intention of making a general release of the kind the honourable member appears to have in mind.

(f) The number of persons at present interned in their villages under section 3 of the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 1935, is 15. They have been interned for having acted in a manner prejudicial to the public safety or peace, or in furtherance of a movement prejudicial to the public safety or peace.

(g) No.

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : Will the Honourable Premier please state under which law the terrorist prisoners are kept in solitary confinement ?

Premier : (Beginning to answer in Urdu.)

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order, can the Honourable Premier speak in Urdu ?

Mr. Speaker : No.

Premier : I am afraid I cannot cite off-hand the law under which this is done. But if the honourable member will give me notice, I will be glad to supply the information.

M. Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din : On a point of order, cannot the Honourable Premier's answer be translated into Urdu ?

Mr. Speaker : No. I have already given my ruling on the point.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : I want to know whether an arrangement for a translator is made. You promised last time to make arrangements for a translator in this session.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member, if he will please refer to the proceedings of the last session, will find that his impression is wrong.

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : Will the Honourable Premier answer the question personally or on the floor of this House ?

Premier : If the Honourable the Spoker wishes me to do so.

Lala Duni Chand : Has the new Government decided upon any particular policy with regard to the question of the release of political prisoners; and, if so, will the Honourable Premier please state what the policy is ?

Mr. Speaker : As notices of several questions on that subject have been received already, I would request the honourable member to wait till those questions are answered.

PRESS IN THE PUNJAB.

50. Khwaja Ghulam Hussain : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) the number and the names of the newspapers in the Punjab that were called upon to deposit security during the years 1934, 1935 and 1936, and also the places of publication of such newspapers ;
- (b) the number and the names of papers that have deposited the amount demanded and the amount so demanded from them ;
- (c) the particular reason for which each such newspaper was called upon to deposit the security ;
- (d) the number and the names of the newspapers that have failed to deposit the security so demanded and that went out of publication ;
- (e) whether this action of demanding securities was taken under the Indian Press (Emergency Powers) Act, 1931, and if so, what was the total amount forfeited ;
- (f) in how many cases the matter was referred by the aggrieved parties to the High Court and with what result ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) to (d) : A statement¹ giving detailed information is laid on the table.

(e) Yes. Total amount forfeited was Rs. 1,250.

(f) In two cases appeal was preferred to the High Court. One was rejected and the other is still pending.

MUNICIPALITIES AND THE RESOLUTION DISAPPROVING OR WELCOMING THE PRESENT CONSTITUTION.

*51. Khwaja Ghulam Hussain : (i) Will the Minister of Public Works be pleased to state—

(a) the names of the municipalities in the Punjab which passed resolutions for closing their offices and institutions under them on the 1st of April, 1937, to mark their disapproval of the constitution as contained in the Government of India Act, 1935 ;

(b) the number and the names of municipal committees which passed resolutions welcoming the constitution ;

(c) in how many cases the deputy commissioners exercised their powers under section 232 of Municipal Act and suspended the resolutions of the municipal committees ;

(d) whether any explanation was demanded from and submitted by the municipalities mentioned in (a), if so, the names of the municipal committees which submitted their explanations ;

(ii) will the Honourable Minister be pleased to lay such explanations on the table of the Assembly, if not, why not ;

(iii) will the Honourable Minister be pleased to state what have been the ultimate orders by the Commissioners or the Local Government (as the case may be) on the action taken by the deputy commissioners in each case ;

(iv) will the Honourable Minister also state whether confidential instructions were issued to the deputy commissioners directing therein to suspend such resolutions, and, if so, what were the reasons which led the Government to issue such instructions ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hyat Khan Tiwana : (a) The Municipal Committees of Ludhiana and Lyallpur.

(b) Two. The Municipal Committees of Rewari and Amritsar.

(c) Two.

(d) Yes. Municipal Committees of Ludhiana and Lyallpur.

(ii) The explanations of the Committees are laid on the table.

(iii) The Commissioners confirmed the orders of the Deputy Commissioners.

(iv) Government are not prepared to make a statement about confidential correspondence with Deputy Commissioners.

Khwaja Ghulam Hussain : Will the Honourable Member please state the reasons for not disclosing that correspondence ?

Minister : Public interest.

Copy of resolution No. 29, passed at an ordinary meeting of the Ludhiana Municipal Committee, held on the 9th of April, 1937, in the Town Hall.

29. Laid before the committee letter No. 2743, dated 31st March, 1937, from the Deputy Commissioner, Ludhiana, suspending resolution No. 1437, dated 30th March, 1937, re the closing of schools and municipal offices on the 1st of April, 1937, as a matter of protest against the inauguration of the New Constitution in India.

With proposal of Lala Tilak Ram seconded by Kh. Muhammad Azam and supported by Ch. Mehar Din that the following reply be submitted to the Commissioner as an explanation from the committee :—

The New Constitution which was to be enforced from 1st April, 1937, is against the public will. The country had decided to stop all business in protest on this date. The municipal committee is a representative body and the new Government of India Act also affects the municipalities in its operation. The committee, therefore, in recognition of its duty, had represented the true public opinion. This is why sixteen municipal commissioners including Hindus, Muhammadans and Sikhs participated in passing resolution No. 1437, dated 30th March, 1937. Only 4 nominated members voted against this resolution. There was no apprehension of any breach of peace by this resolution. In the opinion of the committee section 232 of the Punjab Municipal Act does not apply to such a resolution. The committee, therefore, requests the Commissioner that in view of the public opinion the resolution of the committee, dated 30th March, 1937, be upheld.

With proposal of Mian Raushan Din seconded by Haji Asghar Ali that the committee regarding the reasons, given by the Deputy Commissioner in his letter No. 2743, dated 30th March, 1937, as correct admits that the committee was wrong in passing the resolution in question and requests the Commissioner to kindly confirm the order of the Deputy Commissioner.

On being put to vote the proposal of Lala Tilak Ram was carried by a majority of 12 for and 4 against.

Copy of resolution No. 2, passed by the Lyallpur Municipal Committee in its ordinary meeting held on 14th April, 1937.

2. Resolution No. 2, dated 31st March, 1937, together with Deputy Commissioner's order of the same date suspending the above resolution by virtue of the powers vested in him under section 232 of the Punjab Municipal Act, 1911, on the ground that the carrying out of this resolution is likely to cause annoyance to the public and further requests that the explanation of the committee, if any, should be submitted within 15 days of the receipt of this endorsement, if no explanation is so received it will be presumed that the committee has nothing to say.

2. Proposed by Sardar Sant Singh that in reply to the letter No. 147-S. T., dated 31st March, 1937, of the Deputy Commissioner suspending the resolution No. 2, dated 31st March, 1937, by which the municipal committee decided to close the municipal office and other municipal institutions on 1st April, 1937, as a protest against the enforcement of the New Constitution, the municipal committee forwards the following justification for its motion :—

There has been several conflicts in the past in the interpretation of section 232 of the Municipal Act. Several municipal committees have successfully claimed the powers of the municipal committees to discuss and record their opinions and take suitable action on matters of public interest and importance. The municipal committee is a mouth-piece of the local public opinion and as such in our opinion is constitutionally competent to express such opinion.

Coming to the question now before the House, the closing of the municipal office and the institutions under the Municipal Committee in accordance with the public desire and in order to impress upon His Majesty's Government that the constitution as embodied in the Government of India Act, 1935, is not acceptable to the Indian people is within the competence of the Municipal Committee.

This has been a verdict of almost the whole of the political India and hence it was clear that such closing of the municipal office and other municipal institutions in Lyallpur could not obviously cause any annoyance to the public but on the contrary the action of the municipal committee was highly appreciated and welcomed by the public at large in Lyallpur.

The complete hartal that Lyallpur observed on the 1st April has amply proved that no annoyance was caused to the public and thus the opinion of the committee as embodied in the resolution has been fully justified by subsequent events. At the same time it will not be out of place to point out that Amritsar municipal committee actually closed its office and institutions on the 1st of April on the grounds of welcoming the constitution and yet this resolution was not suspended.

This act of Amritsar municipal committee was against the overwhelming opinion of the residents of that town and was more likely to cause annoyance and yet it was not suspended on that ground. Action at Lyallpur and non-action at Amritsar, the committee painfully notes is likely to create an impression of partisan spirit of the administration which the administration in their own interest should at all costs avoid.

SECONDED BY LALA BHAGAT RAM.

Proposal put to vote and carried by majority.

Members who voted in favour of the above proposal—

- (1) Sardar Sant Singh.
- (2) Lala Ganesh Datt.
- (3) Lala Ram Narain.
- (4) Lala Diwan Chand.
- (5) Lala Bhagat Ram.
- (6) Dr. Nand Lal.
- (7) Seth Banwari Lal.
- (8) Malik Mathra Das.

Members who voted against the proposal—

- (1) Mr. S. David.
- Malik Ishar Das, Sardar Sundar Singh and Malik Lakhmi Das remained neutral.

HARI SINGH OF VILLAGE SUNDH.

*52. Sardar Hari Singh: Will the Honourable the Premier please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that Hari Singh of village Sundh, district Jullundur, was taken into custody by an official of the Punjab C. I. D. within the jurisdiction of police station Banga in district Jullundur, on 10th February, 1937, and taken away in a car to Phagwara in Kapurthala State;
- (b) whether any police official of Kapurthala State was present at the time of the said Hari Singh's arrest;

- (c) whether the arresting C. I. D. official was armed with an extradition warrant and the requisite requisition from the said State ;
- (d) the case in connection with which he was arrested ;
- (e) the date on which the said Hari Singh was transferred from the State custody to the custody of the Punjab police ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) No.

(b), (c) and (d) Do not arise.

(e) There was no such transfer.

DAMAGE BY HAILSTORM.

53. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable the Revenue Minister please state—

- (a) whether he is aware that considerable damage was caused by hailstorm on 18th April to wheat crops and mango blossom in certain parts of Hoshiarpur district ;
- (b) which of the villages are reported to be affected by the said calamity and the Government estimate of the extent of damage ;
- (c) what steps the Government propose to take to give relief to the peasants affected, and if no action is to be taken, the reasons for the same ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) The hailstorm on the 18th April caused some damage to wheat crop and mango blossom in certain parts of the Hoshiarpur district.

(b) A list of the villages affected by the hailstorm is placed on the table. In the Garhshanker tahsil except in very few villages damage caused was in appreciable ; in the villages of the Una tahsil damage caused was about annas 6 in a rupee of the average crop.

(c) Government have already issued instructions for the grant of relief in the affected areas and it is being given.

Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable Minister be pleased to state whether any remission has been granted to the people of Hoshiarpur district in this revenue instalment ?

Minister : Yes.

Sardar Hari Singh : What is the amount of remission ?

Minister : I cannot give you the figure.

Sardar Hari Singh : I want this information here on the floor of the House.

Minister : I cannot give you that information on the floor of the House.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : Can the Honourable Minister give us any information whether any remission has been given in any part of the Punjab to the fruit orchards on account of the damage done by hailstorm ?

Minister : This matter would be covered by ordinary rules. I do not think I can give you any information.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : Can you tell us whether any remission has been given? If not, why not?

Minister : I am afraid the honourable member can only know about his own fruit orchards.

Chaudhri Kartar Singh (Urdu) : When remission has been given to all the districts in the Punjab, why is it that the case of Hoshiarpur district has not been decided yet?

Minister : Remission has been given, but I am afraid I cannot give you the figures.

Sardar Hari Singh : Will he please lay a statement on the table of the House to-morrow?

Minister : I cannot do that to-morrow.

Mr. Speaker : That is not a supplementary question, but a notice of a fresh question.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : Can the Honourable Minister say whether any remission has been given in any part of the Punjab?

Mr. Speaker : He has already answered that question—

Sardar Sampuran Singh : No, Sir, he has not answered that point.

Minister : I want notice of that question.

POLITICAL PRISONERS.

54. Sardar Hari Singh: Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) the number of political prisoners at present undergoing imprisonment including State prisoners, Martial Law, Babbar Akali and Conspiracy Case prisoners, category-wise, convicted by courts of the British Punjab, whether kept in the Punjab jails or outside;
- (b) the number of the said prisoners detained outside the Punjab with the places of their detention?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan: There are at present 7 persons detained in jails in the Punjab as State prisoners by orders issued by the Governor-General in Council under Regulation III of 1818. Of the prisoners convicted by the Martial Law Tribunals in 1919 twelve were still in confinement when the question was put. Of these six are in the Andamans serving sentences of transportation for life, the remainder in jails in the Punjab. I may add that orders were issued that they should be released immediately. If the honourable member will inform me precisely what he means by " Babbar Akali prisoners " and " Conspiracy Case prisoners " I will endeavour to furnish a reply to the remainder of the question.

Lala Duni Chand : What is the policy of the Government? Has the new Government decided upon any policy, particularly policy with regard to the release of political prisoners, and if the new Government has decided upon any such policy will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state that policy on the floor of the House?

Premier : Sir, I gave an indication of the policy of the Government on the opening day of the present session. I may inform the House, if they are not already aware, that all the Martial Law prisoners would be released immediately (hear, hear, from Ministerial benches). With regard to other political prisoners I also want to inform this House that their cases are examined periodically with a view to see whether in the interest of public safety they can be released. This policy will continue.

Sardar Hari Singh : The Honourable Premier has been pleased to remark that State prisoners are detained under the orders of the Governor-General in Council. I would ask the Honourable Premier to state whether they can be released under the orders of the Governor-General in Council or even by the Provincial Government?

Premier : I do not think we can supersede the orders of the Governor-General in Council, but I believe that the Punjab Government is in a position to recommend their release.

Sardar Hari Singh : The Honourable Premier has not said how many prisoners are kept outside the Punjab?

Premier : I am afraid I cannot give you that information.

Dr. Gopi Chand : At present or never?

Premier : At present.

Sardar Hari Singh : Am I to understand that this information cannot be given because you have no information in your possession, or is it because of public interest?

Premier : (While sitting). I have.....

Mr. Speaker : Will the Honourable Premier please answer questions standing?

Premier : I have already replied to that question. The information is not available at present. When it is available it will be communicated to the honourable member.

Sardar Hari Singh : Can I know the grounds on which the prisoners are kept outside the Punjab jails?

Premier : I am afraid I cannot give you that information offhand.

INTERNEES.

55. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state the names of persons interned in their residential towns or villages in the province and under constant police surveillance under the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : It is not in the public interest to divulge the names of these persons.

NEWSPAPERS AND PRESSES.

56. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state the names of newspapers and presses whose securities have been forfeited since 1930 with the amounts of these securities ?

RURAL DEBT OF THE PROVINCE.

*57. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) the Government estimate of the amount of rural debt of the province ;
- (b) the total amount claimed by (i) the private money-lenders and (ii) the Co-operative Societies and Banks, etc., respectively ;
- (c) what practical steps the Government propose to take to liquidate the rural debt ;
- (d) whether the Government has considered the question of the declaration of a moratorium for a number of years, if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) For the agricultural classes the last estimate of the debt made in 1931 is 140 crores. For 1929 the Punjab Banking Enquiry Committee estimated the debt at 135 crores. Both estimates are very tentative, and very possibly an over-estimate.

There is not even a tentative estimate of the debt of the non-agricultural classes.

(b) (i) No estimate is available.

(ii) Figures are given in statements A and B of the Co-operative Societies Department Annual Report.

(c) The honourable member's attention is invited to the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act, VII of 1934, and the Punjab Debtors Protection Act, II of 1936. Conciliation Boards under the former Act have been appointed and are working in five districts. Government understand that much old debt is being liquidated by mutual agreement between debtor and creditor.

(d) Government have no intention of declaring a moratorium.

Sardar Hari Singh : This question is against the Honourable the Premier. May I know if the Honourable Minister of Revenue is acting as a proxy for the Premier ?

Minister : No, it is my question.

Premier : The honourable member addressed the question wrongly.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : A point of order. If the question is admitted in the form that the Honourable the Premier has to reply to it, can it then be answered by any other honourable member ?

Mr. Speaker : Yes, that is provided in the rules.

Sardar Hari Singh : The Honourable Minister of Revenue has been pleased to state that the figures of the total amount claimed by the private money-lenders and the Co-operative Societies and banks are not available. May I ask if the total amount claimed by the Co-operative Societies too is not available ?

Minister : I think he never asked that question. If he will give me a notice I will give the reply.

Sardar Hari Singh : My question has been on record already.

Minister : The information is not easily available, but I will try to get that information for the honourable member.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : That information is available in the Annual Report of the Co-operative Societies Department.

TAHSILDAR OF PHILLAUR.

58. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable the Minister of Revenue please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Tahsildar at Phillaur, district Jullundur, committed suicide, as appeared in the press, in the third week of April last ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the said official left behind a document explaining therein the circumstances that prompted him to commit suicide ;
- (c) whether an inquest was held into the matter, if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes.

(b) The document to which the question presumably refers purports to be a sort of application for leave and transfers and contains irrelevant matter which Government can now regard as explanatory circumstances clearly showing an unbalanced frame of mind which prompted the Tahsildar to commit suicide.

(c) The body of the deceased was carefully examined by the local doctor and an inquest was held by the Additional District Magistrate and the Deputy Superintendent of Police who all held that it was a clear case of suicide.

CHOS IN HOSHIARPUR DISTRICT.

59. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable the Minister of Revenue please state—

- (a) whether he is aware of the extent of the havoc wrought by the chos every year in Hoshiarpur district ;
- (b) the total area of land under cultivation, and the land under chos in the said district ;
- (c) whether the Punjab Government ever in the past considered the question of launching engineering schemes to put a stop to cho havoc or to minimise the damage done to agriculture by the chos in the said district, if so, what were the Government proposals and what prevented their execution ;
- (d) what the Government proposes to do now ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes.

(b) Exact figures of the total area of land under cultivation are not available. According to the figures supplied by the Deputy Commissioner, Hoshiarpur, the areas under chos and sand was 84,859 acres in the year 1927.

(c) and (d). Mr. Holland, Deputy Conservator of Forests, who examined the whole position on behalf of Government in 1928, reported that engineering works were not a practical proposition. Government followed up this report in 1934 by appointing Mr. Hamilton, Deputy Conservator of Forests, to devise ways and means for dealing with the whole problem, which is mainly one of afforestation. Various measures have since been initiated with the co-operation of the people, which Mr. Hamilton has been singularly successful in obtaining. These are described in the annual Land Revenue Administration Reports which are open for sale to the public. The attention of the honourable member is also invited to the answer given to part (d) of Council question No. *6098¹ in October 1936.

WATERLOGGING.

60. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable the Minister of Revenue please state—

- (a) the area of land affected by waterlogging in tahsil Dasuya, district Hoshiarpur ;
- (b) the extent of the economic loss suffered by the peasantry on account of the said waterlogging ;
- (c) whether the Government has considered the question of reclaiming the said waterlogged area and, if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) The area now affected by sem (if this is what the honourable member means by waterlogging) is 751 acres.

(b) As waterlogging has existed for many generations, it is not possible to estimate the extent of loss without making an elaborate enquiry which would lead to no practical result.

(c) As a result of investigations by the Sanitary Department and the Punjab Drainage Board a drainage scheme has been introduced and other remedial measures adopted which have made the reclamation of large areas possible. The work on the scheme is still in progress and it is hoped further areas will be reclaimed.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : What are the other remedial measures referred to by the Honourable Minister.

Minister : The Forest Department is taking necessary action about afforestation.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : My question is, what is that necessary action ?

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

ADDITIONAL POLICE FORCE IN VILLAGES IN SHEIKHUPURA
DISTRICT.

31. Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to lay on the table statement showing :—

- (a) the names of the villages in the Sheikhpura district in which additional police force was quartered between the years 1919 and 1936 ;
- (b) the period for which the police force remained quartered in each of these villages ;
- (c) the date of its location in and withdrawal from each such village

FORFEITURE OF JAGIR OF SARDAR SARDUL SINGH CAVEESHER.

34. Lala Duni Chand : With reference to the answer given to a short notice question¹ in the last session of the Assembly

Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether his attention has been invited to the statement by Sardar Sardul Singh Caveesher published in a local newspaper on the 4th of May 1937 ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the sentence of six months' rigorous imprisonment, in consequence of which the muafi granted to the said Sardar Sardul Singh was resumed, was not the first of its kind and that smaller sentences of rigorous imprisonment had been awarded to him on many occasions before ;
- (c) whether it is also a fact that this sentence of six months' imprisonment was awarded not for sedition but for picketting and that peaceful picketting was then allowed to Indians under the Gandhi-Irwin Pact ;
- (d) if the answers to (a), (b) and (c) above be in the affirmative, whether he has anything to add to the answer already given with regard to the resumption of muafi granted to Sardar Sardul Singh Caveesher ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Sardar Sardul Singh was convicted for picketting and for parading in a public street in an objectionable manner.

(d) No.

FORFEITURE OF JAGIR OF SARDAR SARDUL SINGH CAVEESHER.

35. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the payment of muafi granted to the family of Sardar Sardul Singh Caveesher was first stopped in 1931 pending final decision not for any political activity on the part of the said Sardar Sardul Singh but on account of a private dispute ultimately decided in favour of the said Sardar Sardul Singh ;
- (b) when a report was made to the Government for the first time recommending the resumption of the muafi and whether this report was made during the pendency of the dispute or after it had been decided ;
- (c) the reasons given by the officer recommending the resumption of the muafi ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) The muafi was held in deposit since 1931 as it was in dispute between the Sikh Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee and Sardar Sardul Singh.

- (b) After the decision of the dispute in March 1936.
- (c) Contravention of the condition of good behaviour attached to the muafi.

FORFEITURE OF JAGIR OF SARDAR SARDUL SINGH CAVEESHER.

36. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) the terms of the muafi granted to the family of Sardar Sardul Singh Caveesher and the particular term broken by the said Sardar Sardul Singh Caveesher ;
- (b) whether the final decision resuming the muafi was taken after having obtained legal opinion on the question that conviction for peaceful picketing amounted to a breach of any of the terms of the grant of the said muafi?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) The grant was originally made in favour of Sardar Tara Singh, son of Sardar Gopal Singh, for his life and was to be continued after his death to his legitimate male issue in perpetuity subject to the payment of half revenue and good behaviour. The latter condition of good behaviour was broken by Sardar Sardul Singh.

(b) Government was advised that the conduct of Sardar Sardul Singh Caveesher constituted a breach of the condition of the grant and it was consequently resumed.

FORFEITURE OF JAGIR OF SARDAR SARDUL SINGH CAVEESHER.

37. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Central Jail, Lahore authorities were asked to supply information as to the nature of the sentence awarded to Sardar Sardul Singh Caveesher ;
- (b) when such information was asked for from the jail authorities and when was the same supplied by them ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) and (b) An inquiry was made from the Superintendent of the Lahore Central Jail on this subject by the Deputy Commissioner, Gurdaspur, on the 6th November last. This was answered on the 17th November. It is not clear whether this is the inquiry which the honourable member had in view when he asked his question.

FORFEITURE OF JAGIR OF SARDAR SARDUL SINGH CAVEESHER.

38. Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the order of the Governor in Council conveyed to Sardar Sardul Singh Caveesher in March last, resuming his muafi was that the muafi was resumed with effect from rabi 1931 ;

[Lale Duni Chand.]

- (b) whether it is also a fact that the sentence of six months' rigorous imprisonment forming basis of the resumption of muafi was awarded to the said Sardar Sardul Singh Caveesher nearly two years after rabi 1931, that is in 1933, the reasons for the disparity in these dates?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes.

(b) The muafi was in dispute between the Sikh Gurdwaras Parbandhak Committee and Sardar Sardul Singh Caveesher. When it was decided that Sardar Sardul Singh was entitled to the muafi it was found that Sardar Sardul Singh had committed breach of the condition of good behaviour attached to the muafi which was consequently resumed from the date it was not drawn, i.e., rabi 1931.

FIFTEEN PER CENT. CUT.

39. Khan Sahib Nawab Muhammad Saadat Ali Khan : Will the Honourable Minister of Finance be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that owing to the fifteen per cent. cut Government servants who were previously drawing Rs. 40 per mensem are now drawing Rs. 35, and those who were drawing Rs. 30 per mensem are now drawing Rs. 25 ;
- (b) how much money was saved last year or in previous years by the application of fifteen per cent. cut to the salary of low paid Government servants ;
- (c) whether Government declared in the beginning of 1931 that the salaries of low paid Government servants would not be touched ;
- (d) if the answer to (c) above be in the affirmative whether their grades have now been lowered ?

The Honourable Mr. Manohar Lal : (a) Fifteen per cent. reduction brought down a pay of Rs. 40 to Rs. 34. Revised rates of pay have now been fixed for subordinate services. A copy of the orders issued on the subject has been placed in the Library of the House. It will be observed that the scales of pay which formerly began with Rs. 40 or Rs. 30 have been revised so as to begin with Rs. 35 or Rs. 25, as the case may be.

(b) It is regretted that the information is not readily available and cannot be collected without a detailed enquiry which will involve an amount of labour incommensurate with the result likely to be achieved.

(c) and (d) Government had announced in the beginning of 1931 that the orders relating to fifteen per cent. reduction in pay for new entrants would not apply to inferior and menial posts. The rates of pay for these posts have not been revised.

DISTRIBUTION OF DHAL BACHCH.

40. Khan Sahib Nawab Muhammad Saadat Ali Khan : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that at the time of assessment for purposes of remissions Dhal Bachch is distributed later than the time appointed for recovery of land revenue, and as a result of this the zamindars spend their money on their own requirements and are unable to pay the revenue due from them in time ;

- (b) whether Government are aware that this procedure also causes hardships to the lambardars of the villages concerned in so far as they find it difficult to collect the dues in time ;
- (c) what steps Government propose to take to ensure that the orders of remission be issued a few months before the recovery of land revenue ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes, occasionally, due to unavoidable circumstances ;

(b) Government has no information .

(c) Every effort is made to declare remissions at the earliest possible date, but as the prices prevailing in the preceding year, or in the two preceding harvests, and sometimes even in the same harvest have to be taken into consideration for determining the remissions to be given, it is not always possible to issue orders very long ahead of the due date for the recovery of land revenue.

41, 42 and 43.—Cancelled.

TAHSILDARS AND NAIB-TAHSILDARS.

44. Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Will the Honourable Revenue Minister be pleased to state—

- (a) whether there is an age limit after which tahsildars and naib-tahsildars cannot be selected for Extra Assistant Commissionership ; if so, what is the limit ; (ii) whether there are any minimum educational qualifications prescribed for such selection ; if so, what are they ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that during the last ten years either one, or both these conditions have been waived in the cases of several persons, if so, in how many cases and on what grounds ;
- (c) whether there are any tahsildars or naib-tahsildars who satisfy all conditions but who have been allowed to pass the specified age limit without selection, if so, their number divisionwise in the form of a statement ;
- (d) whether the Government proposes to go through the cases of all the persons referred to in (c) above individually and waive the age limit condition in hard cases ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Attention of the honourable member is invited to rule 7(i) of the Punjab Civil Service (Executive Branch), Rules, 1930, which prescribes the age limit of 35 years and the degree of a recognized university as the minimum educational qualification for tahsildars and naib-tahsildars to be selected to the post of Extra Assistant Commissioner.

(b) Yes, only in 7 cases the conditions were relaxed by the Governor in Council under rule 7 (1) of the Rules referred to in (a) above. Previous to this the conditions of the possession of a degree of a recognised university and the age limit were not deemed necessary for selection.

[Minister of Revenue.]

CHAKS PATHANTI AND ANDHAR IN THE GURDASPUR DISTRICT.

45. Chaudhri Ali Akbar : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is proposed that the surplus water of the river Ravi be taken from Madhopur head or its vicinity through the Naloha Nullah and be put into the river Beas at Bianpur ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the surplus water of the river Ravi at Madhopur is at present used for the irrigation of the chaks Pathanti and Andhar in the Gurdaspur district ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the land in the foregoing chaks is indicated as nahri in the revenue records ;
- (d) if the answer to part (a) is in the affirmative, its effect on the chaks Andhar and Pathanti ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes, the proposal is under consideration.

(b) Yes, but only when the river rises sufficiently high.

(c) Yes, the area irrigated by private kuhls is shown as nahri-zamindari in the revenue records.

(d) The matter is being investigated.

NALOHA NULLAH IN THE GURDASPUR DISTRICT.

46. Chaudhri Ali Akbar : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that at different times and particularly in the year 1914 the zamindars of Dha or Beit Beas suffered heavily on account of floods in the river Beas ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, whether the lands of the zamindars of Dha or Beit Beas are even now exposed to danger ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that most of the villages situated in the Pathankot and Gurdaspur tahsils are irrigated by Naloha Nullah through watercourses dug by the zamindars and the revenue records indicate that the zamindars of that area are entitled to canal water ;

- (d) if the answer to part (c) is in the affirmative, the effect of the proposed diversion of the surplus water of the river Ravi into the Naloha Nullah upon them ?

The Honourable Sir Dr. Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) It is a fact that the zamindars of the Dhaya Bet Beas circle have suffered from time to time on account of floods in the river Beas, but no definite information in regard to the year 1914 is available.

(b) Yes, to the same extent as residents of all other riverain tracts.

(c) Only, a few villages of the Pathankot and Gurdaspur tahsils are irrigated from the Naloha cut and the revenue records show the area thus irrigated as nahri-zamindari.

(d) The matter is being investigated.

ABIANA FOR THE GARDENS.

47. Chaudhri Ali Akbar : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) if it is a fact that the Irrigation Department charges abiana for the gardens shown in nahri chak-bandi whether they are irrigated by the canal water or not ;

(b) if the answer to (a) above be in the affirmative, why Government charges abiana on the old gardens which do not require irrigation and which are not supplied canal water ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) The answer is in the negative, but it follows that if a garden does not take canal water the extra wari sanctioned for it is cancelled.

(b) Does not arise.

DAMAGE CAUSED TO GRAM CROP BY LIGHTNING.

48. Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the zamindars of Amritsar and other adjoining districts have sustained a serious loss due to damage caused to their gram crop recently by the action of lightning ; if so, what action is contemplated to be taken by the Government in the matter ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

HEAD MASTER, DISTRICT BOARD HIGH SCHOOL, NATHANA, DISTRICT FERROZPORE.

49. Sardar Tara Singh : Will the Honourable Minister of Education please state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the District Board, Ferozepore, has twice passed resolutions demanding the transfer of the present headmaster, District Board High School, Nathana, and also that a deputation waited upon the Divisional Inspector of Schools to bring to his notice the abnormal decrease in the number of students during the said headmaster's tenure of office ;

(b) if the reply to (a) above be in the affirmative, the action which has been taken in the matter ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : (a) Yes.

(b) The matter is receiving due attention. Steps will be taken to transfer the headmaster as soon as a suitable opportunity occurs.

ODES.

50. Sardar Tara Singh : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether Government have received complaints against the wandering tribe of Odes (who keep large flocks of sheep and beasts of burden and move from place to place in the province) in which allegations have been made that the activities of these Odes are a constant menace to the crops and peace of the agriculturists of the province ;

(b) if the reply to (a) is in the affirmative, what steps Government propose to take to put a stop to the activities and movements of the Odes in question ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes.

(b) The matter is under the consideration of Government.

OFFICE OF THE EXECUTIVE ENGINEER, KHANEWAL.

51. Tikka Jagjit Singh Bedi : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state whether Government proposes to shift the office of the Executive Engineer, Khanwah division of Ferozepore Canal Circle, from Ferozepore to Pakpattan ; if so, when ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

MONEY SUITS AND DEBT CONCILIATION BOARDS.

52. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Fazal Din : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state the number of suits filed before the Debt Conciliation Boards, set up in the province since their establishment ; with the result in each case ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : The latest figures available are as follows :—

| Name of the Board. | Cases instituted. | Date up to which the figures relate. |
|---------------------|-------------------|--------------------------------------|
| Kahuta | 1,553 | 15th March, 1937. |
| Amritsar | 2,507 | 31st December, 1936. |
| Garhahankar | 900 | 31st January, 1937. |
| Panipat | 2,723 | 31st December, 1936. |
| Jhang | 4,644 | 28th February, 1937. |

It would not be possible to prepare a statement showing the results of all these cases without an expenditure of time and labour out of all proportion to the results to be secured.

COURT-FEE AND DEBT CONCILIATION BOARDS.

53. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Fazal Din : Will the Honourable Minister for Finance be pleased to state the deficiency in the sale of court-fee in the financial years 1934-35 and 1936-37 separately in the districts in which Debt Conciliation Boards have been established.

The Honourable Mr. Manohar Lal :

1. Karnal District, Rs. 93,117.
2. Hoshiarpur District, Rs. 42,502.
3. Amritsar District, Rs. 46,096.
4. Rawalpindi District, Rs. 42,658.
5. Jhang District, Rs. 48,995.

SUB-JUDGES AND DEBT CONCILIATION BOARDS.

54. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Fazal Din : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) the number of sub-judges in 1934-35 and 1936-37 separately in the various districts where the Debt Conciliation Boards have been established ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the number of suits filed in the courts at places where Debt Conciliation Boards have been established, has appreciably gone down ; and, if so, the number of sub-judges at such places has been reduced ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

REDEMPTION OF MORTGAGED LANDS.

55. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Fazal Din : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to give the number of cases in which mortgaged lands have been redeemed without payment of mortgage money according to the decisions of each Debt Conciliation Board ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

PAY AND PENSION OF DISTRICT OFFICE CHAPRASIS.

56. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister for Finance be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that chaprasis in the Government offices of the districts are getting Rs. 14-0-0 per month each as their salary ;

[Pandit Shri Ram Sharma.]

- (b) whether it is a fact that at the time of retirement they are entitled to five rupees per month pension only ;
- (c) the reasons why they are not allowed a pension at the rate of half of their salary like all other low paid servants of the Government ?

The Honourable Mr. Manohar Lal : (a) Yes.

(b) On retirement after completion of 30 years' service, a chaprasi gets a pension equal to half his pay subject to a maximum of Rs. 4 per mensem.

(c) Chaprasis in district offices are not treated differently from others employed elsewhere on the same rate of pay. They are classified as inferior servants whose pension is regulated by the provisions contained in Article 481 of the Civil Service Regulations.

PROFESSIONAL TAX.

57. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the Government have received a resolution from the District Board, Rohtak ; recommending professional tax on shoe-making and weaving ;
- (b) whether Government will elicit public opinion of the area so affected before giving or withholding their sanction ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) Yes.

(b) The proposals were published locally for objections and the objections were considered by the District Board before sending up the proposals for the sanction of Government. That sanction has already been given.

STUDENTS WHO APPEARED FOR THE MATRICULATION EXAMINATION

58. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Education be pleased to lay on table of the House statements showing—

- (a) the number of boys who appeared for the Matriculation examination in 1937 from Bilaspur and Nalagarh States, high schools and the other high schools of the districts of Simla, Ambala and Hoshiarpur in the Punjab ;
- (b) the number of boys who passed the Matriculation examination in 1937 from each of the schools mentioned in (a) above ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

GOVERNMENT HIGH SCHOOL, RUPAR.

59. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Education be pleased to lay on the table of the House statements showing—

- (a) the total income from fees received in the year ending 31st March, 1937, in the Government High School, Rupar and the bill of the staff salary for the same period ;
- (b) the approximate figures of annual loss, if any, in running the Government High School, Rupar, for each of the years from 1920—1936 ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

NOMINATED AND ELECTED MEMBERS IN MUNICIPAL COMMITTEES AND DISTRICT BOARDS.

60. Malik Barkat Ali : Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works kindly lay on the table a statement showing the proportion of nominated and elected members in the different municipal committees and district boards of the province ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan, Tiwana : The information required by the honourable member will be found in Form I of the Reports on the working of Municipalities and District Boards in the Punjab for the year 1934-35. These Reports are available in the Punjab Legislative Assembly Library.

POOR HOUSES MAINTAINED BY MUNICIPALITIES.

61. Mr. C. Rai : Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works please state—

- (a) the number of first class municipalities in the Punjab that are maintaining poor houses ;
- (b) if any municipalities are maintaining poor houses, the annual cost for their maintenance in the case of each municipality ;
- (c) whether he intends to invite the attention of those first class municipalities which are not keeping any poor houses to the desirability of establishing such houses ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan, Tiwana : (a) None, but the Lahore Municipality gives grants to the Lahore Poor House and the Lahore Stranger's Home, which are privately managed institutions.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) No. Poor relief is a large subject which has not yet been considered by the present Government.

BRAHMANS OF SIALKOT AND AMRITSAR DISTRICTS AND SAYADS OF SIALKOT DISTRICT.

62. Mr. C. Rai : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue please state—

- (a) the number of villages in Sialkot and Amritsar districts that are entirely or mainly owned by the Brahmans and the total area so owned in each district ;
- (b) the number of villages in Sialkot and Amritsar districts the lands of which are cultivated by Brahmans themselves with the area of such lands ;
- (c) the total number of villages the lands of which are owned by Sayads in the Sialkot district and the total area of such lands ;
- (d) the total number of villages the lands of which are cultivated by Sayads themselves in the Sialkot district with its total area ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

SANADS TO TEACHERS EMPLOYED IN THE AIDED PRIMARY SCHOOLS IN RUPAR TAHSIL.

63. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Education be pleased to place on the table of the House—

- (a) copies of applications put up in the year 1935-36 for the grant of special sanads to teachers employed in the aided primary schools in Rupar tahsil with the remarks of the A. D. I., District Inspector concerned and the Inspector, Ambala Division, and the final decisions taken on all such applications by the department ;
- (b) a statement showing, classwise, the number of boys reading in the aided primary schools in the rural area of Rupar tahsil and the annual result of each of the primary schools, both private and those administered by local bodies, which contain four primary classes, with the pass percentage of each in the competition examinations ;
- (c) a statement showing the amounts of grants-in-aid given in 1933-34, 1934-35 and 1935-36 to the private aided primary schools in the Rupar tahsil and the reason for increase or decrease, if any, in the amounts of grants-in-aid in each case. The increase or the decrease may kindly be shown in separate columns ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

SCARCITY OF DRINKING WATER IN THE GURGAON DISTRICT.

64. Rao Bahadur Captain Rao Balbir Singh : Will the Honourable Minister of Education be pleased to state whether he is aware of the fact that there is a horrible scarcity of drinking water in the Gurgaon district; if so, whether he intends adopting relief measures such as digging tanks and wells, etc. in the said district?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : Government are aware that there is a scarcity of drinking water in certain areas of the Gurgaon district. The Sanitary Board, Punjab, will be glad to consider any suitable scheme for relief measures which the Gurgaon District Board may recommend for adoption. The attention of the honourable member is also invited to the replies already given to his questions Nos. 1425¹ and 1426¹ in the meeting of the Punjab Legislative Council held in October, 1936.

GOVERNMENT HIGH SCHOOL, RUPAR.

65. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Education be pleased to lay on the table of the House the following—

- (a) copies of the resolutions passed by the Municipal Committee, Rupar, from time to time regarding the conversion of the Government High School, Rupar, into a girls high school or an intermediate college;
- (b) a statement showing the action taken or proposed to be taken by the Government on these resolutions?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

MOTIONS FOR ADJOURNMENT.

FORFEITURE OF SECURITY DEPOSIT OF THE "SIYASAT".

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta (South-Eastern Towns, General, Urban) :
I move—

That leave be granted to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the forfeiture of the security deposit as well as the press of the "Siyasat" of Lahore by order of the Punjab Government which the House considers to be a deliberate attempt by the Government to suppress the liberty of the Press of the Province.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member's motion is not the first. The first adjournment motion is that of Sardar Hari Singh.

REMOVAL OF BAN ON KHAN ABDUL GHAFAR KHAN.

Sardar Hari Singh (Kangra and Northern Hoshiarpur, Sikh, Rural) :
I beg to move—

That leave be granted to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the unsatisfactory nature of the reply of the Leader of the House to the question of Lala Duni Chand on the 17th June last regarding the removal of ban upon Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan of North-West Frontier Province with regard to his entry in the Punjab and the attitude and policy of the Government as revealed therein.

[S. Hari Singh.]

Sir, I submit that before the Chair gives its ruling as to the admissibility or otherwise of the motion, Government may be invited to raise objection on this adjournment motion and then the Opposition might be allowed to state their case. This is the usual procedure in the Central Legislature.

Mr. Speaker : The motion is based on the alleged "unsatisfactory nature of the reply of the Leader of the House." But one thing may be considered satisfactory by one gentleman and unsatisfactory by another.

Sardar Hari Singh : With regard to the point under discussion I would refer you also to certain rulings given in the Central Legislature, but before I do so I want to say one thing in regard to the intention of this adjournment motion that concerns me. The emphasis is not on the unsatisfactory nature of the reply given but on the attitude and the policy of the Government as disclosed therein. The words "unsatisfactory nature of the reply" are explanatory of what comes later on. I wish to draw the Chair's attention to two rulings given in the Central Legislature. One was on the 1st April, 1932, with Sir Abdul Rahim in the chair. An adjournment motion was sought to be moved in order to discuss the unsatisfactory reply of Government regarding the expediting of reforms with Mahatma Gandhi in jail, given in the course of supplementary questions on a short notice question asked on the previous day about a secret European circular regarding the reforms. The Government objected on the ground that the matter was neither definite nor of urgent public importance but after allowing some discussion, the Chair ruled the motion in order (pages 2721-23, 31st March, 1932, and pages 2785-88, Central Legislative Assembly Debates, dated 1st April, 1932.)

On the 12th September, 1933, Mr. B.R. Puri moved an adjournment of the House to discuss the unsatisfactory nature of the replies of the Government to a question relating to a scurrilous newspaper article and the attitude and policy of Government as disclosed in those replies. Mr. Puri explained that his object was to discuss the attitude of Government towards the publication of the article. The Chair held the motion in order (pages 1388-91, Central Legislative Assembly Debates, dated 12th September, 1933). I do not contend that the unsatisfactory reply by itself irrespective of the subject matter to which it relates was a sufficient ground for the leave being granted to this adjournment motion. My intention is not to censure the Government on the unsatisfactory nature of the reply but on the attitude and the policy of the Government as disclosed in the reply.

The policy of the Government with regard to this matter is not new. It was already there. What I wish to say is that the policy was disclosed to the House recently. On the 17th June we knew what attitude Government was going to adopt in the matter. We had been hoping that as the provincial autonomy had been set up, the Government would feel responsible to the electorate and this House would also revise the policy of their predecessors. We had been hoping this. But the policy of the Government is disappointing in that the Government are not prepared to lift the ban upon Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan. This was only disclosed on the 17th June in reply to a question of Lala Duni Chand. There are precedents and it has been the general practice in the Central Legislature. If you read the records you will find many other precedents.

Then with regard to the question of urgency, it may be contended that this question is postponable until an opportunity is provided by Supply. In our case we have got no Committee of Supply and if the budget discussion is substituted for Supply, the adjournment motion is not coming in the ordinary course of the duty of the Treasury. That is the view held in the House of Commons.

Mr. Speaker : Will the honourable member please quote his authority ?

Sardar Hari Singh : On 5th July, 1926, in the House of Commons (page 1621, Volume 197, 5th Series), Captain Benn wanted to move an adjournment motion regarding "the remission by the Treasury without Parliamentary sanction of a debt due from the Iraq Government to the Crown". The Speaker held the motion out of order on the ground of its postponability to Supply. This point will not come up ordinarily in the budget discussion and in the course of the duties of the Finance Minister. I refer to that ruling. The motion of Captain Benn was ruled out on the ground that the point would come up for discussion in the Committee of Supply and not otherwise. So, my adjournment motion does not come within the mischief of the anticipation rule. It is not a thing to come in the ordinary course of the duty of the Treasury, nor does it anticipate discussion of a motion on the order paper of the House or about which there is a reasonable probability of coming up at an early date. So, I implore that the remarks of other sections of the House may be invited on this point and at the end the ruling may be given as to whether the members of the House have got the rights and privileges to move an adjournment motion on the unsatisfactory reply of a member of the Government which discloses the attitude and the policy of the Government which may not be considered reasonable.

Lala Duni Chand : Sir, I beg to offer my remarks on this point.

Mr. Speaker : I am not going to allow any discussion at this stage.

Lala Duni Chand : I simply want to explain the word "unsatisfactory."

Mr. Speaker : No explanation is needed. The honourable member is not in order in standing up and making a speech.

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order, Sir. May I request you not to speak with such emphasis when you make a speech.

Premier : What does the honourable member mean ?

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : I just want to ask the honourable member, who has moved this motion, if he will be pleased to read the reply given by the Premier to the question he is referring, so that the House may be able to know.

Mr. Speaker : Will the honourable member please read the questions and answers which in his opinion are unsatisfactory or betray an undesirable attitude or policy of the Government ?

Sardar Hari Singh : Part (d) to which this adjournment motion relates is here :

"(d) whether the Punjab Government is contemplating the removal of ban upon Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan of North-West Frontier Province with regard to his entry in the Punjab."

The answer of the Government was a categorical "No."

Mr. Speaker : On which questions and answers is the motion based ? That is the point I request the honourable member to make clear.

Sardar Hari Singh : I have read it out to you.

Mr. Speaker : That is all. Only one question and one answer ?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : On a point of order, Sir. When an adjournment motion is before the House it is for you to decide whether it is in order or not. Although you have got the discretion of preventing members from entering into a discussion, my submission is that the view of other members must be heard.

Mr. Speaker : I made that mistake on the 17th instant. I am not going to repeat it.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Are you sure that you are not making a mistake to-day ?

Mr. Speaker : Order, order. The honourable gentleman is one of the leading members of the House. He should always be parliamentary.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I was going to repeat the request which was made by my honourable friend with this particular addition that, perhaps the Chair knows it very well, I had been suffering from heart disease in jail and—

Mr. Speaker : What is the honourable member speaking about ?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I was saying that sometimes the one and emphasis that the Chair adopts in replying to our requests is threatening.

Mr. Speaker : I hope the honourable member will be fair to me.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I request you to be fair to us also.
(Cries of order, order.)

Sardar Hari Singh : I rely on the answer of the Honourable the Premier already read out. There were also certain supplementary questions, but I do not base my adjournment motion on the answers to those questions.

Mr. Speaker : Will the honourable member please read out the question and the answer on which he relies for his motion ?

Sardar Hari Singh : The question was : " whether the Punjab Government is contemplating the removal of ban upon Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan of North-West Frontier Province with regard to his entry in the Punjab." The answer was : " No."

I want to base the adjournment motion not on the unsatisfactory nature alone of the reply but on the policy disclosed therein. Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan of the Frontier is called the second Gandhi. He is a man who has got a following of lacs of people in his own province. He is an important person in the politics of India. He is also a man of international reputation. He is a gentleman of peaceful and non-violent nature. He is respected by the people all over the country. Is it right for the Government to ban the entry of such a man in the Punjab? It has created resentment in the minds of the people not only in this province but also all over the country. People of the Frontier take him as their guru and as their autar and messiah. I say that it will be highly detrimental to the relations between the people of this province and the people of the North-West Frontier Province if we go on banning the entry of such people—

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Is it permissible for a visitor to make cartoons of the members of the House?

Mr. Speaker : Is it being done anywhere?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I raise the point of order seriously and I want a ruling from the Chair.

Mr. Speaker : No visitor is sitting inside the House.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : Can any honourable member be allowed to make reference to a person sitting in the gallery of the House?

Mr. Speaker : Will Sardar Hari Singh please proceed with his point.

Sardar Hari Singh : Now, the whole responsibility for the Government of the province including law and order is in the hands of the electorate and in the hands of the elected representatives of the people. I would like to say that the people of the Frontier Province are thinking that their great leader, hero and their guru is being kept outside the limits of the Punjab by the people of the Punjab, because it is the people of the province whose representatives have put the ban on the entry of Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan. It may be said that autonomous Government of North-West-Frontier Province too is not allowing him to enter that province. I say that the conditions are quite different there. He is being kept outside the province by a party which is backed by the imperialist hand.

Mr. Speaker : May I ask the honourable member to answer one question? What answer would the honourable member have given if he were occupying the Premier's chair?

Sardar Hari Singh : I would have satisfied the public demand and lifted the ban on Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I want to know one thing. I understand that there is a notice of another adjournment motion of a similar nature for permission to discuss this question. Are you going to allow the discussion on the question of admissibility of adjournment motion next time or are you taking both things together.

Mr. Speaker : When one of two substantially identical motions is disposed of, the other motion also shall be taken as disposed of.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Am I to understand that when notice of a similar motion has been given by another member, you are not going to allow that member to place his point of view.

Mr. Speaker : Honourable members, it is with great regret that I have to rule the motion to be out of order. What the honourable member says is that he wished his question to be answered in the affirmative ; but that, against his wish and expectation, its answer was in the negative, and unsatisfactory ; and that, therefore, the matter should be discussed by his adjournment motion. In my opinion the motion, as it stands and as explained by the honourable member, is out of order.

FORFEITURE OF SECURITY DEPOSIT OF THE "SIYASAT."

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta (South-Eastern Towns, General, Urban) :
I beg—

That leave be granted to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the forfeiture of the security deposit as well as the press of the "Siyasat" of Lahore by order of the Punjab Government which the House considers to be a deliberate attempt by the Government to suppress the liberty of the press of the province.

Mr. Speaker : Is the honourable member prepared to say that the matter is not sub judice ?

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : I do not think so.

Mr. Speaker : Does not an appeal against the order of the Government lie to the High Court ?

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : The appeal has not yet been filed.

Mr. Speaker : Has the time for filing appeal elapsed ?

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : They have not yet filed the appeal.

Mr. Speaker : Then, if the motion is allowed, the discussion in this House will relate to a matter, which though strictly speaking not sub judice to-day, may become sub judice to-morrow.

Diwan Chaman Lal : If, Mr. Speaker, there is a criminal charge and a motion is conducted in relation to that criminal charge,
12 NOON.
I take it that your ruling means that so long as he does not file an appeal the matter is to be considered sub judice. May I submit to you that if the matter is before the court, only then would that matter be sub judice. It cannot be considered to be sub judice if merely the right of appeal lies.

Mr. Speaker : May I request the Advocate-General to give his opinion ?

Advocate General (Diwan Ram Lal) : There is one matter in connection with this adjournment motion to which I would like to draw your attention, and that is the question whether in this matter there has been any departure from the ordinary administration of law. If there has been no departure from the ordinary administration of law, then—

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : On a point of order. Is the honourable gentleman speaking on the point as to whether the matter is sub judice or is he speaking on a different point ?

Advocate-General : My submission is this that if on the face of it the motion is out of order, then the question of whether it is out of order on another ground would be of purely academic interest. The submission which I was making was that in this particular case there has been no departure from the ordinary administration of law, and where there has been no departure from the ordinary administration of law, no adjournment motion is in order. Under the provisions of the Press Act whenever any article which is objectionable is brought to notice, there the responsibility is laid upon the Government to take either security or having taken security to determine whether or not that security should or should not be forfeited. That is the responsibility which is placed on Government by an Act of 1931. (A voice: Is there no other course open?) Once the Government has taken that action under that law, then under section 23 of that Act the only remedy, the only manner in which that action of Government can be challenged is under section 23 of that Act wherein an application is made to the High Court and that is heard by a special Bench of the High Court praying that the order of security may be set aside and the Court decides that question by constituting a special Bench of three Judges. That is the position at law.

In this particular case the position in my opinion is perfectly obvious that the action taken by Government has been taken in due course of administration of law and there has been no departure from the legal procedure, and where there has been no departure my submission is that the motion is on the face of it out of order whether the action of Government is right or wrong.

Mr. Speaker : When another remedy is open about a certain matter, is an adjournment motion about it in order ?

Advocate-General : When a remedy is open, my submission is that the adjournment motion is out of order.

Lala Duni Chand : Will you please allow me to make a reply ?

Mr. Speaker : Strictly speaking no discussion on a point of law is in order. Therefore, I cannot allow the honourable member to speak.

Lala Duni Chand : Has not the Advocate-General been discussing the law point ?

Mr. Speaker : I have obtained the opinion of the Advocate-General on the law point. Will the honourable member please quote some precedent under which other members of the House can claim to take part in the discussion of the point ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : In the Central Assembly the Speaker has invited observations of members on the eligibility of a motion and we have been thankful to him for inviting members' opinions.

Mr. Speaker : I also allowed a discussion on the 17th (laughter).

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta (Urdu) : Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to—

Premier : Is the honourable member going to speak in Urdu ? He addressed the House in English just now.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : I only read out the motion in English.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member does know English, but perhaps he does not know it sufficiently well.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : For your information, on the last occasion he was allowed to speak in Urdu.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta (Urdu) : Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to the fact that since this matter is sub judice leave cannot be granted to discuss it. But I would like to invite your attention to the fact that so far as this argument is concerned the Legal Remembrancer has not thrown any light on it. The honourable member, Diwan Chaman Lall has already said that if the editor and the proprietor of the Siyasat or either of them had filed an appeal in the High Court none of us could have given notice of such a motion.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member may be quite right. I have every sympathy with him ; but the question is a question of procedure, not of the facts of the case. The point is whether, according to the procedure and rules in force, the adjournment motion is in order, when it can be discussed in the course of the budget discussion and very probably the matter will be taken to the High Court on appeal. Another point is, that in this case there is no departure on the part of the Government from the ordinary law.

Diwan Chaman Lall : You have made the position very clear in the explanation that you have offered to the House, and the House is grateful for the explanation. May I draw your attention to a similar adjournment that was moved on the 21st of March, 1929, in the Central Legislature by Pandit Moti Lal Nehru who "sought to move the adjournment of the House in order to discuss the policy of the Government in sanctioning wholesale raids and arrests in different parts of India, the day before."

Mr. Speaker : Had not the budget discussion been finished before the 21st March, 1929 ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : The budget was still under discussion. Not only was the budget under discussion, but also I believe the Trade Disputes Bill which excited a great deal of agitation in the country, that was also under discussion—

"Whereupon objection was taken that the matter was sub judice, and that the Court had taken cognizance of the cases and that therefore the motion was out of order under rule 23 (iii). It was, however, contended for the motion that the Court had nothing to do with the policy underlying the action taken by the Government" and that is all what the honourable member is seeking to-day).

"The President upholding this view rule : I am satisfied that the matter proposed to be discussed is a definite matter of urgent public importance. It is not denied that the matter is of recent occurrence. What is contended is that the matter proposed to be discussed is sub judice. As I understand the Opposition Benches, they propose to discuss the policy underlying this large number of raids and arrests, and not the merits of the cases that are to come before the Court of Law for adjudication. I am quite satisfied that the matter proposed to be discussed is not sub judice but I am bound to say that if, during the discussion of the motion for the adjournment in the afternoon, any attempt is made to discuss the merits of any of the cases that are proposed to be lodged, the Chair will take steps to see that such discussion is not permitted. I hope honourable members, when discussing this matter, will confine themselves strictly to the policy underlying these arrests and not refer to the merits of the cases that are to come before the Court. I rule that the motion is in order."

Mr. Speaker : The motion in question does not confine itself to the discussion of policy. It clearly and distinctly refers to the particular case.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : My respectful submission is that the matter under consideration is a very important one. It is the second case of its kind in India and the first of its kind in the Punjab where not only the security deposited by a paper has been forfeited but also a security has been demanded from the press. It is a very important question and it is intimately connected with the policy of Government. I cannot congratulate the Government of my province on the action they have taken against the Siyasat.

Premier : The honourable member is making a speech on the merits of the case. However, I submit that it appears to me—I am a layman and speak subject to correction—that so far as the question whether the case is sub judice or not is concerned, since the case is not before any court yet, you may be pleased to rule that the motion is not barred on that ground.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : My object in giving notice of the motion which is before the House is to discuss the policy of the Government. I do not intend to bring under discussion the merits and demerits of the case. Our resourceful Government had several other means at its disposal and it could have punished the paper in some other way. But it is a pity that the Government has not done this. So far as I know the Emergency Press Act has been made use of only once and it was in connection with the forfeiture of the Naujiwan Press. Apart from this there is no other instance in which the powers conferred by this Act have been used by Government. This Act has not been put into operation except once since its enactment. (Interruption) Sir, my respectful submission is this.

Mr. Speaker : The motion for which leave is sought reads as follows :—

“ That leave be granted to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely the forfeiture of the security deposit as well as the press of the “Siyasat”, Lahore, by the order of the Punjab Government which the House considers to be a deliberate attempt by the Government to suppress the liberty of the press of the province.

Does any honourable member object to the grant of leave ?

(Objection to the grant of leave being taken, members who were in favour of leave being granted were requested to rise in their places and as more than thirty members rose in their seats, the leave was granted. In consultation with the Leaders of the House and of the Opposition it was decided that the debate on the motion be taken up at 4.30 p.m. to-day.)

STATEMENT BY THE PREMIER.

RE RIOT AT AMRITSAR.

Premier (the Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan): I think the House would like to have some information about the recent unfortunate incidents at Gujrat and Amritsar. I am awaiting details about the Gujrat incident. I may be in a position to make a statement before the House adjourns to-day. At the moment I propose to confine myself to the happenings in Amritsar. I hope I am voicing the feelings of all of us here in offering our deep sympathy to the victims of the riotous attacks in Amritsar and to the dependents of those people who have unfortunately lost their lives.

[Premier.]

Facts hitherto available about Amritsar rioting are that the body of one of the victims of the riot near Ala in Gujrat, who died in hospital, was brought to Amritsar and it was decided by the Sikh community to take it to the crematorium in a procession. The Sikh leaders saw the local authorities and gave an assurance that they would not allow any provocative demonstrations and would not take the procession through Muslim mohallas. In the morning before the body was removed to the crematorium a Diwan was held where some very inflammatory speeches were made with the result that despite the efforts of influential Sikhs who accompanied the procession to the crematorium there was trouble en route. According to the information I have received it appears that it was an unprovoked attack on Muslims on the way by unruly elements in the procession. Fortunately, the local authorities who were in touch with us here took immediate precautions to avoid further trouble. Troops were brought into the city and police reserves were also drafted from the adjoining districts to avert further trouble. It is a matter for gratification that both communities, or rather the leaders of both communities, are helping the authorities to restore peace and tranquillity in the city. I am grateful to them, and wish to take this opportunity of acknowledging publicly the good work they have done and are doing and to express my gratitude to these public-spirited gentlemen who are doing their very best to avoid any further trouble. (Cheers). The position in Amritsar up to 11 P.M. last night was as follows. Unfortunately the injured Muslim who was first reported to be in a critical condition and then improving has died in hospital. The funeral is likely to take place to-day. I hope, and pray, that the leaders of both the communities may be able to avert any untoward incident on the occasion. I have not hitherto received any further news regarding the funeral procession.

Another unfortunate incident which is not directly connected with the recent events in Amritsar happened yesterday. A Sikh driver of a tonga lost control and ran over three Muslim children. Two of them died in hospital. But so far as we are aware this was a pure accident. It is, however, unfortunate that it should have happened at a time, when feelings are already exacerbated. The order which the Deputy Commissioner passed immediately after the trouble under section 144 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is with me and if the House so desires, I will read it. (An honourable member : It has appeared in the press). Yes ; I think the honourable members must have seen the various orders published in the press. The position in regard to the investigation is as follows :—

This is all the information which I have received hitherto.

Before I sit down, may I make an appeal and solicit the assistance of all sections of this House to help us in eradicating communal views and cleansing the atmosphere which is unfortunately responsible for these riots? (An honourable member : Certainly.) I think that it may be useful to set up a small committee or a body comprising of members of all parties and communities, to keep a vigilant watch over the whole province, and if unfortunately any further untoward incident of this kind happens anywhere to immediately depute three or more members of that body to proceed to that place and try to placate the people, and also to bring us first hand information. The difficulty now is that in some cases members—I do not wish to attribute any uncharitable motive to any member—in their zeal and anxiety to show to their constituents or to their communities that they are wide awake and take sympathetic interest in them, rush to the scene and after hearing one side of the story, publish exaggerated accounts. This practice, I think, should stop in the interest of this province. I have also got to make a confession if you would allow me, Sir. I have a feeling, indeed, I have reason to believe that these riots are not spontaneous, they are not purely communal in the sense that the feelings of the different communities on a particular matter are spontaneously roused leading to a clash. As I have said I have reason to believe, and have also proof in my possession which I cannot divulge to the House, but if the honourable Leader of the Opposition or any other honourable member desires to know the details I shall be glad to give it to them. My information is that some people who should have a greater sense of responsibility are responsible for instigating trouble. As regards Gujrat I have already informed the House that I will take it into confidence when I have received fuller information. I have called for certain details. But there again I have reason to believe that the trouble did not originate on communal grounds. It was a dispute between the villagers themselves and since feelings had been running high between the communities for some time some short-sighted people deliberately went out of their way to fan the trouble in exploiting it for their own purposes. It is they who suggested and arranged the holding of a Diwan there while police investigation was going on, with a view to coerce the police and to influence the investigation of the case. That is a very unfortunate development, Sir, and I hope I shall receive the fullest support of the members of this House in suppressing and stopping such tactics in future. I do not think I need say anything more on this point. There in Gujrat you are aware that unfortunately rioting mobs attacked the jathas, which were proceeding to attend the Diwan, at several places ; and since the jathas were outnumbered by the rioters several people were injured and there was at least one death and the police were forced to open fire on more than one occasion. But let me inform the House that the officers in charge of the police escort, were all Muslims, and it was their duty to guard the Sikhs whom they were escorting to the Diwan, and they did not hesitate to fire at the Muslim crowd in spite of their being Muslims themselves which shows that the police had discharged its duty most creditably.

[Premier.]

Sardar Sampuran Singh : Fifty-six bullets were shot and only two or three injured.

Premier : I am afraid the honourable member is again speaking on one-sided information which he may have received from his partisans. Four Muslims have died and several Muslims have been injured. That is my information. But as I have already stated I am awaiting further information to verify these facts. I think that I will have the sympathy and support of the House in attempting to stop a repetition of such distressing incidents in future. May I request the honourable members of this responsible Assembly that if in future any such untoward incidents happen, the leaders of the various communities here will not rush straight away to the site of occurrence and draw conclusions on one sided information, because that is what seriously hampers the investigation and our getting at true facts of the case. I think that this committee which I have proposed if set up will be in a better position to get at the truth, than an individual member. Before I conclude I am sure that the House would like me to convey our sympathy to the victims of the riotous mob and to the relations and dependents of the innocent people who have been done to death. (Applause.)

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : If you permit me I would join hands with the Leader of the House in expressing sympathy with those who had to suffer owing to the actions of certain people. I cannot say what was the motive behind.

Mr. Speaker : A statement made by a Minister is not open to discussion.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I am not going to discuss the statement.

Mr. Speaker : Is not the honourable member speaking ? To what motion, to what question is he speaking ? There is no question before the House.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I wanted to explain that I welcome the statment made by the Leader of the House and I want to assure him—without expressing any opinion, because I do not know both sides of the question, I know only one side of it—on behalf of this side of the House that he shall have our full support ("Hear, hear" from ministerial benches) if he brings about communal harmony in the province. ("Hear, hear" from Opposition benches) (A voice : If he brings about.)

GENERAL DISCUSSION OF THE BUDGET.

Mr. Speaker : The Assembly shall now proceed to discuss the budget generally. As a large number of members wish to speak and as we have only three days of three and a half hours each, amounting to 10½ hours in all, I propose to fix the duration of speeches. It has been suggested that 25 minutes would be quite sufficient. If 25 minutes are allowed only 42 members out of 175 will be able to have their say, if everyone of them speaks for full 25 minutes. So I fix 20 minutes for the present.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I would request you to permit Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt to open the debate on my behalf.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt (North-East Towns, General, Urban) : As decided by the Opposition, I have the honour to open the discussion on the budget, on behalf of the Opposition. It has been the convention in this House, Mr. Speaker (At this stage the Honourable Premier left his seat). Before I speak may I suggest that Honourable Ministers should be in their seats while the members of the Opposition are replying to the budget ? It is regrettable that the Honourable Premier has just left the House. I understand that in the last session you gave a ruling that Honourable Ministers should be in their seats when members of Opposition were speaking.

Mr. Speaker : That is the practice of the House. I hope the Honourable Premier will return soon.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : It has been the convention of this House to sing peans of praise, encomiums and congratulations to the Honourable the Finance Minister on the presentation of the budget, but in view of the treatment which is being systematically accorded us on this side of the House by the Government and in view of its bureaucratic attitude which is daily becoming stiffer and stiffer, I had decided to make a departure from this general convention of offering felicitations to the Honourable Finance Minister, but the other day when he was soaring high in the celestial regions of forensic oratory, I confess my heart succumbed and it went out to him to give him a telepathic message of congratulations on his masterly delivery and high-flown language which both were admittedly electrifying and vitalizing. I recognize that the Honourable Finance Minister must have put in hard labour in the preparation of this budget, but more than that I consider it my duty to appreciate the hardest labour of the staff of the Finance Department ("Hear, hear" from the Ministers) who have burnt midnight oil and sweated to exhaustion in collecting the mass of details and figures without which the preparation of the budget must have been impossible. In my opinion, as I have already said in the Press, this is the first time in the annals of this province that the budget has been presented by a person who enjoys the reputation of being one of the ablest economists in India (hear, hear) and a pupil, I should say a worthy pupil, of Professor Marshall, the father of modern Economics. But I hope the Honourable Finance Minister will not mind my observation that time alone will show whether he is an academic economist or a practical economist endowed with the breadth of vision of a statesman and the power of initiating bold economic policies for the welfare of this province. (Opposition cheers.)

I am prepared to recognize the difficulties which beset the path of the Finance Minister in managing the finances of this province. I know that he has to reckon with the factors of inexorable circumstances of floods, famines, and frosts which often upset all calculations of revenue and expenditure. The other difficulty in his way is that he has not got full control over the finances of the province. Another difficulty in his way is the injustice done to this province by Sir Otto Neimeyer who recommended that no subvention be given to this poor province by the Central Government. Another difficulty and in my opinion, the greatest difficulty before the Finance Minister of every province is the currency and exchange policy of the Government of India which has proved ruinous both to the industrialists and agriculturists. In these circumstances I put it to the Honourable Finance Minister whether it is not his first duty to approach the Governor for wider financial powers and to exert his influence on the Central Government so that the Government of India may reduce its top-heavy expenditure thus being enabled to give a substantial sub-vention to this neglected province and also to influence the policy of the Government relating to the currency and exchange. I would submit to him that even that interim Minister Mr. Jamna Das Mehta, the Finance Minister of Bombay, took the first opportunity after taking charge of ministership to tell not only his countrymen but also the Government that the Government was following a foolish policy in this respect and that so long as the Government do not bid farewell to that policy, no province could make any industrial and agricultural progress.

The Honourable Finance Minister seems to be jubilant that he has been very fortunate in balancing the budget and even working out a little surplus. But the Honourable Finance Minister must know that underneath this so-called surplus budget, lies the appalling and staggering poverty of the mass of the people in this province, which this budget is not calculated to alleviate. In the second instance he must know that this is not a surplus budget at all. A close study of the figures would reveal the fact that this is not a surplus budget. Sir, the budget is a sort of blinkers for us and it is difficult to see through the wood of figures what the actual thing behind it is. At an entertainment party, I was once asked by a conjurer to draw five cards out of a pack of 52 and place those five cards in the pocket of the conjurer which I did. He asked me to count the remaining number of cards and to my amazement I found, on counting, that the remaining number of cards was 52 (laughter). The Finance Minister can very aptly be described as a financial necromancer who manipulates, and plays with the figures as the conjurer does with the cards, and throws dust in the eyes of the unsophisticated people who are not conversant with the intricacies of the budget and their full implications. He is jubilant over the fact that he has produced a surplus budget. I submit that actually speaking it is a deficit budget (hear, hear). It makes no provision whatsoever for the two committees on "Resources and Retrenchment" and "Unemployment" and it does not provide for the allowances and salaries of the honourable members of this House. I submit that quite a large number of calculations into the details of which I am not prepared to go at present, will go wrong. I dare say that and I have reason to believe it. It is not my duty to refer to small things. That I might do when we move the cut motions. But here we have to enunciate the general policy which is commended by the Opposition or we have to criticise the general policy which underlies the budget. Quite a number of calculations will go wrong and I believe that the deficit will be much larger than the Honourable Finance Minister imagines. But the trouble with this Honourable Finance Minister is that he takes shelter under certain modern theories of fiscal reform according to which unbalanced budgets are no longer to be dreaded as confessions of national bankruptcy. I acknowledge that, under certain circumstances, when a policy of carefully planned expansion of productive activity is followed, unbalanced budgets may not be dreaded and they may not be a source of anxiety. The Honourable Finance Minister must have heard the name of Mr. Rangaswamy Iyenger, the talented Editor of "Indian Finance"—the greatest authority on financial subjects. He is a recognised authority on financial questions not only in India but on the Continent and in America also. Mr. Rangaswamy Iyenger subscribes to this theory of unbalanced budgets. In one of his very interesting books entitled "Some Trends of Modern Public Finance," he says much in favour of this theory but he admits in that book that continuous deficits are not things to be proud of (Hear, hear from Government benches). What do we find in our province? Our province is suffering from the chronic disease of deficit budget (Opposition cheers). In fact it must be admitted that the previous governments had tried their level best to balance the budgets on paper just as the Honourable Finance Minister has done now. Here is a so-called surplus budget before you but what is the actual position? In reality it is a deficit budget. We are witnessing unbalanced budgets for the last five or six years (Premier: Question). If you are playing with the figures, I have nothing to say. But if you are a practical man and a practical economist and if you are not in the hands of your Finance Department or the Financial Secretary, you must know that the budgets which have been presented before this House have not been surplus budgets but they have been deficit budgets. If your conception of budget preparation is that two and two make four and minus 3 means one (laughter) (Honourable Finance Minister: exactly), when this is the policy, I think the Honourable Finance Minister stands condemned out of his own mouth. I may tell the Honourable Finance Minister that Mr. Rangaswamy Iyenger in the book to which I have already made a reference, i.e., "Some Trends of Modern Public Finance," says that "if the backwardness of the community is perceptibly diminishing and the economic strength of the community is clearly growing, such disequilibrium should not cause anxiety." (Cheers). I am afraid the Honourable Finance Minister has enunciated dangerous principles of economics, dangerous modern principles of fiscal reforms. I do not say that I do not accept them under certain given circumstances but after having prepared a budget which is in fact a deficit budget, he goes on telling the world that unbalanced budgets are panacea for poverty. I am afraid it was my duty to call attention of the House and the province to this question because he has taken charge for the first time as Finance Minister. If the Honourable Finance Minister is going to act on those principles of unbalanced budgets, I am afraid there will be bankruptcy in this province (hear, hear). The first thing that I thought it my duty to bring to his notice was that for God's sake he should give up these dangerous principles. There are better principles to be followed. He must know that deficit budgets undermine the credit of the province for which he seems to be very particular.

[Ch. Krishna Gopal Dutt.]

But, Sir, what would you say if the budget remains unbalanced—not on account of any policy of carefully planned expansion of productive activity but on account of senseless expenditure on unwanted things. (Hear, hear). That is the most important subject to which I want to draw the attention of the House. That is one thing to which the Opposition attaches utmost importance, i.e., the expenditure of the Government. What is the difference between this budget and the preceding budget? I would expect Sir Chhotu Ram to reply to this. He was responsible for telling the people of this province that the Government of this province was a topheavy government in expenditure and that peasants were being crushed under the cost of government. Now Sir Chhotu Ram is a fellow-bird of the Honourable Finance Minister. Birds of a feather flock together, pigeon with pigeon, hawk with hawk. I want to bring to the notice of the House that in every department of the Government there are Government officials who are absolutely unwanted. As a matter of fact they are absolutely useless and are parasites on the tax payers. Do you accept it (voices from Government benches: No). Then you do not know what you are saying. The House, I think, recollects that the Honourable Sir Chhotu Ram contributed a series of articles to the Press on the subject of "Radical Retrenchment" and in the course of those articles he made, I should say, very useful suggestions. If those suggestions are carried out, I dare say there would be a saving of two crores of rupees in the expenditure of the Government. That is what Sir Chhotu Ram should take note of and that is what every colleague of his should take note of. If effect is given to the suggestions contained in those series of articles written by him, I am sure there would be saving of two crores in the budget of the province.

Now, no gentleman in this House or outside would say that the Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram is a rash or irresponsible or an extremist gentleman as we are being described in the dinner parties of some blooming darlings sitting on the opposite benches (Laughter and cheers).

Sir, I would draw the attention of the House to those articles which were written by the Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram so that the members of this House should know—and if my voice reverberates outside this House to the province, the people should also know—that when a gentleman does not assume power he chooses different lines of thought and action and when he assumes office he forgets his past ideals. But since these articles are very useful I may draw the attention of the House towards them.

Premier : I should be grateful if the honourable member would also mention the dates of the articles.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : I will certainly give the dates if the Honourable Premier gives us an assurance that he would go into the matter and also if he would try to show that there has been some retrenchment since then. The articles were written in the end of 1931 and since then the expenditure of the Government has been increasing and the same arguments hold good even to-day. I say that expenditure is daily increasing and there does not seem to be any end to it. The Government have not provided money for the beneficent departments by any retrenchment.

They are robbing the Famine Relief Fund. They are getting something out of it. They are getting something also out of the debt consolidation scheme and then they say that they have given 20 lakhs for the beneficent department. What is all that? That is fraud. (Cheers).

Now, Sir, I would draw your attention to a few passages from a series of articles written by Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram—

"I can imagine the flutter in service dovescoats which is bound to be caused by any proposals aiming at a substantial reduction in salaries. I can also imagine the argument which will be put forward against any reduction in the salaries of existing incumbents. But these arguments, however, sound in normal times, cannot be allowed to stand in the way of retrenchment when the whole economic fabric of the country is in serious danger of imminent collapse, and when refusal to respond to the insistent and inexorable demands of entirely novel economic forces may lead to a cataclysm at any moment. And I am sure that under the scale of reduction which I desire to propose officers will suffer no serious inconvenience beyond lowering their standard of life to a reasonable level."

Just imagine the salaries they are drawing.

"The present standard of life in eating, drinking, entertaining and dressing is unduly high and extremely artificial. As ill luck would have it, this standard has proved catching in our province. Most of the Indian officers serving in these departments have been all too keen to imitate the highly expensive ways of life current among their European colleagues. The result is that official salaries, fat though they are, do not give any comfortable bank balances to our public servants, but are frittered away in vain pursuits of fashion and frivolity." (Cheers).

"Deplorable as it may seem, society has come to worship false gods, and, though groaning under the tyranny of fashion cannot yet make up its mind to throw off the galling yoke. It is true that there is sullen discontent against the exacting demands of fashion, but the discontent is still of the acquiescing and tolerant type. It is, again not open to question that there are almost universal murmurings against the current expensive social usages, but these murmurings have not gathered sufficient strength and intensity to affect the course of social ways."

I will refer to another thing which he said :—

"To crown all this the crushing burden of a costly administration".

Mark the words "costly administration."

"the costliest in the world—weighs most heavily on a section of the population least able to bear it. This burden must be relieved to a very substantial degree, and relieved immediately and permanently."

Mind you, "relieved immediately and permanently".

"Paliatives will not do, temporary expedients will not suffice, nor will a policy of tinkering meet the needs of the situation."

I would draw the attention of honourable members to what he said in the end of these articles. With regard to the salaries and high allowances drawn by some of the Government servants he said :—

"Here are over a dozen of them—horse allowance, house allowance, deputation allowance, duty allowance, personal allowance, officiating allowance, acting allowance, local allowance, bill allowance, jungle allowance, secretariat allowance, judicial allowance, compensatory allowance. Special pays are also freely and frequently allowed. The number and character of these allowances and the huge aggregate amounts which are spent under these heads, from year to year will show clearly how the services are nursed and pampered. All these special pays and special allowances should be swept out of existence without a moment's hesitation."

Mark the words 'all these allowances should be swept out of existence without a moment's hesitation.' Then he goes on :—

"If my memory serves me right most, if not all, of these special allowances can be abolished by local Governments without any reference being made to any outside authority. If so, this should be done without even waiting for the reports of Retrenchment Committees."

[Ch. Krishna Gopal Dutt.]

I would also request the Government that some of these allowances should be abolished altogether without waiting for the recommendations and the results of the Resources Retrenchment Committee which was announced the other day. I appeal to the members of the Unionist Party that they should consider this question wisely. I am not trying to instigate them against the Government. I am putting the question before them and they should consider it reasonably, particularly when their own Leader outside this House had himself written a number of articles on the subject. He says that the expenditure of this Government is top-heavy and a drastic retrenchment is needed. You won these elections on certain planks. When your Ministers have not been able to act according to their planks and platform, is it your duty to support them. If you owe obedience to the likeable and loveable personality of the Honourable Premier, I have nothing to say. But if you owe obedience to something greater, that is, to your masters outside, to your voters who are wallowing in the mire of poverty then I must ask you to think ten times before voting for this budget. There is no appreciable difference between this budget and the preceding budgets. You should consider this yourself. I would appeal to you that you should give a careful consideration to this point. The other evening I met a friend of mine and he said 'What do you think of the budget?' I said 'I did not give my attention to it.' He said 'Why?' I said 'Because I heard the speech of the Honourable Finance Minister and I did not find anything characteristic about it. There was nothing extraordinary about the budget.' All the same, I had to go through the heavy books called the budget.

We know that the Government have given 20 lakhs for the beneficent departments. What is 20 lakhs in a budget of over 11 crores. I ask you where is the greatness in giving only about 2 lakhs more to the poor ministry of education and about 3 lakhs for the opening of an industrial exhibition. Do you think you can manage the development of industrial schemes with this increase of 3 lakhs and 26 thousands? This is tinkering. You have been able to give a few thousands to one department and a few thousands to the other. How will this sort of thing help the beneficent departments? Will the Honourable Finance Minister rise with his head erect and tell us whether he has been able to make any achievement in this direction and whether he has got any money? If he is not going to provide money then how will he be able to give effect to laudable schemes of primary education and industrialisation of the Province.

I think he was once a President of All-India Economic Conference when he said that the pressure on the agricultural population was increasing. This is the greatest problem before every province in India. Is it not a fact that this pressure on agricultural population is increasing?

(At this stage the Assembly adjourned for lunch.)

The Assmably re-assembled at 2 P.M. Mr. Speaker in the chair.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Before I proceed further with my observations on the budget, I would like to make one thing clear, and that is, that it was not expected from the present Cabinet that they would give effect to all their idealistic proposals immediately. I am prepared to give them time. I do not want to be very harsh in my criticism: but I am placing the views of the Opposition before them so that when they decide upon political and economic policies, they should take into serious consideration the views of the Opposition and they should give effect to the proposals which they put forward before the public before they got elected and before they assumed charge of Ministership.

Now, I would like to say something about the land revenue policy which is being followed by the Government. I want to make it clear that we on this side of the House utterly disapprove of the policy which the Government is pursuing in this behalf. The question of land revenue is a very important question. This is the largest item of revenue in the Budget. Therefore I would request the Government to give their serious consideration to the views that we express on this important question. We on this side of the House believe that the system of land revenue as practised by the Government is most iniquitous and oppressive. Age in this respect is no consideration for me. The fact that this land revenue system is in vogue for the last hundreds or thousands of years does not give it any sanctity in my eyes. The peasant has been crushed and consistently crushed under false and orthodox principles of economics. To-day liberal students of agrarian reform are sufficiently aware of the danger to modern civilisation involved in continuing to keep the poor peasant in subjection, in serfdom and in poverty. The hideous fall in the agricultural prices is a challenge to the entire fabric of economic society and a serious menace to modern civilisation. No body will deny, Sir, that the Punjab peasant is in terrible plight. It is known to every member of the House that, in the West, industrial countries are heavily protecting their agriculture and as a result of that the wheat export of the Punjab has practically been killed. There are only two staple exports of the Punjab: wheat and cotton. The export of wheat is practically finished and cotton export is face to face with a new danger. I am glad that the Minister in charge of the Finance knows very good deal of economics and is in touch with the latest tendencies in the economic life of other countries. I am sure he knows that the export of cotton is to-day face to face with a new danger. Japan is one of our best customers but now Japan has decided not to place too much dependence on India, so far as the import of cotton is concerned. It must be known that Japan is creating and developing new sources of cotton supply in Manchuko. It is also a fact that there is a new agreement between China and Japan, according to which China will export 50 per cent of the requirements of Japan—fifty per cent of the entire quantity which Japan imports from India and America combined. And then, Sir, you are aware of the fact that Japan has got a peculiar talent of switching off from the use of the Indian cotton to that of America. Under these circumstances the Punjab peasant is face to face with a danger of the severest magnitude. In the face of these hideous facts how is it possible that the poor peasant will be able to pay land revenue. All notions of taxation of land revenue must undergo a radical change. In the past the poor peasant has been trying to meet the demands of the Government by selling his gold and ornaments. Some gentlemen who are not conversant with these facts challenged this statement. They say that the sale of gold by the peasant was not due to the fact that he had to pay land revenue. This statement was once challenged in this House a few years ago and I regret that the gentleman who made the statement did not attempt to make any reply to it. Perhaps he was not in full possession of facts I think it is absolutely clear. I would draw the attention of the House to the fact that an enquiry was held into this question by the Board of Economic Enquiry, Punjab, of which Mr Darling, the Financial Commissioner is the President. The result of that enquiry you will find in a publication entitled " Sale of Gold and Ornaments in 120 villages of the Punjab" and this enquiry was made by the Inspectors of Co-operative Society. Those Inspectors were responsible people who were in touch with the things which were happening : they were the people who were in touch with the daily life of the peasant : they were the people who were in touch with the needs and the requirements of the peasant, as well as the difficulties of the peasant. For the purposes of that enquiry 120 villages were chosen as representing the entire rural life of the province. The report says that most of the gold was sold in order to pay land revenue to Government. Just imagine, Sir, in the past he has been paying land revenue by selling gold but now he has got no gold whatsoever : absolutely no gold, and he is being asked to pay 25 per cent. of the net assets. He is not in a position to pay. His taxable capacity is absolutely at the lowest ebb : I would say that his taxable capacity is absolutely nil. He is practically starving, and you expect 25 per cent. of the net assets from him. You have to take into consideration all these things. Under these circumstances the Government ought to have considered this question. I place before you certain facts and figures relating to this question. Land revenue for the year 1935-36 is Rs. 9 lakhs more than was expected granting the fact that no special remissions were granted on account of the low level of prices for kharif 1935. The revised estimate for 1936-37 was 21 lakhs more than was expected in spite of the fact that allowance had been made for remissions necessitated by the introduction of a sliding scale system of assessment in the Lyallpur district. In the present year there is, no doubt, no increase but it is practically the same. After giving remissions you have got practically the same amount of revenue. If you had not made remissions, land revenue would have been greater. You first try to kidnap a man and then release him by asking for ransom (cheers). Just as in the Frontier some people kidnap a person and then show mercy by returning him on payment of ransom. I am afraid you do no better than that. Is there any one in this House who would dare challenge this statement. It is required by the law that land revenue should be 25 per cent. of the net assets. I submit that in order to get 25 per cent. of the net assets all the factors of cost of production should be taken into account. But they are not. The Government should seriously consider this. It is most imperative that the Government should appoint an Independent Inquiry Committee, so that the entire question may be fairly fully thrashed out. You must know that they are no laymen who are thinking like this. There is a man in our Province who is an independent economist, a man of very high intellectual calibre and that is Professor Brij Narain who holds this view. When we discuss the matter with Government members, they tell us that they themselves are laymen, they do not know the technique of the question and that there should be an Inquiry Committee consisting only of official experts. I may tell the Government that we are not going to be satisfied with that sort of Inquiry Committee. I would say that Government appointed inquiry committees on sources and Retrenchment and Unemployment. Are they not technical subjects? I have been told by certain Government members that the land revenue question is a very technical question. No body knows it. Very few members of Government are conversant with the question and very few gentlemen in public life know anything about it. They hold therefore that it is necessary that an Inquiry Committee is appointed consisting of official experts to study the statistical side of the question. I must tell them that this is officiousness. Government will appoint preferably men like Mr. Darling and others to study the statistical side of the question. If such an Inquiry Committee is appointed, we will not be satisfied and it is not going to satisfy any section of public opinion in the province. The land revenue question is the most important question. This is much more important than the question of sources of revenue and retrenchment and the question of unemployment. Whenever the question is raised, we are told that the Government is considering the question on the statistical side, as if there is no professor of Economics, or no man in public life, or no member of this House who is fit to tackle the statistical side of the question.

As I have called into question this 25 per cent. net assets, I again draw the attention of the House to this thing, that when those assets are calculated the wages of the labourers are not taken into consideration. (A voice: The honourable member has already over twenty minutes).

Mr. Speaker: Please let the honourable member finish.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: Not for the man who has been appointed to lead the Opposition. So it is my challenge to Government and it is for them to prove. I refer to a report which was published in the "Civil and Military Gazette" by the Settlement Officer of Lyallpur district—Mr. S.S. Kirpalani—when certain questions were put to him regarding these commutation prices, regarding the fall in prices and as to whether the sliding scale system was going to help the peasant. There is one gentleman who writes under the nom-de-plume of "Justice," he writes one article and Mr. Kirpalani replies to it. But when counter-questions are put by Professor Brij Narain, then the entire Government keeps mum.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia: Wait. You will get a reply to that.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: I may wait till doomsday (laughter). I suggest that that Government official ought not to have discussed the question in the Press if he was not competent to do so, but once he did he ought not to have kept quiet and mum after certain counter-questions were placed before him. That means that he could not reply to the charge laid by Professor Brij Narain that these net assets were not 25 per cent. Realising my full responsibility I say before this House that these net assets are not 25 per cent., they are more than 25 per cent. (A voice: they are much less). Taking into account all factors of the cost of production, I dare say with full sense of responsibility that they are 100 per cent. (cheers).

I would refer to one more fact and I shall have finished. I would like to refer to the General Administration and under that I would like to discuss the political policy which is being pursued by this Government. I regret to say that even in this matter there is absolutely no difference between the preceding Government and the so-called reformed Government. I am addressing the Honourable Premier.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member should address the Chair.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : I am addressing the Chair, but my remarks are meant for the Honourable Premier. I was discussing his political policy and I was submitting that I regret to say that in this matter also there was absolutely no noticeable, no appreciable, no perceptible difference between the preceding Government and the reformed Government. There is the same officialism, there is the same stereotyped and reactionary character of the Government, there is the same imperviousness to reason and commonsense and sympathetic outlook, there is the same readiness to attack the civil liberties of the people (cheers). Political prisoners continue to rot in jails and they are groaning under the iron bars of cells and dungeons. Respectable citizens including an elected member of this House continue to be kept behind the prison bars even in the present sweltering and roasting heat of the plains without any trial. Does not the Government realise that the return of Sardar Teja Singh is a direct censure against the Government? (A voice : Was he elected to censure the Government?) Yes. The Government claim to represent the people and I now recollect that an honourable member on the opposite side who is likely to become a Secretary to the Minister had the audacity to say that this Government was a government of the people, for the people and by the people; I think honourable members know that Lincoln, one of the greatest statesmen of the world, was the author of this sublime dictum that democracy was a government of the people, for the people and by the people. And I should tell you that I called the spirit of Lincoln through the efforts of a medium and when I questioned him on this point, he said: "I am ashamed of having been the author of such a noble definition of democracy which is being exploited by the Hitlers and Mussolinis of the Punjab."

Under these circumstances, if it were in my power I would throw out the whole budget and refuse to vote supply of a single pice, not because we are irresponsible people, not because we take pleasure in throwing out budgets, not because we are enamoured of creating deadlocks, but because we want to bring Government to its senses, because we want the Government to be amenable to the dictates of the greatest deity of the twentieth century, viz., reason, and because we want to make the Government responsive to public opinion. (Cheers).

Before I close my remarks, I would request Honourable Premier while replying to the debate to throw light on one fact, as to how he is carrying on his Cabinet so far as the relations of the Cabinet with the Governor are concerned. That is one of the questions which is agitating our minds and I assure the Honourable Ministers that if there has been any case of interference on the part of the Governor we would be the first to uphold their cause (hear, hear). We have been told that there have been one or two cases of gubernatorial interference, but since we have not been able to verify those cases to our "entire" satisfaction—may be to our satisfaction, though not to our entire satisfaction, we are not prepared to disclose those cases.

on the floor of this House, but we understand that there have been one or two cases in which the Governor has utilised his special powers.

Premier : No, Sir.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : I am glad to hear that. When you make such a categorical reply of 'no, no,' you provoke me to tell that thing. I would not, however, tell that, but I may say that it is an important thing and if I say that on the floor of the House it would create a first class sensation not only in this province, but in the whole country. But having a sense of responsibility, I would be the last person to tell the House unverified facts.

One thing more before I resume my seat. I would appeal to the Honourable Finance Minister to realise, as he himself says and as the Government itself tells us, that we are now under a new regime of provincial autonomy. If he realises that fact, I would appeal to him not to create certain conventions in this House which are undemocratic. On the strength of that I would appeal to him that he should place the Finance Bill before this House. That is one thing which we shall appreciate. I do not know whether that is constitutionally allowed or not. I have still to go through that question. We will go through that question and study it. But I understand that in Bombay under the constitution prior to the present one the Government used to place the Finance Bill before the legislature. I hope our Finance Minister also will come before this House with a Finance Bill. (Cheers).

Mir Maqbool Mahmood (Amritsar, Muhammadan, Rural) : It is with a sense of justifiable pride that I rise to participate in the general discussion on the first budget of the first national Government of the Punjab—(Hear hear). (Interruption)—national by the verdict of the electorate and not of the self-assumed spokesman. The general discussion of the budget is the time for the annual stock-taking and it is customary on such an occasion to review the administration of last year and to make suggestions for the ensuing year. But to-day we have to speak under a double handicap. The new ministry has been in office for just about two months and it would not be fair to criticise it for the past omissions and commissions which are not theirs. As to the future, Honourable Premier on the very first day of his assumption of office made a declaration of the policy in which he placed the ministry before God and man to explore all possible avenues for reduction in expenditure, for relief of taxation on the poorer classes, to the expansion of the beneficent activities and to tap all possible new sources of revenue. I submit that nothing better can fairly be suggested or expected for the future. In the few observations which I have to make to-day I wish to take the position which is intended to be in the nature of a friendly suggestion which should help the Government in the early fulfilment of the Premier's declaration of the 1st of April last.

From my honourable friend on the Opposition, who I regret to find is now not in his seat, we had a very good speech. I congratulate him on it. He is a great orator, but unfortunately even the best of oratory cannot absolve the staring figures of the budget. I shall examine the three main charges which he brought against the Finance Minister which forced him to withhold his congratulations from the Honourable Finance Minister.

[Mir Maqbool Mahmood.]

The three charges he brought up were, firstly that the administration is top-heavy and that there is no provision for retrenchment in the budget ; second, that a substantial portion of the 20 lakhs provided for new expenditure on beneficent departments has been taken out of the Famine Insurance Fund ; and thirdly, that this year's budget is in fact a deficit budget and that we have had chronic deficits in the past which have been through financial jugglery made out as surplus. I shall take all these three charges one by one.

With regard to the first, I am sure that the Ministry which has been in office only for the last two months and which on the very first day of assumption of office declared its intention to appoint a committee to suggest all possible retrenchments and which they have since appointed and on which we are happy to find the Honourable Leader of the Opposition and two renowned economists of the province, what better proof do you want of the bona fides of that Government in its desire for retrenchment. I am sure when on a matter of that nature the attack comes from the Opposition, it takes away the force of other constructive suggestions which may come from that quarter. I appeal to the Honourable Leader of the Opposition who has in the past laid a precedent of fair play to dissociate himself with that aspect of the criticism. (An honourable member : Yes.) I am glad that my honourable friend the Doctor nods assent to my suggestion.

The second point which has been suggested is with regard to new expenditure of 20 lakhs which it was suggested has been substantially taken from the Famine Insurance Fund. It is a pity that my honourable friend appears to have misread or ignored paragraph 23 of the speech of the Honourable Finance Minister. He definitely stated there that out of the additional sum taken away from the Famine Insurance Fund 5½ lakhs were being given for avoidance of debt and 2½ lakhs over and above the 20 lakhs already budgetted for were for district boards for roads and one lakh in addition to the 20 lakhs was budgetted for rural sanitary works. More than that he made it clear in that statement that the Government had carefully examined and found on the advice of experts that the allotment of the present figure of ten lakhs for Famine Insurance Fund was considered to be adequate and that therefore the additional fund instead of being allowed to remain there had been used for protective and useful purposes. I am further reinforced by the suggestion of the Honourable Finance Minister that not a penny has been taken from this fund in addition to the 20 lakhs which have been taken for beneficent expenditure.

Now, I come to the third and the greatest charge on the Government, namely that the Government have in their budget successfully concealed the chronic deficits and given them out as surpluses. I must confess that I was a bit startled at that, because as a student of public finance I had learnt from the speeches of no less a patriot than the late Mr. Gokhale that the duty of public workers in examining the budgets of the Government is to find out whether there are surpluses and to expose the real surpluses even in the so-called deficits and thereby claim additional money for remission of taxation or for beneficent activities. (Hear, hear). I hope, in spite of the oratory of my friend opposite, to show that we have had, owing to normal circumstances series of surpluses which justify the consideration of the question of taxation in the light of the declaration of the Premier which was made on the 1st April. When the honourable member in order to safeguard his position told us that although the Government has shown all bona fides to carry out all possible retrenchments there is no surplus in the budget, I shuddered, on what ground can I and others support a scheme for remission of taxation. Here I am tempted to cry out with the poet—

دل کے پیہو لے جل اُتے سینے کے داغ سے
اس نہر کو آگ لگ گئی نہر کے چراغ سے

But I would like to examine the figures of the last two years and I claim as I originally claimed that given normal circumstances on the revenue account we have a recurring surplus which should be utilised as had been utilised in the budget for the remission of taxation and for beneficent activities. I would begin with the year 1923-24. From that year till the year 1927-28 we have had five surpluses which yielded 2 crores and 95 lakhs on actual account and in addition we have had 4½ crores under extraordinary receipts.

(At this stage Mr. Speaker left the chair and it was occupied by the Deputy Speaker.)

Now, Sir, when my honourable friend tells me that there have been chronic deficits and all these actual figures and the money which they have given us in the treasury are a fiction, I am reminded of the story of that weaver in the village who got an arrow struck and every time he touched it and saw the blood said :

خدا کرے کہ یہ جھوٹ ہی ہو

Now I hope that my honourable friend does not want us to believe that all these surplus moneys which we have actually received and taken account of in the treasury are merely—

خدا کرے کہ یہ جھوٹ ہی ہو

Take the next year 1928-29. That year we had an abnormally bad rabi crop and almost a complete failure of the cotton crop. In 1929-30 we had unprecedented floods and 1930-33 we had depression all the world over due to agricultural prices. Therefore, I submit that these years of deficits were in reality years of abnormal circumstances and not of normal circumstances. Moreover the extraordinary receipts which we received in these years more than balanced the loss which we had on the revenue account. Thereafter we returned to normal conditions again and in 1933-34 and 1934-35 we had a surplus of 34 lakhs and 43 lakhs, respectively. Then coming to the year 1935-36, the Honourable Finance Minister stated in his remarks that the actual deficit is one of two lakhs. But I submit that even that small deficit of 2 lakhs is not a normal deficit because in that year we made an abnormal payment of 15 lakhs towards the adjustment of road fund account and if it had not been made in that year even that year there would have been surplus. Coming to the last year we have been told that there is an actual surplus of 23 lakhs and in the current year. I submit that instead of calling it a deficit budget it is in effect a budget which ordinarily would have given us 47 lakhs of surplus. But 25 lakhs have gone in remission and 25 for new expenditure and two lakhs, the Honourable Minister with remarkable frankness has told us, is reserved for items which cannot be foreseen. Therefore I submit that in spite of the oratory of my honourable friend who has just preceded me it is no mean achievement that within the few months of their coming into office the new ministry, the new Finance Minister, gives us a budget in which without any additional taxation except possibly a duty on charas which I do not count as taxation, they have given us 20 lakhs of remissions and 20 lakhs for additional new expenditure for beneficent departments. This is an achievement which would place the budget along the best budgets of its kind (Hear, hear) and on which the Honourable Minister for Finance and the ministry concerned are entitled to our grateful appreciation. More than that I beg to associate myself with a slight observation with the mead of praise to the Finance Secretary and his staff which have with a very clear memorandum made the budget read like a fiction even to a layman like myself. I wish to make one submission on the general frame of the budget debate. The new Government has on more than one occasion declared that they are out to receive constructive suggestions for the service of the province and I hope that all speakers on the general discussion on both sides of the House will vie with each other in offering constructive suggestions for the service of the province to the ministry. It is in that spirit that I wish to make some observations from this side of the House now.

The first point which I wish to make is this. What we need is a definite and cautious planning of a five years' programme for the province. The start of 20 lakhs on beneficent departments on new expenditure is a welcome enough start. But what the province needs is a clear cut plan, a worked out plan, by which we may be able to judge and test the pace of our speed and direct all our efforts. I appeal through you to Honourable Premier that he may constitute various boards of agriculture, boards of industries and various other committees to draw up the various aspects of this programme and submit them for the consideration of the Government. It may be asked what is the main problem of the Punjab to which we wish the Government to apply themselves to draw out a plan of action. I would deal with that in three clear-cut aspects. I will deal first with the question of the population and production. The Punjab is primarily an agricultural province. We have a rural population mainly dependent on agriculture and it has been calculated that the average annual income of a Punjabi is below the cost of food and clothing of a Punjabi prisoner. Comment is unnecessary. More than that our population is fast increasing. In the 30 years from 1881 to 1921 it rose by 43 lakhs. In the last decade, 1921—31 it rose by 34 lakhs, an increase of $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. of the population every year. More than that the dependence of the population on agriculture is also increasing, coupled with the fact that agriculture is susceptible to the vagaries of the weather and to the law of diminishing returns. Forty years ago, 61 per cent. of the Punjab population depended on agriculture, 30 years ago it rose to 66 per cent. and in 1921 it was 72 per cent. In the last census it is even higher. (An honourable member : That is why you are doubling the revenue?). I will give specific suggestions and not deal with hollow rhetoric (An honourable member : Of which you are yourself guilty) and if you are patient you will get some facts. There is also a common danger. We have no less an authority than the Director of Agriculture in the agricultural reports and the statement of Mr. Darling in the Banking Enquiry Committee that the rate of increase of production in the Punjab is not as rapid as the rate of the increase of our population. This is a serious problem to which the Government should, and I hope they would apply themselves in all earnestness. The question calls for a careful consideration of the whole economic life of the province on the industrial and agricultural side. More than that it involves consideration of questions like international exchange, the question of freight on raw products, the question of subsidies when prices fluctuate and so on and some of these matters, even if they need a person of great ability, could not be dealt with by a better leader than our Premier and by a better economist and financier than our Finance Minister. At this stage I wish to take a few minutes of the House with regard to certain questions regarding the land revenue policy which was referred to by the honourable speaker who preceded me. I am entirely at one with him and I am sure many members on my side of the House will agree that we are all anxious that there should be a thorough revision of the revenue policy and nobody desires it keener than Honourable Premier and his ministry. In fact it is an open secret that they have already started looking at the question from that point of view. But miracles cannot be wrought in administration over-night and in matters of this nature all the pros and cons have to be carefully considered before any definite step is taken and in this connection I am reminded of that famous remark of Lord Hailsham when he was appointed War Minister in England and that is when he received all suggestions, all schemes of reforms, all pertinent and impertinent schemes, to be launched, his master reply was, "you should treat the new Government and myself like a coy shy maiden and give me the usual nine months to show the results."

Now with regard to the sliding scale of land revenue, I am one of those who at one stage criticised this sliding scale and I am beholden to Mr. Darling and few other friends who have helped me to understand it.

If my honourable friends of the Opposition will look at the memorandum of the Financial Secretary they will find in paragraph 29 that the actual receipts from land revenue and abiana which are the principal sources of income in the Punjab are actually less than they were previously to the paper propositions to which they have referred in the budget. The slow increase is primarily due to the working expenses in the Irrigation which is accountable for that increase. With regard to the sliding scale they will also find that there is a fall on the last year's income to no less than 17 lakhs so far as the assessment of Lyallpur is concerned. But I would submit that the question of sliding scale is a complicated matter and I would appeal to the Honourable Minister for Revenue that he should take the Revenue Committee of this House in his confidence in trying to explain the effects of that system and invite suggestions for improving it. I am sure that this is a matter in which the members of the Opposition as well as members of this side can join each other in arriving at a constructive solution which may relieve the land revenue burden on the peasantry of the province. I was dealing with the problem of the Punjab and I dealt with the production and population aspect of this problem and I am now dealing with the second aspect of it, the question of indebtedness. We have a chronic and heavy debt and it has been calculated that the average load is Rs. 92 per head which is perhaps higher than that which any other peasantry in the world has to bear relatively to its economic position. This calls for a constructive solution and tackling from the Government and I feel confident that consistently with the declaration of their policy they will apply themselves to it. I recognize that debt relief legislation has done a great deal in the right direction, but what we need is a constructive and a bold scheme of land mortgage banks, of properly controlled credit and marketing facilities in which the zamindar may not be forced to sell his produce at the lowest price and to buy it back at the highest prices. In this connection we appeal to the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, I speak with due deference, that he would not do better than to take over the recommendation made by the Honourable Premier in his report on the rural credit side of the Reserve Bank and I would appeal through you to the Honourable Premier that he will make other suggestions and give effect to them. I come next to the acutest side of the Punjab problem, the problem of our growing unemployment. It is a truism that the graduates of the Punjab have been seen cleaning shoes on the streets of the towns in their search for livelihood and we have had the knowledge of promising young Punjabis, the hopes of their sacrificing and poor parents placing their heads in desperation under the wheels of moving engines.

Sardar Partap Singh : What have you done for them ?

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : It is that problem which I want the Opposition and this side to join in solving. The first thing is the announcement of the appointment of an Unemployment Committee. I hope my friends of the Opposition will join us in suggesting necessary taxation of the richer classes including landlords and the urban classes and all classes wherever there is room for taxation to relieve unemployment. I hope that when the time comes and Honourable Premier brings forward a legislation, the Opposition would be equally enthusiastic in welcoming it. Now, Sir, coming to that question I submit that the question of unemployment can only be solved through joint national efforts. I would therefore appeal to the Honourable the Premier and his Government to expedite the announcement of the appointment of an Unemployment Committee and to give it a very wide term of reference and to make it possible for the province to welcome its report towards a courageous and bold tackling of this delicate problem. It may be asked of me, how do I propose to find funds for these various problems which I have referred to. I shall try to make specific suggestions out of the budget proposed. I will start with the beneficent departments. The Honourable Finance Minister rightly claimed credit for the past Governments for having raised the allotment for beneficent departments from 170 lakhs to 290 lakhs in 15 years. I submit that this increase of 120 lakhs is indeed very welcome.

(At this stage Mr. Speaker resumed the Chair.)

But the critics of the old regime may well state that in these 15 years you secured a remission of 188 lakhs from the provincial contribution and even the whole of it has not been ear-marked for the beneficent departments. In order to ward against any such accusation in future I would appeal to the Honourable Finance Minister and I am sure considering his policy he will welcome it that the new Government should have a separate account opened of all new income from the income-tax returns and new sources of taxations and savings from salaries or retrenchment and these should be ear-marked for beneficent departments or relieving unemployment and for giving relief to the poorer classes in regard to taxation wherever possible. I have one specific suggestion now to make with regard to the application of the last year's surplus. Last year's surplus is 23 lakhs and it is proposed to apply 15 lakhs out of it towards the payment of arrears of interest on the Hydro-Electric Scheme. I submit that our capital account position is very sound. We have a very small unproductive debt of 12 lakhs only. During the last 15 years we have utilized 9 crores of our Extraordinary Receipts towards capital expenditure more than that till very recently rent on temporary cultivation of crown lands has been credited towards capital account. For these considerations I submit with due deference that it would be over prudence to spend even these 15 lakhs in one year towards arrears of interest on Hydro-Electric Scheme. I fully recognize the special conditions cited by the Honourable Finance Minister in his speech, but I would appeal to him that the payment of that interest may be made in two years and that 7½ lakhs released out of that and 5½ lakhs proposed to be taken out of the Insurance Fund towards the debt account and 8 lakhs towards the balance of surplus should be put into a pool which should be used partly for the remission of taxation and partly for interest on sinking fund and for alleviating unemployment and for encouraging beneficent departments and productive schemes and for giving advantages to the electorate. This I submit would give us a substantial help for the next year and we should ear-mark 6 lakhs a year so that in 45 years this item will be wiped out along with other debts. One more word and I have done. The honourable member who opened the debate referred to the injustice done to the Punjab in the Neimiyer Enquiry Report. I wish to associate myself wholeheartedly with his remarks (hear, hear). I would go a step further and say that we have been treated very step-motherly in the adjustments preceding the inauguration of the constitution. It has been estimated that out of 822 lakhs, the share of the Punjab the share given to us has been only 1,17,000, one-fifth per cent. of the whole lot and out of the allotment to be given in the next ten years out of 1,422 lakhs the Punjab will only get 3½ per cent., this is in addition to the amount of 7 lakhs which is proposed to be taken out of excise duty. I ask, is this the reward of our war services and of our working diarchy with the constructive spirit? I speak with due deference, but, I feel, I owe it to the electorate of the province to make a stronger appeal to the Premier who happens to be in the position of the uncrowned king of the Punjab to use his courage and tact and tell the Right Honourable the Secretary of State that the mere verbal appreciation of the Punjab's working the constitution will not do and that to-day the policy of constructive co-operation sponsored by his Government and his party will suffer an irretrievable loss and will stand discredited and condemned before the electorate unless justice is done, and I hope that when he takes up this question the whole of the House, the Opposition as well as this side of the House, will stand behind him.

[Mir Maqbool Mahmood.]

In conclusion, Sir, there is one thing that I wish to submit. The province continues to spend a large proportion of its revenues on law and order. The maintenance of law and order is indeed the supreme function of every civilised government, but expenditure on this item is to a great extent conditioned by policy and I beg to associate myself with the Honourable the Premier's appeal that both sides of the House and the people of the country should join hands to reduce the expenditure which becomes necessary, to our shame, due to communal riots (hear, hear). I submit that this is a spectacle of which the best of the Punjabis, including myself, have reason to be ashamed that innocent Muslims, innocent Hindus or innocent Sikhs—perhaps the sole breadwinners of their families—who go out to earn their livelihood, should be wounded without any provocation. These things can no longer and will no longer be tolerated in the Punjab of to-day and I appeal in fairness to all sides that we should approach the Premier, whose genuine affection for communal goodwill is known to all, that this question should be tackled in all its aspects. The time has come when an attempt should be made to bring all parties together under the aegis of non-communal government to find a solution of the communal problem and differences that divide us. We merely fight on the question of services, but it has been calculated that only two out of a thousand are taken as Government servants.

On the preventive side I would appeal to the Government to introduce legislation whereby heavier punishments including whipping and confiscation of property be inflicted on communal offenders and give special compensation to Hindus, Muslims or Sikhs who may be innocent victims. I would invite legislation to ask heavy securities for good behaviour from communal mischief-mongers. With this I hope it will be possible for us to contribute our best in the service of the Punjab so that Punjab may be able to give its best in the service of humanity. (Cheers).

Khawaja Ghulam Hussain (Multan Division Towns, Muhammadan, Urban): I am told that it is a convention, which has been handed down to us, to compliment the Honourable Finance Minister and his department for the preparation of the budget and then to begin mercilessly criticising them. Frankly speaking I have not been able to induce myself to the adoption of this obviously inconsistent course of blowing hot and cold in the same breath, but as the force of custom is so strong in our province, I feel that some sort of appreciation for the labours of the Finance Department is called for.

Coming straightaway to the budget, it is true that this is the first budget which, after the inauguration of the Reforms, has been presented by a Punjabi Finance Minister to a popular Assembly and the budget has emanated from a Government which, according to the representations that have been made to us, is of the people and exists for the people. In my humble opinion this budget is exceedingly important and deserves consideration for more than one reason. I listened with rapt attention, to the Budget Speech which was delivered on the floor of the House and then I read it. I felt that the speech was just like a very learned discourse which was delivered by some very learned Professor of Economics and in my humble opinion it would do a lot of good to the students of Economics who are studying in

B.A. or M.A. classes (hear, hear). If one wanted to discover any bold, original, sound and constructive economic planning, then one was bound to be disappointed. As a matter of fact this constructive planning has been delegated to a Committee the personnel of which was announced almost simultaneously with the release of the Budget Speech in this Assembly. I have read budget speeches delivered in the Central Assembly as well as in the provincial legislature and one feature which is invariably common to these speeches is that after a comprehensive survey and complete diagnosis of the economic structure, the Speech proceeds to give concrete and definite suggestions for the future fiscal policy of the government. Let me point out that this feature is conspicuously absent from the speech of our Honourable Finance Minister. Was it that the Honourable Finance Minister was not alive to this aspect or was it that he was not competent to deal with it? He is an able economist and a very learned man, and he could certainly have dealt with it. In my opinion it was fear of adverse criticism which was responsible for a scrupulous avoidance of the discussion of this aspect. It was, in my opinion, the job of the Honourable Finance Minister and his staff to tap fresh sources of income without, of course, burdening the people who are already over-taxed and in my opinion it was his job to find out fresh economies, and to effect reductions wherever possible but instead of doing that, the job has been left to a Committee. With regard to the recommendations of this Committee, it will be very well for the Honourable Finance Minister and his department to say that "if there is any discredit it must go to Dr. Gopi Chand and we are not responsible for it." The other aspect of the Budget Speech is the adroit manner in which a surplus budget has been presented before this House. The subject has already been partially referred to by Mr. Krishna Gopal Dutt that a couple of lakhs have been taken from the Famine Relief Fund and apportioned in the budget. (Honourable the Premier: Nothing of the sort. Not a penny.) I must frankly admit that I am not well versed in the jugglery of figures. Let us admit that 1,72 thousand is the surplus that is shown. We are also told that there are certain items which are not included. If these items are included in all fairness to the Assembly, you will find that it is a deficit budget and that there is no surplus left. But even if it is a deficit budget, the Honourable Finance Minister does not leave us in the wilderness. He has sugared the pill and has come to our rescue by quoting extensively from eminent writers. He tells us that with the expanding of State activities, deficit budgets are no longer regarded as objects of dread. Next time he might say that they are positively objects of welcome and who knows the Honourable Finance Minister next time may come with the remark that every civilized nation is actually dying for unbalanced budgets.

Then we have also heard a sermon with regard to our credit and we are told that because our credit is very high in the market, therefore, we should indiscriminately borrow and soar high. I fail to understand this logic. Borrowing in haste and repenting at leisure is a bad policy and it never works. We have already borrowed 8 crores for the Hydro-Electric Scheme. We have borrowed a good deal for the irrigation schemes and now we are told to borrow once again. (A voice: You are getting a return for that.) Return we are getting.

3 P.M.

[Khawaja Ghulam Hussain.]

Let us examine the return. We have to pay interest. Then this borrowing is not like an ordinary zamindar's borrowing. (Laughter.) We have to repay it. We must find out funds for repaying it.

Sir, we have been told by the honourable speaker who has preceded me that constructive suggestions should be made on the floor of the House. Let me give some constructive suggestions. We could have affected economy in the various departments of Government. We have been told by the Honourable Finance Minister that in the Irrigation Department a good deal of economy has been made. But I submit that with a little more vigilance on the part of the Executive Engineers and the Superintending Engineers of the Irrigation Department, it will be possible to effect more economy. We can make economies in various other departments also. On the Forest Department, we are spending more than we earn. This should also be put in order.

Then I come to second aspect of my speech and that deals with the remarkable achievements of the Government party. I have read some of the papers which have given in bold headlines the remarkable achievements of the first autonomous Government. We are told even on the floor of this House that those remarkable achievements are, first, that remission of Rs. 25 lakhs have been given to the zamindars along with other relief, and secondly, an increased grant to the extent of 20 lakhs has been allowed by the Honourable Finance Minister to the beneficent departments. Now, first, with regard to the remission of 25 lakhs we are told that this policy of granting such a large amount of remissions, is, a very bold, generous and expedient policy and it has also been represented to us that perhaps never before in the history of this province remission has been granted on such a large scale. The honourable House will be disillusioned to know that this statement is absolutely incorrect. I will refer to the speech of an honourable member of this House, Nawab Muzaffar Khan, who was the Revenue Member in 1936. In 1936 when there was general discussion of the budget Government was accused of lack of sympathy for the people and in repelling that attack the Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan said :—

“ With regard to land revenue I would say that from 1930 to 1935 remissions amounting to Rs. 1,77,00,000 have been given. It would, therefore, not be fair to say that Government have no sympathy for the zamindars.”

Premier : That is not correct. Much more was given away. *

Khawaja Ghulam Hussain : If you will work out the figures you will find that it comes to about 30 lakhs in a year. This is not a remarkable achievement of the Government.

Premier : May I inform the honourable member that remissions and concessions during those years amounted to more than 6 crores.

Khawaja Ghulam Hussain : Well, this is the authority from which I am quoting. There may be some better authority which Honourable Premier may be able to quote. If it were 6 crores, it means at the rate of 1 crore per year ; even then yours is not a remarkable achievement.

Now with regard to the grant to the beneficent departments, I have to quote the speech of Mr. Ram Chandra, our popular Finance Secretary. He told us in the course of his speech in the Legislative Council that the Government, in the course of 3 years, have increased the grant to this department by 32 lakhs and in 1921-22 it was 1 crore and 70 lakhs and in the course of six or seven years that was raised to 3 crores and 23 lakhs. So, again, you will find that there is no remarkable achievement, as is being maintained. Be that as it may, my submission is that this is no criterion by which we are going to judge the doings of our Finance Department or of our Government. That was the standard, Sir, by which we could have judged Sir Donald Boyd or Sir John Maynard. They could have claimed credit for such remarkable achievements. We would have certainly given them credit. Old standards have been abrogated and we are now under a new regime. This is the Government of the people, by the people and for the people. We are not going to judge you by those standards by which we used to judge the alien Government as you call it. We shall judge you by different standards. What are these standards? I shall briefly give you the broad outlines, because the time at my disposal is limited. I will only mention the chief features of the suggestions which are constructive suggestions according to me. In this connection the first thing which I wish to urge upon the Treasury benches is that without any delay they should raise the level of prices of agricultural commodities. This is absolutely essential. Now the question is how is it possible to raise the level of prices of agricultural commodities? In my humble opinion, Sir, it is possible only in two ways (1) either we should create markets in foreign countries for our products or (2) we should find some other methods by which we may be able to absorb these commodities in our own country. As regards the creation of markets in foreign countries this is a notoriously well-known thing now that since the Great War every country is cultivating the policy of self-sufficiency. They have created high walls of tariff and it is not possible for us to send our products to those countries. Our only hope lies in devising measures to absorb the commodities in our own country. That can be possibly done only in one way and that way lies in the development of industries. If ours were an industrial country then it will be possible for us to absorb these products which will bring wealth to zamindars, which will raise the standard of living and remove unemployment from the country, will also bring wealth to the Government.

Now, Sir, what have we been doing with regard to industry up till now? As to the policy of the Government, I have only to quote the candid admission of Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang, the Minister of yesterday and the nationalist of to-day (laughter). He very frankly admitted in the debate on the budget that it was not possible for us under the then existing circumstances to give any protection to our industries. He candidly admitted that Government could not do anything. He was kind enough to give us hope that the future autonomous Government of the country might be able to extend some protection to our industries and then it may be possible for us to make our country an industrial country. Now, Sir, is the time, now is the opportunity for this Government of the people that something should be done for the people. I would therefore respectfully urge upon the Treasury benches to consider, and consider deeply this aspect of the problem. If industries are not developed and no proper protection is given to them we are nowhere and our country will be going down and down every day.

[Khawaja Ghulam Hussain.]

Then, Sir, the second suggestion which I wish to make in this connection is the devising of means for the relief of rural indebtedness. It has been frankly admitted even by the honourable Mir Maqbool Mahmood that the figure at which our rural debt stands is simply staggering. It is more than 1,40 crores, as has been elicited by interpellations this morning. We are told at the same time that it is not possible for us to introduce any catastrophic change. "That Rome was not built in one day." This is the maxim quoted to us. I would submit that the disease is so serious that drastic remedy is needed. The figure at which agricultural debt stands should certainly be brought down.

Then the third suggestion which I wish to make is with regard to the repeal of repressive measures and the release of political prisoners. Enough has been said on this subject, and I have only to repeat and to endorse the views which have been expressed.

Then the fourth suggestion is with regard to decreasing the cost of litigation in this country, and on this subject I have only to quote from the speech of that eminent Englishman who in my humble opinion has done more than any one else for purging the administration of justice of so many evils, I mean Sir Douglas Young. In his speech delivered on the 14th February at the annual dinner of the Judicial Service, Sir Douglas Young said, "the cost of litigation in this province is much too high and must mean in some cases denial of justice.... There is no excuse for Government making profit out of it."

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member will, please, not refer to the Honourable Chief Justice.

Khawaja Ghulam Hussain : I am only referring to his speech.

Mr. Speaker : To no other matter ?

Khawaja Ghulam Hussain : I am only quoting from his speech to show that such an eminent authority as the Chief Justice of the Punjab, even says that the cost of litigation is most prohibitive and must be brought down.

Then, Sir, I shall skip over to the domain of education. First of all there is primary education. It must be free and compulsory. We will be told, Sir, that in order to make it compulsory the cost will be simply staggering, and it will not be possible to find money with our present resources. I would therefore submit that we should introduce compulsion on a modified scale. I am told, Sir, that in the province of Madras they have a sort of compulsory primary education and the compulsion exists only in this respect that once a child enters first primary class he is not permitted to go away until and unless he has completed the course. We can profitably introduce this system here and it will at the same time prevent lot of wastage which is going on at present. I am told that now out of the boys who enter first primary class only 25 per cent. go to the fifth primary, with the result that a lot of wastage is going on. The second point which I wish to urge in this connection is that something should be done to increase general literacy in the province. I understand, Sir, that efforts are being made on a very small scale of course and are at an experimental stage to do something about this matter. Of course the idea of an adult school as we understand it and of asking elderly people to join the schools to read A, B, C, is simply nonsense and cannot work. If we increase general literacy then it will be possible to increase the standard of education in this country. I have also a word with regard to co-education. I fear, Sir, our present system of education needs overhauling and I am gratified to note, Sir, that the Honourable the Minister for Education, as judged by his public utterances has promised to carry out a complete overhauling of the department. I may suggest for his information that in the primary department, at any rate, our system is highly defective. Male teachers, I will submit, do not attract students nor can they keep them. We should emulate in this connection the example of civilised countries and should try to increase the number of female teachers as far as possible. I know, Sir, this task is not free from difficulty in a country like ours, but if efforts are made properly, it will be possible in due course of time to so change our educational method as to put it in line with other civilised countries.

Premier : I believe the honourable member means western countries. Our civilisation is comparable to any other in the world.

Khwaja Ghulam Hussain : Now, I have to make some observations for the consideration of the Honourable the Premier with regard to public services and in particular the police. It does not involve any expenditure, Sir. My submission is that very strict instructions should be issued to all the members of the public services and they should be told definitely that they are servants of the public and not officers of the public (hear, hear). What is the condition now. If a poor ignorant zamindar goes to the police station he is maltreated. He is not listened to and is abused. I can quote instances after instances of respectable people who have been maltreated by the police and other executive officers. This is a matter which is becoming scandalous in our province. Public servants all over the western countries do realise their responsibility towards the public and due courtesy and due deference is shown by them to the members of the public. But in our country the case is altogether different. Now with a changed regime and with the changed circumstances, this mentality must change, and our public servants in future should know that they have to serve the public and not to rule over them.

Then with regard to the Minister for Public Works, I have to make a number of suggestions for the consideration of the Honourable the Minister for Public Works. There is the Executive Officers Act which means a complete negation of the very idea of local self-government. The operation of this Act is so detrimental to the growth of self-government that it is impossible to tolerate the existence of this Act on the Statute Book. I wonder under what circumstances this Act was passed, and I am told that members of the Unionist Party themselves were opposed to the passage of this Act in the Legislative Council. It is time for them to reconsider the question.

Minister for Public Works : The matter is under consideration. .

Khwaja Ghulam Hussain : I am really glad to know that it is under consideration and hope that the Act will be repealed. .

Mr. Speaker : Two members—the last speaker and the honourable gentleman who is now addressing, have considered the necessity for legislation in their speeches ; they have made references, they have made suggestions. I might point out that in discussing the budget the honourable members have to discuss it according to the law as it is and not according to the law as it should be. In Parliament the necessity for legislation as well as any other matter involving legislation is not discussed on the discussion of the budget.

Khwaja Ghulam Hussain : I would not proceed with the discussion of that Act but I will certainly make suggestions that it is up to the present Government to foster the growth of the spirit of self-government, and whenever they find that this spirit is being checked, it is up to them to come forth and help the people in developing that spirit.

Then there is the Irrigation Department. I am sorry that the Honourable Minister for Revenue is not here to listen to my submission.

Premier : I am here to listen to that.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member has had exactly half an hour.

Khwaja Ghulam Hussain : I shall be finishing in one minute.

With regard to this department, I have to make only one suggestion, and that is with regard to the removal of corruption. I belong to a district which is a colony district and it is my personal experience that corruption is rampant in this department. If proper steps are taken it shall be possible to check it. The corruption takes place on account of the several executive measures undertaken by this department, for instance, in connection with remodelling which is so inefficiently done higher officers having once ordered the remodelling never care to go to the spot and see for themselves. The overseers and the sub-overseers take very exorbitant money from the poor public.

Rai Sahib Lala Atma Ram (Hissar North, General, Rural) : First of all I congratulate the Honourable Finance Member on the ability and lucidity with which he has presented the budget for the year 1937-38. It goes without saying that he is one of the ablest men the Punjab has ever produced. He has very ably shown how the provincial finance was, at first, dependent upon the Central authority and how by a series of steps it separated and that it now enjoys independence. It is gratifying to note that in spite of recent calamities that visited the province, for which the Government had to make large revenue remissions and other grants for relief, the Honourable Minister has shown a surplus budget.

A cursory glance at the budget will show that the amelioration of masses and the general betterment of the province have been kept in view. A sum of Rs. one lakh has been provided for well sinking in the Nili Bar Colony. The provision for rural sanitary scheme has been increased by Rs. one lakh. A special grant of Rs. 1½ lakhs has been made to the district boards for the improvement and development of roads. A provision for expenditure of Rs. 60 lakhs has been made for the Haveli Project. A mention has also been made of the Thal Project, which if carried out after examination will bring blessings of water to Mianwali and Muzaffargarh districts, but I am sorry to say that the Honourable Minister has not at all referred to the Bhakra Dam Scheme which proposes to irrigate the districts of Hissar, Rohtak, Karnal, etc. The Bhakra Dam Scheme has been talked of since 1921, but it is unfortunate that its construction has not yet been taken in hand. If Government thinks that the Bhakra Dam Scheme, for want of consent from Bilaspur State, is impracticable, then it should adopt other measures for irrigating the poor and famine stricken district of Hissar. The Hissar district is very dry and is visited by famine after famine, and its people are crying for irrigation and drinking water supply. The people of this district are proud to be British subjects, but it is a pity that their interests and welfare are altogether being ignored by the Government. The Government ought to have provided in this budget something for the irrigation and drinking water supply for the Hissar district.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam (Rawalpindi Division Towns, Muhammadan, Urban) : Sir, as every one in the House very well knows I am neither a paid financial expert, nor am I a very sound economist, but all the same I look at the budget from a different point of view, as I am proud to call myself an Indian working in the cause of the freedom of the country. And it is with that point in view that I am looking at the budget, not the budget but more correctly speaking at the policy underlying the budget. I was absent when the so-called eloquent speech by the Finance Minister was made whilst presenting the budget. That was a misfortune, but I am not to regret that misfortune. I am glad that I was away, because when one is away from the scene he feels less than he feels when he is at the scene of disappointment. Certainly so far as the budget is concerned, it does not require a great financier to know that budgets can be manipulated to produce several results and even to show a surplus. There is a propaganda of figures in all budgets and possibly we will not be able to reconcile the two sides, specially on the question whether there was a propaganda of figures or not for one purpose or the other. All we know is that mathematically the figures given are correct and if we are to go by the certificates of ability which are given by different members of this House to the Honourable Finance Member, I think he is well justified to have been appointed a Minister of the Government. But this is not the thing. What we have to see is, whose budget it is that has been presented to us. We were expecting, after all these long years, and in spite of what is wrongly called provincial autonomy which has been given to us in the garb of reforms, that the Government would be presenting a budget on behalf of free men of the Punjab as a part of India. Unfortunately we find that we have been presented with what I may term a 'slave man's budget.' It is the budget of a slave country, prepared by a slave minister with his trembling hands always pausing here and there under the influence and threat of his master. That is the first impression that I get when I looked at the budget. This is not the budget that we wanted to have and as long as any one who has any feeling for freedom feels that it is a budget of a slave man, it is up to him and it is his duty and right to throw it out without even having a glance at it. (Hear, hear). It is with that point of view that I advocate the throwing out of the budget in the very first instance, without even reading it through and without examining the figures. It is not worth even looking at.

[Dr. Sh. Muhammad Alam.]

There are two tests, as every one knows, by which we can come to a conclusion as to whether a budget is a slave man's budget or a free man's budget. In the case of a slave country first of all there is no question to consider the position or the capacity of the people to pay a certain amount. There is borrowing and there is taxation and there is robbery and after all that robbery there is expenditure and squandering of money and if there is any little thing left then it is proclaimed from housetops, "here is a surplus." It is not the question of surplus that we have to consider. What we have to consider is, how are you taking money, by what means, from whom and under what circumstances? Then, the second test that I would submit is that in the case of a "slave man's budget" you do not look at the question of income at all. First you decide about the expenditure. So much money is required for subjects which are not votable. So much is wanted for the ministers. So much is wanted for those departments on which the bureaucracy really depends. After deciding what amount is required for all this expenditure, you look at the question "where to find the money". If there is no other source from which to find the requisite money, then you levy further taxation. We hear of non-votable items on expenditure side. I wish there were non-votable items on income side also. While we are barred from touching the non-votable items of expenditure, is there any provision that more than such and such amount the Government cannot tax or that more than a particular amount the Government cannot levy cesses and so on? So far as items of expenditure are concerned there are non-votable items, but so far as income is concerned there is no such restriction on the Government. The expenditure on non-votable items alone come to more than several crores of rupees. We cannot interfere with that expenditure. Our business is only to provide income to meet that expenditure.

Mr. Speaker : Is the honourable member discussing the Government of India Act or the budget that has been presented to the House?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I think so far I have not even mentioned the Government of India Act. I do not mean to refer to it.

Mr. Speaker : But it is the Government of India Act which prohibits the consideration of certain items of expenditure.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I am not suggesting that we should be allowed to vote upon all those items which are now non-votable. I am only submitting that I look at the budget from the point of view of whether it is a free man's budget or it is a slave man's budget, and because there are non-votable items in the budget, without blaming the Finance Minister at all and without bringing into discussion the Government of India Act, I am asking my friends here, the honourable members of the House, to throw out the budget, because it is not worth their consideration.

Now, let us examine under what circumstances this budget has been prepared. The Honourable Finance Minister, I submit, has had really very little say in this matter. He had only to sign the memorandum drafted by Mr. Ram Chandra. I do not know why those honourable members who gave certificates to the Honourable Finance Minister forgot that the statement which he presented was really prepared by Mr. Ram Chandra. In fact with all the limitations on his powers, with all the restrictions on his powers, he was not in a position to prepare a budget that could be called the budget of the people. This is certainly not the budget of the people. This is the budget of the ruling class, or if you prefer another phrase, it is the budget of the bureaucracy. It makes very little difference to me whether it is a white bureaucracy or brown bureaucracy or a mixed bureaucracy, whether it is Khattar bureaucracy or Tiwana bureaucracy or Shamla bureaucracy. The question is one of the bureaucracy.

Minister for Public Works : Or Alam bureaucracy.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Certainly Alam's bureaucracy will be a poor man's bureaucracy. That will be democracy. There will then be socialism and we will not be making these speeches which are like after dinner speeches. If this is how our constitutional advice is welcomed by the other side, if this is how we who believe in non-violence are treated by the other side. This day is not far off when the revolutionaries would wrench the Government from the hands of bureaucracy by lathies and swords. It is really to prevent that catastrophe, it is really to prevent that revolution overtaking India that we have been trying to introduce constitutional improvements. If this is really the sort of budget we are to have under restrictions and limitations on the very poor powers of the cabinet of a province, may I know whether the Congress is not justified, in spite of the title of provincial autonomy given to the Reforms, to refuse to form ministries unless assurances were given to them by the Governors of the six provinces in which they are in majorities? As a matter of fact if my friends on the other side wanted to know what really should be the budget of a poverty-stricken province, they might have waited for a few months more. They might have found some loophole in the Government of India Act under which they might have waited just as the Governors found some loophole by which they were enabled to form interim ministries. Then, they would have seen what the budget of the poor people would be and they would then have been in a position to see the Congress budget and to adopt it as the model budget.

Sir, the thing that I was submitting to you was that this is really not the budget of the people. This is, if we could use a Simla term, not the budget of the rickshaw coolies, it is a budget of the rickshaw riders and if you want an illustration of that it is provided by the Unionist party themselves. That they take the expenditure first and then they come to the consideration of income is well illustrated by their conduct in a particular instance. We know that this instance is being generally talked about. It is no secret. It is talked about by members of the Unionist party themselves that as long as they are members of the Unionist party they are entitled only to a salary of Rs. 125 a month but when they are taken to the ministerial benches at once they become entitled to Rs. 5,000 a month. The difficulty is that expenditure was first settled upon and now the members are told that there is no income to meet their demand of a better and reasonable salary. I have got no sympathy with the members who ask higher salaries. If anything, I am for reduction of their salaries as well as the salaries of the Ministers. But the question is this. They follow wrong course. They first decide about the expenditure and then they come to the question of income. Really what should be the principle underlying a budget is this "this is our income and how are we to spend it." My submission, therefore, is that this budget is not the people's budget at all. This is a budget of those who squander away the money of the people. The second impression that you get from this budget is this. This is really not the poor man's budget; it is a rich man's budget, with all those utterances, announcements, manifestos and even now what we are told in this House is that the Unionist party desires to do this for the people and to do that for the people. So far as the budget is concerned, we do not find any item there which is really for the advantage of the poor man. So much is talked about unemployment. But we do not find there any item given for its removal.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan : It is a question of eyes and no eyes.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Certainly. But as the proverb goes the majority are blind and not the minority. But if it is a question of eyes and no eyes it is only one's conscience that can decide it as to who have the eyes and who have not. However even if my humble friend had no eyes I will still say that he had eyes, on account of regard for him. So much has been talked about surplus and beneficent departments. But one paragraph of the speech of the Honourable Minister will clear up the whole position of eyes and no eyes.

"Providing for a small surplus of Rs. 1,72,000. This small surplus is liable to disappear because in the present estimate of expenditure no provision is made for the two Committees, one on 'Resources and Retrenchment' and the other on 'Unemployment.'

So this one lakh and odd has to go towards providing relief for unemployment and for the Committee on Resources and Retrenchment, and so far many other things. Again—

"Nor was it possible in the estimates to make adequate provision for the salary and allowances of the honourable members of the assembly."

So the contemplation is there that out of this sum the honourable members of this Assembly have also to be provided for. Again it reads—

"as the report of the Committee appointed to determine these was made only a few days ago, and has not been yet considered by this House. There is a likelihood that some other items of expenditure directly connected with the introduction of the present reforms may be exceeded."

That excess has also to be met from this surplus of one lakh. A portion of it has to be spent on Unemployment Committee, a portion on Committee on Resources and Retrenchment, a portion on the salary and allowances of members and "there is a likelihood that some other items of expenditure directly connected with the introduction of the present reforms may be exceeded, which it should meet while it is also feared that the estimate of expenditure under Legislative Assembly suffers from being an under-estimate." So that consideration has also to be kept in view. Again it reads—

"These represent now definitely foreseeable matters which will affect the budgeted surplus and probably convert it into an actual deficit unless some items of income show unexpected yields in the upward direction. If such a deficit should appear, due, as I have said, to factors now foreseeable, we need have no fear, particularly as this year's revenue has suffered so heavily because of unusual calamities in hailstorm, cyclone and untimely rains. The deficit would indicate no normal or permanent feature of our finances."

This is with regard to the surplus of one lakh. But what about the proposals which have been advanced from the other side? How to find money for those proposals? Not by reduction of expenditure. One of our friends, the honourable Mir Maqbool Mahmood said, "suggest constructive methods," suggest him such methods which should not decrease expenditure, which should provide them with more income so far as the expenditure is concerned they must have it. Such methods are thus counted which should naturally increase taxation and land revenue. All the same suggest constructive methods with all these restrictions and they are prepared to carry them out. The only constructive method is that instead of robbery by taxation bring money where it is found and spend it on essential purposes only.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member's time is up.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : May I know what is the time limit you allow ?

Mr. Speaker : Twenty minutes.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Will you exclude the time taken by interruptions or not ? Even when there has been no interruption you have been pleased to allow more time to some members. I am not anxious to make this speech unnecessarily, but I feel painful to talk on the subject.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member may finish in a few minutes.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I do not want to accept that charity.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I wish to make a personal explanation. Very likely my honourable friend misunderstood me. I never said that expenditure should not be reduced. What I said was that within a day of taking over power, the new Ministry had announced its intention to reduce expenditure in all possible ways which fact was supplemented by the appointment of a Committee on which to prove their bona fide, the honourable Leader of the Opposition and Professor Brij Narain and another Professor were appointed.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Were you, Mr. Speaker in the Chair when the honourable member, Mr. Maqbool Mahmood spoke? I am afraid I do not know whether you were in the chair or the Deputy President was. Anyhow, do you like me to reply to his point, because you do not know the facts of the case (laughter).

Mr. Speaker : No.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh (Jullundur West, Sikh, Rural) : Sir, I congratulate the Honourable Finance Minister and his able Secretary for the pains they have taken in preparing this budget. Though the surplus is small, yet for this year it is rather creditable for the heavenly elements have shown their wrath in such a forceful manner. I also take the opportunity of offering my sincere congratulations to the new Government for their prompt action and the most liberal manner in which they have given relief to suffering public in this great disaster (cheers). It was feared that owing to the large remission in land revenue and water rate it would be rather difficult to balance the budget, but it is a matter for consolation that the budget is not a deficit one. As a layman I wish to make a few observations. Under the new constitution no Government could be popular unless it is prepared to help agriculture and industry in the province and also provide sufficient funds for all other beneficent departments. All this means an increase in the expenditure while on the other side our income is sure to decrease, because every one of us here has made definite promises to our electorates for lessening the burden of land revenue and water rate and we can only partly fulfil our promises by exercising strict control and economy over our expenditure. I may mention here that last year during the general discussion on the budget I pointed out the careless and the extravagant manner in which our budgeted expenditure was used and explained it by giving concrete examples. What I mean to say is that the heads of departments should make strong endeavours to get the best value for the money by trying all markets. With the change of the constitution this change must also come, because it is now we who are going to spend our money and not the third party. The cart is still in the old ruts and it is not an easy matter to take it out. The Hydro-Electric Department is the one which requires strictest control, because there is no reason why our capital and recurring expenditure should be on a higher scale than in the neighbouring province of United Provinces. I hope the Honourable Minister of Public Works will pay a visit to the United Provinces and see the difference for himself. Not only, that he will be pleased to see how the Hydro-Electric energy is made available for the development of agriculture and industry in that province, he will be no less pleased to see how the zamindars are being educated in the uses of electricity. I can assure him, if assurance is needed that he can do a world of good by only changing the short-sighted policy, of catering electricity for luxury purposes, into one, of using electricity for productive purposes and thus help agriculture and industry, which will no doubt add to the wealth of the province and also.....

Minister for Public Works : It is under consideration and we intend to adopt these lines.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Thank you. It will also be of great help to the poor zamindars. I have no knowledge of the two big electric schemes mentioned by the Honourable Finance Minister in his budget speech, but, Sir, if they are the same schemes which were rejected by the Finance Sub-Committee of the old Council on the ground that that money would be better used for completing the rural extension schemes, then I will certainly request the Honourable Minister for Public Works to take a firm stand and see that the rural extension schemes are completed before any other scheme is taken in hand (hear. hear). Again, the construction of the Haveli Project is going to be taken in hand, and large sums of money are going to be spent on it ; so I would make the same request of affecting economy there to the Honourable Minister of Revenue. Next coming to the communications I see that extra money has been allotted to the district boards for repairing their roads. I for one cannot support this proposal. The District Board roads in my district are in a terrible state and in my opinion the Public Works Department should be asked to take over charge of the district board roads, because they have tarred all the roads under their control and the recurring expenditure for their upkeep is not so very great. Therefore the Public Works Department should now handle all the district board roads and the district boards should be asked to divert their energy to the village to village roads and thus give some relief to the villagers. Sir, 84 lakhs granted to the district boards is a sheer waste because the roads remain as bad as ever. So this Assembly should positively refuse any more money to be wasted. Last but not the least I wish to sound a note of warning that our most fertile lands of the Doaba, that is the districts of Jullundur and Hoshiarpur are being converted into barren and waste lands by the alarming rapidity with which water level in the wells is falling. I will not be far out if I say that 90 per cent. of the old wells have gone dry and the new ones are following suit. I think the time is not very far when there will be a scarcity of water even for drinking purposes. Something will have to be done and that too without any further delay if these two districts are to be saved, which were called as "Baghs" (gardens) of the Punjab. I may be allowed to say that half-hearted measures will not do and the time for an eye-wash like "Wat Bandi" is gone.

Pandit Muni Lal Kalia (Ludhiana and Ferozepore, General, Rural) : Mr. Speaker, I thought I would speak to-morrow, but since I have been called to speak now, with your permission, I shall make a few observations. I would not like to enter into formalities with regard to the praise that has been showered in this case on the Honourable Finance Minister with regard to the budget that has been prepared or to the other things, but will only confine myself to the merits of the figures that have been given in these volumes. It has been pointed out by the other side that this is a budget of the National Government. If by National Government it is meant that freedom of speech is not to be given, or that freedom of associations is not to be given and that the jails are to be made the abode of the political workers and those who hold forward policies are not to be released and are to be interned, then in that case I agree with the definition of the National Government which has been so styled to-day. In the speech made by the Honourable Finance Minister the other day, reference has been made to the policy that is going to be followed with regard to the attitude of this National Government towards the public. The speech reads as follows :—

"A reduction was anticipated in the strength of the Additional Police, but this could not be effected on account of unfortunate incidents at Panipat and Kot Fateh Khan. Nor has communal tension entirely disappeared, and there are signs of recrudescence of unlawful subversive activities in parts of the province."

It appears that proclamation is already made in the budget for the prosecutions that are to be launched against the political workers. Another reference of the same type is made at another page so that we should not resent if the Government at a later stage takes to a policy of burdening the public with additional taxes because it is said that taxes increase as the desire for the liberty in the people enhances. Now if the desire of liberty increases the taxation, then in that case there should have been a clear declaration of policy by the Government. We see that, as a matter of fact, liberty is not being given but is being snatched away whatever little there was during the past regime. The speech in this case with regard to increase of taxation is also inconsistent. You will see that in this budget provision is also made with regard to terrorists. There is not much of difference in this budget if we compare it with the budgets that used to be introduced previously. There was no provision made in the previous budgets with regard to the maintenance of terrorists but during the present regime provision has been made with regard to the maintenance and allowances that are to be given to the terrorists. I should understand by this that the Government is contemplating having this provision as a permanent measure.

[Pandit Muni Lal Kalia.]

(Premier :—I hope not). That is what one can understand from the provision made. Never was a provision made with regard to terrorists but in this case provision has been made to show that the Government in this case is contemplating to make it a permanent feature.

On the Education side you will see that there is no constructive programme placed before the House. Figures, as they used to appear in the previous budgets, have been maintained and the policy is also the same. If we are to see what is the policy of the present government and what was the policy before, we can very well refer to the previous figures. No change has been made with regard to the primary and secondary education and, as a matter of fact, a large sum has been increased under the sub-head "Inspection." It would have been better if money had been provided for technical education and other things but instead of this we find that provision has been made for "Inspection" and a proportionate decrease has been made on the other side.

With regard to roads and other things, a reference has been made from the other side that the amount allotted for repairs of roads is not adequate. If the honourable members of this House picture the condition of the roads in different villages, they will simply be shocked to find that no villages, excepting those that are situated on the main roads, have got any roads during the rainy season or the dry weather. It would have been much better if the Government on the other side would have thought out of a plan of constructing roads and at least each village should have been provided with one road. Each village is connected with adjacent villages and out of four roads if during the first two years of the present Government's regime, adequate provision had been made for the construction of one or two roads, it would have been a constructive programme. It would be asked from the other side that the Opposition benches should place before the House some constructive programme but when suggestions for the constructive programme come from the opposite side, then there is no answer to it but some sort of criticism is made from the Unionist benches at that time and a statement made that the matter is under consideration. If everything is under consideration and if committees are to be appointed, then what is this budget for, if the matter has not been finally and fully considered. If the reports of those committees are not before the House then the Government should have waited for a few months more and the budget could be placed before the House at that time. Surely there was no hurry about it. The experience of the last 83 or 84 days with regard to the administration of the province is not sufficient for them to place a final and considered budget with some sort of reasoning. It is not a sound policy to place a budget before the House which is gathered from the figures of the previous Government. This only shows that no pains have been taken on the other side because from a cursory reading of the figures we find that figures as they used to stand in 1935-36, 1936-37 and the revised budget, have been taken and only in some cases the expenses which have been incurred during the transitory period of four months have been multiplied by 3 which shows that no effort has been made at all with reference to any constructive work. If action were to be taken with regard to the construction of roads, imparting technical education, removing unemployment and many other things, there should have been considered rearrangement of the figures.

They have only a sort of routine work and official business, and no real and genuine efforts have been made by the so-called National Government for the zamindars and for the people whom they claim to represent. Under these circumstances my submission is that the House should make a careful survey of this budget and each item of it. It is the duty of the honourable members to consider whether any effort has been made by the Treasury benches to justify the figures that they have placed before the House for the financial year under discussion.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Santokh Singh (Eastern Towns, Sikh Urban) : Mr. Speaker, the Honourable Finance Minister, Mr. Manohar Lal, his Secretary and other officials of his department do deserve our sincere thanks for the great pains they have taken in preparing this budget. Mr. Manohar Lal lays down truly democratic doctrines at the end of his speech, when he says :—

“To-day the ministry approaches the question of finance under the directions of this Assembly to carry out the popular will. They have undoubtedly to work under limitations, no large or catastrophic changes can be effected rapidly without undue risk, for however much it may be desirable to transform our world, the House would not wish us to act otherwise than as practical men in close touch with the hard facts of life. But the Ministries' main solicitude is to study and as far as possible to carry out the least wish of this popular Assembly ; nor can they remain unaffected by progressive programmes and the rising tide of opinion in other parts of this great country.”

These doctrines, so far as they go, are quite alright, but I need hardly remind the Honourable Member that we shall have to judge his work more by his actions rather than by words. It is quite true that he had not had enough time at his disposal to show some tangible results of his working but I do feel all the same that even within this short time, he should have been able to tell us what retrenchment or reduction he has been able to make. There is no doubt that at the very commencement of this ministry a retrenchment committee has been formed. This was again a step in the right direction, but I put it to the Honourable the Finance Minister and his colleagues that they should have been able to do something on their own initiative and without waiting for the report of that retrenchment committee. My honourable friend, Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt, on the other side, only this morning, quoted chapter and verse, from the writings of no less a person than the Honourable Minister of Development, the Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram to the effect, that there were many departments in which retrenchment could be made immediately, but nothing towards that end seems to have been done. I am sorry that I cannot go into details as the time at my disposal is short, but all the same I did expect that some indications will at least be given in the budget, for us to see what the ministry was doing in the desired direction. One goes however in vain into the budget for finding out any reduction or retrenchment. The budget is the same stereotyped document as it used to be in the days of former Government. There should have been some notable change in it and it is disappointing to find that there is none. The Honourable the Finance Minister should have given us a lead as to how to prevent the foreign exploitation of the province, how to husband our resources and further how to cut down our expenditure.

Coming to Ministers' salaries, I may frankly say that I was hoping—although it may be hoping against hope—that our Ministers will be pleased to come forward of their own accord with a reduced demand for their salaries, notwithstanding that the Assembly had sanctioned a higher salary for them. I do not say that they do not deserve what they are paid. They deserve perhaps more, but it is only because of the poverty prevailing in the province and the miserable plight our masses live in, that I wished them to put up a reduced demand for themselves, in order to set an example for others. (Cheers from the Opposition). (A voice: They cannot make reductions in the salaries of the Indian Civil Service people.) It is argued on the other hand that they cannot make any reductions in the salaries of the Indian Civil Service people because they cannot lay their hands on them. May I point out that that is perhaps not a very sound reason. We must carry out whatever retrenchment we possibly can, in the right spirit, without of course sacrificing efficiency and the rest will follow. (A voice: Which party's views are you representing?) They are my personal views. They are not the view of my party. We are told that a reduction has been made in the salaries of new entrants. To my mind that is not enough. There should have been some reduction also in the case of those who are drawing very big salaries.

It is said that a large sum is provided for the beneficent departments. I may tell the Honourable the Finance Minister that by 2, 3 or 4 lakhs given in driblets, the industries will not reach the level we wish them to. You have got to improve your industries thoroughly. You have got to improve everything. For all this, you need money. So you will have to cut down your other expenditure with a view to help the beneficent departments and this is a matter which must engage the collective as well as the individual attention of the honourable members of the cabinet.

Well, I must congratulate the Honourable the Revenue Minister, Sir Sunder Singh Majithia, for the great promptitude with which he had his investigations carried out regarding damage to the crops, and the cabinet for the liberal relief of 25 lakhs which was paid on the occasion. I believe that in other matters also the same promptitude will be shown by the Ministers.

There is a big project which is being undertaken this year, I mean the Haveli project. The expenditure on that project will be very considerable and I feel sure that it will bring prosperity and plenty to that arid land which badly needed this relief. I must however sound a note of warning and it is this, that we must take steps to prevent the scandalous waste which we made in the case of supplies for the Hydro-Electric department. One of my friends, a man of high position, of course not an official, told me this morning that in the Hydro-Electric scheme, an engineer was imported from Madras. He indented for swadeshi things but his officers were not satisfied. They ordered foreign goods which were not as durable or reliable as the swadeshi articles though more expensive, with the result that the Madras engineer had to go back disgusted. I request the cabinet and the Member in charge to take steps to see and issue full and categorical instructions to the departments concerned that nothing but swadeshi articles are purchased. It is only in this way that we can hope to improve the industry of our province and help it. We should purchase foreign articles only when swadeshi goods are not available. I hope the Ministry will have some regard for this request in the interests of the province and that they will so far as possible indent and buy only swadeshi articles.

Premier : Which particular item has the honourable member in view ?

Sardar Sahib Sardar Santokh Singh : Anything that might be required by Government. This should be the general principle that we should buy swadeshi articles so far as possible. (Premier : We are doing it.) I am very glad to hear that.

I should also make some observations on corruption prevalent in several of the Government departments. There is no denying the fact that there is a great deal of corruption in some of these departments. The Police Department tops this list. The difficulties which our people are having with the police are well known. I hope this will engage the attention of the Ministry and that they will take steps to eradicate the evil, and put the police on the same level as in foreign countries. The contrast between the Indian and English police is too apparent to need any mention and I do hope that the cabinet will do something to see that we have some relief in the required direction.

Several remarks have been made about communal troubles. It is a pity that notwithstanding the most emphatic pronouncements by the Premier and other members of the Cabinet there have been very serious communal clashes lately. To my mind it appears that the solution of all this evil is joint electorate (hear, hear) with reservation of seats, if necessary. I think separate electorates are the chief cause of this trouble. We are returned on communal tickets and we have got to satisfy our own community however wrong they may at times be. I do believe that this must be the opinion of some other honourable members also though they may not admit it so candidly as I have done. In my opinion the only remedy is joint electorate, if necessary, with reservation of seats. I hope this will engage the attention of the Government.

Then, Sir, there is the question of the release of political prisoners. The Honourable Premier has said that he was periodically examining this question. Let me tell him respectfully that we used to get the same reply from the former Government. I would request him that instead of periodical examination of the cases he will have all these cases immediately examined by himself and by his advisers and wherever it is not incompatible with public safety, he should release those prisoners forthwith. One of the honourable members on the other side referred to the question of the Executive Officers Act. I submit, Sir, that I claim to have some experience of the working of the municipalities. The municipalities have been reduced to the position of a farce on account of the Executive Officers Act. There is absolutely no power or initiative left with the committees and still we call it local self-government. Some radical change is necessary in the Executive Officer Act, if it can't be repealed. In most of the municipal committees the appointment of Executive Officers has done nothing except saddling them with considerable additional expenditure. The resources of the committees are limited and the Government have not been slow to take away some of those heads of income by transferring them to provincial revenues. In Amritsar the municipal income from sale of property has been taken away from the committee and transferred to provincial exchequer. Motor tax is being similarly dealt with. The levy of this tax was left to the municipal committees: now it is contemplated to take it away to the coffers of the Government. You have thrust upon the committees an Inspector of Local Bodies, thereby very much increasing their expenditure, while on the other hand you are reducing their sources of income. The work of municipal elections was very well done hitherto by the Deputy Commissioner and notwithstanding the protest of the committees you now thrust upon them a special officer for this purpose and require them to pay for his maintenance. The municipalities have on one hand been reduced to the position of a farce and on the other hand, you are saddling them with further expenditure, with the result that they cannot spend much on their beneficent departments.

STATEMENT BY THE PREMIER.

Re. RIOT IN GUJRAT.

Premier : Sir, there are one or two matters about which I have to make an announcement. I stated this morning that I was awaiting further information with regard to the unfortunate incident at Gujrat, and that I would make a statement at the close of the day.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : I think he should make his statement to-morrow.

Mr. Speaker : Will the Honourable Premier make his statement to-morrow ?

Premier : I have no objection to that course if that is the desire of my honourable friends. I am prepared to abide by the wishes of the House.

Mr. Speaker : Does the Leader of the Opposition want the statement to be made to-day ?

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Yes, I want the statement to be made to-day.

Premier (The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan) : The facts are that on the 3rd of June, 1937, Sahib Singh, a Nihang Sikh of Ala, in the Gujrat district, disappeared from his house and, on a search being made, his dead body was recovered from a canal by the residents of the village. The body bore marks of injuries on the head and it was suspected that Sahib Singh had been murdered due to enmity on account of litigation proceeding between the Nihangs and certain Hindus of Ala with whom the Muslims of the village were in sympathy. Enquiries into the murder were undertaken by the police but no clue of the identity of the culprits has so far been obtained. The Sikhs made various allegations, implicating a number of Hindus and Muslims of Ala, but these accusations were not substantiated. The dead body of the murdered man was brought in a procession to the town of Mandi Baha-ud-Din where it was duly cremated.

In the meantime an agitation was started by the Sikhs of Ala and its neighbourhood against the Muslims generally. The Sikhs condemned the ill-treatment of the Hindus and Sikhs by the Muhammadans of the district and threatened retaliatory measures against them. In furtherance of this agitation, the Sikhs of Ala decided to convene a diwan and to take out the Granth Sahib in a procession from the village dharmsala to a building outside the village where the diwan was to be held. An Akhand pathh was started at Ala on the 11th of June. It appears that the Muhammadans of Ala and its neighbourhood objected to the holding of the diwan and the procession, but the district authorities met a number of leading Muslim and Sikh gentlemen who gave them an assurance that peace would be maintained on the occasion at Ala. A guard, consisting of 75 police, under the command of the Deputy Superintendent of Police, was posted at Ala as a precautionary measure to preserve order and guard the approaches to the village. The District Magistrate and the Superintendent of Police paid personal visits to the village on the 12th and 15th of June.

The first indications of trouble were noticed on the 13th of June when certain Muslims of Khanana, on hearing of the intention of the Sikhs to hold the diwan, warned the Sikhs of their village not to contribute towards the expenses of the diwan or else they would be severely dealt with. Alarmed by this warning, a few Sikhs left the village to inform the Sub-Inspector of Police Station Kuthala Sayadan of the attitude of the Muslims. When the Sikh party reached the Harya railway station, they were met by about 100 Muslims of Khanana, who were armed with lathis and axes. The Sikhs, to avoid trouble, boarded a railway train but were set upon by the Muslims who caused more or less serious injuries to members of the Sikh party. The exact number of Sikhs who received injuries is not known but it is reported that at least three Sikhs were wounded. The railway police were informed of the occurrence by the Station Master and immediately took up the investigation of the case under the supervision of the Assistant Inspector-General of Police, Lahore.

On the 14th of June, several parties of Muslims armed with lathis were found converging on Ala with the object of preventing the Sikhs from holding the diwan. At about midday a lorry carrying a number of Sikhs arrived at Ala from Mandi Baha-ud-Din. The lorry was stopped by some Muhammadans who assaulted and injured two of the Sikhs. Another party, consisting of about two hundred Sikhs, left Mandi Baha-ud-Din for Ala for the purpose of participating in the diwan. A small police guard under a Muslim Sub-Inspector of Police accompanied the party from Mandi Baha-ud-Din to ensure that no disorder should take place. It appears that the party was held up at several places en route by the Muhammadan residents of village Kuthala Sayadan and a determined attack was made by the Muhammadans on the Sikhs. The Sub-Inspector in charge of the police guard was compelled to open fire with the object of protecting the Sikhs and the police from grave danger from the infuriated Muslim mob.

During the disturbance nine Sikhs were injured by the mob and two Muslims were killed and two wounded as the result of police firing. When the information of this riot reached the District Magistrate and the Superintendent of Police at Ala, a Magistrate and police reinforcements were despatched to the scene of trouble. They were faced by a determined mob of Muhammadans, who refused to disperse and were bent upon trouble. The Magistrate, therefore, had to order the police to open fire on two different occasions. Another party of Sikhs, which had detrained at Ala railway station on their way to the village, was assaulted by a Muhammadan mob with the result that one Sikh was killed and seven Sikhs injured during the rioting. Here again the police had to open fire to control the disturbance. While the wounded Sikhs were being escorted to the hospital by a small guard under a Muslim Head Constable of Police, a mob of about 1,000 Muslims made another assault on the Sikhs and the police had to open fire once again in self-defence.

The exact number of casualties is unknown but from the information at present available it appears that one Sikh was killed and sixteen wounded by the rioters and one of the wounded Sikhs later succumbed to his injuries. The casualties due to police firing are reported to be four Muslims killed and five injured. It is possible that there may be other wounded who are not coming forward out of fear of legal action against them. Altogether the police opened fire on five different occasions.

The district authorities had to face a most difficult situation and in the circumstances did all that lay in their power to suppress very serious disturbances as expeditiously and with as little loss of life as possible. The situation at Ala is now reported to be quiet and a magisterial enquiry is at present in progress to investigate the circumstances leading up to, attendant upon and following the firing by the police. The Sikh divan terminated on the 16th of June without any further interruptions. No procession of the Granth Sahib was, however, taken out.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : The earlier part of the statement is incorrect. It seems to be a one-sided version.

Premier : This is not the Muslim version. It is the official version.

DEMANDS FOR GRANTS—ORDER OF DISCUSSION.

Premier : Might I make another announcement? After consultation with my honourable friend the Leader of the House (A voice : Opposition)—he might be Leader of the House one of these days for ought we know (laughter).

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : If you resign, I am not going to accept office (laughter).

Premier : After consultation with my honourable friend opposite we have decided that we will begin with demand No. 1 this year, that is start at the very beginning.

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT.

FORFEITURE OF SECURITY DEPOSIT OF Siyasat.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta (South Eastern Towns, General, Urban):
Sir, I beg leave to move—

That the Assembly do now adjourn.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : On a point of order. I have no intention of criticising the ruling given by you on this motion, but I would request you kindly to see that during the course of the debate no reference is made either to the case—

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Is that a point of order ?

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : I was saying that no reference should be made either to the case or to the policy underlying the Press Act. (Interruptions). My submission is that discussion of this motion should not be permitted because—

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : It has already been admitted.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : If you will kindly give me permission, I will read out to you a ruling from the—

Mr. Speaker : No.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Can the honourable member challenge your ruling ?

Mr. Speaker : The honourable mover agreed that he would discuss only the policy of Government with regard to the freedom of the Press and that that part of the motion which related to Siyasat he will not discuss at all. That is what he said, and it was for this reason that very hesitatingly I allowed his motion. However, I hasten to add that that ruling shall not form a precedent, as I do not consider it to be a sound and correct one.

Mr. Maqbool Mahmood : If new facts emerge, is it open to any member to bring those new facts to your notice? (A voice : This is questioning the ruling of the chair).

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : You gave your previous ruling on a certain ruling of the Assembly. There is a later ruling of the Speaker of the Assembly against that ruling (A voice : There is bound to be).

Mr. Speaker : I did not give my ruling on the strength of the Assembly ruling which was quoted. The honourable mover of the motion undertook not to touch the Siyasat question. As to discussing the policy of the Government it should be discussed on a substantive motion ; but as the minority wanted it, I gave my ruling in their favour rather hesitatingly. It is incorrect, but I think, I should stick to it now. I may point out that no body on this side, not even the Leader of the House, has objected to my ruling. But I must say that it will not form a precedent.

Premier : I hope that the mere demand on the part of the minority will not create a precedent, because—

Mr. Speaker : The Honourable Leader of the House should have raised his objection earlier.

Premier : I certainly did.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta (Urdu) : Before I begin my speech I request you, Sir, to permit me to express my gratitude to you for granting me the privilege of moving this adjournment motion, in spite of the efforts of the Treasury benches to get it ruled out of order. I am also grateful to the Honourable Premier that despite the objections raised by the Advocate-General against my motion, he has not opposed it.

[Lala Deshbandhu Gupta.]

I would like, at the very outset, to remove any misunderstanding which the motion, now before the House, may give rise to. In moving this motion it is not my intention to justify objectionable articles or to speak in favour of them. My object is to throw light upon the action which the government have taken under the Press Act and to invite the attention of the House in general, and of the Treasury benches in particular, that it was only a few weeks ago that they assumed office but even in such a short period of time they have made an attempt to suppress the liberty of the Press. Lord Zetland has quite recently paid compliments to the government of our province and expressed warm appreciation of its policy. But it is a pity that ours is the first province that has brought into operation an act which was only meant to be employed under exceptional circumstances. This point is worthy of note that the Government have taken action under the Press Act soon after they had assumed the reins of government.

The Indian Penal Code embodies several sections which could be used most conveniently against the Press, but it is regrettable that the Honourable Premier and his colleagues have been hasty in so far that they have taken an action against a paper, which is unrivalled in the press history of any other province in India.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member should confine himself to the discussion of the policy of the Punjab Government with regard to the freedom of the Press in the province. He should not discuss the particular case.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : May I draw your attention to the fact that it is the duty of the Speaker to see that on every motion before the House there is a reasonable chance of having a fair debate before that motion is put to vote. There is a ruling to the effect that when the Speaker feels that under certain restrictions he will be depriving the members of their right of fair debate he can stop that motion and rule it out of order. In this connection I would refer you to the debate on the Safety Bill in the Central Legislature. When no reference can be made to this individual case and the policy underlying the forfeiture of the security of the Siyasat, then I would request you kindly to inform the House what we are to discuss.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member will please proceed with his speech.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : I am taking exception only to the penal action which the Government have taken under the Press Act against a paper and I strongly protest against it. I am really surprised to hear what the honourable member Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan has said.

Mr. Speaker : We are discussing the general policy of the Punjab Government and not the case of the Siyasat.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : My object in pressing this motion is to invite the personal attention of the Honourable the Premier to the discussion which took place in the Central Assembly on the occasion of the introduction of the Press Emergency Powers Act in the said Assembly. The non-official members of the Central Assembly vehemently opposed the Bill and it was definitely made clear by the Government that the Act in question would be used only under special and exceptional circumstances. I submit that the Honourable Premier and the government should realise the difficulties of the Press. I am a journalist myself and I assure you that any newspaper which publishes objectionable things surely reviles the profession.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Malik Allah Bakhsh Khan Tiwana : If you take this view we will go with you.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : I submit that it is necessary for those persons who claim to be the leaders of the public and who hold the reins of the government in their hands to be thick-skinned. I ask them, "Are they not liable to commit mistakes?" I admit that newspapers and journalists do commit mistakes, but I would urge that ministers also commit mistakes and commit more mistakes than journalists. I want to tell them that if there is any power which can drive them to the right path, if there is any power which can save them from temptations, intoxicated as they are with power, it is the power of the press and press alone, and in this connection the much maligned journalists have to perform an extremely unpleasant duty.

On the day when the Honourable Premier assumed office he issued a statement to the press in which he invited the co-operation of the journalists. He should not have so easily forgotten that, in addition to the Press Act there were other laws under which action could easily be taken. (An honourable member.—What are those sections?) An honourable member who is a lawyer and who is in the habit of meticulously going into every detail of a matter, has inquired from me about those sections. May I draw his attention to sections 500 and 504 of the Indian Penal Code and inquire from him that if any newspaper indulges in personal attacks on a minister, whether action under these sections can be taken against it or not.

I am bound by a limitation, viz., that I should not go into the merits of the 'Siyasat' case. I will not, therefore discuss the merits of the case. I cannot say in plainer words than these that action could be taken against the 'Siyasat' under the sections referred to above. I will prove to your satisfaction that action could easily be taken under these sections of the Indian Penal Code. I am under a limitation, viz., that I should simply discuss the policy of the government and should not bring under discussion the merits or demerits of the case ; so I will confine myself to the discussion of the principles alone.

I submit that when the Press Emergency Act was framed, it was definitely made clear that if a paper sponsored a movement, which was likely to lead to murder and violence then alone action would be taken against it under the provisions of this Act. Does poking fun at the ministers or ridiculing them come within the purview of this Act. I am personally unaware of the things or articles which have led the government to take this action. I think that ridiculing or even calling names do not come within the purview of this Act.

Maulvi Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din : On a point of order. Is not the honourable member referring to the case ?

Premier : I may say for the information of the honourable member that action against the paper has not been taken because of its views against an individual member. As a matter of fact under the Act you cannot take action for offence against an individual.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Datt : The difficulty is that we do not know what the action is for.

Premier : Then you should have waited till you knew.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : I am grateful to the Honourable Premier for he has cleared one misconception, viz., that the Press Act was not brought into action because the paper had ridiculed a minister. Under these circumstances may I inquire whether section 124-A. exists in the Indian Penal Code or not, because I am firmly of the opinion that action could have been taken under that section.

May I also inquire the nature of the circumstances that have arisen in the Province to-day which necessitate the taking of so drastic an action against a newspaper. I would have been glad if the Honourable Premier had taken the Indian Journalist Association into his confidence. If he had done so he would have obtained their moral support. What was there to prevent him from taking them into his confidence? Had he taken them into his confidence his hands would surely have been strengthened, and he would have obtained their co-operation. I assure him that even to-day there is no dearth of journalists in the country who can perform their duties conscientiously and with a due sense of responsibility. I am afraid the Treasury benches have no journalist among their ranks. Only one of them, the Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram has worked as a journalist. He has been editing the "Jat Gazette." If you look up into its old files you will find that the same kind of action could be taken against it as has now been taken in the case of the "Siyasat."

I submit that the Government should not be impatient. It should not be too thin-skinned. The Government should realise its responsibilities and it should not use its wide powers against the press in the manner of a Hitler or a Mussolini. The principle I am discussing is the privilege of the press. Let the Treasury Benches realise their responsibility and at the same time I would advise them not to be so thin-skinned. I would say, "Allow the press to criticise your actions and professions freely. This is the time when you should walk warily and every step that you take, should be taken after due consideration and reflection." The manner in which action has been taken against the "Siyasat" does not become the Government. The Honourable Premier must realise that his action will in no way add to his prestige or dignity. Our Province has already earned a bad name for itself. Other provinces are much better off as compared with ours. You should not take any step which would disgrace our province in the eyes of others.

I respectfully appeal to the Premier to reconsider his action. If he feels no concern for the liberty of the Press, he should at least uphold the dignity and prestige of his own name. The attitude he has adopted in this case reminds me of the couplet:—

نہ تڑپنے کی اجازت ہے نہ فریاد کی ہے
گہمت کے مر جاؤں بہہ مرنے کی ہے

Mr. Speaker : The motion is —

That the Assembly do now adjourn.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan (Pind Dadan Khan, Muhammadan, Rural): I am working under a great handicap in taking part in this discussion. I have listened with great interest to the speech made by the honourable mover of this adjournment motion. What I discovered in the speech was that he was merely indulging in generalities and abstract theories. I personally consider there is nobody in this House who would not whole-heartedly agree with me that the liberty of the press should not be restricted (hear, hear). The press should have full freedom to criticise the actions of the Government. (hear, hear). But, Sir, what we strongly object to is the misuse of this liberty which can become very dangerous in a province like the Punjab where the percentage of educated people being very small they are ready to believe all that is published in the press. It is unfortunate that I am debarred from discussing the merits of the case under reference. If I had the liberty to do so, I could assure you and I could assure the honourable members of the House that I could prove to their entire satisfaction that the articles written in the paper against which action has been taken were such that any Government which is worthy of being called a government would have taken a similar action against such a paper.

Mr. Speaker: Will the honourable member please not refer to it?

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan: The other question is of policy. I do not know what is meant by policy. Policy underlying the Press Act or any other policy? If we are discussing the policy underlying the Press Act then I would submit that that is too big a question to be discussed on an adjournment motion. On the other hand if we are discussing the policy that the Government should not, in the ordinary administration of law, take action against any press under this particular section, then I am afraid of being pulled up by the Chair and told that I cannot discuss this. Therefore, the whole debate centres round one point and that is whether the Government under any circumstances are entitled to take action against the press or not. I personally consider there will be very few honourable members of this House who would like to commit themselves to this theory that whatever the papers may write, whatever the policy of the papers may be, whatever mis-statements a paper may persist in publishing, however objectionable the articles may be whether they are intended to create hatred and contempt against the Government or between the different communities, the Government should sit tight and take no action against such a paper, I do not think if there is any honourable member who would support such a statement.

(Voices from Opposition benches: Who said that?) Then I am very glad to have this assurance from the benches opposite that they are not prepared to commit themselves to this theory that no action should be taken against a paper which misbehaves like this. (Voices: Who said that?)

I would like some honourable members opposite to tell me what they are murmuring about.

Mr. Speaker: I think the object of the motion was that the policy of the Government in the matter of treating the Press should be liberal.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan: When action is taken against one individual how can it be described as a policy? (Interruptions.) If action is taken against one paper in plain English it only means that action is taken against that particular paper and is not a matter of policy, particularly when it has not been shown that there are other instances also.

Mr. Speaker : Will the honourable member try to finish his speech ?

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : I was being constantly interrupted by some members of the Opposition, there was some murmuring which I could not catch, therefore I gave way to enable the members of the Opposition to tell me what they were talking about so that I may reply to it. I would submit that when this is admitted that circumstances may arise when the Government is forced to take action although very much against their own wishes against a particular press or paper then the only question that remains to be decided is whether they were justified in taking this particular action or not, and if we come to this we cannot proceed further. And what is the object which the mover of the motion has ? That the Government be censured for doing what ? For doing something about which there can be no debates and to which there can be no reference. I shall be really surprised to know that there are any honourable members in this House who would like to walk into the same lobby with my honourable friends opposite when no case has been made out to believe that the action taken by the Government against any particular paper was wrong. After all the object of an adjournment motion is merely to invite the attention of Government.....

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : On a point of order. Is the honourable member criticising or discussing the advisability of admitting the adjournment motion or speaking on the question under discussion ?

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : I am only trying to prove to the House and prove it to you that it is impossible to carry on any fair debate on this motion under the restrictions that have been placed and in view of that I would still appeal to you that it is open to the Chair and the Chair has power to intervene in the debate at any stage and stop the discussion when the Chair is convinced that no fair debate or discussion can be held on a particular motion, and if you are still open to conviction and prepared to listen to that argument I would develop it further and prove it to your entire satisfaction that it is high time that the Chair intervenes and stops this discussion.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : We are discussing an adjournment motion which has been moved and to move which leave has already been granted. Now to waste our time and try to debar us from exercising the privilege which we have derived by the admission of this motion and discussing the point whether a debate would be held or not should not be permitted.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : I have not been able to catch the point of order. What I was submitting to you and what I would once more submit is that if we had the liberty to discuss the merits of this case—

Mr. Speaker : No.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : I have no other option but to bring my remarks to a close with an appeal to the members of this honourable House that an adjournment motion is something very important and something very sacred, if it is misused, if adjournments are brought without any sufficient ground, almost every day it becomes a sort of daily occurrence and naturally does not attract so much attention as it would do otherwise.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Is it not challenging the ruling again ?

Diwan Chaman Lal : Is the honourable member relevant to the motion before the House ?

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : I admit that Diwan Chaman Lal is a great parliamentarian and he knows that this discussion is absolutely meaningless. He having a personal knowledge and experience of such debates should not get up just because he is sitting on the Opposition benches and raise points of order.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member will please speak to the motion.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : I will request honourable members to consider seriously that their giving any support to this motion will be committing themselves to one general principle that the Government under no circumstances should take action under the Press Act against any newspaper. Communal trouble is going on in the province due to this unhealthy press. If the press were assured that whatever they may write, they are immune from any action being taken against them under the Press Act, I can assure you that under the present circumstances and the atmosphere now prevailing, we will be doing the greatest disservice to our province. I have great regard for the Press. I am one of those people who consider that the Press is doing a lot of service to the people of this country. I personally believe that the responsibility of educating the vast masses of illiterate people lies on the shoulders of the press. I am one of those people who would (Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Support the Press Act) advocate large amount of liberty being given (Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Less than three-quarters of liberty ?) if I were to use that word. The Opposition should calmly consider whether the papers which publish such trash and irresponsible statements and mean articles, should not be discouraged. A distinction ought to be made between a good paper and a bad paper. The Opposition should not encourage the publication of such articles.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : It is wrong to say that we encourage the publication of such articles. But we are against the Press Act.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : Knowing the honourable Leader of the Opposition as I do and several other friends opposite I know that there will not be even half a dozen members amongst the Opposition benches, who would not strongly condemn this paper if the articles we take objection to were read out to them (interruptions). I know that we are debarred from making any reference to the articles. I know that Dr. Alam and Diwan Chaman Lal—in fact every one on the Opposition benches—would have condemned in stronger terms any paper publishing such irresponsible and mean statements.

Lala Duni Chand (Ambala and Simla, General, Rural) : I personally wish that whenever the Honourable the Premier or any other member of the Government is referred to or spoken of in the press, he should be referred to or spoken of in a proper, respectful and dignified language (hear, hear), though at the same time I am of opinion that the Government or the Prime Minister should be denounced when it is legitimate to do so and the official actions should be criticised as severely as the circumstances may permit. The real question for the consideration of this House is what effect the particular action taken by the Punjab Government, that is the subject matter of this discussion, will have on the liberty of the press and what effect it will produce upon the general morale of the press. The action that has been taken.....

Minister for Public Works : Which action ?

Lala Duni Chand : The action of confiscation of the security of Rs. 4,000. Sir, I am entitled to refer to this particular action in order to discuss the question as to what effect it will have upon the liberty of the Press. To that extent I am entitled to refer to this particular action. (Voices : No). I am not entitled to say whether this particular action was proper or not. What I am entitled to say is that this particular action will have a disastrous effect on the liberty of the press (Voices : Which action ?)

Maulvi Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din : The honourable mover of the motion has made a clear statement that he would not refer to the case and you have been pleased to allow discussion on the clear statement that he would discuss only the general policy and not refer to the case. Is my honourable friend Lala Duni Chand now entitled to refer to that case ?

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Nor was Raja Ghazantar Ali Khan when he referred to that paper.

Lala Duni Chand : To my mind, as a lawyer, it appears, and it should equally appear to all other lawyers in the House, that the reference to this particular action is perfectly relevant for the purposes of discussing what effect this action will have on the Press. If I am not allowed to discuss the action even to this limited extent, in that case the adjournment motion should very well have been rejected. The whole issue before the House is as to how far the particular action is going to affect the liberty of the Press.

Mr. Speaker : Which action ? I disallow any reference to that action. I think the honourable gentleman is an able lawyer and a politician of old standing. The House has been discussing the budget and also discussing the principles underlying it. Has reference been made to any particular item ? Why cannot the honourable member discuss the principle underlying the policy without referring to any particular case ?

Lala Duni Chand : Let me propound and enunciate my legal proposition and if after that you are of opinion that I am wrong, I shall not say a word. The legal proposition that I place before the House is that a particular action has been taken under the Press Act against the paper Siyasat which is going to deprive the Press to a great extent of the liberty that it enjoys.

Mr. Speaker : If the honourable member will again persist in irrelevancy, I may have to request him to resume his seat. (Hear, hear).

Lala Duni Chand : I have already submitted that if you will rule out the proposition, I shall not say a word.

Mr. Speaker : It is not a question of overruling. That was what the mover of the motion voluntarily and of his own accord agreed to.

Lala Duni Chand : I was agreeable to obey the ruling of the Chair. I had expressed that intention and after the expression of that intention it was unnecessary for the Speaker to be hard upon me. (Voices : Order, order.)

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is not in order.

Lala Duni Chand : I beg to submit that while the dignity of the members of the Government is to be maintained, at the same time it is also necessary that the liberty of the press should also be upheld as far as possible. The Press in this country is discharging a very important duty under the most difficult circumstances. The privileges of the press should not be trampled upon in a light-hearted manner. I understand if the Press Act is severely applied, it will be very difficult for the press in the Punjab to exist. The Press is very often required to express fearlessly its opinion regarding certain actions of the Government. If the Press Act is not administered in a liberal, magnanimous and forbearing spirit, then the press will not be able to discharge the duties that it is supposed to discharge.

The press now is treated in a light-hearted manner and the newspapers will think twice before publishing anything against any member of the Government. On the other hand if the Press Act is administered in the spirit in which it is being administered, it appears that in that case the press and newspapers will think that their only duty is to sing the praises of the Government and if they do not sing the praises of the Government then they will stand the risk of their securities being forfeited. The whole question, as I have put before the House, raises a most important question of the liberty of the press and whether by adopting this motion we will not be helping the principle of the liberty of the Press. I do fear that if actions like these are taken and if the Press Act is administered in that light-hearted manner, the liberty of the press whatever of it remains in this province, will be gone.

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani (Muzaffargarh North, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): The motion of the honourable member reminds me of a few couplets from Akbar Allahbadi which I think, might well have been composed under similar circumstances. They are :—

نغمے دور کی خیر بارو مذاق — گلے میں جو آتیں وہ تانیں آزار
 کہاں ایسی آزادیاں تھیں میں — انا الحق کہو اور یہاں سی نہ پاؤ

I do feel that liberty is the natural privilege of every human being and the desire for liberty is an instinct with him. The liberty enjoyed by a person is his prerogative as long as it does not interfere with other people's liberty. If you give a licence of liberty to everybody in accordance with his wishes he will be ridiculing others and if you prefix the words "Madar Pidar" before "Azad," they will truly depict the conception of liberty held by some people.

We admit that for the political progress of a country, freedom of the press and speech is essential, but under the present circumstances we should proceed methodically with the political training of the country and we should express our opinions keeping in view the political situation of the country. In my opinion the number of literate people in this province is very small and they are apt to be easily impressed by news papers. If the press indulges in such trash, there is every possibility of an outcry being raised against such obscene writings. (Voices : What sort of trash!)

[K. B. Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani.]

It depends upon one's choice. Some people like obscene writings, while others do not. Sir, the action which the Punjab Government has taken under the Press Act was absolutely necessary under the existing circumstances.

Mr. Speaker : Order, order. No reference to Siyasat is allowed.

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani : It should be brought home to the Press that under the present circumstances, we are not going to tolerate any nonsense. If newspapers do not pollute the political atmosphere and do not ridicule respectable persons, the Government too will not curtail the liberal concessions allowed to the press. It behoves those persons who are interested in some papers to realise their responsibilities in the matter of keeping political atmosphere as a whole free from things that stink in one's nostrils. I think that those who have moved this motion, also feel that the country should not be misled and the general consensus of opinion is that a proper political outlook should be developed in the country. (Voices : Hence the Press Act is necessary).

An honourable member raised the objection as to why action was taken under the Press Act and not under section 124-A of the Indian Penal Code.

Mr. Speaker : To which section is the honourable member referring?

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani : The honourable member on the opposite benches perhaps means that if a paper commits a mistake in future, that is publishes improper articles, then action should be taken under the ordinary law of the land, i.e., under section 500 or 124-A, and not under the Press Act. But if a paper writes anything which is calculated to disturb the peaceful atmosphere of the country then it would be more befitting that action should be taken under the Press Act and not under the ordinary law. I hope and trust that this matter would be given serious consideration and that honourable members would not indulge in irresponsible talk.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : What are you referring to ?

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani : I want to bring to your notice the cases of other countries such as Italy. Owing to political differences with England it was decided that no news about the coronation should be published in Italian papers and the people complied with the decision of their Government. They thought that in obeying their chief they were safeguarding the honour of their country.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Sir, on a point of order. I want to ask you whether the adjournment of the House can be moved at this stage because you will agree with me that whole debate has become futile and absurd.

Mr. Speaker : I agree with the honourable member.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I have already said that owing to the restrictions imposed the whole debate had become futile and absurd.

(Voices : Question may now be put.)

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : May I know which is the matter of definite importance on which we shall vote ?

Premier : I hope we are going to vote on this motion. I should, certainly, like to have the views of the House. (Interruptions).

Sardar Hari Singh : Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang remarked that the debate has become futile.

Mr. Speaker : What is the honourable member's view ?

Sardar Hari Singh : That it is not futile.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That the Assembly do now adjourn.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Do I take it that the debate continues ?

Mr. Speaker : I think the ayes have it.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : On a point of order. We have raised the point that the question be now put. (Interruptions).

Mr. Speaker : Is it the suggestion of the honourable member that I should first put the question that the question be now put and then put the adjournment motion ?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : You have already put the motion.

Mr. Speaker : I thought that that was the wish of the whole House and therefore I did not put the question that the question be now put. I understood that the whole House was in favour as it was pointed out that the discussion was futile.

The question is—

That the question be now put.

The motion was carried.

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That the Assembly do now adjourn.

The Assembly divided : Ayes 85, Noes 97.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

1ST SESSION OF THE 1ST PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Tuesday, 22nd June, 1937.

The Assembly met at the Assembly Chamber, Simla, at 11 A.M. of the clock. Mr. Speaker in the Chair.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

SUGARCANE AND SUGAR-MILLS.

61. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable the Minister of Development be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it has come to his notice that sugarcane sold by the agriculturists to the sugar mill-owners or their agents in the United Provinces and certain other provinces or parts of India has a statutory minimum price ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the price of sugarcane sold to the sugar-mills or their agents in the Punjab falls below the said statutory minimum price ;
- (c) if answers to parts (a) and (b) be in the affirmative, whether the Government propose to fix the minimum price of sugarcane in the Punjab in order to help the peasants ?

The Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram : (a) Yes.

(b) No. A statement showing prices paid for cane delivered by Central Sugar Factories during November, 1936, to January, 1937, is laid on the table. In the largest group areas the most common rates paid for cane were $4\frac{1}{2}$ annas to $5\frac{1}{2}$ annas per maund. The rates in the Punjab varied from Re. 0-5-1.8 per maund to $5\frac{1}{2}$ annas per maund which are almost at a par with the United Provinces rates.

(c) Does not arise.

SUB-SOIL WATER IN THE JULLUNDUR AND HOSHIARPUR DISTRICTS.

63. Sardar Hari Singh : (a) Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue please state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the level of sub-soil water in the Jullundur and Hoshiarpur districts is falling lower and lower at a dangerous rate every year ;

(b) whether it is a fact that some years ago the Government appointed an enquiry committee of expert engineers to fully investigate into the matter and report to the Government ?

(ii) if the answer to part (b) above be in the affirmative, will the Government please place a copy of the said report on the table of the House ?

(iii) what action does the Government propose to take in this matter to alleviate the sufferings of the poor agriculturists ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (i) (a) It is correct that the water-table has fallen seriously, but the fall has been arrested in parts of these districts in the last few years.

(b) No enquiry committees have so far been appointed, but many officers have reported on this problem.

(ii) Does not arise.

(iii) Afforestation of the hills and watbands are believed to be the only promising measures and steps have been taken to give effect to these measures.

Sardar Hari Singh : Does the Honourable Revenue Minister think that the remedy suggested by him will be sufficient to meet the desperate situation ?

Minister : So far as I think that is the only remedy.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Is it a fact that a scheme was considered to stop all the water of chos and run a canal through the doab to bring the water level up ?

Minister : I cannot say off-hand. If the honourable member gives me notice of that question, I shall supply him the necessary information.

Chaudhri Kartar Singh (Urdu) : Will the Honourable Minister be pleased to state whether it is a fact that Bhakkra Dam Scheme which was proposed to control the water of chos and irrigate the ilaga, had been under the consideration of the old Punjab Legislative Council ? If so, what steps have been taken by him in that connection ?

Minister : A question on the subject is already there on the agenda and it will be answered later on when it is reached.

(Sardar Hari Singh and Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh both rose at the same time to put supplementary questions.)

Sardar Hari Singh : It is my right to put supplementary questions.

Mr. Speaker : If they are allowed by the Chair.

Sardar Hari Singh : Am I to understand that the Honourable Revenue Minister does not subscribe to the view that desperate situations require desperate remedies ?

Minister : It is a very big question for me to answer.

Sardar Hari Singh : Am I to understand that Government's equanimity of mind is not going to be disturbed by the fact that a smiling garden is slowly being converted into a forest ?

Minister : Everybody has got sympathy for it.

Sardar Hari Singh : Lip sympathy ?

Minister : Very deep sympathy.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Is it a fact that even a survey was made for that canal ?

Minister : I cannot give an answer off-hand. If the honourable member gives me notice, I will give the information.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Is it a fact that there was under consideration a scheme to pump up water from the river Beas and run a canal through the Doaba to stop the water level from falling ?

Minister : I think it was considered ; but I cannot give him definite information about it.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Is it a fact that Mr. Ferguson both as Deputy Commissioner and as Commissioner did suggest this scheme ?

Minister : Possibly he may have done it.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Is it a fact that a special staff was appointed to look into the fall of the water level ? If that information is available, will the Honourable Minister please lay it on the table ?

Minister : I have stated in reply to the question that individual enquiries have been made by some officers. But it could not be said that a special staff had been appointed.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Does not the Government consider that an enquiry should immediately or as soon as possible be made into this matter ?

Minister : Yes, that will be made.

SIMLA EXODUS.

64. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable the Finance Minister please state the total amount of expenditure incurred by the Punjab Government on account of its summer exodus to Simla last year ?

The Honourable Mr. Manohar Lal : The expenditure incurred last year on the move of the officers and establishment required to accompany Government to Simla was Rs. 1,45,047.

Syed Amjad Ali Shah : How much of this expenditure is incurred on behalf of the Ministers ?

Minister : The expenditure incurred by the Ministers was Rs. 6,095.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I ask what are the items which are included in this expenditure—this particular expenditure ?

Minister : I have already explained that this is an expenditure involved by the move of certain officers called 'required officers' and their establishment to Simla. If the honourable member requires me to go into all the several items, I am prepared to do so.

Diwan Chaman Lall : The point is this. Does it include also the extra allowances that are paid to the staff when they move up to Simla or just the expenditure of moving to Simla ?

Minister : It includes all the extra allowances, travelling allowance of the establishment. Officers do not get extra allowance because of the move to Simla.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Does it also include the return journey?

Minister : Naturally; people who come up have to go back.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Does it include the rents that would ordinarily be chargeable if the houses were not occupied by the staff?

Minister : I do not quite follow the honourable member.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I explain? There is a lot of property that is utilised as offices, etc., in Simla by the Secretariat and by the staff. Is the item of rent which would be ordinarily chargeable for this property, if it were not utilised by the staff, included in this estimate or not?

Minister : The only way that I could answer that question is this; that certain parts of the property owned by the Government which are occupied by the officers of the department have to pay rents therefor. But if the honourable member wishes to ask me whether, for example, Ellerslie could have been let for a particular amount and whether that is included in it, then I say that is not so. It is quite possible that Ellerslie could have been let for a certain amount. But that is not expenditure directly incurred by certain officers and their establishment coming up to Simla, if I may say so, nor is any deduction made for the rent which the Government receives from some of its officers for occupying Government property. That is not deducted from this amount of Rs. 1,45,000.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I know how it is possible to deduct that item for the rent which would be chargeable for the property occupied? Is it not correct to say that would be an extra item?

Minister : If this is the total expenditure involved by the move of certain officers and their establishment to Simla, it would be practically easy arithmetic to make a deduction of the amount which Government receives from letting out the property belonging to it. I do not see there is any arithmetical difficulty in doing so. But the question was intended to ascertain exactly what the officers and their establishment cost.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Do we take it then that if the Government did not move up to Simla, this item of expenditure would be a gain to the Government, plus any sums that might be receivable for letting the property owned by the Government?

Minister : This is the exact cost which is incurred as direct expenditure by the move to Simla. As to whether the whole of it or any part of it would be saved by the Government not moving to Simla, I think the Honourable Premier the other day in answer to a question suggested certain considerations which should be taken into account.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I know whether those considerations were arrived at after a due and careful enquiry by any committee?

Minister : Yes, I am sure they were.

Diwan Chaman Lall : By a committee ?

Minister : Which committee ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : Any committee ?

Minister : Yes, the Retrenchment Committee that sat some years ago. It went into the whole matter as to what it might cost to the Government if certain properties were not actually let or otherwise utilised. But the honourable member would remember that many factors have to be taken into consideration if Government or anybody wish to come to a definite conclusion as to what the precise cost might be if the exodus were given up.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is the Honourable Minister prepared to set up a committee to go into all the various considerations mentioned by the Honourable Premier ?

Minister : Government will be quite glad to consider the propriety of setting up a committee.

Mr. E. Few : Does the expenditure also include white washing ?

Minister : It is not a matter to which I have found it necessary to address my mind.

Sardar Hari Singh : What is the estimated expenditure for the current-year under the same head ?

Minister : There is no such head as that. But if the honourable member desires to know what is the possible estimate of the expenditure during the year 1937-38 it would mean an elaborate enquiry.

Sardar Hari Singh : In view of the huge expenditure involved in exodus to Simla, is the Honourable Finance Minister prepared to advise the Honourable Premier to give up exodus to Simla ?

Syed Amjad Ali Shah : What single department is responsible for the largest expenditure ?

Minister : It appears that the Public Works Department, Irrigation Branch, which, as the honourable members know, is the greatest revenue yielding agency, costs the Government more than any another single department. It costs us about Rs. 32,000.

ELECTION PETITION OF CHAUDHRI NASRULLAH KHAN.

*65. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable the Minister of Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Commission appointed to inquire into and report upon the petition of Chaudhri Nasrullah Khan against the election of Sardar Amar Singh to District Board, Hoshiarpur, held the said election valid and recommended the rejection of the said petition ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the Deputy Commissioner, Hoshiarpur, and the Commissioner, Jullundur division, concurred with the findings of the said Commission ;
- (c) the grounds on which the Honourable Minister turned down the Commission's recommendation ;

- (d) in how many cases during the last five years did the Ministry of Local Self-Government reverse the decisions of Election Commissions appointed to inquire into petitions against elections to district boards in the Province?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) Yes.

(b) No. The Commissioner and Deputy Commissioner expressed no opinion.

(c) The nomination papers of the petitioner, Chaudhri Nasrullah Khan, were held to have been incorrectly rejected.

(d) In three cases.

Diwan Chaman Lall : What were those cases?

Minister : I am not in a position to state the name, but the information can be supplied.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : When did those cases take place?

Minister : Within the last five years.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Can you say when each of these cases took place?

Minister : I can give dates and names after enquiry if notice is given.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Can the Honourable Minister give reasons for rejecting the evidence of the election petitions?

Minister : As already stated nomination papers were held to be correct.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Was there any other case?

Minister : I have not got papers here with me but can supply the information if notice is given.

REPRESENTATION IN SERVICES OF THE RESIDENTS OF MONTGOMERY DISTRICT.

*66. Khawja Ghulam Husain : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

(a) the percentage of Muhammadan inhabitants in the total population of the Montgomery district;

(b) whether it is a fact that no Muhammadan has been posted to this district for the last several years as Sessions Judge or as Deputy Commissioner or as Superintendent of Police and that no Muslim Additional District Magistrate has ever been posted to this district since its creation;

(c) whether it is a fact that the present Deputy Commissioner and Additional District Magistrate of Montgomery are proceeding on leave;

(d) how Government propose to fill these posts when they fall vacant?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) 69·77 per cent.

(b) No, except that the post of Additional District Magistrate, which was created for the first time in December, 1928, has not yet been held by a Muslim officer.

(c) Yes ;

(d) Postings have already been made. Mr. Bueh will relieve Mr. Thapar and Rai Sahib Lala Nand Lal Manchanda has taken over as Additional District Magistrate. I should perhaps explain that in filling posts on the district staff care is taken to see that no preponderance of any one community is posted to a particular district and that the staff as a whole is fairly representative.

Lala Duni Chand : Is it a fact that it is not the practice of the Government to distribute officers according to communities in each district ?

Premier : I have nothing to add to the answer given to the honourable member.

For Q. *67, vide the Debates of 5th July, 1937.

CONFISCATION AND SALE OF LAND, ETC., DURING CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE MOVEMENT.

*68. Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Will the Honourable the Premier lay on the table of the Assembly a statement showing the amount realized by sale of land or property confiscated by Government during the Civil Disobedience movements of 1930 and 1932 ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : A sum of Rs. 750-1-9 was realized by sale of land or property confiscated by Government during the Civil Disobedience movements of 1930 and 1932. This amount was realized from sale of property attached for non-payment of fines inflicted by courts in criminal cases.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Were these fines realized from such persons who had already undergone imprisonment in lieu of these fines ?

Premier : I have no information.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will he kindly make enquiries ?

Premier : If the honourable member gives me notice.

For Q. *69, vide the Debates of 5th July, 1937.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE SURSINGH, TAHSIL KASUR.

*70. Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that a mounted additional police post was quartered in village Sursingh, tahsil Kasur, between 1914 and 1917 for a period of two years ;

(b) (i) the strength of the police force sanctioned by the Government for the purpose ;

- (ii) the strength of the police which actually remained posted there and its actual costs ;
- (iii) the yearly estimate of expenses to be recovered from the village residents on account of the additional force and the amount actually realized from the village residents excluding the prices of horses and furniture ; and
- (iv) the amount charged as price of horses, furniture, etc ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that horses and furniture were taken to the Police Headquarters, Lahore, after the withdrawal of the punitive police post ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that Sardar Thakar Singh and other residents of the village submitted an application to the Honourable the Premier, Punjab, Government Lahore, on the 8th April, 1937, claiming the refund of the sale price of the horses and furniture ; and if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes, from December, 1915, to December, 1917.

(b) and (c) In view of the fact that nearly 20 years have elapsed since this post was removed, Government do not think that it would be worth while to attempt to collect particulars regarding it.

(d) Yes. No action is contemplated.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Were the horses and furniture auctioned by Government or kept for their own use and if they were kept for their own use were they kept free or paid for ?

Premier : I believe the honourable member will find all the information in the statement furnished in reply to the question. Three statements were laid on the table in answer to the unstarred question by the honourable member.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I have not received any reply to the above question.

Premier : I will make inquiries if the honourable member will give me notice.

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order. May I ask whether statements are laid on the table of this House in the Assembly Chamber or not ?

Mr. Speaker : They are.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Is the Government prepared to return the excess charged in these cases ?

Premier : I am afraid it is much too old a case to be investigated into. It is twenty years old.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : The Government sold the horses, etc., in 1925 in Makhi Khurd. The Honourable Premier was pleased to promise yesterday that a refund would be granted in that case. Why does the Government make this distinction in this case and Makhi Khurd ?

Premier : It is merely a question of period. If we can get at the account and we think it is equitable to refund the money or to waive the arrears which are outstanding, we do so. But in this case it is a matter of 20 years and it is impossible to get hold of the papers.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Yesterday you were pleased to say in a case where punitive police post had been posted in 1930, that no refund could be given, whereas in another case you promised a refund for a matter relating to 1925.

Premier : Because in that particular case the matter had been under consideration and had been going on without any final decision having been arrived at.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE SURSINGH, TAHSIL KASUR.

71. Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that an additional police post was quartered in village Sursingh, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, from 1924-25 to 1927-28 for a period of four years ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) be in the affirmative—
 - (i) what was the strength of the police force sanctioned by the Government for the purpose, and
 - (ii) what was the estimated as well as actual cost of the police post and what amount was realized from the residents on account of pay of the sub-inspector, police, pay of the head constables, pay of the constables, pension charges, uniform allowance of the sub-inspector, police, uniform allowances of the head constables and constables, contingency, equipment charges, hut charges and conveyance allowance of the sub-inspector, police ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the authorities having found out that they had realized more money than actual costs for 1929 to 1933 proposed this excess to be adjusted by realizing less amount for the year 1929-30 ;
- (d) whether this adjustment was made during the course of realization of this amount by December, 1936. If not, when Government proposes to refund this excess to the residents ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : The reply given to question *361¹ (Dr. Sant Ram Seth) has in effect dealt with this question.

For Q. *72 and *73, vide the Debates of 5th July, 1937.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION.

74. Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state whether under section 264 (2) of the Government of India Act, 1935, it was agreed upon between this Province and the North-West Frontier Province, to have a joint Public Service Commission for the two provinces ; if so, whether he will please lay a copy of the terms of the agreement on the table of the House ?

¹Vide the Debates of 12th July, 1937.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Yes. A copy of the agreement, which has been executed by the two contracting provinces, is laid on the table.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : Will the Honourable Premier please state whether when they arrived at a ratio of 1 to 5 of expenditure to be incurred by the Punjab Government and the North-West Frontier Province, was it then contemplated that there would be two men from the other province ?

Premier : The expenditure was calculated on the number of districts in the provinces and not on the basis of members, because if the North-West Frontier were to pay on the number of members, the Chairman of the Commission was appointed by His Excellency the Governor of the Punjab.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : As we do not find the statement on the table, will the Honourable Premier read the statement ?

Premier : It is not a statement, it is an agreement.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I request that when statements are said to be laid on the table of the House in reply to questions, they should be placed on the table before the question is asked ?

Secretary : That may be arranged.

Draft agreement under section 264 (2) of the Government of India Act, 1935.

1. An agreement under section 264 (2) of the Government of India Act, 1935, made this day of 1935, between the Governors of the Punjab and the North-West Frontier Province (hereinafter called the Contracting Provinces).

2. Whereas the Contracting Provinces have agreed in pursuance of sub-section (2) of section 264 of the Government of India Act, 1935, that there shall be one Public Service Commission to serve the needs of both Provinces and whereas it is necessary to make certain incidental and consequential provisions, for giving effect to the purposes of the agreement.

3. It is hereby mutually agreed and declared by and between the Contracting Provinces as follows, that is to say :—

- (1) This agreement shall come into force on the execution of these presents.
- (2) The Punjab and North-West Frontier Province Joint Public Service Commission (hereinafter called the Commission) shall for all the purposes of Chapter III of Part X of the Government of India Act, 1935, be deemed to be the Public Service Commission for the Punjab and North-West Frontier Province.
- (3) The Commission shall consist of six Members of whom four shall be appointed by the Governor of the Punjab and two by the Governor of the North-West Frontier Province. The Chairman shall be appointed by the Governor of the Punjab.
- (4) The Governor who shall discharge the functions described in section 265 of the Government of India Act, 1935, shall in respect of any Member be the Governor who under clause 3 has appointed such Member, and in respect of the staff of the Commission shall be Governor of the Punjab.
- (5) The Governor who shall make regulations under section 266 (3) and shall refer matters for advice under section 266 (4) shall be in respect of the affairs of the Punjab the Governor of the Punjab and in respect of affairs of the North-West Frontier Province the Governor of the North-West Frontier Province.
- (6) The Governor whose previous sanction is necessary under the provisions of section 267 to the introduction of a bill or to the moving of an amendment providing for the exercise of additional functions by the Commission shall be in respect of matters relating to the Punjab the Governor of the Punjab and in respect of matters relating to the North-West Frontier Province, the Governor of the North-West Frontier Province.

(7) The total cost of the Commission shall be borne by the contracting parties in the following proportions :—

| | | | | | |
|--------------------------------------|----|----|----|----|--------------|
| Punjab | .. | .. | .. | .. | five-sixths. |
| North-West Frontier Province | .. | .. | .. | .. | One-sixth. |

Provided that all expenditure shall in the first instance be met from the revenues of the Punjab, the share of the costs payable by the North-West Frontier Province being recovered in accordance with such terms as may be agreed upon between the Contracting Provinces in respect of inter-provincial adjustments.

(8) The headquarters of the Commission shall be in Lahore.

(9) This agreement shall remain in force up to the thirtieth day of April, 1939.

VISIT OF MINISTER OF DEVELOPMENT TO HISSAR.

75. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Revenue Minister be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Tahsildar, Hissar, issued an order to the village officials to come and bring others to Hissar on the occasion of the visit of the Minister of Development to Hissar on the 4th May, 1937 ;

(b) under what rules the tahsildar called the village people in this way ;

(c) whether he will lay a copy of the said order on the table of the Assembly ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) No.

(b) and (c) Do not arise.

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma (Urdu) : Did not the naib-tahsildar issue any such order ?

Minister : My reply is quite clear. I cannot add anything to it.

ARYA SAMAJ, FARIDABAD, AND NAGAR KIRTAN PROCESSION.

76. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that licence for taking out the nagar kirtan procession from 3 p. m. to 8 p. m. on 24th April, 1937, was refused to the Arya Samaj, Faridabad, and if so, why ;

(b) whether it is also a fact that the said Samaj was allowed to take out the nagar kirtan procession last time in 1930, between these hours ;

(c) whether Government intends considering the claim of the Faridabad Arya Samaj, and allowing them to take out the procession between 3 p. m. to 8 p. m., if not, why not ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes : The change in the timings of the procession was an innovation and a breach of the peace was apprehended.

(b) In 1930 a licence was granted for taking out the procession from 4 P.M. to 9 P.M., the previous practice being to have it from 8 A.M. to 12. This change in the timings of the procession met with strong opposition as it clashed with the timings of prayers and a serious breach of the peace was apprehended. In the year 1931 an offer was made to the organisers of the procession to take out a licence for the procession from 8 A.M. to 12 noon but they refused to accept the licence on these terms, and since then no procession has been taken out.

(c) Government is not prepared to allow an innovation as it might result in a breach of the peace and communal bitterness.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state whether it is not the general practice throughout the province to take out such nagar kirtan processions in the evening and it was merely by accident that one year the procession was taken out between 8 A.M. and 12 noon?

Premier : No, it is the other way about.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Is it not the general practice throughout the province that Arya Samajists take out nagar kirtan processions in the evening?

Premier : I am afraid I cannot answer that question. Probably the honourable member knows better than I do.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Is it not the general practice everywhere throughout the province that nagar kirtan processions are taken out in the evening and there is no reason why this particular city should not have that privilege.

Premier : Because this particular town agreed to take out the procession from 8 A.M. to 12 noon.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : But that was under pressure.

Premier : I refuse to accept that opinion.

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Is it a fact that before the year 1930 the nagar kirtan procession always used to be taken out at noon?

Premier : I have already said in my reply that the previous practice was to take out the procession from 8 A.M. to 12 noon. It was only in one year that by mistake that previous practice was abandoned. As there was opposition to it and there was apprehension of the breach of the peace, the authorities had to revert to the old timings.

Mr. Speaker : I have to invite the attention of the House to the fact that Lala Deshbandhu Gupta is quite capable of making excellent speeches in English. I would, therefore, request him not to address the Chair in Urdu.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I had pointed out to him before you did that he should not run this risk (laughter).

SECTION COPYISTS AND COPY CLERKS.

77. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that from November, 1986, the section copyists and copy clerks have been amalgamated into one branch of the district establishments in the Punjab ;
- (b) whether any distinction is maintained between the salaries of the two classes of public servants now grouped in one class ;
- (c) whether the old copy clerks continue to draw the same fixed pay at Rs. 30 per mensem ; and, if so, why ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) Yes, because it has been decided to treat copy clerks on the same lines as section copyists, in whose case the pay of Rs. 25 per mensem has been fixed for new entrants only.

SECTION COPYISTS AND COPY CLERKS.

78. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable the Minister of Revenue be pleased to state whether it is a fact that during the month of November, 1985, a circular letter was issued from Financial Commissioner's office requiring that the present copy clerks be absorbed in the permanent district establishment ; if so, how many of them have been so absorbed so far ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : The reply to the first part of the question being in the negative, the second does not arise.

SECTION COPYISTS AND COPY CLERKS.

79. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that after the fixation of their pay the number of copyists in the district establishments has been reduced and that they have now to turn out double and sometimes three times more work than before ;
- (b) the reasons why the same treatment of granting time-scale of pay has not been accorded to these copyists as was accorded to the old examiners on their being brought in to the list of the permanent district staff and has always been accorded to even junior clerks in that staff ;
- (c) whether it is also a fact that a list of distinction is being maintained between the copyists employed before 1980 and those employed after that year ; if so, why ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes. The number of copyists in the province was reduced as it was found to be far in excess of actual requirements worked out on the basis of the standard output prescribed by Government after consulting the commissioners and the deputy commissioners in the Punjab. This incidentally cheapened the cost of copies regarding which there were widespread complaints from the Bar and the litigant public.

(b) See reply to question No. *80.

(c) No.

VERNACULAR COPYISTS.

80. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state whether vernacular copyists serving in the district offices are included in the list of Government servants; if so, the reasons for which they are not allowed time-scale of pay, pensions and similar other concessions?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : Yes. These copyists are non-pensionable Government servants at a fixed pay of Rs. 25 per mensem. Government consider these terms of service to be reasonable in view of the quality of the work expected from them. It may be mentioned, however, that copyists, both English and vernacular, who have the necessary qualifications, are eligible for promotion to the pensionable cadres of the district establishment with graded pay.

A, B, C AND D CLASS CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES.

81. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable the Minister of Development be pleased to state—

- (a) the number of A, B, C and D class co-operative societies in the Punjab and their debts separately;
- (b) what concession the department has made to the debtor zamindars in the days of economic depression, and the time of a great fall in the prices of agricultural products?

The Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram :

(a) (i) Classification of Societies as on 31st July, 1936 :—

| A Class. | B Class. | C Class. | D Class. |
|----------|----------|----------|----------|
| 101 | 2,139 | 12,021 | 2,718 |

(ii) On 31st August, 1936, loans due from Societies aggregated :—

| | Lakhs. |
|-------------------------------------|---------------|
| | Rs. |
| A, B, and C class | 297 |
| D class | 78.02 |
| Societies under liquidation | 21.98 |
| Total | 397.00 |

[The Hon'ble Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram.]

The information as to debts due by A, B and C class societies separately is not available. To obtain this information would entail a reference to all central co-operative banks and unions in the province and would take a disproportionate time to collect.

(b) Several measures have been adopted to help the societies, some of the most important are as follows :—

- (1) The general rate of interest has been lowered from 12½ per cent. to 9½ per cent. Taking 9½ per cent. as the maximum, reductions have further been made according to the owned funds of each individual society. Thus societies having 75 per cent. owned capital were allowed to reduce their rates to 4 per cent. societies with 50 per cent. owned funds to 5 per cent. and societies having less than 50 per cent. owned funds to 7 per cent. No limit was imposed on societies which are working entirely on their own funds.
- (2) The societies were also allowed to sanction two different rates of interest—one for the old loans and the other for the fresh ones. The rate of old loans is lower than the one on fresh ones.
- (3) In certain bad areas the societies were also encouraged to credit 50 per cent. of the members' payments to principal and the remaining 50 per cent. to interest.
- (4) Weak societies where the members have poor assets are encouraged to allow the reduction in the rate of interest with retrospective effect for the last 2 or 3 years.
- (5) In case of majority of D class societies, the central banks have been advised to credit all payments to principal provided the societies extend the same concession to their members. Thus these societies enjoy the concession of having their payments credited to principal.
- (6) In some cases the societies with indivisible profits have been allowed to adopt by-laws of divisible profits so that a portion of the accumulated profits may be utilised in adjusting their loan accounts.
- (7) In exceptionally weak cases, members, who repay at least half the interest due from them are allowed 3½ per cent. rebate. This is done where the interest in arrears has grown abnormally high.
- (8) Instalments on old loans have been greatly extended, demands being adjusted to the members' capacity to repay.
- (9) Central institutions have all been advised to reduce their lending rates. This has been accepted by all the banks. It has helped the societies in lowering their rate of interest.

NOTICE TO THE SECRETARY OF STATE BY ONE SAYAD KHURSHID ALI.

*82. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable the Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that one Sayad Khurshid Ali, son of Najib Hussain, of village Barwala in the district of Hissar has given a notice for damages to the Secretary of State for India ;
- (b) whether the notice is in connexion with the damage done to his cultivated field by the Canal Department ;
- (c) whether the department obtained his permission for digging up his field for earth ;
- (d) whether previous to his giving notice to the Secretary of State the man applied to the Canal Department and the Deputy Commissioner for compensation ;
- (e) if the answer to (b) and (d) is in the affirmative, whether the Government propose to give suitable compensation ;

(f) whether any action is proposed to be taken against the officers responsible for the loss and trouble to the man ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) No. Under the Canal Act officers of the Canal Department are empowered to dig up earth from fields for emergent works. In this case a breach was apprehended.

(d) Yes.

(e) Yes.

(f) None, as the officer acted properly to prevent a possible breach in canal.

AHERIS OF HISSAR DISTRICT.

83. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Aheris of district Hissar are included among the criminal tribes ;

(b) whether it is a fact that four successive Deputy Commissioners of Hissar, i.e., Khan Bahadur Mian Abdul Aziz, Rai Bahadur Lala Arjan Das, Messrs. Jones and Gill, recommended to the Government for removing them from the list of criminal tribes ;

(c) whether these recommendations have been accepted by the Government ; if not, why not ;

(d) whether a copy of the recommendations will be placed on the table of the Assembly ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Under Punjab Gazette notification No. 65-Police/6, dated the 5th January, 1917, Aheris generally throughout the whole province (not merely in the Hissar district) were declared to be a criminal tribe.

(b) to (d) The honourable member is asked to see the replies given to questions *4562¹, *5224² and *5944³ in the old Punjab Council. As stated in reply to the last of these questions Government cannot undertake to disclose the recommendations of particular officers in this or any other case. The whole question of the Aheris in Hissar has lately been examined by the Deputy Commissioner for Criminal Tribes in consultation with the local officers. On the basis of their reports Government have come to the conclusion that there is no case for cancelling the notification under section 3 of the Act, which as already explained relates to Aheris generally over the whole province and not merely those in Hissar. The Deputy Commissioner has, however, been instructed to examine the individual cases of all members of the tribe in his district, village by village, and to cancel the registration of all those who have earned such treatment under the rules. When all the Aheris in any village have been removed from the register in accordance ¹Vol. XXVII, page 30.

²Vol. XXVIII, page 87.

³Vol. XXIX, page 196.

[The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia.]

with this process it is intended to cancel the notification under section 3 of the Act so far as that village is concerned. The Deputy Commissioner for Criminal Tribes and the local officers have been instructed to complete the examination of individual cases as expeditiously as possible.

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma (Urdu) : Will the Honourable Minister be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the last four Deputy Commissioners made reports to exclude Aheris from the criminal tribes ?

Minister : I have no information on the subject.

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma (Urdu) : I mean the report that was made by the last four Deputy Commissioners in Hissar.

Minister : I have given the reply. I am not going to place those replies on the table.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Who are the local officers who are consulted by the Deputy Commissioner for Criminal Tribes ?

Minister : Deputy Commissioner of Hissar and the Superintendent of Police.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Is it not a fact that last time when the Deputy Commissioner for Criminal Tribes went to Hissar, the Deputy Commissioner was out of station and the decision arrived at by the Deputy Commissioner for Criminal Tribes was not known to the Deputy Commissioner, Hissar ?

Minister : I am not keeping a diary of the Deputy Commissioner's movements.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I think the Honourable Minister is expected to know these things and he should give a reply if information is asked for ?

Minister : I will make enquiries.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Can the Honourable Minister give reasons as to why he is not prepared to disclose the report of the Deputy Commissioner ?

Minister : That cannot be done as some public interest may be involved.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Does the Honourable Minister mean that there is some public interest involved in not disclosing the report ?

Minister : Yes.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Then why does the Honourable Minister say that there may be some public interest involved in disclosing it ?

Lala Duni Chand : We want to know what is the public interest involved and if there is no public interest involved in this report, then will the Honourable Minister say that there is no question of public interest being involved ?

Minister : It is the general policy of the Government.

Diwana Chaman Lall : Is he going to change it? May I ask the Honourable Minister the definition of "public interest"? Is public interest, in the opinion of the Honourable Minister, merely the desire of the Honourable Minister in charge not to give an information? Is there any danger of public peace in the disclosure of this information?

Mr. Speaker : Order, order.

VERNAICULAR TEACHERS IN THE INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT.

84. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable the Minister of Development be pleased to lay on the table a statement giving—

- (a) a list of those vernacular teachers in the Industrial Department who came under retrenchment in 1982, with their qualifications, the post they held and the period of their service ;
- (b) a list of those vernacular teachers who came under retrenchment but who were subsequently recalled, their qualifications, the post they held, and the period of their service ;
- (c) a list of those craft teachers, including drawing masters, whose services were dispensed with, their qualifications, the post they held, and the period of their service ;
- (d) a list of craft teachers who are in service with their qualifications, the post they held, and the period of their service ?

The Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram : The information is not readily available and the expenditure of time and labour involved in compiling it would be out of proportion to the value of the result. In the circumstances the Government regret that they are unable to supply the required information.

OFFICIALS TRAVELLING IN LORRIES.

85. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it has been brought to the notice of the authorities that officials in general and those of police force in particular travel in licensed lorries free of charge and that this practice offers inducements to the lorry drivers to carry more passengers than allowed by the licence ;
- (b) what steps the Government propose to take to put a stop to this practice ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : This question is identical with question *26,¹ to which a reply has already been given.

EMBEZZLEMENT IN BHIWANI MUNICIPALITY.

86. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Audit Notes for the year 1982-83 regarding Bhiwani Municipal Committee pointed out an embezzlement of 78 tins of kerosene oil ;

[Pandit Shri Ram Sharma.]

- (b) whether it is a fact that the Examiner also certified in his report to this embezzlement in 1935 ;
- (c) what action the Municipal Committee has taken in this matter, if no action has been taken so far, the reasons for the same ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hyat Khan, Tiwana : (a) No.

(b) The Examiner stated that the cases of misappropriation of the sale-price of kerosene oil tins had since been decided and the amount should be written off under competent sanction.

(c) The Municipal Committee, Bhiwani, reported the matter to the police. The official at fault was convicted and sentenced to 2½ years' rigorous imprisonment.

FORFEITURE OF THE PENSIONS OF SIKH MILITARY PENSIONERS.

87. Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) the amount of pension and the number of Sikh military pensioners whose pensions were stopped during the Akali movement at the instance of the Punjab Government ;
- (b) the amount of their pension and the number of the Sikh military pensioners whose pensions were subsequently restored after the Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act was passed ;
- (c) the amount of pension and the number of such military pensioners whose pensions have not yet been restored ;
- (d) whether the Punjab Government has recommended or proposes to recommend to the Government of India the restoration of these pensions ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Orders for the forfeiture or restoration of military pensions can only be passed by the Army authorities. In certain cases the Government of the province concerned is consulted, but the Punjab Government maintain no complete record of recommendations made by themselves or their officers in cases of this kind and at this distant date it is doubtful if even approximate correct figures can be collected.

RELIGIOUS HOLIDAYS IN THE PUNJAB JAILS.

88. Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that in the Punjab jails, convicts are not allowed any religious holiday excepting the Christian holidays ;
- (b) whether he is aware that important religious holidays are allowed in the jails of other provinces ;

- (e) what he intends to do in respect of the grant of important Muslim, Hindu and Sikh holidays to prisoners in the jails of the province ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) The honourable member will find the rules on the subject in paragraph 671 of the Punjab Jail Manual.

(b) Information is being collected regarding the number of holidays allowed in other provinces.

(c) The question will be examined in the light of the information on the subject received from other provinces.

INTRODUCTION OF ELECTION SYSTEM IN PINDIGHEB MUNICIPALITY.

89. Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Will the Honourable Minister of Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the election system as against the system of nomination has not yet been introduced in Pindigheb Municipality in spite of several representations to that effect by the residents of the town ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that out of the nominated members two members belong to the same family ;
- (c) whether it is intended to introduce a system of election in Pindigheb Municipality ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Not at present.

PECULE SYSTEM IN JAILS.

90. Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a system of pecule prevailed in the Central Jail, Lahore, and other jails of the Punjab for many years but it has been given up for the last 10 or 12 years ;
- (b) whether the question of reintroducing this system is being considered by Government ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) The pecule system was introduced in the Punjab jails in 1926. It proved an expensive failure and was abolished in 1931.

(b) No.

SHORT NOTICE QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

GRIEVANCES OF LITIGANTS AND THE COPYING DEPARTMENT.

Sardar Gurecharan Singh : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue please state what steps Government have taken to remove the grievances of the litigant public in connection with the Copying Department with reference to the statements made by Mr. A Latifi, Financial Commissioner, Revenue, on 23rd March, 1936, in the Punjab Legislative Council (Volume XXVIII, pages 823—25) ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : The honourable member presumably refers to the discussion on the cut motion moved by Sardar Arjan Singh in respect of the grant for the Copying Agency Establishment " with the object of drawing the attention of Government to the excessive rates and to the complaints of the litigant public in connection with the obtaining of copies." These complaints were that—

- (a) the abolition of the system under which copies could be secured by value payable post was causing much hardship ;
- (b) the system of levying an advance for the cost of copies, combined with the delays in giving refunds was very irksome ;
- (c) the cost of copies in the Punjab as compared with those prevailing in other provinces, particularly the United Provinces, were excessive.

2. Mr. Latifi, Financial Commissioner, Revenue, replying to the debate on behalf of Government admitted that the existing arrangements for the supply of copies to the public were wholly unsatisfactory. He stated that the matter had already been engaging attention, and the only reason why it had not been set right was that the case was very complicated and time was needed for a complete cleaning out of what might be called an Augean Stable. He promised that no time would be lost in setting matters right.

3. The honourable member will be glad to learn that the promise has been fulfilled in the spirit and the letter. The value payable post system has been reintroduced in all the districts of the Punjab, and so no applicant for a copy need now deposit an advance.

4. With regard to the chief grievance—the excessive cost of copies—we had to do one or two things : either give up some portion of the Government revenue—which we could not afford to do—of reduce the cost of producing copies and give reasonable consequential relief to the litigant public. The latter was the course adopted. After inquiry and practical experiments the Financial Commissioner found that on the basis of a reasonable daily outturn of copying work only 332 copyists were required in the place of the 664, who were actually employed to do the work in district offices. There was thus a load of 332 superfluous men on the shoulders of the litigants. Most of these superfluous men, who were inefficient or overage or removable without undue hardship, have been discharged.

5. Again, under the old system copyists, were not government servants, but piece-workers, who pooled the money they realized for the price of copies, and after deducting one-third as a contribution to Government on account of record-room charges, supervision, etc., divided the rest among themselves. It was found that in some districts the average amount earned by a copyist was as much as Rs. 80 a month, while in others it was only about Rs. 15 or so. This system has been abolished. Copyists have been made into Government servants at a fixed salary of Rs. 25 per mensem which, I may mention, is also the salary of paid apprentices in the district offices. Unnecessary hardship to old employees has been avoided by giving them additional pay up to a maximum of Rs. 25 per mensem, i.e., Rs. 50 in all.

All copyists have also been given the benefit of regular leave rules and the provident fund. Orders have been issued that no one should be recruited as a copyist who does not possess the qualifications necessary for employment in the district office, and the avenue of promotion on to the district establishment has been thrown open to qualified and deserving copyists; and so while a large sum has been saved by the reduction of salaries, the position of copyists as a class has, by a simple re-adjustment been made, in most cases better than what it used to be before this reorganization.

6. It is not possible at this stage to give exact figures, but about Rs. 1,50,000 per annum will be saved, which sum will be further increased by about Rs. 82,000 as old copyists with additional pay retire and new hands are engaged in their stead at Rs. 25 per mensem. All this saving will help in scaling down the cost of copies to reasonable rates.

7. The rates tentatively agreed between the Financial Commissioner and the High Court are given in the statement attached to this reply. These rates have already been tried with success in the Lahore, Amritsar and Ferozepore districts. They will shortly be extended to the Gurdaspur, Sialkot, Gujranwala, and Sheikhupura districts, and it is hoped to extend them as soon as practicable, with such modifications as further experience may make necessary, to the remaining districts of the province.

8. The honourable member will observe from the statement attached to this reply that apart from the reduction of rates a further boon has been conferred on the public by the fixing of flat rates of fees in as many cases as possible. An additional facility will be the system of payment of copying fees by means of judicial stamps, which also has been found successful in the experimental districts.

Revised experimental rates for copies to be supplied in the districts of Ferozepore, Lahore and Amritsar and proposed to be introduced shortly in the districts of Gurdaspur, Sialkot, Sheikhupura and Gujranwala.

(3) All copies coming under heads 21, 22, 25 and in other cases not specially provided for, where the copy exceeds 15 pages will be charged extra at the rate of annas eight per page exceeding 15 pages.

(4) The urgent fee is rupee one extra for each copy.

(5) For the purposes of note 4 the extra fee to be charged shall be for each paper which can properly be regarded as a separate paper, e.g., every deposition of a witness or written statement of a party or order of the court is a separate paper. In cases of doubt as to whether a paper is separate or not, the officer-in-charge shall decide.

[The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia.]

- (6) If two or three English type-written copies of a document are asked for, there should be only one "urgent" fee. If the copies asked for are from four to six, the urgent fee should be twice as much, and so on. In the case of Urdu (vernacular) script urgent fee should be charged for each copy. A remark to this effect should be given in the remarks column of Register C. D. 2.

HAPPENINGS AT PANIPAT IN CONNECTION WITH HOLI FESTIVAL.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether he has received the report of Mr. Askwith regarding the unfortunate happenings at Panipat connected with the last Holi festival;
- (b) if so, whether he will place the same on the table of the House or make a statement embodying his main findings and recommendations?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) A statement embodying conclusions of the Government will be published in due course. I have not had an opportunity, so far, of discussing the matter with my honourable friend the Leader of the Opposition.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Is it not already over-due in view of the promise?

Premier : But unfortunately we could not meet.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Can the Honourable Premier give us the limit of 'due course'?

Premier : After discussion with my honourable friend.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Any idea of time for meeting him again?

Premier : I am afraid I have to suit his convenience. I requested him to come to me at Panipat but unfortunately, on account of other engagements, he could not come. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta also could not, unfortunately, meet me at Panipat and, therefore, I had no occasion to discuss the matter, as was promised in the previous session of the Assembly.

GENERAL DISCUSSION OF THE BUDGET.

Mr. Speaker : The House will now resume the general discussion of the budget.

(Sardar Sampuran Singh rose to move his adjournment motion.*)

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member Sardar Sampuran Singh's adjournment motion is out of order inasmuch as the matter is not of recent occurrence. If the honourable member came to know of it only to-day, even then his adjournment motion is out of order. If an event which took place six years ago, came to the knowledge of the honourable member yesterday, it cannot be said to be of recent occurrence, because its knowledge of the honourable member is recent. Recency is to be judged by time and not by knowledge.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : Sir, I want to explain—

Mr. Speaker : The rule is that the matter proposed to be discussed, must be of recent occurrence, and not a matter, which has come to the knowledge of an honourable member recently though it occurred a long time ago.

The House will now resume the general discussion of the budget.

Sardar Lal Singh (Ludhiana Central, Sikh, Rural) : It was said yesterday that this budget was presented by the first national Government. I submit, that assertions like these do more harm than good. To call a government, that can be made and unmade by the will of one individual, a national government, I think is height of misrepresentation. The people who form the nation are the least heard in connection with the budget. Where is the nation that is being represented, as my friend Mir Maqbool Mahmood said, by the verdict of the people. That nation, I submit, resides in cottages in very humble and poor cottages and has done so, for the last 80 years or so. That very nation remains where it was after having paid the revenue demanded of them during these 80 years ; and if that is the criterion of the national government, would they come out and give their support to the Unionist government which has not said a single word for the direct relief of these poor peasants Minister for Revenue Question) I am coming to that. My revered friend Honourable Sir Sundar Singh Majithia is referring to the twenty lakhs which he had to pay, not for the relief of the peasant but for the reason that the milch cow that has been supporting this government for nearly a century past may continue to pay. It is not for direct relief but for indirect relief which may be called famine relief. I ask, is there a single item promised by the Premier ? In my own constituency there is an ilaqa of about 23 villages called Shaina. Except that they are made to pay the revenues, they are unknown to the other parts of the world. There are no roads and there is no change whatsoever uptodate ever since the British Government came to rule there. They live in those humble hamlets in the same way. That ilaqa is about 50 miles from Ludhiana and is controlled by one police station. It is surrounded by native states and the sub-inspector exercises the rule according to his own will.

Minister for Revenue : Does my friend want more police stations there ?

Sardar Lal Singh : I will tell him what I want. One has to spend about six hours in reaching those far off villages. To-day crores of rupees are being spent but not a single road has been built there. There is not one road whereby the zamindars can bring their produce by which they have got to pay revenue to the State.

Minister for Revenue : Does my friend know that the ilaqa is surrounded by native States ?

Sardar Lal Singh : I know that but that is no reason why there should be no roads. If it is surrounded by native States there is more reason why there should be roads—

Minister for Revenue : You have to get the concurrence of the native States for the construction of roads.

Sardar Lal Singh : There is no pucca road at all. If you study the geography you will find that there are some villages surrounded by native States and no road has to so far been constructed. Then, Sir, what do we find in the budget ? As my friend the opener of the debate said, it is simply taking with one hand from the villager and giving it with the other to the cities. There is no reason why the income from the hydro-electric scheme and the advantages from the scheme should not also be extended to the villages. (Minister for Public Works. It is going to be done.) We are discussing the budget and there is not a single item where you have given any indication of doing so.

Out of the total revenue of about 11 crores, about 7 crores come directly out of the pockets of those people and out of the remaining four crores I think indirectly about one half comes out of the pocket of these villagers and peasants. It is true—I must do justice to the new ministry—it has been pleaded on their behalf that the Ministry is new and that they have had a short time. That is true, but it cannot be said that the Unionist ministry have not been tucking up their sleeves for the last seven or eight months.

Minister for Revenue : I question that it is a Unionist ministry.

Sardar Lal Singh : I suppose you are not on the Unionist ministry.

Minister for Revenue : No, I am not.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : He is not on the Unionist ministry, he is under the Unionist Ministry.

Minister for Revenue : I am with the Ministerial party. (A voice A socialist party).

An Honourable Member : Your party might have been absorbed by the Unionist party.

Premier : I believe it is possible to absorb several members in my party.

Mr. Speaker : Honourable members should not be personal.

Sardar Lal Singh : After having made that promise to the agriculturists, it was pleaded by my friend Mir Maqbool Mahmood that a Committee has been set up, that is to say, a Retrenchment Committee has been set up. The mere promise that the agriculturists would be granted relief is not enough. I do not think it is sufficient that the condition of the granting of relief to the agriculturists depends upon finding money elsewhere. It is not so. What I plead for the poor agriculturists is whether you find money elsewhere or not, whether the Committee you have set up, is able to affect retrenchment or not, I think the burden of the agriculturists has been so heavy and so much injustice has been done to him, that his relief is due and has been long overdue. In that matter the very policy that was set up when the Ministers' Salary Bill was discussed, is partly responsible for what is going on now. I think that the Ministry set a wrong pace in pitching their salaries too high. Imagine what a big gap there is between the Ministers and the poor agriculturists, eight out of ten of whom are heavily indebted. They live just from hand to mouth. Their children are suffering from malnutrition and they are not able to feed and clothe themselves properly, and there is the Ministry which, regardless of what sort of a budget they were going to have, regardless of the fact whether there was money or not, regardless of the promises that they gave to the agriculturists to give relief to them, set their pays so high simply for the sake of dignity or I do not know what, may be to make it equal to the other civilised countries. They pitched their salaries too high, and the result is that there is a very big gap, a very unbridgeable gap between the poor agriculturists of the province and the ministers who are responsible for, or who are supposed to look after, their finance and to look after them. It has been stated even on the floor of this House that there is no proportion between their average incomes. Only the other day one of the friends on the opposite side said that we are living in an atmosphere of unreality. If there is any reality it is that the peasant has had to pay for the last eighty years taxes higher than are paid in any other civilised country and therefore relief is due to him. That is one reality and the other reality is that instead of bridging that gulf between the poor man and the ministry that gulf is being widened. I do not intend at all to minimise the honest attempt on the part of the ministry—they would not be worth their salt if they did nothing—but what we complain of is that the budget which the present ministry have put forward is a mere replica of what it used to be. Mr. Speaker, I ask them to show a single item which is an improvement on the last. It was fortunate that the prices have improved. It was fortunate that the Finance Minister did not have to pay anything towards debt, and then the budget is self-balanced. Even in that case I should think that the Ministry should have made a beginning. There ought to have been some relief given to the agriculturists. In a country as big as Germany without any army to support and without any navy to build what do we find? We find that on Health and Sanitation it spends 1·5 per cent. I may be wrong but these are the figures I have. It spends 1·5 per cent. out of the total revenue on Health and Sanitation of villages which are the mainstay of this Government and which live in a state of continuous disease and are surrounded by insanitation. There is absolutely no sanitation, nor has any attempt been made to improve it.

Then again, on the so-called Beneficent Departments in which is included Education, it spends only 20 per cent. whereas there are countries which spend on Education alone much more than that.

Then again, leave alone the question of granting relief to the agriculturist. The only other department which would have given any benefit to the agriculturist or the villager was the Rural Reconstruction. What do we find there? I suppose that Rural Reconstruction goes under co-operative credit work. What do we find there? Direction 98,000, Superintendence 10,80,000, Grants-in-aid one lakh and odd. That is according to the Punjabi proverb: Darhi nalon muchhan wadian. The actual propaganda that has to be done costs only one lakh, whereas direction and superintendence comes to 11 lakhs. And what is direction and superintendence—the pay and tour allowance of officers who go round and give directions or perhaps control the Rural Reconstruction Department. From their reports we are at a loss to get any light. They write reports which only show that so many societies have been added, even though each society may have five or six members or at the most ten members.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan (Pind Dadan Khan, Muhaminadan, Rural): As was stated by Mir Maqbool Mahmood yesterday morning in his speech, this is the first budget which is being presented by a national Government. The speaker who preceded me challenged that statement. Let me assure him that as long as the present constitution continues, the only criterion of judging whether the Government is national or not is the party which enjoys the confidence of the electors. There cannot be any other criterion. This budget being the first budget of the first national Government requires a very careful examination. I personally draw two lessons from this budget. The first is that there is a very strong desire on the part of the Finance Minister to spend as much money as he possibly can on nation building departments. That is the first lesson that we can draw from this budget and I will presently prove that the Finance Minister has done his very best to satisfy the public demand in that respect within his own limitations. The second lesson, which is still more important, is that provincial autonomy, so far as fiscal policy is concerned, is absolutely a shadow. I know that the Unionist Party never made a secret of the fact that provincial autonomy did not at all mean complete self-government. (An honourable member : Shame). I entirely agree with the honourable member. (Hear, hear) in claiming that the provincial autonomy is by no means complete self-Government. I personally feel that anybody who tries to examine this budget from an unbiassed point of view will notice that the hands of the Finance Minister are tied. The number of non-votable items in the budget is very large. The country is suffering from acute poverty. There is already over-taxation. But I would ask my honourable friends sitting on the opposite benches to tell me how much they could do for the public of this province if they were to walk over to this side of the House and take charge of the finances of the province. (An honourable member : A good deal more). I expected this reply. But in the speeches that have been made so far I have tried to find out what concrete suggestions they made which could do enormous good to the province. The only good they could have done was either by radical retrenchment of expenditure or by more taxation. Now, I should like to have a reply from the Opposition as to what course they would have taken. As far as retrenchment is concerned we know our limitations. Not only can we not touch the non-votable items which form a major portion of the budget, but even the services are earmarked for a particular class of community. This is the sort of provincial autonomy which we have got to work. But as practical men the only course open to us is to make the best of a bad bargain. (Hear, hear). I am very anxiously looking forward to the day when the Congress will accept offices in those six provinces where they are in a majority in the legislatures in order to see what sort of a budget they would present to their legislatures. (Hear, hear and cheers). But I may assure the House that there will not be more than a few thousands difference in one item or other. There may be some political stunts which would make attractive headlines in the newspapers. But coming to realities I am sure that there will be very little difference. Therefore while examining the budget we must bear in mind that under the present constitution there are good many limitations on the Finance Minister. As far as retrenchment is concerned, no man who has any experience of administration would suggest that the Government can just sit down for ten minutes and strike off certain posts and effect retrenchment of expenditure. That is absolutely impossible. The only way to do it is to appoint a committee which should closely and carefully examine the question keeping always in mind that the object of the appointment of the committee is to make substantial retrenchment in the expenditure. We all know that those days are gone when questions could be shelved by the appointment of committees. The country is wide awake. The mere appointment of a committee with some very noble objects and with very good terms of reference will not satisfy the public. We are all conscious of it. Those gentlemen who are now occupying the Treasury benches know more than anybody else that to satisfy the public something practical must be done. The other day some quotations were read from the speeches delivered a few years ago by the Honourable Minister for Development. I can assure the House that if the Honourable Minister were now sitting on the Opposition benches he will repeat the same things which he said ten years ago. But when he is faced with realities and when he is surrounded by his well-trained I. C. S. secretaries and when he finds that certain things, whether he considers them good or evil, have been in existence for a large number of years, he will realise that it is not easy to get out of them. But what I beg to submit is that the Government has done its best to do what it can within the means open to it.

I would compare this provincial autonomy with a court of wards. I personally feel that we are placed under a court of wards, the British Government still being the authority in charge of the wards. (Opposition: Hear, hear). The only difference is that it has appointed the wards as co-managers of the estate. I may assure the House that my conception of this provincial autonomy does not go an inch beyond that. Therefore we have got certain limitations to face whether we like them or not. Just take the case of a man who is philanthropic by nature and is passing by a roadside. He finds people sitting on the road, some lame, some blind, some deaf and some incapacitated in some way or other. He wants to give them all as much as he can, but he finds that he has got only five or six pice in his pocket. While he would like to pay several rupees to each of them he has to be satisfied with paying only one pice each. The same is the case with the Finance Minister of our Government. There is not a single item of nation building which he has left out of his consideration. He has given a few thousands to one department and a few lakhs to another, but all this within the small amount of 20 lakhs. What else could any other Finance Minister have done. I would challenge the Opposition to show by actual figures how much more they could have spent on nation building departments within the frame work of this constitution.

Now, leaving aside all these generalities, I would like to come to some concrete figures. There are a few matters on which I should congratulate the Government. The first is the arrangement for practical training for ten graduates for two years in agriculture.

That, Sir, is a demand which the zamindars have been making for a long time and I am sure that if this experiment is carried on a larger scale, it will do a lot of good to agriculture in this province. The second is the research on technical problems connected with reclamation of kallar soils on departmental farms. This is another serious problem of the province and I am sure that the enquiry will not be confined merely to the departmental farms but will be carried out more extensively. The third is the provision of a sum of Rs. 50,000 towards the improvement of Minto Park for sports for students in Lahore. This is the greatest need of the day and the Government's having taken the step of providing a sum of Rs. 50,000 is a good thing. The education in Lahore Colleges is not merely confined to the students belonging to the Lahore city but students come to Lahore from practically all over the Punjab. The next is the restoration of grants to district boards for cattle breeding purposes. Then consolidation of holdings is another very noble object which can be of great benefit to the zamindars, but I am afraid the progress which this scheme has made so far is very meagre and unsatisfactory and I hope the Government will seriously consider whether they cannot give more impetus to his noble object. Then, Sir, is another important question of providing protection to bunds and embankments in Kahan Nala. At present they are confined to only one Nalla, but let me inform the Government that this trouble is becoming very serious in the different districts of the Punjab and I hope the Government will pay very serious consideration to this problem... (Interruption). The Honourable Minister reminds me of Pind Dadan Khan water supply scheme. So far it is all in the air and I am sure if the Honourable Minister will see that the water supply comes into effect before the winter sets in, he will be earning the gratitude of the people of Pind Dadan Khan. We are badly in need of water supply and people have been dying for sweet water. I did not mention it because there was no mention of it in the budget. Then the next thing in the budget is improvement and equipment of dispensaries under the control of local bodies. Here I would request the Honourable Minister in charge to see that the tahsil dispensaries are also provincialised at as early a date as possible because tahsil dispensaries are generally managed by second class municipalities which have very meagre funds at their disposal and they are unable to maintain them satisfactorily.

There are many other points which I could quote from the budget to show that the Government has given proof of their bona fides and their earnestness to do something for the public. But the time at my disposal being very short I would leave it at that. There is one item in the budget to which really a serious objection can be raised and which every one of us desires should be reduced considerably if it were possible. That is the item relating to Administration of Justice and Police. Whenever the budget is discussed in the central legislature it is the military budget staring us in the face. Here in the provincial budget it is the police budget. But no man who has the welfare of the province at heart would suggest retrenchment of a single farthing under the head Police as long as the present communal tension and the present state of affairs continue in this province. Therefore, if we all really want to do some good to the province, if we really want the Government to spend more money on nation building departments, the only thing we can do is to make a joint attempt to create an atmosphere in this province where the need for additional police and other police in such large numbers is diminished. But as long as this unfortunate communal tension remains it is impossible to suggest any retrenchment under the head Police. There are many ways by which the honourable Finance Minister can improve the finances of the province and can add to the happiness of the people. I would like to make a few suggestions for his consideration. But before I do that—I am not sure whether my time is up or not.—I would like just to make one remark. Let me appeal to the Honourable Finance Minister and other ministers—it is not the Finance Minister who is concerned with the budget perhaps he is the least concerned about it because other members of the Government make proposals for expenditure and retrenchment—I would make an appeal to the Honourable Finance Minister and other ministers before I sit down that this budget is such as could be presented with an apology. We are all aware of the fact that the Government has been in office hardly for three months within which they had to prepare the budget. This is a fact that within the short period of three months Government could not possibly make any radical changes in the administration which existed before the provincial autonomy came into being. But when the Honourable Finance Minister presents his budget next year he should be prepared to face very strong criticism from us all because I may assure him that the country is suffering from a terrible disease. There is any amount of unemployment, people are very poor, the peasant proprietors and the tenants all want immediate relief and we cannot face them merely with the Government of India Act and say we cannot give you relief. If we want to carry on as a government we will have to make revolutionary changes in the administration (hear, hear), not only in the policy of taxation but also through vast retrenchment. Look at the number of districts; look at the number of departments which have emerged during the last few years. I personally consider that there is a big room for retrenchment, but to expect the Government to have embodied these retrenchments in the present budget within a period of three months is really unreasonable. A committee has been appointed and I am sure the committee will provide such material that it will enable the Government to frame such a budget next year as will show that there is a big difference between the budget presented under the reforms and the budget presented previously. (Cheers).

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma (Southern Towns, General, Urban), (Urdu): Sir, I would like to commence my speech on the general discussion of the budget with a couplet by Ghalib. It is as follows:—

آج ہم اپنی پریشانی خاطر ان سے
کہنے آئے تو یہ پر دیکھئے کیا کہتے ہیں

At this time only two-thirds of the budget for the year 1937-38 is under discussion, the remaining one third has already been passed under the special powers of His Excellency the Governor. This two-third of the budget is also based on the one-third that has already been passed. If one were to go into the details of income and expenditure it will be found that the figures given in the present two-third budget have been generally doubled. Much has been said in praise of this budget. The Honourable Minister for Finance has spoken very highly of his department and the Government in their turn have praised him to the skies. Now the question is what should be the criterion for judging this budget. I think, there are only two ways of doing it. The first is that since it has been submitted by the bureaucratic government, it should be considered as a bureaucratic budget, and treated as such.

[Pandit Shri Ram Sharma.]

Secondly, it should be considered from the autonomous and national point of view. I will presently go into the details of the budget and I will show you whether the Government is deserving of our congratulations or not. The present budget is in reality a deficit budget. The so-called surplus of Rs. 1,70,000 is merely an eye-wash. It will be observed that only a few lines lower down it is stated that expenditure to the tune of Rs. 1,70,000 has yet to be incurred. It would have been much better if the Government had shown a surplus of Rs. 5 crores and stated afterwards that expenditure would exceed the surplus by Rs. 6 lakhs.

There is another remarkable feature of this budget, and it is this. As compared with the budget figures of last year, the income shows a decline, while there has been an increase in the expenditure. If the income is Rs. 4 lakhs, the expenditure is Rs. 25 lakhs. On the whole there is a deficit of Rs. 71 lakhs in the provincial budget. The Honourable Finance Member to the Punjab Government has been pleased to tell us that a deficit budget is not a bad thing. This is a remarkable feature of modern finance. We know that this deficit has been accumulating from year to year. The budget of 1928-29 was a deficit budget; and so were the budgets of 1932-33 and 1935-36. The budget of 1936-37 too showed a deficit. During the Montford Reforms promises were held out by Government for ameliorating the condition of the poor peasantry and improving the financial position of the province and that no stone would be left unturned for helping the poor peasantry but all these promises have remained unfulfilled. We have been facing deficit budgets year after year. Even to-day we are told that a deficit budget is a blessing in disguise. I am afraid that we cannot be satisfied by mere verbosity. The Government realised a sum of Rs. 10 lakhs by the sale of crown lands and it is a matter of surprise for us that these extraordinary receipts too have been expended on, goodness knows, what. And yet it is a deficit budget. We fail to understand how the present Government can be called a national Government. It would be an insult to call it an autonomous Government. Can you by any stretch of imagination call it the budget of an autonomous Government? Everybody knows that expenditure must have precedence over income. Expenditure is incurred in the first instance and then ways and means are found for meeting it. When the ministers were selected, the Government provided huge sums of money for them. The Government has got into the habit of fixing unheard of salaries in the first instance and then attempts are made to find ways and means for meeting the charge. No nation can rise or progress in the world if its government follows a policy of drift. Attempts have been made to-day to silence the voice of criticism by extolling to the skies the good points of this budget. We all know that there is nothing new about it. The Government has been following this policy for the last 175 years.

I should like to draw the attention of this house to another funny thing. We are told by Government that they have appointed committees or commissions. This too has been going on for the last 175 years. We know the inner meaning of the appointment of such committees and we know the value to be attached to the promises held out by Government. We know what the appointments of commissions and the enquiries made by them mean.

These are attempts on the part of Government : to beguile the unwary. These promises are mere shadows without any substance. I am reminded of a couplet by Ghalib :—

توے وعدہ پر جئے ہم تو یہہ جان جہوت جانا
کہ خوشی سے مر نہ جائے اگر اعتبار ہوتا

Now let us cast a glance on the so-called good points of the budget. We are told that zamindars have been granted a remission of Rs. 20 lakhs. When the crops of zamindars have been totally destroyed by hail-storm what can you expect from them ? Do you think that they are capable of paying Government dues ? Had Sir Donald Boyd been incharge of the portfolio of Finance, would he not have done the same ? There is nothing to be proud of so far as this remission of Rs. 20 lakhs is concerned. Another 20 lakhs will be spent on productive departments.

Premier : Not on productive departments but on beneficent departments.

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : If an autonomous government spends Rs. 20 lakhs on beneficent departments, it is not a matter over which the province should feel jubilant. Education has special importance in all free countries. A nation draws its life-blood from education. I would, therefore, urge upon the Government the necessity of spending more money on female education. I might also draw the attention of Government to the fact that a good deal of money is being spent on departments other than the beneficent departments. For example, the departments of Education, Industries, Agriculture, Veterinary and other beneficent departments are being starved. On the contrary senseless expenditure is being incurred on many departments. For example, a good deal of money has been mis-spent in establishing a co-operative centre in the Ambala Division. This senseless waste of money has never resulted and will never result in anything good and will never prove conducive to the progress and welfare of the country. The Government is spending a sum of Rs. 1½ lakhs on an exhibition which is shortly to be held at Lahore. May I know what is the use of spending such a large sum of money on an exhibition, when the Government itself is as good as an exhibition ? Two-third of the population of India is pulsating with new life in its veins. The Viceroy is about to broadcast his message to India, but the Punjab is unchanging and is unchanged.

I have explained at some length the good points of the budget. Now I will turn to the general administration of the country. We are told that since April 1st, 1937, the province has been placed under the aegis of an autonomous government. I should like to enquire from the Honourable Premier through the Honourable Speaker as to what real change has taken place in the administration of the Punjab since 1st April, and what good has come out since the inauguration of provincial autonomy ? The arrogance of police officers continues unabated. The poor people are coerced. Begar is still being taken from harijans. (hear, hear). There is no department which is free from corruption. Previously we used to complain that we had no effective control over the administration. But now when the so-called national and autonomous government has come into power, our worries and miseries have not ended and our hardships have not been lessened by one jot or tittle. Outwardly our ministers tour the country-side but they are quite unaware of the fact that in certain districts of the province there are some tahsils where no case in a court of law can be settled without giving illegal gratification to the magistrate concerned. I would point out every honourable member of the House, whether he is a member of the Unionist party or whether he belongs to some other group, that if we pass this first budget of the so-called national Government it would be tantamount to cruelty and injustice to the poor masses.

Now I would like to make a few observations in regard to the Famine Relief Fund and the question of reduction of salaries. I will take up the Famine Relief Fund first. Formerly this fund consisted of a little over twenty lakhs of rupees. Out of this a Famine Relief Fund of 10 lakhs has been set apart and Rs. 9½ lakhs have been expended in paying off certain debts. The balance has been divided amongst some Government departments. Now let us examine the reduction in the salaries of services. We are told that a substantial economy will result from this reduction but the real effect of the economy will manifest itself when all the present incumbents have retired. I fail to see any room for further reduction in the salaries of subordinate or menial servants. The ministers themselves draw fat salaries of three to four thousand rupees per mensem but it is not felt necessary to use the axe in their case. The honourable members sitting on the other side should compare dispassionately the average income of a poor man and the enormous expenditure incurred by Government members. For each member of the Assembly Rs. 18-8-0 has been fixed as daily allowance but it is a thousand pities that no sooner do some members among us assume the office of ministership than their expenditure per diem increases from 100 to 150 rupees and they convert their palatial residences into boarding houses for members and others. (Laughter and loud cheers).

Sir, mention has been made of the Haveli Project in the budget. I am not against this scheme, on the other hand it appears to me a laudable effort. But it is an irony of fate that in the budget where the Haveli and Thal projects have been mentioned, not a single word has been said about the Bhakhra Dam Scheme. I come from an ilaqa, the inhabitants of which have elected me as their representative. I fully realise their hardships. Since the Great War, successive Governors of the province have been assuring the people of that ilaqa that they will soon be rewarded and a canal will be dug in their Hilafa.

During the Montford Reforms, ministers and ex-ministers cried themselves hoarse in announcing that the Bhakhra Dam Project would be taken in hand as soon as possible. But now that they have got an opportunity, and hold the reins of the autonomous Government in their own hands they have not taken the trouble to make even a passing reference to this scheme in the budget. What can the inhabitants of ilaqa Haryana expect from the Government? They cannot be satisfied with the lip sympathy of Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram, the Development Minister.

I would request the zamindar members and representatives of rural interests as also other members of the House that if they have the amelioration and prosperity of the poor masses at heart, they should throw out this budget. The funniest thing about this budget is that though it really is a deficit budget, we are told that it is a surplus one. Treasury benches have waxed eloquent about the good points of the budget and many of them have sermonised us about the principles of economy. They have called this budget the budget of the first national and autonomous Government. But the honourable members should know that there is absolutely no difference between the present and previous budgets. This is merely old wine put into new bottles. (Laughter). In reality these bottles are also old.

I commenced my speech by quoting a couplet from Mirza Ghalib. It is proper that I should finish my speech with a couplet by the same celebrated poet. If the Government persists in its present attitude and the ministers too do not turn over a new leaf and the worries of the poor masses are not removed then in the words of Ghalib :—

تمہیں کہو کہ کدارہ صدم پوستون کا
بتوں کی ہوا کو ایسی ہی خو تو کیونکر ہو

(Loud Cheers).

Begum Rashida Latif Baji (Inner Lahore, Muhammadan Women, Urban) (Urdu): I have stood up neither to make a parade of my oratorical powers nor with any desire to receive encomiums from the honourable members. I shall put before the House certain proposals and make some suggestions on behalf of the dumb community whom I have the honour to represent here in this Assembly. I hope the honourable members will consider them favourably and sympathetically. This will provide them with an occasion for showing generosity to a cause which deserves well of every right thinking man or woman. It appears from the budget of 1937-38 that an additional sum of Rs. 20,000 has been provided under the head "Female Education" and this amount will be utilized in opening two vernacular middle schools and one anglo-vernacular middle school at different places. Besides, it is proposed to open another High School in a rented building at Lahore in October, 1937, and to provide the Maclagan High School with a library. Further an additional sum has been granted for the construction of a new school building and for repairs of other school buildings. My dumb community and myself feel much grateful for this assistance and we owe a debt of gratitude particularly to the Honourable Premier and the Honourable the Finance Minister who, while preparing the budget, have not lost sight of the wherewithals for imparting and extending the scope of female education.

But it will be observed that for such a large province as the Punjab, the sum provided is too small and the number of schools too inadequate. Take, for example, the case of Lahore, the capital city of the province, with a population of several lakhs. There are only two girls high schools, the Maclagan High School and the Victoria High School for girls. But in both of these schools the accommodation is very limited. The admission is practically closed although a very large number of girls is anxious to seek admission. Such being the situation, I am constrained to remark that there should be, at least, one girls high school inside every gate of Lahore. But in view of the practical difficulties that may confront the Government, I would reduce my demand to this, viz., that two girls high schools may be opened from

[Begam Rashida Latif Baji.]

October, 1937. Moreover, Sir, the Lahore College for Women is the only college in the province where girls from all over the Punjab come for higher education. It is a thousand pities that even the building of this college is inadequate to accommodate all the girl students. The rooms are very small and ventilation arrangements are poor. The boarding house is still in a worse condition. In this hot weather the beddings of the resident girls are arranged at night near the kitchen which is open to the gaze of people living in the adjoining houses. This lack of accommodation compels the Principal to refuse admission, every year, to a large number of girls who desire to join the hostel as well as the college. In view of the facts stated above, I would submit that a magnificent building should be constructed for the college, which should be in keeping with the dignity of the province and quite adequate for the needs of the girls. This new building of the college should also be provided with a boarding house large enough to accommodate a large number of girls that would be coming there from all parts of the province.

Moreover, Sir, I must point out that the women of Lahore are anxious to add to their general knowledge and acquaint themselves with all the new discoveries and inventions of the day. But unfortunately there is no library at Lahore which would serve this purpose. Consequently I would humbly suggest that a library for women may be founded at Lahore which should be equipped with upto-date books on every subject proper for the female sex. This library should also be provided with a big hall for women to address female gatherings therein. In addition to this, a girls high school may be opened in every district of the province. Instructions may also be issued to every district board to open a middle school for girls in every town under their jurisdiction. Female education may be made free in the high schools, and even in the colleges a very moderate rate of fees should be charged. But orphan and poor girls should be granted full fee concessions.

Another important matter to which I wish to draw the attention of the House is that Government should make arrangements for the safe conveyance of girls to and from schools and colleges. Very moderate rates should be charged for the vehicles employed for this purpose. I am compelled to request for so many facilities because I am painfully aware of the fact that parents in India pay very little attention towards female education. Where they may spend Rs. 50 on the education of a boy, they would be reluctant to spare even Rs. 5 for a girl. It behoves the Government, therefore, to show an active sympathy towards women.

I quite realise that large funds amounting not only to several thousands but running into lakhs of rupees will be required to carry out these proposals into effect. But I would urge upon the government the necessity of giving preference to this most urgent need of the day to all other proposals, because the want of female education alone is responsible for the manifold ills from which our country is suffering. Believe me, Sir, that a country whose women are illiterate and ignorant can never progress. If you wish to see your country making rapid strides on the way to progress, if you desire that your nation should become prosperous and if you are really anxious for the welfare of your country, then make it a point first to set your home in order and impart education to women.

Sir, the two wheels of the carriage of human life consist of a man and a woman. If one wheel of the carriage is broken, the other wheel is also rendered useless. In order to keep this carriage going on the high road of progress, both the wheels should be kept in good repairs and made equally efficient. But it is a pity that this view has altogether been neglected in our country.

The first school of a child is the lap of his mother and if the mother is educated she can impart to her child as much education through conversation within five years as would be impossible for a teacher to impart to a student in several years. But thanks to the ignorance of Indian mothers a baby receives his first training in cowardice. As the child cries and annoys his mother, she tries to silence him by creating imaginary fears in his mind and this affects the innocent mind of the child very adversely and ultimately weakens his physical and intellectual powers. Such a child learns to dread even a briskly blowing wind. He shies at shadows. He is afraid of even his own shadow. Can a child brought up under such circumstances, I would ask, Sir, grow up to be anything but a coward and a slave? A well educated mother alone can impart healthy education to her child. I would like to assure the House that the secret of progress of a man lies in the welfare of a woman, but alas, men are unmindful of this, that is why our country is going from bad to worse every day. Mr. Speaker, men may not realise this, but we women are painfully conscious of the fact that so far as women-folk are concerned, men exercise the powers of a Hitler and Mussolini over them. Notwithstanding all this, the women of India have excelled all the women of the world in fidelity, obedience, selflessness and self-sacrifice for the sake of their men. The women of other countries are unable to show a parallel to the fidelity of Indian women. But it is a sad commentary on the great qualities of head and heart of the Indian woman that her true worth is not recognised by her Indian husband. It is the unfortunate woman of India whose rights and privileges have been trampled under foot by selfish men. Another reason why Indians are reluctant to give education to their women-folk is that they think that after receiving education women would cease to be obedient and would go into open revolt against them. Let me tell them that they need have no fears on that score. An Indian woman is after all an Indian. She would never prove faithless to her husband. On the other hand she would become all the more sympathetic and helpful to him. The greatest calamity resulting from the prevalence of ignorance in the country is the multiplication of diseases. There is no way out of them. If one epidemic disappears another follows upon its heels and some of these have come to stay, so that there is no running away from them. Thousands of precious lives are lost on account of them. The Government is spending large sums of money to cope with epidemic diseases and that is why the Public Health Department was established. But it has not proved of much use to the country. As the women-folk are ignorant of even the elementary principles of health, they look upon the instruction given by a doctor as a piece of oppression. They try to conceal the incidence of infectious diseases until a large number of persons fall a prey to them. Instead of opening dispensaries it would have been a thousand times better if Government had spent this money on female education. Even now I would suggest that if funds are not available for carrying out my proposals, reduction may be effected in the Public Health Department and the resulting savings be spent on female education. When women are educated they would keep their homes neat and clean. They would also exhort their children to observe cleanliness. This will naturally put a stop to epidemics in the country. To impart education to the mistress of the house is ten times better than starting the movement of Rural Reconstruction. Had she been educated, she would have set her house in order and would also have reformed her village. Besides, the educated son of an educated mother would not steal, rob, murder, or take part in riots or unlawful assemblies. He would not indulge in vituperation in the streets. In short, peace and order will prevail in the country if female education is made universal. And if you succeed in carrying the light of knowledge to every household these ever-recurring communal riots and communal disturbances between Hindus and Muslims would cease altogether. It cannot be denied that people would still be fighting for principles, but these fights would be fought in a civilised manner, involving no disturbances of the peace. In modern civilised society people do not use even undesirable epithets for each other, which are likely to lead to trouble or give offence to anybody. It is an axiomatic truth that education is the panacea for all evils. Education can remove the poverty prevailing in the country, and if you were to reduce your expenditure and turn your whole-hearted attention towards the spread of education in the country, you will soon realise the advantages of this course of action.

When the number of riots in the country is reduced the need for keeping a large police force would naturally be reduced. If the number of offences in the country is less, the number of jails will have to be reduced. If the number of indictable offences is reduced the number of courts of law will have to be decreased. The greatest advantages which will accrue to the country would be that the number of sick persons will go down and this will result in a decrease in the number of hospitals. If this programme of spreading female education on a large scale is carried into effect the expenditure on various Government departments would naturally be reduced.

Next comes the question of curriculum of education. It is an extremely important subject and requires careful thought. I would, however, confine myself to saying that the Government should appoint a committee at its earliest convenience, and well educated ladies may be asked to give evidence before this committee; because I am firmly of the opinion that so far as matters relating to the female sex are concerned women know better and can deal with them in a better way than men.

Sir, the Muslim community is a poor community. They are steeped in debt, that is why they have not been able to start a woman's college of their own. On the other hand other communities have got a number of denominational colleges of their own in Lahore, where education is being imparted to female scholars on the most modern lines. Unfortunately Muslim girls have no other college to go to except the Government College for Women. I would, therefore, request that special concessions be given to Muslim girls and they may be allotted at least 60 per cent. share in admissions to the Lahore College for Women and the boarding house. May I hope that all public-spirited gentlemen and all those honourable members who claim to support the rightful claims of down-trodden communities will extend their support to my proposals.

Before I finish my speech I would like to make an appeal to all the honourable members of this House, and it is this. Please do not treat my submissions as a piece of romance. Please treat my proposals as the stepping stone to India's progress. May I again request you kindly to give my proposals precedence over all beneficent activities and translate them into action at a very early date.

Shrimati Raghbir Kaur (Amritsar, Sikh, Women), (Urdu): Sir, something has been said from the opposite benches about the liberty of women and I would request them to come over to this side, if they are really desirous of getting liberty, but, alas they are tied by the chains of slavery. (Cheers).

1 P.M.

The attention of the Government has just now been drawn by an honourable lady member to the subject of female education and I should like to add one thing more to it. It is this. All the towns and cities in the province are badly in need of hospitals. Nurses are not available in most of the towns, and that is the reason why death rate amongst the female population has assumed such alarming proportions. This reflects but little credit on the Government in as much as death-rate amongst infants and young children is already very large. May I respectfully draw the attention of the Government, through the Honourable Speaker that the time has come when something should be done for reducing the death rate among the female population. In the new budget a very small sum of money has been allocated for female education and female hospitals. I would remind the house that the number of females in this province is no less than the number of males, perhaps it is larger. Much greater attention should, therefore, be paid to the needs of the female sex.

Karl Marx and Lenin have expressed the opinion that a nation which is desirous of gaining liberty should first properly educate its women-folk. My honourable sister opposite remarked that it is only the mother who is responsible for making a child courageous, brave and bold. If the women-folk are uneducated they would try to terrify their children to sleep with frightful lullabies of the devil (Hawa) and this Hawa would haunt them throughout their lives. When an uneducated mother brings up her children under such frightful conditions, it is no wonder that they grow up to be effeminate weaklings.

I again draw the attention of the Government towards the necessity of female education so that the sooner they are freed from the chains of ignorance the better it would be. Hospitals should also be opened in towns in accordance with the needs of the women-folk.

I have nothing more to say and with these words I resume my seat.

At this stage the Assembly adjourned for lunch.

The Assembly re-assembled at 2 P.M. of the clock. Mr. Deputy Speaker in the Chair.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (East Punjab, Land holders) : Sir, I wish to offer a few remarks. My speech will be a short one, as some of my friends who have been associated with me in the previous sessions of the Council know my speeches have always been short. They have been singularly free from unnecessary flourish. I confine myself to realities and facts. I have a scrupulous regard for relevancy and lack the art of amplifying the speech which the introduction of irrelevant matter brings about. I am in the habit of weighing pros and cons of a speech like that and a habit of mine like that may be unacceptable to the members of the Opposition. Judicious temperament may be a demerit in their eyes, but I am glad to say that it is a not a demerit which has so far disenfranchised or has led to my being disqualified for membership. Last but not the least has been my reluctance to deliver a speech in a house in which I see some of my friends occupying the opposite benches. I am not referring only to the lukewarm critics of Government, such as the honourable members for Lyallpur and Montgomery, but also the active members of the opposition, amongst them also I have some personal friends for whom I have great regard. With the predecessors in the past generation of some of them I was associated in many ways, but a duty has to be performed however unpleasant it may be to the Opposition.

The budget debate has been going on for some time and various points have been raised. I am not prepared to deal with all of them. I confine myself to some of the more important aspects of the speech of Mr. Krishna Gopal Dutt who opened the debate on behalf of the Opposition. I listened carefully to his eloquent speech. I admired his enthusiasm and patriotism. Had I known that he possessed such qualities of head and heart as he has shown I might not have contrived to oppose him in his election. (A voice : You have made many mistakes like that). However I find that the speech that he delivered and the criticism that he made was urged from a higher plane. It was based on the assumption that India enjoyed fiscal autonomy and dominion status. He forgot for the time that the Finance Minister of the Punjab or for that matter even the Premier was not responsible for the currency policy of Government, if it is not conducive to the benefit of India. Neither the Finance Minister nor the Premier is responsible for the export of gold or for regulating the export of cotton and wheat. These are matters which have to be dealt with by the Federal Assembly and by the Federation.

Federal finance and provincial finance are not isolated from each other. The one is inter-dependent on the other. We cannot remove unemployment to any material degree. We cannot afford material relief to the poor unless we enjoy fiscal autonomy. In this view I am confirmed by the opinion referred to by some of the members of this House, of Professor Brij Narain who is certainly one of the most independent economists in the province. Therefore if the measures proposed by the Finance Minister for removing unemployment and for giving relief to the poor are inadequate, the limitations under which he is placed should not be forgotten.

The question of fiscal autonomy cannot be separated from the question of dominion status. I do not think we can have fiscal autonomy unless we have dominion status as well, or independence if you like to call it by that name. What are the prospects of our achieving dominion status at an early age ?

I have been reflecting very painfully on the communal clashes that have taken place within the last three or four months. I will not describe each incident in detail, but I draw the attention of the House to one important point and that is this. The inquiry at Kot Fatch Khan and the trial are held by a European Magistrate.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : The inquiry was held by an Indian Christian and the trial is going to be held by a European.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath : The Panipat affair led to an independent inquiry and we know what that independent inquiry meant. It meant the deputing of a European officer to inquire into the whole question. The Premier has promised to make an independent inquiry into the Ala affair. Let me test the patriotism of this House if they can unanimously elect an Indian Officer in which all communities have confidence. (Hear, hear) If they cannot, does it augur well for the achievement of dominion status. When I heard of these clashes, I reflected on the situation and I considered in my mind the question whether these communal clashes would accelerate the achievement of dominion status or whether they would retard it. My answer obviously was that they will retard it. There is a school of politicians which thinks that we can bring about communal unity by pacts and agreements, by apportionment of civic rights, throwing some loaves and fishes in certain proportions to one community and in other proportion to another community and so on.

Pacts and agreements of this kind imply mutual distrust and will not bring us nearer the goal which we aim at. (Hear, hear). In this view I agree with Pandit Jawahar Lal Nehru entirely. My friend, the Premier wishes to promote amity. I wish him all success. I shall be very glad if he is able to promote amity. I am prepared to help him as far as I can in this respect. (Hear, hear). But I am sure that he will not be able to achieve it. The utmost that he will be able to achieve will be a stable government for five years or at the most ten years.

An Honourable Member : God forbid it.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath : His successors may not follow his policy. What then ? The truth is this. You cannot promote amity and you cannot bring about harmony unless you minimise the points of difference which lead to conflicts. That is a process which takes a long time and involves a process of evolution. (Hear, hear). It is therefore unnecessary to urge criticism which would be justified only if the country enjoyed fiscal autonomy.

Mr. Krishna Gopal Dutt laid great stress on the appalling poverty of the masses. We are all aware of it. We know that India is very poor, the income per head being very small as compared with other countries. But there are two problems connected with this question of poverty to which I wish to draw the attention of the House and also of the Cabinet. Those problems are the growth of population and the devolution of property by inheritance. (Hear, hear). Now, no Government whether democratic or bureaucratic can devise means for checking the growth of population when the people are not prepared for it. I invite the attention of the House to vital statistics of the world for the last one hundred years. I find that the population of Asia has been increasing while the population of Europe has been declining. The mode of living in Asia has remained more or less stationary. Now, poverty means lowering the mode of living, because we find that even in India the population is increasing and we are aware that the masses live like so many beasts. So the question of population comes before us when we examine the question of poverty.

The next question is that of the personal laws of us all, whether Hindus or Muhammadans. These laws were framed under economic conditions which have since become obsolete. Fragmentation of property by succession must be stopped. We must frame our laws of inheritance according to the economic needs of the times in which we live. Are we prepared for it? I am sure that neither the Hindus nor the Muhammadans, neither the urban people nor the rural classes are prepared for it. You cannot check poverty and you cannot improve the conditions of the masses unless you find a satisfactory solution for these two problems. Therefore a great deal depends on our own personal efforts; whether it is a question of fiscal autonomy or improving the conditions of the poorer classes, these two factors must be borne in mind.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : The new Government promised that it would check poverty.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath : It will not be able to check it.

Premier : You must first check the growth of population.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath : I am aware of the fact that two committees have been appointed to tackle the question of source, of revenue and retrenchment. I will not prejudge their recommendations, but I cannot expect much from these committees, because the sources of taxation are so exiguous. What are you going to tax? There is not much to tax. Where is the money to come from? How are you going to sustain the top heavy administration which is necessitated by your own divisions and by your own quarrels?

Just a few words with regard to the criticism hurled against the Honourable Minister for Development (The Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram) I know he used to indulge in tall talk when he occupied the Opposition bench (Laughter). I am glad that the Premier has given him an opportunity of giving practical shape to his ideals. (Hear, hear.) I will see how far he is able to give effect to his ideals. But one thing I can say about him and that is this, that we now look upon him as a representative of all of us, not only of the rural classes, but of the urban classes also. (Hear, hear and cheers). He will not hereafter rob Peter to pay Paul. I am sure he will not adopt that policy. He will find when he is saddled with responsibility how difficult it is to adopt that policy. Such a policy frustrates its own purpose. Now I am an old man, I am nearly 73 and I do not expect to live long enough to see Mr. Krishan Gopal Dutt and Dr. Gopi Chand holding offices of ministers.

Premier : Let us hope you will live long.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath : But I am sure that when they come to occupy the Treasury benches they will find how difficult it is to stick literally to those ideals which they profess to hold now when sitting on the Opposition benches. (Hear, hear). I may cite here an instance from English History. Mr. John Morley used to say that the House of Lords should be ended or mended. When he was raised to peerage a correspondent of the Tribune remarked that he should be given the title of Lord Morley of Endham and Mendham. That has been happening all through political history of the whole world. Gladstone was not able to carry out all that he professed when he was in the Opposition.

I want honourable members of the Opposition to bear in mind the limitations and handicaps of the Finance Minister. I do not propose to examine the details as to how much he has given to one department or another and on that score to congratulate him for these trifles. But I am sure that placed as he is under certain limitations which the constitution imposes, he could not have presented a better budget than he has done (cheers). I therefore join with the chorus of felicitations which have been offered him.

(At this stage Mr. Speaker resumed the Chair.)

Chaudhri Kartar Singh (Hoshiarpur West, General, Rural) (Urdu) : Sir, many honourable and learned members of this august Assembly have expressed their valuable views on the budget presented by the existing Government. I admit I am not a student of Economics but in spite of this handicap I would like to say a few words about the present budget. I will divide my remarks into two parts. The first part of my speech relates to the general character of the budget. Sir, with your permission I will say that the whole budget can be described in one word. Some years back the Honourable the Premier had been one of the Directors of the Peoples Bank of Northern India which incurred the odium of the public by issuing fictitious balance sheets showing a profit, while in reality the Bank was suffering heavy losses. The Bank has now gone into liquidation, and my fear is lest our present ministry should meet a similar fate. The Government has presented a budget showing an excess of income over expenditure. In other words it is a surplus budget, but I would like to warn you against over-budgeting lest you should be declared insolvent in a year or two.

Minister for Development : How ?

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : The Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram like myself fortunately belongs to the Jat community. I should like to warn him that if his Government acting upon the policy chalked out by the British bureaucracy goes on exploiting the poor peasantry of the Punjab, the day is not far off when it would meet the same fate as has befallen the Peoples Bank.

[Chaudhri Kartar Singh]

Sir, in the present budget there is a provision of Rs. 50,000 for the Minto Park, and my honourable friend Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan proudly remarked in his speech that our Government has sanctioned Rs. 50,000 for the improvement of the Minto Park. It is very strange that as soon as the members of the party who claimed to represent the poor cultivators have come into power, they have begun to squander public revenues contributed by the poor peasants, on Europeans and people living in urban areas. And now, Sir, these representatives of the poor agriculturists are blindly following the policy chalked out for them by the white bureaucracy and have provided Rs. 50,000 for the improvement of the Minto Park. In fact our brown bureaucracy is acting in the way in which the white bureaucracy would have acted.

It is only two months ago that the present Government came into powers, but its budget bears the imprint of the old brainy bureaucracy. The present ministry has only given its name to the budget. I would submit that it is very painful for me to find that these capitalists, who have risen to their present position, thanks to the sacrifices made by our youngmen, who smilingly kissed the halters round their necks, have joined hands with the white bureaucracy in wasting public revenues on Minto Park and on their own fat salaries. It has been said that the next budget would show a larger surplus than the present one. Anyhow, Sir, we hope and trust that radical changes would be made next year, but may I enquire what amount you have set apart for the Bhakra Dam Scheme, when you have made a provision in the budget of Rs. 60 lakhs for the Haveli Project? At Katar Dhar drinking water is not available within a radius of 15 miles. It was up to the Government to sink wells in that area and supply the people of that area with potable water. I would be glad if the present Government succeeded in constructing new canals. But I am sure that these canals would only benefit the Noons, the Tiwanas and the Knights and the poor peasants would again be left in the lurch as happened in the case of Montgomery district. The present Government has no right to call itself a government of Asians or cultivators. It is a government of Nawabs, Knights and the Tiwanas who entering into an alliance with Europeans are robbing the poorer classes of the province. I am sure, that the present Government will never be able to ameliorate the condition of the poor peasants. Let us recall the events of the last five years. The Bombay port has its own tale to tell. It would surely furnish you with facts and figures showing how much gold has been exported to foreign countries during these years. From what place or source that gold came? It came from villages. The Punjab peasants paid the land revenue and other government dues by selling the trinkets of their wives. What have you done for these poor peasants, who not only sold their bullocks but also the jewellery of their wives in order to pay off Government dues? The Honourable the Revenue Minister, for whom I have great respect, informed the House that the government had granted remissions to the extent of Rs. 25 lakhs. What right have the Government to demand land revenue from those who are starving for want of food, whose crops have been totally destroyed by visitations of nature? The Government are boasting that they have granted remissions. Go to the country-side and see with your own eyes the miserable plight of those who contributed towards the raising of palatial bungalows of the capitalists who paid the latter to buy motor cars and who subscribed towards the construction of your macadamized roads. And now the self-same poor agriculturists are too poor to pay the land revenue. Do you call it a dan (charitable act) if after a long period of 80 years you have granted remissions to the extent of Rs. 25 lakhs only? Are you by any means under the impression that you have beaten the record of Raja Kiran?

Minister for Revenue : There is no question of any 'dan'. We have done our duty.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Not in a proper way.

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : Sir, my heart is heavy and it is painful for me to find that I cannot vote for the present budget. I am confident that other honourable members would also do the same.

Now I take the second part of the budget. It is worse than the first part. The estimate about the reduction of salaries that has been submitted by the Finance Minister is merely a reduction in the salaries of those people who are already low paid. It is very painful for me to compare the lot of ministers with low paid Government servants. The ministers draw Rs. 8,000 a month. They have palatial houses to live in and rickshaws to ride about and what is more, they are being fawned upon by all sorts of people. Against this just consider the amount of salaries which is being paid to poor chaprasis. They work the whole day long in the offices and in the evening they have to distribute letters. Previously they used to draw Rs. 15 per mensem. Now they are getting Rs. 14 only. I can never congratulate the Government for this reduction in the salaries of low paid ministerial staff.

Premier : The pay of the menial servants has not been touched. (An honourable member : The salaries of middle class Government servants have been touched).

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : Now I want to say a few words about the policy of the Government. It is said that communal feelings are rife in the province which ultimately lead to communal disturbances and riots, and hence the maintenance of the additional police force is absolutely essential.

When I was quite a young politician and had not been elected a member of the Council I often thought that with the coming of Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan to power, all communal disturbances and riots will cease at once. But that proved to be merely a will o' the wisp. I still hope and trust that if he commands the province properly, communal disturbances will certainly disappear. Communal riots and disturbances are the result of that factious spirit which was working behind the scenes during the Shahid Ganj agitation.

Communal disturbances and riots that are now occurring in different parts of the province proceed from the same source. If the Deputy Commissioner of a district happens to be a capable and wide-awake man, there can be no possibility of a communal disturbance or riot in his district.

My humble submission is that the Criminal Investigation Department is really a very intelligent department. The members of this department can find out that in a certain village and in the house of a certain person such and such things were cooked. They know whether a certain person cooked dal or some other thing in his house. If this department is so very intelligent that it can procure information about the most trivial and insignificant things, I fail to understand why a deputy commissioner who is in sole charge of a district is unable to obtain information about the events happening under his very nose. About 15,000 people gathered together at Ala in Gujrat district and the Deputy Commissioner knew nothing as to what was happening at that place. I would strongly recommend to the Honourable Premier that the Deputy Commissioner of Gujrat may be appointed a Sessions Judge. If strong action is taken at one place, I am sure that communal disturbances will never break out in any other part of that district. Time after time appeals are addressed to us to join hands with the Government for suppressing communal feelings and to set right the affairs of the province. You have power in your hands and a powerful man needs nobody's help.

A special sum has been earmarked in the budget for additional police. Its only object is to suppress any and every patriotic movement.

Premier : Who is responsible for the present day communal tension and disturbances ?

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : My submission is this, appoint me as the deputy commissioner of a district and I will show you how peace and order can be maintained in that district. (Laughter). Mr. S. Partap, I. C. S., very ably controlled the situation at Lahore during the Shahid Ganj agitation. I am not praising him, what I am driving at is, that if an Indian I.C.S. can control a dangerous situation, what is there to prevent European deputy commissioners from doing the same. If they check all subversive activities and keep the dangerous elements under control, I am sure that no communal disturbance will ever occur.

That is all I have to say about the additional police. I appeal to the honourable members on the opposite benches to reject the budget. A budget in which provision has been made for additional police force is not at all necessary. I was under the impression that with the inauguration of provincial autonomy a change will occur in the political horizon of the Punjab. But it was merely a dream. The speeches that are delivered in the Assembly, and the answers to the questions bring afresh before us the memory of the old administration. The only difference that has taken place is, that instead of the white bureaucracy a brown bureaucracy has assumed power. No doubt you can pass the budget because you have the majority at your back. But you should bear in mind the plight of the Czar. He, like you, was in the habit of squeezing money out of the poor people, because he had the whip and never cared for them and untold cruelties upon them. In this connection I should like to draw your attention to a very pertinent fact. The ministry which has just now assumed power should not estimate the strength of the Opposition by their own. Had the Czar correctly estimated the power which stood opposed to him perhaps he would never have met the fate which he subsequently met with.

The zamindars of the Punjab are poor. You should have regard for the woeful times through which they are passing. If the condition of 90 per cent. of the population of the Punjab remains unchanged, I am afraid that this brown bureaucracy will meet the same fate that befell the Czar.

Let the country make progress according to its own lights. Do not hinder the spirit of freedom. A great responsibility lies on your shoulders. Use your powers freely and independently and rid the government of the slave mentality.

A sufficient sum of money has been set apart for the improvement of the Dajal breed of cattle in the Dera Ghazi Khan district. Provision has also been made for additional grants for the improvement of cattle in the Rawalpindi district. A sufficient sum has been provided for the encouragement of well sinking in the Nili Bar Colony. New canals are being dug for the convenience of agriculturists in some parts of the province. And all this clearly proves the truth of that Punjabi saying :—

اِنَّا وَدَّعَ رِيْزِيَّانَ مَتْرَ مَزْ كَهْرَ دِيَّانِ نَوْنِ دَے

I have already requested Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram and I request him again not to lose sight of the sad plight of the Hoshiarpur district. The Ghos have literally ruined the people. The areas of land in possession of the people range from one acre to five acres, so much so that the number of well-off zamindars can be counted on one's fingers. May I ask why this step-motherly treatment has been meted out to this district? Am I to take it that they have been treated in this way because they take a lion's share in all patriotic movements and they are perpetually coming into conflict with the government? Is it for this reason that nothing special has been done for these people?

Chaudhri Sahib Dad Khan : What about Haryana?

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : I am speaking for the whole of the Hoshiarpur district.

Khawaja Ghulam Samad (Southern Towns, Muhammadans, Urban) (Urdu) : Sir, very little time has been allotted for the general discussion of the budget and during this short period no pertinent criticism can be made. The budget itself was published on 26th May, 1937. The Secretary, Legislative Assembly could very easily have supplied the members with advance copies of the budget if he had so wished and the result of it would have been that the members would have been enabled to criticise it freely (Ironical cheers). If there are any rules and orders to the effect that the copies of the budget should be distributed amongst the members only at the time of the budget speech then it is a different matter. However, I would humbly submit that such rules and orders ought to be instantaneously amended.

My friends sitting on the opposite benches have explained their viewpoints but in their speeches they have not thought proper to congratulate the Finance Minister on the uphill work he has done in connection with the preparation of the budget. But I submit that he really deserves our congratulations and the Opposition must not forget the old adage :—

مَنْ لَا يَشْكُرُ النَّاسَ لَا يَشْكُرُ اللَّهَ

“ He who is not thankful to people cannot be thankful to his God.”

[Khawaja Ghulam Samad.]

It is surprising to find that my honourable friends have not thought it proper to congratulate the Finance Minister on the labour and hardwork he has put in connection with the budget. He is certainly worthy of our heart-felt gratitude and deserves the highest mead of praise at our hands. The honourable members of the Opposition have pointed out certain defects in the budget and I too agree with them, but in spite of all this he deserves our thanks for the pains he has taken and the immense amount of energy he has put in connection with the preparation of the budget and the surplus of Rs. 1,72,000 which he has exhibited is certainly praiseworthy. The surplus though a nominal one is nevertheless a surplus. My friends, Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt and Pandit Shri Ram Sharma, in the course of their speeches pointed out that the so-called surplus is merely a chimera.

Sir, my humble submission is that the surplus does really exist. It is a true surplus and it can be enhanced in the following manner. Let the honourable members of the Opposition co-operate and join hands with the party in power and the necessity for additional police will vanish and the sum of Rs. 1,32,515 which has been earmarked for it can very easily be converted into a saving. In the same way much saving can be effected in other items and thereby a good deal of retrenchments can be made in the expenditure.

The responsibility for communal disturbances that are occurring now a days wholly lies on the shoulders of those who deliver fiery speeches on the floor of this House but very carefully avoid mentioning communal fracas and do nothing to prevent their occurrences. I hold them responsible for these disturbances on this ground also that ever since the inauguration of the new constitution there has been some sort of communal fracas in some part A of the province which clearly indicates that it is they who are responsible for it. There is no gainsaying the fact that they are men of influence yet they do nothing to stop the occurrence of communal disturbances.

The first session of the Assembly was held on the 5th April, 1937. A few days previous to it, i. e., on the 27th March, 1937, the police had to open fire on Muslims of Panipat. After the session of the Assembly had commenced there came the news of the incident at Kot Fateh Khan. (An honourable member: Then this Assembly is an ominous one). Again, when the session of the Assembly was about to be held at Simla, disturbances once more broke out at Ala in Gujrat and at Amritsar. Do not these disturbances indicate that these very people are responsible for producing communal tension and riots? All these incidents prove conclusively that these people are out to destroy the peace of the province and they are not willing to do any constructive work for the benefit of the masses. But they should know that it is the will of God that this Cabinet must succeed and the credit for it must go to Sir Sikander and his fellow ministers. If you join hands with him surely great savings can be effected.

Mr Speaker: The honourable member should address the chair.

An honourable member: The Honourable member should withdraw the words he has used against the Opposition.

Khwaja Ghulam Samad : I am relating true facts. These disturbances indicate that there is something wrong in the matter. If they are not responsible for these disturbances I fail to understand why these communal riots occur just when the Assembly is about to hold its session. The firing at Panipat took place on the occasion of the celebration of the 'Holi' festival. Then riots took place at other places without any rhyme or reason. If the Opposition have not instigated these communal disturbances and riots they have at least carefully turned their eyes away from them.

A cursory perusal of the budget has shown me that it contains several defects, on which I will move cut motions, and bring certain sums of money under the searchlight of criticism at the proper time. At this stage I would only submit that sixty lakhs of rupees have been sanctioned for the Haveli Project to benefit that part of the province the inhabitants of which are already very rich and prosperous, and which abounds in canals. The Thal Project too is receiving the earnest attention of the Government.

The people of the Ambala Division expect a great deal from the Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram. When he visited Hissar to attend a meeting of the zamindars, I requested him to bear in mind the Bhakra Dam Scheme as well. He is well acquainted with the conditions prevailing in that division though the other Ministers may not be. If they too were to visit that area, they would come to know the plight of the people living there. Hundreds of thousands of men die of starvation. Were the Bhakra Dam Scheme to materialize, and supply of water assured to that area, the poverty of its people would be converted into abiding prosperity. A mere mention in the budget of the Bhakra Dam Scheme would have given some consolation to the people of the Ambala Division. But here I see the working of that principal just referred to by my friend, that every body distributes sweets among his own relations.

The people of the Ambala Division are extremely poor, destitute and famine-stricken. It is highly deplorable that nobody pays any heed to them. So I request the Honourable the Premier, Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram and the other Ministers to show us the same generosity which they have exercised in the case of other parts of the province, which already in affluent circumstances. In view of the extreme poverty of the Ambala Division, they should strive hard for its betterment, so that its poor inhabitants too may have something to keep body and soul together. I would end my speech by saying :

گل پھول کے لئے اوروں کی طرف بلکہ نہر بھی

اسے خانہ پر انداز چمن کچھ تو ادھر ہی

Sardar Hari Singh (Kangra and Northern Hoshiarpur, Sikh, Rural) : Sir, permit me to begin my speech by paying compliments to the lady colleague of ours on the opposite side of the House for her maiden speech advocating the cause of women in the Punjab and administering the Government a well-deserved though implied rebuke. I may also give a reply to the honourable Diwan Bahadur Raja Narandra Nath, who was pleased to attack the opening speech on the budget discussion made by my honourable friend Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt, when Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt was not in the House. I regret that the Raja Sahib is not present to hear the reply. I can dismiss the remarks of the Raja Sahib by replying that his whole ideology is deplorably out of tune with the spirit of the times, and that the youth of the nation and the youth of the Punjab has no longer any faith in the exploded doctrines of the elderly politicians. (Interruptions).

Mr. Speaker : I have to inform honourable members that a large number of members are yet to make speeches. If the time limit of 20 minutes is continued, I think in 3 days we shall not be able to finish the budget discussion. May I reduce the time limit to 15 minutes? (Voices : Yes).

Sardar Hari Singh : Sir, through you, I will request the honourable members sitting on the Treasury benches not to set a bad precedent by continuous interruptions in the speeches of speakers on the opposite benches. They can give replies to our criticisms and to our charges when their turn comes.

Without casting any reflection on the motives of the members sitting behind the Treasury Benches, without animadverting on their sincerity, I am constrained to say that the Government is fortunate in possessing a brilliant array of speakers who are past-masters in the art of side-tracking and befogging the real issues before the House, so that the House may be misled into giving a wrong judgment.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is going too far.

Sardar Hari Singh : The real issue that concerns us during the general budget discussion is the policy and the principle underlying the budget. We are not concerned with individual items that are contained in the budget. We are concerned with the policy underlying the budget and we have to see what is the touchstone on which that policy is to be tested. What is the touchstone on which we have to judge the merits of the budget. Sir, ours is a slave country. The all important, the all-absorbing and the all-embracing issue is the issue of freedom. Freedom versus slavery. We have to test the principle underlying the budget on the touchstone of the issue of freedom. So far the discussion has been directed in wrong channels. Sir, whether we should accept this budget or reject it, the real issue we have to consider is whether the policy underlying the budget is calculated to bring us freedom or is designed to postpone the day of the advent of freedom and emancipation of the masses of the country. Certainly, Sir, we have to see whether the policy and principle underlying the budget is calculated to prolong and perpetuate exploitation of the masses or to end it.

Before I fire the first shot on the budget presented by the Honourable Finance Minister, let me make it clear that my attack on his budget is directed from a nationalist stand-point. My attack is based, not on any wild theory, not on any idealistic philosophy, but it is directed from a nationalist point of view and it is founded on certain frank admissions, contained in the budget speech of the Honourable Finance Minister. I refer you to page 8 of the speech of the worthy Finance Minister. He says :

“Secondly further as the Budget in the main has any how to be ready well in time before its consideration is taken up in the Legislature, it follows that the present Ministry had almost entirely to work upon estimates which stood compiled before they assumed office.”

In another place in the same context referring to the fact that His Excellency the Governor had to authorise expenditure for four months, he says :

“The indirect effect of this inevitable transitory provision would any how be to some extent to fix the general pattern of the present budget.”

Now, here Sir, there is a frank admission and frank confession by the Honourable Finance Minister that he may not retract now. It is clear that this budget is cent per cent the creation of the bureaucracy. It has been imposed upon our Finance Minister and he has adopted it as his pet child. This is a budget which has been imposed by the bureaucracy and is now being sought to be imposed upon this House. If it is imposed upon this House then it is sought to be imposed upon the vast number of electorate, upon the vast number of naked skeleton peasants of the Punjab. I say without fear of contradiction that this budget is bureaucratic from cover to cover, bureaucratic through and through, bureaucratic in form and content, bureaucratic in tone and spirit, bureaucratic in colour and complexion, bureaucratic in character and outlook and bureaucratic in cause and effect. This document is the heritage which the Finance Minister got from the bureaucracy. It is a legacy from the old regime. It is a gift from those hands which forged fetters for my country-men. I shall not even touch such a document. I will kick it away. There are only two alternatives before me to deal with it, either I will throw it down the slope to the Annundale to be trampled mercilessly under the hoofs of the race-horses ; or make a present of it to the rickshaw coolies of the Honourable Finance Minister or the Honourable Premier — the choice may be made between them — to make a bonfire of it on a cold chilly night. (Interruptions) I shall be obliged if honourable members do not indulge in interruptions.

Mr. Speaker : I request the honourable members not to interrupt.

Sardar Hari Singh : Sir, in the month of March we had a calamity. This province was visited by a natural calamity. That was a natural calamity, and the simple unsophisticated rural people of the Punjab said let God's will be done because that was a calamity sent by God. Two months after that calamity another calamity in the shape of this budget is going to be inflicted upon the poor peasants of the Punjab, not by nature but by the the cruel hand of man (hear, hear). Sir, this calamity is going to be far greater in magnitude, in scope and in effect. Yet we are asked by the people opposite to hug the delusion that we are living under a government which is people's government. Sir, our sadness is deepened when we study further the speech of the Finance Minister. In the same paragraph on page 8 he says—

“Sir Donald Boyd carried on faithfully the fine traditions of sound finance in this Province built up by a notable succession of Finance Members.”

[S. Hari Singh.]

Later on in the same paragraph he goes on to say—

“ We have now entered upon a fresh chapter in the custody of our finances, and I trust it may be given to succeeding ministries in autonomous Punjab steadfastly to bear in mind the high ideals of finance inherited from their distinguished predecessors.”

Mark the words ‘high ideals of finance.’ The Finance Minister wants to continue the traditions at the expense of the starving naked peasants of the Punjab. Sir, the words which I have just quoted from the speech of the Finance Minister are amenable only to one and one interpretation and that interpretation is that in the succeeding years too there is going to be no departure from the policy of the bureaucracy. The present government is not prepared to leave the traditional moorings of the bureaucracy. We are in effect going to live under the same bureaucracy, and that bureaucracy has only changed its form, that Dame bureaucracy which has sucked the lifeblood of the Punjab peasants is going to continue in this land of five rivers under a new name and in a new shape. May I say, to use a metaphor, that the Lama of dyarchical bureaucracy is going to be re-incarnated in the Lama of provincial autonomy bureaucracy. Sir, the financial policy of a Government embodies and expresses its political and economic philosophy. If we are to judge the future policy of the Government from its financial policy which has been enunciated by the Finance Minister, we are not going to have any change in the old regime. Sir, the whole thing is reduced to this according to the enunciation of the Finance Minister: the bureaucracy says to the people of the Punjab, constitutions may come, and constitutions may go, but I shall go on for ever. This truth is driven home to us in its hideous nakedness when we look at the state of affairs in the Punjab. The same old policy of repression the same old policy of taxation, the same old mentality of the revenue and the police subordinate servants. Sir, I shall be thankful to the gentleman who can give me a more euphemistic term than robbery. I submit, Sir, that robbery in the shape of this budget is being sought to be legalised through constitutional forms and ceremonies. We cannot submit to this brigandage whether it is in a constitutional form or not. I shall say to the House that we shall refuse the supplies. How can we supply? Look at the staggering figure of Rs. 7,11 lakhs out of Rs. 10,97 lakhs to come direct from the pocket of the Punjab peasants in the shape of land rate and water rates. Can we acquiesce in this robbery which is sought to be legalised through constitutional forms and ceremonies. How can we go to the Punjab peasant who is burdened through land taxation policy, who has been robbed of his scanty livelihood and scanty earnings and from whom a major portion of his net assets, has been taken away in the form of land revenue? How can we supply so much money to the Treasury without robbing the peasant? How can we supply so much money without robbing the peasant baby of its spoon of milk and the peasant child of the morsel of bread? We cannot be so inhuman and so cruel that we should go to the peasants of the Punjab and ask them to pay so much money to the Treasury, when, Sir, we know that the Punjab peasant in order to pay the land revenue has sold his milch cow, sold the strongest head of his plough-team, when the last ratti of his gold has found its way into the gold hoards of New York; when we know that the peasant has parted with his precious acre of land which he inherited, the ancient land that enshrines the ashes and bones and memories of his ancestors, which he has parted to the local bania, whether he is an agricultural bania, or a non-agricultural bania, in order to pay the debt he contracted at the time of land revenue payment.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member's time is up.

Sardar Hari Singh : I shall be obliged if five minutes are allowed to me as I wish to speak on one or two other matters.

Professor W. Roberts (European) : Mr. Speaker, it is a great pleasure to me as a member of a minority community to be able to congratulate the Honourable Finance Minister on the very business like budget which he has presented to this House. I think I can congratulate him also on behalf of the whole Hindu community for they have been honoured in the fact that he holds, probably in some respects, the most important port-folio in the Punjab Government, and besides he is the first Minister to introduce a budget under the Reforms. Our worthy Premier and the whole Unionist Party deserve credit on the statesmanlike action in proving to the province that a member of a minority community can take a real part in the government of the future. It augurs well for the future Government of the Punjab that this broad-minded view is prevalent to-day.

It seems to me that in this budget, the Finance Minister has been fettered a great deal in initiative. It is really an eight-month budget,—four months have been certified already by His Excellency the Governor—and it stands to reason that budgetting for the remaining eight months of the year restricts very severely his initiative. I consider that honourable members on the opposite benches should have been a little more generous in their attitude, remembering this fact and this limitation, in the budget this year.

Again in spite of inheriting certain disadvantages in the form of the rather ungenerous Neimiyer award and the unprecedented hail in March resulting in heavy remissions, the Finance Minister has presented a budget which shows that the province is perfectly sound financially and able to shoulder the burden ahead of it.

The most important feature, in some respects, of the budget is the starting of the Haveli Project. Any other scheme or any other proposal that might be put forward for ameliorating unemployment and the relief of the agriculturists of this province will appear to be small compared to this big project. Further, we have had indications that another big project, the Thal Project, is likely to be started fairly soon. It is obvious to anyone reading the Memorandum so ably prepared by the Finance Department that this province must, in the near future, borrow at least 10 or 12 crores of rupees and I am very glad to see that the Finance Minister realises the vital importance of the State's credit being good, because if it is not good and if the finances are not sound then we have to borrow money at a higher rate of interest. Even 1 per cent. difference in the rate of interest on ten crores of rupees is going to cost this province ten lakhs per annum, and I have not the slightest doubt that some of the ideas which have been expressed by my friends on the opposite side would raise it not by 1 per cent. but by 2 or 3 per cent. In that respect it is very, very important that when you are going to borrow money to develop the province, you should prove to the world that your finances are in careful and in moderate hands.

Before going on to deal with further matters, I should like to answer one or two points raised by my honourable friends opposite. My friend Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt mentioned that the cotton export position of the Punjab was in a poor state owing to Japan not requiring Indian cotton. The real facts are, that the last year, that is the year which is just ending, has been the most prosperous year we have had for at least eight or nine years, and the year in which we have produced the largest crop ever produced in the Punjab. The crop of cotton according to the " Press Returns " is practically fifteen lakhs of bales. Each bale is worth at least Rs. 100. It means that 15 crores worth of cotton must be exported from the Punjab during the current season.

My honourable friend also mentioned that wheat export was less. It is unfortunate that he happens to mention this in this particular year, because in the year ending 31st August, 1936, the exports from Karachi were 200,000 tons, 197,000 tons to be exact worth one and two-thirds crore. In the present season already 200,000 tons of wheat have been sold for export, and probably the total export will be between 300 and 400 thousand tons.

There is another point of criticism which has been offered by some of my honourable friends opposite. It has been hinted by more than one speaker that this budget is the budget of bureaucracy, the budget according to one speaker prepared by the permanent officials. I think that it is to be deprecated that the permanent officials should be discussed at all on the floor of this House. They are the most loyal body of men and there should be some convention, in my opinion, to protect them from being mentioned or discussed in any way on the floor of this House, but they have been mentioned and the Finance Minister has been accused of slave mentality. It seems to me that the slave mentality is among the Opposition for they cannot apparently conceive the budget being prepared by a non-official. The House should realise that this budget has been prepared and has been put forward by the Finance Minister and by no one else, and he and the Punjab Cabinet are responsible for it.

I would like also, having dealt very briefly with the main features of the budget to offer, if I may, one or two criticisms. Projects like the Haveli and the Thal, while they are undoubtedly very sound, have been passed fairly easily or will be passed fairly easily, probably because they have not to be referred to any authority outside the province. I feel that there is a very great danger in the future that some project or some scheme may be launched which may cripple the finances of the Punjab for a generation and I would suggest that somebody outside the province should be appointed to scrutinise and criticise these schemes thoroughly and give us outside reliable advice to enable us to avoid making serious mistakes. Now the only body that could possibly deal with this is the Central Board of Irrigation. But that Board has no officer corresponding to, say, the Inspector General of Forests or the Agricultural Adviser to the Government of India. Yet the revenue from Irrigation is probably five times what comes from Forests without accounting at all the indirect revenues which it gives. Though Agriculture relates to the whole country, the budget for it is a very small one as compared with Irrigation. I therefore recommend strongly that the Punjab Government in their own interests, and for the protection of the future of this province, should bring this matter up in as serious a form as they can and try to get some reliable authority of the nature of the Inspector-General of Irrigation appointed, who would be an insurance against big mistakes in the future.

One other point I would like to touch and it is this. A sum of 8½ crores has been taken over by the province from the Provident Fund and so on, from the Government of India. There is an item of 9.6 lakhs debited to interest which apparently has to be provided annually as a liability of this fund. This sum of 8½ crores seems to me as part of the debt of the Punjab. It has been rightly deducted from that due to the Government of India in consolidating the debt outside the province, but this contingent liability I do not see in the statement of accounts. It is not clear where it is definitely laid down as a capital debt. In the case of private concerns the administration of provident funds is regulated by all kinds of rules and the moneys have to be put in certain Government securities. I would like to say with some emphasis that in the accounts of the Government this fund, this liability of capital as well as interest should be very clearly laid down.

Another point I should like to refer to is, the audit fees charged by the Punjab Provincial Co-operative Union Banks for the audit of the Central Co-operative Banks. This is a small matter. Still it is an important matter. At present they are charging 10 per cent. of profits. If the Central Bank makes a profit of a lakh, the audit fee comes to Rs. 10,000 which is more than the Imperial Bank pays for its audit. It is really ridiculous that such a small concern as a Central Bank should have to pay such high audit fees when Commercial Concerns such as Punjab National Bank, with so many branches is paying a lower figure. This prevents the reduction of interest to primary societies which should be the main object of the co-operative movement. (Hear, hear).

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I wish to raise one point of procedure. Now that we have a very limited time and there are many members on both sides who wish to speak, may we request that double the number of speakers on this side may be allowed to speak considering that our number is much larger than the opposite benches.

Mr. Speaker : I will consider the honourable member's suggestion.

Mian Abdul Aziz (Outer Lahore, Muhammadan, Urban): A good deal has already been said since yesterday on both sides both in support of the budget and also criticising it. What we have really to see is whether this budget presented to us is a proper budget, whether any economies have been effected or whether it is only a balancing budget as it is supposed to be. At the outset I would point out that this big book of 288 pages contains items of new expenditure instead of showing any retrenchment. If the Honourable Finance Minister was not able to give a book of equal size showing retrenchment effected he might at least have supplied us a book of at least 100 pages. If he had shown that much of retrenchment at least it would have satisfied us to a very great extent. The public has been clamouring that the exchequer of the Government has been burdened with top heavy expenditure. We have no doubt to make both ends meet ; but at the same time it goes without saying that you must have some saving, a big margin of saving in order to provide for such unfortunate calamities as overtook this province when the new constitution came into force. Since this new Assembly came into being there have been unfortunate incidents such as the riots at Panipat, the destruction of crops in several district by hailstorms, the communal troubles at Ala, Amritsar and so on.

I have to submit that these are considerations which ought to have been kept in view by the Finance Minister in introducing this budget so that he ought to have shown a much larger surplus to be used in case of necessity. God forbid that in future there will be such like things. I wish there may be no happenings of this kind. I wish to deal with this question also. I think there is no doubt that after all it was the ministry who had to see to all these things. Among the Honourable Ministers here we see only two of them are new ones. Four of them are old ones. They are tried members ; they are experienced persons. They know all the ins and outs. They know what are the difficulties of the public. They also know how the budget should have been prepared, particularly when they find that the present government calls itself the government of the people, for the people. It was at this moment that they ought to have shown a very big saving and a very big retrenchment. It is being said that the Opposition benches are only trying to criticise the budget and that they are not trying to show any constructive form in which the budget should be framed. Undoubtedly it is not for the Opposition benches to do so. It is the Ministerial benches who are responsible for the preparation of the budget. It is for them to see that the budget is prepared properly, particularly when we find that four of the Ministers are old and experienced gentlemen who have not only been Revenue Members but who have seen all phases of life in the last governments. I therefore submit that as a matter of fact this budget as it is prepared is unfortunately not a satisfactory budget, although I do concede one point in favour of the Honourable Ministers or the Ministerial benches, that it is not an easy task to prepare a budget in these circumstances (Hear, hear from Government benches). I know that they have their difficulties. I know they have to consider all these matters. I know that by just one stroke of the pen they cannot retrench all the posts. (Hear, hear from Government benches). I know also that they cannot do very many things. But at the same time I expect them to have done something to show to the public that they are exactly the people (hear hear from the Opposition benches) who are interested in the public, who have mainly the interest of the public in their mind and that they want to make saving in the budget instead of merely following the previous budget. It should not be the policy of the present Government to follow the traditions of the last Government.

I should have expected some retrenchment. But what do we find? Instead of retrenchment at the proper place we find that the poor people drawing from Rs. 50 to 100 have been retrenched. I wish they had seen that there are several posts existing under the Government which are superfluous which as a matter of fact are highly paid and which I consider are merely post offices, having no work. (Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani; For example?) I will give you examples and you will see. I hope you will have the patience. I submit to my honourable friend if he hears me to the end, if he has the patience, he will have all these things. It would have been proper if they had consulted some members of the Opposition or some of the members who had some independent views. They should have consulted them though in an informal way. Had they done so several of these grievances would have been remedied by this time. (Interruption). Yes, I am going to show them. I submit that the so-called help rendered to the zamindars or the people especially as it is alleged to have been given during the hailstorm days, is not much. I have had an opportunity of talking to the agriculturists in two of the districts, viz., Montgomery and Jullundur and I tackled them to see whether they had been duly compensated or not. Their grievance was that instead of being compensated they were harassed by the treatment meted out to them by the patwaris and girdawars and such other persons concerned, who had to make reports about the standing crops, whether there has been some destruction to them or not, and it was only through these patwaris, &c., that all these officers learnt as they themselves were not able to go from field to field. The officers had to depend on the patwaris and their reports and if these zamindars made a complaint to the officers, the patwaris would turn against them in future. I have heard that in those places where there were rich zamindars who could afford to give them something, the reports were in their favour, though their crops had not been entirely destroyed. It is no use saying that the Government has given this help, because I can say that if you distribute these 20 lakhs over 300 or 400 villages, what will be the portion allotted to each zamindar; it may not be more than Rs. 10 or 20. That is not a great help (An honourable member: "What do you suggest?") It is not for me to suggest. I am not the Revenue Member; I am not the Financial Commissioner; I am not the person in charge of any district. It is for the Government benches to find the ways and means as to how to compensate those people who have suffered. (Hear, hear from the Opposition benches). We are prepared to help you to any extent (Hear, hear, from the Government benches), provided you care to hear us. (Hear, hear, from the Opposition benches). I certainly think that mere destructive policy is not a good policy. (Hear, hear from Government benches). Both parties, the Ministerial as well as the Opposition, ought to co-operate with each other, (Hear, hear) trust each other. Trust begets trust and if you trust the Opposition benches, the Opposition benches will trust you (Hear, hear). Sir, I would submit for the consideration of this House that we would have been able to suggest several means, had the answers and replies to our questions been given in a straightforward manner. (Hear, hear, from the Opposition benches). What do we find are the replies to our questions? (a) No.; (b) yes; (c) does not arise; (d) is not ready; (e) Government cannot disclose it, and so on. But when it suits the Ministerial benches they would be prepared to make a long statement of two or three pages. (Hear, hear, from the Opposition benches). Sir, this is not the proper policy. I hope the Ministerial benches will pardon me if I request them that instead of keeping back certain information from the Opposition benches or from this House, they should give us full information. Then you will have full trust in them and they will certainly trust you as far as possible. (Hear, hear). Sir, I beg to submit further that the so-called expenses which are being incurred in some of the departments are entirely useless. For instance, the punitive police, or the extra police. In how many districts do you keep the police? On what reports do you base your judgment in placing this extra or punitive police in any village? What are those reports? They begin from a constable, go to the head constable, go to the sub-inspector, and so on to the highest authority and they report that this is a terrible village and there should be punitive police there.

Premier : It is a request of honourable members themselves.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Often for political reasons.

Mian Abdul Aziz : If you would allow me I am prepared to prove these facts which I am going to submit before the House. (Hear, hear from the Opposition benches). I am prepared to co-operate with you and place all these facts and figures. (Cheers from the Government benches). Please do not consider that I am making irresponsible statements. I know my responsibility and I am not going to make any vague statements. But the difficulty comes in here. I remember once before in 1925, when I was keen on co-operation, at that time I raised certain questions regarding the Police and the Irrigation Department. No steps were taken to remove these difficulties and grievances. At last I had a letter from the Chief Engineer of the Irrigation Department which was sent to me at the instance of the then Honourable Revenue Member, who is now the Revenue Minister, Sir Sunder Singh Majithia and I sent him a reply that I was prepared to substantiate my allegations provided he makes one condition and that was, because I had to prove that bribe was going on and I had to produce real persons who had given bribe, the Government should give the assurance that those people who have paid any bribe will not be prosecuted, but I did not get any further reply. I would have been prepared to put forward certain truthful witnesses, zamindars, but the difficulty was that we talk on the floor of this House one thing, and show sympathy, but subsequently as soon as the Council session is over all that is gone and nothing is cared for the representations of the people. I have particularly to submit through the Honourable Premier to the honourable members of the Cabinet that you are our ministers and we will certainly help you provided you help us.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member will please not address the Ministers.

Mian Abdul Aziz : Through you I submit this to the Ministers.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member's time is up.

Mrs. J. A. Shah Nawaz (Outer Lahore, Muhammadan Woman, Urban): Mr. Speaker, for the last two days, I have been sitting quietly and listening to the different speeches that have been delivered in connection with the budget that has been presented to this House. Before I say anything about the various expressions of opinion by the different speakers, I would like to associate myself with many of the felicitations that have been showered on our very able Finance Minister (Hear, hear). As I said in one of the speeches I delivered in Lahore at the Literary League dinner, we Punjabis are lucky to have one of the greatest economists in charge of our finances.

and I am sure, I do not only hope, I am almost sure that with the reins of finances in such able hands, the Punjab will be the foremost province in taking the lead for lessening the sufferings of the poor (hear, hear). (A Voice: Let us hope so.) I would very much like also to congratulate his able Secretary and the other members of his staff on presenting such a fine budget (hear, hear). Sir, I am one of those persons who is not an idealist, but a realist and when I took hold of the memorandum that has been so ably written by the Secretary of the Finance Department and when I went through the pages of that memorandum, I said to myself, how much effort and how much thought this must have entailed. I was delighted to find that the figures presented for the ensuing year, in connection with the beneficent departments, exceeded those of the last year and in spite of that the budget was balanced. It is to the credit of this province that during the last few years when there has been so much of economic crisis all over the world, we have been able to show more or less balanced budgets. I listened very interestedly to the fine oration delivered by Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt yesterday. Every word of it went to the hearts of many people who heard him speak. In the afternoon when we were going out for voting and I passed him he said that he wished I had the same love for my country as some of the members on the other side of the House. I take this opportunity of saying to him and also to my sister who spoke this morning, I speak not only for myself, but for many of us on this part of the House that we are not chained to our benches as was said by my colleague this morning. Believe me, most of us have not been returned to this House just because we belong to a certain party, but we have been returned independently of any party (hear, hear) and many of us have fought and faced the opposition because we stood on a certain ticket and yet have been returned by overwhelming majorities (hear, hear). That shows that we enjoy the full confidence of the people and believe me we have just as much independence of thought and action as persons on the opposite side of the House. Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt told us that he was surprised to find that the tone and the wording of the budget were the same as in the previous years. Let me tell him that I also was surprised when the first session of our Assembly took place in Lahore, that there was no change in the tone of their speeches. We heard the same criticism that we used to hear when there were officials sitting on Treasury benches (hear, hear from the Opposition). I do not think that they have realized the change that the persons now sitting on the Treasury benches enjoy the full confidence of the electorate of their province (hear, hear). Through you Sir I would like to remind my friends sitting on the opposite benches that unfortunately as Brand says "the worst effect of party system is its tendency to generate narrow and petty prejudice by which the adherents of one party regard those that belong to the opposing party as unworthy of confidence." Our Honourable Premier just a couple of months before he assumed charge was heralded in some of the provincial papers as perhaps the one man who could save the province, but as soon as he became the leader of one party, he has been made a target for attacks by the same papers who had been praising him so profusely. I fail to understand that mentality. We know that our present Finance Minister has had to work within limitations. It was very difficult for him to present the budget as he would have liked to present it, hedged in as it is with so many non-votable items, but we are glad to find that he has not forgotten to give as much as he possibly could to the beneficent departments. I would like through you Sir to place some constructive proposals before him. He is a great economist and we are all expecting exceptional things from him and from the members of the new Cabinet. This morning two of my sisters reminded the House of the duty of the present Ministry to one half of the population of India. I support every word of their speeches. In fact I would like to point out that the money that is being at present spent on women's education out of the total grant for education is not more than 12 to 14 per cent. We are very anxious that there should be a re-orientation of our educational policy both for the boys and the girls. Lord Macaulay's system of education, as you all know, has only led to armies of educated young men roaming all over the country for whom there is no place anywhere. We are anxious that there should not be similar bands of educated girls who are ill fitted for their vocation in life. I would, therefore, request the Honourable Education Minister to try and appoint a committee, as one of my colleagues said this morning, who should look into the matter very carefully and see what would be the best curriculum for the girls' education.

Take the case of medical relief work. Unfortunately there is too much infant mortality in India and we lose one infant in every five babies that come into the world. So far as the grant for medical relief is concerned, only 13.98 per cent. of it is spent on medical relief for women.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : That is a blessing (Laughter).

Mrs. J. A. Shah Nawaz : I would request the Honourable Minister of Public Health to take this into consideration that even in many district towns there are no maternity hospitals and very few child welfare centres. It is gratifying to note that as far as the welfare centres are concerned, Punjab is ahead of the other provinces, but like the Mysore State we wish to see a school and an Infant Welfare Centre in almost every village so that there should be a substantial reduction in illiteracy and child mortality.

We are grateful to the Minister of Education for the provision of a couple of new schools and a Circle Inspectress of Schools but the addition of one Inspectress is not sufficient. We need one for each district and I do hope provision will very soon be made for this.

Coming to the question of Industry, it is high time that the Punjab Government considered about the provision of subsidising some of the new industries. We find that private capital in the province is very shy just because they know that there is no security for the capital which is going to be spent on industry. A certain sum ought to be set apart for subsidising private concerns and I do hope that the Ministry in their next budget will set aside a substantial sum for that purpose. It is gratifying to find that new irrigation projects are going to be taken in hand. This is one of the means by which there will be a large reduction in unemployment. We know how people are suffering owing to a lack of employment as no new avenues of work are open to them. When a large project of this kind is taken in hand, a large number of persons have to be employed. Haveli Project has already been started and Thal Project I understand is under consideration. It is reassuring to know that the Punjab Government are taking the Thal Project into consideration because, as many of the members in this House are aware, the people of Mianwali and Muzaffargarh districts have been suffering for a long time. These districts were promised the scheme in 1902 and since that time project after project has been sanctioned and their interests have not been safeguarded. We are glad to find that the Punjab Government is at last considering the scheme.

We can, at present, borrow money cheaply. As my honourable colleague Mr. W. Roberts said, when money can be secured at cheap rates of interest large projects can be taken in hand. Why should we not follow the example of some foreign countries who are trying to lessen unemployment through circulation of money by internal borrowing and then spending it on large profitable concerns, I would say, productive activities, so that our income should increase and at the same time there should be a substantial reduction in unemployment.

Before I sit down, I would like to say one word about the present communal tension. When listening to the statement which the Honourable the Premier made yesterday, I was thinking of the time when the Round Table Conference was sacrificed on the altar of communal tension. I can never forget the time, and many of my colleagues of the Round Table Conference, who are present in this House to-day, will bear me out, how sad we all felt when before the members of foreign nations, the greatest of our leaders had to acknowledge that we Indians could not settle our differences. In connection with the first Round Table Conference at least in seventeen or eighteen of my speeches I had told the people in England that if the Congress had been co-operating, the settlement between the different communities would have been arrived at in no time.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I interrupt the honourable member and ask her to give us chapter and verse of the fact that the Congress did not co-operate with regard to the communal settlement ?

Mrs. J. A. Shah Nawaz : I said that in connection with the first Round Table Conference—I think Diwan Sahib did not catch the words—I had to deliver a number of speeches round about the City of London and I told the people everywhere that had the Congress been co-operating, the settlement would have been arrived at very soon.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : What happened when the Congress co-operated ?

Mrs. J. A. Shah Nawaz : Mahatma Gandhi went as the sole representative of the Congress. We sat on several occasions until 4 o'clock in the morning trying to bring about a settlement between ourselves without any success. At last Mahatma Ji had to report to the Prime Minister that unfortunately we Indians could not come to an understanding. My countrymen can well imagine my feelings then.

Mr. Speaker : Order, order. The honourable member's time is up (At the special request of the House she was however allowed a minute more).

Mrs. J. A. Shah Nawaz : I thank you, Mr. Speaker and my colleagues for granting me this concession. As I was saying in my speech, we unfortunately could not settle. I have to make one appeal through you Sir to all my brethren and my sisters present in this Hall to-day. Let us not wreck the Provincial Autonomy on the same alter on which the Round Table Conference was sacrificed. I can never forget that very sad moment when ultimately the negotiations broke down and my poor father came home and cried like a child? We knew then that the Round Table Conference had come to an end and after that there was no question of liberty and freedom for our country. We knew that the new constitution could not be anything better than the one given to us. Had we come to an understanding, you would not have been complaining to-day about the question of fiscal autonomy and other matters. Therefore, I appeal to my countrymen through you, Sir, to try to come to an understanding now. I appeal especially to my colleagues on the opposite side to do all that lies in their power to remove the communal bitterness and become Punjabis each and all, for remember : " United we stand and divided we fall."

[Mrs. J. A. Shah Nawaz.]

Lala Duni Chand (Ambala and Simla, General, Rural) : I desire

4 P. M. Sir, to address this House in plain and unvarnished language, though nonetheless, sincere and earnest, hoping that thereby I might be able to contribute, in howsoever small a degree, to the conditions in the Punjab. I also want to compliment the Honourable Finance Minister and the Finance Secretary. But my reasons for complimenting them are quite different. I compliment them because in these two distinguished Indian gentlemen I have got experts in Finance. It is impossible for me to deny that fact, and, therefore, I acknowledge it. It was only a short time ago when the doors of the Punjab Secretariat were closed to the Indians, howsoever distinguished and able. They were not allowed to enter the sacred precincts of the Punjab Secretariat. But for the extraordinary political and national consciousness that at times assumed the form of upheavals and which is responsible for having Mr. Manohar Lal as the Honourable Finance Minister or Mr. Ram Chandra as the Finance Secretary, but for these hard facts they would not have been there nor would many of the distinguished Indians, who are occupying high portfolios, have been there. It is true that in Mr. Manohar Lal we have got an able Finance Minister. But he has yet to demonstrate in the course of the next 5 years of his regime that he has been able to achieve anything appreciable for the masses of this province. Sir, I shall leave out the big issue whether the capitalistic system of society or the imperialistic system of Government is responsible for all our ills. This issue is for bigger people. But I want to deal with two smaller issues. The one issue is that the Honourable Finance Minister or the Cabinet of the Punjab should adopt and carry out a radical and bold policy of taxation in two directions ; firstly, in the direction of taking maximum tax out of those who have got maximum income and taking minimum tax out of those who have got minimum income ; and secondly, in the direction of relieving of those people from the burden of taxation who are unable to pay any taxes.

The other thing that is absolutely necessary in order to bring about any appreciable change in the economic condition is that the present costly administration must be done away with. I believe in all earnestness that so long as this costly administration is there, it is impossible to effect any great change in the economic conditions of the people.

Sir, in connection with the question of taxation I refer to two kinds of taxes. The land revenue tax is nothing but a tax on the agricultural income. This is a tax which is very high for the poor people. To my mind it appears the height of cruelty to those agriculturists, those cultivators who cannot produce sufficient to maintain their starving children. They should not be taxed in any form of shape. The other tax, which is hitting the poor hard is what is sometimes called the professional tax and sometimes the haysiat tax. I know it for a fact that this tax is levied on those people who cannot possibly have two meals a day.

(Premier ; Do you include lawyers ?) I do not say from all, but some of them. A very large number of those people, who are called upon to pay the haysiat or professional tax, are absolutely unable to pay. Added to this there is another trouble namely the agencies that have been set up to levy this tax are most unsatisfactory. They are actuated by most unworthy and in some cases vindictive motives in taxing those people who are quite unable to pay any tax. Dozens of instances have come to my notice. Recently during the last elections these official agencies had been taxing those people who took the side of the Congress or took part in other popular movements. If anyone goes into this question carefully, hundreds of instances of that kind will be forthcoming. This is what I want to say on the question of taxation.

Let me next take up the question of general administration. I may, first of all, refer to one most painful part of the budget, It is an item which provides money for the maintenance of the additional police force in order to cope with the communal situation. I know that money has been provided for additional police force for many years and it has been provided this year also. I submit that this is the saddest commentary on the communal condition in this province. Sir, my heart goes out all in sympathy for those men, women and children who are the victims of these communal outbursts. There is only one pleasant feature of the situation. I do not propose to give any reasons or to give any causes with regard to these communal outbursts, lest my views might create any kind of unpleasantness in this House on the subject. The most pleasant situation is that all the groups of honourable members in this House including our humble selves are determined in all seriousness to put an end to this painful phase of the Punjab (hear, hear). I will be prepared to make any sacrifice and to make any efforts to make a contribution to the solution of this most complicated problem (hear, hear).

Sir, I want to say a word with regard to what is called the Haveli Project. I note that about 53 lakhs has been provided for this project for the present financial year. It is a laudable object : it is a laudable project. I want to tell one thing to the Government members about this project. They should see seriously and earnestly that every pie of these 53 lakhs is properly spent. Sir, I know and I am afraid that a goodly portion of this huge sum of 53 lakhs will be squandered away, misappropriated and will go as bribe into the pockets of the officials and officers. I know Sir, that big contractors. . . (Minister for Finance : That is absolutely an incorrect statement.) Pardon me for contradicting the Honourable the Finance Minister. He refuses to look into the condition of the country with open eyes. If the question of eyes and no eyes arises, it is only on occasions like this. I am a man who has got sense of responsibility. I pledge my sense of responsibility and my honour for the correctness of the statement that I make.

Premier : Sir, may I request the honourable member through you not to make any sweeping generalisations, because they are always invidious.

Lala Duni Chand : I did not say the whole item. I said a goodly percentage of the item. Connected with this question there is the question of the corruption prevailing in different departments of the Government. I invite the attention of the honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram to the report of the committee that was set up in 1922-23 of which he was a member. He was a party to the unanimous report to the effect that in all departments—I am quoting the very words of the report—in all departments of the Government corruption is rampant. (Premier : It is not denied.) The Government endorsed the report in these very words. I shall be grateful to the honourable members on the Treasury benches if they can eradicate or even minimise the amount and the extent of corruption in this province. It is most appalling. I know Government members always make professions but when the question of translating those professions into practice comes they fail badly. Sir, if you will permit me I would like to proceed next with the public services.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member's time is up.

Minister for Development (The Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram) : Sir, there were one or two points not relating to my departments, that have been raised by several members in which I am to some extent interested in a personal capacity. The most important of these points related to the Bhakra Dam Project. I will not be long in speaking about the Bhakra Dam Project. It is one of the most essential projects which should be given effect to if real substantial good is to be done to the peasants of the Punjab. But I say at once that so far as Government is concerned it is not at all to blame. Government has always been and still is, prepared to undertake the construction of the Bhakra Dam Project as soon as certain difficulties which are standing in the way, are removed. So far as I am concerned personally I may inform the House that as soon as the first session of this Assembly was over, the first act I did was to send for the file relating to the Bhakra Dam Project (hear, hear). (Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Was that all ?) That was not all. I recorded a note on the file, and asked for some important information. I can assure members who represent the south-eastern districts that I will not allow my colleague here a moment's rest until he does something to bring to the thirsty lands of the south-eastern districts water to irrigate them (hear, hear). Whether that water comes through the construction of the Bhakra Dam Project or through undertaking some other project is immaterial to me. But I will use the last ounce of my energy to see that something is done to bring about better conditions in the south-eastern districts through irrigation (hear, hear).

Another reference was made by Sardar Lal Singh of Ludhiana. He said that the Rural Reconstruction Department had been spending really nothing on rural reconstruction, and that 90 per cent. of the money under this head was spent on the payment of salaries. He did not realise the fact that rural reconstruction is not a department which spends anything substantially. The Rural Reconstruction Commissioner is only to co-ordinate the activities of various other departments whose business it is to bring about rural reconstruction (hear, hear).

I may now make a brief reference to one of my own departments, that of Industries. One or two members stated that industries were not at all attended to by Government, and that the province of the Punjab was very backward industrially. They suggested the need for taking vigorous steps to promote the cause of industrial expansion. In this connection I may be allowed to read one or two extracts from a speech which I delivered with the complete concurrence of the Premier on the 1st of May last at the Annual General Meeting of the Indian Chamber of Commerce. From these extracts members will be able to judge what the attitude of Government is towards industrial expansion. But before I read out these extracts I frankly admit that so far as the question of industrial backwardness is concerned, I am at one with those who have complained about the backwardness of our province.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Are these your present views ?

Minister for Development : Yes.

Mr. Speaker : No question but through the Chair.

Minister for Development : Here are the extracts —

“ Both general considerations of the prosperity of the province and the need of tackling the problem of unemployment point unmistakably in the same direction. Industrialisation appears to be the only promising solution. What we sell at so many seers per rupee in its raw condition has to be purchased by ourselves at so many chattaks, even tolas, per rupee in its manufactured and finished condition. If we can ourselves turn over raw produce into finished articles, we shall add millions upon millions to the income of agricultural classes and shall be able to find employment for most, if not all, of our educated young men.”

But here the limitation is that of having resources; so long as our income remains what it is and so long as our expenditure remains what it is, no substantial industrial expansion is possible. How are these fresh funds to be brought into our hands? With regard to this I used the following language :

“ Fresh funds for the expansion of nation-building activities are absolutely essential. The maintenance of existing services at their present pitch will absorb our present income more or less to the full, and such retrenchments and economies as can be made without sacrificing efficiency are not likely to release any very large funds. So the main portion of the funds required for any serious programme of expansion and development will have to be found from fresh taxation the burden of which will necessarily fall on the more well-to-do portion of our population.”

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : You did not say this in 1931 when you wrote those articles.

Minister for Development : This is what I said on the 1st of May, 1937. I am sure I have not said anything to which reasonable exception can be taken.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Mr. Speaker, may I ask the Honourable Minister for Development if it is not a fact that some years ago he believed and gave expression to the belief that these laudable schemes could not be carried out through taxation but through retrenchment? But today the statement he has made is a different one. (A voice : His views may change). I can quote chapter and verse when you said that this thing could not be achieved through taxation but through radical retrenchment.

Minister for Development : I did not say that; but if I did, it must have been a mistake.

My friend drew my attention to a series of articles which I wrote in 1981. In principle I stand by every word that I wrote in those articles. (Interruption). My friend is mistaken. I could not have said that and if my friend insists that I did, let me say that it must have been a mistake, because I know the limits of retrenchment and economies so well. Even in the articles which I contributed to the press I suggested economies to the extent of 2 crores as a maximum.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Essentially through retrenchment and that the province could not bear more taxation. You clearly said that in those articles.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member will please not put his question to the Honourable Minister direct.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : When there is a passage at arms between a Government member and a member of the Opposition, sometimes we have to use the word 'you'.

Mr. Speaker : But this should not be done.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Is not that the practice in the Central Legislature?

Mr. Speaker : But I must follow the rules and practice of this House. I do not care what the practice is of any other House.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : If you do not care for this, we do care for this procedure.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member has to care for the rules and practice of this House.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Are there any rules of the House on this question?

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is referred to Standing Order 27 of the Interim Rules. Besides, that is the practice of the House.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : I would maintain that the Honourable Minister for Development clearly asserted in those series of articles that the province could not bear further taxation. He is making an absolutely different statement today.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is quite within his right to ask this.

Lala Duni Chand : Sir, in the English language the word 'you' is not used in any bad sense.

Mr. Speaker : Order ! order !

Minister for Development : I stand by every word that I wrote in those articles with regard to retrenchment.

Before I come to a close so far as the particular point now under discussion is concerned, I may inform the House that in 1932 a Retrenchment Committee was appointed. That Committee made a report as a result of whose recommendations retrenchments to the tune of 180 lakhs were effected, and my friends probably will be pleased to learn that a fair and substantial portion of those retrenchments was of a permanent character.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : It is a serious confession that you were able to make so much retrenchment on services.

Minister for Development : No that was not only in respect of services. The range over which retrenchments were effected covered a very large area. It certainly covered some of the services, allowances, etc., but it covered a good deal more.

I will draw the attention of the House to one point more. It has been suggested by speaker after speaker from the Opposition benches that the present Government does not differ in any way from its predecessor, that it has the same mentality, that it has done nothing so far and that nothing can be expected of it in the future. So far as the mentality of the present Government is concerned, it will be found to be very materially and substantially different, even radically different, from the mentality of its predecessor. I can refer my friends of the Opposition to a certain number of resolutions of which notice was given on behalf of the members of the Ministerial Party, and I need only draw the attention of the House to the nature of those resolutions to prove this difference. Some of those resolutions are such that they would have given a positive fright to the Government which we have replaced. I will just read the substance of those resolutions.

(1) Best means of applying so far as practicable, the principles governing income tax to the assessment of land revenue.

(2) Reform and regulation of mandi usages in order to safeguard the interests of customers.

(3) Standardisation of weights and measures.

(4) Very substantial scaling down of debts in all cases and complete extinction of debts in some.

(5) Increasing the number of conciliation boards.

(6) Restoration to judgment debtors of their houses where those houses have passed into the hands of decree holders as a result of collusive auction sales.

(7) Best means of cancelling benami transactions contrary to the provisions of the Land Alienation Act.

(8) Compulsory retirement after twenty-five years of service of officers with indifferent record for efficiency or honesty.

(9) Dismissal without further enquiry of officers with established reputation for dishonesty.

[Minister for Development.]

(10) Enlarging the scope of usefulness of the Panchayat Act.

(11) Taking special steps to secure a fair distribution in Government employment of all backward classes particularly the statutory Hindu agriculturists and depressed classes.

(12) Throwing open of all public wells to all classes without distinction of caste or creed.

(13) Overhauling of the Northern India Canal and Drainage Act and the rules made thereunder.

(14) Appointment of a committee to supervise the pace of progress and course of expenditure on the Haveli Project.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Were these resolutions inspired by Government ?

Minister for Development : It is the ministerial party which gave notice of these resolutions.

Mr. Speaker : The Honourable Minister need not answer such questions unless they are asked through the Chair.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I ask the Honourable Minister one question ? Does the Government accept all these resolutions ?

Minister for Development : If the honourable member had waited a little longer he would have had an answer. I was going to say, that it may be contended, and reasonably contended, that these resolutions may or may not represent the precise attitude of the Government. True, But I do claim that the very fact that notices of these resolutions had been given by members of the ministerial party may be regarded as a fair index of the Government's future intentions and plans in general for the good of this province (Cheers).

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : In view of the fact that there are a very large number of members on the other side and in view of the fact that Government members also have got to speak and also in view of the fact that only one day more, that is the 24th, is left for the general discussion of the budget, may I suggest that the House may sit one hour longer today ?

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : We had no idea that the sitting today would be prolonged by one hour and so we have fixed up other engagements. I would suggest that if necessary the House may sit one hour longer on the 24th.

Mr. Speaker : What shall happen, if there is an adjournment motion on that day ? I have already received notice of one such motion.

An honourable member : One day more may be allotted for the general discussion of the budget.

Mr. Speaker : That is not in my power.

The Assembly then adjourned till 11 A. M., on Thursday, 24th June, 1937.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

1ST SESSION OF THE 1ST PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Thursday, 24th June, 1937.

The Assembly met at the Assembly Chamber, Simla, at 11 a.m. of the clock. Mr. Speaker in the chair.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

SUPERSESSION OF MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, SARGODHA.

66. Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Will the Honourable Minister for Public Works be pleased to lay on the table the correspondence, if any, between the Deputy Commissioner and the Government on the subject of supersession of Municipal Committee, Sargodha.

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : It would not be in the public interest to lay these papers on the table.

SCHEDULED CASTES IN GOVERNMENT SERVICE.

67. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the members of scheduled castes are not enlisted in the Police and the Army ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) above be in the negative, the reason for the same ; otherwise, their number in departments mentioned in (a), and in the Revenue, Canal, Co-operative, Civil and the Jail departments and the total amount of pay they draw ;
- (c) whether the Government proposes to take them in Government service according to the strength of their population ; if so, in what proportion ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) There is no bar on the enlistment of members of the depressed classes in the Police. Army recruitment is a matter for the Central Government.

(b) The time and labour involved in collecting this information would be out of all proportion to its value.

(c) If suitably qualified candidates are available, their legitimate claim will not be ignored.

WATER RATE FIGURES FOR THE LAST FIFTY YEARS.

68. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to lay on the table—

- (a) figures re water rates for the last fifty years, tax charged on the Western Jumna Canal for sugarcane, rice, wheat, gram, cotton, oil-seed, fodder, vegetables and gardens ;

[Pandit Shri Ram Sharma.]

(b) if the figures show an increase in the water rates, the reasons underlying that increase?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Attention of the honourable member is invited to Irrigation Branch Administration reports for the past 50 years.

(b) Attention of the honourable member is invited to the Abiana Committee Report of 1934.

REMISSION OF LAND REVENUE IN HISSAR, GURGAON AND ROHTAK DISTRICTS.

69. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to place on the table tahsil-wise the number of villages in the districts of Hissar, Gurgaon, and Rohtak, in which land revenue was remitted or its collection postponed on account of failure of crops from 1930, up to the rabi harvest of 1937, with details of these concessions in each case?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : Statements are laid on the table:—

ELEMENTARY AIDED SCHOOLS.

70. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to lay on the table—

- (a) a statement showing division-wise the number of primary aided schools, the number of students in them, and the amount of aid granted to them on 31st March, 1936 and 31st March, 1937;
- (b) whether the number of such schools and the amount of aid granted to them in the Ambala division has decreased; if so, the reasons for the same?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

GOVERNMENT GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL AT REWARI.

71. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether there is a Government Girls' High School in the Gurgaon district;
- (b) whether there is any girls' high school in Rewari town;
- (c) whether it is a fact that Rewari is the biggest town of the district with a large population;
- (d) the reasons for not providing Rewari with a high school for girls?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : (a) No.

(b) No.

(c) Yes.

(d) Up till the present, Government was not aware of any demand for a high school, probably because so few girls appear for the middle standard examination.

ADULTERATED GHEE.

72. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) the number of cases against the sale of adulterated ghee that have been started by the committees in the districts of Rohtak, Hissar and Gurgaon during the last two years;
- (b) what further measures Government proposes to adopt to defeat adulteration of ghee in the province?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : (a) No cases were instituted in connection with the sale of adulterated ghee by the committees in the Hissar district. The committees in the Rohtak district compromised 8 cases with fines aggregating Rs. 446; one case was brought to court and resulted in a fine of Rs. 10. The committees in the Gurgaon district instituted 4 cases in all of which the accused were convicted.

(b) Efforts are being made to persuade more local authorities to adopt the Punjab Pure Food Act and to make use of the Act after adoption.

COMPARATIVE EDUCATIONAL PROGRESS IN DIFFERENT EDUCATIONAL DIVISIONS.

73. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state the number division-wise of boys of the IV primary classes of the various recognized schools who passed the promotion examinations during each of the last five years in each of the five educational divisions of the Punjab ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

AMOUNT OF GRANT-IN-AID GIVEN TO LOCAL BODIES IN THE LAST FINANCIAL YEAR TO PROVIDE FOR BOOKS, ETC.

74. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether in any Board primary schools of the Punjab the children of indigent parents were supplied free books and writing material by local bodies during the last financial year ;

(b) whether the local bodies mentioned in (a) above received any special grants-in-aid for meeting a portion of their expenditure on free books and writing material ;

(c) if so, the total amount of grants-in-aid given from the provincial exchequer under this head during the last financial year ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

MARRIED BOYS IN HIGH SCHOOLS.

75. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that in most of the high schools of the province there are studying several boys below 18 years of age who are married ;

(b) if so, whether the Government proposes to take any action in the matter ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

CONSTABLES' SCHOOLS IN THE PUNJAB.

76. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

(a) the number of schools in the Punjab for training constables in the duties which are required to be performed by them ;

(b) the length of the period of training in each of the schools mentioned in (a) above ;

(c) whether arrangements exist in these schools for teaching First Aid ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) As the honourable member is probably aware, the courses at the central Phillaur School are for the higher ranks, not for constables. The training of the latter was until lately carried out entirely in their own districts. Recently, however, recruit training centres have been established at Sargodha in the Western Range and at Sialkot in the Central Range. Recruits from five districts are being trained at the former centre, while the Sialkot centre takes the recruits from all the districts of the Central Range, except Lahore and Amritsar. There is at present no training centre in the Eastern Range and recruits are still trained in their districts, but it is hoped shortly to establish one at Jullundur. Recruits for the Railway police are trained separately at Lahore.

(b) The period of training is at present six months, but with effect from the 1st July it is proposed to extend it to nine months in the Central Range, as an experimental measure.

(c) In the Western Range no arrangements at present exist for the training of recruits in First Aid. In the Central Range orders have been issued for such training to be provided. Information as to the position in the Eastern Range is not at the moment available, but will be obtained if the honourable member desires. Adequate arrangements already exist for First Aid training in the Railway police.

STUDENTS WHO APPEARED FOR THE MATRICULATION EXAMINATION IN 1937, FROM SIMLA, AMBALA AND HOSHIARPUR SCHOOLS.

77. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to lay on the table of the House a statement showing the following :—

- (a) the number of boys who appeared for the Matriculation examination in 1937 from the Bilaspur and Nalagarh State high schools and the other high schools of the districts of Simla, Ambala and Hoshiarpur in the Punjab ;
- (b) the number of boys who passed the Matriculation examination in 1937 from each of the schools mentioned in (a) above ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haya : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

GOVERNMENT HIGH SCHOOL, RUPAR.

78. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to place the following on the table of the House :—

- (a) the total income from fees received in the year, ending 31st March, 1937, of Government High School, Rupar, and the bill of salaries of its staff ;
- (b) the approximate figures of the annual loss in running the Government High School, Rupar, every year (1920—1936) ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haya : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

GOVERNMENT HIGH SCHOOL, RUPAR.

79. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to place on the table of the House copies of the resolutions passed by the Municipal Committee, Rupar, from time to time regarding the conversion of Government High School, Rupar, into a girls' high school or an Intermediate College and state the action taken by the Government on such resolutions ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : Attention of the honourable member is invited to the reply given to question No. 65¹, asked by Pandit Shri Ram Sharma in the present session of the Assembly.

SANADS TO TEACHERS EMPLOYED IN THE AIDED PRIMARY SCHOOLS IN RUPAR TAHSIL.

80. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to place on the table of the House—

- (a) copies of applications put up in the year 1935-36 for the grant of special sanads to teachers employed in the aided primary schools in Rupar tahsil with the remarks of the Assistant District Inspector, District Inspector concerned and the Inspector, Ambala division and the final decisions taken on all such applications by the department ;
- (b) a statement showing, class-wise, the number of boys reading in the aided primary schools in the rural area of Rupar tahsil and the annual result of each of the primary schools, both private and those administered by local bodies which contain 4 primary classes, with the pass percentage of each in the competition examinations ;
- (c) a statement showing the amounts of grants-in-aid given in 1933-34, 1934-35 and 1935-36, to the private aided primary schools in the Rupar tahsil and the reason for increase or decrease, if any, in the amounts of grants-in-aid in each case? The increase or the decrease may kindly be shown in separate columns ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTION AGENTS, ARBITRATORS AND LIQUIDATORS IN AMBALA.

81 Chaudhri Muhammad Hassan : Will the Honourable Minister for Development be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Assistant Registrar, Co-operative Societies, Ambala, has been authorised to appoint or dismiss execution agents, arbitrators and liquidators for the co-operative societies of the Ludhiana district ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) above be in the negative, the authorities responsible for their appointment and dismissal ;

(c) the qualifications required for each of the officials mentioned in (a) above;

(d) if any of the above mentioned officials have been appointed or dismissed; if so, by whom and why?

The Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

SETTLEMENT OF LYALLPUR DISTRICT.

82. Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the settlement of all the tahsils of Lyallpur district is completed;

(b) if so, whether the services of the settlement staff, including an Extra Assistant Settlement Officer, temporarily employed for this work, have been dispensed with;

(c) if not, the reasons for the same?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes, with the exception of the new Extensions circle of the Toba Tek Singh tahsil, assessment proposals for which have not yet been submitted for the orders of Government.

(b) and (c) Most of the settlement staff will be disbanded on 30th June, 1937. The services of the settlement officer and the two Extra Assistant Settlement Officers with a very reduced staff will, however, be required for some time more to dispose of the following business :—

(i) Objections against the new assessment, submitted under section 52 of the Land Revenue Act, by the revenue-payers of the Samundri and Toba Tek Singh circles of the Lyallpur district and Rakh Branch circle of the Sheikhpura district.

(ii) Distribution and announcement of the new assessment in the Extensions circle of the Toba Tek Singh tahsil as soon as the Settlement Officer's proposals are sanctioned by Government.

(iii) Miscellaneous duties imposed on the Settlement Officer, under chapters XXXIII and XXXIV of the Punjab Settlement Manual.

FIRE EXTINGUISHERS IN THE PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT BUILDINGS.

83. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Minister for Public Works be pleased to state—

(a) whether fire extinguishers are kept in the various public buildings under the control of Public Works Department besides ordinary

[Lala Deshbandhu Gupta.]

arrangements' for example, pails of water and sand to be used in emergency cases by the chaukidars of these Government buildings ;

- (b) if so, whether it has ever been ascertained if the chaukidars in charge of buildings provided with fire extinguishers by the Public Works Department know how to use them efficiently ;
- (c) if the answer to (b) above be in the negative, whether any action is intended to be taken in the matter ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Does not arise.

ELECTIONS TO THE PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

84. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether any directions were issued by the Government in the press for the information of the people how votes were to be recorded at polling booths set up for elections to the recent first Punjab Legislative Assembly ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) above be in the affirmative how many days before the actual commencement of the polling itself, these directions were issued ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) No directions were issued by Government in the press, except in the case of those constituencies in which a representative of the scheduled castes was to be elected.

(b) The press communiqué regarding the way to mark ballot papers was issued four days before polling began.

POLLING BOOTHS AND THEIR SITES.

85. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state how many days before the commencement of elections for the Punjab Legislative Assembly the tahsil-wise programmes of polling booths and their specified sites were notified in each district for the guidance of voters ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : A statement is laid on the table showing the dates of publication of polling programmes for the 1st General Election to the Punjab Legislative Assembly in districts. The polling began on the 18th January, 1937.

SUB-EXAMINERS FOR THE DEPARTMENTAL VERNACULAR FINAL EXAMINATION.

86. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state —

- (a) the number of persons who were appointed sub-examiners at the departmental vernacular final examination last year ;
- (b) the number of persons who were appointed sub-examiners in more than one subject ;
- (c) the reasons for appointing the same person as a sub-examiner in more than one subject ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

ACCEPTANCE OF RUPEE COINS AND CURRENCY NOTES AT THE GOVERNMENT TREASURIES AND SUB-TREASURIES.

87. Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that in many Government treasuries and sub-treasuries of the Punjab, Government rules in English and Vernacular for the acceptance of various kinds of rupee coins and currency notes under various conditions are not to be noticed at prominent places for the guidance of the people ;
- (b) if so, whether he is aware that the rupee coins and currency notes brought to treasuries and sub-treasuries are often not accepted on grounds against such rules by cashiers employed by Government treasuries ;
- (c) if so, whether the Government propose to have any action taken in the matter ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready .

BHAKRA DAM SCHEME.

88. Sardar Narotam Singh : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state the steps Government is taking towards the materialisation of the Bhakra Dam Scheme ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : Government is negotiating compensation terms with the Bilaspur State, in respect of (a) the area of laud required for the reservoir, and (b) the dislocation involved to State subjects, whose homes, land or occupations may be prejudiced by the Bhakra Dam Scheme.

SIKH EXTRA ASSISTANT COMMISSIONERS, TAHSILDARS, AND NAIB-TAHSILDARS.

89. Sardar Narotam Singh : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state district-wise the number of Sikhs belonging to Hissar, Karnal

Rohtak, Gurgaon, Simla and the three tahsils, namely, Ambala, Jagadhri and Naraingarh that have been taken as extra assistant commissioners, tahsildars, naib-tahsildars within the last twenty years?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : Within the last 20 years only one Sikh belonging to the Rupa tahsil of the Ambala district has been appointed to the Punjab Civil Service and he has since died. Within the same period one Sikh belonging to the Hissar district and another to the Ambala tahsil have been appointed naib-tahsildars.

UNLAWFUL SOCIETIES AND ASSOCIATIONS.

90. Sardar Hari Singh : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state the number and names of societies and associations declared unlawful since 1929 in this province, and whether the Government intend to reconsider the question of lifting the ban against the said organizations if not, the reasons for the same?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : In all 49 associations have been declared unlawful from 1929 to date, under the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 1908. A list is placed on the table. Of these, only ten associations (Nos. 32, 35 and 42 to 49) are still under the ban. The question of lifting the ban on these associations is periodically examined by Government.

GOVERNMENT INTERMEDIATE COLLEGE, DHARAMSALA.

91. Chaudhri Ali Akbar : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) the number of students in the Government Intermediate College, Dharamsala, district Kangra ;
- (b) the strength of the staff in the said college and the expense per mensem that is incurred in running that college ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the Principal of that college some time back reported that a college could better be run at Gurdaspur ;
- (d) whether it is also a fact that the District Board, Gurdaspur, and the general public of the district have many times expressed their desire of having an Intermediate College at Gurdaspur ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that the numbers of schools in Gurdaspur district and of the students passing the Matriculation examination from those schools every year are many times larger than those in the Kangra district ;
- (f) if the answers to (a), (c), (d) and (e) be in the affirmative, what steps are proposed to be taken in the matter ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

GOVERNMENT GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL, GURDASPUR.

92. Chaudhri Ali Akbar : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state whether it is a fact that no arrangement for fans or punkhas exists in the Government Girls' High School, Gurdaspur, resulting in much inconvenience to the girls sitting in the scorching heat in the verandahs of the school. If so, what action is intended to be taken in the matter ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

AHIRS CLASSED AS "NICH AQWAM."

93. Rao Bahadur Captain Rao Balbir Singh : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether he is aware of the fact that in the footnote on the "Naqsha-i-halat-i-talimi" of the Ferozepore District Board School the Hindu Ahirs have been classed as "Nich Aqwam," (low caste) ;
- (b) if so, what action Government intends to take to redress the wrong so done to a statutory agriculturist community ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye : (a) The form has since been revised and replaced, and the old form is no longer in use in the District Board schools of the district ;

- (b) Does not arise.

AHIRS CLASSED AMONG CRIMINAL TRIBES.

94. Rao Bahadur Captain Rao Balbir Singh : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether he is aware of the fact that in the Multan and Lahore divisions, the Ahirs, a tribe of statutory agriculturists notified in respect of other parts of the province, have been classed as belonging to the criminal tribes ;
- (b) if so, why ; and what action Government intends to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) No. The honourable member possibly has in mind a notification issued by the Punjab Government in 1917 declaring Aherias as a criminal tribe, but these Aherias are altogether a different people from the Ahirs.

(b) Does not arise.

INSTRUCTIONS BY THE DEPUTY COMMISSIONER, HISSAR, TO THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, BHIWANI, REGARDING BUILDING
BY-LAWS.

95. Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Will the Honourable Minister for Public Works be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the Deputy Commissioner, Hissar, has issued instructions to the Municipal Committee of Bhiwani to the effect that the Municipal Committee should not grant permission for constructions which contravene the building by-laws or the entries in the town map, without his approval ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : Yes.

BUSINESS OF THE ASSEMBLY AND HOURS OF SITTING.

Mr. Speaker : Before the House begins to-day's business, I would like to know whether the honourable members wish to take more time for general discussion than they can get under the daily routine. They can get more time—

- (i) if the questions on to-day's list are put off ; and
- (ii) if we sit after 4-30 P.M., the usual interruption hour.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I would request you to give us as much time as you possibly can for the general discussion of the budget. I have no objection if the questions¹ were put off for a later date.

Premier : I have no objection to that. I am quite willing to accommodate the Honourable Leader of the Opposition.

Pir Akbar Ali : The answers to the questions may be laid on the table.

¹The starred questions for this day were put and answered on 9th July, 1937,—vide the debates of that day.

Mr. Speaker : What about the other suggestion? Will the honourable members sit after half-past four?

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I would request you to continue the discussion till we finish.

Mr. Speaker : If we decide to sit up till 5 or 6 o'clock, I will be able to fix the duration of speeches.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I have no objection, if the Leader of the House agrees, to continue after half-past four.

Premier : I suggest that we continue till 5 o'clock. That would mean an extra hour and a half, as we are dispensing with the questions.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I agree.

An Honourable Member : Can we not continue the general discussion to-morrow?

Mr. Speaker : No.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Would you curtail the time allotted to each speaker?

Mr. Speaker : Yes.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : No more time for me?

Mr. Speaker : May the duration of speeches be 15 minutes?

Sardar Hari Singh : I suggest that the Leader of the Opposition may be given longer time.

Premier : The members on this side are about 5 times the number on the opposite side and yet they have had almost an equal share in the debate so far. Since there are still a large number who wish to speak, I suggest that the time may be curtailed to 10 minutes each except in the case of Ministers.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : What about me?

Mr. Speaker : I will do what I can.

Premier : I suggested the other day that my honourable friend should be given half an hour, if he so desired. We on this side will be glad to hear him.

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT.

INTERVIEW OF COUNSEL WITH MR. SATINDRA NATH SEN.

Lala Duni Chand (Ambala and Simla, General, Rural) : Sir, I rise to ask for leave of the House to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance which has recently occurred, namely, the refusal of the Home Secretary of the Punjab Government to allow interview with his counsel to Mr. Satindra Nath Sen an under-trial prisoner detained in Ambala District Jail who is being tried inside the jail for the offence of incendiarism with the result that the counsel of his choice cannot enter the jail precincts and defend him.

Mr. Speaker : May I know on what date the refusal in question was made?

Lala Duni Chand : The order was communicated to me in the first week of May.

Premier : May I with your permission enter a caveat against the multiplicity of adjournment motions? You must have noticed that, hitherto, there has not been a single day on which notice of several adjournment motions has not been given in this House and I am afraid that these motions are being reduced to a farce. An adjournment motion is essentially a motion meant to draw the attention of this House, to something which is extremely important from the national point of view or from the point of view of the province, and I have to say with regret that there seems to be a growing tendency to give notices of a large number of adjournment motions on matters which could normally be debated in the usual way, that is, by moving a resolution or cut. This particular motion, as the honourable member has himself confessed, could have been moved in the form of a resolution or in the form of a cut later on when we come to Demand No. 12 which deals with Jails. I hope that I will have the support of all sections of this House in trying to curb this tendency which seems to be growing. The utility of such adjournment motions is being questioned outside the House, and they are being described as a sort of amusing joke or farce which is repeated regularly every morning on the floor of this House.

Mr. Speaker : Will the honourable member please give the name of the counsel who was refused interview?

Lala Duni Chand : Lala Sham Lal, a member of the Central Legislative Assembly and my humble self.

Mr. Speaker : I think the motion is out of order for two reasons. It is not a matter of recent occurrence, as the honourable member admits that he was informed of it in the 1st week of May; while to-day is the 24th of June, and the Assembly met for the first time on the 17th of this month. The second reason, as explained by the Leader of the House, is that the subject matter of the motion can be discussed when the Demand for Jails is moved and discussed by this House.

Lala Duni Chand : Sir,.....

Mr. Speaker : I have declared and given my reasons why the motion is out of order. Any further discussion, I am afraid, cannot be allowed under the rules in force.

Lala Duni Chand : I want to make a statement, a personal explanation. My object was to satisfy you and the Honourable Premier with regard to my bona fides.

Mr. Speaker : Is that a personal explanation?

Lala Duni Chand : It is a personal explanation. You will give me only a few minutes. I want to satisfy the House that I have not been actuated, in asking for leave—

Mr. Speaker : Is there any insinuation or hint to that effect?

Lala Duni Chand : An insinuation has come from the Honourable Premier himself.

Premier : No, Sir.

Lala Duni Chand : That adjournment motions are being reduced to a farce.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Is the term 'amusing joke' not an insinuation? That is the term used by the Honourable Premier.

An Honourable Member : Not with regard to this motion.

Lala Duni Chand : I accept your ruling. I say nothing as to that. But I do want to make a few observations with regard to the motive by which I was actuated in asking for leave. It was not in a frolicsome political spirit or frivolity——.

Mr. Speaker : I would request the Honourable Leader of the House to withdraw the words "farce" and "joke."

Lala Duni Chand : Mr. Speaker, I would request the Honourable the Leader of the House to withdraw the expressions "farce and an amusing joke" (Hear, hear "from the Opposition benches).

Premier : May I point out that I only said outside this House. If honourable members have seen the papers this morning they will have noticed. (A Voice : Civil Military Gazette). Civil Military Gazette is also a very important organ. (Voices : Honourable Member's party organ). No. (Diwan Chaman Lall : It says to-day what the honourable member says to-morrow).

Mr. Speaker : I request the honourable members to resume the general discussion of the budget.

Diwan Chaman Lall : It was within my right to interfere.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member was addressing his remarks direct to the Honourable Premier. He should have addressed the Chair.

Diwan Chaman Lall : My remarks were addressed through the Chair.

Premier : The honourable member is not entitled to speak anything when another member is in possession of the House.

Mr. Speaker : He could raise a point of order.

Premier : This was not a point of order. Sir, I was trying to explain——.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : On a point of order. Is the honourable member entitled to make a speech before obeying the ruling of the Chair?

Mr. Speaker : He is entitled to give an explanation?

Premier : What I said was that people outside were talking desparagingly of what I described as multiplicity of adjournment motions on petty matters and I was trying to impress on this House that if we persisted in the practice, the importance of such motions will be reduced to an extent that members of this House and people outside would not pay any heed to an adjournment motion which is normally meant to draw the attention of the Assembly to matters or incidents of grave import to the nation or the province, and are not meant to ventilate grievances of individuals or petty matters. That is what I said, I did not mean to insinuate anything against the honourable member for Ambala.

Mr. Speaker : But the Honourable Premier used the word "farce."

Premier : I said that that was the expression which was being used by people outside this House.

Mr. Speaker : Did the Honourable Premier say that? (Voices from the Ministerial benches : Yes). Does the honourable member (Lala Duni Chand) deny that the Honourable Premier said that this was being said outside the House?

Lala Duni Chand : I did not hear at all. If the Honourable Premier says that he did say so, I accept his words. ("Hear, hear" from the Ministerial benches). Just a word with your kind permission. My object in asking for leave—

Mr. Speaker : That matter has been settled.

Lala Duni Chand : In one word, my object was to discharge a very important public duty, namely the vindication of a natural fundamental and legal right of an under-trial prisoner.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I want to know whether I shall be permitted to make a statement. As far as the notice of motion of adjournment is concerned, it is given to you because it is the right of the Opposition to move adjournment motions and what the Honourable Premier has said amounts to this that we people on this side have acquired a habit of multiplying these motions and therefore we make it a farce, or that is what people say outside and I think he has repeated it which means that he has endorsed that opinion and he wants to treat the notice of the Opposition in this manner. I think it is my right to make a statement on that point and I hope you would permit me.

Premier : With regard to the observations made by my honourable friend opposite I want to make it clear that I did not impute any motives to the Opposition, nor did I make any insinuations against anybody. All that I said was that the world outside was using these words and the press has also taken up the matter and this Assembly is becoming a laughing-stock of the people. As regards the necessity or relevancy of these motions, I need only draw your attention to the number of adjournment motions moved and the number admitted. Further comment is unnecessary.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Are we also to take notice of what people outside the House say about the ministry, about their conduct, their attitude, etc.?

Sardar Sampuran Singh : Is the Honourable Premier ready to say that he does not endorse that view?

Premier : I submit that I am fully entitled to draw the attention of this House to any disparaging remarks which may be made against this honourable House and its members because it is my duty to safeguard and conserve the dignity and prestige of this House. ("Hear, hear" from the Opposition benches).

Mr. Speaker : So far as the Premier is concerned he has explained that he did not use those words as his, but only informed the House of what was being said outside the House.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : But the question is, does he endorse the view ?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : We appreciate the sense of duty shown by the Honourable the Premier, but does he or does he not consider it his duty to contradict these remarks made in the Civil and Military Gazette ?

Premier : It is for the honourable members opposite to do so by their actions.

Mr. Speaker : We should stop this discussion.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Let the Reporter say whether the Honourable Premier said those words or not.

Premier : The honourable member should show me the courtesy of accepting my word regarding what I said.

Lala Duni Chand : But the whole language was most disparaging and insulting.

(The Honourable Speaker at this stage called Dr. Gokul Chand Narang to start his speech on the general discussion of the budget.)

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : On a point of order, Sir.

Mr. Speaker (called him to order) : If the honourable member behaves like that again, I shall have to ask him to withdraw.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Then I am sorry I shall be forced to enter my strongest protest—.

Mr. Speaker : I cannot allow the honourable members to make speeches when no speeches are allowed by rules. The honourable member is welcome to do what he can according to the rules in force.

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order.

Mr. Speaker : There appears to be no point of order.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Mr. Speaker, have I a right to raise a point of order ?

Mr. Speaker : I regret to say that some honourable members are obstructing the business of the House ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I inquire, Mr. Speaker, whether a member, when he raises a point of order, is entitled to catch the eye of the Chair ?

Mr. Speaker : I have been allowing and shall continue to allow the honourable members to raise points of order and do anything they can under the rules, but I clearly see that some gentlemen are obstructing the business of the House. So, I must ask them not to waste the time of the House (hear, hear).

Diwan Chaman Lall : You have not even heard my point of order. May I request that you should hear my point of order ?

Mr. Speaker : Points of order are welcome, but obstruction of the business of the House cannot be allowed.

Diwan Chaman Lall : How can the Honourable Speaker say that this is obstruction of the business of the House when I stand to raise a point of order ?

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member did not raise any point of order. I clearly see that at least three gentlemen are insisting on obstructing the business of the House and that is a grossly disorderly conduct.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : May I request you to name these three gentlemen ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : Will you name those gentlemen ?

Mr. Speaker : I will, when necessary.

GENERAL DISCUSSION OF THE BUDGET.

Minister for Education (The Honourable Mian Abdul Haya.) :

داستلن درد کی لمبی ہے کہیں کیا تجھ سے
 ہو ہی جاتا ہے مصیبت میں پرایا اپنا
 ہم نے سو راء اخوت کی نکالی لیکن
 نہ قر اپنا ہو اپنا نہ پرایا اپنا

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Can the Honourable Minister start in Urdu ?

Minister for Education : Sir, as I rise in my seat to address this august Assembly, I feel that in this House—rather in this Hall—this is the first opportunity that I have taken of speaking from this side of the House. I have sat for several long years on the benches opposite and when I rise to address this august Assembly, I do so with a deep sense of responsibility. The responsibility that I speak of is the responsibility which I, as a Minister of the Punjab Government, owe to this legislature including the Opposition and through this legislature to my beloved people in the Punjab. That heavy sense of responsibility urges me to speak with caution and restraint. I feel that I am addressing my own friends and my own brothers. You shall not have bitter words from me.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Is the Honourable Minister addressing the House or the Chair ?

Mr. Speaker : Will the Honourable Minister please address the House through the Chair ?

Minister for Education : The other day when my honourable friend Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt initiated the debate on behalf of the Opposition, he said at the outset, if I understood him aright, that the Punjab Government have in a way antagonised the Opposition. I was deeply distressed—rather surprised—to hear this remark from him. The time at my disposal is short, but I would make bold to say that the Treasury benches believe that a strong Opposition, candid and honest criticism, bold and sometimes merciless criticism is a helping hand (A Voice : Question) and the Government is ready to seize it.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Let us hope so.

Minister for Education : If per chance, unwittingly and for any thing that has been said and done on the floor of this House inadvertently by either side, those relations have been impaired, I must make it clear to you that we on this side of the House with the Honourable the Premier are anxious to rehabilitate the old relations. In the last two decades, during the seven years of which I had the honour to sit on the opposite benches in another House with my honourable friend Diwan Chaman Lall on my right, we have been urging the alien Government to grant responsible government to this country and very often we were told that we were not fit to manage our own affairs.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : As we are told now.

Minister for Education : You know that the reply that was invariably given from our side was, "These are our own affairs. If we are unable to manage them, we have a right to mismanage them." We asked the alien Government to vacate these Treasury benches and allow our own kith and kin to occupy them and if need be to mismanage them. Has that angle of vision now changed? I do not claim the right to mismanage the affairs of the Punjab, but I make bold to say that having made these utterances it is up to you now to treat us with a little consideration and to be a little more charitable. It has been suggested by one of the honourable members that we on this side of the House perhaps are not doing our duty properly. A definite suggestion was made on the first day of the debate that some gentlemen on the other side of the House suspect that there have been interferences on behalf of His Excellency the Governor in the matter of discharge of the duties that are imposed by law upon the Ministers of the Punjab Government. I want to take this opportunity of contradicting this. We feel no difficulty in the discharge of our duties and there has absolutely been no interference. People speak of assurances. I may tell this Honourable House that we on this side of the House do not require any assurances, but it is a fact that before we actually entered upon our duty, His Excellency Sir Herbert Emerson gave us a clear assurance that he shall always accept our advice and this he has been doing. With these brief remarks, I now come to my department.

Lala Duni Chand : Did the ministry ask for any assurances from him?

Minister for Education : No, Sir.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Then, were they given without asking?

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Still they were forthcoming.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : He will give the assurances to you and not to Mahatma Gandhi.

Minister for Education : Sir, now I come to thank the honourable members who have made valuable suggestions regarding education, medical relief and public health. I would very briefly outline the portion of the programme that I wish to make. Sir, it is the intention of the Government—although we have not yet taken any definite step, the matter is being enquired into—to amend the Punjab Education Code in such a manner so that complete powers may be given to the Government to enforce primary education and, if need be, to expand it and enforce it. It is the intention of the Government to extend the period from 4 years to 5 years and if need be by 2 years more. It is the intention of the Government to revise the curriculum and the course of study; although I am not in a position to-day here to say whether we would expand it because I do not believe in quantitative expansion but it is the desire of the Government to consolidate the programme that is before us. (Sardar Hari Singh: With the sanction of the House.) Of course, with the sanction of the House. It is the intention of the Government to eliminate wastage and to it the pointed attention has been drawn in various reports and in the Press.

I take this opportunity of congratulating my honourable friends—our sisters—Begum Rashida Latif Baji, Begum J. A. Shah Nawaz and Shrimati Raghbir Kaur, for the very useful suggestions that they have made with regard to female education. I take this opportunity of assuring them that the question of female education shall receive very earnest and careful consideration at the hands of the Government. (Hear, hear).

Lala Duni Chand: How many girls' schools are you going to open in the rural areas?

Minister for Education: I make bold to say that we need expansion of girls' education and we should take off this demon of communalism. We are out to kill it and crush it. It is a matter of extreme shame for me that we, the men of the Punjab, have failed to do that.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: On a point of order, Sir. May I ask the Honourable Minister not to use the words "female education," because these words, in my opinion, are not courteous to ladies and are rather unparliamentary. He should say "education of women."

Mrs. J. A. Shah Nawaz: I thank my honourable friend Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt for this correction.

Minister for Education: It is scarcely a point of order. I believe that with the expansion of women's education, the task that we have not been able to accomplish shall be accomplished by the women of the Punjab. (Hear, hear). We have cried in vain in the past—

مردے از غیب ہر دن آئند و کارے ہند

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: Say,

زے از غیب ہر دن آئند و کارے ہند

Minister for Education: My friend, Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam may rest assured that it is going to happen soon:

زوں از پورے ہر دن آئند و کارے ہند

Sir, I may tell this House that although the Government is anxious to expand education and consolidate the progress that we have made, I am not so very keen on opening new schools, I am not very keen to enlist new students. What I am keen about is to nationalise our system of education. (Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: Tell us the manner also). I am in search of a system of education that would teach a brother to love a brother. I look upon these denominational institutions with a very grave concern. I do not want to make a secret of that. I look upon these denominational institutions—with all the respect to those gentlemen who founded them and who are carrying them on—standing here to-day as a Minister of the Punjab Government I do not want to hide my inner feelings and I say that I look upon these denominational institutions with grave concern. (Hear, hear). I want to nationalise the system of education. I want to nationalise all the institutions in the Punjab, whether Government, district boards, local bodies institutions or private ones. (Hear, hear). (Lala Duni Chand: Introduce a Bill to that effect). I will introduce it if I have public opinion behind me. I do not want to play the part of Amanullah. I have thrown out a hint and it is up to you, gentlemen, now to strengthen my hands and make it possible for me to enforce this reform. Although we talk of Indian nationalism, although we talk of Indian National Congress, the fact remains that even the first step towards nationalism has not yet been taken and that step is to be taken in the domain of education. Some of the honourable members send their boys to D. A.-V. institutions, others send to Islamia institutions and they educate them in water-tight compartments where, to my great regret, I find that no attempt is being made to evolve true nationalism. One community is fighting to the detriment of the other community. I submit, Sir, that in this state of affairs it is idle to talk of nationalism. Let us take the first step towards nationalism. If you desire you can continue these denominational institutions, but you have to change your angle of vision, you have to change the courses of study and you have to change the mentality of the teacher; you have to nationalise the mentality of the teacher, (A voice: Also of the managing committee), yes, also of the managing committee. If this is the desire of the House I am prepared to call in future all Government institutions in the various parts of the province as national institutions (hear, hear). (Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: But slowly, not like Amanullah). I do not like these institutions to be called Government colleges or Government schools. If this is the desire of the House I repeat I will take the first step and call them national high schools and national colleges.

Mr. Speaker: I would request honourable members not to make remarks when an honourable member is speaking. If an honourable member wishes to ask a question, he may rise in his place and state his question and I will ask the member concerned to reply. (Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: But we are giving him our full support). But that is not the right procedure.

Lala Duni Chand: The Congress started four or five universities and several national colleges. What did the Government do? Most of the students of those colleges were sent to jail.

Mr. Speaker: If twenty honourable members, one after another, ask questions when a member of Government is speaking, he will not be able to make his speech.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: I was the second and not the twentieth Minister for Education : My honourable friend, Lala Duni Chand, has addressed me a question which he had better address to the late Government. We are not talking of the past : we are now concerned with the future. It is because we have been looking to the past that the progress in this country has been retarded. Time has come when we should cease to talk of Shivaji and Aurangzeb. Time has come when we should allow those gentlemen to lie in peace and we better talk of the future, and of our intention and of our determination to fight against odds. The other day my learned friend, Lala Duni Chand, wanted an assurance from me. He asked me, " Can you give an assurance that where your predecessors have failed you shall succeed ? " I believe this is the first and perhaps the last opportunity that has been granted to me by Providence to serve my provinces and I am determined to go ahead. The future is in the lap of Gods, and all that I can say is that I am determined to make a genuine effort, and I hope that with your assistance and co-operation Government shall succeed. Well, Sir, as regards the suggestions made by my honourable friend Mrs. Rashida Latif she said that the Minister for Education should see that even the department of Public Health is starved to give impetus to girls education. I regret very much that I am not in a position to subscribe to this proposition. We want sound mind in a sound body. I will not deprive the Health Department of funds for the sake of education. I make bold to say that if need be, I am prepared to starve boys, education for the sake of girls education.

Another honourable member pointed out that the Minister for Education has not been given enough funds by the Honourable the Finance Minister. I deem it my duty to repudiate that suggestion. In the Honourable the Finance Minister we have a distinguished educationist. I hope the House remembers that while to-day he occupies the chair of the Finance Minister he has been in the past the Education Minister also. I am grateful to him for the great consideration which he has shown in looking to the needs of the various beneficent departments that I hold under my control.

We are very anxious to look to the needs of the peasants also who live in the villages, and we have before us a programme of opening new rural dispensaries, and the Government has taken a very important decision only this month, and by virtue of that decision we propose to grant medical relief to the peasant not only in the various dispensaries that are opened, but in the very village where he lives. For the benefit of this House I may point out that we have evolved a scheme of collaboration between the curative and preventive sides of the Medical Department.

We have got over 350 rural dispensaries now in the Punjab and the Punjab Government has decided that in view of the fact that these rural dispensaries are not visited properly by the officer-in-charge, namely, the Civil Surgeon who has got various duties to perform, we have with the consent of the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, who was very sympathetic towards this proposal, decided to transfer the control of the rural dispensaries to the charge of the Health Department, and to place them under the Medical officers of Health. It shall be the duty of the sub-assistant surgeons in charge of these dispensaries in future not only to administer medicine and look to the needs of the people who flock to those dispensaries, but as an experimental measure in five districts, I mean one district in each division, we have decided that the doctor in charge of the rural dispensary at least on two days in the week after performing his duties for two hours in the morning should go out and visit various villages within a radius of five miles and cater to the needs of the afflicted in the villages and also help the Public Health Department.

I regret very much that the time at my disposal is very short but in the end I would like to make a sincere appeal in the name of the Punjab and the nationalism of India to all concerned that in view of these very humble submissions that I have made all sections of this House would help me and the Punjab Government, especially in the matter of education and the nationalisation of education. I am not in a position to say bitter words even to Dr. Muhammad Alam.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Therefore no bitter words to him. (Laughter).

Minister for Education : There shall not be bitter words. If you want bitter words you shall have to look for them elsewhere.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Here also do you mean by the word "you" the Chair (laughter)? Sir, the Honourable Minister said a little while ago that by "ybu" he meant the Chair. Does he mean the same thing now?

Minister for Education : I would not say bitter words even under provocation. I only make an appeal to the honourable members that when they go to their houses they should shut themselves up in their rooms and consider what they have done. I hope that would be sufficient. It is not for me to behave like children.

Sardar Lal Singh : I wish the Honourable Minister for Education had explained in a few sentences how he would reconcile the new fangled national policy with the tenacity with which the Government holds on to the Communal Award.

Premier : Is it the Communal Award which is still worrying the honourable gentleman?

Sardar Lal Singh : Yes.

Diwan Chaman Lall (East Punjab, Non-Union Labour) : It would be entirely ungracious on my part or on the part of any member of the Opposition not to give his due measure of praise to the sentiments expressed by the Minister for Education in regard to the educational policy that he wishes to pursue in the Punjab. I can assure him that if these sentiments are translated into action, he shall have the genuine support of the Opposition in regard to the measures that he may think fit to propound. But it does remind me that the Honourable Minister is professing a bit too much. Although the sentiments are most admirable ones, I notice that in this budget that has been presented to us the substantive portion relating to the Honourable Minister's policy gives us the glorious figure of two girls' schools in the rural areas and two girls' schools in the urban areas. (Opposition Laughter). In the one case my honourable friend has budgetted for the year an expenditure of Rs. 3,000 and in the other case an expenditure of less than Rs. 3,000. I do hope that when my honourable friend translates his sentiments into action, he will find a better method of doing what he wishes to do, if he desires the support of the Opposition. But, that is by the way.

You will forgive me for mentioning another point that my learned friend expressed in a very happy language. He said " We the Ministers of the Punjab have been assured by His Excellency the Governor that His Excellency the Governor will always carry out the wishes of the Ministry. He will always accept the advice of the Ministry." May I ask my honourable friends opposite, if the Governor of the Punjab has given this particular undertaking to my honourable friends what difficulty was there for the Governor-General to give an undertaking of that nature to Mahatma Gandhi (Cheers)? Why within the precincts of the Cabinet Chamber is this expression of opinion given effect to? Why is it not publicly stated that the Governor is bound by the advice of the Ministers in all cases? I would like to have an assurance from my honourable friends that this is the position. If that is not the position, we are exactly where we were. I am not going to deal with this particular matter, because it will arise in reference to a series of questions when we shall know exactly what the position of the Ministry in the Punjab is under provincial autonomy.

But I have one regret. It is impossible to do justice to a subject such as is the budget presented by my honourable friend, within the short space of fifteen minutes—a subject, Mr. Speaker, which affects the prosperity and happiness of 23 million people in the Punjab. My suggestion is this, that in future my honourable friend should bring in a Finance Bill so that all the implications of the budget may be discussed at length and in detail. But Mr. Speaker, my honourable friends have been very pleased and happy over the budget. Some have been called uncrowned kings of the Punjab, others have been called world famous economists and still others have been called the saviours of this province of ours. But let me have a look at the budget that has been presented and see how far these extravagant notions of praise are justified. It is supposed to be a surplus budget with a surplus of Rs. 1,72,000. Is it in reality a surplus budget? At the last moment according to the admission of the Honourable Minister opposite the Government were forced to rob the Famine Fund which is preserved only for the purpose of helping—helping whom? Helping the poverty-stricken people of this country, and Rs. 10,39,000 was the sum taken away from the Famine Fund and if my honourable friends shake their heads, let me read out to them what is actually said in the Memorandum.

12 noon. "The Accountant-General advised that the remaining 10.39 lakhs should be transferred to the revenue account, as the [Famine] fund had been built up by assignments from revenue. This fortuitous accretion to revenue receipts at the last minute, when the budget had been framed, made it possible to increase the provision for rural sanitary schemes by one lakh, to provide 1½ lakhs as a special grant to district boards." and so on and so forth. By robbing a fund which they had no business to do and which they ought to have utilised for the purpose of relieving unemployment and distress in the province, they have been able to present us with a surplus budget of Rs. 1,72,000. This is really no surplus at all. If you calculate all the fortuitous items of this nature you will find that the total comes to nearly fifty lakhs which are in the nature of raids or accretions or gifts made by the Central Government to the Honourable Minister. My honourable friend over there shakes his head. If he desires it I will give him the actual figures.

| | Lakhs. |
|---|---------------|
| Central research | 1½ |
| Baluch Tribe grant | 2 |
| Rural Board gift | 4 |
| Road Fund (extra saving of last year) | 4½ |
| Extraordinary receipts | 24 |
| Tibet Himalayan Road (saving) | ½ |
| Forest (interest saving) | 1½ |
| Interest saved by consolidation of debt | 2 |
| Famine fund | 10·89 |

All these items are happy gifts made to the Honourable Minister.

(An honourable Member: No, no). These gifts amount nearly to fifty lakhs. But for these gifts my honourable friend, the Minister, would not have been able to show a surplus budget. (Interruption). Does not my honourable friend agree? Well then, let us see. What is the subvention about the Baluch tribes, may I ask? Is that a gift or not? (An honourable member: I referred to the Famine Relief Fund.) My honourable friend then does not follow my argument at all. I have already described that, as a raid. My point is that money ear-marked for a particular purpose is brought under revenue in order to increase the surplus. (Interruption). It may be a gift made out of a particular fund; it may be a gift made by the Central Government. But what is the actual position?

Mr. Speaker: The honourable member need not mind interruptions.

Diwan Chamm Lall: Mr. Speaker, I am quite happy when I am interrupted. Now, let me look at the budget for the beneficent departments. The budget provides 20 lakhs for these departments. Let us examine the three departments—education, industry and public health. I have already referred to education and I shall therefore not refer to it again. Let me turn to public health. I find that a sum of 5 lakhs is provided for rural and urban sanitation. In a civilised country five lakhs for sanitation would not be sufficient even to sanitarise, if I may use that expression, one long street. The Punjab is one huge smelling drain and it is the duty of my honourable friend opposite to bring in a comprehensive scheme in order to assure the public health of this province. Yet only five lakhs have been provided for this purpose and they sing a hundred songs of praise of themselves for having done this. Let us look at industry, the budget provides Rs. 2,06,000. Of this sum Rs. 1,70,000 goes for an industrial exhibition in Lahore. What do the people in the Punjab want? Bread! Instead they are given a circus. The Romans were wiser in their time, they provided both circuses and bread.

The great problems that concern the Punjab are the civilisation of the province, the development of literacy and the extinction of the heavy taxation of the peasantry, the question of the fixation of minimum prices of wheat and of cotton, the question of unemployment,—problems on which depend the prosperity of this province. Those are the important problems and I have searched in vain in the pages of the budget for one word of comfort for the average masses of this province. There is not a single word of comfort for the peasantry or the working classes of this province. My honourable friend over there in his speech referred to the terrible burden of land revenue taxation upon the peasantry. But when I look at the budget I find that he has not provided anything in a large measure which would bring relief to the peasantry of this province. Only last year my honourable friend who to-day says, we must face hard facts of life like practical men and not go in for any catastrophical change, only last year he said while occupying these benches—he did not take this very moderate and composed view of the general financial position of the province then “we feel that we are heading for economic misery if not collapse.” He also said—

“The Honourable Minister for Agriculture said that when in a year or two hence we have reconstituted our Councils under the reforms it will be open to us to float a development loan and launch real enterprise to reconstruct the province as we would like. But why not do so here and to-day? That is the question. Who has forbidden him and his colleagues on the Government benches to-day to think out a proper economic plan for us here and now, to work it out and to put into practice at once”—(Punjab Debates, Volume XXVI, page 237).

This was the honourable member's opinion last year when he was sitting on the Opposition benches. I say if he has got the ability, if he has got the foresight to take this step of providing the province with a five year economic plan in order to make the people of this province civilised and raise them to a level worthy of the comity of civilised nations then he has done his duty. He can do so if he had the will. The budget would then be a people's budget ; instead it is a budget of the dead hand.

I will not go into other matters of detail at the present moment, because you, Mr. Speaker, have limited my time. but I would like to refer to the possibility of converting the loans existing at present at lower rates. There are several ways and means of improving the position. But these are matters which I hope to discuss when the budget comes up for detailed discussion. But what I want to point out is that large scale planning which is essential for the Punjab is missing in the budget speech which one of my honourable friends described the other day as merely an essay or an effort in accountancy or book-keeping. It lacks the wide vision which alone can make the budget of the Punjab acceptable to the people of the Punjab. I shall not be more specific. The people of the Punjab would like that measures should be adopted for the purpose of avoiding this heavy burden of taxation upon the peasantry of the province. They would like measures to be adopted for providing a minimum price for the staple commodities which affect the livelihood of 90 per cent. of the population of this province. I want to ask all those honourable members whether they would not subscribe to the policy that would make the Punjab a really civilised province and I would ask them not to be satisfied with the budget that has been presented, which budget is a load upon the peasantry and the people of the province, because it holds out no hope, no solace whatsoever to the burdened, the hungry and the starved in the years to come. (Cheers).

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh (Western Towns, Sikh, Urban) : Any criticism of the budget so ably prepared by my honourable friend, the Finance Minister, one of the ablest economists in India and by the Finance Secretary, one of the shining stars of the steel frame service, must be made only after full recognition of the facts that the Government came into power only two and a half months ago and that hardly a month was there to prepare the massive details of income and expenditure and make out a policy. Besides, the Government was faced with a natural calamity of the greatest magnitude, because the damage done by the hailstorms was very extensive and sweeping. Further the Ministry had to budget only for eight months, the budget for one-third of the year having already been sanctioned by His Excellency the Governor. Lastly, this Government has not been fortunate enough to receive any subvention from the Government of India as other Provincial Governments are, as a result of the Neimiyer award. On the other hand nearly seven lakhs of rupees out of excise revenue on account of the liquor consumed in the North-West Frontier and Delhi, have been lost to this province and no compensation has been coming forward from the Government of India. I think the whole House would like to place on record its emphatic protest against the inequitable decision of Neimiyer award. It is a strange commentary on the past sound finances of the Punjab Government and the prospect of a stable government in the future. Some honourable members have lost sight of these difficulties. They have called this budget a slave man's budget without assigning any reason for it and without offering any constructive suggestions. Some honourable members have found no difference between this budget of the new Government and the budgets prepared previously by the bureaucratic Government. The reason given by them is that the administration remains as top-heavy as before. No retrenchment has been effected. No relief has been given to the tax-payer and sufficient amount has not been provided for the beneficent departments. I entirely agree with them that we have not got what we expected from the new Government. Probably the Government themselves were anxious to achieve more than what they have actually done in this budget. But we must not lose sight of the time factor. The Government does not possess Alladin's Lamp or a magic wand by which they can work miracles. They had hardly a month at their disposal. We have to see whether the Government have started in the right direction. The Government could not have done better than to appoint a committee of non-official members and two of the best economists of the Punjab to go into this problem of top-heavy expenditure and to find out fresh sources of revenue in order to provide more money for nation building departments and to provide relief where relief is necessary. If the Government had applied its economy chopper without a thorough investigation and had provided relief or imposed taxation without a thorough enquiry, I as a businessman might say that Government would have stood condemned. The Government has done the right thing to appoint a committee to make a thorough investigation of all these problems. One honourable member said that the Government still remains callous and stereotyped and there is no change in the mentality of the new Government and in the remissions that the Government has been pleased to give there is no marked achievement. I quite admit that the previous Government has also given remissions when remissions were necessary, but what stands out in bold contrast is the promptness and the generosity with which the remissions were recently announced. On no previous occasion were the remissions so rapidly given and on no previous occasion was the revenue remitted on a crop that was previously cut and used as has been done on this occasion in the case of fodder crop. I think the Government is entitled to our gratitude. This shows that the Government is not stereotyped or calcous but is responsive to public opinion. One honourable member and I think some other honourable members too, rightly said that the new Government should not be judged by the old standards. It is not merely by the balancing of budgets but by the rise in the standard of living and the economic prosperity of the province that we have to judge the present Government. I am entirely one with them. Every Government should have as its aim the prosperity of the masses. No Government is worth its name if it does not try to improve the economic condition of the masses. Every country in the world is trying to improve the economic condition of their people by two or three ways. My honourable friend, Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt and others, referred to the currency and exchange policy, railway freight and protection. I am in agreement with them that these are the three measures mainly relied upon by various governments in the world for improving their economic conditions; but we must realise the limitations of a provincial government. All these three policies rest with the central Government. They are the sole concern of the central Government and the provincial Government has no hand in them.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : We ought to protest.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Certainly.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : That is what I wanted.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : I am coming to that. I quite agree that no country can make any progress and no country can provide subsistence or employment to a population that is rapidly growing by agriculture alone. Every country in the world has found in the development of industries, the only means for economic reconstruction. But under a provincial government, we are handicapped by the fact that the three main measures on which other countries have relied for their progress are not within the sphere of the provincial Government. In fact even agricultural advancement is dependent upon them. One of the European Members of the Sapru committee, Mr. Gavin Jones, remarked that there are only two means of raising the price level of commodities. One, depreciation of currency and the other adjustment of railway freight. I entirely agree with him. As a matter of fact in New Zealand and Australia agricultural progress has been made and help has been given to the agriculturists since depression set in, by the depreciation of currency. New Zealand and Australia depreciated their currency by 25 per cent. and helped their agriculture. The provincial Government must enter their strong protest to the central government with a view to revising their policy in these matters. (Hear, hear). I think all provincial Governments should pull their weight together in forcing the hands of the central Government to revise their policy in the matter of railway freight, exchange, currency and protection. One honourable member from Lyallpur, perhaps under a misunderstanding or because he did not realise the meaning of the word 'protection' said that Government should protect industries. Protection or protective tariffs are the sole concern of the central Government.

Chaudhri Krihsna Gopal Dutt : It is a wrong statement. He said protection and not protective duties. It is up to the provincial Government to give protection in many ways.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : I am right. This provincial Government should do everything possible within its sphere to foster industries and agriculture. The Government has done well in providing 2 lakhs for the new Punjab Industries Act. It is a most valuable piece of legislation enacted by the last Government. With regard to the industrial exhibition the honourable member for Labour is wrong when he said that the Government is going to spend Rs. 1,27,000. On the receipt side there is an entry of Rs. 1,20,000. Only Rs. 7,000 has been provided to cover losses and I believe there will be no loss at all. But this is the most useful method of promoting industry. Anybody who has been to foreign countries knows that exhibitions are held every year, in fact every six months.

With regard to agriculture I have to make one or two suggestions. There is great scope for fruit culture and the Honourable Minister for Agriculture will take note of this fact. In California nearly 25 per cent. of the cultivated area is under gardens, whereas in the Punjab only 25 per cent. of the cultivated areas is under garden. If the canal authorities show a sympathetic attitude I think, this industry will be greatly developed. I fully realise the value of seed selection and the supply of good seed to the zamindars. I can say and Mr. Roberts will bear me out that with the improved variety of Coimbatore sugarcane and the improved variety of cotton, the additional income to the zamindar is more than the amount of revenue that he pays to the Government. With regard to irrigation expenses I think the Irrigation Department deserves our congratulations. Irrigation working expenses are less by 14 lakhs since 1935-36 and 10 lakhs since 1936-37. I wish I could similarly congratulate the Forest Department. But unfortunately receipts are Rs. 19,81,000 as against an expenditure of Rs. 20,70,000. There is scope in this department for retrenchment and economy as also in the working expenses of the Hydro-Electric Department where the expenses on establishment, and repairs, etc., amount to 28½ lakhs against an income of 33 lakhs. Of course there is room for economy.

Lastly I come to the most important point which I think should be uppermost in the minds of every well-wisher of the Punjab and to which the Honourable Premier referred the other day. If this province is to make steady progress towards economic reconstructions, communal harmony must prevail. I think mischief mongers, if they inflame communal feelings, must be severely and promptly dealt with. I may be permitted to say that by strong and prompt action recently the authorities in Lahore and Amritsar nipped the evil in the bud. In Gujrat if the authorities had taken prompt action in time, I think a good deal of suffering and loss of life would have been avoided.

[S. S. S. Ujjal Singh.]

(An honourable member : No.) (Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : Perfectly right). I say that if we are to make a steady progress we must set our face against these matters. We must resolutely make up our mind to promote good will and harmony amongst various communities and if we do so whatever shortcomings there may be in the new constitution we will at any rate be able to do some service to this province, we will at any rate after five years be able to approach our masters the electorate with this feeling of satisfaction that we tried our humble best for making the Punjab a happier and more contented province (hear, hear).

Mr. Speaker : I have got about 30 gentlemen's names who wish to speak. Therefore, I propose to reduce the duration of speeches to ten minutes. Even then only 18 or 20 members will be able to speak.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : The duration should be fixed by the House.

Mr. Speaker : I have fixed it after consulting the House informally.

Sardar Sohan Singh Jesh (Amritsar North, Sikh, Rural) (Punjabi) : A good many speeches have already been made with regard to the budget. I want to review it from the point of view of a poor peasant. The speakers who have preceded me, have gone into great details, and have brought forth many subtle points. I would like to avoid details.

From the view point of a poor peasant, Sir, the budget is very disappointing. No reduction has been made in the land-revenue. The peasants were under the impression that now that they had got representation in the legislature where they were sending their own members, they would have a say in the administration. They thought the ministers would make some improvement in the way of reducing land revenue, relieving indebtedness, and granting them the superfluous crown-lands. They have, however, done nothing of the kind.

It has been very ingeniously shown in the budget that income and expenditure are well balanced—rather there is a surplus of Rs. 1,72,000. By this device the world has been made to believe that the Punjab is very prosperous, so that the Government might get credit for this achievement and their position in the money market might improve. But I submit, Sir, that no good has been done to the poor peasantry. As a matter of fact Rs. nine crores out of the total revenue of eleven crores represent the precious life blood of peasants which is realized with a heavy hand.

The Finance Minister has told us that there have been 'larger recoveries out of suspended revenues.' That is why there is a surplus budget. We thought that arrears of land revenue would be cancelled. But in reality, these arrears of revenue are being recovered with great rigour. The peasants' belongings and houses are being attached, and they are being subjected to unspeakable indignities.

Big people, on getting ministerships, suddenly develop feelings of sympathy for the peasants. But we see no proof of this much-vaunted sympathy. Raja Narendra Nath said: "We cannot check poverty." My submission is, "If you cannot check poverty, you cannot check revolution. It is coming; it is there."

Khan Bahadur Captain Malik Muzaffar Khan: Sardar Sahib knows English. Why does he not speak in English?

Sardar Sohan Singh, Josh: I have memorised these words. We find that more revenue is charged to the poor and less to the rich. The reasons are obvious. It has been said that formerly there was white bureaucracy, now there is brown, in reality this is not the brown ministry—this is the landlord ministry whose one desire is to keep the tenant cultivators well under their thumb.

Those who now constitute the ministry are big landlords. Their interests are quite different from those of the cultivators. It has been urged upon the Government to spend more on education. This ministry, I am sure, is not prepared to spend anything on education, for education brings enlightenment. It will spend a lot on the police, so that there might be enough constables to shadow us and the Government may thus be able to crush socialism. The present ministry ardently desires or rather I should say it is actually striving to suppress these poor people so that they may not be able to shake off the chains of their bondage. So long as they are illiterate any betterment in their condition is not possible, for it is education that dispels the darkness of ignorance. This ministry can spend money on the police department; it can set apart large sums for other heads; it can make endeavours to eradicate socialism but it has miserably failed to ameliorate the condition of the masses. In fact it is this class of landlords that fans the flames of communalism. The basic principle of feudal landlordism is to spread communalism and to create feelings of hatred among the masses so that the latter may continue to hug the chains of servitude for ever. This ministry wishes the people to remain ignorant so that they may not be able to stand on their legs and be able to assert themselves and at the same time the present ministry is claiming undue credit for itself by announcing that it is out to kill the monster of communalism. But I can predict with the greatest confidence that this ministry which assumed office only a couple of months ago and under whose regime many communal riots have broken out at various places, will—

Premier: Who is responsible for these riots?

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh: Do you mean to say that the Opposition is responsible for these riots? Not in the least. We are above communalism. We are fighting for the freedom of our country. We are out to suppress communalism in the country.

An Honourable Member: Who is fostering communalism?

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: Those who want assurances for the protection of minorities.

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh: I make bold to say, that it is Sohan Singh Josh who has never shown any sign of communalism, who has always been above it. But you people are anxious only to get undue credit. In fact economic interests are responsible for the spread of communalism.

[S. Singh Singh Josh.]

Then comes the question of recruitment to services which has been given undue prominence by certain mullahs, pandas and pandits. (Interruption). We do not know what the figures 93 per cent or 56 per cent mean.

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie (Shahdara, Muhammadan, Rural): Mr Speaker, before I start speaking, I would request you to ask Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam to try to be in his seat.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava: May I bring to your notice, Sir, that the Honourable Minister for Revenue is absent from the House for the last one and a half hours while we are criticising his departments? He is not present to take note of those criticisms.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: He is, I think, here by proxy. He should have been personally present.

Premier: I think it is a matter of ordinary courtesy that honourable members if they make allegations against any other member or party should be in their seats to hear the reply to those allegations. That has been the practice of this House.

Mr. Speaker: So far as may be practicable.

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie: Sir I should like to thank some of the members of my party in the first instance who have very kindly permitted me to precede them. Next I would congratulate the Honourable Minister for Finance and his department for the excellent budget they have presented to us. This is the first budget of its nature which is presented to an autonomous Assembly in India so far. I wish, and very briefly too, to examine the main argument of my friends in the Opposition with regard to the budget. We have been told time and again that this budget is a slaves' budget, or, to quote my honourable friend Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam, "A slave-man's budget," and that it has been prepared by a slave ministry—by a brown bureaucracy and under a slave constitution. It has also been said that the budget consists of non-votable items. I know, it does, but I want to remind my friends that the non-votable items are part and parcel of the constitution which we are here to work. I want to tell my friends in the Opposition that we are hereby a vote of overwhelming majority in the Punjab who have given us a clear mandate to work this constitution for whatever it is worth (hear, hear) and serve the best interests of the province. (Hear, hear).

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar: Therefore, it ceases to be a slaveman's budget.

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie: Congress accuses us of bringing forward this slaveman's budget but they very conveniently forget that if we are working under the so-called slavish constitution, their greatest Guru, the great Mahatma Gandhi, is also flirting with this slavery.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: Is he flirting with slavery?

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie: Yes.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: He is too old to flirt.

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie : But he has young enough Chelas like my honourable friend. Mahatma Gandhi has shown his anxiety to work this constitution. He is prepared to form ministries and may I know what those ministries will be like, under this constitution—the same slavish ministries ?

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Wrecking the constitution, not working the constitution.

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie : No, Sir.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : I object to the honourable member's remarks about Mahatma Gandhi.

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie : My honourable friend from Sialkot knows perfectly well that the time and talk of wrecking the constitution is over. Now it is time that the ministries are to be taken over by the majorities returned by the provinces. These ministries working under the guidance of Mahatma Gandhi will prepare and present in the very near future before their respective Assemblies these slavish budgets prepared under the same circumstances. These non-votable items will not be excluded from those budgets.

Members from the opposite side advise the House one after the other that the budget should be thrown out. Do they forget that the great Mahatma Gandhi has declared that he will lay his life to prevent the wrecking of this constitution and consequent bitterness between his country and Great Britain? May I enquire if these gentlemen are not now unwittingly jeopardising the life of that great leader of theirs?

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt :

مان ڈالوں شیجلی :۴۴: کڈنی

Syed Afzaal Ali Hasnie : As I have just mentioned, the day is coming and is not far off when ministries will be formed in other provinces and, as I have told you, the budgets will be prepared by those ministries in the same manner as we are doing here.

Well, Sir, what I wish to say is this that we are the representatives for whom 80 per cent. of voters in the Punjab have voted and it is because of this mandate from the Electorate that we work the constitution to the benefit of our constituents. (Interruptions) I can see my honourable friends of the Congress sitting opposite claim that they represent a very small section of the country, but my honourable friend, Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam, comes from nowhere. He is here without any ticket. We have got a party and we have also got the vote of the province.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan (Attock North, Muhammadan, Rural) : As a Punjabee, and an Indian I am proud that on the occasion of the inauguration of the Provincial autonomy, the budget has for the first time been presented by an Indian Minister and prepared by an able Indian Finance Secretary, Mr. Ram Chandra. I congratulate the Honourable Finance Minister on his very able and brilliant speech. These congratulations, though somewhat belated—because I did not get my turn earlier—are nevertheless most sincere and not merely conventional, as expressed by some honourable members of the Opposition.

[K. B. Nawab Muzaffar Khan.]

As regards the budget, I can say that we could not expect miracle from the Ministry. As has already been pointed out, they have been in charge only for 3 months. We must also not forget that they had to provide half a lakh for the Assembly Secretaries which the previous Governments did not. Then provision had to be made for two election commissions costing about one lakh of rupees. Then there is provision for Public Services Commission under the Act which has cost us about a lakh and a half, or to be exact Rs. 1½ lakhs. Again the Legislative Assembly office had to be expanded and there was also an increase in provision for travelling allowance of the members—costing us 1½ lakhs. In spite of all this new expenditure the Ministry has done fairly well for beneficent departments. At a glance through the budget, you will find that a provision of one lakh has been made for the sinking of wells. It has been pointed out by some honourable members of the Opposition that nothing has been done for the poor zamindars of the Punjab. If they go through the budget, they will find that the provision of one lakh has been made in the interest of the poor zamindars. It is a very original proposal and I do hope that it will succeed. As the House is aware hitherto provisions have always been made for taccavi being granted to zamindars for the construction of wells and other improvements on land, they had to pay interest on these taccavi loans and there were many difficulties. Now for the first time Government has taken a very bold step. According to this scheme sum amounting to, say from 4 to 8 hundreds of rupees, will be advanced to poor agriculturists for the construction of wells, and for the current term of settlement they will only pay 3 per cent. interest, on the sum so advanced. Thus if at an average a well commands an area of 50 kanals, he will pay only about 2½ annas per kanal. I think this measure will be most welcome particularly when we see that the principal will never be repaid. It would be only about 2 annas per kanal that the zamindar will have to pay, for the current term of the settlement. As soon as the settlement takes place again, ordinary rates of assessment will be charged and the interest would cease thence forward. My only request to the Ministry is that, if possible, they should extend this system further.

Then, Sir, about one lakh has been provided for X-ray apparatus, half-a-lakh has been provided for local bodies for improving and equipping hospitals and dispensaries. Restoration of cut on the maintenance grants for rural dispensaries is 30 thousand. A grant of 5 lakhs has been made for urban and rural sanitary works. I admit that this is not sufficient, but if you cast a glance on the last budget, you will observe that the amount was only 50 thousand and a jump from 50 thousand, considering the finances of the province, to 5 lakhs is clearly a big jump. Then there is a provision for seed supplies. This again, is for the benefit of poor and needy agriculturists and amounts to 11½ lakhs; while last year it was 7 lakhs. Then there is a provision for an industrial exhibition of 1½ lakh of rupees. The total amount of all these comes to over 20 lakhs.

Apart from this, special grants have been made to district boards for the improvement and development of roads which amount to 1½ lakhs.

There is only one other point to which I would like to draw the attention of the Honourable Finance Minister. If you look at page 5 of the memorandum you will find that, as pointed out by my honourable friend, Diwan Chaman Lall, a sum of 5½ lakhs has been taken from the Relief Fund and it has been paid towards the discharge of debt. Punjab debt amounts to about 30 crores of rupees. It is only a drop in the ocean. It is paying one rupee to a man who is due Rs. 600, that is, 1/600th. If I were a debtor and were to go to a creditor to whom I owed 600, and presented him with one rupee he would surely feel insulted and will say, "well you owe me Rs. 600 and you are paying me only one rupee." As already pointed out these 5½ lakhs is just a drop in the ocean. There is still time and I would request the Ministry to reconsider their decision. We were approached by the lady members of the House two days ago and hopes were held out to us by the Minister for Education, that the Ministry would reconsider their decision and if possible take away this sum and spend it on the education of women in the Punjab and also on the medical relief for women. I would request them to do if it is not too late already.

I am most grateful to the Punjab Government for granting about 200 squares to the literary grantees or graduates of the Punjab. At this time I should also say that we Punjabis are most grateful to Mr. Darling for the keen interest which he has taken in this movement, and his able assistants Mr. Bhanot and Khan Bahadur Fateh Din. I assure the House that the Punjab Government gave land really to the most needy and the poorest of the graduates whether they were agriculturists, statutory agriculturists or not. I am glad to find that our able Revenue Minister Sir Sunder Singh Majithia has further extended the grants on those lines (voice: Misused) No, it is the best use that could have been made of these lands. Formerly lands were given to those people who were hovering round the bungalows of the Deputy Commissioners. Now they have been granted to those people who were the poorest and the ablest of the lot and had absolutely no land (An honourable member: Question). I challenge the honourable member to go, find out the truth of it and then ask me questions.

Premier: The honourable member is referring to one solitary case. That case is being looked into.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan: If this scheme were further extended it would—though I must admit to a very small extent—solve the unemployment problem. The spread of these educated people in the province would itself mean great uplift and would be generally in the interests of the province.

Sardar Sampuran Singh (Lyallpur West, Sikh, Rural): Sir, I would have congratulated the Finance Minister and his able Finance Secretary if in place of Mr. Manohar Lal the Finance Member had been Sir Donald Boyd or there had been no reforms so far introduced in the Punjab. In those conditions I think I should have welcomed this budget and congratulated both the Finance Minister and his Secretary; but as it is I must confess with so many other friends of mine that we feel very much disappointed over this budget. I have tried to go from the beginning to the end of the budget and have consulted old budgets too and I do not find any difference between them. If hopes had not been raised in us, if we had not expected better things from an autonomous government and from an able financier like Mr. Manohar Lal, I think perhaps there would have been some satisfaction. There is none at present. The few small mercies over which they take pride only accentuate that disappointment. We have been told that 25 lakhs have been given in the form of remission to the distressed people of the Multan division because there, the crops were totally washed away by hailstorm. If they had not taken pride over that we would have thought better of them. We would have thought that they have done a sympathetic thing and did a thing which they thought the people deserved. When they come and take pride in it I feel——.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Why do you presume pride ?

Sardar Sampuran Singh : Sir, a minute ago it was stated by my honourable friend that so much money has been spent on taqavi (Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I took no credit). He wanted to give credit to the Government for that. It was their duty and they were doing their duty properly when giving taqavi. (A voice : Generosity). Please withdraw that word because that stinks. I am not prepared to take any generosity for the zamindars. Give us what is our due.

I think honourable members of this House know that taqavi is a grant for which Government charge interest and always get back that money in instalments during a certain period. Moreover, you know that on account of the present revenue policy of the Government the zamindar has lost his credit. The Government has a big Steam Roller of Land Revenue Act in their hand and realise taqavi, under its pressure, by selling the cattle and the houses of the people as is being done in so many districts to-day. You give that money with that power in your hands on interest just as the peasant takes money from an ordinary bania, which the latter has not that power to recover. Sir, the Government by saying that in this particular year they have been able to do so much by advancing 25 lakhs in the form of remission have shown callous ignorance of the condition of the Punjab. I would like them to look at their old budgets and they will find that such remissions were absolutely necessary practically every year and they will have to make such remissions next year also or the year after that (Premier : I hope not. The honourable member is speaking like Johna).

I have very little time at my disposal and cannot finish without touching another very important question, i.e., communal riots in the Punjab. We have heard a statement from the Honourable the Premier, and I would like to correct a few of the inaccuracies in that statement. I would not blame the Premier because the people who prepare these reports and submit information are the people who are to blame for these acts and are the people who are responsible for whatever has happened and naturally——.

Premier : Is the honourable member in order in trying to correct an official statement which is based on authoritative information .

Sardar Sampuran Singh : It is no point of order. Officials are not infallible. They are not Gods. They can make misstatements. If we are not here to contradict Government, what are we here for ?

Premier : Without rhyme or reason ?

At this stage the Assembly adjourned for lunch.

The Assembly re-assembled at 2 p.m. Mr. Deputy Speaker in the chair.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : I was submitting that a good deal of inaccurate information has been circulated about these incidents at Ala. It had been insinuated that a Nihang who was murdered at Ala was not on good terms with the Sikhs and Hindus of that village. That is totally wrong, as the previous litigation between him and the Muhammadan zamindars of that village will support me.

Premier : Not only between him and the Muhammadans but between him and the Hindus also.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : Before the more important riots took place. It was a mob of seven or eight hundred peasants who had actually attacked the gurdwara and these few Nihangs had opposed and fought against them with the result that this mob had run away and this case was registered by them at the police station, a complaint was lodged and letters were written to the highest authority, I mean the Commissioner of the division and other officers and cases were actually pending under section 897 of the Indian Penal Code and sections 107 and 151 of the Criminal Procedure Code. All these things happened long before this murder was committed, but the Government authorities were so slow that they did not take any precaution to safeguard the lives of the Nihangs living in that village.

Again I have to make a great protest against the conduct of a sub-inspector who went to investigate these cases. He tried to bring about a compromise between the Sikhs and the Hindus on one side and the Muslims of that village on the other, and the basis of that compromise was that the Sikhs and Hindus will give up going to that gurdwara.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : Are these details regarding the sub-inspector and the constable and head constable relevant to the general discussion of the budget ?

Mr. Deputy Speaker : I would request the honourable member to proceed to the next point.

Premier : May I draw your attention to the fact that it is not in consonance with parliamentary practice to attack an official who is not present in the House and who cannot defend himself.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : The basis of that compromise was this that the Sikhs and the Hindus will boycott that gurdwara and if they in any way—

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : I raised a point of order and you were good enough to rule that these details are not relevant.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : I am not attacking the conduct of the sub-inspector at all. Now I am stating the basis of that compromise as I am discussing this Ala incident. The basis of this compromise was that the Sikhs and Hindus will give up going to the gurdwara and if they give any help, monetary or otherwise, to these Nihangs living in that gurdwara, then each individual will be fined Rs. 50 and, without mentioning the name, a Government official was responsible for bringing about compromise on these conditions between the Hindus and Sikhs of that village on one side and Muslims on the other.

[S. Sampuran Singh.]

Mr. Deputy Speaker : The honourable member has only one more minute.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : In the end I have only one point to make because I have no time, and that is that Government is not taking any action to stop these activities. They are encouraging people to continue this kind of tyranny of minority communities in the districts where they live in very small numbers and its effect is only to demoralise the minority communities in the Punjab.

Mr. Deputy Speaker : The honourable member's time is over.

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani (North Muzaffargarh, Muhammadan, Rural), (Urdu): Mr. Speaker, as the Persian saying goes گوئی و قصه طلالی I have to tell a long story, but the time at my disposal is very short. I would, therefore, refrain from going into details and shall have to content myself with a general review of the budget and the criticism which has been offered by the Opposition. In a parliamentary system of Government the opposition has an equally important duty and responsibility as the Government. Constructive criticism by the Opposition is always welcome and goes a long way to increase the efficiency of the administration. But if the Opposition decides to indulge in destructive criticism and repudiation of every action of the Government, however wholesome, it loses its usefulness and defeats its own object. I was sorry to note that some of my honourable friends in the Opposition persistently said that we on this side of the House are not a party of the people and that our Government is a brown bureaucracy or something of that kind. I have been wondering which people my friends opposite have been talking about. If they were talking of the people of the Punjab, they have given a clear verdict in our favour by an overwhelming majority of votes at the polls, but if by the people they meant the population of some other planet, I might accept their argument. I cannot give them a better answer than by quoting a couplet by Sadi—گرنہ بوند روز شہرہ چشم . . چشمہ نقاب را چہ گنا. (loud cheers).

If the standard of true representation of the people is merely to indulge in irresponsible and loud talk, then I certainly confess that my friends have a better claim than ourselves to call themselves representatives of the people, but if the verdict of the voters is to decide the representative character of the party then we have better claims for that representation. Let me tell them very frankly that we or our Government shall not be intimidated by such irresponsible and childish gestures. If my friends persist in saying that we do not represent the people of the Punjab, I shall only say that they are talking through their Gandhi caps. Electorates in the Punjab, keeping in view our past services for the zamindars and the backward classes, have given a clear verdict in favour of the Unionist Party and its programme. The time is gone when members on the opposition benches could frighten foreign officials sitting on treasury benches by referring to the people. Now we are the voice of the people and their true representatives. We shall carry out, to the best of our ability, the mandate which we obtained from the electorate and when the time comes we shall be prepared to face the people to be judged by our achievements. I was surprised and shocked at the audacity of my honourable friend Dr. Muhammad Alam, who declared that he and not we constituted the party of the people. I am reminded of an old story, which has given our language a well-known proverb. The story says that four horsemen were coming from Delhi. A villager, who was riding a lame pony, met them on the way. He was struck by the welcome and reception, which was being accorded to them by the people. When they entered Lahore, the rider of the lame pony started shouting "I am also one of the five swars" who have come from the Imperial Capital and are the messengers of the Emperor. (Laughter) ہم بھی ہیں از دن سواروں میں۔ Our friend who is the leader and the sole member of a still-born Party is very much like the rider of the lame pony. But the rider of the lame pony, in the story was fair enough to his companions to say that all five of them were the messengers of the King. In the present case our friend has a wonderful spirit to declare that he is the only representative of the people and that the 130 men on this side of the House are not the representatives of the people. My friend obtained a platform ticket from the booking office of his constituency without telling them that he was bound for "Anand Bhawan." When he met a flying squad of the Congress travelling ticket checker, he put on a fictitious label and joined them in asking the other passengers for their tickets so that he may not be checked and dispossessed of his kit bag for the payment of penalty. (Laughter and loud cheers.) I can perhaps understand the Congress Party claiming that they have some mandate from a small minority of the electorate in the Punjab, but I cannot understand my friend with his "Hush, Hush" ticket, shouting in this hall with the Congress Party. I can assure him that when he goes out to any constituency in the Punjab the voters will first of all want to know where he lost the ticket of that poor dismantled mosque in the name of which he secured votes.

Mr. Speaker, my honourable friend, Mr. Shri Ram, remarked, why should the Government take credit for giving a relief of 25 lakhs to the hailstorm sufferers? We do not claim any credit. We have only done our duty in affording relief to the sufferers. But may I ask him and his party who claim to be the champions and well wishers of the agriculturists as to what part they played to ameliorate the sufferings of these people? (Cheers). Let me warn them that the Punjab agriculturist is too intelligent for them and will not be satisfied with mere lip-sympathy. Our zamindar is wise enough to distinguish between his friends and foes. They cannot mislead him by their loud talks—

بہر رنگے کہ خواہی جامہ می پوش — من انداز قرہ را می شناسم

(Cheers). My honourable friend, the chief whip of the Congress Party read a few extracts from a pamphlet written by Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram and wanted to know whether he still holds the views expressed in the pamphlet. Let me tell him that there is no change in the point of view of the Unionist Party with regard to this question. It was through the endeavours of Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram and the Unionist Party that we were able to secure a reduction of about a crore and 80 lakhs of rupees in the cost of administration and we still hope to enforce further economy, which may be consistent with efficiency. The appointment of a committee to explore further avenues to supplement our revenues and reduce the cost of administration and enforce retrenchment is the first step towards this direction.

Now coming to the budget, I would say that some of the honourable members have congratulated and thanked the Finance Minister while others have mercilessly criticised him. I, on my part, offer my sympathy to him as he was confronted with a much more difficult task than any of his predecessors. You will agree with me that the task of an editor is much more difficult than that of an author. Our present Finance Minister can be more correctly described as an editor and compiler of the present budget than as its author. The figures had already been collected and he was only to compile them and give them final touches, and I must say to his credit that in spite of the short time at his disposal he was able to find an additional sum of Rs. 20 lakhs for the nation building departments, after meeting an unexpected expenditure of a large sum of Rs. 25 lakhs for the relief of the hail-storm sufferers. It could not be reasonably expected that the new ministry, which have been in office for a little over 10 weeks, should have been able to master all the details of their departments and present an ideal budget. Let us wait till the next year and give the new Government a chance to study the various problems of their respective departments, and formulate improvement in our next budget. Before I resume my seat I would like to draw the attention of the Honourable Finance Minister and the Government to a few important matters. I am glad that the Government has decided to start the Haveli Project. I would in this connection request the Government that the capital required for this scheme may be raised in India. It would be improper to go to foreign markets when we can find capital in our own country. As regards the Thal Project, it was remarked in the budget speech of the Honourable Finance Minister that the Government is examining this scheme with the utmost expeditiousness consistent with its magnitude and complicated character. I do hope that this scheme will not receive the same treatment which was meted out to it at the hands of the last government. The Thal Irrigation scheme is the first irrigation project which was formulated by the Punjab Government. This scheme was prepared in 1871, but so far it has remained on paper and other irrigation projects were given precedence over it. The people of Muzaffargarh and Mianwali districts have waited enough and they are living in the hope of seeing the fruits of this project. Their patience should not be overtaxed and the Government should make an honest effort to give this scheme a practical shape, with the least possible delay. Just one word more Sir, and it is this, that we should not be content with giving larger sums to the beneficent departments. We should try to check the wastage in these departments and secure full value for our money.

Mr. Deputy Speaker : Honourable member's time is up.

Minister for Revenue (The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia) : It is my fortune to be in this House again after the lapse of something like ten years when I gave up the charge of Revenue Membership of the Punjab Government. At that time also the portfolio of Revenue, one of the most paying departments in the province came to my charge and I had to deal with it, according to the lights that have been given to me. Even under the new reforms I am called upon to take charge of the same portfolio. It is a difficult job, and a heavy task for me in my old age (An honourable member: You are not old, you are young.) I have taken up this task because my province wants my services and it is not right for me to refuse to accept the task. It was not an easy job for me to face an election, but I had to do it and as a result of that election, here I am for your service and that of my province which I feel it my privilege to do in the last years that are left to me in this life (Cheers).

It has been said that there is no advance in the province. I admit that the advance is not as much as we desire. We certainly desire more, but the time and experience before us will show whether we can take a step forward in the advance of the country. I am not lacking in enthusiasm or desire to see our province advance to the last stage, call it by whatever name you please, whether it is swaraj, purna swaraj or by whatever name it may be called. But what we have to do is to show to the world that we have taken up the responsibility and we are sure to discharge it to the best of our ability that God has given us. (Interruption.) You may take it to come from the British Parliament, but I believe it is God who ordains all this. But let me not be interrupted,

I will start with the criticisms that have been levelled against the departments in my portfolio. I start with Irrigation. I am glad to find that not much criticism has been made as regards the income and expenditure of this department. But certain suggestions have been made as regards the new projects which are going to be taken up. The first of these projects is the Haveli Project. Sanction for that has been received according to the old rules from the Government of India though according to the new rules we need not go up to the Government of India for such sanction for any project that we may put forward for execution. The project is going to cost us 536 lakhs. Out of this amount we have to meet the cost of earthwork, stones, cement and steel which we require for carrying out this project. Some members have asked me to give an assurance that out of the cost of this project everything would be taken from the country. I quite agree with that suggestion and I may inform the House, as I informed the members when they were speaking, that earthwork, stone and cement belong to the country and only as regards steel we may have to go outside the country if we cannot get it in the country itself. I can inform you Sir, and through you the House that every endeavour would be made to get the supply of steel from the country. But I may be pardoned if I have to say that under certain circumstances we have to see to the cost of the steel and if we could get the steel at better prices in India we will certainly not go outside the country to purchase it. But in case we are unable to do that, we shall have to go elsewhere to get it so as to complete the project within the means at our disposal. I have been told that in this project every sort of economy should be exercised. I may inform my friends that the project has been very carefully prepared. It has been vetted by the Irrigation Board of the Government of India on which the chief engineers of the Punjab and the chief engineers of other provinces sit. They go through the estimates very carefully and after their careful scrutiny the thing has to get through. My friend, Prof. Roberts, suggested that there should be an Inspector-General of Irrigation in this country to whom these schemes should be sent up for verification and looking into as to whether they are correct. I am thankful to my friend for the suggestion. But I think that under the present state of finance he does not mean that we should add another big expenditure at present in engaging an inspector-general of irrigation. The project at the present moment has been thoroughly vetted and I think he may rest assured that any project that is put before the House for sanction will have received the best advice that we can in the country and I may also assure him that every endeavour will be made that the thing is not a kuchha one but is a pucca one throughout. I may also inform the House that in the construction of the work the system of tender will be used. There will be no favouritism shown to anybody. But people will be asked to tender for the construction work and the lowest tender will ordinarily be accepted unless we consider that the lowest tenderer will not be able to carry out the work. In any case we will try to take the lowest tender as far as is possible. The time of construction, I may tell the House, will be between 3 and 4 years. So the expenditure that I have pointed out will be spread over three or four years. A large amount will be spent during the year when the work is in full swing and the lowest when the work is nearing completion.

Next as to the Thal project. About that we have not to go to the Government of India for sanction. We are competent to give sanction for that project. I may inform the House that at the present moment the project is being looked into very carefully by the three chief engineers of the Punjab. If later on there is any necessity to get some outside advice we will not hesitate to do so. I may inform the House through you that we have got the Irrigation Board of the Government of India on which the chief engineers of all the provinces sit together and we may if we find it desirable refer the project to them. (Interruption.) I may inform the House through you that the cost of the project would be about seven crores. It is under examination and there is no likelihood of that project being taken in hand immediately.

My friend and colleague on my left has spoken about the Bhakra Dam and I am equally anxious about the project which I started as a Revenue Member. A good deal of water has passed under the bridge since then and as yet the project has not seen its way out of the quagmire in which we find it still. The difficulty, I may point out, is that the dam where it has to be constructed happens to fall within the territory of the Raja Sahib of Bilaspur. Twenty thousand one hundred and forty-six acres belonging to the State and 7,705 acres belonging to the Punjab will come under the dam. I may inform the House that in this project 171 villages of the Bilaspur State would be submerged. Therefore, we must give the Raja Sahib suitable compensation when asking him to vacate that area for the construction of the dam before we can get this project through. In that area there are temples, there are palaces of the Raja Sahib and if we take any action without consideration, I think we may be held up by some of our friends that we are treading on unsafe grounds by interference in religious matters. His Highness the Raja Sahib of Bilaspur was offered cash compensation of 25 lakhs and an annual compensation of Rs. 8,000—renunciation of the annual nazrana that the State pays to the Government—Rs. 8,750 under remissions of land revenue on the 50 per cent. basis of the matured area.

As an alternative we also asked him to accept 5,000 acres from the Nili Bar Colony which considering the prices that we get for our lands these days means Rs. 14,76,234 besides the other facilities. Up to this time His Highness has not accepted this offer. Under the circumstances we are face to face with a difficulty which we cannot overcome being a subject between an Indian State and the Government of the Punjab. As long as my honourable friend and colleague on my left, the Honourable Chatudhri Sir Chhotu Ram is there, the House should rest assured that this project would not be allowed to be forgotten. But if unfortunately, this project does not fructify, we shall have to explore other avenues in order to meet the necessary requirements of the people of this area of Hissar and Rohtak districts. Investigations are being made just at present to store the waters of the Jumna river and to increase the supplies in the Western Jumna Canal so as to make it available for the area to be dealt with by the Bhakra Dam Project. We are also investigating the question of sinking tube-wells and my friend and colleague, the Honourable Malik Khizar Hyat was telling me that the probability is that if we want electric power to work these tube-wells they would be able to extend the Hydro-Electric Scheme. I have seen something of the work being done in the United Provinces. Sir William Stampe, the Chief Engineer of the United Provinces, is a very keen enthusiast and under his care and supervision the grid scheme is working. We deputed an engineer of the Irrigation Branch to go and get first hand knowledge of the work that is being done in that place (hear, hear) just with a view to utilize that experience in case the Raja Sahib of Bilaspur did not come to terms with us.

Some of my honourable friends have been telling us about the corruption in the Irrigation Department. Unfortunately there is some truth in that (A voice: Some truth?). There is some truth in that and I stick to that because everyone in the department is not affected by this evil. There are some black-sheep certainly in the department (laughter). One of my friends also said that several of our engineers do not know anything about remodelling of outlets. This is a statement which is far from truth. Probability is that my honourable friend is not aware of the instructions that are given by the Chief Engineer to the subordinates working in the department. If I am permitted I may read a few words from this note given to me by the Chief Engineers: "Very strict control is exercised over the execution of the remodelling scheme and if there is any corruption it is entirely due to the ignorance of the zamindars."

Sardar Sampuran Singh: That factor is always there.

Minister for Revenue: Who give and offer bribes to these people to get beyond their hug?

Sardar Partap Singh: Why not abandon the remodelling altogether?

Minister for Revenue: It is all very well to say why allow these things. Government has made a rule to meet a contingency like that and I may say that the rule provides that if five persons apply complaining against an officer who is corrupt, enquiry must be made by the Government about that officer's conduct. This is being done and will be done in future to eradicate the evil of corruption (hear, hear). (A voice: Till doom's day.)

[Minister for Revenue.]

Doom's day or to-morrow. Rome was never built in a day. We are building it and you, the friends on the Opposition benches, must help us to eradicate this evil. In this connection my old friend Mian Abdul Aziz reminded me of what we had done in the olden times. He made a complaint and we asked him to furnish evidence. He put forward the ordinary suggestion that those people should not be run in for bribery. That is a question which had to be dealt with by courts and not by me. If he had produced his evidence I would have certainly seen at that time when I was the Revenue Member that those persons who gave evidence against corrupt officers were not molested or taken to task. Beyond that I could not go. I thank him for reminding me of it. I thought it had been buried long ago, but he has exhumed it.

Mian Abdul Aziz : Would you be able to do it now ?

Minister for Revenue : I can assure the honourable members that if under the new rules, as I have just stated, any complaint is made against any officer and it is substantiated, certainly action will be taken, but you will not like me to condemn a man on hearsay. I will take the severest action possible and make an example of him to show that we do not want corruption in our department. (Mian Abdul Aziz : Thank you.)

I do not think I need say anything as regards Forests. Expenditure is more and income is less. I admit it is so. But Forests are not only meant for earning money they are meant for other purposes in helping rainfall and saving land from erosion and we should not consider it as a department which is meant for making money and nothing else.

(At this stage Mr. Speaker took the chair.)

Now I come to the most important question of land revenue. I am not behind any man in this province in feeling the necessity of doing our utmost for our poor zamindar brethren (hear, hear). (Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Platitudes.) May be platitudes. Yours may also be platitudes. I have in the two or three months of the life of this Government had occasions to travel and see with my own eyes the damage done to the crops by hailstorm. Where is the man with a heart who would not feel this tragedy! (Hear, hear). Some of my friends opposite told me that they would like to accompany me on these tours. But when the time came I found that they were nowhere to be found. I am sorry for their absence but all the same it was my duty to see things for myself and I have done it as my duty and nothing more. I hope that I will not be found wanting when an occasion arises for me to perform my duty. If God gives me strength I can assure this House that I will do my level best. Whatever amount of relief we have given we have not given as a gift, though there is a certain amount given by way of gift, i.e., the amount that we gave out of the Famine Relief Fund. That is a gift pure and simple, but the other part was their due and we find that it was necessary to give this relief and we did it. I may have to leave many things unsaid because the time at my disposal is very short. But my honourable friend said that the old land revenue policy has no sanctity behind it. I may just tell him that we cannot say this light-heartedly and throw away our old system. The Land

Revenue Amendment Act was passed in 1923 and if any further new amendments are required, I can assure the honourable members that I will be there to help them. If any amendments are proposed that are likely to help the people of the province, I will help them to carry them through.

Sardar Partap Singh : It will take forty years.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : We shall help you provided you do not appoint an official committee.

Minister for Revenue : I must congratulate my honourable friend opposite, Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt, for the very eloquent speech he delivered in this House and in the very fine way he put his theories, but I am sorry to find that he has not even studied the Land Revenue Act and the rules under which the assessment is made.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Mr. Speaker, on a point of explanation. The Honourable Minister of Revenue has referred to me and said that I have not studied the Land Revenue Act and the rules under which the assessment has been made. May I state for the information of this House that the Honourable Minister of Revenue himself did not know what was the revenue last year and previous to that and he was enquiring this fact from me the other day ?

Mr. Speaker : This sort of criticism is unfair.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : But this is an important question.

Mr. Speaker : That is an allegation and not a personal explanation.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Will you allow the Honourable Minister to level a charge against me on the floor of this House that I have not read the Land Revenue Act ?

Mr. Speaker : Order, order.

Minister for Revenue : I hope my honourable friend will not get angry with me. I am after all an old man. He said that it is not equitable. I may tell my friend that in assessing land revenue there is square to square inspection by the Settlement Officer.

Sardar Partap Singh : It is the method of assessment that we are against. We are not against square to square inspection.

Minister for Revenue : The Settlement Officer can go above and below 25 per cent. for any estate in the assessment circle and he frequently does so.

Mr. Speaker : The Honourable Member's time is up.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava (Lahore City, General, Urban) : I have been thinking about the question whether I should follow the convention of congratulating the Honourable Finance Minister on the budget he has presented to this House. Had I opened the debate and had I spoken on the very first day, perhaps I might have congratulated him. Though even now I congratulate him for the lucid expression and for the labour he has put in preparing these big books, yet taking into consideration the apology that has been offered by the members of the Government—not by the Ministers, but by those honourable members of this House who have spoken in his favour—that the time at the disposal of the Honourable Finance Minister was very little and therefore he could not produce a better budget and nobody in his place would have been able to do better because the time was so very short, I do not know whether in face of all these, my congratulations would mean anything. However, I must congratulate him for his lucid expression, and for the ability and labour which he has put in preparing these books. On the very first day that the budget was presented to us, I was asked to express my opinion and I had said that as far as the budget goes if we considered it from the point of view of carrying out any programme of reforms in this province, there was none, but as far as the book-keeping was concerned it was a very good specimen of book-keeping. And I think that the Honourable Finance Minister under the present circumstances, placed as he is, could not do anything better than bring all the demands of the different Ministers-in-charge together and compile them into a book and present them to us because the policy does not lie with him. There is the bania in the village. The Finance Minister is the bania in his zamindar Government. He has acted like a bania.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan : He is Todar Mal of the Punjab.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Everybody wanted a certain sum and he enquired what income they could give him. On receipt of information as to the income he could get, he has placed all these figures together and, therefore, I am justified in saying that this budget is nothing short of book-keeping.

We can approach the budget from two points of view. One is the political side and the other is the economic side. As far as both the sides are concerned, the opposition party has been charged with two things. The first is that there is lack of co-operation. The second thing is that the responsibility for the expenditure which is being incurred for the additional police lies on the opposition party. (Voices from Government benches : Nobody said so.) I can say without contradiction that it has been pointed out that the people on this side are responsible for the communal riots in the province. I stand here to vindicate the position and honour of the opposition party. I stand here to charge the Government for all these things. (Hear, hear.) Will the Government Ministers cite any instance where co-operation was called for and it was not given? What do we find in the case of formation of committees. While the Government, if they wanted our co-operation, could have taken more members from the opposition side on the revenue and retrenchment committees, but we find that only one man was called for and that was I and I agreed to work on it. In the same way when the question of the Unemployment Committee was raised, it was only one member on this side who has been called upon to work on that committee and that member has agreed to work. These are the instances which I quote to show that where co-operation was called for it was offered by us. What do we see on the other side? Time after time it has been said that such and such is the convention in the House of Commons, but what is the convention that we find now. The budget is presented to us for criticism but we are not allowed sufficient time for criticism. More time should have been allowed to us so that we might have been able to place our point of view before the House. Whenever we stand up to criticise any action of the Government or the budget, we are told that we come here solely with the purpose of criticising the Government and that we advance only destructive criticism. They say that there is nothing constructive in us. I say that we do put constructive proposals. My friend, Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt, put constructive proposals so ably before you the other day.

We are prepared to put further constructive proposals before you, provided you are prepared to receive them and welcome them. My submission is that the Government is not prepared to listen to us or to receive any constructive criticism from our side. ("Hear, hear" from the Opposition Benches.) Well, Sir, how are we treated outside? I can say with certainty and I know it because I am personally concerned with it. It has been said that it is a national Government. It has been said that the Honourable Sirdar Sir Sikandar Hyat-Khan, our Premier, is the un-crowned king of the Punjab. But what we find is that even if he is the un-crowned king of this province, we people are being treated outside just as we were treated under the old bureaucratic rule ("Hear, hear" from the Opposition Benches and "Question" from the Treasury Benches) and not only we, but also those people, those electorates, who have sent us here and whom we say we are proud to represent. Well, Sir, I will set before you certain instances. When I leave Lahore and go to any station and I buy a ticket, the C. I. D. man comes and says, "Give me the number of your ticket and tell me where are you going?" Then if we hold meetings to ventilate the grievances of the masses, the police reaches there and stops us from doing things. ("Question," from the Treasury Benches.) Well, Sir, people may question, but they do not know the facts. I have conveyed the facts to the Honourable Premier. He can make enquiries. Nobody can say that it is wrong.

Premier : The honourable member ought to have waited.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : The Honourable Premier says that I ought to have waited. I am prepared to wait. This does not mean that what I am saying is incorrect. I am prepared to prove everything that I say. I have reports with me which I have received and there are some statements I issued to the press. Let any person come and contradict them. I am prepared to meet the consequences, if they are wrong. I know my responsibility and as a responsible man whatever I say I have reasons for it. I can prove it to the hilt. We tried to draw the attention of the Government, if I may be permitted to say so, to the abuses of the Press Act. We have invited the attention of the Government to the release of political prisoners. But what do we find? The same old reply, the same old excuse which was put forward by the old British bureaucracy and imperialism.

There is one other incident which I would mention. We have received complaints that political prisoners in certain jails are not treated well. I did not rush to the press, I did not issue a statement, I did not make enquiries; but I sought permission from the Honourable Premier to see those prisoners. What was the reply? No reply at all. So far I have not been able to see them.

Premier : Question.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I have got the letter and I can assure you that no reply had been sent.

Premier : I must make a protest against these remarks. I think that the honourable Leader of the Opposition is unfair and unjust in casting those aspersions. I wrote to him that when I go down to Lahore I would discuss the question with him. But when I went there, the honourable Leader of the Opposition was not there and had left a letter stating that he was going to Sind. On my way back again I broke my journey at Lahore to meet my honourable friend opposite, but apparently he was detained in Sind longer than he anticipated. That is the real position.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : My submission is that I have stated before you a simple fact. I do not think there is anything to discuss about it. In the United Provinces every member of the Assembly as a matter of right, is a non-official visitor of the jail in his constituency. Lahore Central Jail is the jail in my constituency which I have the honour to represent here. Had I been in the United Provinces, or the rules which are prevalent there had been prevalent here, I would have the right to go and visit the jail. I will be glad if the Honourable Premier permits me to see those political prisoners even now. I shall go and see them. I can promise that I shall send a statement to the press after I have met him and discussed the matter with him. I want all this. I do not want to create any fuss. I want to tell him that the majority party should not accuse the Opposition without knowing the facts. We have tried to co-operate, but there was no response from the Government side. In spite of the fact that the Opposition has got the right to criticise and criticise mercilessly the budget which is presented to them we are prepared to co-operate. The other side does not want our co-operation.

Well, Sir, we have heard talks here that the Unionist Party had issued a programme at the time of election and according to that programme they want to carry out reforms. Then it is said that Government had no time to consider the question of programme for these 5 years. My honourable friend Mir Maqbool Mahmood stood up and suggested that they should have issued a programme for 5 years and they should have carried out the reforms according to that programme. Well, from that I can safely conclude that so far no programme is made for carrying out reforms, as it has been conceded, as far as the present budget goes.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : On a point of personal explanation, Sir. What I said was that we want a 5 years' programme for reform and expansion in the various departments. Neither the Unionist Party nor the Congress Party nor any other party in the province have gone into the details of such programmes.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : You may have heard the speeches on the floor of this House where it has been said that the Unionist Party has done this, has done that, they have this programme and that programme. But I would ask one thing, through you, Sir, what is that party which set up 4 or 5 candidates for one constituency and whoever was elected was owned as a member of the Unionist Party? Well, the members on this side of the House are accused of coming here without any ticket. I may say that most of them came here on the Congress ticket, and that the Congress Party ha a definite programme and a definite election manifesto. We have come here with a definite programme. We are not like those who have no programme.

An appeal was made by my honourable friend, Begum Shah Nawaz, that we should not try to wreck the constitution. (The Premier : You cannot.) Time will show. It has been said by my friend Mr. Afzaal Ali Hasnie that Mahatma Gandhi wants to work out this constitution and wants that the Congress party should accept offices in other provinces. Well, Sir, time was not given to us for the consideration of the memorable speech made by the honourable Premier, otherwise we might have shown that it is not Mahatma Gandhi. (The Premier ; Time was offered to my honourable friend.) (Interruptions.)

Mr. Speaker : A personal explanation may be made immediately, if the member, who is speaking gives way and resumes his seat. If he does not resume his seat, then the gentleman, who wants to give personal explanation, should wait till the speaker has finished his speech.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Sir, I wanted to discuss the point whether Mahatma Gandhi and the Congress were justified in not accepting office or the opinion of the honourable Premier was correct. Well, Sir, through the press we have tried to show that the people who have been elected by a majority in other provinces are quite satisfied with the position which the Congress has taken in those provinces. (The Premier : Question.) I think it does not lie in the mouth of the honourable the Premier to speak against the majority parties in other provinces. (The Premier : I have not done so.) What the Congress wanted was only this : we have got that power which we acquired by the majority gained in the elections. We want to snatch more power. We want to get as much power as we can within the constitution. Therefore, we do not accept Ministries. I do not know why people in this province are against this matter of acquiring more power. Do you not want more power? Are they satisfied with the power which they have got? If they do not want to acquire more power, I say it is unfair to the electorate, it is unfair to the House at large. We find it said that it was a national government. We find there is no change, no difference between the old and the new. Where is the programme? It is said Rome was not built in a day. I know Rome was not built in a day, Lahore was not built in a day. We may not get swaraj in a day. We shall get it when we have made sacrifices and have fought with the bureaucracy and imperialism and not by yielding to temptation of imperialism. It has been said that there has been no interference by the Governor in the working of the present Cabinet. May I ask one question and that is this : do the Ministers of the Cabinet not wait every day by turns and consult higher authorities? (Voices from Treasury Benches : No.) I am glad to know that (hear, hear). A statement was published in the press that the Cabinet was presided over not by the Honourable the Premier but by His Excellency the Governor and that every meeting of the Cabinet was presided over by His Excellency the Governor. His Excellency is within his rights to do so. I have not got the least right to criticise him but I can demand on the floor of this House as a member of this House that our Cabinet, i.e., the Cabinet of this province should not yield to these things. His Excellency the Viceroy has been pleased to say that the rights of the Ministers are mandatory. They should not yield to His Excellency the Governor. I have been told, I do not know how far it is correct, that even in the matter of appointment of an officer, though the Minister in charge holds a different opinion yet the man whom the the Governor chooses is appointed.

Premier : My honourable friend the Leader of the Opposition should not make allegations of which he is not sure. I submit that it is unfair to himself, to this House and the public outside because his speech will naturally receive prominence coming as it does from a responsible person, the Leader of the Opposition.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I have already submitted that as far as^s my knowledge goes and the information I have got, I have no reason to disbelieve unless it is contradicted by the Premier. (The Premier : It is.) Now that the honourable Premier contradicts it I am glad to know it. I shall be very glad if I find that in future the Cabinet acts as a responsible Cabinet. Their powers are mandatory and they should not yield to any person however big or august he may be. It is said that Cabinet will take care of itself. I say no. It is our right also to demand that they do not give up their rights.

Mr. Speaker : May I request the honourable member to wind up ?

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Sir, I have to say a few words on the economic side of the question. The Finance Minister admits that it is not a surplus budget: it is a deficit budget. Though several honourable members have congratulated him on the basis of the budget being a surplus one he admits that it is a deficit budget. He said in his speech that it is a deficit budget. If I may be permitted to quote, he says :—

This small surplus is liable to disappear because in the present estimates of expenditure no provision is made for the two Committees one on 'Resources and Retrenchment' and the other on 'Unemployment' which the present Government announced on taking office that it was its intention to constitute. Nor was it possible in the estimates to make adequate provision for the salary and allowances of the honourable members of the Assembly as the report of the Committee appointed to determine these was made only a few days ago, and has not been yet considered by this House.

Again he says: "We should not be afraid of a deficit budget." I am quite in agreement with him. If you want some money to carry out our projects, it is not necessary that we should find out capital out of our revenue only. We may have extraordinary receipts. We may sell the land which is lying fallow or which is not being used. Earn something, treat it as extraordinary receipt and spend in capital outlay as a productive measure.

Sir, now I have to say a few words about two things. One is that much has been said about remission of 25 lakhs and much has been said about 20 lakhs given to the beneficent departments. I am one of those who would not be satisfied with remission of even one crore. The demand for the assessment is so large and the method of assessment is so bad that it requires re-orientation. We must change the system of assessment so that there will be no occasion for remission. Remission has been made, it is said, due to a hail-storm, and remissions have been made in the past. Looking to the circumstances prevailing in the province, my submission is that this system of assessment ought to be changed. We want a new method of assessment.

The proportion should not be one-fourth. It should be less ; all the charges that the peasant has to incur in sowing, reaping, etc., should be deducted when assessment is being made. It is not done now.

We are not satisfied with any remission. That means that the Minister can show favours and favour leads to favouritism. We do not want favouritism in any district. Every peasant should be assessed on a graduated scale and on a certain definite system. It should not depend upon the will of the Minister. That is what we want.

The other thing is retrenchment in services. What do we find ? There are 80 big officers. Out of these 80, the service is manned by 25 foreigners and 5 Indians, and we are told that in no time there will be 29 Britishers out of 80 and there will be only one Indian amongst the big officers of this province. We are opposed to it. We do not want it. We want that our province should be ruled by the Punjabis or Indians and not by outsiders. We may not be able to supply such able people but we have got the right to even misrule our country because we are the masters of this country. We do not want slavery.

I have to make just one more observation and that is about the Haveli Project. I would like the Cabinet to keep two things in view. One is that the contract for this Haveli Project is not given to a European firm ; it should be given to an Indian firm. The second thing is that the material which is to be used should be Indian and it should be produced in this province, so that we may be able to supply some work for the unemployed of this province.

Premier (The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan) : Mr. Speaker, I had no intention of making a lengthy speech this afternoon because general discussion on the budget is properly the subject of my honourable colleague the Finance Minister. It is for him to wind up the debate after the three days' discussion. However, I venture to say a few words in reply to the remarks which my honourable friend the Leader of the Opposition has thought fit to make on the floor of this House today ; and I must confess that they came to me as a disagreeable surprise.

He tried to pillory the Government for rejecting the hand of co-operation offered by the Opposition, he has tried to detail that co-operation which he is prepared to give us. And what is that co-operation ? That co-operation according to him is that he should have been allowed to see the political prisoners in the Lahore Central Jail and then, issue a statement to the Press in order to castigate Government. That is the kind of co-operation which he is prepared to offer us. (Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I have not done so.) I am sorry to say that the honourable the Leader of the Opposition has thought fit to charge me of a delinquency, which if true would have been an act of gross discourtesy on my part. He has accused me of not answering a letter of request from him. He did write to me and in reply I told him that I would be coming to Lahore and would discuss with him, not only this matter but several other matters, and that I would take the earliest opportunity of discussing them. As I have explained, when I arrived there he had gone to Sind and had left a message to that effect. In that message I was told that he would be back by the time I passed through Lahore on my return journey from Rawalpindi to Simla. I broke my journey at Lahore but unfortunately—. (A voice: That was on account of the Congress candidate Mian Abdul Aziz.) That question had been settled before I went to Rawalpindi. On my arrival I found that my honourable friend the Leader of the Opposition had still not arrived; apparently he had been detained in Sind. I wanted to discuss several matters with him, one of them was the enquiry which he undertook some time ago, on behalf of the Congress in one of the villages in the Lahore district. I had intended to take advantage of my visit to Lahore to discuss with him that matter along with several other matters, but I did not get an opportunity of doing so, perhaps, exigencies of work elsewhere did not allow him to keep his engagement. In the circumstances it is a matter for regret that he should have thought fit to pillory me when he was himself responsible for not keeping the appointment. Now let me describe the kind of co-operation which we have hitherto received from my honourable friends opposite. Let me give you one or two instances. There was a gang of burglars in the Lahore district. The police got scent of it and started an investigation some months ago. The lambardars of this particular village were harbouring or were responsible for harbouring this gang of burglars. One of the lambardars who was implicated in the case finding himself in trouble hit upon the plan of enlisting congress support to confuse the real issues. Nearly a month after the investigation by the police made in connection with the burglaries committed by this gang this lambardar went to the local Congress candidate who had been defeated in the last elections and asked him to solicit the good offices of the Congress Leader to help him out of his difficulties by thwarting the police and hampering the administration of justice. And what did that gentleman do? He went straight to Lahore, saw the honourable the Leader of the Opposition and some other prominent office bearers of congress and tried to persuade them to go with him to that village. My information is that my honourable friend the Leader of the Opposition at first demurred to accept the responsibility of undertaking an inquiry, but he was eventually prevailed upon by his friends, and I regret to say that in a moment of weakness he gave way. The incident was several weeks old when he and his friends arrived at the village to hold an inquiry. Meanwhile those clever people who were responsible for persuading these gentlemen to go there had set the stage for a theatrical performance. The arrangements included a scene in one of the dwellings where an old man was lying on a charpai inside the house. The Honourable the Leader of the Opposition was taken to the house and a little girl came out crying: "You are police men, why have you come here? You will beat us again; we have nothing to tell you". This act had been pre-arranged to produce a dramatic effect. The honourable members naturally not being conversant with the methods and guiles of these people, seem to have been completely taken in. They held an inquiry and my honourable friend on his return immediately rushed to the Press and made a sensational statement which appeared in bold head lines the next day.

Since my honourable friend has thought fit to refer to private correspondence which passed between him and me and which as a matter of ordinary courtesy he should not have done without consulting me—I trust he will forgive me if I refer to an official letter which he wrote to the Superintendent of Police when he took upon himself the task of holding the inquiry to which I have referred. In that letter he said that he was going to hold an inquiry and that if the Superintendent of Police had anything to say or wanted to place the Government side of the case he should present himself before the Inquiry Committee on the date and time specified. This is the kind of co-operation which the honourable members opposite are prepared to offer to Government.

Similar tactics were tried during the non-co-operation movement of 1932 and the attempt to set up parallel Government met the end which such movements deserve. If my honourable friend opposite or his colleagues want to restart that movement let me warn them that it will not be countenanced for a moment so long as we on these benches are responsible for the Government of this province.

We are prepared to help them and to seek their help, but we cannot possibly allow them to interfere in the executive functions of the Government. It is not for them or for that matter for anybody else, but for the Government of the time alone and for the permanent officials to discharge executive functions. If any other individual or body tries to interfere with or to usurp the functions of the executive government, they will do so at their own risk and will be held responsible for their actions. (Honourable members: Thanks.)

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava: Shall I be permitted to offer an explanation?

Mr. Speaker: At the end.

Premier: Another honourable member opposite who speaks in Urdu waxed eloquent and said—

قی حکومت سے بلا فرق پز کیا ہے۔ زمیندار بدستور ہو کے مر رہے ہیں۔

and repeated other similar catch phrases which seem to be his stock in trade. He poses as the greatest friend of the zamindars. I am sure that if I ask him, on the floor of this House, what is zaid rabi he will not be able to answer the question. If I were to ask him to let us know the difference between jowar and chari I am almost certain he will not be able to do so.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: Is it in order for the Honourable Premier to be personal?

Mr. Speaker: I would request the Honourable Premier not to be personal.

Premier: I was merely stressing the point that the honourable member opposite who could not distinguish between two crops could know nothing about agriculture. I think there are several members on those benches who, if I ask them to distinguish between barley and oats, will not be able to give the correct answer. Yet they pose as friends of the zamindars and try to make the world believe that the interests of the zamindars are nearer their hearts than even the honourable members on this side, who are born zamindars, who have worked as zamindars and most of whom belong to families who have done nothing but zamindari for generations. It is we on this side who know where the shoe pinches. It is we who can feel for the distress and privations of our kith and kin and not the honourable members opposite. (Interruption.) The honourable member is labouring under a mistaken notion. He had better shut the shop here and go to the neighbouring province of U. P. There he will find better scope. In the Punjab there are hardly any big landlords. We are mostly peasant proprietors. (An honourable member: Do they till the soil?) Yes. (An honourable member: Themselves)? Yes, most of them.

Again the present Government which is hardly ten weeks old, has been pilloried and condemned in unqualified terms for not repealing the so-called repressive laws—I would call them preventive laws—for not releasing all political prisoners, and again for using the Press Act indiscriminately. With regard to the Press Act an adjournment motion was moved in this House only two days ago. Uncharitable motives were attributed to Government. I explained then that it was not on any personal ground that action was taken against that particular paper.

Mr. Speaker: No reference should be made to the proceedings of the current session.

Premier: Very well, Sir, I am merely trying to answer the point which the other side tried to make. One of the honourable members opposite referred to the Press Act and, with your permission, I should like to answer him. I was pained to find that the Opposition should have selected that particular newspaper for their sympathy. I hope that that paper is not going to be the urdu official organ of the party opposite, because, if it is so, I must confess that we will have to revise our opinion about my honourable friends opposite. That paper has been using scurrilous language, it is immaterial whether that abuse was levelled against me or anybody else.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: It is nobody's official organ. As a matter of fact we condemn the paper.

Premier: I am glad the honourable member repudiates it.

An honourable member: The editor of that paper was your official candidate.

Premier: No, he was not. Then Sir, the Government has been criticised with regard to their policy about political prisoners. So far as martial law prisoners are concerned, they have all been released. There is one prisoner of the Lahore Conspiracy Case. His case is being examined. With regard to people who have been restricted under the Criminal Law Amendment Act, I have already assured this House that their cases are carefully examined periodically. They are scrutinised every month.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: How many cases are examined every month?

Premier: All cases are examined every month with a view to see whether they can be released without detriment to public safety. (Interruption.) We have not reimposed restrictions in the case of several of them and another seven or eight are due to be released within the next few weeks. (An honourable member: What about Sardar Teja Singh?) I am coming to that. These cases are examined every month with a view to removing restrictions against those who are no longer considered to be a danger to public peace and tranquillity. As regards Sardar Teja Singh, I very briefly explained the other day that Government unfortunately cannot see its way to release him at present for the simple reason that it would not be in the public interest ; and we cannot jeopardise the peace and tranquility of the province. (An honourable member : It is not a simple reason.) Let me take the House in my confidence. I warned one of my honourable friends opposite, before even Sardar Teja Singh was adopted as a candidate, that they should not select him, because it would not be possible for me to release him knowing as I did at the time his past record. (An honourable member : Then produce him before a court of law.) The honourable member opposite is unnecessarily impatient. You are aware that the Honourable Leader of the Opposition wrote to me with regard to two other gentlemen who have been elected. I had not the slightest hesitation in releasing them, so that they could attend the sessions of the Assembly. There would be ample opportunity for discussing the particular case of Sardar Teja Singh later, in the Session when we come to that particular demand for grant. I would, therefore, reserve my remarks on his case for that occasion because the time at my disposal is short.

Sir, very spacious conjectures and irresponsible remarks have been made about the procedure in the Cabinet meetings, and in regard to the manner in which the present Government is conducting itself. I am not aware what is the source of information of my honourable friend opposite and who informs him of the deliberations in the Cabinet meetings, because he cannot but be aware that the proceedings of the Cabinet are secret not only here but in every country. In Great Britain they go to the extent that when one government goes out of office all cabinet papers are sealed and kept in safe custody so that even their successors have not access to them. I am surprised that my honourable friend should have been taken in by his informant. Let me assure the House that the proceedings of the Cabinet are confidential and must continue to be secret in the interests of public administration. Sir, again, it has been said, that this Cabinet is not a popular Cabinet, that it is not a national Cabinet, because the Governor presides over its meetings. A question or two have also been tabled on the subject. Why should we object to the Governor presiding over meetings? We have nothing to hide from the Governor. We have nothing to fear from the Governor. I have to carry out my programme and if the Governor tries to stand in my way it will be for me to see that we do not allow him to stand in our way. (Hear, hear and applause.) But, I am not surprised at the insinuations—(Interruption)—my honourable friends opposite are restive; I see that the thrusts are going home. But I was saying that I am not suffering from that inferiority complex from which my honourable friends opposite seem to be suffering. (An honourable member : Certainly not); then why do they insist that we should hide ourselves behind purdah and not see the Governor. The Governor in this province, I am glad to say, has been extremely helpful to my colleagues and myself (Hear, hear). His advice is valuable. Not only is his vast administrative experience which is greater than any of my colleagues or I have got, but his knowledge of rules and regulations are a valuable asset to the Cabinet in its work.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : So, it is not the Ministers' advice but the Governor's advice ?

Premier : Let me assure you, Sir, that every single decision on matters of policy ; and every single administrative act is the act of the Ministry or of an individual Minister. Let me inform this House that there has not been a single case in which the advice of the Ministers has not been accepted as a matter of course by the Governor.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dut : We are helpless ; we do not know.

Premier : The honourable member naturally is trying to judge others by his own standards.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Certainly we accept your statement. Our only point is that the advice comes from the Governor and not from you.

Premier : It does not. The honourable member can afford to be frivolous on an important constitutional question, but I am sure the House will not welcome his ill-tuned hilarity.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I am quite serious.

Premier : As if the honourable member can ever be serious. I was informing the House that there has not been a single occasion when my advice or the advice of my colleagues has been ignored or not accepted by His Excellency the Governor. There has not been a single occasion when His Excellency the Governor has interfered either in the sphere of his special responsibility or in any other sphere. That is the position. And I trust that this will once for all set at rest any doubts, if there is any genuine doubt, because I suspect that these questions may have been actuated ostensibly to seek information, but in reality to embarrass the Government. I do not grudge them their efforts. It is all in the game, and I am prepared to take them and meet them in a sporting spirit. But let me assure the House once again that there is nothing in the bogey raised by them. They need not worry about us. I have assured them before and I assure them again that if in our constitutional activities, in the work we have undertaken in the interests of the province, the Governor tries to thwart us, either we will resign or he will have to withdraw his opposition.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : What about the special responsibilities? Does he consult you ?

Premier : Again they are raising the same bogey. I have definitely asserted that there has been no occasion to exercise his special powers. Let me come to another point and deal with these two points together—the point of assurances. My statement was criticised in the Press by my honourable friend the Leader of the Opposition and other friends, because I tried to cross swords with that great political body, the Congress. It has been said that the Congress has done a good deal of service to the country. I admit it, and gladly acknowledge that it has done a great deal for this country ; and nobody will grudge them the praise for the patriotic work they have done for the country. But it is not fair to deprive other people of their share of the credit. You will remember that the first instalment of reforms given to this country was not merely due to the sacrifices of the Congress men. It was mainly due to the sacrifices of those 800,000 people who shed their blood and laid their lives on the battlefields of Europe and from the banks of the Oxus to the banks of the Indus. (Interruption.)

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Most ungrateful.

Mr. Speaker : Honourable members may hear and answer afterwards.

An honourable member : You owe your position to the Congress.

Premier : It was the service and sacrifice of those people which actuated the Prime Minister of England,—Mr. Lloyd George, I think—and the British Government to send Mr. Montague out to this country to study the conditions and frame a new constitution. It was due to the sacrifice, the supreme sacrifice of my comrades at arms who laid their lives for their King and country that we are enjoying the fruit of provincial autonomy today.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Martial Law and the Rowlatt Act also.

Mr. Speaker : Please hear silently.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I only wanted to put a question and that was whether the Rowlatt Act and the Martial Law were the rewards of those services.

Premier : Since the Honourable Leader of the Opposition has raised that issue, it is necessary to somewhat amplify the other side also because he seems to have forgotten the services of his other countrymen and remembers only the services of the Congress. As for the Rowlatt Act and Martial law, if I may venture to say so, there again it was not we who were responsible for it; it might be reasonably suggested that my honourable friends opposite and their friends were very likely responsible for precipitating those measures. (Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : We accept that statement also.) My honourable friend need not squirm. A great deal has been said about assurances. I tried to explain in my statement which was decried by my honourable friends opposite as his master's voice. Motives were imputed to me, and it was suggested that I was putting forward the views expressed by Lord Zetland in the House of Lords, of His Excellency the Viceroy from the Viceregal lodge, and His Excellency the Governor from the Government House. I am sure the honourable members said these things with their tongues in their cheeks as I was doing nothing of the sort. I merely intended to vindicate the position of my party vis-a-vis the minorities, because after that provocative statement of Acharaya Kirpalani which he had the temerity to issue to the press I received several telegrams not only from my friends in this province but from outside the province that matters were going too far.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Including one from Mr. Jinnah ?

Premier : No, Sir. It was for that reason and in order to avoid any misunderstanding with regard to the attitude of the party in power, in the face of provocation from the other side, that I thought it necessary to re-assure the minorities in our own province that whatever happened we will stand by our creed, we will stand by our policy, and we will stand by our undertaking, to jealously safeguard the interests of the minorities, even more jealously than our own interests. It was for this reason that

[Premier.]

I thought it necessary to make that declaration. But now about those assurances; if I might illustrate my point, the position of the Congress is this: they say we will not enter this house so long as the fire-extinguishers are there. We say, there is explosive material in the house, why should you object to the fire-extinguishers; they are there as a matter of precaution and will not do you any harm. If there is no fire, they will not be needed. They say, no, so long as the fire extinguishers remain we will not enter the house, we are afraid that they will be used. (An honourable member: What about the fire brigade?) My fire brigade are the minorities here. They will see to it that there is no explosion. I have given them an undertaking that we will safeguard their interests and they know that these explosives will not do them any harm. Instead of asking for assurances or objecting to the fire-extinguishers I have taken additional precautions by putting up a notice, 'no smoking here'—I have got several colleagues here who do not smoke at all—and no open lights in this House.

I venture to submit that if my friends of the Congress Party had also adopted a similar policy they would have soon found that their misgivings were ill-founded or unfounded.

Mr. Speaker: I request the Honourable Premier to wind up.

Premier: I have one or two announcements to make and I will take only two or three minutes if you will permit me.

Mr. Speaker: We will have to sit after the appointed time.

Premier: Some honourable members have referred to the communal riots and trouble. I am sure, and I know, that my honourable friends opposite feel equally strongly on this matter, as strongly as I do and that they are as anxious as we are on this side to kill this demon of communalism (hear, hear); but at the same time I would be failing in my duty to this side of the House and to the House as a whole if I do not mention that there are some honourable members of this House who, I wish, would realise their responsibilities more than they do at present (hear, hear). As I said the other day, they rush to the Press and issue statements based on a one-sided version. If they would only wait for an official and authentic statement, it would be good for everyone concerned. Some honourable members have unfortunately tried to cast aspersions on officials who are not present in this House and who cannot defend themselves.

Sardar Sampuran Singh: But you are there for them.

Premier: If you would only tell me if you have any grievance, you may be sure that I would look into it, but it is no good trying to pillory officials who are not here to defend themselves on ex parte statements.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt: They are not defenceless. You are there to defend them. Do you mean to say that we can never say anything against officials?

Premier: How can we in the absence of any reliable information rebut the charges, and refute the uncalled for allegations made against them. So far as I am aware the authorities have been doing their best to cope with these unfortunate incidents; and if on enquiry it is found that any one of the officials has not done his duty properly, the House may rest assured that he will have to answer for it to the Government. Here again I would ask my honourable friends in that part of the House to assist me; they must remember that we are living in a powder magazine. Communal tension unfortunately has been in existence for several years. There is no dearth of combustible material and there is also explosive material, we should, therefore, avoid dropping lighted matches which some people have been doing.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : We will do our best to help you.

Premier : Thank you, I much appreciate my honourable friend's assurance. It has been asked, Sir, why is it that the new Ministry has not changed the heaven and the earth within the ten weeks that it has been in office? During this short period we have done our humble best. It may not be very much but I think it is fairly appreciable considering that in a few weeks we have been able to put up a budget which marks a step forward in every sphere.

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh : Running down socialism and communism?

Premier : I am afraid the honourable member is trying to provoke me, because I hold strong views on questions relating to socialism and communism. I can enumerate for his benefit several different kinds of socialistic and communistic theories. Does he want the Russian system of communism to be adopted here?

Mr. Speaker : I am afraid I must ask the Honourable Premier not to be provoked.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : There has already been irrelevant talk on both sides of this House.

Premier : I was merely trying to answer the criticism levelled against the Ministerial benches. What little we have done is before the public, and what little we could do has been done in the short space of 2½ months.

Before I sit down, I have one or two announcements to make. You will remember that on assuming office, I, on behalf of the Cabinet, announced the intention of the Punjab Government to appoint two committees, one to explore the possibility of further retrenchment and fresh sources of revenue and the other to suggest means of tackling the problem of unemployment. The personnel and terms of reference of Revenue and Retrenchment Committees have already been published, the Unemployment Committee will consist of Honourable Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram and of the following members :—

- Khan Bahadur Sardar Habibullah,
- Khan Bahadur Shaikh Nur Ilahi, I.E.S.,
- Rai Bahadur Sardar Wasakha Singh, M.L.A.,
- Diwan Chaman Lall, M.L.A.,
- Professor Gulshan Rai,
- Mr. Lewis of Dhariwal Mills.
- Maulvi Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din, M.L.A.,
- Khan Muhammad Yusuf Khan, B.A., LL. B., M.L.A.,
- Chaudhri Anant Ram, M.L.A.,
- Bhagat Hans Raj, B.A., LL.B., M.L.A.,
- Sayed Afzaal Ali Hasnie, M.L.A., and
- Shaikh Karamat Ali, B.A., LL.B., M.L.A.

[Premier.]

An I. C. S. officer will act as secretary of the committee. The terms of reference of the committee will be to advise and report on the best means of coping with the problem of unemployment. In this connection it is proposed to invite the attention of the committee to the report of the Unemployment Committee appointed by the Punjab Government in 1927 and the report of the Unemployment Committee appointed by the United Provinces Government in 1934. It will have power to record such evidence as it considers necessary for arriving at a reliable conclusion. (Hear, hear). The other announcement which I have to make is with regard to the expert committee to enquire into that vexed and difficult problem of land revenue taxation. You are aware that suggestions have been made from time to time from various sections of this House including my own party, which as a matter of fact was the first to raise this question in the old Council, that land revenue system should be assessed on the income-tax basis. Government are not in a position to give effect to this suggestion without an exhaustive inquiry into the numerous details and a critical examination of the various aspects of this complex problem and for that purpose Government have decided to appoint an expert committee of which that renowned economist who is an authority on the debt problem, Mr. Darling, will be the chairman (hear, hear). He will be assisted by an experienced revenue officer with settlement experience (Khan Bahadur Khurshaid Ahmad) and an income-tax expert as members of the committee. These three gentlemen will exhaustively and critically examine this problem and report to the Government and thereafter, if necessary, Government will ask for the appointment of a committee of the House to further consider this problem (hear, hear). These are the terms of reference of the expert committee:—

- (1) Whether a practical scheme can be devised by which the principles of income-tax assessment can be applied to the assessment of land revenue and in particular whether all or any of the following incidence of income-tax assessment are capable of adoption:—
 - (a) A minimum below which the net assets of land shall not be liable to assessment;
 - (b) A yearly estimate of net assets for every revenue year;
 - (c) A graduated scale of assessment, the rate increasing with the net assets;
 - (d) A special rate of assessment on incomes exceeding a certain sum on the analogy of the super-tax;
 - (e) Liability of the rates of assessment to vary from year to year according to legislation embodied in a Finance Bill.
- (2) Whether any other scheme can be recommended by which the land revenue system can be revised so as to give relief to the small holder. Any such scheme should provide for the difficulties created by the sub-division of holdings by inheritance, partition and other causes.
- (3) The loss to Government revenues of any scheme proposed by the committee.

These are the terms of reference of the committee, and I trust that they will be able to put forward concrete proposals which can be considered by a committee of the House later, if necessary, in order to arrive at a definite conclusion on this important and vexed question (hear, hear).

This is all I have to say. As you are looking at the clock, Sir, I will now conclude, but before I do so I seek your indulgence for half a minute to assure my honourable friends opposite that I shall always welcome co-operation from the Opposition benches, and may I hope that genuine co-operation—and not mere pretence of co-operation—will be offered. I can also assure them that so far as we on this side of the House are concerned, we will not hesitate to extend our co-operation to them. Let us then in the spirit of that co-operation and good will join hands and give of our best in the service of our province and the country and try to create a happier and prosperous Punjab (Cheers).

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : The Honourable Premier has said three things about me. I want to give my personal explanation about them. The first is that I wanted to see the political prisoners in jail and to castigate Government after seeing them. I submitted that what I wanted to do was to find out the condition of these prisoners and later inform the Premier about their condition. The second thing is about the visit to Bakloh. I was never invited to help in the investigation about the theft which was committed there.

Premier : Why should you ?

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : The Police had committed certain excesses. They had asked people to crawl on their knees. The third thing is about the Cabinet procedure. My source of information is a note in the Tribune which has not so far been contradicted by the Government.

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma (Urdu) : Sir, on a point of personal explanation. The Honourable Premier has made certain sarcastic remarks about me in his high sounding and threatening speech. His remark that I do not know the difference between rabi and kharif and chari and jowar was probably the result of a hint given to him by Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram.

Minister for Development : Absolutely not.

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : This does not mean that I am not in touch with rural areas. I am a zamindar myself and I have intimate relations with zamindars. The Honourable Premier can easily verify for himself from the C. I. D. files whether I have done anything for ameliorating the condition of the zamindars.

Mr. Speaker : Is the honourable member giving a personal explanation ?

Pandit Shri Ram Sharma : Sir, when it is said that I have no connection with the zamindars, I feel it necessary to clarify my position. Although I have been returned by an urban constituency, yet I possess first-hand knowledge of the conditions prevailing in my ilaqa, i.e., Haryana, where before and after the elections I have toured more extensively than other honourable members representing rural interests. I would also like to point out that my knowledge of the hardships, miseries and troubles of the zamindars is based upon facts and I am prepared to challenge Government in that connection.

Premier : I never said that the honourable member has not been moving about. I know he has been moving about from village to village and saying that the Ministers pocket five lakhs a year as salary. This was published in his own paper.

Mr. Speaker : Order, order. I cannot allow a dialogue to go on. I intend yet to call the following six honourable members to speak :—

- (1) Bibi Parbati Devi,
- (2) Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang,
- (3) Mian Iftikhar-ud-Din,
- (4) Khan Bahadur Captain Malik Muzaffar Khan,
- (5) M. Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din, and
- (6) Honourable the Finance Minister.

I will not give them more than ten minutes each.

Premier : May I make a brief submission, Sir. When we agreed to sit till 5 o'clock, the question was decided with the consent of the House. I think it would be unfair to the honourable members who may have made engagements on that assurance, to ask them to sit after 5 o'clock. You called upon my honourable friend Sir Gokul Chand Narang to speak, but—

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I am not going to speak.

Premier : That leaves only two honourable members who wish to speak. My friend M. Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din said that he would not take more than five or six minutes. So, the Honourable the Finance Minister can wind up the debate immediately after him.

Mian Muhammad Iftikhar-ud-Din (Kasur, Muhammdan, Rural) : I personally welcome the speech of the Leader of the House. It has clarified many matters in my mind about which I had doubts about his mental attitude towards the Indian nationalism. His speech speaks for itself and I do not think we on this side of the House need make any comment on it. It should be broadcast in the country and his reasons for reforms that we have got and his further programme of acquiring more reforms will make his position clear in the eyes of his countrymen. To return to the budget itself, I join with other members of my party in offering praise to the ability and knowledge of the Honourable Finance Minister. His knowledge of finance and his long standing reputation as an Economist, however, has placed him in a very vulnerable position open to the attacks of the Opposition. (At this stage a member crossed the line between the Chair and the honourable member who was addressing the Chair).

Mr. Speaker : Order, order. I have repeatedly ruled that no honourable member should cross the line between the Chair and the honourable member who is speaking.

Mian Muhammad Iftikhar-ud-Din : Ordinarily a budget presented in such fine words would not have invited any special criticism or comment because we on this side of the House have long been convinced that the Unionist Party has only one practical programme before them and that is to occupy Ministerial benches for the longest possible time and with least possible work. However, to turn to the budget my submission is that much more could have been done had the Unionist Party wished to do. The Honourable Finance Minister had no excuse of any lack of width of vision or the necessary knowledge. For this reason some of us on this side of the House had hoped that he would take a different line from the ordinary static politics of his party. But we have been very much disappointed in that. In spite of the confessions to the contrary we fail to find any imaginative or courageous attempt in the preparation of his budget. He may say that the paucity of funds was the cause of his failure to give relief to the poverty stricken people of this province. I think that if he were, as the Unionist Party professes itself to be, the champion of the rights of the peasantry he could have done a good deal of work by affecting a real reform in the present assessment of revenue. To start with, the Honourable Premier has pointed out, though wrongly, that it would not be possible to assess land revenue in this province on more rational lines on account of the fact that this province is a province of peasant proprietors. I beg to submit that the burden of taxation could easily be shifted on the 15 per cent. of landowners who own over 60 per cent. of the total land under cultivation in this province and the position of 85 per cent. of small landholders who own among themselves only 40 per cent. of such land could have been greatly improved. The sole interest, however, of the Unionist Party in its internal policy appears to be to safeguard the interest of the landed aristocracy as in what may be called their national activities, their attempt is to safeguard the interests of the British imperialism. ("Hear, hear" from the Opposition benches). No wonder that they—Muhammadans, Hindus and Sikhs, the landed aristocracy of this province—have come under the banner of the Unionist Party in order to enforce their programme—such indeed is the strength of economic bonds. It is a pity that the condition of this miserable country is being made worst by such ministries where various parties have united not only among themselves but even with foreign exploiters to further exploit their motherland. The only solution to my mind of the miseries of this country lies only in a drastic change, not only in our external relations, but also in our internal economic structure.

(Unfinished on account of the expiry of time).

Maulvi Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din (Sheikhupura, Muhammadan, Rural): Mr. Speaker, of all the others I should have thought that the Honourable Leader of the Opposition would appreciate the promptitude with which the Government had met the calamity in Multan, Montgomery and other places. Within a few hours of the receipt of the news, we saw highest officials of the districts making personal enquiries on the spot, and within a fortnight relief was distributed and remissions to the amount of 25 lakhs were announced to the afflicted peasants, I am told, by suspending the rules. Putting ourselves in the position of those afflicted peasants, we cannot but appreciate this act of the Government. We are grateful to them, not for having performed their duty, but for having performed it with promptitude. It is a task which any other regime might possibly have taken more than a year to perform. Thus we see, Sir, that the Honourable Finance Minister had to make up this heavy loss, and he has placed before us a well-balanced budget for which he deserves our warmest congratulations and so do his secretary and his staff, more so when we find that he has not levied any new tax, has not burdened the country with any new loan and has not even starved any beneficent department. Rather on the other hand he has devoted 20 lakhs more to the beneficent departments, which now from 290 lakhs a year comes to 310 lakhs. We find that like a wise and sound financier he has made retrenchment wherever possible. The only other retrenchment that he could have made was in the expenditure of the additional police.

My honourable friend Lala Duni Chand stated the other day that the outbreak of communal riots in the Punjab are the saddest commentary on the communal tension in the province. How can an honourable member say that the honourable the Finance Minister was not justified in retaining the expenditure on Police, etc. The Opposition asks us to throw out the budget. What are the reasons which they have advanced? I wish my honourable friend Mr. Krishna Gopal Dutt had been here whom I want to congratulate for his oratory and eloquence. But as to his arguments, I was very much disappointed. After all what is it—mere generalities. From one who had led the Opposition I would have expected a masterly survey of the budget, piercing criticism of the facts and figures, convincing proof of the fact that further retrenchment could have been made, and that there were other avenues of income which had been neglected. Analyse his speech, it comes only to this—wanton condemnation, and in the end confessing that he could not deal with the budget because the economic conjurer—the Finance Minister had entirely hoodwinked him as a stage conjurer had woodwinked him with the cards. If I may be allowed to say, this is idealism, sentimentalism and ambition to soar high without wings. Perhaps a Persian couplet would be more appropriate which says—

بیاست اے مہ تاجان سیدن آرزو دارم
برنگ آہ خود بالا پریدن آرزو دارم

My honourable friend Dr. Muhammad Alam has very frankly admitted that he had not read the budget. (Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I did not say that). He had thrown it out and yet he was in his elements in condemning it wholesale. We are thankful to him for one thing. He has given us an economic term so far unknown in the realm of economics, and that is "non-votable income." What he really meant by this we do not yet know.

Some of my honourable friends have laid great stress on freedom and liberty. I am at one with them : we cannot lay too high a stress on personal liberty and freedom in our autonomous province. But at the same time we cannot afford to forget the difference between liberty and licence. Democratic governments are not practicable unless citizens hold a high amount of virtue and intelligence. Let us keep that in our mind and let us rest assured that in this autonomous government of the Punjab individual freedom shall be the rule and state interference the exception, and that too only when a case is made out that it is productive of general advantage. One word more, Sir, before I finish. I shall appeal to my honourable friends on the other side that we are starting on a new era. However defective the constitution may be, it is a step in advance. We have to work it out. We may differ in our methods, our goal is common. Everyone of us is desirous to see the Punjab as a self-governing unit of a free and self-governing India. For that we shall have to put our heads together in evolving a national point of view. I am sorry to say that we are yet living communally. We have to hang our heads in shame when we see that we cannot enjoy our festivals but under the protection of bayonets and canons, we cannot raise our heads erect when we see that on the occasions of our festivals like Dusehra, Id and Holy we see canons posted in our towns and cities. What is it due to? It is due to communal tension and the germs of communalism. We have not yet learnt the true national point of view. It is time that we should gird up our loins and make up our minds to look at questions from a national point of view. The national point of view is potent but we have to make it still more potent.

Bibi Parbati Devi (Lahore City, General, Women), (Urdu): I wonder if you quite realise why I have come all the way from Lahore to Simla in spite of the serious inconvenience which the move has caused me. The sole reason for my coming to Simla is that I am anxious to represent faithfully to this House the views of my constituents. It is a remarkable fact that during the elections, my voters were more anxious to elect me than even myself. Now I wish to be equally faithful to the peoples of my constituency by trying to place before this august House their innermost feelings and thoughts. If I fail in this duty, I will not be able to offer any explanation of my conduct. I want particularly to find out what this new Assembly is out to do for the women of this country. I find that the sum provided for female education is too small and inadequate for the purpose. Mr. Speaker, I wish to ask through you one question from this House, namely what is the percentage of educated women in the Punjab? How many Hindu or Muslim women are educated in the truest sense of the word? If the answer to this question is in the negative, and I am sure it cannot be otherwise, then may I respectfully enquire what are the causes of this deplorable tyranny and why the natural rights of women are being neglected so hopelessly? Whenever there is an occasion for self-sacrifice, it is the woman that comes to your rescue and steers clear the ship of your political destiny and safely brings it ashore. But it gives me great pain to say that their rights are so mercilessly trampled under foot as if they do not exist. I should like to see a Zenana Primary School established in every town of the province and I would also like to see education made compulsory for the womenfolk. I want to make another suggestion and it is that in every town in the Punjab a maternity hospital should be opened. Owing to the lack of proper medical aid, a very large number of women meet death in labour cases and the motherless children do not long survive their mothers for want of adequate care and nursing. In view of this deplorable state of affairs, I would urge upon the Government the necessity of founding a maternity hospital within a radius of 20 miles all over the province. I have, sir, the fullest confidence in my Indian brethren. They are patriots one and all irrespective of the fact whether they sit on this side of the House or that side of the House. Members of both the parties in this House honour and love their motherland. Every one of them is a patriot. Every heart is throbbing with the love of liberty. Each and every one of my Indian brethren is anxious to gain full independence, the only difference being that those who fall victim to the lure of gold, ignore the call of their country. But I want to impress upon you the fact that the day is not far off when all my brethren will unite to cut as under the bonds of slavery. May that day soon dawn so that we all of us may once more be able to call ourselves free-men and free women belonging to a free country.

I take this opportunity of associating myself with the views expressed by my honourable sister Begum Rashida Latif and I greatly appreciate the valuable suggestions made by her. But I differ from her on one point very strongly, namely, her demand for reservation of 60 per cent. of seats for Muslim women in educational institutions. It is, to say the least, an unjust and uncalled for demand. Why should we reserve 60 per cent. of seats for Muslim women? She ought to have asked for equal educational facilities for all women of the country irrespective of their being Muslims, Hindus, Sikhs or Christians.

Khan Bahadur Captain Malik Muzaffar Khan (Mianwali, South-Muhammadan, Rural), (Urdu): Before I request the Government, with your permission, to be pleased to favourably consider a number of important demands in regard to my district, or reply to the arguments advanced by my honourable friends opposite, who have expressed sympathy for zamindars and have demanded reduction in land revenue, I offer my heartiest felicitations to the Honourable the Finance Minister for having presented before this House a budget prepared with the fullest co-operation of his subordinates and which bears the imprint of his great ability and unremitting labour. It is a matter of great regret that in spite of the fact that the Government have brought forward such an elaborate budget, the Opposition have named it a budget of slaves. But they are not justified in saying so as it really is not a budget of slaves. Besides a committee has been appointed for the purpose of investigating the financial condition of the Punjab and to report and devise ways and means for the advancement and prosperity of the province. In view of this fact their criticism in regard to the budget is wholly incorrect.

As a zamindar I offer my heartfelt gratitude to Government for having realized the bitter plight of the zamindars at a time when enormous damage had been done to their crops by the calamitous hailstorm and have granted them remissions to the extent of Rs. 25 lakhs. It is my firm belief that in future also, the Government will not fail to extend its helping hand to the zamindars in time of urgent necessity.

Sir, the members of the Opposition have incessantly been raising a cry for the past two days that land revenue should be reduced. It amuses me to find that these honourable members bring forward such proposals as are already the goal of our party and the Government. It is our deep-rooted conviction and firm belief that as far as it lies in our power we will do our best to help the poor zamindars, and make them prosperous. What useful purpose is served when these gentlemen simply translate in their own words what is already the aim and object of Government as well as of our party. I may assure them that zamindars cannot be placated by such tactics. I would request the honourable members opposite that if they feel so much for the zamindars, the only way in which they can show their practical sympathy for the agriculturists is that they should bring forward a Bill proposing the remission of interest amounting to Rs. 145 crores. This amount is hanging like a dead weight round the necks of zamindars inspite of the fact that the capital advanced has been paid to the salukars three times over. (Some voices : Ask the Government to do so). Or they should move a Bill for the redemption of such lands of poor zamindars, as have been mortgaged with sahukars for the last 30 or 40 years and from which the latter have recovered their debts many times over.' (Cheers and laughter.) Or my friends should introduce a measure to the effect that eminent lawyers, who, without discriminating between the paying capacity of a poor or a well-to-do zamindar, earn lakhs of rupees by charging exorbitant fees, should not charge fees beyond a certain definite limit. Had they done anything of the sort it would have convinced me of their sincerity of purpose, viz., that they have genuine sympathy for the zamindars.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member's time is up.

Khan Bahadur Captain Malik Muzaffar Khan : Sir, I have to say something about roads, etc.

Premier : The road will be constructed.

Minister for Finance (The Honourable Mr. Manohar Lal) : Sir, we have now reached the concluding stage of the general discussion of the budget. During the last three days abundant flood of criticism has poured in from friend and foe alike, from our supporters and from those opposed to us. I welcome this criticism, because I took care in my budget speech to exhibit as many points of plausible attacks as possible for honourable members to fasten on. In this massive stream of criticism one kindly personal note has been struck by almost every member, and that has been, if I may say so, an over-generous reference to me and the Department which is associated with me. For this I am grateful. Before I address myself to criticisms in general, may I take account of a complaint that was made by the Leader of the Opposition. The complaint was this that the Government did not afford enough opportunity to members and particularly members on the Opposition benches to study the budget.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : I said to criticise.

Minister for Finance : So far as criticism is concerned, under your wise direction we have had three days of general discussion as against the two days that the previous Council used to have and a very large number of honourable members have participated in the debate. I am aware that at a later stage of the general discussion for a short time you observed the plan of calling two persons from the Government side as against one on the other. But that practice prevailed only for a very short while. May I say this further, that when it comes to examining the budget in its detail, that is, when the Government approaches this Assembly for demands for grants, I am quite sure honourable members opposite will put forth all their enthusiasm and energy in criticising the programme and policy of the Government. At any rate so far as Government is concerned there has not been the least effort, there has not been the least desire, it has been farthest from their mind to cut down in any measure the scope of criticism on behalf of the members of the Opposition. (Hear, hear). If you remember the number of speeches that have been actually delivered by those who constitute the Opposition and its allied groups, the total number of honourable members that constitute those two parties is after all only about forty, one cannot contend that the number of speeches delivered on behalf of them in criticism of this budget has not been adequate—over twenty of these forty have spoken.

Now, may I turn to the criticisms of the budget, firstly, to what may be called, if I am permitted to do so, indiscriminate and sweeping criticism. It has been proclaimed roundly and stoutly that Imperialism, Capitalism and Bureaucracy are writ large on the pages of the budget; the Government which has produced this budget has been labelled as imperialist, has been branded as capitalist and has been stigmatised as bureaucratic. These are sweeping charges common in the armoury of people that refuse critically to analyse a large and important document like the budget, fashionable catch-words pressed into service by those disinclined to think. The honourable Leader of the Opposition was pleased to describe this as a book-keeping effort. I am not ashamed of it. I think if a budget fails in its accuracy as a properly kept book of the affairs of the income and the expenditure of a country or a province, it has distinctly failed in its duty to carry out what is absolutely the essential function of the budget. (Hear, hear and cheers). (An honourable member: But, if it does nothing more than that?) We shall see to that. The honourable member must exercise a little patience. Consider for one moment how this budget can be described as a capitalist effort. How can it be said to be conceived in the interests of the capitalist? Can you with the closest possible scrutiny discover within the four corners of this elaborate book of five or six hundred pages any indication that the burden which the capitalist, I shall not say suffers, but the burden which he has to bear, has by one iota in this budget been decreased? Can any one point out to me, can the socialist gentlemen who waxed so eloquent and who dealt so comprehensively in sweeping expressions, can anyone point out that the burden of taxation on the so-called capitalist class has been reduced by a single penny in this budget? I am confident that that will be found not to be a fact. Does it then direct any more of the resources of the State to the advantage of the capitalist? Can it be said that this budget shows any indication in any part of it whatsoever that any the smallest addition to the amenities and to the comforts of people who live in towns and who may be described as capitalists has been made? No, Sir. The honourable gentleman sitting opposite, Chaudhri Kartar Singh, claimed to discover in this budget what favour has been shown to the towns—Rs. 50,000 for the Minto Park at Lahore, and he was pleased in his inordinate sweeping assertions to say that this provision was meant for certain well-placed Indians and Europeans and that it was these classes that are likely to benefit by this improvement in the amenities of the town of Lahore. One has still to learn that the Minto Park is a place to which the Europeans of Lahore resort for their pleasure. It is a park that was distinctly intended for the people of the city, and the Government may well express its solicitude for the ordinary citizen of Lahore—our growing capital town. If my friends, the zamindars, or my friends opposite, choose to tell me that the Panjab Government out of its 11 crores of revenue could-not spare the paltry sum of Rs. 50,000 to improve a park that might well lead to better feelings, thanks to games and sports, among the various communities of the Punjab (hear, hear and cheers) in a town which after all represents one-fortieth of the total population of this province. I am not prepared to be thus persuaded Happily by their acclamation the House has shown its mind. And, Sir, it is not a fact that the Punjab Government in the year 1937-38 is giving Rs. 50,000 to the Minto Park. If my learned friend will study the budget, he will find that we are making a provisional provision, if I may use that term, of Rs. 10,000 to be later increased to Rs. 50,000 if it can be usefully spent and if the authorities in charge can properly employ the amount. I venture to think that in the budget if any possibly just grievance can be formulated it would be on the part of the people of the towns with regard to industries, their commerce and their trade and their communications. If any just complaint exists, it can only be on the part of the people of the towns. Further, it is an unfortunate thing to raise an imaginary cry of conflict between the town and the country. No real conflict exists, and at any rate the Punjab Government in making, after careful examination a small allowance for the town of Lahore could have no capitalist end in view.

If this charge has no foundation, can that other charge that we are imperialist be any more true? In what regard in this budget can you charge the Punjab Government of imperialism? We are not venturing forth on conquering lands outside. We have made no provisions for wars of offence or defence. (Interruption). I am well conscious of it. A moment's patience. Can it be said that because you know that under certain covenants we are under a moral and legal obligation to pay the salaries of certain officials whom we have imported from outside, from Britain, because we are to-day under an obligation to have certain number of Britishers in our service, can you on that account say that this Government has become imperialist? I, for one am not able to see it. (An honourable member: Not become, but continues to be.) We continue to stand by our promises and if anybody tells the present Government that they should disown their obligations, that they should set at nought those covenants under which certain gentlemen are serving in the province, that they should treat those covenants as mere scraps of paper, then certainly I will tell them that we here are not going to be parties to any such act. (Hear, hear). (Interruption). That is not the theme on which I am dwelling at present. If the honourable member will have patience, I will advert to it presently.

Then again, this Government is accused of being bureaucratic. I must admit, and admit frankly, that our accounts are kept by certain number of officials, high and low, working at bureaus, that is, their office tables. The factual material of our budget is compiled and put together, and most efficiently put together, if I may say so, by the officials working at their tables. If that constitutes bureaucracy, you are welcome to lay the charge at our door. But, beyond that, beyond the faithful and loyal preparation of facts and presenting them in the most correct book-keeping style as my friend opposite would call it, they are not concerned. They have nothing to do with the policy which this Government has adopted. The estimates are framed by officials, but the policy underlying them—both as to income and expenditure is that of the ministry. When I say this, I am not indulging in any general expression—I am here able to say emphatically and confidently that in directing how our new expenditure is to be, it is what Sir Sikander's ministry has decided and not any bureaucrat, high or low. (hear, hear). (An honourable member: The ministry is bureaucratic). Then, would I be wanting in respect to them if I were to say that they do not understand the meaning of the word 'bureaucratic'? We are not glued to any desks. We are in touch not only with members of this House, but we are also in touch, happily in close touch with the Punjab, with the true heart of the Punjab, and I claim that if that is so, and if we are, as the Honourable Premier explained in such detail, determined to carry out a policy of our own, who shall say that we are bureaucratic, except, of course, those who do not know what they are talking about or refuse to look facts in the face? Not only this, I can take them further, and say that while the bureaucracy must help all governments everywhere in a manner in which officials are helping in the Punjab in the accurate preparation of budgetary facts and data, it would be equally prepared to do so in the six provinces where we trust and hope the Congress will soon be able to assume office. (Hear, hear and applause). Shall it be said because there as here estimates will be prepared, as estimates must be prepared by officials, the Congress ministries shall have become bureaucratic? (An honourable member: Wait and see). I have not to wait. I am fully aware of the extreme left wing opinions in this country represented by the honourable member interrupting, and know that even if the Congress assumes office it will lose caste with these advanced politicians of the left wing. (An honourable member: They will give you a model). I certainly will welcome it.

It is futile to criticise the budget by relying on uncritical and hopelessly inapplicable labels. They cannot take the place of arguments. May I now, refer to one other sweeping mode of describing the budget? That is this. My friend opposite, my esteemed friend, Dr. Alam, I had expected otherwise from him, said that the budget is a slave budget and the ministry that composed it is a slave ministry. I am not so sure whether he said so in such categorical and clear terms but what he said implied further that this ministry is run by a slave-minded Premier. Now I must repel, repel emphatically, the charges that lay behind those wild assertions. (Hear, hear). My friend has not taken the trouble to read the budget.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam: That is wrong: I have read it.

Minister for Finance: I trust you have. He had on his own statement not read the budget, the slave budget, when he made his speech. Why should he? Has he not before wasting any such effort come to the conclusion that the budget should be rejected—spurned and disdainfully cast aside? It is all very well to say it is a slave budget. But if you apply your mind for one minute (Interruption) you will see how meaningless is the attack. It pains me to hear it so light-heartedly made. It is a matter of the deepest concern, and not one of cheap gibe. (Hear, hear and applause). But, Sir, I am not here merely to repudiate that the budget is no such thing. But the honourable member thought fit to speak of our Premier as a slave-minded person. I must repel this attack as something unworthy even of the most irresponsible back-bencher in the House. That anyone should dare to refer to our Premier in these terms ! (An honourable member : I take objection to this language.) At the head of our present Government, we have a gentleman with a heart aglow with love of country (hear, hear), an ardent patriot, a shining example of selflessness, a mind, an informed mind, well stocked with knowledge of practical politics and economics, a valiant knight, fearless in spirit and of indomitable courage, and withal humane, sagacious, kindly and amiable. Sir, if those be the marks and characteristics of slavery, may I say, I speak for myself and I venture to speak for many a gentleman in this House, we may all bear such a badge of slavery. (Hear, hear and applause). Such men are the salt of the earth. In this critical hour of India's destiny, such men alone can be of genuine service to the motherland, forging ahead fearlessly, unmindful of petty attack, undeterred by any sweeping calumny. Resolute in his difficult but noble task, Sir Sikander Hyat is not only doing incalculable service to the Punjab, but is to-day a guide and inspiration to India. (Hear, hear.) Such an one can have, if I may speak of my colleagues on this side, no slaves for his colleagues, and may I say that not only for his colleagues but as I look round for his whole party. We are not slaves ; we have no slavish mentality. We know what is good for this province. We study what is for our province's good to the best of our lights, and even thus do we determine the course of our conduct and the lines of our action. (Hear, hear.)

Sir, Mian Abdul Aziz, I am glad to see my friend there, whose love of country is such that he has secrets in his bosom for the betterment of this ailing province, but he would not impart those secrets to anyone.

Mian Abdul Aziz : I had no time.

Minister for Finance : He started with reference to many a vague long tale of 10 or 15 years ago, and he is still clinging fast to his treasures which he must keep to himself. But that is a matter which is entirely between himself and his conscience. We cannot force him to help his country. But I have one grievance against a statement which he had the temerity to make, and that statement was this, that the Government has presented to him a portentous book of 250 or 300 pages of New Expenditure and there is nothing corresponding to it on the side of New Economy. That, Sir, if I may say so, for an old stager and a previous member of our provincial legislature is a remarkable statement to make. The complaint alleged against the Government is for helping the honourable members with all the possible details regarding the proposals of new expenditure. The complaint against the Government is that it has published a heavy mass of helpful facts in a book known as New Expenditure. May I say further in this regard that I wish, I very much wish, I think we all wish, we all on this side of the House and also on the other side of the House very much wish, that this book instead of being of 250 pages only had been of 600 pages or a thousand pages and that we had many times the present money available for new expenditure. (Hear, hear.) I am sure that in no event that is a subject of any grievance on the part of any member of this House, whatever his shade of opinion may be. May I explain because this is a matter of budgetary procedure, and naturally comes very natural to me, that there can be no such thing as a book of economy. My honourable friend has only to think for a moment what such a book of economy could mean. I have indicated in my budget speech the economies that have been introduced in the scales of pay. I have also indicated Government's great desire to secure as much retrenchment after proper advice and consideration as it is possible. But putting that aside it is obvious that Government has, as I pointed out, very narrow and rigid finances. The income is more or less fixed. With that fixed income we have, I shall not call it, unduly, because it is not for the Finance Minister to indulge in epithets, we have a certain amount of fixed expenditure, fixed in the sense that part of it is non-votable and part of it is votable but fixed, because it relates to obligations which we have permanently undertaken. What remains is what is called new expenditure. Part of this new expenditure again is more or less of a character that goes on from year to year. We cannot very well turn out the stenographers that certain selected magistrates or sub-judges in the province have had for the last 15 years, and so on and so forth. It is described as new expenditure as it has to be sanctioned from year to year. It is only a small part that remains after this annually fixed year to year expenditure has been met. There is no help for the amount of really new expenditure being small. Hard facts and arithmetic are against us. I also could devise an elaborate formula how the staggering poverty of this country could be relieved, cured if certain factors could be controlled. If a Finance Member inevitably tied down to figures, were to indulge in unrestrained 'ideology'—an honourable member said there was no ideology in the budget—he would bring the province to financial insolvency in a few months. It is on this that the attention of any Government, whether it be the Government as here constituted or whether it be the Congress Government that may take office in the United Provinces and other provinces has to be concentrated. We have done this work of allocation of new expenditure with the utmost care, and that is all that we could have done. My honourable friend has no genuine grievance on this matter of new expenditure.

Now, Sir, it has been said that we have been obliged to formulate apologies for the manner in which we have produced our estimates. I am not sure that that is the best method of describing our budget, but it must be admitted that the present Punjab Government started under not particularly favourable auspices. The day before we took over, a large part of the province was stricken with a great natural calamity. On the very morrow of our having taken office there was trouble in Panipat and in the remote north-western part of the Punjab at Kot Bhai Than Singh. As if that were not enough gram blight appeared fast on the heels of other disasters, and later there were further unseasonable and heavy rains. That, Sir, I trust everybody will admit does not constitute a very favourable atmosphere in which any striking budget can be framed, and all this happened in the short period of 10 weeks by which the budget had to be placed before this House. As I pointed out to the honourable members in my budget speech the actual presentation of the budget in this House is at least some weeks removed from the date when the Government has to arrive at its decisions. It takes some time before these decisions are incorporated in the budget. You will easily realise the high pressure under which proposals are given their proper shape and finally adopted.

A hardly serious remark was made in the opening discussion that we are 'necromancing' with the figures. I am not quite clear in my mind what necromancing means, but the honourable member proceeded to explain that we are conjurers and we have been playing conjuring tricks with the figures. May I say at once that this is a statement that no Finance Minister can allow to go unchallenged; no manner of conjuring has been made with your figures. (Hear, hear.) I am not a financial conjurer. I do not know whether such jugglery can be effectively practised. I am not so foolish as to imagine that it would not be immediately detected in this argus-eyed house. But none has been attempted. Our figures are compiled so as to present the estimates in the most accurate manner, and they are elucidated in an official Memorandum to help honourable members. If I have stated certain facts in the budget speech it was distinctly to help you and to show how exactly our finances stood during the years 1935-36, 1936-37 and 1937-38. I have with the greatest possible frankness shown to the House that the year 1935-36 where the budget expected a surplus of Rs. 56,000 has unhappily ended in a deficit of two lakhs, though happily the deficit was not so great as was expected last year. I have not done any trick with the figures. I said that so far as 1936-37 was concerned we have practically a realized surplus of 23 lakhs, this has been further established by the hard facts that the surplus of Rs. 23 lakhs is to be actually used in a particular manner. For the year 1937-38 again there has been no conjuring. I was perfectly frank and emphatically explicit. The honourable members no doubt found in my speech the best argument for saying that this small surplus of Rs. 1,72,000 might easily be converted into a deficit. Had I not put the facts with pointed clarity and emphasis in my budget speech, honourable members would have been hard put to it to find that the budget was not a surplus one. But if the honourable members have read that part of my speech carefully they have forgotten to notice that while saying that the budget may well turn into a deficit budget, I have also referred to the possibility of some of our revenues showing an increase or improvement in the upward direction. Not one honourable member did me the courtesy of reading that part of my speech. The charge of giving an 'unreal complexion' to our financial position cannot be laid at our door. The present year's small surplus may turn into a deficit, but that does not represent our "normal" position. Sir, I may go further. Even thoughtful legislators suffer from the idea that there is something particularly virtuous in a surplus. I am not here to say that a surplus is not better than a deficit. That admits of no doubt, but what modern chancellors have to see is that on a series of years the budgetary situation does not show a deficit. There is no virtue in a surplus. The ideal position is an exact balance, or what alone is practicable a fair balance on a run of years.

Some observations were made regarding what I said about unbalanced budget. I said nothing in their advocacy. But may 5 P. M. I read, with your permission, a very small sentence from a recent book of a very great authority on modern finance, Professor Dalton. He says in his book called "Unbalanced Budget" "I heard it said recently that among all the governments of the world only those of India, Palestine and Isle of Man were at present balancing their budgets." That may not be exactly true. In fact there are other countries such as a few of the West Indian Colonies, Portugal, Czechoslovakia and Egypt who also report surpluses.

But these facts suggest a strong reflection and should save us from the fear that our critics would strike in our hearts. A criticism was advanced that the budget disclosed "senseless expenditure on unwanted things". Now, when an honourable member who initiates the debate on an occasion like ours, when the first budget presented by a Government, which claims to be a National Government, is criticised by those who profess that they alone are true representatives of the nation, and when a strong statement of that character is made, is it not up to the gentlemen to indicate precisely what are these unwanted things, for if there are any such dreadful things I am sure my friends on this side will tear me to pieces, nor would our Premier be spared the safe destiny. But there is nothing of the kind in the budget. No, there are many things in the budget, keenly wanted, and nothing will rejoice us more if they could be provided in a larger and more abundant measure.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Where is then the need for the Retrenchment Committee ?

Minister for Finance : It does not mean unwanted things.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : It does.

Minister for Finance : It means still further desire to provide more wanted things. The honourable member who opened the discussion referred to our land revenue policy and condemned it roundly. He said that the Opposition utterly disapproved of it and that in his opinion "age gives it no sanctity". Now that was a bold assertion to make. The proposition that "age gives no sanctity to any kind of tax" is a proposition that if we had a jury of all the economists of the world will be rejected un-animously and in the strongest possible language. There is no such thing as a faultless tax—but time robs any tax of its most objectionable features. Here in India, our whole Indian economy, I say that with a full consciousness of the meaning of every word, has been built up round the system of land revenue. For any one to say that "age has no sanctity in his view" in this regard is to ignore to disregard the whole historic basis of our public economy. That is not the argument which will meet with the acceptance of any one accustomed to relate his thoughts to facts. It was said that the system of sliding scale brings to the honourable member no comfort. It does not require much perspicacity to see that whatever be the weakness in the claims made for the plan of sliding scale, it is better than a rigid fixed system under which the land revenue is absolutely invariable. It does provide some relief with falling prices though it may not give all the relief that the agriculturists may desire. The system of land revenue is not a thing easily understood, even officials who have been trained in the matter of these problems may miss its difficult and intricate implications. The idea of net assets is not easily grasped, and much error arises because the factors in the cost of the receiver of rent are not correctly apprehended. The net assets as normally calculated are found by deducting from the rent receivable by the landlord certain costs, only a few of which are of more or less rigid character, and do not vary according to variations in prices. But the system of sliding scale fixes the upper limits of the state's demand, and while the lag in the costs of production of the agriculturists as the price of his produce falls naturally protanto works hardship its effect is apt to be exaggerated. The modifying and correcting factors are the way in which (1) net assets are calculated, (2) 'commutation price' estimated and (3) variations in prices are taken in view during any long period. Much in current criticism seems to suffer from inadequate analysis and from too rigid an attention to some of the factors and then at once to apply the mathematical machine to them. Sir, in the Punjab, we can pride ourselves on our land revenue policy. The actual settlement work is carried on under sympathetic conditions—an inheritance from the earliest days of our land revenue authorities—we are the first to place the system on a legislative basis rather than depend upon the whims of executive action, the maximum amount of state demand has been fixed at one-quarter of the net assets as compared with one-half under what is known as the Saharanpur rule (which in itself was a big advance on the previous position) and the period of settlement fixed at forty years—it used to be twenty and thirty years. To top all, now there is the sliding scale. No province in India can boast of a more satisfactory land revenue policy. Yet Government has promised to probe into the problem further and to see whether by a radical change in the whole system, by an appeal to quite other principles of taxation it is not practicable to discover modes of relief to the poor zamindars.

I must say one word in regard to what my honourable friend, Mir Maqbool Mahmood, said. He said we might have taken a view more favourable and a more generous attitude towards the beneficent departments if we had changed the direction of the surplus of Rs. 23 lakhs that is likely to arise in the year 1936-37. What we have done, as I explained in my budget speech, as regards a portion of this sum of Rs. 23 lakhs is that instead of placing it all in our ordinary balance, it is there in the balance still, it goes to reduce the debt which was due from the Hydro-Electric Scheme. Many members of this House have drawn the attention of the Government to the necessity of developing and lightening the burden on the Hydro-Electric Scheme and the step we have taken is in that direction. The other portion of it is kept where we were advised technically it must rest. If I had not put back Rs. 15 lakhs for the Hydro-Electric Scheme this year and had put only 7½ lakhs as was suggested by the honourable member there was little guarantee that I could do that at the end of 1937-38, as no surplus then on revenue account is likely.

The honourable member referred to another and a welcome idea—that of a five-year plan. Several departments are already thinking in terms of such plans—such as in the matter of our roads, and parts of our educational activity. But the difficulties of all comprehensive Government programmes are obvious. 'Finance' however, favours these plans and would press on all departments the desirability of looking ahead.

I must now refer to the New Famine Relief Fund. It was boldly asserted by some honourable members that we have made a raid on the fund in order to show a surplus. I must repudiate the suggestion. No raid was intended, none has been made. Let me in two words explain the real position. There was originally a fund built up out of revenue. Under the Devolution Rules, it was necessary to set aside out of revenues a sum of Rs. 2 lakhs annually till the fund, made up of unspent annual balances, reached the figure of Rs. 20 lakhs. Our fund stood at Rs. 20,89,000—on the introduction of reforms—and it came over to us from the Government of India who used to act as our bankers in this regard, on the 1st April, 1937. Now the question arose what we are to do with this sum of over Rs. 20 lakhs. Should the whole of it be kept for famine relief purposes? Was that the most appropriate use of that fund? The question was examined with reference to our expenditure on famine relief for the last many years. We came to the conclusion that the Famine Relief Fund need not be kept at a higher figure than ten lakhs. That being so, it would be improper husbandry of our resources, bad book-keeping and defective trusteeship to keep the fund at an unduly large figure. The fund is meant for a particular purpose and should provide for no more. In this particular year, a particularly unfortunate year, as every honourable member of this House knows, the Government further directed that a sum of Rs. 1,80,000 be spent on objects included in famine relief. I trust no one can object to it. Then remains a little over eight lakhs. The fund as I have just said and as explained in my budget speech very clearly was built up out of revenue and we were advised by a high technical authority—(Diwan Chaman Lal : Why do you not say the Accountant-General?)—yes, the Accountant-General advised us to transfer it to the revenue account. This, as I said, would have unduly swelled our year's revenue figures because of this merely technical accession to revenue and reflected itself in a wholly unreal surplus. We did not want to create or permit of any such surplus. Therefore we broke that 8 lakhs into two parts. Five and-a-half lakhs on one side goes to the reduction of debt, as advised by the Accountant-General, and strengthens the credit of the province. The other 2½ lakhs is utilised for adding to our beneficent activity—communications and sanitation. The Punjab Government did not use this for doing 'unwanted things' but to help our agriculturist brethren to the utmost extent we possibly could. The amount is in addition to what we had previously provided. Mark the words "in addition to what we had previously provided". It disturbed no budget decisions. It is an abuse of language to say that the Punjab Government has raided the Famine Relief Fund for the purpose of showing a surplus. If the Rs. 2½ lakhs had not thus been provided as an addition there would have been correspondingly less expenditure—the balance would not have been affected—no deficit would have arisen. That, Sir, is the way in which false cries are raised, indignant speeches developed, and attempts made to create the impression that something very heinous—'robbery' underhand trick or spoliation—has been committed by the Punjab Government. I am sure that everyone of us sitting here understands the essential hollowness of that accusation, and we do not consider it in any manner as in the least improper or objectionable use of this money by the Punjab Government. The honourable members have hurled their calumnies boldly, but nothing has stuck.

One honourable member opposite called upon us "without delay to raise the level of prices". I wish he could impart to governments that secret, because that is what many mighty nations have reflected over during these past years of depression without discovering the arcana. Anyhow let me tell him—without dwelling on any theoretical considerations that nothing will please the Punjab Government more than a rise in the price of our agricultural produce.

Raja Ghazanfar Ali emphasized the grave consequences of largely non-votable part of the budget on our financial autonomy. Let him remember that as years pass and our services are increasingly provincialized—to that extent—the welcome change which he desires will come about. In the meantime he must seek consolation in the fact that all the world over large parts of the budgets are fixed and non-votable. He may also be reminded of the well-established constitutional practice that voting does not mean detailed control by legislatures over expenditure, and as for criticism of Government's policy there is the amplest scope within the limits of our procedure.

Now, Sir, permit me to refer to a very important matter—pressed for time I am passing over other subjects. I am anxious to say a few words about unemployment—a subject that naturally greatly exercises our mind. As a student I have paid some attention to this imperious but difficult problem. May I say this at once that by no efforts of Government alone can this trouble of unemployment be solved. We were told and quite correctly told that about forty years ago our dependence on agriculture was about 61 per cent. of the population. We were told by one honourable member that after 10 years it increased to 66 per cent. and that the recent census discloses a still larger dependence on agriculture.

Now, will any thinker apply his mind to the matter and tell me how the Punjab Government can necessarily provide employment for these 70, 75 or 80 per cent., an ever increasing part of our population that chuses to depend on agriculture? You know that we have 11 crores of rupees of income that comes to our fisc during the year. Reflect for a while, if no single rupee or pice out of the 11 crores, were to be spent on the administration and amelioration of the people and were merely to be distributed among the people even then you cannot solve the problem of unemployment. Mere rupees will not give you the cure. If you were to remit the whole of land revenue, the whole of abiana, you shall not solve the problem of unemployment. The problem is much more deep-seated. Economists concentrate their best analytic thought on it—historians would read its riddle in the vast panorama of social history. No certain opinion has been hazarded. It is a problem of high social adjustment requiring attack from us all, along multiplex, arduous lines. It is a problem more for the social reformer, for the great leaders of people than for mere governments. I am not referring to the Government in any deprecating sense.

Government has its duty in the matter—without good government the best of the schemes must go awry. But no one who makes a scientific approach to this question would suggest that by some wonderful feat one can immediately solve this very difficult problem of unemployment. May I in this connection be permitted to refer to the opinion of a leading authority and thinker in Economics. I refer to Sir Josiah Stamp, a leading authority on fiscal matters and a writer on social science of supreme excellence. He says :

“ To-day many of the factors formerly free are relatively fixed, such as wage levels, prices, market quotas, and when an external impact at some point strikes the organism, instead of the effect being absorbed throughout the system by adjustments of all the parts, it now finds the shock added or transmitted by many of them leaving the effects to be felt most severely at the new remaining points of free movement or accommodation. Unemployment is one of these. ”

Sir, the problem is one of large social adjustments, of the proper growth of populations, of balanced national and international economy. In all this Government has its part to play but the people more.

We invite the honourable members opposite to give their helping hand in finding out what will constitute the solution of this difficult problem of unemployment. It is not wise merely to accuse Government for having done nothing. This vast and comprehensive problem touches the very foundations of our social fabric. It transcends all mere attempts at providing employment in detail at any given time.

Now, Sir, I would mention another matter. Pointed reference to it was made by Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt, and, of course, he merely voiced a common and widely-spread opinion. He said that for the economic prosperity of this province, it is necessary to secure certain changes in the policy which the Government of India is pursuing at the present time in the matter of ratio, exchange and tariffs. Now, Sir, I know, it is quite fashionable to think that all our country's ills can be settled and cured by making changes in the currency policy and the tariff scale of the country. I am aware too that with increasing productive power and comparatively shrinking markets—and under the stress of world depression—restriction and control of trade by currency manipulation and tariffs, have found much favour among large sections of people all over the world. But Economics furnish no sovereign remedies, and I am free to confess that I am not convinced that a change in our currency policy and a larger adoption of tariffs can affect fundamentally and for any great length of time our prosperity in the country. These will no doubt create a movement in the ebb and flow of the country's economic life. I do not know what the Honourable Premier would think of it, but I for one would hesitate a great deal before confidently pressing on the Government of India any firm opinions on the subject. Provincial governments as such are not particularly well qualified to express authoritative opinions and the Government of India is not without guidance, nay pressure from people whose opinions are entitled to weight. Further, it cannot be denied that during the last 20 years or so the fiscal policy of the Government of India has substantially changed and under the shelter of the discriminating protection, many industries have been built up. Many people hold that protection should not be limited, it should be largely extended. On this controversy I cannot enter here. I have not the time even if I had the capacity—and this were the occasion. Is it not further a fact that partly in consequence of that policy of discriminating protection and partly because of the general trend of economic events in this country capital here is no longer shy? Every one of us knows that capital is no longer shy. It is no longer necessary to bring capital out of its recesses to give it the stimulus of an energetic indiscriminate protection. If honourable members will refer to their daily papers, they will see how many floatations take place every month in India and how many of these companies big as they are have their capital subscribed, I think I am not wrong in saying, in the course of a few hours. What really is more important for the industrial advancement of this country apart from discriminating protection and a sound system of currency, is a determination on our part to see that the management of our companies is in proper hands and those in charge are not allowed to play fast and loose with the hard earned money of the people. That is what is essential for the proper growth of large scale industry. And Government by recent legislation, is doing all that it can in this important respect.

Sir, one word about the Police. I made some remarks in my budget speech about the recrudescence of subversive tendencies in the province. It will be borne out by members of this House that hardly had I penned these words and the ink was not yet dry when disturbances arose in this province in more than one place, Gujrat, Amritsar, and the possibility of trouble at Lahore loomed large. I claim this, I claim it not as a Finance Minister but as an ordinary citizen of this province, that it is a matter of the greatest gratification and congratulation to ourselves that a first rate disaster was averted by the firm and timely action which the Punjab Government took (hear, hear). If steps had not been taken in the towns of Lahore and Amritsar we would have had bloody scenes on which the Panjabi would have to hang his head in shame. Untold harm to property, and what is more, incalculable injury to communal amity, was bound to happen. All this was averted, thanks to the existence of police, and our Premier's determination to stop mischief almost at the source. Sir, the police force is not built up in a day. None of us wants to spend money on police. But the honourable members, be they of this part of the House or that part, must remember that the police function is one of the minimum functions of the Government, and that the police is not an institution that can develop at a day's notice. No, you must have it ready. There is no use saying that your schools, colleges, and hospitals will develop character and good will among people and there is no need for the police. We want the police for immediate action and cannot wait upon the advent of the better day. We cannot wait till education has made angels of us all or as my friend said has "internationalised" brethren. The Government is called upon to take immediate steps, and for that as an ordinary citizen I am thankful to the Premier and this Government that they have done their work so effectively.

Sir, much of the criticism from my friends on the Opposition benches ignores the fundamental considerations that in the field of politics progress along various lines must be more or less simultaneous and there is eternal virtue in the ideas implicit in the word compromise. Progress in one line is not contingent on perfection in any other. We cannot say that we must achieve perfect freedom and then other things will be added unto our gifts.

The need for scientific study in the realm of social biology is being daily emphasized by competent students. Human nature, its wants, its joys, its sorrows, its hunger for progress cannot be hastily comprehended into a stringent formula. We here are conscious of our limitations, but we are determined to pursue steadfastly according to our light—the path of national advance. No one can do better. In this, on the present occasion we are pressed by the recognition of the fact that a good system of finance and good government are inter-dependent. Finance is not mere arithmetic ; Finance is a great policy. It has been universally recognised that nothing ensures a sound system of finance more than keeping and publication of true and intelligible accounts. I claim that the present Government has done this. And we are insisting on strict Treasury control. That I think was not a particularly strong feature of the previous governments. All proposals involving increase in expenditure are carefully scrutinised. With correct accounts, with proper watch on expenditure as we conduct our affairs, can it be said that we are lacking in policy, that we are not satisfying the most exacting demands of a policy of advance ? We were expeditious in the remission of land revenue, anxious to make large additions to expenditure on beneficent departments, determined to effect economies by introducing reduction in the rates of pay and we undertake big projects of irrigation for the benefit of the people and enrichment of state finances. Who could attempt more ? Who could conceive better ? And yet we are anxious to learn further and have appointed a committee of non-officials with two trained economists, to help us in the difficult problem of retrenchment and obtaining additional revenue, if possible. Sir, let the voice of criticism abate, for, why strike in the vacant air ? Your Ministers are solicitous of the province's welfare and anxious to abide by the Assembly's reasoned demands. It is the Assembly's business not to administer but to see that the administration is done by proper persons and to keep the executive to their duties. Deliberations and not actual despatch is the function of this House. Let us both, the Executive and the Legislature stand firm by our duties and our tasks, and the coach of the State will move on and the province march on the sure path of prosperity. I made a humble budget speech. I presented an unvarnished statement and attempted a rapid delineation of proper financial policy. I and our Government are prepared to be judged by these. We stand committed to the policy of courageous finance but of sound finance. Under the watchful eye of the Assembly we propose to build up our resources.

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : On a point of order. Sir, the Honourable Finance Minister now seems to be reading from a paper.

Mr. Speaker : Is the honourable member certain ?

Minister for Finance : I am happily under no necessity to read from any notes.

Mr. Speaker : The Honourable Minister is not reading a written speech.

Minister for Finance : Sir, under the watchful eye of this Assembly we propose to build up our resources and our income and we are firmly resolved to spend wisely and fruitfully. (Loud and prolonged cheers.)

The Assembly then adjourned till 11 A.M. on Friday, 25th June, 1967.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

1ST SESSION OF THE 1ST PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Friday, 25th June, 1937.

The Assembly met at the Assembly Chamber, Simla, at 11 A.M. of the clock. Mr. Speaker in the chair.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Sardar Hari Singh : Sir, what about the questions that were not answered yesterday?

Mr. Speaker : The Secretary will arrange and place them on the agenda as he considers feasible.¹

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE HARSE-CHHINA IN DISTRICT AMRITSAR.

*121. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a punitive police post was located at village Harse-Chhina, district Amritsar, in December, 1929, for a period of two years ;
- (b) the details item by item of the estimated as well as actual costs for each year separately, the total amount recovered from the residents of the said village till the end of March, 1937, and the arrears due from these inhabitants by the end of March, 1937 ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that one Sardar Punjab Singh and other residents of the aforesaid village submitted an application on the 5th May, 1937, claiming therein a refund of a certain sum of money said to have been realized in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post ; if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes. For two years from the 15th December, 1929, to the 14th December, 1931.

(b) The principal figures have been given in the reply to question 29, put by the honourable member for Lahore City (General Constituency). As has been explained in replies to other questions, it is never possible to reckon the " actual cost " of a body of additional police with exactitude, as certain items in the bill (for example, charges for superintendence, the cost of the men's preliminary training, the cost of armament and interest charges during the period of recovery) cannot be precisely determined. Excluding these the amount spent on the post was Rs. 15,187-7-9. The full amount was recovered by the end of 1935, and no arrears are recoverable from the villagers.

(c) Yes. There is no case for any refund.

Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable the Premier please state how many constables, head constables, and sub-inspectors were stationed there ?

¹These questions were put and answered on 9th July, 1937.

Premier : I have already answered that part of the question.

Dr. Sant Ram Seth: Is it a fact that the salaries of some constables and head constables were drawn, but the police force was not sent there ?

Premier : I refer the honourable member to the reply already given.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE SABRAI IN LAHORE
DISTRICT.

122. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that additional foot police force remained located at village Sabrai, police station Patti, district Lahore, from 1923-24 to 1928-29 ;
- (b) the details item by item of the estimated as well as actual costs for each year separately, sanctioned strength of the police force for each year, strength of the police force which actually remained posted to the village and the total costs of the punitive police post imposed upon and recovered from the inhabitants for the aforesaid period ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that on the 30th April, 1937, one Sardar Sundar Singh and other residents of village Sabrai, district Lahore, submitted an application to the Honourable the Premier claiming therein a certain sum of money said to have been realized in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post ; if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : This has been dealt with in the reply to question *120.¹

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE GHAWIND, TAHSIL LAHORE.

123. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a punitive police force was quartered in village Ghawind, tahsil Lahore, on the 1st June, 1922, which remained posted there for a period of 3 years continuously ;
- (b) the details of the annual estimated and actual costs of the said punitive police post for each year, the total amount of money realized as costs from the village residents for the period of three years, the sanctioned strength of the police force for this punitive police post for each year and the actual strength of the police force which remained present during each quarter of these three years ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that Sardar Bhagat Singh, Kartar Singh and certain other residents of Ghawind submitted an application on 2nd December, 1936, and 30th April, 1937, claiming therein a refund of a certain sum said to have been realized in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post ; if so, with what result ?

¹Vide debates of 9th July, 1937.

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes, from the 1st June, 1922, to the 31st May, 1925.

(b) The principal figures have been given in the reply to question¹ 80 (unstarred), put by the honourable member for Lahore City (General Constituency). After this lapse of time Government do not think that they would be justified in attempting to collect more detailed figures.

(c) Yes. Recoveries in this case were completed in December, 1929, and Government are not prepared at this stage to make further inquiries, or allow the matter to be re-opened.

PUNITIVE POLICE POST AT VILLAGE BHARDEO IN AMRITSAR DISTRICT.

124. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that additional police force was quartered in village Bhardeo, police station Beas, district Amritsar, in 1936 ;

(b) if so, the date of its arrival in the village, the detailed monthly actual costs of the aforesaid punitive police post for the period of twelve months since its arrival in the village ; the details of the estimated costs for the period of first year ; the amount imposed upon the village residents as the cost of the punitive police post for the first year, the amount actually realized from the village inhabitants by the end of March, 1937, out of the total demand for the first year, the sanctioned strength of the police force for this punitive police post for the first year ; and the police force which remained practically present in the police post for the first year ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) The force took up its duties in the village on the 17th February, 1936. The sanctioned strength was—

One assistant sub-inspector ;

Two head constables ;

Eleven foot constables (including two for the contingency reserve).

The force in the village during the first year was generally up to full strength. The cost of the force of the first year was calculated at Rs. 6,999-7-1, and this amount was realised in full before the end of March, 1937. As has been explained in the replies to other questions, it is never possible to give the "actual cost" of a body of additional police, as it is not practicable to calculate with accuracy such charges as those due on account of superintendence, the cost of training the men employed, the armament charges of the force, and interest charges during the period of recovery. I am placing on the table a statement showing the actual outgoings on account of this post, excluding items such as those which have just been mentioned. These totalled Rs. 6,253-10-7 for the first year.

Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Is it a fact that some constables of this police post remained in the Police Lines at Amritsar ?

Premier : I am afraid I have nothing to add to the answer already given.

ADDITIONAL POLICE FORCE QUARTERED IN VILLAGE GHAWIND, TAHSIL LAHORE.

125. Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that additional police force was quartered in village Ghawind, tahsil Lahore, in June or May, 1980 ;
- (b) if so, the details of the estimated as well as actual costs calculated for the year 1980-81 of the police post for the period for which it remained located in the village ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that one Sardar Kartar Singh and other residents of Ghawind (Lahore) submitted an application on the 30th April, 1987, claiming therein a refund of a certain sum said to have been realized in excess of the actual costs of the punitive police post ; if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes, from the 26th May, 1980, to the 14th March, 1981.

(b) The principal figures were given in the reply to unstarred question No. 80,¹ put by the honourable member for Lahore City (General Constituency). After this lapse of time Government do not think that they would be justified in attempting to collect more detailed figures. As will be seen from the reply to question 80, the recovery of certain portion of the cost of this post was waived.

(c) Yes. Recoveries in this case were completed in March, 1981, and Government are not prepared at this stage to make further inquiries, or allow the matter to be re-opened.

Dr. Sant Ram Seth : Is it a fact that practically the police force was removed from this village in January, 1981, and was sent to the village Jaman and that costs of this post were forcibly charged from the inhabitants of the village ?

Premier : If the honourable member or his predecessor had put that question in 1981, the answer would have been available.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Will the Honourable the Premier state whether it is too late to put a wrong right ?

Premier : It is never too late to put a wrong right.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Why cannot this question be gone into ?

Premier : It has been gone into.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is the allegation made by the honourable member correct ?

Premier : No.

[Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar]

Departments are only sent to such newspapers as are included in that list ;

- (b) whether it is a fact that the Honourable the High Court of Judicature at Lahore maintains another White List of its own based on the list mentioned in (a) above and sends Court notices for publication only to those papers as are included in this List ;
- (c) if answers to (a) and (b) be in the affirmative whether the lists maintained by them and the High Court are dissimilar ;
- (d) whether the Government is prepared to consider and advise sending of Government notices to such papers only as command the greatest circulation and influence and are read by such sections of the populace as are concerned with the subject matter of a particular notice ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) The two lists are not dissimilar, but the High Court list may exclude certain papers that are on Government list.

(d) The considerations suggested by the honourable member are borne in mind when the list is prepared.

INTERNEES IN THE PUNJAB.

127. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) (i) the number of internees in the Punjab, (ii) the law under which they are interned, (iii) since how long they have been so detained and (iv) the authority under whose orders they are detained ;
- (b) whether any persons have been interned or released from internment after the inauguration of the new Constitution ;
- (c) whether the Government propose to release all the internees ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) (i) and (ii) It is not understood what exactly the honourable member means by "internees." If he means the persons against whom action under the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 1935, has been taken, the number is 20 ; if he means the persons dealt with under Regulation III of 1918, the number is 7.

(iii) It is not convenient or in the public interest to supply this information.

(iv) In twenty cases under the orders of the Punjab Government and in seven cases under the orders of the Government of India.

(b) Yes, assuming that the honourable member refers to cases described in (a) (i) and (ii) above.

(c) No, but the cases of such persons are examined by Government periodically to consider the question of their release.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is it a fact that in the case of internees under Regulation III of 1818, the Government of India have laid down a rule that the examination of the cases of these internees shall be conducted by three Judges? May I know whether that procedure is being adopted in the Punjab?

Premier : If the honourable member will refer me to the authority I will certainly try to answer that question.

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh : Will the Honourable the Premier please state as to how many times the case of Mr. Ihsan Ilahi has been examined?

Premier : During my time, once.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I ask the Honourable the Premier why it is impossible for him to give us information under (a) (iii), namely, the period of detention of these internees?

Premier : For the simple reason that they are sometimes interned only for a few weeks and if it is found in the public interest to remove their restriction, that restriction is removed.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Cannot he give that information regarding the present internees?

Premier : I think a statement has been tabled or will be tabled in connection with another question.

Diwan Chaman Lall : In regard to Regulation III prisoners is the Honourable the Premier willing to give information also?

Premier : Yes.

Sardar Hari Singh : Does the periodical examination take place yearly or half-yearly?

Premier : Monthly.

An honourable member : Are they usually interned in villages?

Premier : The restrictions are not limited to villages in all cases. In some cases it is a village, in other cases it is a district and in other cases they might be interned in a bigger area.

Lala Duni Chand : The Premier says that the cases of these internees are examined periodically every month. In the light of which facts are the cases examined every month? Will he please state those facts?

Premier : General conduct and behaviour during that period.

Lala Duni Chand : Their cases are examined only with reference to their conduct in the place within which they are confined?

Premier : Yes.

Mian Abdul Aziz : Will the Honourable the Premier kindly state the mode of examination of these cases periodically? Is it only based on the conclusions or reports which are submitted or whether they are independently seen?

Premier : The case has to be examined in the light of information which is available to Government. It cannot possibly be examined without any information. It is not understood what the honourable member means by 'independently seen'.

Mian Abdul Aziz : When these people are interned in a particular place there can be nothing new about them. How then can the Government judge them in the way the Honourable the Premier suggests ?

Premier : The honourable member ought to be aware that these internees can do mischief inside a village as much as inside a district.

Mian Abdul Aziz : As far as I understand Mr. Ihsan Ilahi has been in jail for the last 7 years. How are his cases being examined in the way suggested by the Honourable the Premier ?

Premier : I am afraid the honourable member is again confusing the people who are in jail and the people who are restricted under the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act. The former is a Regulation III prisoner and is in jail under the orders of the Government of India. The latter are interned under the orders of this Government.

Mian Abdul Aziz : Has any report been received against Mr. Ihsan Ilahi during the last six or seven years ?

Premier : Report about what ?

Mian Abdul Aziz : About his behaviour on which you base your conclusion as to whether he should be released or not.

Premier : I am afraid the honourable member is again confusing the issue. It is not about the Regulation 1818 prisoners that I am talking now. It is about the internees under the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act.

Lala Duni Chand : Am I to understand that the Punjab Government has nothing to do or has no voice in the case of those people who are interned in jails under Regulation 1818 ?

Premier : No. The honourable member would be wrong in making that assumption.

PRESS IN THE PUNJAB.

128. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

(a) (i) the number of newspapers that have been called upon to deposit securities since January, 1936, (ii) how many of such papers have survived by depositing the sums demanded and how many have succumbed, (iii) how many demands to deposit securities have been made after the 1st April, 1937 ;

(b) whether the Government intends to cancel all such orders ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) (i) 13.

(ii) 7 and 6.

(iii) 1.

(b) No.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable the Premier please state whether there have been cases of demand of security from such papers as have been newly started ?

Premier : That does not arise from the question.

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order. Is it relevant for the Honourable Premier to make the suggestion that the point does not arise from the question? I think it is your prerogative, Mr. Speaker, to rule whether a supplementary question arises out of the main question or not. It is not for the Honourable the Premier to take upon himself that prerogative.

Premier : It is the privilege of the Chair to give the ruling and it is the prerogative of every member of this House to draw the attention of the Chair to the propriety or otherwise of a question.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I draw your attention, Mr. Speaker, to the fact that the Honourable the Premier was not drawing your attention to the fact that the question did not arise, but was refusing to answer the question on the ground that the question did not arise.

Mr. Speaker : Answers to questions are addressed to the Chair just as honourable members' points of order are addressed to the Chair. In the same way any remark which any member may make in the House should be addressed to the Chair.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I take it, then, that your ruling is that the question does not arise?

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Mr. Speaker, I appeal to you to help me in the matter whether the question does arise or not. The Honourable the Premier has in answer to part (a) of the question given the number of newspapers that have been asked to deposit security. What I want to know is whether there are any instances where the newspapers that have just come into existence have been asked to deposit security?

Premier : I am afraid the honourable member cannot possibly expect me to give that information without due notice.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : I would request the Honourable the Premier to take notice of this question.

Premier : I should like to have regular notice.

Mr. Speaker : I informed the House the other day that notices of all questions meant to be asked should be given under the rules in force to the Secretary of the Assembly. He will submit those questions to me for final orders.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : I now give notice of the question through you, Sir.

Mr. Speaker : No notice can be given through the Chair. All notices are to be given direct to the Secretary of the Assembly.

Sardar Hari Singh : May I ask the Honourable the Premier if he is aware that there is a suspicion in the minds of members on this side (Opposition) that their party organs may be victimised by the party in power?

Premier : That might be the impression of the gross communalists among the minorities.

Sardar Hari Singh : Is the Honourable the Premier aware that the honourable member who puts the question is free from communalism?

Premier : I have no personal information on that particular point.

TOMB OF FIR KAKU SHAH.

129. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a deputation of Mussalmans under the leadership of Maulvi Sir Muhammad Yaqub waited upon His Excellency the Governor of the Punjab at Simla in the summer of 1936, and requested him that an appeal be lodged by the Government in the High Court against the acquittal by Mr. Sale, the then Sessions Judge of Lahore, of the Sikhs accused of desecration and demolition of the tomb of Fir Kaku Shah ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that in reply the Governor on behalf of the Punjab Government informed the deputation that Government were not lodging this appeal because the Mussalmans had filed a civil suit regarding the tomb against the Sikhs ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the leader of the deputations subsequently informed the Governor that no such suit had been filed ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the Governor had also informed the deputation that if two or three prominent Muslim lawyers expressed the opinion that such an appeal will not adversely affect the Muslim interests the Government would be prepared to file an appeal ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that on account of this promise the organisers of the deputation obtained the opinions of the following advocates ; (i) Mr. Abdul Haye, B.A., LL.B., not then a Minister of the Government, (ii) Syed Mohsin Shah, Advocate and (iii) Dr. Khalifa Shuja-ud-Din, Bar-at-Law, and handed it over to the Chief Secretary of the Punjab Government ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that these Muslim lawyers favoured the lodging of an appeal ;
- (g) whether it is a fact that an appeal was not filed by the Government and the time limit was allowed to lapse ;
- (h) if the answer to (d) and (g) above be in the affirmative the reasons for which an appeal was not filed and the leader of the deputation or the organisers thereof not informed about the change in their opinion, to enable them to file the revision themselves, if they so desired ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes. The deputation was received by His Excellency the Governor in Council. The Honourable Member for Finance, Sir Donald Boyd, the Chief Secretary, Mr. Puckle, and the Legal Remembrancer, Mr. Anderson, were also present.

(b) and (d). The question of filing an appeal was discussed from all points of view. Government did not inform the deputation that it was not lodging an appeal because a civil suit had been filed ; nor was any promise made that any appeal would be filed.

(c) Yes.

(e) The legal opinions of the three gentlemen were received by the Chief Secretary, but Government has no information whether these opinions were obtained by the organisers of the deputation.

(f) Yes.

(g) Yes.

(h) No appeal was filed because the conditions which usually justify appeals against acquittals were not satisfied, and because an appeal appeared to be unlikely to attain the object which the deputation had at heart. As the matter had been thoroughly discussed with the deputation it was not necessary to address them again.

EXODUS TO SIMLA.

130. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

(a) if it has been brought to his notice that the United Provinces Ministry has decided to cancel the annual exodus of their Government to the hills ;

(b) if so, whether the Punjab Government proposes to forego their exodus to Simla, in the coming years ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Certain statements have appeared in the Press.

(b) The attention of the honourable member is invited to the reply given to starred question No. 16¹.

PRIVATE LORRY STAND.

131. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the system of private lorry stands has been adversely criticised by the Punjab Motor Union as well as by independent observers, and the matter brought to the notice of the Government by memorials and other means ;

(b) whether the Government has given its attention to the matter ; if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes.

(b) Provisions enabling provincial Governments to control private stands have been included in the Bill which was introduced in the Central Legislature last year for the amendment of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914.

TRAFFIC CHALLANS.

132. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that in this province the police constables are authorised to order traffic challans ;

[Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar]

(b) whether he is aware that in Calcutta and Bombay this authority is not vested in the police constables ;

(c) whether the Government intends to consider the question of entrusting the power to order traffic challans to officers not below the rank of sub-inspectors of police ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) No. Before traffic cases are put into court they are scrutinized by the prosecuting staff in the same way as other types of cases, and in several districts by a gazetted officer as well.

(b) Government have no information.

(c) Does not arise.

Lala Duni Chand : Is the Honourable Minister aware of the existence of strong feeling that most of those people, who displease constables or other police men, in any way, are challaned ?

Minister : I have no information on that point.

Lala Duni Chand : Will the Honourable Minister try to get that information ?

Minister : If you want the information please give me due notice for that.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : On a point of order, Sir. Is prompt allowed in this House ?

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister kindly state how many cases during the last few months challaned by the police were scrutinized and disallowed ?

Minister : I am afraid I cannot give a reply to that question just now. I want due notice.

Lala Duni Chand : I understand that the Honourable Minister travels from Kalka to Simla. Will he kindly make enquiries from motor drivers at Kalka and Simla ?

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : May I know whether there are any cases in which.....

Minister : May I reply to two members' questions ?

Mr. Speaker : No, only one member's question.

Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister enlighten us whether he knows of any case in which challan was refused by scrutinizing authorities ?

Minister : So far as I can say there is none in my knowledge.

Sardar Hari Singh : What was the total number of challans during the last year ?

TRAFFIC CHALLANS.

*133. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that in traffic challans the constable ordering the challans is normally the only witness for the prosecution ;

- (b) whether representations have been made to Government to order the production of at least two independent witnesses to support a challan at least in the case of lorries plying for hire ;
- (c) whether the Government have considered the matter, if so, the decision arrived at ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) In many cases the constable at whose instance the proceedings were taken is the only witness.

(b) Yes.

(c) The honourable member has doubtless seen the definition of "proved" in section 3 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, and section 134 of the same Act. It is for the court to decide in each case whether the evidence produced suffices to prove the charge.

Mian Abdul Aziz : With regard to part (b) the Honourable Minister said "Yes." What does he mean? The question is very clear. He should point out whether or not he intends to issue such instructions?

Minister : I do not know what other meaning can be attached to the word "Yes."

Lala Duni Chand : Is it true that in such cases the only evidence produced is that of the constable who challans them?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Can the Honourable Minister cite a single case in which the only evidence was that of the constable and the case was decided in favour of the accused?

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Is it a fact that the Honourable Minister does not reply in view of the fact that the other day my honourable friend Mir Maqbool Mahmood asked us to treat the Ministry as a "shy maiden"?

Mr. Speaker : Such language is inconsistent with the dignity of the House.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I want answer to my question. Can the Honourable Minister cite a single instance in which the only evidence was that of the constable and the case was decided in favour of the accused?

Minister : I cannot give that reply unless I get notice for that.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Will the Honourable Speaker take note of the grave dissatisfaction in this House regarding the method and procedure adopted in this case?

Mr. Speaker : That is not a question.

TRAFFIC CHALLANS.

*134. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that in ordering traffic challans the number of the rule alleged to have been contravened is stated, but the nature of the offence is not explained ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that this matter has been brought to the notice of the Government ;

[Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar]

(c) whether Government have taken the matter into consideration ;
if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) The question is not clear, but it probably refers to the " notices of prosecution " which are often issued by the police to offenders in motor cases in advance of the regular court proceedings, rather than to the magisterial summonses. If so, the reply is in the negative. The form used in such notices provides a space for " particulars of the offence," as well as entries regarding the section and rule applicable. Stringent instructions have been issued to ensure that these entries are properly completed by the officials concerned.

(b) A representation was recently made to Government by the Punjab Motor Union, Amritsar.

(c) No action appears to be required.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Is the Honourable Minister aware that if accused in such are fined they are fined normally, but if they take up the time of the court then they are fined very heavily ?

Minister : I have no reply to this question.

Premier : May I draw the attention of the House that the Parliamentary Practice is that if a question is not capable of an answer and if the Government does not want to answer it, no answer is given.

Mr. Speaker : I am not quite sure of that practice.

Premier : I speak subject to correction.

Mr. Speaker : I also speak subject to correction. Prima facie it looks fair that when a question is put and the Honourable Minister is not in a position to answer it, he should stand up and say so. He should not answer it by silence. (Cheers from the Opposition).

Premier : Will you kindly study that particular point ?

Mr. Speaker : Yes, I will. If I am wrong I will correct myself.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I point out the practice in the Central Legislature ? Whenever Treasury benches refuse to answer a question, the President has compelled them to answer it when there has been a demand on the side of the Opposition. (Voices : Question). I will cite instances.

Mr. Speaker : To refuse to answer is one thing and to plead inability or incapacity to answer is another thing.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : And to keep sitting is another thing. (Laughter).

TRAFFIC OFFENCES.

*135. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it has been brought to the notice of the Government that for similar traffic offences dissimilar penalties are awarded and the magistrates have to state no reasons for the sentences passed ;

- (b) whether the Government have inquired into the matter and proposed any remedy, if so, what ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) No ; but Government cannot interfere either with the discretion of the courts or with the procedure laid down by the Criminal Procedure Code.

- (b) Does not arise.

TRAFFIC CASES.

136. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable the Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it has been brought to the notice of the Government that in traffic cases the persons challaned have to be present in person, and often have to present themselves on adjourned hearings, which results in preventing them from earning their scanty wages ;
- (b) whether the matter has engaged the attention of the Government ;
- (c) whether the Government is prepared to take necessary steps to exempt the accused in traffic challans from personal appearance and allow them to be represented by lawyers or their representatives ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a), (b) and (c). The courts already have discretion, under section 205 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, to dispense with the personal attendance of an accused person and to permit him to appear by pleader. The question whether further measures are necessary to save accused persons in traffic cases from undue inconvenience is already engaging the attention of Government.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Is the Honourable Minister aware of any cases in which the provisions of section 205 were applied ?

Mr. Speaker : May I ask the honourable member, before allowing his question, whether he is aware of any cases in which applications under section 205 were made and rejected by the court ?

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : I know such cases.

Mr. Speaker : Please cite them.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : If I am given time I will certainly do that. (Laughter from the Treasury benches).

MOTOR LORRIES.

137. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether he is aware that 1½ ton lorries carry goods to Srinagar by the (i) Havelian, (ii) Rawalpindi and (iii) Sialkot-Jammu routes ;
- (b) whether he is aware that these lorries are allowed by the Kashmir State and the North-West Frontier Province Government to carry 42 maunds of load in addition to the driver and cleaner ;

[Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar]

(c) whether it is a fact that in the Punjab M. T. and Postal lorries are allowed 42 maunds, but the public motor vehicles are allowed only 38 maunds ;

(d) whether the Government is prepared to allow lorries mentioned in (c) above to carry 42 maunds load instead of 38 maunds ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

PERMIT FOR MOTOR LORRIES.

138. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that when motor lorries are presented for examination before the Inspector of Vehicles, the time during which the vehicles have been under repairs, amounting from a few days to two months, is generally included in the period of 3 months for which a permit is given ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the Inspector of Vehicles, Amritsar Group, alone makes allowance for the time during which vehicles have remained under repairs ;

(c) if the answer to (b) above be in the affirmative, whether the Government is prepared to consider the matter and order a uniform adoption of the system mentioned in part (b) ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) The honourable member is asked to see rules 13-J and 13-K of the Punjab Motor Vehicles Rules, 1931. Public motor vehicle licences are validated for twelve months at a time : there is no question of giving a " permit " for a period of three months. It is possible that the honourable member has in mind the mechanical inspections required by rule 49. The rule requires that a public motor vehicle shall be produced for mechanical inspection once a quarter (in some cases once every six months). The honourable member would scarcely suggest that this rule should be modified merely because a vehicle has been off the road for some part of the quarter.

(b) and (c) Inquiries will be made, and orders issued, if necessary, to bring the system at Amritsar into conformity with the rule.

Sardar Hari Singh : Is the Honourable Minister aware that the examination of the vehicles at intervals of three months causes a great dislocation of traffic and also inconvenience to the public ?

Mr. Speaker : Is this done under the rules in force ?

Sardar Hari Singh : It is done under the rules. I want to attack the rules.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member may move a resolution to cancel the rules.

MOTOR VEHICLES' INSPECTION.

139. Maulvi Mahzar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether he is aware that most of the motor vehicles, plying in the Rawalpindi district, have business relations with Hazara, in the North-West Frontier Province, and Jammu and Kashmir State ;
- (b) whether he is aware that these vehicles are inspected twice annually in the State, twice in Hazara, and once in Peshawar ;
- (c) if the answer to (b) above be in the affirmative, whether the Government is prepared to reduce the number of inspections in the case of such vehicles from four to two, and have a six-monthly inspection instead of the quarterly one ;
- (d) if the answers to above parts be in the affirmative, whether the Government have been moved in the matter ; if so, what action they propose to take ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Yes.

(b) Government have no definite information, but they believe that this is correct.

(c) and (d). A suggestion was made to the Kashmir Government in 1933 that there should be some kind of reciprocity in regard to the inspection of public motor vehicles, but the negotiations at that time fell through. Government hope that it will be possible shortly to re-open them, and also to come to some arrangement with the Government of the North-West Frontier Province.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I ask as to what he understands by the phrase "business relations with Hazara"—motor vehicle having business relation with Hazara ?

Mr. Speaker : Is interpretation a legitimate question ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : I want to know whether he has understood the significance of it.

Mr. Speaker : I disallow the question because it asks for the interpretation of law.

 MONOPOLIES FOR PLYING MOTOR VEHICLES.

140. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) the roads in the province on which monopolies are given for plying motor vehicles ;
- (b) the persons or bodies to whom monopolies are given ;
- (c) the reasons why monopolies are given, and
- (d) whether the Government has been moved to abolish these monopolies, if so, whether they propose to give up this system ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) and (b). A statement is appended.

(c) The number of public motor vehicles permitted to ply on any given road can legally be restricted only if the road has been declared as a "hill road" under the Punjab Motor Vehicles Rules, 1931, or scheduled under rule 25 of those rules. The reason for declaring certain roads as "hill roads" is to secure that the traffic is properly controlled, and where necessary limited, on roads of a particularly dangerous character. The system of scheduling roads under rule 25, and restricting public motor transport on them, has been adopted in certain parts of the province to protect the weaker district board roads which could not be kept in motorable condition if unlimited traffic were allowed on them. In many cases when a road has been declared as a "hill road," or scheduled under the rule, it is still possible to allow a considerable number of public vehicles, belonging to several owners, to operate on it, and in such cases no question of a monopoly arises; but in certain instances the volume of traffic is so small that there is room for a single owner only. In such cases the arrangements become monopolistic, but I should make it clear that whenever this happens the working of the system is carefully watched to ensure that the interests of the travelling public are not prejudiced. If it is found that the monopolist is abusing his position, there is no hesitation in breaking his monopoly by the introduction of other owners.

(d) No.

Chaudhri Kartar Singh : Will the Honourable Minister be pleased to state whether the deputy commissioners who have given monopolies of roads to lorry-walas intend to withdraw those monopolies?

Minister : It does not arise out of this question.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I ask the Honourable Minister whether the Government have decided not to issue any further monopolies until this matter has been decided by the Ministry?

Mr. Speaker : Is that a request for action or question for information?

Diwan Chaman Lall : I am asking whether the Government have decided—it is an information—that until they have collected the information they would not issue any further monopoly?

Minister : It is very difficult to say what reply can be given on a question which has been sprung up without due notice.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I, with your permission, draw your attention to a decision given in the Central Legislative Assembly on the 27th of January, 1926, where the President after unsatisfactory replies have been given by the Treasury benches intervened and suggested: it is high time that the Chair should intervene now; there is a strong feeling in the House that information asked for should be supplied by Government and they would be well advised if they consider the desirability of supplying that information. This is after unsatisfactory replies have been given.

Minister : I said that certain information is coming into the hands of the Government and it has not yet been put into shape as a reply.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I want to know what the position would be if in the meanwhile, while the Honourable Minister is collecting information, monopolies are given out.

Minister : The heavens are not going to come down.

Diwan Chaman Lall : It may be that all the information will be nullified in view of the fact that the monopolies have already been given.

Mr. Speaker : The question as to whether the Government has come to any decision is a simple one and could be easily answered in the negative or in the affirmative.

Minister : We have not yet come to any definite conclusion, whether in the future monopolies ought to be given or not.

Lala Duni Chand : Is the Government prepared to abolish the system of granting monopoly ; if so, will the Government make a declaration to that effect on the floor of the House ?

Minister : The reply to the original question is given.

MOTOR VEHICLE PERMITS.

141. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that at the time of inspection of motor vehicles permits are made over to the Registering Authority office for due endorsements ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the permits are usually delayed for a day or two ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the Government have been moved to order that a provisional certificate be given in lieu of the permit to enable the motor vehicles to ply even during the time taken for the endorsement of the permits ;
- (d) if the answers to (a), (b) and (c) above be in the affirmative, whether the Government have considered the matter ; if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) and (b) The question probably refers to delays by licensing officers at the time when vehicle owners come up to pay their taxes, rather than to delays in inspections. Government are aware that in some districts delays of this kind do occur at rush seasons, but efforts are continually being made to minimise them. It would not be correct to say that there is usually a delay of a day or two.

(c) Yes.

(d) The suggestion made in part (c) of the question has already been adopted in most districts and is now being extended to the remainder.

MOTOR LORRIES ON AMRITSAR-JULLUNDUR GRAND TRUNK ROAD AND THE KAPURTHALA POLICE.

142. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it has been brought to his notice that motor lorries plying for hire on the Amritsar-Jullundur road are now-a-days stopped by the Kapurthala police, taken to State police stations and the drivers forced to pay certain amount although they take no passengers or luggage from the State territory ;
- (b) whether the Amritsar-Jullundur Grand Trunk road belongs wholly to the Government or also partially to the Kapurthala State ;
- (c) what action has been taken or is proposed to be taken in the matter ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

DEBTS OWED BY THE PUNJAB GOVERNMENT.

143. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister for Finance be pleased to state—

- (a) the debts owed by the Punjab Government ;
- (b) the account on which the debt was incurred ;

- (c) the date on which the debt was incurred ;
 (d) the interest that has so far been paid on the debt, and the dates of payment of interest ;
 (e) when and how the debt is sought to be repaid ?

The Honourable Mr. Manohar Lal : (a), (b) and (c) The details of the debt outstanding on the 1st April, 1937, are given on page 26 of the Budget for the year 1937-38, a copy of which has been supplied to the honourable member. For information in regard to the dates on which and the purposes for which loans were taken from the Government of India, I would invite the honourable member's attention to pages 20—22 of the Budget for 1936-37, a copy of which will be found in the library of the House.

(d) A statement showing the amount of interest paid annually during the last 15 years is placed on the table. It is regretted that figures for previous years are not readily available. Their collection will involve considerable labour which will not be commensurate with the result likely to be achieved.

(e) Loans raised in the market will be liquidated when they fall due for repayment. The debt to the Government of India will be repaid in accordance with the terms prescribed in paragraphs 13, 14 and 15 of their Finance Department Resolution No. D/1214-Ref., dated the 26th March, 1937, a copy of which has been placed in the library of the House.

PERSONS ABDUCTED AND KIDNAPPED.

144. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar: Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) the number of persons (i) abducted and (ii) kidnapped in the Punjab during 1935-36, and during the first four months of 1937 ;
- (b) the number of females among them ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan :

| | 1935-36. | First four months of 1937. |
|--------------------------------------|----------|----------------------------|
| (a) (i) Abducted | 603 | 138 |
| (ii) Kidnapped | 584 | 166 |
| (b) Females included in the above .. | 948 | 190 |

DEBTS OF THE AGRICULTURAL AND NON-AGRICULTURAL CLASSES.

145. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) the estimate of the existing debts of the (i) agricultural and (ii) non-agricultural classes in the province ;
- (b) the estimate last made, if no estimate of the existing debts is available ;
- (c) the amount of annual interest paid on such debts ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) No estimate is available.

(b) For the agricultural classes the last estimate of the debt made in 1931 is 140 crores. For 1929 the Punjab Banking Enquiry Committee estimated the debt at 135 crores. Both estimates are very tentative, and very possibly an over-estimate.

There is not even a tentative estimate of the debt of the non-agricultural classes.

(c) In 1931 it was estimated that on the average about 15 crores a year were paid in interest on the agricultural debt of the province. This estimate included the rents received in cash and in kind by usufructuary mortgages. Since the fall in prices the amount actually paid from year to year has probably been very much less.

ACCOMMODATION IN JAILS.

146. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar: Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) the existing accommodation in jails, and the number of convicts and undertrial prisoners ;
- (b) the methods the Government are contemplating to adopt to meet the situation if the accommodation is not sufficient ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) The honourable member will find the figures in the last (1935) Report on the Administration of the Jails in the Punjab. Since these figures were compiled there has been a slight decrease in the total jail population and in view of this Government have during the last few days found it possible to issue orders for the closure of the Camp Jail at Attock. At the same time the fact remains that the jail population is several thousand in excess of the pucca accommodation.

(b) This was dealt with in paragraph 2 of the Government Review on the same Report, to which the honourable member is asked to refer.

CHOBACHA SAHIB NEW ABADI, LAHORE.

147. Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state, whether he has recently received any representation on behalf of the residents of Chobacha Sahib new abadi, Lahore, for the removal of certain inconveniences due to the canal in its neighbourhood, if so, what steps he proposes to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : Yes. It is not proposed to build a bridge as one exists within half a mile from the abadi. It is not considered desirable to build a cattle ghat in this reach of the Lahore Branch.

BEGAR TAKEN BY POLICE OFFICIALS FROM CERTAIN CARPENTERS AND BLACKSMITHS.

148. Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state whether it is a fact that M. Sant Ram, Bhai Ram Singh and other carpenters and blacksmiths of Lulliani, tahsil Kasur, district Lahore, had to work without remuneration for some of the police staff during the course of this year ; if so, what action the Government propose to take against such officials and to stop such begar in future ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : No, Sir. This is not a fact.

REMODELLING OF RASIANA MINOR.

149. Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : Will the Honourable Minister of Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the outlets from the Rasiaana Minor which irrigate the lands in chak Nos. 138, 139 in tahsil Samundri, district Lyallpur, were remodelled in April, 1937 ;
- (b) whether it is a fact, that some of the leading zamindars of the said chaks waited in deputation on the Superintending Engineer, at Lyallpur ;
- (c) whether it is also a fact that the said Superintending Engineer used abusive language in his interview with the deputation ; if so, what action, if any, the Government proposes to take against the officer concerned for this ill-behaviour ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) and (b) Yes.

(c) The Superintending Engineer denies having used any abusive language. The probability is there appears to be some misunderstanding owing to the remodelling of outlets which have been again changed temporarily. The Chief Engineer will look into the matter during monsoon and decide the question of the type of outlets finally.

ROADS IN THE MIANWALI DISTRICT.

150. Khan Bahadur Captain Malik Muzaffar Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Public Works kindly state—

- (a) the mileage of metalled and unmetalled roads in the Mianwali district ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the mileage of metalled roads per square mile in the said district is the lowest in the whole province ;
- (c) whether it is also a fact that the District Board, Mianwali, is, on account of paucity of funds, not in a position to extend or maintain the means of communication in that district ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a)—

| | Miles. |
|-------------------------|---------------|
| Metalled road | 24·46 |
| Unmetalled road | 595·33 |

(b) No. The Dera Ghazi Khan district has the lowest mileage of metalled roads.

(c) It is realised that the District Board, Mianwali, has a small margin of funds for development of its roads and certainly it is not in a position to extend the district road system if it cannot maintain existing roads from its own resources, assisted by grants from Government.

Khan Bahadur Captain Malik Muzaffar Khan : Do the Government intend to make a road from Mianwali to Khushab ? If so, when and if not, why not ?

Minister : The matter is under consideration. As regards District Board roads Government intends helping backward boards including that of Mianwali.

SHORT NOTICE QUESTION AND ANSWER.

REMOVAL OF THE NATIONAL FLAG FROM THE SHUDH KHADI BHANDAR, SIMLA.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Premier be pleased to state—

- (a) whether his attention has been drawn to the unfortunate incident of removing the National Flag from the premises of the Shudh Khadi Bhandar situated on the Mall of the summer capital of the Government on the night of 30th May by some Europeans under the very nose of the police constable on duty ;

(b) if so, whether Government are aware that this incident has provoked widespread resentment throughout the province and a number of protest meetings have been held in different places to condemn it ;

(c) whether the Government have received any report from the officials concerned ; if so, whether the Government will lay the same on the table of the House ; if not, the reasons why no action has been taken so far, although three weeks have elapsed since the incident took place ;

(d) what steps, if any, the Government propose to take with a view to stop repetition of such incidents in the province in future ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) Yes ; but it has not yet been established that the incident took place in the presence of a police constable. Enquiry with regard to this is proceeding ;

(b) Government are not aware that the incident has provoked widespread resentment, but a number of protest meetings have been held ;

(c) Yes. Government are not prepared to lay the report from the officers concerned on the table. Action has been taken and investigation is proceeding ;

(d) No special steps are necessary. But I can assure the honourable member opposite that I share their regret and concern with regard to this matter. (Hear, hear).

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to say what sort of action has been taken ?

Premier : Investigations are proceeding vigorously in the matter.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Has the Honourable Member taken evidence of the police constable ?

Premier : The evidence must have been taken.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Will the Honourable Member please give me an idea as to how long this enquiry will take ?

Premier : This depends on the question of catching hold of the culprits.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I know whether it has also been considered necessary to take adequate administrative action against those particular constables or constable who allowed this incident to happen ?

Premier : If a case is established against him, the honourable member may rest assured that adequate punishment will be given (hear, hear).

ANNOUNCEMENT FROM THE CHAIR.

Mr. Speaker : My attention has been drawn by the Secretary to Parliamentary practice about answering supplementary questions by silence. When the Honourable Minister, who is to answer the question, is not in a position to reply to it, he keeps quiet and does not give an answer.

Premier : Thank you, Sir.

RESOLUTIONS.

DEBT CONCILIATION BOARDS.

Pir Akbar Ali (Fazilka, Muhammadan, Rural) : I beg to move—

This Assembly recommends to the Government that the number of debt conciliation boards be increased in the Punjab.

(The honourable member then started addressing the House in Urdu.)

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : On a point of order, Sir. The honourable member is a B.A., LL.B. and he can speak in English. He is an advocate of the High Court.

Mr. Speaker : Is the honourable member a B.A., LL.B. ?

Pir Akbar Ali : It is my birth right to speak in my own vernacular and nobody can prevent me from doing so.

Mr. Speaker : Will the honourable member please answer my question ? Does he not appear in the High Court ? Does he not speak there in English ?

Premier : On a point of order. Is it necessary that a B.A., LL.B. should necessarily know sufficient English to express himself in English ?

Pir Akbar Ali : The rules do not require that anybody practising in the High Court should not speak in vernacular.

Premier : The honourable member has dug his own grave.

Mr. Speaker : I request the honourable member to speak in English.

Pir Akbar Ali : I obey your ruling. I had to address through your the audience the majority of whom does not know English and therefore I will request you kindly to allow me to speak in my own vernacular.

Mr. Speaker : I am in perfect sympathy with the honourable member but the provisions of the Government of India Act, section 85, are mandatory and I have no option, but to request him to speak in English.

Pir Akbar Ali : I bow to your ruling.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Birthright gone ?

Pir Akbar Ali : Sir, at the very outset I wish to impress on the members of this honourable House that class prejudices should not influence our deliberations.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Sir, I rise on a point of order very reluctantly. I would draw your attention to the fact that in the budget for 1937-38 provision has been made for more debt conciliation boards in the province and it is up to the Government to see whether there is any need for extending conciliation boards to other districts. In view of this, Sir, is it necessary that the sanction of this House should be obtained when provision has already been made ?

Maulvi Ghulam Mohy-ud-din : On a point of order. Is a speech allowed on a point of order ?

Mr. Speaker : What the honourable member meant to say was that when Government had already made provision for increasing the number of conciliation boards, whether this resolution was necessary.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : On a point of further explanation. I may state that I am not opposed to the resolution.

Syed Amjad Ali Shah : Sir, before you decide the point of order I should like to bring to your notice that although Government has made provision for five boards, yet members of this House who represent their constituencies want to bring to the notice of the Government their special grievances and the indebted condition of that particular constituency so that members of that particular constituency may be able to press their point.

Mr. Speaker : What the honourable member said was that provision had, no doubt, been made in the budget for increasing the number of conciliation boards ; but that number insufficient and that, therefore, he wanted it to be increased. Consequently, the resolution appears to be in order.

Malik Barkat Ali : I rise on a point of order. My point of order is this, whether it is open to any member of the House to propose an addition in expenditure.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member being an able and learned lawyer should know the rules better than anybody else. It does not entail any additional expenditure. It is only a recommendation to Government, which may or may not be accepted.

Pir Akbar Ali : Sir, I was submitting that it is now the time when our deliberations should not be influenced by class prejudices otherwise we will not achieve the object and I hope my motion will be examined in the same spirit.

Sir, towards the end of the last century it was realised that the plight of the agricultural classes was going from bad to worse every day. At that time it was considered that to remedy the disease an act should be brought. The result of the deliberations was the passage of the Alienation of Land Act. But, since the passage of that Act up to this time about 40 years have passed and this interval has shown that the provisions of Alienation of Land Act have not proved effective to cure the disease. The Alienation of Land Act also requires certain amendments, and particularly in three respects. First of all in regard to benami transactions, secondly to find ways to redeem old standing mortgages and thirdly to find means how to prevent big fishes eating up the smaller ones, I mean crocodiles, big bulls, whom I would have expressed in some other way, but for the lady members. I submit that they be disabled otherwise the whole herd would be in danger of being deteriorated. These are the three suggestions as to the Alienation of Land Act. The well-wishers of the agriculturists finding that the Alienation of Land Act was not sufficient, passed the Usurious Loans Act in 1918 but, afterwards it was found out to be a dead letter. It was not made use of at all because the judges who were expected to administer the law were not in favour of it and were not inclined to apply that law. Afterwards in this very House a Money Lenders Bill was introduced by Mir Maqbool Mahmood. But, Sir, in place of that Act another Act was passed called the Regulation of Accounts Act. That Act also met with the same fate which the Usurious Loans Act had met. It was not at all found useful, for giving any redress to the debtors, and particularly the agricultural class of debtors. Then, Sir, many committees were appointed to find ways how to redress the grievances of the debtors. Afterwards the Relief of Indebtedness Act was passed in this House. It was passed in 1934 but it was put in force, I think, in April 1935. The reliefs provided in that Act were of seven kinds which I will lay before you. First of all there was the amendment of the Insolvency Act. So far as I know that provision of law which was passed into an Act has not been extended to any area in the Punjab, though the power of extending it to any area was left to the discretion of the Government. The words of the Act are "as the Government may from time to time by notification direct." I think that this provision has either not yet come to the notice of the Government or the Government did not want to apply it. I hope that the present Government, which is alive to the difficulties of all classes, will now find their way to extend this provision to all the districts in the Punjab. This provision is very important and without this a big measure of relief is being withheld from the zamindars. Next was the amendment of the Usurious Loans Act for the reduction of rate of interest. The rate of interest even now allowed under this law is about 19 per cent. which is a very high rate and I am sure nobody would agree that this can be considered as any relief to the debtor. The third was the debt conciliation board to which I will now refer, but before doing so I will refer to the other provisions of the Relief of Indebtedness Act. The fourth was the application of the rule of Dumdupat. That also, I submit respectfully, has not given any relief to the agriculturists.

12 noon.

Mr. Speaker : Is that a reason for increasing the number of conciliation boards? The honourable member is now discussing and criticising the provision of the Act. That is not fair. He may give reasons why the number of boards should be increased.

Pir Akbar Ali : I will give them in a minute if you will patiently hear me. In order to settle the outstanding debts, it is necessary that debt conciliation boards be established throughout the Punjab. I was putting my case before you that the relief intended to be given to the debtor had not been given. And because I suspect that the other side of the House, who do not agree with me in increasing the number of boards, may say that all sorts of relief had already been given to the debtors and no further relief is now required by increasing the number of debt conciliation boards that I wanted to discuss the provisions of the Relief of Indebtedness Bill in order to meet those gentlemen who want to contradict me in this House. The fifth is the Redemption of Mortgages Act and the sixth and seventh are some amendments of the Civil Procedure Code. The sixth was that the debtors may not be arrested so far as possible but they are still being arrested. The last was that the houses of agriculturists may not be attached. This is also being done. The only useful remedy provided by the Relief of Indebtedness Act which can be effectively applied is the debt conciliation boards. I submit that they should be established in every district. The utility of these boards will be proved by my quoting the figures of the applications given by the creditors to the Debt Conciliation Board, Jhang, which is the most criticised Board. I will submit that in the month of January 66 applications were given by debtors and 70 by creditors in the Jhang District. In February 70 applications were given by debtors and 75 by creditors. In March 72 applications were given by debtors and 111 by creditors. In April the number of debtors' applications was a little more. In the month of May 32 applications were given by debtors and 57 by creditors. In Shorkot tahsil in the four months referred to above applications by debtors number 205 while those given by the creditors number 208. This is the reason why the Jhang Conciliation Board is being adversely criticised and hue and cry is being raised against it by certain interested persons out of whom some happen to be lawyers, who are themselves the creditors or are friends of creditors. I fail to understand why the debt conciliation board the number of applications to which made by the creditors is more than the number of applications given by the debtors, is so adversely criticised. These figures regarding the conciliation board of Jhang would suffice for me to strengthen my plea and, therefore, no honourable member would oppose my motion. The provisions relating to the debt conciliation boards were very minutely examined at the time of the consideration of the Relief of Indebtedness Act. Almost all the suggestions made by Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath were unanimously accepted by us and he was very clear in his object—I do not say that he was in any way interested in the creditors. But endeavours were made to explain every thing and that is the reason why out of 86 clauses of the whole Act more than 25 relate to the debt conciliation boards. When the provisions had been minutely scrutinised by Raja Sahib and other members of the select committee and then by the House, nothing can be said now against those provisions. It may be stated that in some cases the personnel of the board may not have come up to the standard expected but I can now assure you that the Premier will not let anything go unexamined or unnoticed in which there are any such defects. It is our duty to give relief to the class which deserves it more. We should try and impress through you upon the members and upon this Government that the personnel of the boards should be such that at least the Chairman should represent the class which is more in need of help.

Mr. Speaker : Is the honourable member discussing the constitution of the conciliation boards ?

Pir Akbar Ali : It is high time that the settlement of debts be made. The courts have failed to give relief to the debtors. These debts have now grown very old as has now been shown, in an answer to a question, by the Honourable the Minister for Revenue ; the amount is more than 140 crores. These debts cannot be settled in courts because the creditors are unable to find court fees for these cases and, moreover, after obtaining the decrees in courts there are the difficulties in execution proceedings. Execution proceedings go on for many years and then even the debts are not satisfied. Therefore, it is in the interest of both the creditors and the debtors that these debts be settled by the debt conciliation boards. I submit that every district should have one conciliation board. Some of the districts like Ferozepore and Mianwali urgently require the establishment of these boards. The Government might say that they have not got the funds to meet this expenditure. But I submit that the salaries of the members of the board may be reduced to half of what they are. In that way the number will rise to 20, and for the remaining 10 Government can find more funds. I submit that my neighbouring district of Hissar is urgently in need of the establishment of a conciliation board. I cannot say whether the boards were urgently required in places where they have been established, but I can say that they are very urgently required in the districts of Mianwali, Hissar and some other districts. I submit that this is an innocent motion which should be agreed to by all the honourable members, and I hope that no opposition will be shown to it. With these remarks I put before you my motion.

[Pir Akbar Ali.]

Mr. Speaker : The resolution moved is—

This Assembly recommends to the Government that the number of debt conciliation boards be increased in the Punjab.

Sardar Kartar Singh (Layllpur East, Sikh, Rural) (Punjabi) : It was not long ago when this Act was passed amid a storm of objections, and it was hoped that the Act, the passage of which was carried in the teeth of great opposition, would come into force at once to the immense benefit of the people of this country. But it is disappointing to note that the Act has not been enforced throughout the province. In many parts of the province it is nothing more than a dead letter. Government ought to bring it into force without any further delay so that we may be able to judge what amount of relief it has offered to the debtors and what further measure of relief is still needed. I remember that this Act was passed after duly meeting the objections raised by various parties with the exception of one. There is no reason why it should be kept in abeyance in certain parts of the province and why it should not be extended to the whole of the Punjab. I would like to point out that whenever any scheme for the relief of indebtedness comes up before the House, the honourable members sitting on the opposite benches begin to throw out hints that the Opposition would not be agreeable to it. But I may tell them once for all that we are always prepared to extend our helping hand to the poor peasants. On the contrary, we are deeply concerned with the doubtful attitude of the Government. When we see the honourable Raja Narendra Nath sitting on the right hand side of the Honourable the Premier serious doubts arise in our mind as to whether this Government will do any thing for the relief of the poor debtors. When the elections were going on, every party came forward with its own programme and placed it before the voters. At that time we also kept the question of agricultural debt in the forefront.

Sir, the parties, which promised during the election campaign to help the debtors are present in this Assembly. And that party is also present which begged for votes from the electorate on the ground that they will leave no stone unturned to help the sahuikars and moneylenders to recover their debts. At that time these two parties, i.e., the Hindu Party and the Unionist Party were dead set against each other, but now they have come to join hands with each other. I think the following couplet by Waris Shah is applicable as far as this dispute of theirs is concerned—

اک دے مہنا دوجی دے گالی ایہہ فناں بہائی وچوں سکھیاں نے

The parties which were at daggers drawn before the election, have now come to an understanding and we are doubtful whether they will help the zamindars in any way because it is evidently clear that their point of views is entirely different.

When Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram and Raja Narendra Nath have come together it would be foolish on our part to believe that anything would be done to relieve the zamindars of their debts.

We need not ponder much over this resolution. It has been said that it will be given effect to and the debtor classes will thus be given relief. If this resolution was meant to be given effect to in the province then, where was the necessity for carrying on agitation in the country? May I humbly request that this resolution should be given effect to forthwith. This simple resolution will be passed, but our only request now is that the Government may be pleased to give effect to it at an early date so that no need in future may arise to put this question in the Assembly.

As there are many other important items on the agenda, I do not propose to make a lengthy speech in favour of this resolution. I support this resolution once again and with these words I resume my seat.

(At this stage an honourable member crossed the floor.)

Sardar Hari Singh : On a point of order, regarding a parliamentary convention and practice in the House of Commons. We are being criticised for it even in the Press and I think you should give a definite ruling that no member should break the convention about crossing the floor of the House.

Mr. Speaker : Members are not prohibited to cross the floor of the House, but they are not to cross between the Chair and a member who is speaking, nor should they cross irregularly. That is to say, they should not cross the House or leave their places without making obeisance to the Chair. It is desirable that the crossing of the House should be avoided as far as may be possible.

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh : I want to speak, Sir.

Mr. Speaker : It is unparliamentary on the part of honourable members to stand up and say that they want to speak.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang (West Lahore Division, General, Rural): I rise to oppose this resolution. (Hear, hear). It may give surprise to some members, but it should not give any surprise to those who have studied the question properly. This Act was passed two years ago. Some of its provisions were vehemently opposed by me as a member of the Government but I was overruled and those provisions were included in the Act. Some provisions which I wanted to be included were not included. The result therefore from my point of view is that the Act which as passed is a very objectionable, inequitable and unsatisfactory one—

Raja Ghazanfar Ali Khan : On a point of order. The honourable member has just stated that he opposed this Bill as a member of Government. I should like to know whether he meant that he opposed it in the Cabinet meeting and if so, whether he can divulge confidential proceedings of the Cabinet.

An honourable member : The honourable member has not revealed any fact.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The result has been, as I have said, a most unsatisfactory and inequitable Act. One of the most important features of this kind of legislation in other countries and in some parts of our own country also, has been, that whereas it has been provided by law that in certain cases and by a certain procedure debts should be scaled down, a provision is also made for the recovery of the balance of the debts. In this Act there is absolutely no provision to ensure the recovery even of the scaled down debt.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is not in order in discussing these points.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I will not dwell on them at any length. It is absolutely necessary that before we extend the operation of this Act, the defects in the Act should be removed or in other words, until the defects in the Act are removed its operation should not be extended. It is on this ground that I oppose the resolution in which this House is asked to recommend to the Government that more conciliation boards should be appointed.

Another reason why I oppose this resolution is that the experience so far has been most unfortunate. The conciliation boards which have been functioning in the province under this Act have not been able, with exceptions here and there, to do justice to both the parties, that is, the creditors and the debtors. It has become the fashion to speak in most lachrymose terms of the debtors as if they formed the only population of the world. (Hear, hear). There are other people also who have a right to exist and it is most regrettable that when anybody in this House or outside gets up to propose a better measure he only takes into consideration the miseries and troubles of the debtors, which are many, I admit, but entirely ignores the troubles and worries and miseries of the other class. I have before me a pamphlet which has been published by a responsible body at Jhang to which reference has been made by the mover of the resolution. They have pointed out how this Board has functioned and I am referring to this Board not on any personal grounds, but by way of illustration to show how these boards have been acting. I speak from my personal knowledge, because I made enquiries from the members of two boards at least regarding the manner in which they were doing this conciliation work and I was told by members of the two boards that justice was not being done. For obvious reasons I cannot disclose their names, but they said they were helpless.

Maulvi Ghulam Mohy-ud-Din : Is the honourable member in order in discussing the personnel or the procedure adopted by the members of these boards ?

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I am not discussing either the personnel or the procedure of the boards.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member is quite in order in giving reasons for not increasing the number of conciliation boards.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I would request the members on the Government benches not to raise points of order simply to throw me off the track, for, that would be a vain effort. It would simply waste the time of the House.

Mr. Speaker : I would request the honourable member to proceed with his speech.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I have before me a pamphlet containing personal strictures on the members of the board, but I would not say a word about them.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan : What is the name of that responsible body ?

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Hindu Sahayak Sabha of Jhang. Before this, the Bar Association, Jhang, also issued a similar pamphlet, but unfortunately no notice, so far as I am aware, was taken of it beyond perhaps suspending the activities of this board for sometime. I, of course, speak subject to correction.

Premier : I am afraid the honourable member's information is not correct.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : It means that no action was taken. At this stage the Assembly adjourned for lunch.

The Assembly re-assembled at 2-30 P.M. of the clock. Mr. Speaker in the Chair.

COMPLAINT AGAINST CIVIL AND MILITARY GAZETTE.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Mr. Speaker, with your permission may I raise a point of order for your consideration ? I do not know if you intend to permit me to raise it now in connection with the matter which has appeared in the Civil and Military Gazette.

Mr. Speaker : May I have the complaint in writing ?

Diwan Chaman Lall : It is a very serious matter. On the last occasion, as you will recollect, in the last session at Lahore the Honourable Leader of the House was pleased to make a reference to a particular newspaper and objected to the articles contained therein, whereupon after the statement made by the Honourable Leader of the House you were pleased to make comments yourself regarding the articles appearing in that paper.

Mr. Speaker : I may do the same thing again. What I want is that my attention to the objectionable words, sentences and paragraph may be drawn in writing. If facts justify I shall gladly try to protect the honourable members of this House. Their protection is my protection. (Hear, hear).

Diwan Chaman Lall : Thank you for your expression of opinion. We shall, as early as possible, take steps to bring it to your notice in writing.

RESOLUTIONS.

DEBT CONCILIATION BOARDS.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I was stating the reasons why I am opposed to this resolution. I have already submitted two. The third one is practically a simple explanation of the second one. The establishment of these conciliation boards was intended to be experimental, to see the result of their working. As the result of their working has not been satisfactory I have to oppose the extension of these conciliation boards.

[Dr. Sir Gokal Chand Narang.]

Now I am going to invite the attention of the House to what has been said about the conciliation board at Jhang. It is stated:—

The members of the Debt Conciliation Board on taking charge of their office openly began to preach to their debtor class that they were to insert fictitious claims of their friends and relations in their petitions so as to facilitate the imposition of their own terms of settlement upon the creditors. Their suggestions were readily taken up by the debtor class with the consequence that there was hardly any petition instituted in the Board in which the bogus claims of the friends and relations of the debtor did not appear.

This is with reference to section 20 of the Act, under which, if those to whom 40 per cent. of the debts are due, agree to settle, all the creditors are bound under the law. In order to secure the consent of holders of 40 per cent. of debts, fictitious debts are entered in the applications. If it so happens that new debts entered in the applications do not come up to 40 per cent., the allegation is, that the board reduces genuine debts in order to raise the proportion of fictitious debts to 40 per cent. This is an allegation which has been clearly made and instances have been given by the publishers of this pamphlet.

Then, again, there is another section which has been badly abused by these boards according to the publishers of this pamphlet. Under section 13, it is necessary that the creditors should submit within two months of the date of the publication of the notice a statement of their claims against a particular debtor, who comes to the board with an application for conciliation of the debts. The allegation is that a very long date is fixed for the hearing and, as under the law, the statement of claims must be submitted within two months, the creditors file their statements but they are not taken by the board. They are returned on oral direction that they can be presented on the date of the next hearing, whereas that date of hearing is much after the lapse of two months, with the result that their debts are discharged. If this is the practice certainly we must look into the matter. I may say that either the writers of this pamphlet should be prosecuted or the members of the conciliation board should be prosecuted for the various dishonest practices that have been attributed to them. It is only for them, i.e., members of Government to know what course should be adopted. It is for them to see what action should be taken against these things. Let this allegation not go unchallenged. I have no doubt that the authorities responsible for the working of this Act will look into this matter.

Pir Akbar Ali : Under what law can they be prosecuted ?

Dr. Sir Gokal Chand Narang : Come to me and I shall tell you. There is a regular body who has published this pamphlet. You can at least prosecute the publisher who has published this pamphlet under the authority of Hindu Sahayak Sabha. They are the publishers. Catch hold of them. A serious abuse of the provision of section 13 of the Act at the hands of the members of the board that has been brought to our notice is that the creditors are occasionally given wrong dates for the hearing of applications and when they are absent, naturally, on that date, their debts are discharged. Instances have been given with respect to this delinquency also.

Then thirdly section 13 of the Act is alleged to be violated by the members of the board in making an abrupt change in their own programme.

The creditors not knowing of the change of the board's programme, fail to appear before them. Instances of this also have been given.

Fourthly, section 13 is misapplied by the members of the board in cancelling the just debts of the creditors when owing to some unavoidable cause or other sufficient reason the latter fail to appear on a particular hearing. One of the recent instances is that a case was fixed for the 15th of a certain month and the creditor could not appear on that date. He came on the 18th and put an application that he was ill and therefore could not appear on the due date. They said 'How can he be ill on the 15th when he has put in his application personally on the 18th, and, therefore, his application must be rejected.'

Fifthly, section 13 provides that the creditors must submit a written statement of the debts within two months of the date of publication of the notice under clause (1) of that section. Publication of notice is provided under the Act. Section 14 further lays down that the creditors must furnish all documents and copies and so on. These sections do not give power to the board to re-open the previous accounts of the creditors. This is what they do. Generally these accounts are examined by the chaprasi in their court. He is asked to go into all the bahis of the creditors and find out the amount due. That is the way in which things are being done. The chaprasi is the auditor, accountant and the commission. He is the unqualified assistant of the court. I do not want to mention his name here.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan : On a point of order, Sir, He is reading from an unauthorised publication of which we have not received any copy.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I ask the honourable member under what point of order he raises this objection? Is there any rule to that effect?

Mr. Speaker : The point, as I understand, is that when an honourable member makes a statement on the floor of this House, he should make himself responsible for its accuracy or quote facts from some book or pamphlet of established reputation.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I take the responsibility, Sir. This pamphlet was, I believe, sent to every member of this House. (Some honourable members : No, no). I received this pamphlet. (An honourable member : Hindu members). May be Hindu members. I received it and if I am not mistaken, it must have been sent to the Premier and other members of the Government. Let them say that they did not get it or if they got it they threw it into the waste paper basket.

Mr. Speaker : Assuming that it was published, as stated by the honourable member. Does that publication make it an authentic document?

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : It is an authentic document. It is published by a body which is well established, which is popular which has got an office in Jhang. The name of the publishers is the District Hindu Sahayak Sabha, Jhang.

Premier : Is it a registered body?

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : What does it matter? Is the Unionist Party a registered body? (Hear, hear) Have they any status? Have they any locus standi? If they have a standing this Hindu Sabha also has a standing. (Hear, hear).

Premier : Their statements are not quoted on the floor of the House. They do not publish pamphlets.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : You say the Unionist Party have issued this programme, they have decided this, the Unionist Party has done this, they have done that.

Premier : Under the signature of a responsible secretary.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : One of the honourable Ministers was reading out the programme and the resolutions which had been tabled by the Unionist party and he read out the whole list. What is the Unionist Party? It is not a registered body. (Hear, hear).

Diwan Chaman Lall : If the honourable member has taken the responsibility for these statements the matter is at an end.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : This information has reached me from a certain source. I believe it to be correct and I have a right to bring it to the notice of Government. Let the Government prosecute the people who have published this information. This is what I have said. (An honourable member : Who are those people?) They know it all right, who are the people. They dare not prosecute them because whatever they have stated is correct. They have taken it from judicial files.

Premier : The honourable member has not made it clear whether he is prepared to take the responsibility for the allegations made in the pamphlet. That is what we need. If he takes the responsibility for the allegations made in the pamphlet, then he is perfectly in order to quote from that pamphlet.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I take this responsibility. Information has been communicated to me. I believe it to be correct and I have a right to bring it to the notice of the Government. If they are fighting shy to receive this information, it is their look out. But I stand by what I say here. If they want my responsibility I take the responsibility. (Hear, hear). Let them prosecute me for stating this.

Premier : I am not fighting shy. As a matter of fact I request the honourable member not to be in the heat of the moment, so indiscreet as to take the responsibility for all the allegations contained in that statement. The honourable member may be protected for what he says in this House. But what about those people?

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The allegations I have read, I take the responsibility for them and if those people have communicated false information to me and have asked me to take action on it, even then in their interest I am prepared to suffer. I take the responsibility. Let the Premier prosecute me for the allegations that I am making on the floor of the House. Let him set the machinery of law in motion. I take the responsibility.

Pir Akbar Ali : On a point of order, may I request the honourable member in possession of the House to name the man?

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is that a point of order?

Mr. Speaker : No, it is not.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Then my information is that this board has been exceeding its monetary jurisdiction.

Mr. Speaker : This may be taken to be true for the purpose of his speech.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : This is the information I have received. I sincerely believe it to be correct. Those people have no interest in giving false information to a man of my position or to other members.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member may proceed with his arguments.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : They have exceeded their jurisdiction in various ways. Their jurisdiction is confined to Rs. 10,000; but they have been dealing with cases in which debts of more than Rs. 10,000 in value are involved. This is one way in which they have exceeded their jurisdiction and instances can be quoted. One other way they have exceeded their jurisdiction is this. Under section (7) the definition of the debtor is given and they have taken cognisance of cases in which the persons concerned are not always debtors coming within the definition of the word 'debtor' as given in section 7 of the Act. Then again they are debarred from taking cognisance of cases concerning mortgages with possession and my information is that they are dealing with cases in which mortgages with possession are concerned. It has also been reported, I have already stated it, that they are employing a chaprasi for doing the work of an accountant, an auditor or the commission in court. They have also proceeded to take action under section 87 according to my information which they have no right to do. These are the things which have been reported to me. Again an allegation is also to the effect that even correct records are not sometimes kept and an order is reported to have been written and then torn and pieces of that torn paper are in the possession of some people and if necessary they can probably be produced. It has also been reported that the members have tried to popularise the blessings of these boards by issuing pamphlets which were kept in the office of the board and distributed freely among the zamindar classes and by enacting dramas in the rural areas of the district in which the Hindu creditor is depicted in very black colours with the consequence that feelings of hatred and contempt and distrust are created between the two classes of the country leading to breaches of peace and making it impossible for the Hindus to live in the villages. It is a patent fact that many Hindus have left the villages because they did not consider it safe to live there as a result of the propaganda partly of the cooperative societies and partly of organisations like these.

Mr. Speaker : May I request the honourable member to wind up ?

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I would therefore submit that unless suitable amendments are made in the Act no further extension of the principle which is not a bad one, I admit, should be allowed. In principle, I approve of conciliation of debts and scaling down of debts provided that some provision is made also for recovery, but until a provision is made for effective supervision of the working of these boards, they should not be extended further. As it is, under the law there is no provision for appeal, there is no provision for revision, there is no vakil, without the permission of the board, there is practically no daili and there is no appeal and that is reminiscent of the Rowlatt Act which we succeeded by at a very great cost in knocking at the head. I am not, I may say again, against the principle involved in the Act or the establishment of these boards, but, as I have submitted, unless suitable changes are made in the Act, this experiment should not be extended, as the experiment made so far has not been a very successful one, in fact has been very unfortunate. Out of the five boards I have actually received complaints against the working of three and the other two boards may not also be working very satisfactorily. If they are working satisfactorily I shall be very happy, but it is really a sad and unfortunate thing that there should be so many boards which have not given satisfaction by their work. On these grounds I would oppose this resolution.

Malik Barkat Ali (Without being called upon by the Speaker):

Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker: Yes, Mr. Barkat Ali.

Malik Barkat Ali: I am sorry, sir.

Mr. Speaker: If and when an honourable member wishes to speak, he may rise in his seat but he should not address the chair or make a request for permission to speak.

Sardar Sohan Singh Josh (Amritsar North, Sikh, Rural) (Punjabi): I rise to support this resolution. (Cheers). I do not want to take much time, for we are anxious to speak on the next resolution which is more important.

This resolution has been moved by a member of the Unionist Party, and I was wondering whether the programme of that party provides for the relief of indebtedness only through the machinery of the conciliation boards. We are prepared to go further. We stand not only for the cancellation of all debts but also for the handing over of the lands of the big landlords to the peasantry. (Applause).

The Unionist Party is labouring under a gross misunderstanding in so far as they imagine that the Congress would oppose them in such measures. They are mistaken; the Congress would not do that, and the Socialists, as I have said, would go further. Small mercies like this, will not avert the disruption of the Unionist Party. To prolong its life they shall have to do a great deal more.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (East Punjab Landholders): Sir, the honourable mover of the resolution appealed to the House that his proposal should be considered in a dispassionate spirit without any class prejudice. I do not think it is necessary to assure the House that I never had any class prejudice (hear, hear), have none and will have none. I always like, at least profess to like to look at measures coming before me in a dispassionate spirit. So the honourable member need not entertain any fears on this ground so far as I am concerned. (Hear, hear). The Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Bill when it came before us was opposed by me. It was opposed by me not because I have no sympathy with the peasant or that I have no sympathy with the debtors, it was opposed by me on economic grounds. I hold and I held then that any measure that lowers the credit of the peasant is not free from objection. What we want is banks—state banks—founded on a sound financial basis. The agriculturist needs money, he wants money and if his credit is lowered he would not be able to get anything and he will be reduced to misfortune. That was my reason for opposing the Act, but the Act was passed and we must take the facts as they are (hear, hear). Conciliatory boards were sanctioned and conciliatory boards have been brought into existence. I do not think that we will gain much or anything for the matter of that by opposing the resolution. I take the view which Mr. Krishna Gopal Dutt put before the House and it is this that the resolution is perfectly unnecessary. Even if it had not been brought before the House the Government had full authority to establish conciliatory boards and to allow their working. I am glad that my honourable friend the mover has given us an opportunity of bringing before the House the grievances of the class which has been adversely affected by the working of the conciliation boards. Complaints have been coming to me and I have particularly received complaints from Jhang, the report of the Hindu Sahaik Sabha has been before me but, probably I need not plead before the House, I have not been very well of late and I did not have time to examine every instance that has been quoted in the book. I know instances have been quoted but they are not all of them to be taken as gospel truth. Enquiry must be made (hear, hear). As a matter of fact on receipt of this report I wrote a letter to Sir Chhotu Ram asking him whether the report has been brought to his notice and whether anything had been done. He told me that the matter concerned the Honourable Premier and that some sort of enquiry had been made into it. I had no time to look at the enquiry or to study the result or the report of the enquiry. I am not therefore in a position to make definite and a specific proposal based on the report of the Hindu Sahaik Sabha. When I have time to go through the report thoroughly which I propose to do before October next I will probably send for the writers of the report and go through each instance. Then I will be able to decide whether there are any definite and specific proposals which I can put before the Premier or the House. At present so far as Jhang case is concerned I have very little to say, because, as I have explained I have not had time to examine the report carefully. I have read through it. Of course instances have been mentioned. The points that I am now going to put before the House and some of which have been put by Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang, are these. I was so anxious about them that although Dr. Gokul Chand Narang sits now on the opposite benches I wrote to him yesterday about the matter and I am glad that he has not only supported me, but gone a little further.

I have not been able to understand the attitude taken up by my friend whom I have always called the best constitutional lawyer in the Akali party, the honourable member from Lyallpur. He supported the resolution and shifted the responsibility on me because I am sitting on the right side of the Premier. (Diswan Chaman Lall: It is a wrong side all the same). Let me point out to him what my proposals are

3 P. M.

[D. B. Raja Narindra Nath.]

and if the Honourable the Premier gives me an assurance I find no reason to oppose the resolution because the conciliatory boards are there and they will be established as finances permit. Therefore it is better to have some assurance of purging them of irregularities. Well, Sir, one thing that has been brought to my notice and to which Sir Gokul Chand also referred was that bogus debtors are put forward; and as there is no clear provision in the Act of making any enquiries as to the genuineness or otherwise of the debt, no enquiry is made. I say that the Act is not interpreted in the proper spirit and is not rightly understood. I bring to the notice of the House sections 10 and 11 of the Act. Section 10 says—

‘Every application to a board shall be in writing and be signed by the applicant and verified in such manner as may be prescribed.’

Section 11 reads as follows—

‘Every application presented by a debtor to a board shall contain the following particulars, namely—the place where the debtor resides or holds land;
the amount and particulars of his claim against such debtor, &c., &c., &c.’

I say that when it is alleged by a party that the verification is false, it becomes the duty of the board to enquire into that fact.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : They say it is not their business.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath : I want the Premier to give us an assurance that he will issue instructions to all the boards that it is their duty to enquire into the matter, because the amount of the debt has to be verified, and if a man says that the verification is false, then enquiry must be made. I think the board has been failing in its duty if it is acting in this manner.

Again section 13, to which my friend Sir Gokul Chand also referred says—

On the date fixed the board shall publish, in such manner as may be prescribed, a notice calling upon every creditor of the debtor to submit a statement of debts owed to such creditor by the debtor. Such statement shall be submitted to the board in writing within two months from the date of publication of the notice :

Provided that, if the board is satisfied that any creditor was, for good and sufficient cause, unable to comply with such direction within the time fixed, it may extend the period for the submission of his statement of the debts owed to him.

Well, I say that directions ought to issue to the boards that they must record reasons which constitute sufficient cause for extending time. Instructions should issue to all the boards.

Another point is this that there is no appeal or application for revision from the decision of the board, as my honourable friend pointed ‘na appeal, na dahil, na vakil.’ I think that the deputy commissioners should be directed to make periodical inspection of the files, and if he discovers any irregularities he should report to Government so that action may be taken under section 8.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The deputy commissioner has no jurisdiction.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath : He is the chief executive officer and he can take over any file lying anywhere (Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : No.) Certainly anything happening in the district can be supervised by the deputy commissioner. I do not see any objection to that.

(Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : No.) Let me see if the Premier takes the same view. (Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Even the High Court has no jurisdiction).

Now I want to have an assurance that instructions will be issued to the boards and to the deputy commissioners as I have suggested. As to the Jhang case, I am not prepared to express any opinion. I will make further enquiries, go through each instance and see how far they are capable of proof and how far it is possible to prove those facts.

Supposing a man says—

مجھ کو کوئی تاریخ دی دو۔۔۔۔۔ کو اور

How can this be proved. Therefore I need not bring such cases to the notice of the Premier. But there are other cases which if properly scrutinised can be made the subject of definite proposals. And I should also like to see the report of the enquiry which has already been made by Government. If I am concerned I will come forward with specific proposals later on.

If the Premier gives an assurance that he will issue instructions on the lines I have suggested, I will not oppose the proposals and I do not mind if it is carried.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava (Lahore City, General, Urban) : On behalf of the Congress party I have to state that the Congress considers it as its paramount duty to assist in the extension of the application of the principles of debt conciliation boards (Hear, hear). We are all aware of the fact that there is much to be desired in the actual working of the boards and we desire that effective steps should be taken to see that the main principles underlying the activities of the boards are effectively applied in justice and impartiality. (Hear, hear). It must not be forgotten that the personnel of the conciliation boards is a matter of great importance and we shall support every attempt made to ensure the working of the conciliatory boards, both in action and in personnel, and see that they inspire complete confidence, justice and impartiality. With these words we fully support the resolution (Voices : Question be now put).

Shaikh Faiz Muhammad (Dera Ghazi Khan Central, Muhammadan, Rural) : I did not expect that I would be called upon to speak (Voices : Do not speak then). I thought that opportunity will be given to other honourable members to speak—particularly those members who are not supporting the resolution. I am grateful to you, Sir, for giving me this opportunity. At the very outset I have to say that my honourable friend opposite, Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang, for whose independent views I have always had a very great respect, has given me the shock of my life to-day. He has not given me that shock by the arguments he has advanced in support of his views and against the resolution, but by the statement with which he has prefaced his arguments. If I understood him aright, he said that when this Relief of Indebtedness Act was in an embryonic state, he was a member of the Cabinet and that in the Cabinet he opposed the principle of this Bill.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I did not mention the word 'Cabinet'

Shaikh Faiz Muhammad : The Cabinet, the Government, or the Ministry—whatever it may be—the question which naturally arises in such circumstances is, that being at that time a member of the Government and having opposed that measure and failed in his opposition to bring about the result which he wanted to bring about may I ask the honourable gentleman if he still continued in that Government as a Minister ? If he did, I must confess I have been to-day completely disillusioned.

Coming to the resolution itself it is hardly necessary for me to say that I support it and while doing so I wish to make a few observations to dispel some doubts that have been expressed outside this House and even in this House as regards the principle underlying this Act and the actual working of the conciliation boards.

Mr. Speaker : No one in this House has questioned the principle of the Act, Only its working has been questioned.

Shaikh Faiz Muhammad : It is said that these boards are an anomaly on two grounds. Firstly because the object of these boards is to keep people from having their claims settled through a court of law and secondly that these boards are bad because the persons who are appointed to serve on them are not conversant with the provisions of law and, therefore, they make mistakes which they should not make. My submission is that this criticism is based on misconception of the real functions of the boards.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Your remarks are based on mere misconception of what I said.

Shaikh Faiz Muhammad : My submission is that these boards are not courts of law. Their sole function is to effect settlement between the parties if such a settlement can be arrived at and if after the best efforts, a settlement cannot be arrived at, then the parties are at liberty to go to a court of law and litigate (Voices : You are wrong).

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The honourable member does not seem to have read the Act. If he had ever read it, surely now he seems to have forgotten it.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : The honourable member was lately a public prosecutor and not a civil lawyer.

Shaikh Faiz Muhammad : I am definitely of the opinion that the parties can go to a court of law and have their claims settled. The Board can in such cases issue certificate for the information of the court that the settlement could not be arrived at because of the unreasonable attitude of one party or the other. My submission is that for the settlement of debts it is not always necessary that we should have people serving on the board who are conversant with all the provisions of law and my learned friends opposite, who are lawyers, know fully well that many cases involving large sums of money are settled outside the courts by the intervention of even illiterate people. All that is needed in such cases is that persons who are appointed to serve on the boards should have good will and sympathy for the parties.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Some commonsense too.

Shaikh Faiz Muhammad : I have been concerned in three cases of fairly big amounts. In these cases settlements have been arrived at through the intervention of not a lawyer, not a man conversant with the legal procedure but by an ordinary gentleman who is perhaps not even a matriculate. The only thing is that he had good will and sympathy for both sides. If the principle of the Bill is accepted by the House and by the honourable members opposite and if it is believed that conciliation is better than litigation (Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Nobody doubts that) then we should make provision as Raja Sahib has pointed out, to improve the working of the boards.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : This can only be done by the amendment of the Act itself.

Shaikh Faiz Muhammad : My learned friend, Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang, has referred to certain definite allegations in a pamphlet but we do not know who the author of that pamphlet is. He says that these boards are not popular and that they have not been doing justice to the creditors. My submission in this connection is that it would be far better for the House to accept facts and not to go by reports published by interested persons. We should take facts as they are. For instance, we should take the case of Jhang Conciliation Board. It is not necessary for us to go through the details of the cases which have come up before that Board since its inception but we can confine ourselves to cases for two or three months. We have to see that the total number of cases which came up before the Board and the number of cases brought by the creditors themselves. My learned friend has said that sometimes debtors put in the list of creditors including some fictitious names. It may be so although I question that statement.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : A point of order. The honourable member is repeating the arguments advanced by other speakers.

Mr. Speaker : I would request the honourable member not to repeat arguments advanced by other speakers.

Shaikh Faiz Muhammad : My learned friend Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang said that in many of the applications which debtors put in a particular district—probably he was referring to Jhang district—the names of fictitious creditors were given with a particular object. For the sake of arguments I will accept the statement, but what about the applications that were presented by the creditors themselves? My learned friend should know that from January 1937 to date 718 applications have been presented to the Board in Jhang tahsil for settlement.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Do you want me to explain?

Shaikh Faiz Muhammad : No, Sir. Out of these applications, 348 applications were put in by the debtors and, as pointed out by my learned friend, it is possible that in these 348 applications, some of the debtors may have included fictitious names. But what about the remaining applications which were put in by the creditors themselves?

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : How do you know that fictitious creditors are not included in the written statement?

Shaikh Faiz Muhammad : These applications were put in by persons who called themselves creditors and they had not been mentioned in the applications put in by the defendants. This clearly shows that these boards, in spite of the criticism that has appeared against them in the Press and in spite of that pamphlet, are popular not only with the debtors but also with the creditors.

With these few remarks I support this resolution whole-heartedly and I hope that it will be carried by a great majority.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I beg to move—

That the question be now put.

(Voices of no, no.)

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

That the question be now put.

The motion was lost.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Sir, is this how the interests of minorities are protected? (Interruption). This is a dodge being played.

Premier : I think the honourable member is making an unnecessary, uncalled for and unjust insinuation.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Not against you. I made a general statement.

Mr. Speaker : That word is unparliamentary. I would request the honourable member to withdraw it.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Which word is not parliamentary?

Mr. Speaker : To use the word 'dodge' about any member is clearly unparliamentary.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : I did not use it for any particular member. I said, that a dodge is being played. I never ascribed it to any particular member.

Mr. Speaker : But who is playing it ?

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : I made a general statement.

Mr. Speaker : The statement clearly refers to the other side.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : This might apply to a particular propensity of the party, to a particular tendency—

Mr. Speaker : The word 'dodge' is unparliamentary and I request the honourable member to withdraw it.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Mr. Speaker, I would be delighted to withdraw it, although the other day the Premier refused to withdraw some unparliamentary words.

Mr. Speaker : He said that he had not used those words on his behalf. He said that that was only stated outside.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Why was not the Reporter asked to read out ?

Mr. Speaker : The Reporter was not present and there is no reason to disbelieve the Honourable Premier. The discussion may proceed.

Pir Mohy-ud-Din Lal Badshah (Attock South, Muhammadan, Rural, Urdu) : Sir, while heartily supporting the resolution moved by my honourable friend, Pir Akbar Ali, I want to congratulate the House on the fact that the motion before it has the support of both the parties in the Assembly. And I consider it a sign of good fortune that both the parties are agreed as to its great utility. There is, however, a small party which is opposing it because of their selfish ends.

The capitalists have been opposing the establishment of conciliation boards and they will continue to do so. But I fail to understand the logic of this opposition. Whenever there is a money suit to be filed they readily agree to submit it to the decision of a sub-judge, even though they may have to spend a good deal of money on court-fees. I wonder why they do not agree to get such suits decided by arbitrators and without incurring any expenditure.

I want to ask a question from the honourable members who are opposing this resolution. Is it their wish that the poor zamindar's household goods should be sold by auction in order to pay off the money-lender? Do they want that poor zamindars should be deprived of their means of subsistence and that they should be thrown into civil prison?

My honourable friend Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang has stated that the conciliation boards are not functioning properly. This I submit is not a sound argument for abolishing these boards. It would be like a person, who while on his way to Simla experiences some nasty jolts in the railway train, and in order to avenge himself on the railway administration proposes that the Kalka-Simla Railway line should be closed. Would you regard his demand a just one, or would you try to remove the hardships which he experienced on the Kalka-Simla Railway line? (An honourable member : Our only object is to see these boards function properly). Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang has made certain complaints about the unsatisfactory working of the Jhang Conciliation Board. I would, therefore, be perfectly justified, if I bring the same kind of charges against the working of the conciliation board at Rawalpindi. There the debtors are loud in their complaints against it. (An honourable member : Set it right too). If we do not derive any benefit from these debt conciliation boards and do not work them properly, we have only ourselves to thank for it. The question is whether or not these boards are useful for both the debtor and the money-lender. Needless to say that both the parties are in complete agreement with regard to the underlying principle and admit that the existence of these boards is a source of advantage both to the debtor and the creditor.

The present budget shows that for lack of funds only a few more conciliation boards can be set up. I will submit, Sir, that more money should be spared for the conciliation boards by reducing the police force. Economy should be effected in the expenditure on the administration of justice and the money thus saved should be utilized in establishing more conciliation boards, for they are a means of preserving peace and order.

You know, Sir, that frequent reports are received to the effect that at such and such a place a money-lender has been killed by a debtor. If there are conciliation boards to bring about an amicable settlement between the debtor and the money-lender most of their troubles will, I am sure, automatically disappear, and things would not come to such a pass. It is more advisable to put up with a slight pain involved in the treatment of a disease than to allow it to grow and prove fatal to the patient. So neither the public peace nor the money-lender's wealth can in any way be secure unless the debtor-money lender question is solved once for all.

If for lack of funds a conciliation board cannot be established in every district, I would suggest that every two districts should be given a joint board, so that work may be started simultaneously all over the province.

If the Debtors' Protection Act is not in any way benefiting the zamindars, it was useless to undertake this piece of legislation. The money-lenders would of course, try to keep them in the dark about its useful provisions. The establishment of joint boards will familiarize the peasantry with the provisions of this Act and will thus serve a useful purpose.

I would like to draw, through you, Sir, the attention of the House to the fact that notwithstanding the Debtors' Protection Act, temporary alienation of the debtors' lands is being allowed without making any provision for the maintenance of the debtor's wife and children. So far as this matter concerns the Attock District, I have addressed several questions to the Honourable Premier, urging upon the Government the necessity of revising such temporary alienations. In case some more conciliation boards are to be established I would request the Honourable Premier not to forget the Attock District, as its zamindars are extremely poor and have no other property than their household goods.

With these words, Sir, I strongly support this resolution.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : On a point of order. The honourable member who has just resumed his seat is evidently new to this House and, therefore, does not know its convention that it is not proper to attribute motives to other honourable members. I should, therefore, like you to draw his attention to this convention.

Mr. Speaker : I wish the honourable member had drawn my attention in time.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : You were reading something very attentively and so I did not like to disturb you then.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I move closure now ?

Mr. Speaker : No.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I appeal to the honourable members opposite to remember that this is a non-official day. There is studied unanimity regarding this resolution, practical unanimity. I do not see why we should not be allowed to utilise the time of the House for the next resolution on the agenda.

Lala Duni Chand : I submit that it is the inherent power of the Chair to stop the debate when it is of opinion that the debate is being continued in order to prevent the next resolution coming up.

Premier : Honourable members opposite are certainly anxious to close the debate on this resolution. But it must be remembered that this House consists of 175 members and every member is naturally as anxious as members opposite to do justice to their constituencies and they want to put forward the case of their own constituencies with regard to the extension of these conciliation boards, and do not see why these honourable members should be deprived of that opportunity when even during question hour we waste—I am sorry for using that expression, I withdraw it—the opposition takes up the time of the House unnecessarily.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I have no desire to intervene in this debate, but since the Honourable Premier has stated that the time of the House is unnecessarily taken up by the Opposition during question hour, may I ask you to direct him to withdraw that expression, in view of the fact that we are at the present moment asking the honourable member to close the debate since we are in agreement with the resolution? This resolution is moved by a member of the Ministerial Party, and if he is in favour of the resolution the matter comes to an end. If he is in agreement with the resolution, why does he want the time of the House to be taken up in further discussing the obvious resolution and thereby prevent the Opposition from getting on to the next resolution?

Premier : It is not so obvious as the honourable member opposite thinks. The real position is this. We have provided only for five more conciliation boards in the budget. I know it for a fact that there are several members in this House each of whom wants to advocate the necessity of providing a board in his particular district or in his constituency. I do not want to deprive them of this opportunity of putting forward the claims of their constituencies so that the Government may know which is the most deserving district where these boards should be located.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : You have seen from the trend of the debate that almost every member of the House is in favour of the resolution. I would, therefore, request you to call upon only those members to speak who are opposed to it. Up to this time I am the only member who has opposed it. Nobody else has been given an opportunity to oppose the resolution. Sardar Uttam Singh has risen two or three times and Mr. Rai has also risen to speak. I know that they want to say something in opposition to the resolution and it will be only fair that when the opposition is in such a microscopic minority it should be given full chance. The Government does see that it is no use calling upon every member who wants to support the resolution to speak as to in what particular ilaqa these boards should be created. The Honourable Premier knows where the boards have to be appointed.

Premier : Sir, I entirely endorse the opinion of my honourable friend opposite and I think those members, who want to oppose this resolution, should certainly be given an opportunity to voice and ventilate their views.

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order, Sir, with regard to the procedure. May I have your opinion with regard to this matter? I take it that the Honourable Premier stated that the Government is in agreement regarding the extension of this measure to 5 districts. When the matter goes to the vote, does the Government agree to the extension of boards throughout the province ? (Voices from the Treasury Benches : No.) May I take it that if this motion goes to the vote and honourable members carry this resolution, will Government resign ? (Voices from the Treasury Benches : Why ?) Because it goes against the position of the Government.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath : There are members behind me who insist upon an assurance being given to them as I have demanded and I should certainly request you to give them an opportunity. It is not a question of opposing or supporting the resolution. It is a question of demanding certain safeguards on which the opinion of the members sitting behind must be heard.

Malik Barkat Ali (Eastern Towns, Muhammadan, Urban) : Sir, I rise to lend my fullest support to the resolution under discussion. (Hear, hear from the Treasury Benches). It appears to me that so long as the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act (7 of 1934) is on the statute book, there is no reason why the scope of those benefits which this Act was intended to confer on the poor peasantry of this province, who have been growing under the crushing burden of 140 crores, should not be extended to all the districts of the Punjab (Hear, hear). I take it, Sir, that this Act was not passed in any spirit of banter or in any spirit of jest. It was not intended that it should remain on the statute-book as a kind of decoration. It was intended as a serious piece of legislation. It was a true socialist piece of legislation on which, certainly, this House, when it passed it, deserved to be congratulated. Sir, conciliation boards are not a peculiarity of this province. They exist in the Central Provinces also.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : There is a difference between the boards there and the boards here.

Malik Barkat Ali : Yes, there is a difference and the difference is that while the limit of jurisdiction of the conciliation boards in the Punjab is ten thousand, that in the Central Provinces is 25 thousand.

Sir, it is common ground that originally 5 conciliation boards were set up and the House will support me when I say that so far as the working of these boards is concerned, not a single word has been said in this House as regards four boards. Only the Jhang Conciliation Board has been criticised in this House. If it has misbehaved, the remedy is there. But does it follow from its alleged misbehaviour that all the conciliation boards should be wiped off and that their benefits should not be extended to other districts ? If a certain judge misbehaves, does it mean that the whole administration of justice should be wiped off ? I think you will agree with me, Sir, that if abuses have come to light in the working of the conciliation board of Jhang, certainly, those abuses should be looked into and redressed. (Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Abuses of the Act). My friend says, abuses of the Act. There was nothing in his speech indicating that the Act was radically defective. On the contrary, I was reading just now a commentary on that Act by the Honourable Chaudhri Sir Chhotu Ram. He says that the conciliation boards should see to it that no bogus debts are shown and there should be no resort to mal-practices. The law is not bad ; it is quite allright. If any conciliation board is not working properly it should be set right. That does not mean that the machinery of conciliation boards should be either withdrawn or should not be extended and applied to other districts. I desire to make it clear that I do not, in any manner, associate myself with the aspersions and abuses, the so-called abuses, mentioned in the report relied on by Dr. Gokul Chand. That report is admittedly the work of the Hindu Sabha. We know that when this Act was passed, the Hindu Sabha was the only body in the province which opposed it. Reports of abuses from those quarters must be received with a grain of salt. Through you, Sir, may I respectfully submit that so far as the essence of this resolution is concerned, namely, the extension of conciliation boards, it is a matter for congratulation to this province that the opposition is not opposing it. It is in fact in agreement with the resolution, with the exception of "a microscopic minority," to use the words of Dr. Gokul Chand. (Hear, hear). Far be it from me to suggest that the honest creditor should not be protected. We are all for the protection of honest creditors. If we want to reach anybody we want to reach the dishonest creditor. This piece of legislation is an instrument whereby the oppression, which has been practised on the peasantry of this province, should be completely eliminated. The proposition deserves to be fully supported. I do not want to take any further time of the House. I am glad that there is only a microscopic minority to oppose this resolution. With these words I fully support the resolution and I hope that the Unionist Government will use all its powers to extend the conciliation boards to every district in the province. (Hear, hear, from the Treasury Benches).

Mr. C. Rai (Amritsar and Sialkot General, Rural): Mr. Speaker, I am sure that the honourable members of this House have not forgotten the storm that raged in the province when this Act was about to be passed, and I further believe that it is not the intention of the honourable members that that storm should be re-kindled by extension of the operation of boards for the decision of those cases that fall within the Act. We, in the Punjab, have our hands already full with one problem and that is communalism. Do the honourable members want that our difficulties should be increased by accentuating differences, not only between Hindus and Muhammadans, but between Muhammadans and Muhammadans and Hindus and Hindus? Because, so far as this Act is concerned, we find that in its working it is causing hardship on the creditors. Claim is made here that we are for the protection of the minorities as well. The question is whether by our conduct we are establishing our profession, whether any legislation has been proposed so far to protect the minorities. I should like to ask, and I challenge through you Sir, my learned friends to show any indication of the direction in which they wish to proceed in order to protect the much maligned creditors. Is not all this legislation and what is proposed to be done a one-sided measure? Is not this a measure that tries to hit only one man, the most miserable and the most maligned and I would say unjustly maligned creditor money-lender whose only fault is to advance money to his neighbour, whose only fault is to give a helping hand at a time when the poor peasant can neither get anything for himself nor a bullock to cultivate. In order to show that there is a lot of substance in what I say, I appeal to my friends to look to one fact and that is this, Government have started co-operative banks. Is the peasant in his dealings with the co-operative banks satisfied? The private money-lenders cannot attach the property, cannot attach anything belonging to the debtor. But a co-operative bank (just certain people sitting together and passing a decree against which there is no appeal, a sort of arbitration) can do it. A decree is passed and that is sent to the civil court which executes it and everything possible can be attached. (Some honourable members : No, no ; absolutely not). Is that showing sympathy for the peasant ? My submission is that the arrears are treated to be as good as land revenue in the case of the co-operative banks. I am only referring to it to illustrate my point that co-operative bank is not in the interests of the peasant. There may be hard cases on the side of the money-lenders. I do not say that there are not. There may be some money-lenders who are cruel. But does it mean that just because there are some blacksheep in a class, the whole class should be condemned ? Is that justice ? So my submission to my honourable friends is that this Act is not intended so much to help the debtor as it is intended to involve the creditor into trouble and misery. Otherwise, the Act would have been differently framed. There is absolutely no relief provided or no provision made for the realisation of the amounts that are decreed in favour of the creditor. A reference was made by the honourable member Malik Barkat Ali to the fact that in the Central Provinces the boards exercise their jurisdiction up to Rs. 25,000. That was the difference which he made out between the boards of the Punjab and the boards in the Central Provinces. But there is another big difference which affects the creditors of the two provinces so far as the constitution of the boards is concerned. I draw the attention of the House to section 13 of the Central Provinces Indebtedness Relief Act. "If a debtor defaults in paying any amount due in accordance with the terms of agreement registered under sub-section 2 of section 12, such amount shall be recoverable as an arrear of land revenue on the application of the creditor made within 90 days from the date of default." Now, I ask in all sincerity and humility, have you made a provision similar to this in your Act ? What safeguards did you provide at the time of the passing of the Act which you are trying to enforce now in the face of opposition on behalf of what is contemptuously called 'microscopic minority' ? (Malik Barkat Ali : Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang used that expression). I feel proud to belong to that microscopic minority. (Hear, hear). And that microscopic minority will do its duty to its last drop of blood, although it is regrettable that some gentlemen who should have been sitting here are sitting opposite. In spite of that weakness I say that we will stand on our pledges and we will do our duty to our constituents. This is by the way. I really wanted to submit to the House and the honourable members that such a provision is non-existent in our Act as has been pointed out by one of the honourable speakers. Unless and until such a safeguard is introduced, is it right, is it equitable, is it just that the operation of the boards should be extended and thereby the mischief of the Act brought into greater operation ? In the province there is a feeling among the creditors that the debts that are owing to them are going to be washed out by the Unionist Government and it was only the other day, just 3 days before I came up to Simla that a retired military Sikh gentleman came up to me in the bar room and wanted to know whether it was safe for him to take a piece of land in mortgage. I questioned him what was the trouble and why he hesitated to do so and he said that a rumour was current that the Unionist Government was shortly going to declare that all mortgaged property would be made free from encumbrances. This is an indication of the alarm that is prevailing in the province. My honourable friends are in duty bound to take notice of this alarm. It would not do to merely harp on the difficulties, the troubles and the privations of the poor peasant. Please say a word of sympathy for the poor money-lender as well. (Some honourable members : Certainly). Not only say it but translate it into action and then I would be prepared to co-operate with you. (An honourable member : Poor money-lender !) Poor in the sense—my friend understands English—that the whole world is unsympathetic towards him—not poor in finance.

I may submit to the Honourable House that so far as the principle of conciliation boards is concerned, I am not against it, but the question is that this Act gives the authority to decide cases up to the value of Rs. 10,000. Cases of the value of Rs. 10,000 cannot in the regular courts be tried by a third class, or a second class sub-judge. They have to be tried by a first class sub-judge a man of great experience and here you give that authority to persons some of whom I am sorry to say, have not good reputation. They may have been selected with the very best of intentions on the part of the Government no doubt, but in the working of the Act great hardship is being caused and, therefore, I strongly oppose the extension of the principle until the Act is amended in the proper spirit keeping in view all the defects. Until then I request that such a resolution should not be passed and if it is passed it should not be given effect to. It has been urged by the honourable mover of the resolution as also by my honourable friend opposite that in Jhang district, about which a pamphlet has been issued in which most serious allegations have been made and which allegations have not been made in the street, these allegations have been conveyed to most responsible officers of the Government, so many creditors made applications to the board for settlement of their disputes or debts owing to them. There is a very simple explanation for the creditors to go to the board. It is not only that he has confidence in the board that he goes to it, but because he cannot realize anything if he were to go to civil courts and get a decree. By agreement he may get an anna or two in a rupee. The second reason in some cases why he goes to the Board is that these creditors were waiting till the last day of limitation for the debtor to settle the debt and now instead of spending money on court-fees and going to civil courts they come to the boards having lost everything and having no hopes of recovery. (Voices : That is a good thing).

Mr. Speaker : Will the honourable member please wind up ?

Mr. C. Rai : Section 25 of the Act lays down—

“When an application has been made to a board under section 9 no civil court shall entertain any new suit or any other proceeding brought for the recovery of any debt for the settlement of which an application has been made to the board and any suit or other proceeding pending before a civil court in respect of it shall be suspended, until the Board has dismissed the application or agreement has been made under section 17.”

It is obvious. Why should they ? They have paid court fees and filed a suit before a civil court. Then the debtor comes to the board and puts in an application and his court-fee is wasted. The creditors do not come voluntarily or willingly before these boards. They are compelled and forced to come and make applications. There is no use going to civil courts. For these reasons I oppose this resolution.

Syed Amjad Ali Shah (Ferozepore East, Muhammadan, Rural) : Mr. Speaker I would only refer to one or two aspects of this question. My honourable and gallant friend Sardar Sohan Singh Josh in his speech said that the Unionist Party were considering very petty questions and were not taking up important questions which were brought to their notice by the Opposition. Sir, I would refer him to the present condition of indebtedness in the province. The question is a very grave one and much greater than my honourable friend thinks. The total debt in the Punjab in the year 1929 as calculated by the Punjab Provincial Banking Enquiry Committee was 185 crores. In 1921 it was 90 crores and by 1929 it had increased by 40 crores. In 1930 the debt was 140 crores and if I am correct in estimating the present debt, the figure would have reached somewhere near 200 crores or more. Mr. Darling in his book "Punjab Peasant in Prosperity and Debt" has dealt with this question and he worked out that with 140 crores the debt per acre was Rs. 47. Working on the same basis at 200 crores it works to Rs. 67 per acre. The experts have estimated the present value of land at Rs. 100 per acre. This means that the debt per acre is Rs. 67 and the value is Rs. 100. This is a very grave situation for if the increase is not checked then we are leading towards bankruptcy and disaster. My honourable friend Mr. Rai has just now stated that no legislation has been brought forward to sympathise with the creditor. Sir, we have every sympathy with the creditor but only when his demands are just. Does he expect us to sympathise with the creditor when having advanced a sum of Rs. 100 he claims Rs. 5,000? No one in this House, I am sure, is going to sympathise with such a creditor; on the other hand every one's sympathies will go to the debtor. I am very glad that the Government is making a provision in the budget for 5 more debt conciliation boards, but I would ask them to refer to the conditions in other provinces. I understand that in the Central Provinces there are about a few scores of boards, in Bengal there are 1,700 boards established since 1935 and many more are being established now. Coming to the position of the tahsil I have the honour to represent, Mr. Darling says that Ferozepore is the most heavily indebted district of the Punjab. He estimates the debt of Ferozepore to be somewhere near 7 crores. It is a very big debt.

Pir Akbar Ali : It is much more now.

Syed Amjad Ali Shah : I hope when the Government decides to select the districts for the establishment of these boards, Ferozepore will be first in the list as it stands first in the list of indebted districts of the Punjab.

(At this stage a number of members including S. Uttam Singh, Duggal, and the Honourable Premier stood up to speak. Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang invited the attention of the Speaker to S. Uttam Singh when the Premier resumed his seat.)

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is it not the convention that when the Leader of the House wishes to speak he should get preference over others.

Mr. Speaker : Certainly.

(The Honourable Speaker then called the Honourable Premier to speak.)

Premier (The Honourable Major Sir Sikandar Hyat-Khan): I am sorry I have deprived some honourable members on this side of the House from speaking, but I see that the Opposition is feeling very nervous.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Sir, is the word 'nervous' parliamentary. My difficulty is this that the words "dodges and tactics" have been declared unparliamentary. The Honourable the Leader of the House has used the word 'nervous' Is that word parliamentary? (laughter).

Premier : If the honourable member opposite had not been impatient and if he had allowed me to finish my sentence, I think he would not have risen to a point of order. I was going to say that some members opposite are feeling nervous that we may not prolong the discussion over this motion so that the Opposition is not in a position to move the second resolution. Therefore I thought it necessary to get up in spite of the fact, as I have said, that I am depriving from speaking some of my colleagues on this side of the House and also some other members who want to speak. (Voices from the Opposition benches : No, no, we are not anxious to finish). If the honourable members think that they are not anxious to finish the resolution I am sure the Speaker will allow other members to speak.

Mr. Speaker : As we had two hours recess, we shall have to sit up till half past five so that the daily sitting of 4½ hours may be completed.

Premier : I thought we were going to sit up till 5 o'clock. I am prepared to sit till 5-30 if the Opposition want it.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : We are prepared to sit over night.

Premier : I know you are prepared to sit till dooms day.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : We have to look to the interest of the electorate.

Premier : We have to look to the interest of the province also.

Dr. Shaikh Muhammad Alam : Well looked after.

Premier : Thank you. I would very briefly deal with the points raised by my honourable friend and my ex-colleague, Sir Gokul Chand Narang. With your permission, Sir, may I in a very friendly spirit enter a very mild protest against his divulging the secrets of the Cabinet. Sir, in the very beginning he said that he as a member of the Government objected to certain clauses of the Bill when this Bill was being considered by Government. I think he has committed an indiscretion in divulging that fact because it is not only a question of the secrecy of the Cabinet proceedings, but also I think it is a breach of the oath which we take on the assumption of office.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I do not agree. It was incumbent upon me otherwise I would have been bombarded by questions.

Premier : However, the honourable member is perfectly at liberty to interpret it as he thinks best. Then he waxed eloquent over the iniquities of the Jhang Conciliation Board — allegations of iniquities for the correctness of which he has the audacity to take the responsibility. I am afraid, Sir, in the heat of the moment and in the heat of the speech he forgot that the pamphlet was unsigned. There was not even the name of the Secretary nor of any other authority or officer of the body by which the pamphlet purports to have been published. But, Sir, may I tell the honourable member that I received not only a copy of this pamphlet but also further representation very likely from the same quarters, and again under the name of a body whose bona fides were far from certain to me but since the honourable member has stated that it comes from a responsible body, I am prepared to take the House into my confidence and say that I had enquiries instituted with regard to the allegations made in the pamphlet and with regard to the allegations made previously, and I am very glad to inform the House that practically every one of these allegations has proved to be untrue (Cheers). I might go further and for the information of my honourable friend opposite tell him that the local authorities and the Commissioner went to the extent of recommending to Government that the writer of this pamphlet should be prosecuted for making false and libellous statements against members of the conciliatory board? But, Sir, having regard to the feelings of the people in that part of the world, I did not think it expedient to give sanction to the prosecution of this gentleman; but if the honourable member still insists that we should further sift this matter by sanctioning the prosecution, I am still in a position to authorise the prosecution of the gentleman who has written the pamphlet. I can assure the honourable member that there are two allegations in this pamphlet which are absolutely false, and on the basis of which he can legally be prosecuted.

[Premier.]

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : What about others ?

Premier : I have said that they are all without foundation. Where there is any substance we have already taken action and with regard to others — I am just coming to that point — I may be able to take further action.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Are you satisfied with the working of the conciliatory boards ?

Premier : That is a wider question and one of opinion. I have got no personal knowledge of the working of the boards, but I have got a very able officer of the government, i. e., the Financial Commissioner — Mr. Darling who is an expert in these matters. He has inspected practically every one of these conciliatory boards, and his reports are on the whole satisfactory. Even with regard to the Jhang board he says that in spite of these allegations it is an agreeable surprise that the number of applications from creditors is increasing. With regard to Jhang and other conciliatory boards, I might give consolidated figures, and inform the House that in several cases creditors are coming forward in increasing numbers to take advantage of this simplified procedure provided by the Act. One of the advantages which they get is that they avoid payment of court fee, and they have not to compound their debts, as is being commonly done in all parts of the province, or as was being done when I was in touch with that particular department which deals with these things in 1934 before I went over to the Reserve Bank, for anything between two and three annas in a rupee, provided they got tangible assets in return. But what is the amount which the conciliation boards are giving to the creditors? You will be interested to learn that the amount of the debt claimed is 46 per cent. which means that they are getting nearly seven annas in the rupee instead of two to four annas. So, that is one of the reasons why creditors are coming forward in increasing numbers to take advantage of this Act.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Including the fictitious creditors.

Premier : Here are some more figures which would interest the House and the honourable member opposite. Out of 1,171 cases 392 cases have been settled without instalments which means that they paid money at once or gave away cattle or other tangible assets with the result that instead of their going through the protracted process of a civil court and having the decree executed, they are now getting nine annas in the rupee instead of two to four annas which they would otherwise have got. That is the reason why they are coming forward in increasing numbers. That fact should not be ignored. Again, several of the debts are settled once for all and there is no bitterness left. I have given you the figures of debts which have been paid straightaway after conciliation. Then there is another 28 per cent. which has been settled by means of mustajri mortgages. That is an additional advantage to both parties. It avoids bitterness and gives something tangible to creditors who otherwise would not have been able to realise anything from some of the debtors.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The complaint is that available assets are given to fictitious creditors who are relations of the debtors and the genuine creditors get nothing and this is consistent with the statement made by the Honourable Premier.

Premier : No, as a matter of fact, I have got somewhere also the amount actually paid.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Yes, paid to fictitious creditors.

Premier : The honourable member's assertion is that they are all fictitious. The complaints have not only come from the Jhang district. As a matter of fact, I might inform the honourable member through you that in every case the complaints are coming from the other side.

Mr. C. Rai : Also from Rawalpindi.

Premier : Yes, but those complaints are something quite different from the complaints of the honourable member. Complaints from the Karnal side are that the debt conciliation boards are working very sternly so far as the debtors are concerned. They say that the amount conciliated is much beyond their capacity to pay. If these boards had not been set up, the creditors would have been forced to come to terms with the debtors and settle the debts at a much smaller figure. What now happens is that instead of paying two to four annas in the rupee, they have to pay as much as seven annas, or possibly even more in the rupee.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The debtor is in no case bound to agree. It is the creditor who in certain cases is bound to accept.

Premier : I am giving you concrete examples of complaints that I have received. It is quite possible that six months hence we might receive complaints from the debtors themselves that these conciliation boards are of no use to them and that they should be scrapped.

Now with regard to the suggestion made by my honourable friend on my right, he has suggested that we should issue instructions to the local officers to see that the Act is properly worked and that there are no irregularities so far as the procedure is concerned. He has cited section 10 of the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act which reads as follows :—

“Every application to a board shall be in writing and be signed by the applicant and verified in such manner as may be prescribed.”

If this section is read with sections 11 to 15, it will clearly indicate that every application, when it is made, has to be verified and looked into and examined carefully by the board. If they are not doing so, we shall certainly issue instructions that they should conform strictly to the provisions of this Act and to see that every application is properly scrutinised and that the claims and debts mentioned therein are not bogus.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : They should make enquiries.

Premier : Under section 10 read with sections 11 and 15 they are entitled to make enquiries, and it is incumbent on them to make that enquiry before starting the proceedings.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : They say that they have no concern with it. That is the allegation.

Premier : I might acquaint the honourable member with the fact that in deference to my friend Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath's suggestion, I will issue necessary instructions that they should look to these applications (hear, hear). The Raja Sahib has mentioned the power of superintendence of deputy commissioners. I think there is nothing in the Act itself which would entitle the deputy commissioner or any other authority to look into these files, but as Raja Sahib has pointed out to me, there are certain inherent powers vested in the deputy commissioner as representative of the Crown — and I do not know whether it is legal or not, but in any case with regard to this particular board, we had several cases examined to satisfy ourselves whether these allegations were correct or not.

Malik Barkat Ali : Examined by the agents of the Executive Government.

Premier : We are going to issue instructions to all the deputy commissioners that they should occasionally inspect these boards (hear, hear).

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Were all the files, which have been referred to, examined?

Premier : Every one of those files has been examined. My honourable friend from Rawalpindi (Sardar Uttam Singh) who unfortunately did not catch your eye, mentioned to me yesterday that there is a certain amount of discontent amongst the creditors. He said that the creditors complain that they are not properly represented on these boards. Till the honourable member mentioned to me, I did not know that there was any board in the Punjab on which there was not a representative of the creditors. He gave me the instances of his own conciliation board and said that there was no representation of the creditors on that board. I can assure him that so far as the constitution and extension of these boards is concerned, when we are considering the personnel of these boards, I shall see that there is a real representative of the creditors on every new board constituted (Hear, hear and cheers). The honourable members opposite must remember that we do not want to pillory the honest creditor but as he will himself admit, there are honest creditors and dishonest creditors just as there are honest debtors and dishonest debtors. We want to eliminate both the dishonest creditor and the dishonest debtor. We want to give protection to the honest creditor as well as the honest debtor. I do not think I need take the time of this House any more, but before I sit down, I must ask the House to rest assured that as far as this Government is concerned, it will endeavour, as far as it is humanly possible, to follow this policy. (Cheers).

Mr. Speaker : The question is—

This Assembly recommends to the Government that the number of debt conciliation boards be increased in the Punjab."

The motion was carried.

RELEASE OF POLITICAL PRISONERS AND DETENUES.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta (South-Eastern Towns, General, Urban) :
Sir, I beg to move—

This Assembly recommends to the Government that all political prisoners and detenues (including Martial Law and Lahore Conspiracy Case prisoners) be forthwith released and that restrictions imposed by the Government on free movements of all political workers in the Punjab be immediately withdrawn.

Since some honourable members on the Government benches have succeeded in depriving me of my proud privilege of speaking in my own language, I will speak in a foreign tongue.

Khan Bahadur Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Who has deprived you ?

Premier : On a point of order. The point of order raised the other day seems to have been perfectly justified as I find that the honourable member is speaking English fluently although he had denied his ability to speak in English.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : He wants a certificate that his point of order has turned out correct.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : I am sorry, Sir, to make a speech in language which is not my own, but I would request the honourable members of this House not to judge my speech from the high standard of eloquence and oratory set up by the Honourable Finance Minister and some other able speakers on that side of the House, and to overlook the defects of language, and faults of expression and to confine their attention only to the appeal that I have to make to the benches opposite.

Sir, the proposition which I have placed before the House consists of two parts, first that all political prisoners and detenues who are kept in jails without trial be forthwith released and, secondly, that all restrictions placed on the free movements of political workers be forthwith removed. I shall be failing in my duty if at the very start I do not congratulate and thank the Honourable Premier and his colleagues for the small mercy they have shown by releasing the Martial Law prisoners who had been rotting in jails for over 18 years and whose release was really long overdue. Since small mercies have also to be thanked for, I whole-heartedly thank the Honourable Premier for having ordered their release. But I must be permitted to express my great disappointment and in fact the disappointment of all the members sitting on this side of the House for not having extended that amnesty to all those persons who are convicted of almost similar offences or for their holding patriotic opinions, and allowing them still to rot in jail. It would have given me far greater pleasure and genuine delight to have moved a vote of thanks and congratulations to the Honourable Premier instead of moving a resolution of this nature, if only his Government had provided an occasion to the Opposition benches for doing so, by taking a bold stand in this matter and had celebrated their accession to power by opening the doors of those solitary cells in which some of the jewels of our country are still rotting—rotting for our sake, for the sake of those who have assumed power to-day, for the sake of those who have taken offices and, for the sake of the liberty of our country. But I am sorry, Sir, that no such occasion has been provided. The Government has badly failed to rise to the occasion and I cannot help expressing my disappointment at that.

My resolution, as I have already stated, Sir, consists of two parts and as it deals with all the political prisoners I might as well give the definition of the term "political prisoner" before I proceed further. I have noticed while going through the pages of the debate that was held on a similar motion in the last Legislative Council that there was a tendency on the part of certain members, who have the honour to sit on the Unionist benches to-day, of arguing that the political prisoners were just as bad as ordinary felons or criminals. So, it is for their benefit and also with a view to explain to my honourable friend on my right (Sardar Hari Singh) who has tabled an amendment to this resolution, that I would like to give the definition. It will be seen that the definition that I am going to give presently really covers that amendment. But I must tell the Government benches that the definition that I am giving is not my own. I am quoting from the Encyclopædia of the Laws of England which I do not think the Honourable Premier or the Advocate-General (who is not at present in his seat) will take exception to. The definition is—

"Where an offence has been committed, not from motives of private spite or interest, but in order to change the legislature or executive Government in the country, it is freely contended that the offence is political and that persons convicted of it should not be treated as ordinary prisoners, and should be pardoned or amnestied on the earliest opportunity."

It goes further, Sir. It says, that the offences to which this contention applies are—

"those described as against public order, namely, treason, treason-felony and sedition or interference with the Executive or Legislature by unlawful assemblies intended to defy or overawe either, or riotous protests against the law, and in fact, all acts directed to obtain by unlawful means a change in the law or general government of the realm."

In my opinion no clearer and more comprehensive definition could have been given and, further, in no clearer terms could the duties of Government in respect of such prisoners have been given or indicated. I am thankful to the Government for having released the Martial Law prisoners for one more reason and that is that by doing so they have expressed their agreement with the principle of placing political prisoners or prisoners other than ordinary criminals on a different footing, and having done so, I think it will not lie now in the mouth of any honourable member on the other side to assail my proposition on that ground. What I really ask for, is the mere extension of that principle to those young men who are still rotting in jail. We are told that there has been a change, we are told that there has been a revolution, we are told that we are to-day living under provincial autonomy, we are told that the alien bureaucracy is gone, we are also told by His Excellency the Viceroy that the ministries that have been formed in the different provinces have got full powers under the Government of India Act within the scope allowed to them and that their advice has got to be accepted by the Governors in the different provinces. So far as our province is concerned, the Honourable Minister for Education was able to tell this House that the ministry is fortunate in getting a definite promise from His Excellency the Governor that the advice of the ministry shall be accepted on every matter. Now the question boils down to this. If those young men whose sin is nothing but that of patriotism are still rotting behind the bars, the responsibility for same is not that of an alien bureaucracy, the responsibility for that is not that of His Excellency the Governor, but the sole responsibility is of the present Unionist Government which is formed of our own kith and kin. I ask in all humility the Honourable Premier, who is esteemed by all of us, whether he considers it an enviable position. I want to know from him whether it does not do him and his Government a positive discredit, not to have released those persons who had no selfish motives in going to the jails, who were sent there for our sake and but for whose sacrifices, sufferings and efforts neither they nor we would have been here in this House in this position.

Sir, since an argument is required in favour of the resolution which I really feel there is no necessity for, I would refer the Government benches to the two tests which Sir Malcolm Hailey, now Lord Hailey, once the Governor of this province, laid or propounded as Home Member in the Legislative Assembly. Some ten years ago, when a similar motion in the Central House was moved by my honourable friend Mr. Shafi Daudi, Sir Alexander Muddiman the then Home Member quoting him said—

“ One of the tests was that the state of affairs in the country should be such that some political object would be served by the release, and the other, if I recollect rightly, was that when a political movement had spent its force it was possible, if there was no danger to the public safety, to release prisoners generally.”

(At this stage Mr. Speaker left the chair and it was occupied by Mr. Deputy Speaker.)

I put these two tests to the Honourable Premier and ask him to consider dispassionately whether after having got the definition that I have given, and having known that the two tests I have referred to were laid down, not by a member of the Congress party, nor by any revolutionary, but by no less a person than an ex-Governor of the Punjab, he should accept these tests or not. If he does, then my work is finished. I will ask him then whether any abnormal state of affairs exists in the province to-day. Both from the platform and in the press we hear of the victory of the Unionist Party during the last elections. We have been hearing all that and it is also a matter of fact, that during the past six or seven years there has been no overt acts of violence throughout the province. Why to speak of violence, there has not even been a single case of civil disobedience after 1932. I ask then, with all humility, with all respects due to the benches opposite, what earthly justification is there for allowing these young men to rot in the jails just as they were doing under an alien bureaucracy? He will be a bold man indeed who will say that abnormal conditions still exist in the province. If that is the contention of my Honourable friend, the Premier on the other side, I will say that I have nothing but pity for him. But if he says that abnormal conditions do not exist, then I would ask him to convince this House as to the reasons for allowing these young men still to rot behind the bars.

Again, how many prisoners are there for whom I plead? The information that has been given to this House in reply to a question does not show that there are even 100 such men. I think it is very much less. I should like to know whether the Honourable Premier and his mighty Government which has the support not only of the British Government behind it, but also of the people who voted for them cannot run the risk of releasing these one hundred or even less number of young men? It was quite a different thing if the previous Government had raised the bugbear of peace and tranquillity and public safety. I do not expect that from the Government which they claim is an independent Government. I may also tell the Honourable Premier that if by peace he means the peace of the grave he will never have it. If, on the other hand, he means normal state of affairs in the province then nobody can dispute that normal state of affairs does exist to-day. As a matter of fact, Sir, it should have been the concern of the Government itself to have taken the initiative in this matter. Let me also tell them as to what is the lesson of history. Do not the Honourable Premier and his colleagues know that even the Government of India—an alien bureaucracy, did release certain important political prisoners in 1919? Does not the Honourable Premier know that even the British Government for whom he is offering unasked applause every day, had to release the Boers who rebelled against it? Take Italy. What did Garibaldi do? I wish the Honourable Premier had the courage of Garibaldi! Garibaldi had gone to jail with keys in his hands and had opened the doors of the cells and released all the prisoners when he got powers. I wish our Premier who had not the good fortune of going to jail as a political prisoner had at least done so now and followed the example of Garibaldi. I really do not understand what harm would befall this province if these young men are released. I read in the papers that the Unionists have decided to oppose this resolution. I wish they had at least given the Opposition a chance to convince them of the righteousness of the cause they are fighting for. They know that the Unionist Party is sure of its majority of votes. Where then was the hurry of coming to a decision in the matter? Since they have come to a decision, it follows that they are not out to convince us of their view point. At least they should have given us an opportunity to convince them that they have failed in their duty. If Mahatma Gandhi can be allowed freedom, if Mr. Subash Chandra Bose can be set free and can be allowed to remain in Dalhousie, if Pandit Jawahar Lal Nehru can go to Chittagong and deliver lectures then I ask, why is this anxiety on the part of the Punjab Government for this reputation? Why not give these young men who might have committed some offence in an impulse of patriotism, an opportunity to change? You say there has been a change in the Government, there has been a revolution in the country, show us where that change has come in. We will not be convinced by the mere fact that the complexion of the member opposite has changed. That will not satisfy us. We want proof of the real change. The other day the honourable lady member sitting on the opposite side, I mean Begum Shah Nawaz, made a fervent appeal to us. She accused us of not behaving towards the new Government and the Honourable Premier nodded in appreciation. May I ask the honourable lady member to think coolly, ponder well over what she said and see where the fault lies, whether it is with the Opposition or with the benches which she, I am sorry, has the honour to adorn. I have been sitting with closed tongue in this House so far. Speeches have been made by the Honourable Finance Member pointing out his difficulties, saying that there is no money for popular or beneficent departments. He has also told us that without taxation he could not do much. I ask the Honourable Premier, is there any expenditure involved in releasing these young men also? I feel that the Government has failed, and failed very badly in its duty towards these young men who have done so much for our country; but it is not too late in the day to revise their decision in the matter.

If I were to take the House through the individual cases of these prisoners I shall be able to point out that most of them deserve to be let out. There are some who have been disabled and turned physical wrecks, there are some who come from very respectable families, for instance, Mr. Kundan Lal of the second Lahore Conspiracy Case and Mr. Parmanand, the only solitary prisoner left behind of the first Lahore Conspiracy Case.

Sir, the new Government, has not only not released them, but has not even gone to the extent of undertaking that their grievances in regard to classification will be removed. The second Lahore Conspiracy Case prisoners were allowed B class in the beginning, they had it for 5 years, but what do we see now? We find that B class has also been withdrawn and they have been placed in C class and are being treated like ordinary prisoners (Premier: Which prisoners?). All the second Lahore Conspiracy Case prisoners. I wonder how this fact has not come to the notice of the Honourable Premier.

Sir, I do not want to take more time of the House, I feel that justice has not been done to the Opposition by putting this important resolution at the rag-end of the day. But I must sound a note of warning before I conclude. It is one thing to come to power, it is one thing to carry the day in the elections, it is one thing to form ministry; but I say it is quite a different thing to carry the people with you in your administrative policy, it is quite a different thing to work according to the expectations of those who voted for you. I say so in all sincerity and in all seriousness. I offer this advice to the benches opposite. If they persist in their callousness towards their own kith and kin, towards their own brethren and sisters, who have been fighting the country's battle of freedom, I say, the time may come that in this very hall some of the members of the Unionist Party may change their creed and come over to this side of the House. (Hear, hear from the Opposition). I will add you have proved that you are strong, you have proved that you were successful in the elections, but I say, with all the emphasis I command, that you have yet to prove that you are statesmen, you have yet to prove that you have due regard for the feelings of the people. I may also assure the Government benches and particularly the honourable lady member sitting on that side, that the Opposition is not unreasonable. The Opposition, Sir, is not here to add to their difficulties or the difficulties of the administration. They should know that it may not be to-day, it may be to-morrow, it may not be in the Punjab, it may be in other provinces, far more important, that the Congress may have to accept the burden and responsibility of offices. (Hear, hear from the Opposition). Their Governments will have to face these very problems in those provinces then.

Premier : We would welcome that day.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : The Honourable Premier says that he would welcome that day. But I fear that he will, perhaps, find his task much more difficult if the Congress comes to power. (Hear, hear from the Opposition). He as well as the country will then know the difference between a Congress Government and a non-Congress Government. (Hear, hear from the Opposition). I assure him, with all the responsibility I carry with me, that Government will find the Opposition always helpful, provided the Government convinces us that there is some real change for the better in the present Government, provided the Government convinces us that they mean business, provided the Government convinces us that they do not want to take shelter always under the cloak of peace and tranquillity of the country. I assure them that the day there is a real change the Opposition will not be found wanting in its duty towards the Government. Members of the Opposition will even volunteer their honorary services to the Government, provided the Government comes forward to do something real for the people in this country. But so far what do we find? We are made to feel at every step that "this is Punjab," these words were uttered by a police officer in the Punjab, and have become almost proverbial since then. Sir, I do not now come from the Punjab. I come from a place which happens to be the seat of the Central Government. But I do feel the truth of those words that this is Punjab and, Sir, I admit this to my shame, because this is the first Government under the new Act, this is the first Government which carries with it such a big majority. Even then the Government is not prepared to concede to a very moderate demand of the Opposition, I say to them that if not for the sake of good name, do it for the sake of convincing the Opposition that you have an open mind on important matters like this. They should behave properly. They should take this opportunity of winning over the heart of the Opposition. We know that the Opposition is not in a position to make its will felt. We know that every day, from morn till evening, we are meted out a treatment, which I should call the worst tyranny of the majority. (Voices from the Treasury benches : Question). But even so I do not make a grievance of that. I still repeat, you can have our co-operation provided you deserve it. We are sincere representatives of the people. We are not here to waste our time. We are not here to enjoy rickshaw rides, to enjoy cinemas or the hills of this summer capital of the Government. Sir, you are aware that even dinner parties and luncheons, we boycott. What is the use then of our remaining in this House? Our only motive in coming to these Assemblies is the high motive of service of the country, a motive for which many of us have suffered and suffered badly.

Mr. Deputy Speaker : The honourable member should confine his speech to the motion before the House.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Sir, it is after all a matter of policy. My resolution really amounts to this : Does the Unionist Government wish to practise the same policy of repression which was the policy of the old bureaucracy, or is prepared to change that policy? That is all. I am not pleading for mercy. I am not basing my resolution on the plea of mercy. I tell the Unionist Government that it is in their own interest, as well as in the interest of the province and its people that they should release all the political prisoners and remove all such restrictions that are placed on the movements of political workers.

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order, Sir, I hope the honourable Secretary is not tendering advice to you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, regarding the topic of this debate.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Sir, I do not want to take more time of the House. I must however, refer to an extract of the speech which was delivered in the Central Legislative Assembly 10 years back by a gentleman, now an honourable Minister of this House—I mean the present Honourable Minister for Education. I wonder if he still remembers what he had said in those days when he used to sit on the opposition benches in the Central Assembly. Sir, the honourable the Education Minister in that memorable debate on the same subject had said—

“Coming, Sir, now to the merits of the question, everywhere in the world patriotism and loyalty go hand in hand except in this unfortunate country. Here one and the same man cannot afford to be a loyalist as well as a patriot.”

I invite the special attention of the honourable members sitting on the Government, benches, to the words—

“Here one and the same man cannot afford to be a loyalist as well as a patriot. The very moment you become a loyalist you cease to be a patriot, “(Hear, hear and applause)” and the very moment you take up the rôle of a patriot you cease to be loyal. I want to say that although these people who are rotting in jails are, according to you, seditionists, in my vocabulary they are called patriotic men.” (Hear, hear and applause.” So we are justified in protesting, it is perfectly natural for us to enter a very strong protest, against the treatment that is being meted out to them. I hope the Government will rise equal to the occasion and prove their sincerity by releasing them, and it is only then that they can show that they are out for co-operation in this country.

These are the words uttered by him and I could not have concluded my speech in a better way than by quoting the Honourable Minister for Education. I put it to him and his worthy colleagues and ask whether they are loyalists or patriots in his words. Let them answer whether they deserve our co-operation without releasing these young men who are still rotting in jails (hear, hear) or do not deserve that. I want judgment from him. I mean the Minister for Education. I want an expression of opinion from him. It may be that there is a change and in these days of changes his opinions may have also undergone a change or he may have chosen, for reasons best known to him, to become a loyalist rather than a patriot. But I still think that every Indian in this House, every man who has eaten the salt of this country has got an element of patriotism in him and I rely on that hope. It may be a faint hope, but I do hope, Sir, that the Unionist Party will still reconsider its attitude, will ponder, will think twice before they reject a resolution of this nature. To the honourable lady member I would address once again. She was pleased to inform this House that she is not chained to the Government benches. I expect of her at least as a brave sister, as a brave daughter of India to vote independently for this resolution. (Hear, hear and applause).

Mr. Deputy Speaker : Resolution moved is—

This Assembly recommends to the Government that all political prisoners and detainees (including Martial Law and Lahore Conspiracy Case prisoners) be forthwith released and that restrictions imposed by the Government on free movements of all political workers in the Punjab be immediately withdrawn.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood (Amritsar, Muhammadan, Rural): I wish at the very outset to congratulate the honourable mover of the resolution on the facility and the charm of delivery of his speech in English second not even to his delivery in Urdu. (Hear, hear). Sir, it is a very difficult resolution which we are discussing to-day. It deals with a very important and a very delicate matter. Such resolutions have no doubt been previously discussed by various legislatures in India, provincial and Central. But to-day for the first time in the history of India a legislature which is responsible for the law and order of the province is dealing with a matter of this nature, and the verdict of the House on this matter shall have to be given effect to by the ministry. As such it calls for a most anxious and dispassionate consideration of the resolution that is before the House, and I appeal to both sides of the House that we should discuss this question forgetting any kind of false notions based on sentiment on one side or on prestige on the other; and we should as a responsible Government party and a responsible Opposition party deal with this delicate question which we are now discussing. I would state at the very outset and I wish my friends of the Opposition to accept it in all sincerity, that it is not a pleasant task for any government and least of all for a national government, to have to put people in jails for political or other offences. (Hear, hear). And I am sure that I am speaking for my friends on this side of the House and for all of them, that it is definitely unpleasant for us to have to see that circumstances occur which necessitate that some of our countrymen be put in jails or their liberties otherwise curtailed. Nobody would be happier, I am sure, than the Honourable Premier and we on this side of the House to see a state of affairs when we may be able to proclaim that we have not got a single prisoner in the jails. (Hear, hear). (Interruption). I deliberately refer to prisoners, political and others. That being our attitude, Sir, considering that within two months of his taking office, the Honourable Premier has had the courage and the statesmanship to release the Martial Law prisoners who were in jails for over 18 or 19 years—

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Was not that question of the release of Martial Law prisoners under the consideration of the preceding Government ?

Premier : I am very sorry that the honourable member always takes an uncharitable view of whatever this Government does. It is very unfair.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to answer in the tone in which the honourable Premier is answering. I only wanted to know whether the question was not under the consideration of the preceding Government.

Premier : It was. It must have been several times, because resolutions were moved in the previous Councils.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : When the Premier had the courage and statemanship of releasing within two months of his taking office all the Martial Law prisoners who had been rotting in jails all these years, he must have some reason and the party that supports him must have some reason, if they cannot readily accept the ordinarily popular resolution of the nature that has been moved. I appeal through you, Sir, to the honourable members of the Opposition that they should give us the same open-minded consideration which was demanded in the appeal that the opener of this debate made.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : Let him take the Leader of the Opposition into confidence and convince him.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Wait, so far as I know the circumstances, I will take the House including the Opposition into confidence and ask for their verdict. It is necessary at this stage to examine what the resolution actually requires. My honourable friend demands that all political prisoners involved in the commission of violent offences or otherwise shall be forthwith released. That is the main part of his resolution and the second part deals with political workers with which I will deal later. He has tried to define what he means by political offenders and he has brought in a definition from the Encyclopædia of Laws. I am sure he will bear me out that in the same Encyclopædia a little later it is definitely stated that under the British laws, there is no difference between political offenders and other offenders. He will find it stated there that so far as motives are concerned the British Jurisprudence and the British system of laws makes no difference and does not take into consideration the motives in the definition of a crime.

An Honourable Member : May I ask whether these differences are observed in England or not ?

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : My answer to this question is, "no" in Municipal law and "yes" in Civil law. The position legally is this that so far as International law is concerned only for the purpose of extradition a certain difference is kept.

Chaudhri Krishna Gopal Dutt : May I take it that the honourable member is suggesting that the Government do not know who are political prisoners and who are not ?

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I was trying to bring out that an offence is an offence whatever the circumstances under which it is committed, that there are many cases where the motive of the offender is such that many of us feel sympathy with the offender, but that does not mean that the law shall not take its course. Now, I come to the specific point raised by the honourable mover of this resolution. He stated that to-day behind the bars in the Punjab jails lie the jewels and the youthful hopes of the Punjab, people whom he had—I would not use stronger language, lest I exceed the parliamentary limit—likened to such great patriots as Mahatma Gandhi and Pandit Jawaharlal for whose liberation keys of prison locks had not been taken by the Honourable Premier. I wish he had the courtesy or the patience or the industry to ascertain from the Honourable Premier or the Jail departments concerned as to whether these political prisoners who have not been released were convicted of violent offences or not.

An Honourable Member : Perhaps the honourable member is not aware that the mover of the resolution has made this point clear.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I wish the honourable member would show me a little patience and that open-mindedness which he demanded from us. If he had cared to enquire he would have found that the jails of the Punjab do not contain such "jewels" for whose liberation he pleads. I have here a list that I have been able to secure from the various jail department reports and what do I find? They include five prisoners who have been convicted by a regular court in connection with the Ahmedgarh Train Dacoity Case, people who formed a conspiracy to stop the train in jungle and pounced upon innocent women and children. (Voices—No, No). Are these the jewels of the Punjab who have been likened to the patriots like Mahatma Gandhi and Pandit Jawaharlal.

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order. May I ask in what sense he considers these people as political prisoners, in terms of the resolution? In this particular way, my honourable friend might quite easily turn to the record of the jails and point out murderers also as political prisoners. Then again my second point of order is whether the honourable member is in order in making a reference to people who are not here to defend themselves.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I am afraid my honourable friend who has just sat down has allowed his anxiety to make a display of his oratorical "rumbas" on the floor of this House to overpower a sense of proportion and realities of this debate.

Diwan Chaman Lall : What does this sentence mean?

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I will explain what I mean. These people who, my friends say, are not here to defend themselves, have been convicted of murders by regular courts of law after a regular trial. They are described as political prisoners.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Will the honourable member tell the House how this resolution relates to these people?

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Will my honourable friend say that it does not intend to cover such people?

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order—

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I do not think there is any point of order.

Dr. Gopi Chand Bhargava : May I know how the honourable member in possession of the House, could, without hearing the honourable member who wanted to raise a point of order, say that it was no point of order? Is he entitled to say that it is no point of order, is it not for you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, to decide the question?

(At this stage Diwan Chaman Lall, and the Honourable Premier were both seen standing.)

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order. May I draw your attention that I have a right of precedence when I rise to a point of order. I want to know whether I have or have not a precedence of speech.

(The Honourable Premier and Diwan Chaman Lall were both standing.)

Mr. Deputy Speaker : Order, order.

Diwan Chaman Lall : No question of order, order. I want your ruling that when I rise to a point of order I have a right of precedence. I refuse to give way and I demand your ruling.

Mr. Deputy Speaker : What is it that Diwan Chaman Lall has got to say?

Diwan Chaman Lall : Let me express my regret to the Honourable Premier but I have had to rise in order to establish my right and the right of members to precedence when they wish to raise a point of order. Otherwise I would have been only glad to give way to the Honourable Premier. It was only because of that that I did not give way. If the Honourable Premier wishes now to make a statement and he is willing to do so, I shall raise my point of order after he has made his statement.

Premier : I was not going to make a statement. I got up immediately after the Leader of the Opposition stood up and raised the point of order. My honourable friend on the other side also, I think, rose almost simultaneously; but I think that instead of turning this House into a forum of undignified contentiousness he would have been well advised to give way because I was also raising a point of order. Since he thinks that this House—

Diwan Chaman Lall : On a point of order. Is the honourable the Premier entitled to make a statement which is not relevant?

Mr. Deputy Speaker : Order, order.

Premier : I have nothing more to say. I wanted merely to point out that the honourable member did not raise any point of order.

(At this stage Mr. Speaker resumed the Chair.)

Mr. Speaker : Sorry! I am not well, otherwise I would not have left the Chair.

Diwan Chaman Lall : I raised a point of order before you were pleased to occupy the Chair. My friend says that this resolution relates to the release of political prisoners. Was the honourable member in order in referring to other prisoners not included in the term 'political'?

Mr. Speaker : That would depend upon, I think, the trend of arguments. It may or may not be irrelevant.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Sir, just when this interesting interruption came in—interesting but unfortunate—I was asking the honourable mover of this resolution whether he included in his resolution political offenders who had been convicted of or involved in offences of violence. Does he include them or not ?

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : The honourable member will have a reply. The terms of the resolution are quite clear. I have made it perfectly clear as to what sort of people are included in that category. I do not think it requires any further elucidation.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member's resolution is perfectly clear. The honourable mover says—

This Assembly recommends to the Government that all political prisoners and detainees⁶ (including Martial Law and Lahore Conspiracy Case prisoners) be forthwith released, etc., etc.

whether they are political or not.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Violent or non-violent. That is exactly what I was stating when I was contradicted. It was said by my honourable friend that the definition covered such cases. Does he or does he not want that persons who have been convicted in Lahore, Delhi and United Provinces Conspiracy Cases, are political prisoners, criminals who organised political conspiracies in the Punjab, made raids on the life of police officers and killed some of them, does he want that they should also be given the benefit of this resolution? Are these the great jewels and those whom my honourable friend compared with patriots like Mahatma Gandhi and Pandit Jawahar Lal Nehru whom we all respect despite differences in policy and methods ?

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : That question has again been raised. I must say once again that it is unfair. My honourable friend wants to know whether the Lahore Conspiracy Case prisoners are also included. The resolution is perfectly clear and there is no ambiguity about it.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member may proceed with his speech. The resolution is quite clear.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Are there any martial law prisoners still in confinement? We were under the impression that they have all been released and that this part of the resolution was redundant.

Mr. Speaker : I have not been able to follow the point of order.

Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : My point of order was this. The resolution says all political prisoners including Martial Law prisoners should be released along with some Conspiracy Case prisoners. I understand that the Martial Law prisoners have been released. I want to know whether they have been released.

Premier : Yes, those in the Punjab jails have been released and those who are in the Andamans will soon come out. If the honourable member has read the newspaper reports he would have seen that actually a procession of these men was taken out in Amritsar. It was suggested that one of them will replace the President of the provincial congress committee.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : Seven of such jewels, again convicted of conspiracy for murder are in the jails of the Punjab. There are four prisoners of the Gurdaspur Conspiracy Case—people who organised conspiracies in order to kill police officers and actually made pistol raids on their life and one of them was killed in the discharge of duty. Take again the case of the Babar Akalies—criminals who started a reign of terror in the Doaba and killed men who were in any way connected with the Punjab administration, people who gave evidence in cases against persons involved in murderous offences. They created a reign of terror. Are these the jewels of the Punjab whom my friend would liken to people like Mahatma Gandhi and Pandit Jawahar Lal Nehru? (Interruption). I do not want any interruptions. I claim I have gone carefully through the lists and I find that out of the whole lists of the so-called political prisoners—the jewels of the Punjab—there are only seven in the Punjab jails, who have not been directly associated with or convicted by a court of violent offences.

Lala Deshbandhu Gupta : I do not want to obstruct the honourable member. I only want to correct him. This morning the Honourable Premier was pleased to state that there were 20 prisoners in the Punjab jail who come under the category of this resolution. My honourable friend says that there are only seven.

Premier : I think the honourable member wants correction. Those people are not in jail : they are confined in their villages.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : My honourable friends who are so hasty in making interruptions should correct themselves.

Mr. Speaker : Has the honourable member spoken for 25 minutes ?

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I am afraid, Sir, I have had about 15 minutes of interruptions. Considering the time given to the mover of the resolution I plead that I may be given more time.

Mr. Speaker : The honourable member has already spoken for 15 minutes.

Mir Maqbool Mahmood : I appeal to your discretion on account of interruptions.

At this stage the Assembly adjourned till 11 A. M., on Monday, 28th June, 1937.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

1ST SESSION OF THE 1ST PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Monday, 28th June, 1937.

*The Assembly met at the Assembly Chamber, Simla, at 11 A.M. of the clock.
Mr. Speaker in the chair.*

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

COW SACRIFICE IN THE RASUL ENGINEERING SCHOOL.

151. Sardar Muhammad Hussain : Will the Honourable Minister for Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a report was made about two months ago by Pandit Krishan Kumar of the Rasul Engineering School Staff to the Principal of the said School about the sacrifice of a cow and the use of beef in the Muslim quarters of the school ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that on investigation the said report was found to be false ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : Government is inquiring into the circumstances that led to the recent troubles at the Engineering School at Rasul and is, therefore, not in a position to furnish any information on the subject at this stage.

PRINCIPAL OF THE RASUL ENGINEERING SCHOOL.

152. Sardar Muhammad Hussain : Will the Honourable Minister for Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that Pandit Krishan Kumar of the Rasul Engineering School at the time of the survey camp in 1936 forbade the Muslim students of the School to say their prayers ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the matter was at once reported to the Principal ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the Principal took no action in the matter ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : The honourable member is referred to the answer to question No. *151 (above.)

RASUL ENGINEERING SCHOOL.

153. Sardar Muhammad Hussain : Will the Honourable Minister for Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that in 1935 an order was passed by the then Principal of the Rasul Engineering School that the sons of

[Sardar Muhammad Hussain.]

Pandit Krishan Kumar of the same institution were not to enter the school boundaries ;

- (b) if the answer to (a) above be in the affirmative, the circumstances which necessitated the passing of this order ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that that order has since been frequently disobeyed ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : The honourable member is referred to the answer to question¹ No. *151.

PRINCIPAL OF THE RASUL ENGINEERING SCHOOL.

154. Sardar Muhammad Hussain : Will the Honourable Minister for Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that on the night of the 21st April, 1937, at 10-30 P. M. with the connivance of Pandit Krishan Kumar of the Rasul Engineering School, Waliati Ram and Indar Krishan, students of the draftsman class, entered the school mosque with shoes on ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the incident was promptly reported to the Principal ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the Principal let off the culprits without awarding any punishment ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that as a result of the outrage the Muslim students were compelled to resort to a hunger strike ;
- (e) what action Government intends to take or has taken against Pandit Krishan Kumar ;
- (f) if the answer to (c) be in the affirmative, whether Government intends to take some action against the present Principal of the Rasul Engineering School ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : The honourable member is referred to the answer to question¹ No. *151.

PRINCIPAL, RASUL SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING.

155. Sardar Muhammad Hussain : Will the Honourable Minister for Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) how many years' service the present Principal of the Rasul School of Engineering has put in the Department ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that all his previous service has been in the Forest Department ;
- (c) why a person who has no previous experience of the Engineering Department has been given the charge of the office of the Principal of the Rasul School of Engineering ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) Mr. T. Kirkham-Jones has now completed more than 18 years' service.

(b) He served as Forest Engineer, not "Forest Officer," for 8 years. He was in the Electricity Branch for 6 years, and in the Irrigation Branch for about one year before being posted to the Rasul School.

(c) Mr. Kirkham-Jones has now had not only 17 years' experience as a working engineer, but has had engineering experience of a most varied nature. His experience in the Forest Department was entirely of an engineering nature.

RASUL SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING.

156. Sardar Muhammad Hussain : Will the Honourable Minister for Public Works be pleased to state—

- (a) the community-wise distribution of posts in (i) the teaching and instructing staff, (ii) ministerial and clerical staff, and (iii) menial staff of the Rasul School of Engineering stating under each head community-wise the total emoluments per mensem ;
- (b) the reasons for the extreme paucity, if any, of Muslims in these appointments ;
- (c) the measures, if any, which are being adopted to secure a proper representation of Muslims in these appointments ?

The Honourable Nawabzada Major Malik Khizar Hayat Khan Tiwana : (a) The attention of the honourable member is drawn to the consolidated statement showing the proportionate representation of the various communities serving in the different departments of the Punjab Government as it stood on the 1st January, 1937, on page 21 of which figures for the Rasul Engineering School are given. It will serve no useful purpose to give community-wise the total emoluments drawn per mensem, or to include figures for menials.

(b) This statement shows that of the 21 appointments—

2 are held by Europeans, or 9.50 per cent.

8 are held by Muslims, or 38.00 per cent.

9 are held by Hindus, or 43.00 per cent.

2 are held by Sikhs, or 9.50 per cent.

There is, therefore, no "extreme paucity" of Muslims.

(c) The whole question of communal representation is under consideration.

ARABIC IN GIRLS' EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS.

157. Sardar Muhammad Hussain : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) the total number of Government (i) middle schools for girls, (ii) high schools for girls, (iii) colleges for girls in the province,

[Sardar Muhammad Hussain.]

and (iv) the number of those under each head in which Arabic is taught ;

(b) the reason for not having teachers of Arabic in these institutions ;

(c) what measures the Government intends to employ to make arrangements for the teaching of Arabic in these institutions ?

The Honourable Mian Abdul Haye :

| | | | | |
|----------------------------------|----|----|----|------|
| (a) (i) Middle Schools for Girls | .. | .. | .. | 11 |
| (ii) High Schools for Girls | .. | .. | .. | 23 |
| (iii) Colleges for Girls | .. | .. | .. | 3 |
| (iv) 1. Schools | .. | .. | .. | Nil. |

2. Colleges.—Only one college, viz., the Lahore College for Women is affiliated to the Punjab University in Arabic up to the B.A. standard.

(b) 1. Few, if any, women teachers of Arabic, who are also trained, are available.

2. According to Departmental orders an optional subject cannot be taught unless at least 20 pupils are taking it. This would preclude the teaching of Arabic in most schools.

3. There is little, if any, demand for it.

4. With numbers in the high classes as they are at present it is not possible to have more than two optionals taught in the smaller schools.

(c) Not any at present.

KILLABANDI IN ILAQA THAR IN THE LAHORE DISTRICT.

*158. Sardar Muhammad Hussain : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether killabandi in ilaqa Thar, district Lahore, in the year 1930 was done against the wishes of the zamindars concerned ;

(b) whether this killabandi was done chiefly in the interest of the Irrigation Department ;

(c) whether it was done in such areas only as are irrigated by the canals ;

(d) whether it is a fact that the zamindars have to bear expenditure for the digging of water courses ;

(e) if the answer to (d) be in the affirmative whether Government intend to remove this burden from the zamindars ;

(f) the length of water courses newly dug up and the amount realized for this purpose from the zamindars ;

(g) whether there are any villages in this area where no watercourses have been dug up after the killabandi referred to above ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) No.

(b) No. Killabandi was done both in the interest of Government and standowners.

- (c) Yes.
- (d) Yes.
- (e) No. Watercourses are dug for use by the zamindars who must pay for services rendered.
- (f) The labour involved in obtaining this information is considerable and Government consider that no useful purpose will be served by collecting it.
- (g) The information is not readily available and is being collected.

ZAMINDARS AND LAND REVENUE.

159. Sardar Muhammad Hussain : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the present rates of the land revenue in the province were fixed at a time when the prices of grains were high ;
- (b) whether Government proposes to reduce the land revenue in areas where settlement operations are taking place now ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sunder Singh Majithia : (a) The suggestion is correct in regard to a few districts settled after the war, but not of all districts in the province.

(b) Government propose to adopt wherever practicable the sliding scale system of assessment in the areas now under settlement so that the land revenue will vary with the prices of agricultural produce.

WATER RATES.

160. Sardar Muhammad Hussain : Will the Honourable Minister for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the water rates charged for maize, rice, cotton and wheat crops on the Dipalpur Canal are higher than those charged for the same crops on the Upper Bari Doab Canal ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the soil of ilaga Thar which is irrigated by the Dipalpur Canal is poorer than that of Majha which is irrigated by the Upper Bari Doab Canal ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the Dipalpur Canal flows only in Sharif and irrigates wheat crop only once ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the water rate charged for watering wheat crops once on the Dipalpur Canal is higher than that charged on the Upper Bari Doab Canal for watering the same crops four times ;
- (e) if the answer to (c) and (d) be in the affirmative whether the same is true in the case of toria ;
- (f) if the answers to above parts be in the affirmative what steps Government propose to take to redress the grievances of ilaga Thar ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Sundar Singh Majithia : (a) Water rates for maize and cotton on the Dipalpur Canal are higher by Re. 0-8-0 and Re. 0-12-0 respectively than on the Upper Bari Doab Canal, but the rate for rice is the same on both the canals and the rate for wheat on the Dipalpur Canal is lower by Re. 0-12-5 and Rs. 2-0-7 than the rate on the kharif and the perennial channels of the Upper Bari Doab Canal respectively.

(b) Not as far as is known.

(c) Yes.

(d) No, vide reply to (a).

(e) For toria reply to (c) and (d) is the same as for wheat, water rate for toria being Rs. 2-4-0 on the Dipalpur Canal against Rs. 3-12-6 and Rs. 4-4-7 on the kharif and the perennial channels of the Upper Bari Doab Canal respectively.

(f) Does not arise.

FACILITIES FOR VISITORS TO PRISONERS.

161. Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that no shelter or facility of any kind is provided to the visitors who go to see their relations or friends in jails ;

(b) whether it is a fact that these visitors have to wait for a long time outside the jail without any shelter against rain or sun ;

(c) whether it is a fact that no provision for drinking water is made for these visitors ;

(d) if the answers to (a), (b) & (c) above be in the affirmative, what steps Government proposes to take to remove these grievances ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a), (b) and (d). In a certain number of jails special rooms have been constructed for interviews. In most of the others, arrangements are made for interviews to be held in a convenient verandah or otherwise under cover. Sheds have already been provided outside a number of jails for persons waiting to be admitted for interviews. The desirability of extending these facilities is recognised by Government, but is a matter of funds.

(c) Provision for supplying water to interviewers exist in 27 out of the 36 jails in the province.

LATHI CHARGE AT CHHEHARTA.

162. Diwan Chaman Lall : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that on 4th May, 1937, the Police indulged in a lathi charge against workers on strike at Chheharta outside the Narain Swadeshi Ribbon and Trimmings Mills, Chheharta as well as in the quarters occupied by the workers ;

(b) if the answer to (a) above be in the affirmative, the names of the police officers present ;

(c) whether Government received any report regarding this lathi charge and instituted an inquiry into this incident ; if not, why not ;

(d) whether it is a fact that even women and children were assaulted by the police in the workmen's quarters ?

The Honourable Major Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan : (a) No.

(b) and (c) do not arise.

(d) No.

Diwan Chaman Lall : May I ask the Honourable the Premier whether a strict inquiry has been held into these allegations ?

Premier : Yes.

Diwan Chaman Lall : What was the method of the enquiry ?

Premier : Through local officers.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Were any statements taken ?

Premier : It was not necessary to take the statements.

Diwan Chaman Lall : If the allegations were of a serious nature, why was it not necessary to make enquiries from the workers ?

Premier : The local officers did make enquiries.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Is the Honourable the Premier prepared to see that a regular enquiry is held and statements taken from those who alleged that they were the victims of the lathi charge ?

Premier : It is not necessary to make further enquiries.

Diwan Chaman Lall : Why is the Honourable the Premier not prepared to make further enquiries ?

Premier : Because those allegations were not correct.

Diwan Chaman Lall : How can the Honourable the Premier state that the allegations were not correct when the allegations were examined only through the agency of those people who were being charged with having taken that action ?

Premier : No further enquiry can be made.

Diwan Chaman Lall : What independent evidence was taken by those people who held the enquiry ?

LATHI CHARGE AT AMRITSAR.

*163. Diwan Chaman Lall : Will the Honourable the Premier be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that on the 19th of May, 1937, the police surrounded the students of the Khalsa College, Amritsar, and indulged in an indiscriminate lathi charge against the students, wounding a number of them; if so, the names of the police officers incharge and also the name of the Superintendent, Police;

[Diwan Chaman Lall.]
